Fiscal Analysis

The bill would authorize the issuance of $2.45 billion in tuition revenue bonds for institutions of higher education to finance construction and improvement of infrastructure and related facilities. The bill includes authorization of $694.2 million for the University of Texas System, $640.7 million for the Texas A&M System, $257.0 million for the University of Houston System, $224.3

million for the Texas State University System, $209.6 million for the University of North Texas System, $228.2 million for the Texas Tech University System, $38.0 million for Texas Woman's University, $30.0 million for Midwestern State University, $50.0 million for Stephen F Austin University, $66.0 million for Texas Southern University and $9.5 million for the TSTC System. The bill includes specific requirements that certain projects for the Texas A&M University System must be supported in an amount equal to one-half of the project through additional funds available to the system. The bill includes specific requirements that certain projects for the University of Texas System must be solely supported through additional funds available to the system. If these conditions are not met, the respective systems can not issue bonds for any of the projects authorized in the bill.

The bonds would not be general obligations of the State. However, the issued bonds would have fiscal implications for the State. Although tuition income is pledged against the bonds, historically the Legislature has appropriated General Revenue to reimburse institutions for the tuition used to pay the debt service. For purposes of this fiscal note it is assumed that unless otherwise noted, the bonds would be issued on September 1, 2013. It is also assumed that Texas A&M University System and the University of Texas System will provide additional funds to support the debt service for the conditional projects as required by the bill.
