I am writing to express my concern with action of the Austin City Council's use of taxpayer funds toward killing pre-born children. For decades, they have given Planned Parenthood a special $1-a-year lease deal on prime city owned real estate near downtown; and over the past several months, they have forced citizens to pay $300,000 for logistical costs of killing local citizens, such as rides to abortion facilities, hotel rooms, and ironically, childcare while a baby brother or sister was being put to death.

One of the organizations the council forces citizens to pay is called Jane's Due Process, which specifically assists underage girls in killing their babies.

The legislature needs to prohibit city governments from using tax payer funds for the purpose of abortion.

Thanks,

David Hutsell
