Committee Report (Substituted)

AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Under current law, the operator of a natural gas pipeline or other pipeline is required to hold an annual meeting with emergency responders to provide information relating to pipeline facilities and responding to a pipeline emergency. The law requires a pipeline operator to conduct a meeting in person, which must be set up through mailing a written request, sending a facsimile transmission, or making at least one phone call. If a meeting cannot be conducted in person, an operator must try to conduct the meeting by phone using such methods to set up the meeting. If a meeting cannot be conducted in person or over the phone, the pipeline operator may then send the information to the emergency responder in order to satisfy the requirement to conduct these liaison activities.

Texas adopted the existing statute prior to major changes in federal and state regulatory policy that redefined public awareness requirements of pipeline operators. The bill amends current law to permit pipeline operators greater flexibility in conduction liaison activities. Proposed changes will bring Texas law more in line with new federal and state regulatory requirements and will allow operators to get key pipeline safety information to emergency responders in a more efficient, expedited, and less burdensome manner.

C.S.H.B. 4300 amends current law relating to safety rules for certain pipeline facilities and public awareness.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
