

BILL ANALYSIS

H.B. 659

Committee Report (Unamended)

BACKGROUND AND PURPOSE

Under current law it is unclear if a charitable organization may conduct a reverse raffle to raise funds. According to an attorney general opinion issued in 2003, certain characteristics of the practice of a reverse raffle are in conflict with current law.

In a reverse raffle, the tickets are drawn one by one and it is the last ticket drawn that is the winner. However, when the raffle is down to the final ten tickets, the ticket holders are allowed to auction off their promising tickets to other individuals present at the drawing. The money obtained from the auctioning of tickets is then divided between the ticket holders and the organization.

It is the opinion of the Attorney General that a reverse raffle violates the current Act by: 1) not printing the ticket price on the tickets; 2) allowing for money to be a prize for those individuals who resale their tickets; 3) selling tickets after the drawing has begun; and 4) allowing for the resale of tickets.

H.B. 659 addresses the concerns of the Attorney General Opinion by modifying the Charitable Raffle Enabling Act to answer the specific needs of a reverse raffle.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

It is the committee's opinion that this bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, department, agency, or institution.
