1 WHEREAS, The 100th birthday of an esteemed Texan is indeed a
2 special occasion, and retired teacher C. C. Turner of Longview is 3 celebrating this momentous milestone in his life on May 9, 2015, to 4 the delight of his family, friends, and former students; and

5 WHEREAS, Born in Pritchett in 1915 to parents who were 6 farmers, Cleo C. Turner attended a number of different schools
7 while growing up; he graduated from the 10th grade in Glenwood as 8 salutatorian of his class and then completed high school in Gilmer, 9 staying in an auditorium dressing room with several other boys on 10 weeknights and traveling home on the weekends; and

11 WHEREAS, Mr. Turner received his associate's degree from the 12 College of Marshall and began his career in a small school in 13 Independence Springs, where he was both one of two teachers and the 14 principal; subsequently, he taught at West Mountain Elementary 15 School and Harmony Consolidated School; during the summers, he 16 waited tables at Baylor University while earning his bachelor's 17 degree, and he later attained a master's degree at East Texas State 18 University; and

19 WHEREAS, In 1942, Mr. Turner enlisted in the United States
20 Army Air Forces and was assigned to the Weather Service; he was 21 stationed in England, where he created maps for use by fighter
22 pilots, and he was also posted to Missouri, Oklahoma, Washington,
23 D.C., and finally Montgomery, Alabama, where he married his Texas
24 sweetheart, Eva Mae Raynes; the couple became the parents of three

1 children, Merrilyn, Linda, and Jerry, and they shared a fulfilling 2 relationship of 57 years before Mrs. Turner's passing in 2000; and

3 WHEREAS, C. C. Turner joined the faculty at Longview High 4 School in 1946; over the years, he won the enduring respect and 5 affection of countless students through his kindness, patience, and 6 ability to help them grasp and retain difficult concepts in 7 mathematics; he also became the district's first driver's education
8 instructor, a role in which his calm demeanor was a distinct 9 advantage; in addition, he taught classes at the Longview campus of 10 Kilgore College and at Trinity Day School; many of his students went 11 on to become teachers themselves; and

12 WHEREAS, A pillar of his community, Mr. Turner was named
13 Educator of the Year by the Longview Civitans, and he was selected 14 as 1978 Longview Teacher of the Year by his colleagues; moreover,
