Austin, Texas

FISCAL NOTE, 83RD LEGISLATIVE REGULAR SESSION

March 19, 2013

TO: Honorable Dan Branch, Chair, House Committee On Higher Education

FROM: Ursula Parks, Director, Legislative Budget Board

IN RE: HB1409 by Wu (Relating to the granting of undergraduate course credit by examination at public institutions of higher education; authorizing a fee.), As Introduced

No significant fiscal implication to the State is anticipated.

The bill requires each institution of higher education to develop and, at least once during each academic year, administer one or more institution-specific examinations by which entering or current undergraduate students may earn freshman-level or sophomore-level course credit. Under provisions of the bill, the institution may charge a reasonable fee for taking the examination. The institution would develop and administer examinations for as many courses as practicable and report to the Higher Education Coordinating Board a list of courses for which examinations can be taken for credit, and the institution's adopted policy. This information along with student application materials must be available on the institution's internet website. The change in law would apply beginning with the 2014-2015 academic year. For purposes of this fiscal note it is assumed that institutional costs associated with implementing the new examinations would be covered by the fee charged to the student. Therefore costs associated with the bill are not considered significant.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
