BILL ANALYSIS

C.S.H.B. 2061 By: Murphy Economic & Small Business Development Committee Report (Substituted)

BACKGROUND AND PURPOSE

Interested parties assert that limited access to private sector capital for small businesses in rural and economically distressed areas of Texas is a barrier to new job creation, business growth, and economic development. These parties feel that this problem is exacerbated because Texas receives a lower share of federal investment compared to other states because Texas lacks a state-level incentive that many other states offer.

Many Texans seek to create a program that will encourage private sector capital investment in areas with low access to capital because this investment will generate economic development and create jobs. It is estimated that such a program could create thousands of jobs, generate billions in investment, and provide millions in new state revenue. This would also make Texas more competitive with other states in attracting federal investment capital.

C.S.H.B. 2061 seeks to encourage private sector investment in businesses that create jobs in economically distressed areas and emerging urban markets throughout Texas.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

It is the committee's opinion that rulemaking authority is expressly granted to the comptroller of public accounts in SECTIONS 1 and 2 of this bill.

ANALYSIS

C.S.H.B. 2061 amends the Insurance Code to establish that a qualified investor that makes a qualified equity investment earns a vested right to credit against the qualified investor's state premium tax liability incurred under statutory provisions relating to property and casualty insurance premium tax, life, health, and accident insurance premium tax, title insurance premium tax, and reciprocal and interinsurance exchange premium tax.

C.S.H.B. 2061 specifies that an investment or security is a qualified equity investment for purposes of the bill's provisions under the following conditions:

- the investment or security is an equity investment in, or long-term debt security issued by, a qualified community development entity;
- the investment or security is acquired on or after October 1, 2013, at its original issuance solely in exchange for cash;
- not later than the first anniversary of the initial credit allowance date at least 100 percent of the investment's or security's cash purchase price is used by the issuer to make qualified low-income community investments in qualified active low-income community businesses located in Texas; and
- the investment or security is designated by the issuer as a qualified equity investment and is certified, as provided by the bill's provisions, by the comptroller of public accounts as not exceeding the limitation established in the bill for certified investments.

83R 23515 13.109.109

Substitute Document Number: 83R 22548

The bill specifies that a qualified equity investment includes an investment or security that does not satisfy those conditions if the investment or security was a qualified equity investment in the hands of a prior holder. The bill defines, among other terms, "qualified community development entity," "qualified active low-income community business," "qualified low-income community investment," "credit allowance date," "qualified investor," and "long-term debt security" for purposes of the bill's provisions.

C.S.H.B. 2061 specifies that a business is considered a qualified active low-income community business for the duration of the qualified community development entity's investment in, or loan to, the business if the entity reasonably expects, at the time it makes the investment or loan, that the business will continue to satisfy the requirements for being a qualified active low-income community business, other than the Small Business Administration size standards, throughout the entire period of the investment or loan. The bill specifies that a business that derives or projects to derive 15 percent or more of its annual revenue from the rental or sale of real estate is not a qualified active low-income community business for purposes of the bill's provisions. The bill specifies that such an exclusion does not apply to a business that is controlled by, or under common control with, an affiliated entity if the affiliated entity does not derive or project to derive 15 percent or more of its annual revenue from the rental or sale of real estate and is the primary tenant of the real estate leased from the business.

C.S.H.B. 2061 prohibits a qualified community development entity that issues a long-term debt security from making cash interest payments on the security during the period beginning on the date on which the security is issued and ending on the final credit allowance date in an amount that exceeds the cumulative operating income, as defined by regulations adopted under the federal Internal Revenue Code of 1986, of the qualified community development entity for that period before giving effect to the interest expense of the long-term debt security. The bill specifies that this prohibition does not limit the holder's ability to accelerate payments on a long-term debt security in situations where the issuer has defaulted on covenants designed to ensure compliance with the bill's provisions or those federal regulations.

C.S.H.B. 2061 authorizes the qualified investor, or a subsequent holder of the qualified equity investment, on each credit allowance date of a qualified equity investment, to claim a portion of the credit during the tax year of that credit allowance date. The bill sets out provisions for the calculation of the credit amount and defines "applicable percentage" for purposes of that calculation. The bill prohibits the amount of the credit claimed by a qualified investor from exceeding the amount of the qualified investor's state premium tax liability for the tax year for which the credit is claimed. The bill authorizes any amount of tax credit that the qualified investor is prohibited from claiming in a tax year to be carried forward for use in a subsequent tax year.

C.S.H.B. 2061 specifies that a premium tax credit is not refundable or salable. The bill authorizes such a premium tax credit earned by or allocated to a partnership, limited liability company, S corporation, or other pass-through entity to be allocated to the partners, members, or shareholders of the entity for their direct use in accordance with an agreement among the partners, members, or shareholders. The bill specifies that such an allocation does not constitute a sale for purposes of the bill's provisions.

C.S.H.B. 2061 specifies that a qualified investor or a subsequent holder of the qualified equity investment claiming such a premium tax credit is not required to pay any additional retaliatory tax levied under applicable state law as a result of claiming the credit. The bill specifies that in addition to such an exclusion, a qualified investor or a subsequent holder claiming the credit is not required to pay any additional tax that may arise as a result of claiming that credit.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires a qualified community development entity that seeks to have an equity investment or long-term debt security certified as a qualified equity investment eligible for the premium tax credits to apply to the comptroller, acting as administrator under the bill's provisions. The bill sets out provisions relating to the required contents of such an application, including a nonrefundable application fee and a refundable performance deposit, and sets out provisions relating to procedures regarding comptroller action on such an application. The bill authorizes the comptroller to adopt rules as necessary to implement the duties of the comptroller under the bill's provisions and sets out the actions the comptroller, acting as administrator, is authorized to take.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires the comptroller, if such an application is granted, to certify the proposed equity investment or long-term debt security as a qualified equity investment that is eligible for the premium tax credits, subject to the capped dollar limit on certified investments. The bill requires the comptroller to provide written notice of the certification to the qualified community development entity and sets out provisions relating to such notice. The bill provides for the required actions of the comptroller relating to the order of certification of such applications.

C.S.H.B. 2061 caps at $750 million the amount of qualified equity investments authorized to be certified. The bill requires the comptroller, if a pending request cannot be fully certified due to this limit, to certify the portion that can be certified unless the qualified community development entity elects to withdraw the request rather than receive partial certification.

C.S.H.B. 2061 authorizes an approved applicant to transfer all or a portion of its certified qualified equity investment authority to its controlling entity or to a qualified community development entity controlled by or under common control with the applicant, if the applicant provides the information required in the application with respect to the recipient of the transfer and notifies the comptroller of the transfer not later than the 30th day after the date of such transfer. The bill sets out provisions relating to the issuance of a qualified equity investment and to a lapse of certification of qualified entity investments.

C.S.H.B. 2061 sets out the conditions under which the comptroller is required to recapture the amount of a tax credit claimed on a premium tax report filed under applicable state law from the qualified investor or a subsequent holder of the qualified equity investment that claims the credit. The bill specifies that an investment is considered held by an issuer even if the investment has been sold or repaid if the issuer reinvests an amount equal to the capital returned to or recovered by the issuer from the original investment, exclusive of any profits realized, in another qualified low-income community investment not later than the 12th month after the date the issuer receives the capital. The bill specifies that an issuer is not required to reinvest capital returned from a qualified low-income community investment after the sixth anniversary of the date the qualified equity investment is issued, the proceeds of which were used to make the qualified low-income community investment, and the qualified low-income community investment is considered held by the issuer through the seventh anniversary of the date the qualified equity investment was issued. The bill requires periodic amounts received during a calendar year as repayment of principal on a loan that is a qualified low-income community investment to be treated as continuously invested in a qualified low-income community investment if the amounts are reinvested in one or more qualified low-income community investments not later than the last day of the following calendar year.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires the comptroller to notify a qualified community development entity and a qualified investor that has claimed a tax credit on a premium tax report if the credit is subject to recapture under the bill's provisions and prohibits the comptroller from recapturing such a tax credit if the qualified community development entity cures the noncompliance before the 180th day after the date the qualified community development entity receives notice that the credit is subject to recapture.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires a qualified community development entity that submits an application to have an equity investment or long-term debt security certified as a qualified equity investment eligible for the premium tax credits to deposit $500,000 with the comptroller for deposit in the new markets performance guarantee account, which is established by the bill as a special account outside the state treasury to be administered by the comptroller. The bill requires the comptroller, if the comptroller denies an application in full, to refund the deposit to the applicant not later than the 15th day after the date of the denial. The bill sets out conditions under which a qualified community development entity that makes a performance deposit is required to forfeit the deposit in its entirety. The bill requires the comptroller to notify a qualified community development entity that has made a deposit if the deposit is subject to forfeiture. The bill specifies that a deposit is not subject to forfeiture if the qualified community development entity cures the noncompliance before the 180th day after the date the qualified community development entity receives such a notice.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires the deposit to be made with the comptroller and held in the new markets performance guarantee account until the comptroller finds that the qualified community development entity has complied with the bill's provisions. The bill authorizes the qualified community development entity to request a refund of the deposit from the comptroller not earlier than the 30th day after the date the requirements that must be satisfied to avoid forfeiture of the deposit are satisfied. The bill requires the comptroller to refund the deposit or, if applicable, give notice of noncompliance not later than the 30th day after the date of receiving such a request.

C.S.H.B. 2061 authorizes a qualified community development entity, before making an investment in a business, to request a written opinion from the comptroller as to whether the business in which the qualified community development entity proposes to invest would qualify as a qualified active low-income community business. The bill requires the comptroller, not later than the 15th business day after the date of the receipt of such a request, to determine whether the business meets the definition of a qualified active low-income community business, as applicable, and notify the qualified community development entity of the determination and provide an explanation of the determination or to notify the development entity that the comptroller requires additional time, which may not exceed 15 days, to review the request and make the determination. The bill specifies that the business in which the qualified community development entity proposes to invest is considered to be a qualified active low-income community business if the comptroller fails to notify the qualified community development entity with respect to the proposed investment within that specified period.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires the comptroller to consider specified provisions of the federal Internal Revenue Code of 1986, and the rules and regulations issued under that code, to the extent that those provisions are applicable, in issuing a written opinion and making other determinations under the bill's provisions.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires a qualified community development entity that issues a qualified equity investment to submit an annual report to the comptroller not later than the fifth business day after the anniversary of a credit allowance date applicable to the investment. The bill establishes that a qualified community development entity is not required to submit any report after the annual report following the final applicable credit allowance date. The bill sets out the required contents of the report and requires a qualified community development entity that fails to submit a report to the comptroller within the prescribed time to pay to the comptroller a specified penalty.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires the comptroller to prepare a biennial report with respect to the implementation of the bill's provisions and specifies the required contents of the report. The bill requires the comptroller to file the report with the governor, the lieutenant governor, and the speaker of the house of representatives not later than December 15 of each even-numbered year.

C.S.H.B. 2061 requires the comptroller, as soon as practicable after the bill's effective date, to adopt rules necessary to implement the bill's provisions that apply to the comptroller. The bill requires the comptroller to accept applications for certification of qualified equity investments as required by the bill's provisions beginning not later than October 2, 2013.
