2 recently completed five years of laboratory research at Rice
3 University, and he is truly deserving of special recognition for 4 this achievement; and

5 WHEREAS, In 2018, the then-13-year-old student began a
6 research project to develop a type of disinfectant that is less 7 harmful to plants; he subsequently earned the chance to work with 8 the Sri Lankan Institute of Nanotechnology to incorporate nano
9 compounds into his experiment, and he and his fellow researchers
10 then presented a proposal to the president of the material sciences
11 and nanotech engineering faculty at Rice University, which invited 12 him to continue his work at that institution; and

13 WHEREAS, Through trial and error and many long hours spent at 14 the lab at Rice University, Mr. Arachchi learned which variables to 15 adjust to increase the accuracy of the experiment, and in so doing, 16 he gained knowledge and skills that will serve him well in his 17 future research endeavors; he was also able to experience working 18 in collaboration with a research team, which greatly supported him
19 in achieving his goals; after graduating from high school, he plans 20 to continue his research as a student at Rowan University in New 21 Jersey; and

22 WHEREAS, Nethupa Arachchi has distinguished himself through 23 his exceptional dedication to scientific inquiry, and this 24 outstanding young Texan may indeed look forward to a future bright

1 with promise; now, therefore, be it
