

LEGISLATIVE BUDGET BOARD
Austin, Texas

FISCAL NOTE, 78TH LEGISLATIVE REGULAR SESSION

March 3, 2003

TO: Honorable Kent Grusendorf, Chair, House Committee on Public Education

FROM: John Keel, Director, Legislative Budget Board

IN RE: HB242 by Seaman (Relating to career and technology education and training.), As Introduced

No significant fiscal implication to the State is anticipated.

The bill would make several revisions to the statutes governing career and technology programs. The bill would require the Texas Education Agency to approve locally developed career and technology programs designed to lead to distinguished achievement awards. It is assumed that the agency could absorb the cost associated with implementation of this provision. In addition, the bill creates a nine-member Career and Technology Education Advisory Board. The bill stipulates that the advisory board is not eligible for compensation or reimbursement.

Local Government Impact

No significant fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated. Local school districts are authorized under the bill to develop career and technology programs that lead to distinguished achievement awards. Local school districts are directed by the legislation to include business and industry representation in the site-based decision-making process.
