By: Turner H.C.R. No. 64

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

1 WHEREAS, Vaccinations play an important role in preventing 2 the contraction and spread of meningococcal disease; more than 1,000 such cases occur in the United States each year, and of those 3 persons infected, 10 to 15 percent will die, while another 10 to 20 4 5 percent will suffer serious complications, including brain or kidney damage, loss of limbs, and nervous system problems; and 6 7 WHEREAS, There are many different strains, or serogroups, of meningococcal disease, of which B, C, and Y are the most commonly 8 9 seen in the United States, and vaccines can help to provide protection against all three; additionally, the Centers for Disease 10 11 Control and Prevention recommends vaccination against selected 12 serogroups; and WHEREAS, Meningococcal disease, which is spread from person 13 14 to person during close or lengthy contact, most commonly affects individuals from ages 16 to 23; because of low vaccination rates 15 16 among young people, several outbreaks of meningitis B have occurred on college campuses around the country in recent years; the CDC 17 Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices recommends that young 18 adults from ages 16 to 23 consult with a health care professional 19 20 about being immunized against serogroup B; and 21 WHEREAS, Although meningococcal disease is extremely dangerous, if not fatal, it can be prevented through proper 22 23 vaccinations, and a greater awareness of this issue would be beneficial to the health and well-being of many Texans; now,

2.4

H.C.R. No. 64

- 1 therefore, be it
- 2 RESOLVED, That the 85th Legislature of the State of Texas
- 3 hereby recognize the importance of vaccinations in preventing
- 4 meningococcal disease and encourage all Texans to learn more about
- 5 this vital issue.