AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

The majority of instructional materials used in classrooms do not meet grade-level TEKS standards. This lack of access to appropriate curricular resources inadequately prepares students, places a greater burden on teachers and creates barriers for parents to review classroom content. A recent study showed that only 17 percent of students were engaged with on grade level classwork.

The Texas Teacher Vacancy Task Force recommended "funding, professional learning, and support for teachers to access and utilize High Quality Instructional Material."

Governor Abbott also included in his 2024-2025 budget, "The 88th Legislature [should] address curriculum challenges with outcomes that enhance student performance...improve quality of classroom instructional materials, help ease teachers' workloads, and ensure curriculum transparency for parents."

H.B. 1605 seeks to create a new State Board of Education (SBOE) process of vetting of instructional materials with additional funding for districts who use the SBOE approved materials. Overall, the bill seeks to increase access to high-quality instructional material for students, give necessary relief to teachers, and provide more transparency for parents.

H.B. 1605 eliminates the Texas Education Agency's (TEA) instructional materials portal and review process and eliminates SBOE proclamation process. Instead, a new unified process is built with checks and balances, where TEA does instructional materials reviews subject to SBOE oversight, and materials are ultimately approved by SBOE.

A funding formula, supplemental to the Instructional Materials Allotment, of $40/student is provided to buy SBOE-approved materials, as long as those materials are made available by publishers in an online portal for parents to easily browse.

TEA is also required to ensure open-source textbooks are available, but with this bill those materials must be approved by SBOE like any other textbooks. These textbooks must be free to districts in digital form, and there is an additional printing fund allotted ($20/student) for districts that want to print them for use in the classroom.

Districts have the option to use SBOE-approved materials if they like, and this bill prohibits TEA from requiring districts to use any SBOE-approved materials (except as might be required for F-rated campus turnaround plans).

This bill ensures parent transparency in the classroom, publishers will have to establish an online portal and give parents access to log into and browse lessons in their child's textbooks.

The bill requires TEA to develop an elementary school textbook that allows teachers to cover all the core content, and provide required tutoring, by working no more than 4 hours a day.

It also requires that school districts give teachers a full sequence of instructional materials (including a textbook), so teachers are no longer forced to perform two jobs: creating curriculum/lesson design and lesson planning/differentiation, unless the district employs the teacher specifically for lesson design. Additionally, teachers are also given a safe-harbor from discipline for inappropriate content concerns if they are teaching from SBOE-approved materials.

This bill also sets up a curriculum review fund. If a district wants to review its own instructional materials to make sure they are on grade level and being taught with fidelity, a district can request a review, and the state will cover the cost. Parents can also request these reviews, but a board of trustees retains final authority on whether they happen.

H.B. 1605 amends current law relating to instructional material and technology, the adoption of essential knowledge and skills for certain public school foundation curriculum subjects, and the extension of additional state aid to school districts for the provision of certain instructional materials and authorizes a fee.
