Fiscal Analysis

This bill amends the Agriculture Code requiring the registration of sellers, distributors, and transporters of fowl. It requires a registrant to apply for a certificate of registration or renewal with an application and fee. The bill also stipulates that the Animal Health Commission (AHC) administer the program and adopt rules to include testing, inspection, sanitation, and disinfection of fowl. It also establishes penalties for violations of compliance.

Methodology

In order to implement the provisions of this bill the AHC, pending rule adoption, will institute a graduated fee structure for registrants depending on flock size. Based on this sliding fee scale and assuming that there are approximately 1000 registrants, the agency anticipates collecting fees as follows: 300 registrants at $350.00, 200 registrants at $200.00, 200 registrants at $100.00, and 301 registrants at $25.00 for a total of $172,525 a fiscal year.

The costs to administer this program include the salaries of four Inspectors, an Administrative Technician I, and a Clerk IV for a total of $90,949 the first fiscal year and $122,346 in subsequent fiscal years. These employees would notify prospective registrants of the law and aid in the collecting, processing, and accounting of the fees. Fiscal year 2004 reflects a 9-month cost as it is anticipated that the first 3-months of the year would be devoted to the adoption of rules and the setting up of the program. The other operating costs for this program include travel, rent, and other operating expenses for a total of $65,464 the first fiscal year and $66,260 in subsequent years.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
