AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

With the passage of H.B. 1358 (1996) and H.B. 3123 (2002), wildlife appraisal was established under Article 8 (Taxation and Revenue), Section 1-d-1 (relating to the personal property homestead of a family or single adult), Texas Constitution, and Subchapter D (Appraisal of Agriculture Land), Chapter 23 (Appraisal Methods of Agriculture Land), Tax Code. These bills established that land must be in agricultural use and then converted to wildlife use. The bills did not provide for conversation from timber production to wildlife use.

Currently, property owners who want to manage their land for wildlife use must first convert to agricultural use and subsequently convert to wildlife use. This is an unnecessary and costly requirement, in that it would most likely require removal of trees and brush. Once the property owner qualifies for agricultural use and converts to wildlife use, the management of wildlife may require replanting the native trees and brush that had just been removed.

As proposed, S.B. 801 amends current law relating to the appraisal for ad valorem tax purposes of land used for wildlife management.
