2 improving the educational opportunities and outcomes of the 3 students of Texas; and

4           WHEREAS, A type of special education teacher, educational 5 diagnosticians assess, diagnose, and provide carefully designed 6 instruction to children with learning disabilities; uniquely 7 trained in their area of expertise, these gifted professionals use 8 academic and psychological tests to isolate key factors that could 9 enhance each student's performance in the classroom, enabling 10 schools to better serve the educational needs of children and 11 youth; and

12           WHEREAS, By conducting materials research and developing and 13 recommending teaching strategies, educational diagnosticians help
14 provide the next generation of Texans with the basic skills
15 necessary for lifelong learning and excellence; for the past year,
16 educators in Texas have had to respond to the unusual challenges 17 that the COVID-19 pandemic has posed to schools and teachers, and 18 during this difficult time, the efforts of educational 19 diagnosticians have remained crucial to the success of some of our 20 most vulnerable schoolchildren; and

21           WHEREAS, At every stage of education, the work of educational 22 diagnosticians has greatly benefited the students under their care
23 and earned them the respect and admiration of their fellow
24 educators, and they may indeed take great pride in the important
