AUTHOR'S/SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

In the spring of 2004, Tarleton State University System Center (Tarleton-CT) enrolled 1,983 students - an increase of 56 percent over the number enrolled when the center opened its doors in the fall of 1999. In the five years it has been open, Tarleton-CT has produced 2,006 graduates. Currently, all available space is fully utilized and options for responding to increased demand are very limited.

In its December 2002 "Regional Plan for Higher Education, Summary of Needs in Central Texas," the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board recognized the need to accommodate enrollment increases in central Texas, and more specifically in Bell and Coryell Counties. Population has increased 34 percent from 1990 to 2000 and the region continues to expect strong growth. The United States Army has already announced that 5,000 more soldiers will be arriving at Fort Hood in 2006, bringing their families and civilian contractors with them.

The United States Congress provided for conveyance of approximately 700 acres of land to the Texas A&M University System for the purpose of establishing Texas A&M University - Central Texas (which Tarleton-CT will become when a statutory full time student threshold is met). Fort Hood, the largest military base in the world, supported the effort to convey part of its base, because Fort Hood leadership believes so strongly that its soldiers and their families deserve access to public upper-level educational opportunities.

As proposed, S.B. 156 authorizes the Texas A&M University System to issue revenue bonds in an amount not to exceed $45 million to be used to plan, construct, furnish, and equip new facilities and related infrastructure on the federally conveyed land.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
