IN RE: HB2056 by Homer (Relating to providing a civil penalty for a violation of the Antiquities Code of Texas.), As Introduced

No significant fiscal implication to the State is anticipated.

The bill requires that a person that violates Chapter 191 of the Natural Resources Code is subject to a civil penalty between $50 and $1,000 for each day of the violation. The bill authorizes the Attorney General to file suit in district court to restrain and enjoin a violation of Chapter 191, Natural Resources Code, to recover on behalf of the state a civil penalty.

Currently, there is an average of 2 cases reported annually concerning violations to Chapter 191 of the Natural Resources Code. Therefore annual gain to General Revenue would be between $100 and $2,000, however no significant fiscal impact is anticipated.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
