AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

The community surrounding the Lions Municipal Golf Course in Austin, known locally as "Muny," has long called for its preservation as a green space or golf course, and more recently for its place in desegregation history.

In 1910, Colonel George Washington Brackenridge donated a tract of land along the northern shore of the Colorado River, west of downtown Austin, to The University of Texas. The Lions Club of Austin leased 141 acres for the construction of a golf course. After completion, the lease was transferred to the city in 1936.

C.S.S.B. 2553 provides a mechanism for the community to directly contribute to securing the historic Muny golf course from The University of Texas at Austin for future generations by voting to pay a fee that would help fund the acquisition of the property. The district created by C.S.S.B. 2553 could also serve as a conduit for gifts, grants or donations for that purpose.

The bill creates a committee to appoint the first seven-member board. The appointment committee will consist of the executive directors of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the Texas State Preservation Board and Texas Historical Commission, the mayor, and Texas Director of The Nature Conservancy and the executive directors of Preservation Texas and the Texas Golf Hall of Fame.

The board must dissolve the district if no successful election has occurred or the district has not entered an agreement for the purchase or method of preserving the land consistent with the purpose of the district.

The district is expressly prohibited from imposing taxes or assessments or exercising eminent domain. (Original Author's/Sponsor's Statement of Intent)

S.B. 2553 amends current law relating to the creation of the Save Historic Muny District, provides authority to issue bonds, and provides authority to impose fees.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
