Committee Report (Substituted)

AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

The economic impact of the Texas wine industry increased dramatically to over $1.8 billion annually in 2013. Approximately 11,151 people are employed directly by the industry and, year after year, sales data show that, despite the current economy, the Texas wine industry is still growing. In 2013, the industry contributed $85 million in state and local taxes—a 117 percent increase over 2005.

In 2013, 286 Texas wineries collectively produced over three million gallons of wine. In 2005, S.B. 1370 became one of the cornerstones for the industry's growth. That bill dedicated a specific amount of revenue, raised through wine sales and excise taxes, to a number of key research projects that helped propel the industry to its current status. S.B. 881 renews that legislation and, working closely with the Texas Department of Agriculture, continues to direct a small portion of the wine sales and excise tax revenue to specific viticulture and enology research projects within several of our state universities.
