H.C.R. No. 30

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

1 WHEREAS, Federal law sets the federal minimum wage at $7.25
2 an hour; and

3 WHEREAS, The last time Congress raised the federal minimum 4 wage was in 2007; that year, the Fair Minimum Wage Act of 2007 was 5 passed to gradually raise the federal minimum wage from $5.15 an 6 hour to $7.25 hour in 2009; the Act included small business tax
7 relief provisions and was signed into law by President George W.
8 Bush; and

9 WHEREAS, Speaking at a 2006 news conference, President Bush
10 said that he supported increasing the federal minimum wage, adding 11 that to achieve this and other goals, Congress needed to put aside
12 partisan differences and work constructively to address the vital 13 issues confronting our nation; and

14 WHEREAS, In the 12 years since President Bush signed the last 15 federal minimum wage increase into law, the desire for Congress to 16 put aside partisan differences and work constructively to raise the 17 federal minimum wage has grown stronger in the states; and

18 WHEREAS, To account for cost of living increases, 29 states
19 have set their minimum wage higher than the federal minimum wage, 20 though not at the level of a living wage; 14 states, including 21 Texas, set their minimum wage in line with the federal minimum wage; 22 and

23 WHEREAS, Supporters of a living wage emphasize that 24 increasing the federal minimum wage to $15 an hour would reduce

1 poverty and grow the economy; their review of previous minimum wage
2 increases found little or no evidence that raising the minimum wage 3 reduces employment; and

4 WHEREAS, Demonstrating that paying workers more reduces 5 turnover, several companies, including Amazon, Walmart, and 6 Target, have committed to paying their hourly workers at least $15
7 an hour now or by 2020; a 2017 Quinnipiac University poll found that 8 a majority of Americans would support a minimum wage of $15 an hour;
9 and

10 WHEREAS, Offering a Texas perspective, noted American 11 economist Dr. James K. Galbraith, a professor at The University of 12 Texas at Austin, wrote that states such as Texas would benefit from 13 raising the federal minimum wage to $15 an hour because such states 14 have too many low-wage workers, too much poverty, and too many 15 people who are getting food stamps and other welfare because they 16 aren't getting paid enough; and

17 WHEREAS, The well-being of this nation depends on a strong
18 and vibrant economy, and Congress should heed the advice of experts 19 such as Dr. Galbraith and raise the minimum wage; now, therefore, 20 be it

21 RESOLVED, That the 86th Legislature of the State of Texas
22 hereby respectfully urge the Congress of the United States to raise 23 the federal minimum wage to $15 an hour; and, be it further

24 RESOLVED, That the Texas secretary of state forward official 25 copies of this resolution to the president of the United States, to 26 the president of the Senate and the speaker of the House of 27 Representatives of the United States Congress, and to all the
