Committee Report (Substituted)

AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Texas has a long history of being a pioneer in statewide student assessment and accountability. Since 1980, Texas has continuously captured key data for decision makers, communities, school leaders, parents, and students about Texas public school performance through universal assessments. Texas has also pioneered the use of these assessments to improve school performance and close the achievement gap.

Twenty years ago the assessment system was restricted to pencil and paper examinations administered annually. While Texas has made significant progress under this system, the limits of Texas' current assessment and accountability system are apparent.

Today, there are examples of top-performing schools using adaptive, individualized, secure assessments to increase the quality and depth of student learning. Such performance data can provide parents, educators, and the public with real-time information about student progress.

Texas should seize the opportunity to once again lead the nation in student assessments by pioneering data-driven systems of statewide assessments and public school accountability.

C.S.S.B. 1200 creates the Texas Commission on Next Generation Assessment and Accountability to study, develop, and make recommendations for new systems of student assessment and public school accountability.

C.S.S.B. 1200 amends current law relating to the creation of a committee to recommend a new system for student assessment and public school accountability.

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
