2012	($300,298)	4.0
2013	($300,298)	4.0
2014	($300,298)	4.0

Fiscal Analysis

The bill would amend statute and allow local government officials to file campaign finance reports with the Texas Ethics Commission either by paper copy or through an electronic system. In addition, the bill requires the Ethics Commission to provide local entities with software to file disclosure reports related to expenditures and contributions.

Methodology

The Ethics Commission has indicated that an additional 8,000 individuals could file campaign finance reports with the agency through paper copies or electronically and require the filing software. In order to provide updated filing software to local government officials filing electronically, the Ethics

Commission indicated that it would contract with the Department of Information Resources (DIR) and use Texas Online, Texas' web portal, to allow individuals to file certain documents electronically and to develop and update the electronic filing software. DIR estimates software development costs to be $2,000,000 in fiscal year 2010 out of the General Revenue Fund (GR) and estimates approximately one year to develop the software. DIR estimates that $200,000 in fiscal year 2010 out of GR would be needed for Texas Online infrastructure, such as production, development, testing, support, and transition costs. DIR further estimates that an additional $100,000 in fiscal year 2011 and each fiscal year thereafter out of GR would be required to provide for ongoing operational costs of the system, such as data center services and other maintenance costs.

The Ethics Commission would also require 2 additional staff starting in fiscal year 2010 to provide training, assistance with information requests, and assist with storage of paper copies for those individuals that do not file electronically, at a cost of $56,000 in salaries and wages each fiscal year out of GR. An additional $15,999 each fiscal year would be required out of GR to pay benefits and would be appropriated to the Employee Retirement System. A one-time cost of $12,356 in fiscal year 2010 out of GR would be required for computers, telephones, desks, etc. Ongoing operating costs of $7,026 would be required each fiscal year thereafter for items such as labels, postage, utilities, etc. An additional 2 full-time-equivalent positions would be required starting in fiscal year 2011 to assist with technical questions and support once the electronic filing system is in place at a cost of $89,000 in salaries and wages each fiscal year out of GR. An additional $25,427 each fiscal year would be required out of GR to pay benefits and would be appropriated to the Employee Retirement System. A one-time cost of $8,756 in fiscal year 2011 out of GR would be required for computers, telephones, desks, etc. Ongoing operating costs of $7,026 would be required each fiscal year for items such as labels, postage, utilities, etc.

The Ethics Commission has also indicated that implementing the provisions of the bill could increase the number of sworn complaints that the agency receives as a result of posting information regarding local governmental officers on the agency website. This increase in sworn complaints could increase the workload of the agency in the future and, as a result, require additional staff in future years.

Local Government Impact

The bill would permit a local governmental entity or a local governmental officer who petitions a local governmental entity to utilize the Ethics Commission's software, and other resources to file a report relating to expenditures and contributions, regardless of whether the report is provided voluntarily or required by law. However, the fiscal impact to local governmental entities to implement the provisions of the bill is not anticipated to be significant.
