Fiscal Analysis

The bill would require the Department of State Health Services (DSHS) to require a physician who performs an abortion to provide certain information and services relating to referral for domestic violence assistance.

The bill would require DSHS to develop a coerced abortion form and an abortion complication form and to provide the forms to certain physicians along with related information. The bill would also require DSHS to provide an abortion reporting form to certain physicians along with related information.

The bill would require a physician performing an abortion to submit applicable forms to DSHS monthly. The bill would require DSHS to issue an annual aggregate public report summarizing the information submitted on the forms created by the bill. The bill would provide that physicians who do not file forms in the manner prescribed by the bill are subject to a late fee of $500. The bill would provide that physicians under certain conditions and in an action brought by DSHS could be directed by a court to submit a complete form or report or be subject to sanctions for civil contempt. The bill would create a misdemeanor offense.

Methodology

The agency assumes that five full-time equivalent positions (FTEs) would be necessary for the development and administration relating to the forms created by the bill. The agency based this assumption on the receipt and processing of an estimated 168,000 forms per year. The agency assumes that two FTEs would be necessary for investigation and administration relating to reporting requirement complaints, assessment of late fees, and allegations of coercion. The agency based this assumption on the receipt of 150 complaints per year. The agency estimates the salary and benefit costs for the FTEs to be $278,462 in fiscal year 2010 and $370,040 in each subsequent fiscal year.

The agency estimates that the total cost of the bill would be $530,948 in General Revenue in fiscal year 2010 and $508,428 in General Revenue in each subsequent fiscal year.

Technology

The agency estimates a technology cost of $66,760 in fiscal year 2010, including one-time costs relating to software modification for data extraction and enhanced security, and $10,660 in each subsequent fiscal year for ongoing technology costs.

Local Government Impact

No significant fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
