Fiscal Analysis

The bill would amend Chapter 24, Government Code, to create a new judicial district in Bastrop County, the 423rd Judicial District. The district would be created January 1, 2009 and the bill would take effect September 1, 2007.

Methodology

The annual salary provided by the state for a district judge is $125,000, in addition to benefits (state contributions for group insurance and to the Judicial Retirement System) which are estimated to be $33,223 annually. The total annual salary and benefits cost for a district judge is estimated to be $158,223. Because the court would be created on January 1, 2009, the fiscal impact for the first effective year of court operations is prorated to reflect 7 rather than a full 12 months of operations. The county would pay all other costs.

Local Government Impact

Bastrop County is currently served by the 21st and 335th judicial districts, which have jurisdiction over Bastrop, Washington, Burleson and Lee counties.

Bastrop County is currently constructing a new jail facility, which will include a new courtroom. Courthouse security personnel for the newly constructed courthouse have already been included in the county budget. According to Bastrop County officials, the start-up costs for the new judicial district would total $281,050 for salaries, benefits, transportation, equipment and furniture. Because all furniture and equipment would not have to be replaced each year, annual costs after the first year would total $273,050.

Bastrop County's fiscal year begins on October 1. For fiscal 2009, it is assumed that the proposed 423rd Judicial District would be in start-up mode and would generate about the same amount of revenue that each of the other district courts generate for the county; therefore, no additional revenue would be available to offset the cost of the additional judicial district. In the future, it is assumed that improved caseload management brought about by the creation of a new judicial district could result in higher revenues; however, the amount of increased revenues cannot be estimated.
