Fiscal Analysis

The bill would authorize the issuance of $2.83 billion in tuition revenue bonds for institutions of higher education to finance construction and improvement of infrastructure and related facilities. The bill includes authorization of $1,212 million for the University of Texas System, $683 million for the Texas A&M System, $158 million for the University of Houston System, $295 million for the Texas State University System, $161 million for the University of North Texas System, $89.75 million for the Texas Tech University System and $230 million for independent institutions. The bill would appropriate $108 million for the Fiscal Year 2006-07 biennium to pay debt service on the authorizations.

The bonds would be payable from pledged revenue plus tuition. The bonds would not be general obligations of the State. However, the issued bonds would have fiscal implications for the State. Although tuition income is pledged against the bonds, historically the Legislature has appropriated General Revenue to reimburse institutions for the tuition used to pay the debt service. For purposes of this fiscal note it is assumed that the $108 million in general revenue would be appropriated in fiscal year 2007 and the schools would be responsible for the remaining debt service. It is also assumed that the legislative practice of reimbursing the schools will continue at the same level and beginning in fiscal year 2008, the appropriation will be split evenly, $54 million per year.
