Fiscal Analysis

The bill would amend Chapter 151 of the Tax Code to exempt books purchased by a student enrolled at an institution of higher education from the sales tax. Under the provisions of the bill, books would be exempt if purchased within a specified 10-day period each August and January.

The bill would establish eligibility for the exemption by the presentation of a valid student identification card.

The bill would take effect July 1, 2007, if it receives two-thirds vote in each house; otherwise, it would take effect October 1, 2007.

Methodology

For the purpose of this estimate, the Comptroller of Public Accounts gathered data on the sale of books in Texas from public and private sources, including Comptroller tax files. The Comptroller adjusted the estimated book sales for the exemption period and the potential effective dates, and extrapolated the estimates through fiscal 2012. Fiscal implications on units of local government were estimated proportionally.

Local Government Impact

Local units of government would have a corresponding fiscal impact from sales tax revenues, as indicated in the above table. According to the Comptroller of Public Accounts, there would be no impact on local governments in fiscal 2007 as August sales tax collections remitted to the Comptroller are not allocated to the local jurisdictions until the next fiscal year.
