FISCAL NOTE, 82ND LEGISLATIVE REGULAR SESSION

March 28, 2011

TO: Honorable Wayne Smith, Chair, House Committee on Environmental Regulation

FROM: John S O'Brien, Director, Legislative Budget Board

IN RE: HB2013 by Hardcastle (Relating to the disposal of demolition waste from abandoned or nuisance buildings in certain areas.), As Introduced

No significant fiscal implication to the State is anticipated.

The bill would allow the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) issue a permit by rule (PBR) to enable counties or municipalities with a population of 10,000 or less to dispose of demolition waste from buildings that are abandoned or found to be a nuisance. Disposal could only occur on land owned or controlled by the municipality or county and the land would have to qualify for an arid exemption under the agency's rules.

The TCEQ reports that the application fee for a PBR is currently $150. The agency expects that five or fewer counties or municipalities would apply for the PBR under the bill's provisions. Therefore, no significant fiscal impact is expected as a result of the bill's passage.

Local Government Impact

The bill would provide counties and municipalities with 10,000 or fewer inhabitants a less expensive disposal method for demolition wastes from abandoned or nuisance buildings. However, these entities would still incur construction and operating costs for the disposal site. Any savings to counties and municipalities would depend on the cost of owning and operating their own disposal site for the disposal of wastes addressed in the bill and the cost such entities would otherwise incur if they had to dispose of such waste in another permitted site.
