AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

The Texas Real Estate Commission and Texas Appraisal Licensing & Certification Board regularly prepare bills to clean up current law. These groups have identified several barriers to licensees entering the appraisal industry, including confusion over experience requirements, frustration with submitting a sworn affidavit, and a lack of clarity over whether their experience needs to be in compliance with the Uniform Standard of Professional Appraisal Practice, which is a set of national guidelines.

What's more, the Texas Appraisal Licensing & Certification Board (TALCB) still is required to develop study guides for the appraiser licensing exam, despite the fact that Texas no longer creates this test and most test takers will choose exam prep created by private retailers. Lastly, the Texas Appraisal Management Company Registration and Regulation Act does not require an investigative committee review in its complaint process. This investigative committee review currently is being utilized for appraiser complaints, and there has been some confusion regarding why the two otherwise similar processes do not mirror one another.

S.B. 1222 would facilitate entry into the appraisal industry by clarifying the requirements for applicants and ensuring that all submitted experience adheres to the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice. This bill also would repeal the requirement for TALCB to develop study guides for the appraiser licensing exam that test takers are not utilizing. What's more, this bill would add more transparency in the appraisal management complaint process by adding an investigative committee review. These changes would make the appraisal industry more accessible for new applicants, while also introducing a new level of transparency and efficiency throughout the relevant entities.
