WHEREAS, Founded in 1882 as a siding switch on the Gulf, Colorado, and Santa Fe Railroad, the site was originally called Mark Belt after the man whose house served as a local post office; in the mid-1890s the Southern Homestead Company constructed the town's first building, a rail depot, and the community was renamed Pearland because of the abundance of pear trees in the vicinity; the depot was the town's only link to the outside world and the center of town life; the combination freight and passenger train known as the "Bobby Train" was the only way for citizens of Pearland to travel back and forth to Houston; and

WHEREAS, The Galveston hurricane of 1900 destroyed Pearland's fruit orchards, but the region rebounded and was promoted only 10 years later by the Allison-Richey Suburban Garden Company as an "agricultural Eden" where fruit could be raised on a commercial scale; and

WHEREAS, From the mid-1960s to the present, Pearland has grown from a population of 1,497 to some 97,000, making it one of the fastest-growing cities on the Gulf Coast; the life of the city is enriched with such annual events as the Winterfest in January and the Silverlake Sprint Triathlon every May; and
