Fiscal Analysis

The bill would amend various codes as they relate to the penalties for the criminal offense of possession of two ounces or less of marihuana. The bill would reduce the penalty for possession of two ounces or less of marihuana from a Class B to a Class C and removes this offense from enhancement to a Class A misdemeanor.

Methodology

Reducing the penalties for this criminal offense is expected to result in fewer demands upon the correctional resources of counties or of the State due to a decrease in the number of people placed under misdemeanor community supervision. In fiscal year 2018, 13,391 people were placed under misdemeanor community supervision for possession of two ounces or less of marihuana. Under the provisions of the bill, these individuals would no longer be placed under community supervision. Community supervision and corrections departments are funded $0.70 per misdemeanor placement for 182 days. The savings below are calculated by multiplying the adjusted placements based on the projections published in the January 2019 Adult and Juvenile Correctional Population Projections by 182 days and $0.70. These estimates are based on the assumption that sentencing patterns not addressed in the bill remain constant.

Based upon case data from fiscal year 2018 and assuming a similar caseload in future years, the Office of Court Administration (OCA) estimates there were 39,164 convictions or orders of deferred adjudication in new Class A or B possession cases. According to the Department of Public Safety, 96 percent of convictions for Class A and B misdemeanor possession cases were for Class B possession of less than two ounces of marihuana, resulting in a total of 37,597 convictions or deferred adjudications.

Total court costs vary depending on the county and any additional services performed. The estimate provided by OCA assumes an average court cost of $272 for Class B misdemeanors of which $129.50 is remitted to the State and $142.50 is retained by the county. Assuming a collection rate of 55 percent for county courts, the State would realize an annual revenue loss of $2,677,846 (37,597 convictions x $129.50 x 55 percent collection rate) from court cost revenue that would previously have been collected for Class B possession cases, but which would not be collected under the provisions of the bill. This includes an estimated revenue loss to the General Revenue Fund and the Judicial Fund, $496,280 and $310,175 respectively.

The estimate provided by OCA assumes average court cost of $67 for Class C misdemeanors of which $47.80 is remitted to the State and $19.20 is retained by the county. Assuming a collection rate of 80 percent for county courts, the State would realize an annual revenue gain of $1,437,709 (37,597 convictions x $47.80 x 80 percent collection rate) from court cost revenue that would now be collected for Class C possession cases under the provisions of the bill. This includes an estimated revenue gain to the Judicial Support Fund of $50,756.

In addition to impacts to the General Revenue Fund and Judicial Fund No. 573 as shown above, the following General Revenue-Dedicated accounts would see annual revenue impacts as shown in the table below. This includes revenue collected through the consolidated court cost which is distributed to various General Revenue-Dedicated accounts pursuant to Local Government Code 133.102.

$ (518,275)

The Department of Public Safety does not anticipate a significant fiscal impact. The Texas Commission on Law Enforcement does not anticipate a fiscal impact.

Local Government Impact

According to OCA, a revenue loss is anticipated to local governments of an estimated $4,821,773 from the reduction of Class B misdemeanor cases to Class C misdemeanor cases. However, revenue from collections in the Class C cases will offset the loss by an estimated $649,670. In addition, OCA estimates a savings of $6,532,496 in fees paid to court appointed counsel. Additionally, decreases in cost associated with confining defendants and placing defendants on probation, which is a typical punishment in cases involving small amounts of marihuana, will offset any losses. Although counties may see a decrease in revenue from fines, as the maximum fine in a Class C misdemeanor is $500, whereas the maximum fine in a Class B misdemeanor is $2,000; counties will be able to offset losses by imposing a special expense fee on defendants receiving deferred disposition in the Class C cases.

According to the Texas Association of Counties, no significant fiscal impact is anticipated.
