Committee Report (Substituted)

AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Currently, 42 percent of fourth graders in Texas are either obese, overweight, or at risk of becoming overweight, and 70 percent of overweight children will become overweight adults. School health advisory councils (SHACs) are district-level councils composed of parents, teachers, students, health professionals, and community leaders who are responsible for creating strategies to integrate health curriculum into a coordinated school health program that reflects local values. Although SHACs are currently required to create strategies to integrate health curriculum into coordinated school health programs, there are no criteria for organizational structure or mechanisms for accountability. A more structured set of guidelines will make SHACs more effective in developing and implementing coordinated school health plans.

C.S.S.B. 283 requires that one member of a SHAC who is the parent of a student in the district and who is not employed by the district serve as chair or co-chair; requires that a SHAC hold at least four meetings per year; and requires that a SHAC make at least one formal report each year to the board of trustees of the school district.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
