3 of 83; and

4 WHEREAS, The daughter of Daniel and Ruth Steinhagen, the 5 former Elinor Steinhagen was born in Beaumont on March 23, 1927; she 6 graduated from Beaumont High School and attended Sullins College in 7 Virginia before graduating from The University of Texas at Austin; 8 while working for a Beaumont architectural firm, Goldman Roth, she 9 paid a visit to a friend and met his older brother, Eugene Anthony
10 Burrus, Jr.; she and Gene Burrus were joined in matrimony six months 11 later, and she often said that he could have proposed on their first 12 date, and she would have immediately accepted; and

13 WHEREAS, Mrs. Burrus became the mother of two children,
14 Vivian and Gene, and later welcomed seven cherished grandchildren 15 into the family; she and her husband shared a rewarding marriage for 16 50 years until his passing; and

17 WHEREAS, For many decades, Mrs. Burrus resided at Crystal
18 Beach, and she dedicated herself to the conservation of the Texas 19 Gulf Coast; she was instrumental in the early development of the 20 Texas Coastal Management Program, and she compiled extensive data 21 and took photographs that are still used in coastal law classes; the 22 General Land Office honored her tireless efforts to fight coastal 23 erosion on the Bolivar Peninsula by naming her its first Volunteer
24 of the Year in 1997; in addition, the Garden Club of America

1 accorded her its Zone IX Conservation Award; she was a member of the 2 Nature Conservancy and the National Parks Conservation
3 Association; and

4 WHEREAS, This dynamic Texan also served her community as a
5 member of the Junior League of Beaumont, the Magnolia Garden Club, 6 and the Texas Historical Society, and she was a charter member of 7 Trinity United Methodist Church; fascinated by genealogy, she 8 carefully documented the history of both the Burrus and the 9 Steinhagen families, even contacting a courthouse in the former 10 East Germany and persuading them to accept a personal check in 11 exchange for the certified birth certificates of ancestors; and

12 WHEREAS, Feisty and independent, yet also kind and deeply
13 devoted to her family, Elinor Burrus distinguished herself through 14 her efforts to promote environmental stewardship, and she will 15 forever remain a source of inspiration to those who were privileged 16 to know her; now, therefore, be it
