6 by General Sam Houston faced a crucial moment in their 7 revolutionary struggle against the rule of Mexican dictator Antonio
8 Lopez de Santa Anna; over the course of the previous six weeks, 9 Texan forces had been defeated at both the Alamo and Goliad, and 10 General Houston's army had retreated steadily to the east;
11 meanwhile, the Mexican troops commanded by General Santa Anna were 12 determined to follow up their earlier victories by seizing the 13 seaports along the Texas coast; by mid-April, the two armies were 14 within a few miles of one another in the bayou country near the San 15 Jacinto River; General Houston decided that the time for attack had 16 arrived; and

5 Republic of Texas was established; and

7 to this epic battlefield victory; among them were a company of

14 Anna; and

19 the spectrum were James Curtis, Sr., and John S. Meniffee, both 57
20 years old, and Asa Mitchell, the oldest person in the battle at age 21 60; in addition, General Houston's forces contained troops who had 22 earlier taken part in the fighting at Goliad as well as individuals 23 who had been present at the Alamo but had been ordered to leave the 24 fort before its fall to carry out various missions; after surviving 25 those engagements, they were able to assist in vanquishing the
