Fiscal Analysis

Provisions of the bill would reduce the enrollment requirement from 1,500 to 1,000 full-time students for the Texas A&M University System to be authorized to issue $40 million in tuition revenue bonds for Texas A&M University - San Antonio. Provisions of the bill also remove the connection between the authority for Texas A&M University - San Antonio to operate as a general academic teaching institution and the issuance of tuition revenue bonds, and remove the date by which the enrollment threshold has to be met (January 1, 2010.) The most recent information that Texas A&M University System has provided indicates that it would issue bonds in the second year of the biennium.

The bonds would be payable from pledged revenue plus tuition. The bonds would not be general obligations of the State. However, the issued bonds would have fiscal implications for the State. Although tuition income is pledged against the bonds, historically the Legislature has appropriated General Revenue to reimburse institutions for the tuition used to pay the debt service. For purposes of this fiscal note it is assumed the bonds would be issued on September 1, 2010.

Methodology

The debt service calculations were based on a six percent interest rate and a 20-year debt service amortization. Based on these assumptions, the debt service calculation for for fiscal year 2011 is estimated to be $3,487,382.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
