2 campaign aimed at reducing disparities in the detection, treatment,
3 and prevention of diabetes in the Asian American community; and

4 WHEREAS, Diabetes is the fifth leading cause of death among 5 Asian Americans, who are over 30 percent more likely to develop
6 diabetes than white Americans; more than half of Asian Americans

10 to be screened for the disease; and

11 WHEREAS, The American Diabetes Association, the National 12 Institutes of Health, and the Centers for Disease Control have all 13 recently amended their guidelines to recommend diabetes screening 14 for Asian Americans with a body mass index of 23, a number that was 15 previously considered to be within a normal or healthy weight
16 range; screening patients who have a BMI of 23 or higher, along with

18 to hundreds of thousands of Asian Americans receiving a timely 19 diagnosis, undergoing treatment, and preventing the further 20 progression of prediabetes; and

21 WHEREAS, The Screen at 23 campaign is coordinated by the 22 Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander Diabetes
23 Coalition, with the support of over 40 national and regional health

1 made great strides in calling attention to this issue, and several 2 state governments have formally recognized the need to adjust
3 diabetes screening guidelines for Asian Americans; and

4 WHEREAS, Early detection of diabetes and prediabetes can help
5 Asian Americans to live longer, healthier lives, and the 6 organizations that are spreading the message of Screen at 23 are to 7 be commended for their efforts to advance this important cause;
8 now, therefore, be it
