

LEGISLATIVE BUDGET BOARD
Austin, Texas

FISCAL NOTE, 81ST LEGISLATIVE REGULAR SESSION

March 29, 2009

TO: Honorable Rob Eissler, Chair, House Committee on Public Education

FROM: John S. O'Brien, Director, Legislative Budget Board

IN RE: HB2803 by Hochberg (Relating to the administration of assessment instruments by computer.), As Introduced

No significant fiscal implication to the State is anticipated.

The bill would repeal Texas Education Code, section 39.0234, which requires that state assessments be capable of being administered by computer and that the Texas Education Agency (TEA) determine a timeline for enabling all school districts to administer assessments by computer.

TEA estimates that any cost savings associated with eliminating computer-based testing capability would be offset by the cost of delivering paper-based assessments for no net fiscal impact.

Local Government Impact

No significant fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
