Fiscal Analysis

The bill would amend the Local Government Code to require the Texas Ethics Commission (TEC) to develop a new electronic filing application to allow certain reports required by this bill to be filed electronically and to be searchable on the Commission's Internet website.

TEC estimates that implementing the provisions of the bill would require approximately six months following the effective date of the legislation.

Methodology

The Commission obtained an estimate from the current vendor of its Electronic Filing System of the costs to develop this new electronic filing application. The vendors' estimated development cost for this application was $62,000. The vendor estimate also included an additional two years of maintenance at $15,500 per year for maintenance. This analysis assumes that $15,500 yearly maintenance cost would continue into fiscal years 2025 and 2026.

Technology

The bill would require TEC to develop an electronic filing application to allow filers to create their own IDs, to file reports on demand, to correct those reports, and to upload contract PDFs.

Local Government Impact

According to Travis County, the reporting requirements included in the bill's provisions would not have a significant fiscal impact on the county. However, the fiscal impact of the penalties included in the bill's provisions cannot be determined. No significant fiscal impact to other units of local government is anticipated.
