Fiscal Analysis

The bill would amend the Family Code to require that a court in an order to establish parentage or a suit to establish child support obligation to order the man to pay retroactive child support for the child beginning on the earliest possible date of the child's conception, as determined by a physician. The bill would require the guidelines to be applied by the court in making this determination and the court upon proper showing to order the man to pay an equitable portion of all of the prenatal and postnatal health care expenses of the mother and the child. The bill would also lists requirements for an order adjudicating parenthood in the event the order is rendered before child's birth.

Methodology

The table above reflects a one-time programming cost of $3,838,500 in fiscal year 2024 for the Office of the Attorney General's (OAG) TXCSES system. This would include General Revenue totaling $1,305,090 and Federal Funds totaling $2,533,410.

According to information provided by the OAG, programming costs would be necessary to provide: (1) New Obligation Type and Associated Order Entry/Financial Functionality for Mandatory Conception Retro; (2) New Retro obligation must accrue 0% interest until 1 year anniversary of order being rendered and; (3) New data field for the date that will trigger the 1-year anniversary and new interest calculation functionality. The OAG anticipates a minimum of nine months to one year to implement all changes from the bill into the current mainframe system, TXCSES.

Technology

One-time programming costs totaling $1,305,090 in General Revenue and $2,533,410 in Federal Funds for the TXCSES would be necessary to implement the provisions of the bill.

Local Government Impact

No significant fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.
