The bill states the report must be submitted no later than the seventh business day after the date the license holder resigns, retires, or separates from the agency or exhausts all administrative appeals available to the license holder or the holder's next of kin. Upon notification an officer has been dishonorably discharged and if the officer has previously been dishonorably discharged from another law enforcement agency, TCLEOSE shall suspend an officer's license under the provision of the bill. TCLEOSE would be required to suspend an officer's license if it had previously received notice the officer had been dishonorably discharged from a law enforcement agency. The bill would also require TCLEOSE revoke the license of an officer on the 30th day after the date the officer's license is suspended if the officer does not appeal the suspension.

The bill states that to contest the commission's order or to correct an employment termination report, an administrative law judge shall determine if the alleged misconduct occurred regardless if the person was terminated, resigned, retired, or separated in lieu of termination. If the alleged misconduct is not supported by the evidence, the administrative law judge shall order the report to be changed. The bill states the venue for the prosecution of an offense lies in the county where the offense happened or in Travis County. This bill would take effect September 1, 2007 and apply only to employment termination reports on or after the effective date of the Act.

TCLEOSE and the Office of Administrative Hearings do not anticipate significant fiscal impacts to their agencies as a result of complying with the provisions of the bill.
