Fiscal Analysis

The bill would amend the Occupations Code relating to the requirements for a surveyor-in-training certificate. The bill would extend the period of time that a surveyor-in-training certificate is valid to the date a certificate holder becomes registered as a professional land surveyor. In addition, the bill would also require the Board of Professional Land Surveying (Board) to require a certificate holder to complete continuing professional education courses as prescribed by board rule.

The bill would take effect immediately upon receiving a two-thirds majority vote in each house. If the bill does not receive a two-thirds vote in each house, the bill would take effect September 1, 2007.

Methodology

According to the analysis provided by the Board, the agency's computer program would have to be modified to capture continuing education credit and the completion dates of such credit. Northrop Grumman provides the Board's registrant program and they have estimated that the cost of tracking continuing education for surveyor-in-training will have an initial cost of $7,400. The Board estimates that notification of this requirement will cost approximately $100. The Board estimates the total cost to the agency will be $7,500 for fiscal year 2008.

Based on the analysis of the Board of Professional Land Surveying, it is assumed that the Board would adjust license fees to cover any additional costs associated with the implementation of this bill.

Technology

The Board estimates a one-time programming cost of $7,400 for changes to the agency's computer program.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
