AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

For over fifty years, the Daughters of the Republic of Texas have managed the state-owned French Legation Museum. The French Legation is a historic landmark in Austin with various federal, state, and local historic designations. It is the oldest building in Austin, dating back to 1841 when Texas was a sovereign country.

Recent events have left the Daughters of the Republic with insufficient funding to adequately manage the French Legation. The property is currently part of the Texas Facilities Commission's (TFC) inventory, and so TFC recently requested authorization from the Legislative Budget Board to use an emergency repair fund to provide critical repairs for the facility. Even if this request is granted, however, the state will need to provide ongoing oversight to ensure the French Legation is adequately maintained and protected.

Recognizing this need, S.B. 2005 transfers the jurisdiction and management of the French Legation, its grounds, and its contents from the Daughters of the Republic to the Texas Historical Commission (THC). S.B. 2005 also includes conforming changes relating to certain historic sites that are already under THC's jurisdiction.

Transferring jurisdiction over the French Legation from the Daughters of the Republic to THC will better ensure this landmark is preserved for future generations of Texans.

As proposed, S.B. 2005 amends current law relating to the transfer of jurisdiction over and management of the property known as the French Legation to the Texas Historical Commission and to certain historic sites under the commission's jurisdiction.
