The bill would amend the Property Code and Local Government Code to provide that a municipality or a county may not enact or enforce an order or ordinance that would restrict or prohibit a property owner from installing a liquid propane gas tank above the ground on the owner's property if the tank is a reasonable size to supply the residence. The bill would specify that if a tank is located on residential property within the corporate boundaries of the municipality, the municipality could require the owner to screen the tank from view.

Local Government Impact

No significant fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
