2 community activist Martin Luther King III strives to promote the 3 message of justice and equality for all, ignited in him by his 4 parents, Martin Luther King, Jr., and Coretta Scott King; and

5 WHEREAS, A graduate of Morehouse College, he served six years
6 as an at-large representative for Fulton County, Georgia, in which 7 capacity he helped pass legislation aimed at environmental 8 protection, ethics reform, and equal opportunities in public 9 contracting; in 1997, he was unanimously elected president of the 10 Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the organization his 11 father had cofounded three decades earlier, and under his guidance 12 the SCLC convened police brutality hearings in 11 U.S. cities and 13 initiated the Gun Buy-Back program as part of its Stop the 14 Killing--End the Violence campaign; and

15 WHEREAS, Mr. King continues to fulfill his father's legacy
16 through his latest endeavor, Realizing the Dream, which he serves 17 as chairman and CEO; with programs focused on nonviolence, youth 18 leadership, and community empowerment, Realizing the Dream is 19 committed to the creation of what Dr. King called the "Beloved 20 Community"; moreover, the initiative seeks to address the growing 21 gap between the rich and the poor by building a coalition of 22 activists and leaders from at least 50 communities across the 23 country, and to this end Mr. King is on a nationwide "Listening and 24 Learning Tour"; and

1 WHEREAS, Moved to share his vision of peace and human 2 dignity, Martin Luther King III inspires others with his words and 3 his actions, and it is indeed fitting to recognize him for his 4 exemplary efforts in behalf of his fellow citizens; now, therefore,
