The bill would amend Chapter 41, Subchapter C, of the Tax Code, regarding taxpayer protest, to add new subsections 41.46(d) and 41.46(e) that would require an appraisal review board to deliver notice of an appraisal review board hearing by certified mail if requested by a property owner in the owner's notice of protest. The board would be permitted to require the property owner to pay the postage cost. Alternatively an appraisal review board would be required to deliver the appraisal review board notice by email if requested by the property owner.

The bill would not affect taxable property values, tax rates, collection rates, or any other variable that might affect the revenues of units of local governments or the state.

The bill would take effect September 1, 2019.
