Austin, Texas

FISCAL NOTE, 87TH LEGISLATIVE REGULAR SESSION

April 17, 2021

TO: Honorable Andrew S. Murr, Chair, House Committee on Corrections

FROM: Jerry McGinty, Director, Legislative Budget Board

IN RE: HB137 by Thompson, Senfronia (Relating to the authority of a court to terminate the sentence of certain persons released on parole.), Committee Report 1st House, Substituted

The bill would amend the Code of Criminal Procedure to allow a person released on parole to file a motion with the convicting court for a termination of a sentence if the person has successfully completed ten years of parole, the parole was not revoked at any time during that period, and the person is not required to register as a sex offender. According to the Office of Court Administration and the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, the costs associated with the bill's provisions could be absorbed using existing resources.

The bill would take effect December 1, 2021. The bill would require the approval of an amendment to the Texas Constitution by the voters authorizing the legislature to enact laws providing for a court to terminate a sentence of a person who has successfully served the required number of years on parole. If voters do not approve the constitutional amendment, the provisions of the bill would not take effect.

This analysis assumes implementing the provisions of the bill would not result in a significant impact on state correctional populations or on the demand for state correctional resources.

Local Government Impact

No significant fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
