The bill would amend the Health and Safety Code to require the Health and Human Services Commission to establish an interim registry for certain persons who have been accused of employee misconduct who are employed by a facility that provides care to individuals with an intellectual disability. According to the Health and Human Services Commission, no fiscal implication is anticipated. According to the Department of Family and Protective Services, there would be minimal costs to modify an existing database that is maintained by the agency. It is assumed that the provisions of the bill could be absorbed using existing resources. The bill would take effect September 1, 2019.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
