Fiscal Analysis

The resolution would propose a constitutional amendment to Section 47, Article III, of the Texas Constitution to require all money received from Texas State Lottery operations, other than administration costs and prize awards, be dedicated to public primary and secondary schools and be expended only for the items that directly benefit classroom teaching.

State funded advertising for lottery games could not refer to lottery proceeds supporting or providing additional funds to public primary and secondary schools.

The proposed constitutional amendment would be submitted to the voters on November 3, 2009.

Methodology

Because the proposed amendment would not mandate a change in the amount of school revenues spent for school purposes, total state money going to education would not change. Under current law, while all lottery net revenue—outside of unclaimed prize monies—is dedicated to GR Account 0193—Foundation School, school districts may use the money for operations and buildings as well as classroom teaching. As a consequence, the bill would have an impact on how the money could be spent.

Under the proposed amendment, the unclaimed lottery prize revenue that is currently deposited to General Revenue Fund 0001 and to GR Account 5049—State Owned Multicategorical Teaching Hospital would become dedicated to public and secondary classroom usage. All unclaimed lottery prize revenue would be deposited to GR Account 0193.

In the 2010-11 Biennial Revenue Estimate, the amount of unclaimed lottery prize money was estimated to total $48,510,000 in fiscal 2010 and $47,424,000 in fiscal 2011, with $10 million accruing to GR Account 5049 each year and the remainder to Fund 0001.

The cost for publication of the resolution is $90,882.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
