4 cofounder, Herb Kelleher; and

5 WHEREAS, In the mid-1960s, businessman Rollin W. King
6 conceived of a new kind of airline that could fly passengers 7 inexpensively and quickly across short distances; in a meeting with 8 his lawyer, Herb Kelleher, at the St. Anthony Club in San Antonio, 9 he used a napkin to illustrate his idea, drawing a triangle with 10 points labeled San Antonio, Houston, and Dallas; this simple sketch 11 would go on to become a symbol of the infant company's ethos and to 12 form the basis of its initial route map; and

13 WHEREAS, Southwest Airlines was chartered as a Texas
14 corporation, and on June 18, 1971, the company began commercial
15 flights with three Boeing 737 airliners and fewer than 70
16 employees; since then, thanks in large part to the dynamic
17 leadership of Mr. Kelleher, who served as the company's chairman, 18 president, and CEO from 1982 until 2001, Southwest has become one of 19 the most respected names in the industry; now under the direction of 20 Gary Kelly, nearly 35,000 employees schedule, maintain, and fly 21 more than 500 Boeing 737s between 72 cities in 37 states; the 22 airline operates 3,400 flights a day, making it the largest U.S.
23 carrier of domestic passengers as of September 2010; moreover, the 24 airline has turned a profit for 38 years in a row; and

1 WHEREAS, Southwest has regularly earned top rankings in 2 safety from the International Airline Passengers Association, and 3 it has consistently received the lowest ratio of customer
4 complaints per passenger boarded of all major U.S. airlines
5 according to data from the U.S. Department of Transportation; and

6 WHEREAS, This impressive record of customer satisfaction is 7 no doubt linked to Southwest's approach to employee relations; in 8 1973, the company initiated the first profit-sharing program in the 9 U.S. airline industry, and it has never laid off or furloughed a 10 single employee; among its many honors, Southwest is often 11 recognized as one of the best places in the country to work; in 12 addition, it was recently named the "greenest airline" by the 13 nonprofit group Climate Counts, and it has been repeatedly ranked 14 as one of the most admired companies in the world by Fortune
15 magazine; and

16 WHEREAS, Over the last four decades, the percentage of 17 American adults who have flown on a commercial airliner has risen 18 from 15 to 85 percent, a result that is often referred to as the 19 "Southwest Effect," and on the occasion of this special 20 anniversary, Mr. Kelleher, Mr. Kelly, and the employees of 21 Southwest may indeed take great pride in their enormous
22 contributions to the mobility of Americans and to the culture as a
23 whole; now, therefore, be it
