Austin, Texas

FISCAL NOTE, 80TH LEGISLATIVE REGULAR SESSION

April 15, 2007

TO: Honorable Aaron Pena, Chair, House Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence

FROM: John S. O'Brien, Director, Legislative Budget Board

IN RE: HB3342 by Burnam (Relating to the prosecution of the offense of trafficking of persons.), As Introduced

No significant fiscal implication to the State is anticipated.

The bill would amend the Penal Code by broadening the definition of forced labor or services as it relates to the offense of trafficking of persons. The bill would also broaden the definition of traffic to include soliciting or otherwise obtaining by any means another person for transport.

The bill would amend the Penal Code by including in the offense of trafficking of persons: 1) conduct that constitutes the purchase and sale of human organs, 2) trafficking another person with the knowledge the trafficked person will engage in forced labor or services, conduct that constitutes public indecency, or conduct that constitutes the purchase and sale of human organs, and 3) benefiting from a venture that involves forced labor or services, conduct that constitutes public indecency, or conduct that constitutes the purchase and sale of human organs.

The bill would take effect on September 1, 2007 and apply to an offense committed on or after the effective date.

Broadening the definition of the types of behavior punishable is expected to result in increased demands upon the correctional resources of counties or of the State due to an increase in offenses. It is assumed the number of persons convicted under this statute would not result in a significant impact on programs and workload of state corrections agencies or on the demand for resources and services of those agencies.

Local Government Impact

No significant fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
