HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
COMPILATION OF PUBLIC COMMENTS

Submitted to the Committee on Congressional Redistricting, Select

For HB 4

Compiled on: Saturday, August 2, 2025 1:25 AM

Note: Comments received by the committee reflect only the view of the individual(s) submitting the comment, who retain sole responsibility for the content of the comment. Neither the committee nor the Texas House of Representatives takes a position on the views expressed in any comment. The committee compiles the comments received for informational purposes only and does not exercise any editorial control over comments.

Hearing Date: August 1, 2025 10:00 AM - or upon final adjourn./recess or bill referral if permission granted

Michelle Foster self (mediator)
North Richland Hills, TX

I support HB4 and redistricting needs to happen. This is about fairness not partisan BS.

Linda Eckert
Self
Onalaska, TX

I support redistricting to reflect more accurately the current voter districts in Texas. I have reviewed the proposed map and concur with lines drawn. Thank you, Linda Eckert

Shawn Murray
Self, retired
Marble Falls, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Susan Milam, Major, USAF, Retired
Self - Retired
Emory, TX

I am totally supportive of the congressional redistricting bill. this will give us an accurate representation of citizens within our state on which to base numbers of federal representatives allotted to Texas. without this recalculation, we will be inaccurately represented.

Denise Geleitsmann self - Program Coordinator
Austin, TX

I am vehemently against the redistricting of congressional districts. Why is this even a discussion other than to appease President Trump? He has asked Texas lawmakers to try to add five additional GOP seats, which will necessarily involve slicing up existing Democratic districts, many of which are made up of mostly Black and Hispanic voters. This is not governance and democracy. You are elected to represent and listen to Texans. How are people who want to meet with their representatives going to do it if their rep is located across the state? Our representatives should be near us and be like us. Austin and Houston ARE democratic communities! How is it democracy when you force a Republican on these communities? Isn't voting the great American freedom? It seems to me, Texas legislators are SCARED of their constituents so instead of allowing us to vote and be represented as we should, they are resorting to cheating. The very thing they accuse Democrats of! How ironic! Vote NO on this heinous, undemocratic plan! I ask you, who is more important to you? Your president, or your constituents? Who do you actually work for? WE vote for you! We ask that you take our voices into consideration and vote NO! Voters should select their leaders, not the other way around. Please do away with this redistricting plan!

Robert Wyatt
Self semi-retired
Austin, TX

Whereas the last federal census was curtailed it is unconscionable that a special session is being used to create new districts especially considering that this is a blatant effort to disenfranchise Texas citizens.

Adam Haberer
Self
Belton, TX

Texas voters are not stupid — we see exactly what’s happening with gerrymandering in this state, and we’re disgusted. The political map of Texas is a disgraceful mockery of democracy, carved up by power-hungry politicians who are terrified of fair elections.

Gerrymandering in Texas has become a tool of suppression and control — slicing up communities of color, diluting urban voices, and locking in power for those too cowardly to face real competition. It’s anti-democratic, it’s dishonest, and it’s dead wrong.

Let’s be very clear: if you support or defend these rigged maps, you are part of the corruption. You are not serving Texans — you are manipulating them. That’s not leadership, it’s cowardice.

We, the people of Texas, are tired of politicians picking their voters instead of voters picking their representatives. We demand independent redistricting — not another backroom power grab dressed up as “representation.”

Fix it. Support legislation that ends partisan gerrymandering in Texas and hands redistricting over to a truly independent, transparent commission. If you lack the spine to do that, then you don’t belong in public office.

You work for the people — not your party.

Do your job. Or get out of the way.

I'm embarrassed to be from this state.

Roland Silva, PMP
Self
Elgin, TX

The matter of redistricting in the manner put forth by the Republicans and MAGA Administration is not intended to serve, We The People, but rather seeks to exploit a gerrymandering tactic used to displace and silence the voices of the majority of American citizens within the very regions they are dismantling. Done properly, a district must encompass the totality of the geographical region—take for examples the districts drawn by the National and Texas Crime Information Centers. There is no clearer sign of manipulation and corruption than that illustrated by the gerrymandering districts plot for by Republicans in this shameful attempt of segregation. As a citizen and constituent of this State I call on my congressmen to vote against this proposal.

Kathryn Gaillour
Self retired
Austin, TX

I absolutely oppose any redistricting in our State of Texas. There are much more pressing issues facing us right now in Texas than this redistricting. If not for President Trump's directive to Governor Abbott, this would not be an issue at all right now. Gerrymandering is the worst thing we can do in our country, whether it's Republicans or Democrats. Let people vote based on where they live and have a community interest and leave it at that. This directive from the President blatantly takes away representation from those who are already least represented. It's also corrupt when he says "Texas will give us 5". The most important issues we have are mitigating death and harm to individuals from flooding such as what we saw in Central Texas in July, educating our students so that our State is competitive with the rest of the country, and keeping our property taxes low. Redistricting is NOT a priority. Let the usual process work out at the time of the Census, not now.

Yanetta Newton
Self
Duncanville, TX

Good afternoon. My name is Yanetta Newton-Henson and I am a Black woman, a wife, a mother, a native Texan, and an active member of my community. I'm here today because redistricting isn't just about politics—it's about power and who is allowed to have it.
For generations, Black communities in Texas have fought for representation. We have organized, marched, voted, and pushed for leaders who come from our neighborhoods, understand our realities, and fight for our needs. And just when that representation begins to take root, we find ourselves at risk of being drawn out, split up, or silenced.
The proposed maps disproportionately target districts represented by Black and Hispanic elected officials. These are districts that were not gifted to us—we built them. Brick by brick, vote by vote. And now, we see those districts being carved up in ways that dilute our voice and our influence.
This isn’t a coincidence. It is intentional. It is racial. And it is wrong.
When you dismantle Black political power, you dismantle our ability to push for better schools, safer neighborhoods, and healthcare that actually reaches our people. You strip us of our ability to make change from the inside. That is the harm of redistricting done without care for equity or history.
I’m urging you: do not erase our voices. Do not undermine our communities. Draw fair maps. Respect the communities that built Texas. And give us the representation we deserve.
Thank you.

Melissa Jones
self
Lago Vista, TX

Put Texans first above political demands. We need fair and legal voting districts not Gerrymandering. Stop try to rig elections by diluting Texans votes.

Marshall Carter-Tripp, Dr self/retired diplomat
El Paso, TX

I write to the Committee to express my anger and sadness on reading the proposed redistricting legislation, and its effect on El Paso. Several key areas - the International Airport, Ft Bliss and the new VA hosp are stripped from the 16th district and moved to the 23rd District, centered in San Antonio, 600+ miles away. This is more than a disgrace, it is an insult to the people of El Paso. This revision is clearly not intended to give better representation to El Pasoans, or to the institutions being cut out of District 16. It is nothing more than a bended knee to the presidential demand for redistricting in order to create five more Republican seats in the congress! I hope that decency and common sense prevail and this proposal is rejected.

Madelyn Ricco
Self
Dallas, TX

How can this bill be seen as anything other than voter suppression and petty party politics. I strongly oppose this bill and gerrymandering in general is outrageous, by any party. If you had any shred of integrity as civil servants who are supposed to represent all residents of Texas not just the ones who vote for you.

Frank McClain
Self / Threat Analyst
Fruitvale, TX

I support HB4 to initiate a redistricting of Texas. I do not believe that the current district breakdown gives accurate representation to Texas citizens.

chris grummert
self Woodcreek, TX

I oppose the Congressional Redistricting, and urge all members to vote against it.

Dominique Shu
Self
Houston, TX

This proposal is undemocratic and affects my district. There should have been an election when Turner passed, Trump has his hands in this and it is unethical and authoritarian!

Michelle Lane, Dr.
self
Austin, TX

This country was founded on the principle of representation of the people, by the people. 43% of TX voters voted Democratic in the last election; thus, approximately 43% of our representatives should reflect this distribution. The new redistricting plan gerrymanders this state even more than it is already, reducing the voice of Texans. Also, Texans did not ask for redistricting. Trump did. If you support state self-governance and true representational democracy, you will oppose this Bill and do your job representing the voices of your constituents.

David Richardson

retired

Ft Worth, TX

In 1812, Massachusetts Governor Elbridge Gerry approved a redistricting plan designed to benefit his Democratic-Republican Party. One district was so grotesquely shaped it resembled a salamander—leading to the satirical term “Gerry-mander.”
?? The Irony
- Gerry did not invent the tactic, but his signature on the bill made him the face of partisan redistricting.
- The backlash was swift: Federalists ridiculed him, and the infamous cartoon of the “Gerry-mander” monster spread widely.
- Despite the map favoring his party, Gerry lost re-election—a direct consequence of public outrage over the manipulation.
?? Legacy of a Cautionary Symbol
- Gerry’s name became synonymous with electoral distortion, overshadowing his other achievements (he was also a signer of the Declaration of Independence).
In 1812, Massachusetts Governor Elbridge Gerry approved a redistricting plan designed to benefit his Democratic-Republican Party. One district was so grotesquely shaped it resembled a salamander—leading to the satirical term “Gerry-mander.”
?? The Irony
- Gerry did not invent the tactic, but his signature on the bill made him the face of partisan redistricting.
- The backlash was swift: Federalists ridiculed him, and the infamous cartoon of the “Gerry-mander” monster spread widely.
- Despite the map favoring his party, Gerry lost re-election—a direct consequence of public outrage over the manipulation.

Edna Clarke

Democrats

Lago Vista, TX

Please break quorum and save our districts from Republicans

Michael Render

Self

Spicewood, TX

The severe gerrymandering of Texas voting districts proposed by this bill is a violation of the Texas Constitution Bill of Rights Sections 2 and 3. The Republican Party is taking away the ability of a significant portion of the electorate to influence, alter or reform their government. The Republican Party is establishing privilege for itself over other parties to govern with power that is not closely proportional to its support by the electorate.

Joan Trimble

Self, registered nurse

San Antonio, TX

I oppose this redistricting ploy for what it is- another power grab in an already gerrymandered state. Mid-decade redistricting is not democracy in action and it’s unnecessary unless the goal is to represent Donald trump and NOT the citizens who elected Tx representatives.

Ralph Bethel

Sigma Gamma Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity

Houston, TX

Hand off our District! You cannot tell me this is not a political move to get more republicans in the house of representatives. This has nothing to do with population changes or current census figures. Tell Gov. Abbot to keep DJT’s desires out of Texas politics!

Nolan Sagebiel

Self

San Antonio, TX

Voters have rejected the Democratic party and their constant cries of racism. I heartily support HB4 and it's redistricting process.

Amanda Hernandez
Self- Receiving Manager
Italy, TX

I support this map as drawn!

Thank you!

Debbie Alsup
Self
Austin, TX

I was taught in law school that gerrymandering was pure manipulation of voting district boundaries for the advantage of one party. With this bill Republicans are choosing their voters rather than voters choosing their representatives. This bill is reprehensible and the goal is transparent. Please stand up for fairness.

Morgan Alfred, Dr.
Self
Houston, TX

It is deeply shameful that as a constituent who has not had representation in congress for over 6 months and will go nearly a year and a half without representation that you all redrew maps to silence hundreds of thousands of voices with voter suppression tactics from the 1940s and 1950s in order to maintain the power you currently have. It is deeply troubling that you have decided to side with fascism instead of your own neighbors. I do not agree with the redistricting plan you have presented.

Elizabeth McVeety
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support this bill that will divide Texas by party, not by Texans' legal right to vote for representation. As a public servants, the legislators should know they are elected to serve the public not a person or a party. Do not yield to this bully. This is not a fair or just bill. I in no way support this bill. Your job should be to protect Texans-protect our right to fair elections, protect our environment, protect our service workers and soldiers.

Elissa Shaddock
Self
Angleton, TX

This is absolutely wrong. Please say no to cheating voters out of their voices. We should not be submitting ourselves to any civil office that is supposed to be serving our citizens. We should not blindly be serving a king. Restore justice and democracy and stop letting big money repress the voice of the people. We deserve to be heard and we the people deserve better than allegiance to one party or another. We pay taxes, we follow the laws, and we deserve representation that is truthful and non-biased. Do what is right for your fellow Texans. Our state is strong and we should be proud of all of our choices as long as they are based on values that are based on good sense, goodwill towards everyone, and right. Take a stand for Texas and true democracy.

Kenneth Horton
Self
Frisco, TX

This bill needs to be stopped as it is unethical self serving political baloney. Whoever votes for it needs to be defeated next election

Andrea Coldwell
Self, e-commerce
Georgetown, TX

I am against the redistricting of the state as it is unfair. I am also against spending taxpayer dollars on this power grab when those dollars should be going to help flood victims and preventing future tragedies for Texas citizens.

Cristabella Trimble-Quiz
Self, Administrative professional
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting of Texas. Carving up Texas to serve a political agenda is a disservice to all Texans. Please end gerrymandering in Texas so that all Texans have a voice and representation in all levels of government.

Michele Sieglaff
Self
Round Rock, TX

It is a fundamental American right for the people to choose who should represent them in Congress. Congress should not be allowed to choose who votes for them. If you are creating and enacting good policies, what are you worried about?

Michael Edick
Self, Student
Driftwood, TX

This gerrymanding spree strips away voting power from minorities. House Bill Four must be stopped to prevent racial discrimination and voter suppression in order to maintain equal representation in the United States House of Representatives for all Texans.

Therese Progar
Self
Richardson, TX

I live in HD32, represented by Julie Johnson. No finer, more professional, more qualified person could be in this position. I don't know where the Republican Party will finally lead this country in its inexplicable fealty to Donald Trump, but I deeply and truly believe that it is being complicit in the undoing of our Democracy. I am a former Independent voter (for 44 years). I no longer have any respect for the Republican Party. I largely blame the Citizens United Ruling for drawing us in to a situation where there is no middle without fear of retaliation, but from my perspective it is the Republican Party at this time that is giving one man far too much power, one he does not respect nor understand beyond his own personal interests.

Katie Cahill
Self
Austin, TX

Hi, my name is Katie Cahill. I live in Austin, Texas, and I vote in District 7. I oppose the proposed redistricting of my district and others.
Texas is already one of the most gerrymandered states. This effort isn't about fairness—it's about suppressing votes, which is anti-democratic and un-American. You could pass better laws and win elections fairly, but instead, you want to hold power without accountability.
I won't plead with you—I know appeals to fairness won't move you. Instead, I appeal to your self-interest.
You may think redistricting will keep you in power through 2026—but it might not. Donald Trump is a short-term figure. His approval rating is around 40% nationally, just 29% among independents. For context, George W. Bush left office with 34% approval—and even he polls better with swing voters today.
Remember, Democrats flipped both the House and Senate in the 2006 midterms during Bush's second term—long before Obama took office. Political control can and does shift at midterms, especially when voters reject an unpopular president. It's very possible Republicans could lose the House again in 2026 even with resorting to this extreme gerrymandering because of how deeply unpopular he is becoming with suburban voters.
Many voters, including former Trump supporters, are turning away from his chaos and divisiveness. He only has power because you keep giving it to him—and he's 79 years old. If you didn't believe his influence was short-term, you wouldn't be rushing to redraw these maps.
So, think of your own self-interest—and don't redistrict. In 2018, suburban voters swung hard to Democrats and you lost big. Let that be a warning. Give yourselves a chance to remain in control at the state level—by distancing from Donald Trump's shrinking influence. Let him lose. Let it be by a wide margin. Let there be no doubt how badly he misjudged the country.
By not redistricting, you do what's right long-term—and ironically, what serves your party best. A broken clock is right twice a day. Let this be one of those times.
Thank you.

Lois Arguello
Self
Farmers Branch, TX

Our democracy is based on the people's right to be represented and choose their elected officials. This bill steals voters right to choose their representatives. Its cheating, undemocratic, immoral and cowardly. Its a power grab. DO NOT REDRISTCT TO DILUTE THE VOTE!!!!! this gerrymandering should be illegal.

Jennifer Graham self--writer
Austin, TX

This map is a grotesque and racist power grab that does not represent the voters of Texas. It also actively violates the Voting Rights Act. As an Austinite I oppose this redistricting effort.

Linda Gardner
Self
Grapevine, TX

I SUPPORT HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Randal Pituk
Self and self-employed
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 4, which seeks to redraw the congressional districts for the United States House of Representatives in Texas. Texas is already one of the most heavily gerrymandered states in the country, and HB 4 would only deepen this problem.

The bill would repeal all previous congressional maps and replace them with a new plan (PLANC2308) based on the 2020 Census. This move is unnecessary and appears to be another attempt to manipulate district boundaries for partisan gain rather than to ensure fair representation.

If Republicans are as confident in their ability to maintain their majority as they claim, there should be no need to repeatedly redraw maps to protect their political power. Fair districts should allow voters to choose their representatives, not the other way around.

HB 4 undermines the democratic process, silences communities, and further erodes public trust in our elections. For these reasons, I oppose HB 4.

Kara Hagen
Self
Houston, TX

Representatives should be selected by their constituents. Representatives?should not choose their constituents! The proposed redistricting is blatantly racist, and will cost the state millions in legal fees to defend.

Nathan Clark
Self Lidar Tech
Fate, TX

Redistricting is supposed to be about fair representation. But what we’re seeing in Texas is the opposite: lines drawn not to reflect communities—but to rig outcomes.

Under the new map, I’d be placed in Congressional District 32, which now stretches over 100 miles from urban North Dallas all the way to rural Upshur County. That’s not a community. That’s a political weapon.

No one honestly believes a single member of Congress can represent both ends of that district in any meaningful way. These are entirely different parts of the state, with different realities and needs. And the people in each of those communities deserve someone who knows them—and fights for them.

Instead, these maps are designed to silence people. To divide us. To make sure the outcome is decided before anyone votes.

That’s not democracy. That’s control.

We’ve normalized it for so long that people have stopped noticing. But the consequences are real. When voters feel like their voice doesn’t matter, they stop showing up. When communities are stitched together just to serve a political strategy, nobody truly gets represented.

And then we turn around and ask: “Why aren’t young people patriotic anymore?” We talk about forcing patriotism in classrooms. Here’s the truth: you wouldn’t need to force it if you were building a country worth being proud of.

Fix the maps. Fix the system. Give people back the power you took from them.

Thank you.

Teresa Anderson, Miss
Self, as the last of NINE KIDS!!!
Austin, TX

Planned Parenthood is VERY IMPORTANT! Look at Texas Education Agency and they will show you lots of data with bad stupid parents. The Uvalde shooter should have been an abortion. Really tired of Texan political males being Texas Taliban. Really tired that stupid TX males want us to be more like India, too big population and bad environment.

Lauren Faurchild
Self
Trophy Club, TX

Vote no to redistricting. Voting should be fair for all not only fir a select set of billionaires..

Thomas Ray
Self
Plano, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. We need to take advantage of the Republican majority to create congressional districts that reflect the voting characteristics of our citizens.

Vicki Plangmsn
Self
Denton, TX

ABSOLUTELY We must support this bill for redistricting!! Texas has so many new LEGAL residents and we need this due to population growth in Texas!!!!

Rebecca McIlwain
Self
HOUSTON, TX

I am a voting independent--not a member of a particular party and oppose the currently proposed map by HB4 on grounds that it disrupts communities from acting together on their common issues. I'm disheartened that partisan politics has such a stranglehold on common sense and seeking the common good. I used to look to statesmen and stateswomen to do that, but now, more often than not, find myself having to rely on courts to rein in the raw partisan, divisive appetite of both political parties. Right now, the Republicans are the biggest culprits. In my grandmother's generation in Texas, I believe it was the Democrats. But either way, my plea is to rise about the current power grab and look at what is sensible for communities who seek to work together to solve their problems using our democratic process. Please reject these maps and refuse to consider this issue any further until the courts weigh in on the 2021 maps. You are under no obligation to continue this process initiated by the Governor. In fact, I would argue you are under a moral obligation NOT to continue it. Please do the right thing. You all know what it is. STOP putting your party above your oath as our representatives. I understand how entwined these can become, but if you will use your common sense, it will be obvious that this is a faulty and harmful undertaking. Please vote NO on HB4 and put the issue to rest. Thank you.

Jose Cid
Self
San Antonio, TX

I'm writing to ask that the redistricting process currently happening be opposed. All state leaders must speak out against the dangerous precedent established by this blatantly partisan gerrymandering.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Reena Sinha
SAAVETX
San Antonio, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Reena Sinha / SAAVETX
San Antonio, Texas

Audra Martin
Self
Amarillo, TX

The redistricting of Texas to lose Democratic seats shouldn't be allowed. This is a blatant power grab from this current lawless administration. The people of Texas don't want this!

Susan Bell, Precinct Chair Kerrville GOP
Kerrville Republican Party
Kerrville, TX

This is a Priority of the RPT and Conservatives across Texas and the US. It must pass. Please do everything in your power to make the Will of the People a Priority.

Mary Witherow
Myself
Dallas, TX

I strongly object to this bill that unfairly seeks to redistrict off cycle by diluting the votes of minorities in metropolitan areas. Such an effort is unconscionable and illegal. I strongly urge the legislature to vote no on the bill.

Lisa Atkinson
Self
Cypress, TX

I support HB4 Redistricting. I oppose coalition or combination by race.

David Young, Mr.
Self
Waxahachie, TX

This redistricting plan is blatantly undemocratic. Anyone who believes in our country, in our constitution, and basic human fairness must reject this attempt to steal votes for one party. It is beyond despicable. Anyone who votes for this bill is an immoral, unjust person. You absolutely KNOW that this is wrong. If you vote for this bill, you will never be able to remove the stench from your reputation.

Jennifer Vogel
Independent voter
SAN MARCOS, TX

This proposal is unacceptable. Every Republican lawmaker who supports it should be prepared to defend their actions in court. The public is watching, and we will hold you accountable.

Stop behaving as if you are above facing the people you represent. The ongoing actions of the Texas Legislature over the past few years have eroded public trust, and this only adds to the shame. We will not stay silent.

Sandra Fleck, Ms.
Self
Montgomery, TX

I believe the current districts in Texas should represent the percentages of voters' party participation in that district. With the numbers of people moving into Texas in the years since the census was taken, the districts should be redrawn.

Terrence Curren
Self
Pflugerville, TX

The planned redistricting is flagrantly undemocratic and a clear indicator that the current government doesn't give a single shit about representing the people. It tells me that anyone in favor of it has less than zero shame, decency, honor, or respect for democracy. Absolutely revolting behavior.

Brady Coleman, mr self - Screen Actors Guild film actor
AUSTIN, TX

Not right to redistrict at this time. Wait until next census. Following Trump now or any time is cowardly.

Luis Garcia, Dr.
self
El Paso, TX

I am writing to urge you to stand against the proposed mid-decade redistricting plan currently under consideration. As a public school educator and proud resident of El Paso County, I am deeply concerned by efforts to redraw congressional maps in a way that undermines fair representation and silences the voices of Texans of color—communities that have been the cornerstone of our state's growth and vitality.

These proposed maps do not reflect the diverse population of Texas. Instead, they appear to be a strategic move to consolidate political power, disenfranchise communities of color, and dilute the impact of voters who have long contributed to the cultural and economic strength of our state. As an educator, I witness firsthand how policy decisions affect our students and their families. Representation matters, and so do fairness and equity.

I respectfully urge you to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal and to advocate for a transparent, inclusive, and community-centered process. Gerrymandering has no place in a healthy democracy. We must ensure that every Texan, regardless of race, background, or zip code, has an equal voice in the future of our state.

Please listen to the public outcry and help preserve the integrity of our democratic institutions. Our communities are watching, and we expect our elected officials to defend fairness and uphold the values that make Texas strong.

Brittney Womack
Self
Grapevine, TX

Texas does not want redistricting! This is blatant cheating. Last time I checked the representatives were elected by the people and work for the people. Not the corrupt pediphile president , Donald Trump. Texans have been abundantly clear through out these hearings that we are against this outright power grab to gerrymander our state any further. Cheaters never prosper and neither will you if you choose to continue this route. The people will come for you and vote your cowardly butts out of office either way! Don’t mess with Texas!!

JORGE IBARRA
self
El Paso, TX

I Oppose Redistricting for Texas Election 2026. It Does Not Represent All Texas Residents. Minorities Will Be Left Out of their Right of Voting.

Katie Miller
Self
Austin, TX

As a lifelong Texan, am outraged by the Republican Party's brazen attempt to rig elections through HB 4's redistricting scheme at the behest of Donald Trump. This is not just partisan politics—it is a deliberate effort to silence communities of color, dismantle fair representation, and entrench GOP power at the expense of our democracy. This move is both duplicitous and unconstitutional.

This deliberate move to further disenfranchise Texas voters and dilute the voting power of diverse communities across Texas is appalling and a disgrace to the rich history and cultures that make Texas a state I am proud to call my home. We are a land of many people, many voices, and many lived experiences... And this beautiful tapestry of diversity is one of the many things that makes Texas an inviting home to so many.

By creating this political division and caving in to the demands of a fascist dictator, we are creating a dangerous path forward—not just across Texas, but across the country as other states promise to retaliate to this deliberate interference in the will of the people.

Furthermore, I strongly believe that HB 4 is in direct violation of the Voting Rights Act, and that moving forward with this bill will embroil the state in a costly legal battle that will be financed at the expense of Texas taxpayers and in lieu of more beneficial state-wide programs that support Texans. Fiduciary responsibility dictates that we not launch ourselves into a known controversy at the expense of taxpayers. A new map that is redrawn after a census and in accordance with population results would be more appropriate, but this must uphold the Voting Rights Act and not seek to strip power away from any one party across the state. Rather, redistricting must be done in a way that is fair to the people of Texas.

At this point, HB 4 goes beyond gerrymandering and into voter suppression, and I cannot support any piece of legislation that would strip power away from people and further disenfranchise the voters of Texas. As such, I vehemently stand in opposition to HB 4.

Emma Jane Hopper
self
Austin, TX

Texas lege should be focused on flood prevention and marijuana regulations, not “finding seats” for an incompetent and unpredictable president. Yall ought to start doing your jobs and looking out for your constituents, instead of trying to take advantage of us.

Laura Wiggs
Self
Houston, TX

Redrawing district lines to advantage a political party is not the democracy our forefathers had in mind. Democracy is preserved without gerrymandering.

D'Arcy Randall
Self/Retired
Austin, TX

As a Texas resident for 35 years, I write to oppose the mid-decade redistricting plan. At the very least, redistricting now wastes our time during a crisis. All over the state, Texans who lost loved ones during the July 4 floods are in shock. Those of us who are their friends and colleagues, grieve with them and examine what went so wrong. We're learning that the disasters were caused by failures on the federal, state, and local levels. We want to see the state do its part for flood relief, prevention, and effective warning systems now. Instead, suffering Texans are shoved aside because of demands to accept a new district map that is outrageously gerrymandered.

The new map will drive Texans even further apart than they are now. Specialists on redistricting explain that gerrymandering effectively disenfranchises voters, which leads to deep resentment. I felt this resentment myself, when, after a redistricting, I lost my Representative and found myself in a new district led by someone far away who did not share my values. This situation differs from that of voting for a candidate who lost: I can accept my community's decision, even if I disagree. But having my district changed for no good reason effectively silenced me. Although my district was eventually restored, I felt its fragility.

The worst feature of the new map is that it will silence thousands of black and brown Texans whose districts will be cracked and diluted, reviving terrible histories of discrimination and racism. As legal experts here have warned, this disenfranchisement of minority Texans is arguably unconstitutional. Don't allow yourselves to be used. I urge you to drop this plan while you still can.

Monoca Sledge
Self
Austin, TX

This has nothing to do with the interests of the people who desire to have a voice and deserve representation that matters. This is the blatant erasure of voices for the solidification of power status ensuring the wealthiest keep their thumbs on the scale. There is clear opposition to the current administration and how it has caused chaos and confusion, but this is a brazen move to eliminate any attempt at accountability. Redistricting for the purpose of blindly bulldozing programs for extra padding in bank accounts that will take away medicine, food, housing, education, and resources from the who need it is not what Americans want. We want a country that looks after us when we participate in funding the inner workings of this union. Redistricting makes it harder to fairly and justly represent the people you serve by playing favorites. That is the America of an oligarchy run by authoritarian. That is not what our Constitution nor Bill of Rights stands for.

Annie Boyer
Self
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to this attempt to redraw maps in a clear and pointed move to add 5 more Republican House seats. This is an illegal power play to silence the voices of Texans at the voting booth for the upcoming midterm elections.

Time during this special session should be spent on disaster recovery efforts following the recent flooding. The immediate shift in focus to redrawing maps is a slap in the face to the Texas communities who were torn apart by the flooding. Texas deserves better from its legislature.

Clarissa Gonzalez
self Laredo, TX

REJECT

Robin Hayes, Eastland County Chair
Christian, Conservative, Republicans
Eastland, TX

As an active citizen, I urge the Texas Legislature to approve HB4. The current districts drawn in 2021 followed the flawed 2020 Census which officials have acknowledged significantly undercounted several states, including Texas, while overcounting others. Further, recent court decisions including the U.S. Fifth Circuit's 2024 ruling in the Petteway v. Galveston County established that districts based on "coalitions" of minority groups are not protected by the Voting Rights Act. It is time to correct the error of 2021, pass HB4, and restore fair Congressional seat representation in Texas. Thank you.

Denise Wilborn
Self/Educator
Houston, TX

I have been watching this hearing on line most of the day from Houston. Those of you on the select committee hanging in there, thank you. I do understand you may have other work to do. As one of your recent speakers said, "Y'all have heard it all today form those of us against this bill." Be Texans! Not puppets. In the Houston hearing on the 26th one speaker mentioned that "Texas" comes from a word meaning 'friend.'" Its my understanding it comes from the Caddo word Tejas. While the history of how indigenous peoples in Texas and across the country mistreated, the concept of friend can be reclaimed! Communities can remain together until after the 2030 census so a more intentional and humanitarian redistricting - across jurisdictions - can happen. Disruption for the sake of disruption, while the method of the day, is not for the people of Texas. It is for the one man currently in the office of the presidency who fears Texas because we an and do vote for the common good and not for the singular power grab of one man. Vote against this map from unknown sources. Thank you. dlw

Maria Lugo, Mrs
self Health Center Manager
Watauga, TX

I am completely against this redistricting

Renee Conley
Self
Austin, TX

I am a concerned Texan from Austin (78729). I'm writing to voice my strong opposition to the proposed congressional redistricting in Texas. I believe redistricting will disproportionately harm communities of color and common interests in our state. When I originally submitted my opposition, the maps were not yet available for review. At that time, I did not realize that my area would be impacted. I am in District 37 represented by Congressman Llyod Doggett. Based on the drawn maps, his seat and the seat of Greg Casar will possibly become one district. This change will not serve the people of central Texas (Austin to San Antonio) well.
Redistricting must be fair, transparent, and representative of the diversity of Texas. Diluting the voices of urban, rural, Black, Latino, Asian, and Indigenous voters is not only morally wrong, it's unconstitutional. Current district maps are drawn in a way that Texas voices are splintered. Maps drawn from urban areas down to rural or valley areas do not serve the constituents who live in the different areas. The commonality is that we are all Texans. However, the different areas of Texas have different needs and interests. The differences between communities are too great!
Texas is currently a majority minority state. The Texas population is approximately 40% white. However, white representatives hold approximately 80% of the seats. How can this be? Gerrymandering! The Civil Rights Act of 1965 required Texas along with some other states to be monitored because of the discriminatory practices of the state around the right of black voters. The court made the mistake of relaxing and removing the oversight authority. Seventy years later, we are back in a position where Texas is seeking to silence, marginalize, and suppress the minority vote.
The current redistricting push is not coming from a request made by Texans. The "need" for redistricting is not based on factual data of population changes. The push is coming from Washington, D.C. I urge you to stand up for all Texans and for democracy. Do not move forward with redistricting. Protect equitable representation for all Texans by opposing any redistricting plan that marginalizes minority communities.
Please listen to the voices and of those you represent -Texans! Do not be swayed by Washington politicians who do not have the best interest of Texas at heart. Stand tall and proud for our state! Please do not bend to weaponized power to gain temporary political favor.

Stuart Stutzman
Self - School bus driver
Richardson, TX

I am vehemently against this bill. We should not be redrawing our district maps just because Trump is afraid. This is bad for texas and will end up harming our state in the near and far future.

Sade Rauch
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I strongly oppose House Bill 4 as currently proposed. This bill represents a blatant attempt at partisan gerrymandering designed to manipulate the electoral process for political gain, not to ensure fair representation for the people of Texas.
Texas is one of the most diverse states in the country, with rapidly growing Black, Latino, and Asian populations. However, HB 4 fails to reflect this demographic reality. Instead, it redraws congressional maps in a way that weakens the voting power of communities of color, particularly in South Texas, Austin, Houston, and the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. By targeting minority-heavy districts currently held by Democrats, the bill dilutes the influence of voters who deserve full and fair representation in Congress.
Moreover, the process behind HB 4 has lacked transparency and accountability. The maps were released suddenly, with minimal public notice and no opportunity for robust community input or meaningful debate. This approach undermines trust in our democratic institutions and disrespects the right of Texans to participate in decisions that directly impact their representation.
HB 4 also runs afoul of the principles set forth in the Voting Rights Act, which prohibits redistricting efforts that result in the disenfranchisement of minority voters. The proposed maps appear to prioritize partisan outcomes over compliance with federal law, and they invite costly legal challenges that Texas taxpayers should not have to fund.
Redistricting should be about fair representation not partisan advantage. Lawmakers should be drawing maps that reflect the actual population and its interests, not using the redistricting process as a political weapon. I urge members of the House Select Committee to reject HB 4 in its current form and instead develop a map that respects the will of the people, protects communities of interest, and upholds the integrity of our elections.
Texans deserve a democracy that works for everyone not just for those in power.

John Nicks
Self - Concerned Citizen
Houston, TX

I am a resident of present-day CD18. I am strongly AGAINST this bill that gerrymanders my district and others in Houston and across Texas. We need to fix the FLOODING first, expand Medicaid, and stop bowing down whatever Trump wants. This is going to hurt the lives of people in, especially when their congressman doesn't match the values of the neighborhood that they serve. My CD-18 has had awesome and great leaders like the late Barbara Jordan, Shelia Jackson Lee, and Sylvester Turner. We need to end gerrymandering and any efforts of mid-district redistricting and fix the flooding in the Hill Country and Expand Medicaid.

Thank you.

Minami Krembs
Self, Student
Austin, TX

Dear Representatives, my name is Minami Krembs and I am a third-year Economics student at the University of Texas. I am writing to you to express my opposition to the Congressional maps being proposed for adoption because of its negative impact on students and other Texans living in Central Austin.

From my dormitory, it takes me about eight minutes to walk to the Bullock Texas State History Museum. The total distance is 0.4 miles. Yet, the proposed map places the Bullock Museum in a different Congressional district than the University of Texas campus, despite them only being separated by one street. The Bullock Museum, along with most of Downtown Austin, is now supposed to share the same Congressman (TX-10) as Huntsville, Livingston, and the Davy Crockett National Forest.

The same can be said for the post office I use (a thirteen minute walk away), one of my favorite coffee shops (a fifteen minute walk away) and the Texas State Capitol (a nineteen minute walk away). To me, it is absurd that I can walk a few blocks in the middle of the fifth largest city in Texas and end up in the same Congressional district as small towns 180 miles away. Many UT students also live in the parts of Austin designated to be a part of Congressional District 10. If these maps pass, starting in August I will most likely have classmates who live within walking distance of me who are now represented by a different Congressman. If one of you entered the Capitol Grounds through the East entrance and exited through the West entrance, you will have traveled between two Congressional Districts.

The intention behind single-member congressional districts and periodic redistricting is to keep communities together and ensure that every voter is represented as equally as possible. The proposed map splits neighbors, colleagues, and classmates and dilutes the representation of Central Austin voters. I urge you to vote against House Bill 4, this proposed map and any other new maps.

Megan Collins
Self
Austin, TX

Please stop this bill. Texas is a large state, making districts stretch the length of it is just absurd.

Diana Aguirre
Self
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose House Bill 4 as currently proposed. This bill represents a blatant attempt at partisan gerrymandering designed to manipulate the electoral process for political gain, not to ensure fair representation for the people of Texas.
Texas is one of the most diverse states in the country, with rapidly growing Black, Latino, and Asian populations. However, HB 4 fails to reflect this demographic reality. Instead, it redraws congressional maps in a way that weakens the voting power of communities of color, particularly in South Texas, Austin, Houston, and the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. By targeting minority-heavy districts currently held by Democrats, the bill dilutes the influence of voters who deserve full and fair representation in Congress.
Moreover, the process behind HB 4 has lacked transparency and accountability. The maps were released suddenly, with minimal public notice and no opportunity for robust community input or meaningful debate. This approach undermines trust in our democratic institutions and disrespects the right of Texans to participate in decisions that directly impact their representation.
HB 4 also runs afoul of the principles set forth in the Voting Rights Act, which prohibits redistricting efforts that result in the disenfranchisement of minority voters. The proposed maps appear to prioritize partisan outcomes over compliance with federal law, and they invite costly legal challenges that Texas taxpayers should not have to fund.
Redistricting should be about fair representation not partisan advantage. Lawmakers should be drawing maps that reflect the actual population and its interests, not using the redistricting process as a political weapon. I urge members of the House Select Committee to reject HB 4 in its current form and instead develop a map that respects the will of the people, protects communities of interest, and upholds the integrity of our elections.
Texans deserve a democracy that works for everyone not just for those in power.

Ann Tornyos, Mrs.
Self
Bellaire, TX

I am for redistributing

I support redistricting Texas's as proposed by the Republicans.

Kyle Buckley, Ms
Self - Social Worker/Policy Director
San Antonio, TX

I am in strong opposition to the proposed map. This map would silence the voices of countless individuals, particularly in communities of color and underserved, under-resourced areas. As elected officials, it is your duty to represent the needs and welfare of your constituents. Silencing votes to sway political power is unethical and wrong. Please do right by your constituents and reject this bill to allow for the voters' voices to be heard and to preserve the democracy our forefathers fought for.

Jacobo Anzaldua
self
Mission, TX

I am deeply concerned about this redistricting proposal. This effort is a clear case of gerrymandering, aimed at diluting the voting power of minority populations. It is evident that GOP lawmakers are attempting to usurp power and undermine democratic process.

Fair representation is essential for all citizens. I urge lawmakers to reject this proposal and commit to a transparent and nonpartisan redistricting process that accurately reflects the diverse population of Texas. It is time to prioritize the integrity of our electoral system over partisan interests, and ensure that everyone has an equal voice.

Texas for ALL, not for some.

Marston Meador
self
Carrollton, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I oppose any mid-decade redistricting. I oppose any redistricting that does not result in fair representation for all Texans. Texas has a long history of racial gerrymang and discriminatory voting practices, so I urge you to prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided, thereby weakening their political voice.

Lawmakers should have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps, protect minority voting rights, and respect county lines, city boundaries, and communities of interest. A rushed 30-day special session packed with unrelated agenda items is not the way to achieve this.

Flood recovery efforts and the safety of Texans should be the top priority, not redrawing political maps.

Emily Fischels
Self
League City, TX

I want to express my EXTREME objection to the passing of this redistricting bill.

Louis Coldwell
Self
Georgetown, TX

Against this. I would rather our money go to flood victims.

Kerry Gardner
Self - teacher
El Paso, TX

Dear Members of the House Select Committee on Congressional Redistricting,

I strongly oppose the newly proposed congressional map that removes major portions of El Paso County—including Fort Bliss, the El Paso International Airport, and the new Veterans Affairs Health Care Center—from our local district and places them into a sprawling district that stretches from San Antonio to the Borderland.

This change would strip El Pasoans of meaningful local representation by transferring critical assets to a district with vastly different priorities and competing demands from 27 other counties. Fort Bliss, the airport, and the VA Center—each essential to our region—would now have to compete for federal and state resources with two other major military installations, undermining our community's ability to advocate effectively for veterans, military families, and infrastructure needs.

Worse yet, these assets would fall under the purview of a representative who has consistently voted against El Paso's interests, including cuts to Medicare, Medicaid, veterans programs, nutrition services, infrastructure, and clean water funding. El Paso deserves leadership that is present, engaged, and directly accountable—not someone based 500 miles away in San Antonio.

This proposal is a repeat of the deeply flawed 2021 map that El Pasoans successfully fought to overturn. We've already made it clear: our community should not be carved apart or treated as an afterthought. Representation should be local, reflective of our unique needs, and committed to advocating for our future.

I urge the committee to reject this map and keep El Paso intact within a congressional district that ensures responsive, fair, and local representation. Our voices matter—and we will continue to raise them until our community is respected and heard.

Audrey VonBorstel
Self, Speech-language Pathologist
Houston, TX

There is no justification for this congressional redistricting. It is unnecessary, confusing to voters and will cause the state to waste time and money during the special session – only to later waste more time and money in litigation over whatever maps are proposed. Please stop this pointless work and these unjust maps.

Sarah Nuelle
self
Austin, TX

Gerrymandering is no way to rule a country. This is a shameful attempt at a power grab occurring when these district lines would not otherwise be altered. Our Founding Fathers are rolling in their graves at this heinous proposition.

Michelle Scherer
Self
San Antonio, TX

The current attempt to redistrict in Texas is unnecessary and a waste of time; redistricting was completed in 2021, after the 2020 census. Texas legislators should spend any special session prioritizing flood mitigation, mental health in schools, and a host of other issues important to the safety and wellbeing of Texans, NOT re-drawing maps behind closed doors with no requirement for transparency, public input, or fair representation. We deserve a redistricting process that is both transparent and accessible. Please do the job Texans elected you to do instead of engaging in an anti-democratic mid-decade redistricting process driven by special interests.

Hector Garcia, Mr.
Myself
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose any further redrawing of the Texas congressional map. This process has already been used to dilute the voting power of communities of color and silence fair representation. The current map does not reflect the state's population growth or diversity—instead, it serves partisan interests over the will of the people. Redistricting should protect democracy, not manipulate it. Any new changes must be based on transparency, public input, and respect for the Voting Rights Act—not political gain.

Michael Cramer
self
Pflugerville, TX

Texas completed its redistricting in 2021 using the most recent Census data. Yet, national political leaders—led by former President Donald Trump—are now pressing for a second, off-cycle redraw, not to reflect population changes but to shore up fading partisan advantages. Calling lawmakers back just one week after catastrophic floods devastated communities across our state sends a troubling message: political maneuvering is being prioritized over urgent disaster relief.

Mid-decade redistricting is neither routine nor necessary. It is a calculated attempt to entrench power and undermine fair representation. The 30-day timeframe set for this special session has no built-in requirements for transparency, public testimony, or independent review. Texans deserve an open, accessible process that results in maps reflecting the true diversity of our state.

I respectfully urge you to:

- Oppose any rushed attempt at mid-decade redistricting.
- Advocate for full transparency and public input—including multiple public hearings across the state and the release of proposed maps well in advance of any vote.
- Prioritize disaster relief and other pressing legislative needs over unnecessary redistricting efforts.

Our democracy works only when the electoral maps are drawn fairly and openly. Please stand with your constituents by rejecting this power grab and insisting on a process that puts Texans first.

Thank you for your service and for considering my views. I would appreciate knowing how you plan to address this issue.

Sujatha Srikanth
Self
Sugar Land, TX

Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As representatives and members of the South Asian American community across Texas, I write to express my unequivocal opposition to the proposed mid-decade congressional redistricting map released for consideration in the special session.
South Asian Texans constitute one of the most rapidly expanding demographic groups in the state. We are proud contributors to Texas's robust economy—operating businesses, advancing medicine, engineering infrastructure, educating future generations, and serving across a multitude of sectors. Beyond our economic contributions, we are deeply engaged citizens who actively participate in the democratic process through voting, organizing, and civic leadership. Our families are firmly rooted in Texas, investing in its future and insisting upon representation that reflects our communities and values.
Texas should serve as a model of democratic integrity, distinguished by leadership that truly reflects the will and diversity of its people. Our democracy flourishes through the collective empowerment of those who call this state home. It is incumbent upon elected officials to ensure that representation mirrors the authentic geographic, social, and cultural realities of our communities—where we live, work, and raise our families. This principle forms the very foundation of a just and vibrant democracy.
The current proposal to redraw district boundaries mid-decade, absent compelling justification and prior to the resolution of ongoing litigation related to the 2021 maps, is both reckless and indefensible especially when the author was not issued a subpoena to defend the map.

Such an endeavor constitutes a brazen attempt to manipulate electoral outcomes under the guise of procedural necessity. It threatens to fracture cohesive communities and dilute the political influence of growing populations while eroding public trust in our electoral system.
We stand in resolute solidarity with all Texans whose communities face disenfranchisement, particularly in counties such as Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant. The subversion of fair representation anywhere imperils the democratic integrity of the entire state.
This proposed redistricting map is especially ill-timed, occurring amid significant statewide challenges—ranging from natural disaster recovery to escalating economic hardships. Texas deserves governance focused on substantive solutions rather than divisive political stratagems.
In light of these concerns, we urgently call upon you to rescind this ill-conceived redistricting map and redirect legislative efforts toward addressing the pressing needs of all Texans. The health of our democracy depends upon transparency, accountability, and a steadfast commitment to equitable representation that honors the diversity and dynamism of communities like ours.

John Gonzalez, Dr.
self educator
Austin, TX

HB 4 is a textbook case of gerrymandering for partisan political advantage rather than true democratic representation. There is no reason to redraw congressional districts at mid-term other than to rig the 2026 elections. HB 4 should be voted down and vetoed if somehow approved.

Victor M. Renteria, Mr
SELF
El Paso, TX

Texas AND Texas legislators should exercise their rights to representation, voting rights, voting procedures AND requirements based on the needs of Texas without any coercion, pressure, or promises of funding rewards from any person or source NOT LEGALLY recognized as having voting rights OR residency within the state boundaries of the State of Texas. Our legislators should make every ethical effort to make the privilege of voting as fair AND equal for every voter of every precinct/district without favoring any political party or demographic group. The Texas legislature should do everything possible to keep AND improve America's image AND reputation as the World's Leading Democracy.

Shawn Boyd
Self
Oak Point, TX

This bill further dilutes my voice in Congress. It disenfranchises my right to have my community heard.

Kerry Huffman
Self - Retired
Frisco, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. It is a very fair redistricting map and provides for the proper representation of US Representatives from Texas.

Breanna White
Self / Business Owner
Georgetown, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Rebecca Guerrero
El Paso
El Paso, TX

I strongly opposed the redistricting of Texas. This plan will diminish the voting power and voice of El Paso, a majority Hispanic community. It is no secret why this plan has been proposed by this administration. As an El Pasoan I cannot sit idly by while my community's voice is taken away through unjust redistricting.

Aurelie Miles, Ms
Self retired
Arlington, TX

Pass it!

Nicholas Lloyd
Self
Baytown, TX

The old district map looked very gerrymandered and this one looks the same. I feel like my vote and the votes of the people in my community are being underrepresented because we're tied into a district that does not represent us. I believe this is extremely undemocratic and would our Texas congress persons to re-examine why they are supposed to be here. Please. Do the right thing

Chelsey Brimer
Self
Austin, TX

No redistricting should be done at this time. It is mid-decade and a complete waste of time and tax dollars. This attempt to steal power from the people to give to one person at the top is not democracy. It’s authoritarianism. This is not the United States. This is not Texas. You have forgotten that if you actually care for your constituents, you will get voted back in without having to cheat. Your job is to make the lives of all Texans better. Your job is not to take orders from billionaires and a wannabe dictator. Stop this ridiculous attempt by the president to control Texans. Stop pandering to the elites and care fore the 99% of us that just want to afford food, travel around our beautiful, diverse state, and live a peaceful life. Focus on caring for the flood victims and ensuring the safety of TEXANS moving forward. Redistricting is a distraction from actual work that needs to be done for your constituents. Get to work, NO on HB 4

Sandy Hernandez
Self/Psychotherapist
El Paso, TX

This redistricting is highly concerning and does not serve Texas voters. Fort Bliss has Always been a Vital part of El Paso going back to World War 2 and before. This is nothing short of voter suppression and control. I urge you to listen to the Texas Voters! We will continue to vehemently oppose!

Michelle Hoggatt
Self
AMARILLO, TX

I believe that voting is both a privilege and a civic responsibility. I have been a VDR for 3 years, and I spend a lot of time helping people in my community get registered. I talk to many people about why voting is important, and one thing I always tell them is that their vote is their opportunity to have their voice heard. However, now that I have seen the proposed maps, I will have to change what I tell people. This map shows a blatant power grab, a cynical disregard for voters' voices, and, most disturbing, a willingness on the part of Texas Republicans to give up principles to bow to the current regime. This map appears to be racially biased as well. It is obvious that the majority of this legislature doesn't want voters to have a voice. I have a hard time understanding how any elected official, anyone who says they "represent" their district could support these bizarre new districts. These districts have been drawn with no thought for constituents; instead, the people in these districts are clearly viewed solely as numbers/statistics. I see the polls, so I understand why this regime is so focused on skewing districts to retain power as their policies are decidedly unpopular. Perhaps spending time on listening to constituents and then crafting policies that reflect the needs of those constituents would be better than spending time solely on efforts to scam the system to retain power. It is also ridiculous that this Republican controlled legislature is working to redraw maps that they drew only four years ago. I have seen the DOJ letter, but I have also seen the testimony by state officials in the current court case that argues the opposite, so I understand that there is no real reason for redistricting in the middle of the 10 year cycle. To summarize, I oppose this redistricting as it suppresses voters' voices. I support democracy, not a party!

Walter Allred
Self
Chandler, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Tami Esson
Self
Austin, TX

Dear legislators- I am writing to remind you that at some point, each and every one of you took an oath to follow the laws of our constitution, where everyone has the right to vote and where the elected legislators represent what their constituents want, not ignoring their constituents to push for their own agenda. This type of redistricting is unlawful, and eliminates the laws of the constitution that call for a fair election. Our democracy is being dismantled one law at a time, enabling our administration and a man with undiagnosed narcissistic personality disorder to make rational decisions for our country. But you hold the power in your hands to prevent that from happening by allowing Texans to decide what's best for them. So I implore you to do what you know is ethically right, and stand up to the corrupt legislatures like Abbott and Paxton and show us all how strong you can be by standing up against them. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Siobhan Nope
Self, entrepreneur
Plainview, TX

OPPOSE redistricting.

Elizabeth Bassimakopoulos, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

No to redistricting. This does not fairly show the will of the people. People
In all sections of Texans deserve to be represented even if we don’t agree on politics. Please do right by Texans. No to redistricting. Manipulating political maps is an unjust way to wield power.

Anne McCready Heinen, MS
self, retired
Austin, TX

Stop the power grab gerrymandering move in Texas. As a Texas resident, I am appalled by the politically motivated proposal to redraw districts here. Let's focus on what's important -- like emergency response improvement, flood warning systems, and health care for all.

Lynn O'Meara
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Sally Severson
SELF Ennis, TX

There is no doubt that voter demographics have changed and our state voting map needs to reflect that.

Carl Kalbfleisch
True Texas Project (TTP@Home Denison Leader)
Denison, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. I believe it is important to update the district maps to more accurately reflect the solid conservative mandate sent in the last election. Redistricting is completely legal. And should be done. Thank you for your consideration.

Alex Robinson
Self
Austin, TX

Please vote FOR the proposed redistricting map to better reflect Texas voters and not be disenfranchised.

Lonnie Heslep Sr
self Axtell, TX

I support HB 4 in it’s current proposal

Brandon Davis
Self
Fort worth, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Debra Rowe
Self
Austin, TX

In a true democracy, the interests of the people are reflected in what is happening in their local neighborhoods. Trying to tie Canyon Creek in Northwest Austin to communities in Odessa and San Angelo is a blatant power grab to satisfy Donald Trump in a state which already has a super majority of Republican representatives.

Scott Hillegass
Self
Temple, TX

I strongly support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. This is great for Texas, and more aligns with the demographics of the state. Please pass HB4!

Suzanne McAnna, Ms
self, retired
Austin, TX

The plan to impose a mid-decade redistricting map on Texas in order to do the bidding of a corrupt and incompetent President and increase Republican power in the US House of Representatives is outrageous.
Court challenges to the most recent changes from the 2020 census have not even been resolved yet. What happened to fair representation? What happened to citizens' rights to vote for people who will truly represent their values and opinions? We need fair maps that reflect the preferences of the people of Texas. This combination of racial and partisan gerrymandering, shored up by Texas's long-standing dedication to voter suppression measures and changes to make voting harder, is nothing like democracy. I currently vote in District 37 in Austin. My understanding of the new maps is that I may fall into a less blue district based in San Antonio. Or elsewhere! I also understand that a number of Republican voters may be dispersed into districts that have been more blue: is this even fair to these voters?
The point of representative democracy is for voters to choose who represents them—not for representatives to pick and choose voters solely in order to cement their majorities, and disenfranchise people who do not agree with them. This is disgusting. If the Texas Legislature cares anything about the people of Texas, you will abandon this effort.

Lori Mayfield
Self
AUSTIN, TX

Stop gerrymandering!

Mildred Bailes
self, Registered Nurse
Epaso, TX

No more gerrymandering from the state of Texas. Everyone deserves equal representation not political games. This represents everything that's wrong with this country right now. ElPaso and the citizens who live here deserve better and have a right to expect transparency and honesty from elected officials. its those citizens that put you people in the position you are in and you are accountable to them. Perhaps there are elected official in this state that have no business being there. It's sure beginning to look like it.

Valerie Tamburri
Self
Elgin, TX

Stop trying to create unfair elections through redistricting.

Greg Dorsey, Mr
Real Estate
Humble, TX

Stop cheating

Gillian Ruth Hill, Mrs
Self
Houston, TX

I am firmly opposed to this redistricting effort.The Texas Legislature should be focusing on establishing the necessary regulations and support to prevent flooding and deaths which just occurred. You should not be making a mockery of democracy with these shameful gerrymandering voting maps. Please stop this pointless waste of your time making unjust maps and manipulation of voters. It’s just not right.

Jennifer Jaques self nonprofit membership manager
San Marcos, TX

Redistricting to promote one party over the other, separating regions for the convenience of a single party, is wrong.

laura garanzuay
Self
Austin, TX

Trump and Abbott trying to subdue democracy by insulating themselves from the will of the people through redistricting. Changing the rules of the game mid-way is cheating. We the people are tired of the corruption. Democracy must prevail!

Maureen Saval, Ms
self
Leander, TX

I oppose any mid-decade redistricting, especially while the current maps are still being challenged in court. Texans have the right to fair and equal representation that's achieved through a thoughtful, transparent process that allows meaningful public input. Lawmakers should have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps, protect minority voting rights, and respect county lines, city boundaries, and communities of interest. A rushed 30-day special session packed with unrelated agenda items is not the way to achieve this. Texans deserve to have a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and results in equal representation for all, not this rushed and deeply flawed process. Flood recovery efforts and the safety of Texans should be the top priority, not redrawing political maps.

Brian Murphy
self, retired
El Paso, TX

I propose a vote in Congress for a special mid-decade ballot measure vote by constituents in the proposed areas for redistricting. I have also requested a similar request through the El Paso District 77. As the U.S. House of Representatives each passed as bipartisan the Freedom to Vote Act & John Lewis Voting Rights Act—the former including Texas Representative Brian Babin's Yea with 13 other Republicans, and from 50-year history of discrimination lawsuits now pending from MALDEF & NAACP, wait
A vote will help confirm to our respective members in the Texas Special Congressional Redistricting Committee the constituents' will for the Senators to make leadership decisions, and it also serves as a partial census in tallying the number of eligible voters who vote—of whom I suspect many will have great interest to compel their viewpoint as many testified in the available committee sessions in the past week, and most statements were from El Paso with disagreement over either the current districting as not representative to the intent of the taxes we provide or the rumors that now show a similar plan of diluting the one, unique voice of El Paso County.
Having the official prospective redistricting map on the congressional website, is essential to help the voters make informed decisions.

Lynn Antoniono
Self
Austin, TX

The attempt of Republicans redistricting at this very time is unethical and waste our hard-earned tax dollars.

Abbott put redistricting on a special session agenda is clearly an attempt to STEAL the midterms.

Voted Republican for 40 years, but could never again in good faith when you pull things like this!

How about working on good policies, so you can win, because of that; instead of, wrangling your numbers dishonestly.

Dennis Gipson
Self
Arlington, TX

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed mid-decade redrawing of Texas's congressional districts currently being advanced by state Republicans.

This so-called special redistricting session, called by Governor Greg Abbott at the urging of former President Trump, proposes to shift the state map from 25 to 30 safely Republican seats before the 2026 midterms—an extraordinary attempt to rewrite the rules in the GOP's favor before the 2030 census .

This plan poses serious threats to democratic integrity and fairness:

Racial vote dilution: Four of the five new GOP-targeted districts are majority-Hispanic, raising concerns under the Voting Rights Act about unfair dilution of Latino and Black votes .

Undemocratic mid-decade redistricting: Redistricting typically occurs once per decade after the census. Doing so now sets a dangerous precedent for partisan manipulation in future election cycles .

Targeting Democratic incumbents: The proposed map would merge districts held by Reps. Greg Casar and Lloyd Doggett in Central Texas, and redraw seats in Austin, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, and South Texas to favor Republicans—effectively silencing communities that lean heavily toward Democratic representation .

Although proponents claim the new layout improves "compactness" or minority representation, these adjustments appear strategically designed to consolidate Democratic voters into fewer districts—weakening their influence where it matters most. Critics argue the plan is a clever partisan gerrymander posing risks of legal action and long-term political instability .

Texas Democrats and civil rights advocates are already pursuing every legal and procedural recourse available—including public hearings, quorum-breaking tactics, and federal litigation—to block this power grab. While Republican lawmakers may argue that technical compliance with legal standards has been maintained, earlier courts have repeatedly struck down maps in Texas for racial gerrymandering and violations of the Voting Rights Act .

In defense of fair and inclusive representation, I urge:

1. The legislature withdraw or defeat this map until after the next decennial census.

2. The creation of an independent, citizen-led redistricting commission (like HJR28 recently introduced) to draw maps transparently and free from partisan influence .

3. A commitment to uphold minority voting rights and prevent partisan manipulation of district boundaries.

4. Public accountability and engagement, including greater oversight of manipulation of legislative priorities during crises like the recent floods.

Democracy depends on fair access to representation. This effort undermines Texan voters by prioritizing partisan advantage over equitable and just political outcomes.

Jennifer Hallam
Self, teacher
Marble Falls, TX

Enough with the gerrymandering!! No more redistricting.

Stephanie Willis, Mrs.
self/teacher
Houston, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public educator in Harris County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Traci Vicente
Self
Dallas, TX

Just another attempt by the Republicans to rule not govern.

Patricia Parson, Mrs
self
The Colony, TX

Texas districts should not be manipulated so that only Republicans are represented. Minority input is an essential part of government. Calling a special election in Texas at the request of a person who has no business in the workings of the state government and when it is an attempt by a criminal national president to gain complete authoritarian control and power over the entire United States as well as ALL Texans is unacceptable! Please use rational thinking to do what is ethically and morally right for all the citizens of Texas. Draw redistricting lines that are fair and equitable and take EVERY citizen into consideration.

Angela Stahl Concerned Texans
Austin, TX

I doubt anyone in the Texas House will ever bother to read this public comment. Because I am fairly certain not a single member gives one fig leaf about any Texas resident. In a time where we have had one of the most deadly floods in the State this Bill takes up all the air and time in House. The only thing any of the Texas House cares about is staying in power. Having reviewed yet another UGLY, RACIST, GERRY-MANDERED Map that has nothing to do with fairly representing the good people of Texas. You all should be thoroughly ashamed of yourselves. Is supporting a lying rapist pedophile, corrupt thief and con man more important to you than the people of Texas? You dont even need to answer that because we all now the truth. Of course it is if it means you stay in power. You get to keep your tiny slice of pie while good decent Texans die from drowning, freezing to death and shooting. But thats OK because in your mind we dumb ignorant Texans will just squeeze out more babies you can allow to drown, freeze to death and get shot right? We are too stupid to understand the complexities of politics and how all of this is and should be in our best interests. I honestly dont know what I could possibly say to you that would hold any sway or influence either. You stopped listening to the people a long time ago. How do you reason with someone as apathetic and uncaring a Texas State politician. You have no honor.

Margaret Duran
Self Retired Medical Office Administrator
Corpus Christi, TX

Because I studied this issue when we redistricted the last time, I am saddened to see this is happening again in the middle of the decade. Please call a stop to this effort. If looks and smells like political chicanery and that the legislature is simply following President Trump's bidding. Democratic states are talking about doing the same. What a waste of time and money. Please devote yourselves to serious issues like security along the Guadalupe River and aid for the flooding victims. Stop the nonsense of political theatre. Texas needs a better look than this.

Corrine Thompson self/safety consultant
Austin, TX

I am submitting this public comment to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting bill. Governor Abbott is using the special session to push Trump's political agenda. This is a blatant power grab meant to dilute the voices of Texas's rapidly growing minority communities and progressive voters. This redistricting bill is bad for our democracy. It's not about fair representation; it's about rigging elections for political power. Redistricting usually happens every ten years after the census. Doing it now, in the middle of the decade, is driven by political reasons, not by real population changes. These new maps would lead to less competitive elections. When districts are drawn to guarantee a certain partisan outcome, it reduces voter choice and discourages civic participation. Texas deserves a transparent, non-partisan redistricting process that genuinely reflects our state's incredible growth and diversity. This bill represents the exact opposite. I urge you to reject this dangerous legislation and uphold the fundamental right of every Texan to have their vote count equally.

Donna Hoffman
Self, Teacher, Social Worker
Austin, TX

This rushed, unnecessary process launched while Texas' current maps are still being challenged in federal court. It is a blatant power grab, designed to dilute the voices of communities of color, suppress young and working-class voters, and redraw the rules to benefit those already in power. Honor the democratic process of fair and equal representation for all. Stop serving the billionaire and millionaire classes exclusively and serve the common good. Help set up a more fair system by overturning the earlier racist redistricting and establishing a slower, all inclusive and diverse process to honor communities. The whole world is watching. Stand up and be good.

John Gorczyk, Dr
Self- Archaeologist
Houston, TX

As a citizen of Texas I am against the proposed redistricting plan, which would further dilute the political power of marginalized communities. If the Republican Party, who has been in control of Texas for 30 years, is afraid of losing elections, let them come up with better policies that help working Texans, rather than stealing seats through redistricting. Texans claim to be fiercely independent—prove it by standing up to the federal government and refusing to sell out democracy in the Lone Star State.

Denise Doyle
AFT
Buda, TX

This is straight up CHEATING!! You are taking away many people's voices.
I am totally against this redistricting proposal!

Amy Richards PAVE
Hoiston, TX

This voting for this restricting bill will be complicit in the destruction of democracy. Power is intoxicating , and it is truly hard to do the right thing and provide fair representation. You will turn our power structure into a sham, a farce with no fairness at all. Perhaps you do not recall that the current districts were gerrymandered my republicans. In so many ways, this is to crush the weak and make them more powerless than they already are. Ask yourself: how is it with your soul? Vote no if it is intact

Joe Blanda
Self / Musician
Austin, TX

Dear Members of the Republican Party of Texas, I'm addressing you now as you come together to consider HB 4, related to the so-called "composition of the districts for the election of members of the United States House of Representatives from the State of Texas." Whatever you call it, this is a plan to eliminate all Brown, Black, and progressive Democratic voices currently representing Texas in the US House of Representatives, or at least as many as you can eliminate with this one piece of bad legislation.

Actually, this is yet another round of gerrymandering on top of many previous rounds in previous legislative sessions. There seems to be no limit to the Republican party's greedy grasping for power and inability to tolerate any voice or idea in opposition to your own. Having watched many a legislative session on the live cam provided at the House website, I can assure you that you are hardly as godlike and infallible as you think you are.

And now you aim to realign the voting districts of Texas, especially here in Central Texas where I live, so that I can no longer have a Representative who believes in the things I believe in and who responds kindly and with understanding whenever I write to him about my concerns.

HB 4 is plain damn wrong; it's also illegal. And you know that very well, yet you're bound and determined to carry it through because the President is demanding that Texas come to his aid in the next election. He fears, and rightly so, that a great number of Republicans will lose their seats in that election as a result of his many bad policies and executive orders, policies and orders that are despicable in their meanness and tragic in scope. If his poll numbers are now falling drastically, ask yourselves why . . . and for once be honest.

Therefore, you have been tasked with making sure the inevitable political retribution at the ballot box does not happen. It's a fool's errand, you know. Your fellow citizens aren't going to sit still for this blatant power grab. We are going to vote in overwhelming numbers to make sure we take back control of at least one branch of our government in order to restore balance to our political system, which is currently teetering on the brink of disaster, and to fend off further incursions upon our dignity and honor as a nation.

The President is taking a hatchet to the heart of Texas. I am encouraging you to not allow that to happen by voting against HB 4.

Joe Blanda
Austin, TX

Sheri Robbins, Dr.
Self
Grapevine, TX

I’m writing to urge you to reject this corrupt redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps.

Abbott is letting Trump control him while ignoring the real problems in our state. Please do everything in your power to fight back and put Texans first.

I strongly urge you to REJECT THIS PROCESS.

Elena Tovar
Self
El Paso, TX

As a elderly person who is still working here in my life long home town of El Paso, I am fully against the redistricting that is proposed for El Paso ! El Paso needs allof the help that our democratic representatives have accomplished. People need full representation not only to help the elderly but the poor and disadvantaged people of our beloved El Paso ! Our children which are our future in this great nation need to be represented by our own people, that live and thrive in our part of the state of Texas. Please do NOT Redraw our districts. Don't suppress us. Thank you for your time !

Samantha Packham
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am 100% against this redistricting. It is clearly a power grab for Trump by the Republicans. As a democrat in Texas it is endlessly frustrating to continue to be silence by my elected officials.

CARRIE PROCTOR
Self Licensed Professional Counselor
ROUND ROCK, TX

I am opposed to including redistricting as part of an "emergency or special" session. Redistricting must be a thoughtful process and not rushed. Texas voters should be informed and have input to ensure that all folks have adequate representation that understands and lives within their communities.

Ann Blessinger
District 18
Houston, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Harris County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Terri Hall
We the People - Liberty in Action
Kerrville, TX

To quote Charlie Kirk, "It's about time Republicans play hard ball," referring to the redistricting in Texas during the special. We like the map, pass it.

Lisa Newsom
Self
Granite Shoals, TX

Please do not inflict the racially biased gerrymandered map upon the Texas voters. Adhere to your oath to serve all Texans. Please respect voting rights and norms and discontinue serving special interest and OUT of STATE influences including the GOP party leads and the executive in DC. Serve Texas and Texans… all of us.

Kyle Akerman
Self - Chief of Staff
Austin, TX

Please vote against this bill. This is an absolutely horrifying abuse of power, and is clearly designed to eliminate the voting power of an enormous amount of Texans. I understand the impulse to try to treat politics like a game, but this is simply wrong. The proposed map doesn't make a bit of sense, it is cruel, and its disgusting that you want to weaken my ability to have any input as a voter by cutting me away from people who have similar ideas so we can't find a representative that serves us. If you do this, I will absolutely be voting in the republican primaries and I will absolutely vote for whichever republican does the best job of keeping us from making cruel and unlawful decisions like these ones. I know there are republicans that still love this country. Please be one of them.

Yvonne Guerra
Constituent/self
El Paso, TX

I want to express my opposition to the initiatives that are being undertaken to redistricting our area. I am extremely please with Ms. Escobar representation, because she reflects my values and political views.

Mary Day
Self/Self
Waller, TX

I approve of the TX Lege approving the proposed redistricting map.

Juan Flores
Latino Texas Policy Center
San Antonio, TX

The Latino Texas Policy Center opposes the Texas Special Legislative session revising our state's current congressional districts. Without question, redistricting proposals will be discriminatory against Latinos, African Americans, and low-income voters. The fact that the President of the United States demands and the Governor, Lt. Governor and legislature capitulates to an undemocratic undermining of civic voices and political representation is autocratic.

Any redistricting action taken will be simply gerrymandering at its worst. It will add to the documented history of Texas' discriminatory voter suppression practices. Instead of embracing voter civic engagement, the legislature builds on its legacy of poll taxes and English-only ballots to other creative voter intimidation through restrictive voter ID laws, purging of voter rolls, inconsistent voting language aid, and congressional and state redistricting gerrymandering.

Voter suppression must stop, and opposing congressional redistricting in the Legislative Special session is a beginning. The Special Session must focus it attention on assisting communities and families impacted by the recent devastating floods, and preventing their further occurrences.

Krista Snow
self (freelance small business consultant and native El Pasoan)
El Paso, TX

I strongly disagree with the redistricting of my city to be under the direction of anyone who doesn't reside in my city. I live in El Paso, TX. We are already the forgotten part of Texas as a low income minority demographic of over 85% hispanics and primarily democrat makeup. We are on the border and the issues at hand in our nation are critical to the people of our city. Our state is a red state. Our city is a primarily blue city. Our representative needs to represent the makeup of this city. It may not be Veronica Escobar but it definitely shouldn't be anyone who doesn't live here or care about our city. We are the people. Where is our voice?

Shannel Keller
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Shannel, an East Austin homeowner in the 78725 zip code. I am here to speak in strong opposition to Texas House Bill 4 and the proposed congressional redistricting map. This map is not a solution for Texans; it is a profound disservice that will only worsen the existing challenges we face.

My community is a testament to the failings of our current political priorities. Lifelong residents are being pushed out by unaffordable property tax bills. We are systematically disenfranchised not just by rising costs, but by a chronic lack of public services, such as the closest pharmacy being over nine miles away. This proposed map will only deepen these divides, diluting our voices and ensuring our needs remain unmet.

Our state legislature is busy drawing maps to secure more power for a single political party, while the real issues affecting our lives and safety are being ignored. We face:

Infrastructure failures, from a vulnerable power grid to roads and bridges in desperate need of repair.

A healthcare crisis, with one of the nation's most restrictive abortion bans that demonstrates a government more concerned with controlling a woman’s body than with protecting her life.

A public safety crisis, as evidenced by tragedies like Uvalde, where leaders have done nothing to regulate the guns that allowed for massacres.

An affordability crisis, where skyrocketing costs and property taxes are pushing families out of their homes.

A water quality crisis, particularly in East Austin's 78725 zip code, where many residents not served by the city’s utility report discolored and foul-smelling water. Tests have shown contaminants that exceed non-regulatory health guidelines, making clean, safe water a basic human right this body has failed to address.

The proposed redistricting map is not an attempt to create fair representation; it is an openly partisan maneuver. It is clear this legislature prioritizes a national political agenda over the well-being of its constituents. This redrawing is designed to dilute the voting power of communities of color and pack voters into uncompetitive seats—this is gerrymandering and voter suppression, plain and simple.

How can we think HB 4 is a priority when affordable food, shelter, and clean water are not even a priority for this governing body? I urge this committee to reject Texas HB 4 and this new map. We need politicians who will focus on the core issues that impact every Texan: protecting our families, strengthening our infrastructure, and ensuring access to essential services. It is time for our representatives to stop doing the bidding of a national figure and start serving the people who elected them. Thank you.

Ann Glenn
self
Austin, TX

My name is Ann Glenn, and I live in Austin, Congressional District 47. I strongly oppose HB 4 which proposes a mid-decade redistricting of Texas. The proposed map is a gerrymandering hoax. There is no reason that this should be done at this time. The map shows a one-sided, GOP favored in elections change in districts and reduces minority voters strength. It rampantly controverts the intent and stipulations of the Voting Rights Act and undermines representative democracy in the State of Texas. We need a fair, non-discriminatory map that reflects the communities and allows for fair and equal representation of the diverse populations in Texas. I urge you to focus on what is needed here in Texas regarding the recent July 4th flooding and not give into pressures from the Governor or President. We deserve better in Texas. Don't let Texas be a state that ignores the Constitution and becomes a party to destroy our democracy!!
Thank you for your understanding. I hope you can do the right thing and not bend to pressures from the President or the Governor.

Megan Getman
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the redrawing of the districts in Texas.

Heather Kennedy
Self - Homemaker
Dripping Springs, TX

I am opposed to this unprecedented, mid-cycle, partisan-gerrymandered redistricting. I am opposed to the people we elect taking marching orders from Donald Trump, rather than the people who voted for them. But I know the reality is that you will somehow push this bill through and give us ridiculous new districts that aren't remotely geographically cohesive. And I know we can (and will) take it to the courts, but you've already stacked the Supreme Court. So since I know you won't listen to me, or the 473 out of 512 people at today's hearing who have registered their Opposition, I'm left with this hope: it all backfires horribly for you. I hope that by the midterm elections, Trump/MAGA/GOP have angered so many Texans that you absolutely get crushed. And if y'all keep going the way you have been, I might get my wish. This move is a desperate ploy by a bunch of unpopular people acting from a place of weakness, because you know you can't win people over with your atrocious, hateful, anti-American, anti-democratic policies. Please come to your senses and give up this nonsense. Do something useful like fixing weather emergency alert systems or figuring out how to fairly regulate THC. Stop asking "How high?" when Daddy Donny tells you to jump.

Margaret Villari
"self" Occupation Actress
Fort worth, TX

People like me are already underrepresented and have been for over 20 years, and now you want more?! Millions of people in Texas feel more disenfranchised every day. I don't hate Republicans, but I sure hate what you're trying to do to gerrymander districts that are obviously Democratic territory. Why in the world do you want even more division in this state and in this country? It's truly heartbreaking how you could care less, as long as your emperor trump is happy. History will not look kindly upon those of you who cow down when you should be protecting our constitution! I'm so disappointed in you. i've voted Republican many times. Never again.

Linda Howell
Myself
Sugar Land, TX

I support this bill.
Please vote in favor of it.

Terry Parks
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. It is a blatant case of gerrymandering. Stop cheating and have some decency.

NoOne UKnow
Self
Lewisville, TX

First of all, I must comment on how brave the Texas House is during such a great time of oppression and dissent from our American People. Despite furious backlash and hate from fellow Texans who I thought were my friends and allies, you have followed in the instructions of our Supreme Leader Donald J. Trump and his companion J.D. Vance in successfully reorganizing the districts in Texas to ensure his mighty regime as King and Supreme Leader continue.

Your efforts will not go in vain. As immigrants are kidnapped left and right, as Texans die in the cold during the winters without our ERCOT (they were communist anyway), as trans folk leave the state in swaths because we decided they are the enemy (we don't need a reason to, they are also communist, surely), you have continued on your glorious path, just following orders from our Supreme Leader in a redistricting move done well before the next Census is taken. This is an unprecedented move, as I'm sure many of you are aware (no states have done so in the past, but because the Texas House and Senate is so obedient to the orders of Leader Trump, this WILL change!), but your unwavering loyalty and submission will be rewarded.

Do not let the communist backlash stop you. They are all undeniably communists, anyway. We hate everything communist, but this redistricting process will eliminate all communist influence and ensure the great Republican Party stays in power for centuries to come, just as our Supreme Leader would like. I like that we follow orders. I like how submissive we are. If Leader Trump asked me to shave my head today I would do so without hesitation, and it makes me feel validated knowing our great government would do the same without hesitation. If this were to pass, I expect every Texas Republican to throw up the Trump Salute done by Elon Musk (twice) during our great Leader's inauguration. Throw it up, and do it proudly. Hail Trump. Hail the Republicans. Show your pride, there is no reason to be afraid.

Sarah Fields
Self
Whitehouse, TX

I am writing in favor of HB 4.

Caitlin Coyner-Fernow
Self and Therapist
Pflugerville, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the current redistricting efforts in Texas.

Redistricting should ensure fair and equal representation for all Texans, but the current process fails to meet that standard. The proposed maps appear to be drawn in a way that intentionally weakens the voting power of communities of color, despite their significant population growth in recent years. This raises serious concerns about racial gerrymandering and potential violations of the Voting Rights Act.

Furthermore, the process has lacked transparency. Public input has been limited, and decisions seem to be made behind closed doors, with minimal accountability. This approach undermines public trust in our democratic institutions.

Partisan gerrymandering has also distorted fair representation. By manipulating district boundaries to favor one political party, the maps silence opposing voices and discourage competitive elections. This is not how democracy should function.

I urge the legislature to reject unfair and discriminatory maps, and instead adopt a redistricting process that is transparent, nonpartisan, and reflective of Texas's diverse population. Every voter deserves to have their voice heard and their vote count equally.

Sincerely,
Caitlin Coyner-Fernow
Pflugerville, TX-State District 46

Monika Varma
Self
Cypress, TX

This is not only wrong but a blatant show that the GOP is big government and about corruption more than representing its constituents. We can not support a team that is hurting the economy for the sake of their own corruption.

M Murphy
Self
Austin, TX

Opposing…
Texas's redistricting efforts are not grounded in fair representation—they are a deliberate strategy to entrench political power by suppressing the voices of communities of color.

The state defends its maps by citing population shifts and partisan strategy, but these claims mask a documented pattern of racial gerrymandering. Courts, including in Perez v. Abbott (2017), have found that Texas intentionally diluted the voting strength of Black and Latino communities in violation of the Constitution and the Voting Rights Act.

Yet despite repeated judicial findings, Texas legislators have faced no meaningful consequences. The revised maps continue to underrepresent communities of color—even as those communities account for the vast majority of the state's population growth. The rollback of federal oversight after Shelby County v. Holder has only emboldened discriminatory practices and further weakened accountability.

These actions are not just unlawful—they are corrosive to democracy. Texas's redistricting defense is a smokescreen for racially motivated disenfranchisement. Continued inaction enables voter suppression. It is imperative that courts, Congress, and the public reject these justifications and confront this gerrymandering for what it is: a calculated assault on equal representation.

Tena Worthy
self
Mckinney, TX

As a public school educator and proud union member in Collin County, I am deeply alarmed by the proposed mid-decade redistricting plan currently under consideration. This plan — which could result in the creation of up to five new congressional seats favoring the GOP — is nothing short of a blatant power grab.

Our state's rapid population growth over the last decade has been driven almost entirely by communities of color. Yet this proposal threatens to drown out their voices, dilute their representation, and undermine the democratic principle of fair and equal representation for all Texans.

Redistricting should reflect the will of the people, not manipulate it for partisan gain. This kind of gerrymandering not only disrespects the voters who fuel our democracy, it erodes trust in our political institutions.

As someone who works every day to educate and uplift the next generation of Texans, I believe our students — and our communities — deserve a future shaped by fairness, not by rigged maps. I urge you to reject this mid-decade redistricting scheme and commit to a process that honors the diversity and strength of our state.

Sarah Vaughan
Self
Plano, TX

Redistricting right now is wrong. I will not be voting republican in 2026 if this happens. This is not legal and Gov Abbott should be ashamed of himself. This is not my Republican Party.

Margie Parra, Ms.
Self
Horizon City, TX

I do not agree with the Congressional redistricting. I want be represented by someone who lives here, not over 500 miles away.

Diane Graves
Self - retired
Austin, TX

I am strong opposed to the proposed redistricting plan for Texas. It is a blatant political ploy based on orders from President Trump to create 5 more seats for republicans in the House. This prioritizes political advantage over fair representation for Texans.
I am particularly concerned that the proposed gerrymander will split communities with shared economic, social, and cultural ties. How then can a representative address the unique concerns of such communities?
Another concern is that gerrymandering makes elections uncompetitive. This reduces accountability of elected officials and discourages voter participation, weakening the democratic process.

Redistricting should be about empowering voters to choose their representatives, not about politicians choosing their voters.

I urge the committee to reject the proposed redistricting plan.
Consider maps that prioritize principles of fairness, compactness, and the preservation of communities of interest.
Ensure a transparent process that truly incorporates public input and seeks to create districts that empower all voters.
Thank you for your time and consideration of these issues.
Sincerely,
Diane Graves
Austin

Ritha Belizaire
Myself, surgeon
Houston, TX

Stop being a trump puppet. Stop trying to break the law. Your constituents do not want it, do not do it.

Glenda Gschnell, RN retired
Self
Godley, TX

I'm 77 years old. I was taught that Gerrymandering was illegal when it took the voting rights from specific people of a different race. That is still illegal. I'm ashamed for the GOP. They could recieve those votes without stooping so low. It would only take thier devotion to the people instead of weak power hungry leaders.

Jesse Peirce
self (homemaker)
San Marcos, TX

I oppose spending legislators' time on congressional redistricting, particularly so far from a census which would give new information to be used in redistricting, while Texas communities are suffering from the devastating flash floods. The House should be focused on helping Texas to recover from, and prepare for, natural disasters and manage our natural resources sustainably.

Johnna Adams, Ms.
Self
Bastrop, TX

Gerrymandering is fraud. You are purposefully misrepresenting the popular opinions in democratic districts. This is a deliberate attempt to impede democracy. I oppose this measure whole-heartedly, and we need un-biased third party help in redistricting the state. The republican leadership has entirely abdicated its responsibility for integrity, fairness, and respect.

Holly Ramsey
Self
San Antonio, TX

This bill is a naked attempt at gerrymandering. If Republican policies are so deeply unpopular that they will lose the House, the answer is to govern better, not cheat at elections.

Leo Parker, Sr
Self
DeSoto, TX

As a Texas constituent and a partially disabled veteran, I am writing to express my firm opposition to Governor Abbott's proposed mid-decade redistricting plan. This proposal poses a direct threat to fair representation by specifically targeting minority coalition districts—CD 9, CD 18, CD 29, and CD 33—which provide crucial voices for communities of color across our state. Texas has a well-established record of federal findings against its redistricting practices, including violations of the Voting Rights Act and persistent racial gerrymandering. Despite communities of color comprising 60% of Texas's population, they are represented in only 34% of congressional seats. The 2021 redistricting maps, which remain under federal scrutiny, ignored racial demographics, reduced the number of majority-minority districts, and increased the presence of majority-Anglo districts. Now, this mid-decade redistricting proposal threatens to further undermine the representation of communities that have been vital to Texas's growth and diversity.
Longstanding districts such as CD 18—a protected minority seat for over forty years—and CD 33—which provided voters of color in Tarrant County with meaningful federal representation—are now at risk of being dismantled. These changes are not merely political maneuvers; they represent a significant setback for racial equity and the principle of fair representation.
I respectfully urge you to oppose this plan and to stand up for fair maps and equal representation for all Texans. Thank you for your leadership and your continued commitment to justice.

Cristina Carreon
None
Brownsville, TX

No, the valley needs proper representation.

Mary Ellen Bruno
Self
Austin, TX

This does not need to be addressed. We need to focus other matters.

Ellen Gibbs

Self. Retired state employee

Austin, TX

As a lifelong voting Texan, I oppose HB 4. Redistricting is supposed to be done every 10 years. It is a time-consuming disruptive process that should be set aside to address the genuine needs of Texans, especially in light of the recent hill country flooding disaster.
It sickens me to see Governor Abbott subvert this special session in order to kowtow to the increasingly unpopular (even among Republicans) President and his hand-picked Justice Department.
The current district map, while flawed, is much closer to representing Texans than what has been proposed in this bill. Leave it be. Voters will remember.

Katherine Garvey

Round Rock

Round Rock, TX

Your people deserve to exercise their vote without impediment. If you're so scared about receiving constituents' support, start voting how your constituents ask you to. DO YOUR JOB, not Trump's dirty work.

Betty Adkins

Self

Hockley, TX

Vote in favor of this bill

Alexis Iwasiw

Self

Waelder, TX

Hi, I am a constituent from Waelder, TX. I oppose HB 4 and the mid-decade redistricting called by the Governor, who is pushing this special session on behest of the President Trump -- not for the good of all Texans. All the districts targeted for partisan gerrymandering are minority dominated districts to ensure Republican seats in Texas, which is dishonest and unethical. The President is asking you to cheat and lie to your constituents, knowing it will be to their detriment. Do not follow President Trump down the path of temptation and undemocratic acts. Be better, act better. Vote NO to HB4.

Use the special session to actually help Texans, such as focusing on disaster prevention and relief.

Madison Palomo

Individual

Austin, TX

I am against the redistricting and believe it is against the people and not
For. Please listen
To your people instead
Of working against them.

Lynne Trautwein, MD

Self

Houston, TX

Voting strongly against redistricting when not associated with a census change.

Camille Taylor
Self/Medical Office Specialist
Allen, TX

This proposed redistricting is a partisan overreach. It’s unprecedented to redraw maps mid-decade solely to give Republicans five more seats, especially when it serves to dilute minority representation and stack the deck against democratic fairness. Critics warn this isn’t just undemocratic—it invites both legal challenges and long-term political backlash.

Justin Steinmann
Self
Waelder, TX

To whom it may concern,

Hello,
I currently live in Waelder, Texas, down the road from where my family has, and still does ranch since the early 1900s. My father served in the Navy which took us to live outside of Texas for many years but ever since I was a kid I knew that was my home and that I wanted to get back, drawn by its freedoms, small government values and ability for hard-working folks to do well for themselves. This bill does NOT represent the Texas I grew up wanting to build my life in. I hold values that fall on both sides of the line but what is foundational to all of them is this countries democratic process.

The actions that this bill is attempting directly violates the principles of our democracy. The redistricting scheme not only is questionably legal, but also is blatant corruption of our electoral process. In addition, it sets a very concerning precedent on what may be allowed in the future, to be attempted by either party. I understand redistricting is an essential part of the electoral process as communities evolve, however it should be done utilizing factual demographics to better represent the communities it serves, not to play political games. What is especially concerning about this is that it was a direct request from the federal administration to gain more support in an already overwhelmingly one-sided government, which is falling short in focusing on an agenda that helps the majority of hard-working middle class Americans AND Texans. I can only imagine where this may lead if we are allowing the federal government to interfere in state affairs in such a way. This does not sound like small government to me. No matter what party or how they live their lives, every Texan deserves a say in their representative and this redistricting may make many Texan’s voices unheard.

Please for the sake of the democratic process and freedoms that we Texans hold so dear, oppose HB 4. Thank you for your consideration.

Dianne Fish
self / Mental Health Counselor
Austin, TX

I strongly object to dividing the city and closely surrounding areas of Austin into 4 or more scattered districts.
One of the most important rights that helps us survive as a democracy is that every person of voting age gets to vote with the purpose of electing people who will represent them. We will not remain a balanced, stable state if a large portion of the population feels they have no voice. This doesn't mean each person always gets their way, but it does mean our representatives reflect the mixed views that make up the wide range of communities in Texas. There's nothing wrong with different areas having different views but there is something very wrong with creating single voting districts that cross so many communities of Texas for the sole purpose of trying to force one party to always dominate decisionmaking.

Gena St David, Dr
Self, Social Scientist, Therapist
Austin, TX

In this special session please focus on relief for flood victims rather than redrawing congressional lines between censuses.

John Gardner, Mr
TCCLC
Arlington, TX

Vote NO on this terrible bill which will take away citizens’ opportunity to choose a leader that align with their values.

John Anthony
Self
Naples, TX

This bill further demonstrates the lawlessness of the Republican Party. The Republican Party is attempting to steal House seats and rob people of their elected officials. I urge all Representatives to vote against any bill that further dilutes people’s right to vote! Thank you

Pix Howell
self
Wimberley, TX

First it is disappointing that most creative and diverse state in the union would simply acquiesce to a request from the president without a great deal more debate and referendum. It seems the intent here is to move further away for the diversity, independence and moderation necessary for healthy and democratic dialogue. You don't need more power. You don't need more homogeneity. You need more caring and compassion. Stop putting people in a box. We are all humans that love.

Andy Carter
Self
Red Oak, TX

Why Texas Must Vote YES on Redistricting
Texas is growing—fast. Over the past decade, millions of new residents have poured into our state, shifting population centers and changing the makeup of our communities. But while Texas has grown, our legislative maps have not kept pace. Voting YES on redistricting is not only common sense—it's a constitutional and moral necessity to ensure that every Texan's voice is fairly represented.
Equal Representation Matters
The U.S. Constitution and the Texas Constitution both require that legislative districts be redrawn every 10 years to reflect updated census data. Without redistricting, some districts have far more people than others, meaning votes are not equally weighted. That's not democracy—it's disenfranchisement. Redistricting restores balance and protects the principle of "one person, one vote."
Reflecting Our Growth
Texas gained over 4 million new residents in the last decade—more than any other state. Some regions exploded in population, while others remained steady. Redistricting ensures that fast-growing communities aren't unfairly lumped into outdated boundaries that no longer make sense.
Keeping Communities Intact
The proposed maps strive to keep like-minded, geographically connected communities together. They protect rural representation, strengthen suburban voices, and give urban areas the clarity they need. When communities are kept whole, they can advocate more effectively for local needs like infrastructure, schools, law enforcement, and water resources.
Securing Conservative Values
Let's be honest—Democrats will fight any map that doesn't give them an advantage, no matter how fair it is. They'll sue in liberal courts and try to tie this process up for years. That's why we need every conservative lawmaker to stand firm. Passing this map now means we stop letting activist judges redraw our lines. We, the people of Texas—not Washington bureaucrats—should decide how Texas is governed.
The Alternative is Chaos
If we don't pass this map, the courts will take over. That means unelected judges—possibly in far-left jurisdictions—will draw maps behind closed doors with zero accountability to the people of Texas. Voting YES keeps the process in the hands of our elected legislature, where it belongs.
This isn't just about lines on a map—it's about the future of Texas. Voting YES on redistricting means a stronger voice for your family, your community, and your conservative values.
Let's secure Texas for the next decade—vote YES on redistricting.

Sadie Lopez
Self. Apple Maps GIS Editor.
Austin, TX

To whom it may concern,
Texans deserve fair district maps and fair representation. These redistricting plans are a political power grab, not a reflection of the people who actually live here. The proposed redistricting are designed to divide and weaken the voices of Black and Brown communities. You are intentionally cracking our neighborhoods into different districts to keep us from having real power at the polls and packing our communities into just one district, so our votes are limited to a single seat, even when we make up much more of the population.
This isn't for the 'greater good' of Texas, It's about holding onto power by any means necessary.
Texas is growing more diverse, more engaged, and challenging our systems everyday. This gerrymandering map is a direct attack on that momentum. Instead of fixing our real problems—like high housing costs, funding for public education, and natural disaster relief— YOU are choosing to silence voters.
This isn't redistricting. It's VOTER SUPPRESSION in plain sight.
We won't be silent. We'll speak out, show up, and vote. Fair maps now.
Respectfully,
A Concerned Texan

Jeanne Edwards
Self
Prosper, TX

I fully support this bill and ask you to vote in favor of it.

Michael Knight
Self
Houston, TX

I am a Houston native, lifelong Republican, business owner and leader of my community. I reside in House District 38.
I care far more about protecting the cohesiveness of my community and it being properly represented than I do about trying to marginalize anyone I might disagree with, so one party or another can exert disproportionate influence.
I am proud to live in one of the most diverse cities in America. My neighbors and I may have different ideologies, but we are all neighbors. As soon as you try to predict who might vote for whom and attempt to jigger districts along those lines, you defy common sense, encourage divisiveness, and erode the foundations that make our country strong.
I'm tired of gerrymandering in all of our politics and it needs to stop.
We'd all do well to take a lesson from bees – arguably one of the most successful species on Earth. There is a reason their hives are arranged in neat little hexagons. The further you get from round the less efficient you are – only circles don't pack well. A hexagon is the best possible compromise.
When in doubt – do the math.
I propose you establish a rule that the perimeter of any district may not exceed the square root of its area by more than a factor of 5.
For reference, the ratio for a perfect circle is 3.54. For a hexagon it's 3.72. For some of the gerrymandered districts we have today it's probably 15 or more. In the new proposed map, it appears some are so far out of whack as to render the notion of proper representation nothing more than a joke.
Monkey around with this limit all you want, but if it goes beyond 5 you best have a really good reason for it, and it better not have anything to do with how much or little anyone resembles you or how you think they will vote.
Just as bees instinctively build efficiently for the health of the hive, democracies function best when political boundaries are drawn with the health of the electorate in mind.
If you want to make the world better, make sure our perimeters aren't longer than the folks in the territory inside can make sense of, benefit from, or support.
Better symmetry and simplicity will absolutely lead to better outcomes for everyone. Extreme gerrymandering is simply irresponsible. Even the Republicans among you know it is absurd and will ultimately backfire. It's time to stand up for what is right for the people, not what power-thirsty extremists expect or demand. Please keep this in mind as you consider redistricting.
Thank you.

Amando Estrada Jr
self
San Antonio, TX

Hello, I want to express that I am very concerned and opposed with the recent request by President Trump to redraw the district voting lines/boundaries. This act is very unjust. I feel this bill is an attempt to take advantage of us by stealing our votes and voice.

Julie Robinson
Beyond the Bar
Richardson, TX

The people in the State of Texas deserve the right to vote for representatives in their district who actually know what is going on. Combining urban and rural areas is a recipe for disaster as these areas have entirely different needs and concerns. Play fair or get voted out of office.

Christopher Mandril
Self
Arlington, TX

REJECT this corrupt redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps.

Please do everything in your power to fight back and put Texans first! Earn votes through your actions and your record, not by cheating the system.

REJECT this process!

Gary Stickley
Self
Canyon Lake, TX

I oppose this bill in all forms

Elizabeth Andre
Self
Manor, TX

Redistricting at this off cycle time just to add 5 seats for republicans is gerrymandering and illegal. Our people should choose their leaders, our leaders shouldn't choose their constituents. This is cheating the system. The proposed map would gerrymander Travis county to the point where its obvious that Austin is being separated to dilute its political beliefs. Texas should be ashamed of themselves and how they are using this session to their own gain instead of figuring out how to support Texans after the floods.

Patricia L Kennedy, Ms.
Self, retired Social Worker
Austin, TX

I vehemently oppose redistricting of current Texas districts for electing members for our Texas US House of Representatives as this is a purely political ploy. It has no direct benefit to Texans except for those who want to take advantage of Texas for their own personal and political gain. If our governor and legislators who support this redistricting really cared about Texans, you would be discussing protecting Texans from future flooding rather than acting at the order of the President of the United States, who does not have the interest of the majority of Americans or Texans at heart. We elected Texas legislators at state and national levels to serve constituents, not just the privileged few who would benefit from opportunistic gerrymandering. Do the right thing. Uphold the Constitution of the United States with liberty and justice for ALL. Act in the best interest for the majority of Texans. We voters are paying attention when your jobs are up for renewal in 2026, redistricting or not.

Melissa Harcrow
Self
El Paso, TX

Dearest Representatives,

As an Army veteran, veteran spouse, and a constituent of Texas, I am strongly opposed to redistricting. We have heard the DOJ has made claims the redistricting is due to "constitutional violations". We have also heard that President Trump is asking for five more Congressional seats. It is clear Governor Abbott and Texas Republican lawmakers seek to comply with the implied order. It is incredibly insulting to believe Texans don't see the reason for the proposed redistricting is to simply give Republicans more seats in Congress. The DOJ claims the last redistricting, just completed in 2021were drawn along strict racial lines. Governor Abbott has acknowledged these concerns. However, just weeks ago, a trial was concluded over these same Texas maps where the state argued repeatedly that a race-blind process was used to draw the current boundaries. Why is Governor Abbott suddenly implying the opposite?

Additionally, this comes just months after Congressman Sylvester Turner's death, which left the seat for Texas's 18th Congressional District Empty. Governor Abbott purposely did not call for an election to fill the seat in an effort to allow Republicans to pass harmful legislation and agenda without Democratic influence.

The current proposed plan removes Fort Bliss and the El Paso International Airport from Texas's Congressional District 16 which means someone who is not an El Pasoan, who is unaware or possibly uncaring about the issues that matter to El Paso, could potentially represent these areas. It also narrows down the representation of District 16 even further. The new VA Clinic will be housed on Fort Bliss property-how can I and other veterans expect our Congressional Representative for TX 16 to draw the line of their representation and advocacy in such a manner?

Someone who continues to vote against the interests of El Pasoans, for example voting against funding Medicare and Veterans programs, will harm our community and harm the veterans that I work for and represent. Especially our women and women veterans. They are struggling.

Please vote against redistricting. Please vote for people over party.

Lily Trieu, Co-Executive Director
Asian Texans for Justice Action Fund
Austin, TX

Asian Texans for Justice Action Fund (ATJAF) respectfully opposes HB 4 and has deep concerns around the legality of the proposed, mid-decade redistricting plans as well as the negative impacts it will have on Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (AAPI) across Texas.

ATJAF represents more than 2 million AAPIs who call Texas home. AAPIs are the fastest growing racial group in Texas as well as the most diverse, representing over 50 ethnicities and speaking over 100 languages. While 90% of AAPI Texans live in the major urban and suburban areas of Texas, you can find AAPIs in every corner of the state, from McAllen to El Paso to Amarillo.

HB 4 proposes changes to Texas' congressional districts that would severely dilute AAPI votes across the state. The new districts in Harris, Fort Bend, Travis, and Collin County would split and crack Asian voters across new district lines, preventing communities of shared interests and concerns from being able to vote together. Currently Asian Texans make up 18.3% of CD7, 9.3% of CD9, and 8.6% of CD38 in the Houston and Fort Bend areas. The new maps split the Asian community up so that they would now only represent 16.5% of CD7, 1.9% of CD9, and 9.1% of CD38 - making it impossible in these districts to vote as a bloc.

Similar splitting can be seen in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area - CD3 would have a 1.9 point decrease, CD5 with a 1.6 point decrease, and CD33 with a 1.3 point decrease in Asian Texan population. These voters are now packed into CD4, a district that only has a sliver of Collin County. In 2023, the American Community Survey (ACS) showed that the AAPI community was growing faster in Collin County than anywhere in the entire country. As such, the AAPI population share of CD3 should increase but in these proposed maps, Asian Texan voters lose their ability to vote together for shared interests.

Similar scenarios of AAPI voters being split and votes diluted can be found in the proposed redrawing of CD35 and CD37 in the greater Austin area. In all the major metroplexes and suburban centers where there is the highest amount of AAPI population growth, the Texas Legislature is proposing to split AAPI voters and voices in HB 4.

ATJAF asks that the Texas Legislature refrain from making any redistricting changes to Texas maps until current lawsuits and litigation have been settled. As the fastest growing racial group in Texas, there will be severe consequences to making rushed, uninformed changes to maps that are already being litigated.

As thousands of Texans suffer from the consequences of flooding, extreme heat, and climate change, we encourage lawmakers to take their jobs seriously by focusing on legislation that will protect Texans, our natural resources, and our livelihoods instead of succumbing to the pressures of President Trump. Asian Texans are proud to be a part of a state that values state rights and individual liberties - do not veer from the traditions that make Texas great.

Linda Dickens, Dr.
retired
Austin, TX

As a Texan of 61 years, I implore you not to move forward with this ridiculous redistricting. I want to be represented fairly; I deserve to be represented fairly. This is not fair - do not do this!

Linda Masters, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

I STRONGLY object to the current congressional redistricting plans for the State of Texas. This plan will disrupt and blur the many voices of my fellow Texans who appreciate being able to have representatives from their locales who truly speak for their interests and concerns. This plan is tantamount to an illegal grab for control of our varied constituents and and democratic rights. I know I speak for many who think this plan to chop up and/or merge congressional districts is an unconcealed power grab. It speaks ill of the political forces in and outside of Texas who intend to corrupt our legal rights as citizens. I urge you to vote against this plan and to carefully consider the ramifications of these actions. Thank you for your time and service. Linda J. Masters

Deborah Praska, Ms
Self/retired
El Paso, TX

Leave El Paso, El Paso County and Ft. Bliss alone! We want our representative to be local. The airport, Ft. Bliss and parts of NE El Paso should not become part of Hudspeth county for voting purposes. Leave this area the way it is now. Quit trying to cheat!

Darryl Labens
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am opposed to this redistricting effort. This is an attempt to nullify the will of the people.

Joseph Langeway
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting is a process necessitated by demographic changes, which are measured every 10 years with the census. A redistricting without new demographic information, is transparently corrupt.

This is an insult to the people of Texas. This is a silencing of decent that invites civil unrest and frankly violence by closing off legitimate means of political expression.

You're not just sticking it to the libs. You're demonstrating to the people and the children of Texas that you don't care about them. You're tearing at the fabric of society.

Brenda Willson
Self
Houston, TX

No redistributing for the benefit of one party. Lines are drawn and need to stay as they are!

Rebecca Flores
self
san antonio, TX

Since the Republicans took over the state of Texas 30 years ago, I have been represented by Congressmembers whose districts went from Austin to Hidalgo County. This was an attempt by the Republican leadership to dilute minority voting numbers so that Republicans would add yet another seat of right leaning legislators to their overwhelming majority in Texas. Such was not ever the case. We kept working hard to elect proper representation during that time. What Trump and Abbott are doing now is a shameful power grab, nothing else, to secure majories for decades to come, impacting the lives of our children, and their children. Texas is not well represented in an equitable fashion. Our education is dropping almost as low as Mississippi, (Mississippi God Damn) because you continue to try to keep a population of people of color educated in the worst possible way. I am old enough to remember our education in the 1940's and 50's. Our message to you as that we will resist and we will overcome these attempts by Trump and Abbott and yourselves to destroy our education system, our health system by electing people who will not represent the interest of the common folk.

Sue Borel
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose mid-census redistricting. Please keep current districts intact for fair representation of our communities.

Connie Sterritt, Dr Physician
Austin, TX

Texas has had enough gerrymandering already! Stop it! It is a shameful act of a calculated, undemocratic power grab in a dirty attempt to stay in power. It other words it is CHEATING. FUCK TRUMP

Ann Moulding
Self
Richardson, TX

Hello,
I am writing in regards to HB 4: the redistricting bill that alters the 2021 congressional district map.
This highly irregular redistricting action in response to the Justice Department's questionable claims of racial bias in the 2021 maps, appears duplicitous – in light of governor Abbott and other Republicans claim that a race–blind process was used to draw the existing boundaries.
In the new district maps I will be in house District 32, which extends almost to the border with Louisiana. It is very difficult for me to believe that my representative will have a meaningful understanding of the range of demographic issues for this district, and be able to sponsor effective legislation that will help all people in my district.
Democracy depends on ethical and honest communication with the public, ensuring that the electorates voice is heard. This legislative move seems to be just the opposite.
Please defeat this bill!
Ann Moulding

Allison Lowe
Self/ Registered Nurse
Austin, TX

I do not agree with what is being done to the state of Texas. Our leaders are too scared to tell Trump no so instead of helping their constituents, they are bending the knee to an authoritarian regime. The representatives THE PEOPLE voted for should help THE PEOPLE not those in power get more power. It is disgusting to see what the government is doing to the residents of Texas. It is clear that this redistricting is racially charged and we will NOT stand for it. Texas maps were just drawn a few years BY REPUBLICANS and now they are trying to do it again to suppress black and brown voices. THIS IS NOT OK. What are you doing to help us? Becuse this is not going to help people, this will continue to hurt and silence the most vulnerable population.

Victor Hamilton, Mr.
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

I strongly oppose this "mid-season" redistricting attempt. Texas is already heavily gerrymandered. In the 2024 election the GOP won 25 House seats of 38 in total or almost 66% of the seats. This despite only winning only 58.4% of the overall vote(per Wikipedia). If the proposed plan goes ahead and the GOP is successful in winning an additional 5 seats by denying voters in the impacted districts the opportunity to pick Democratic Representatives the GOP will hold almost 79% of the Texas seats in the House of Congress while in a usual mid-term election the percentage of the votes that the Democratic party are likely to win is reasonable expected to grow well above the approximately 40% received in the 2024 election(per Wikipedia). Please reverse this trend and work rather to improve representation in Texas by voting to install a non-partisan distriction commission that will work to honor the will of the people. Voters should be able to pick their representatives versus representatives now working to pick a set of reliable GOP voters.

Sonja Kever
Self
Austin, TX

If your policies actually matched those of the people you say you represent, you would not need to redistrict (cheat) to win elections. Don't be a lap dog of Donald J Trump!

Brenda Willis
Self
Dallas, TX

I oppose.

CAROL JANSEN
SELF
AUSTIN, TX

"I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest." Just NO. Please don't do it.

Sandra Ellen Self / Founder
Buda, TX

Dear Members of the Texas Legislature,

I am writing in strong support of HB 4, the redistricting bill that addresses the rapid growth our state has experienced, as reflected in the latest U.S. Census. As a proud Texan and engaged citizen, I believe it is imperative that we take this opportunity to ensure that our electoral districts are fairly and accurately redrawn so that every voice across Texas is equally represented.

According to the most recent census data, Texas is one of the fastest-growing states in the nation. We have added millions of new residents over the past decade, with growth concentrated in both our urban areas and many surrounding communities. This population surge is not only reshaping our cities and counties but also highlighting the urgent need for updated legislative and congressional boundaries that reflect these demographic changes.

Redistricting is not just a procedural requirement—it's a foundational part of ensuring our democracy works. HB 4 presents a critical opportunity to deliver on the promise of equal representation for all Texans, regardless of where they live. It's about more than lines on a map. It's about people—families, workers, veterans, small business owners, and students—who deserve to have their interests represented fairly and proportionally in our government.

I believe HB 4 is a step in the right direction toward a redistricting process that is transparent, data-driven, and focused on fairness. The principle of "one person, one vote" must remain at the heart of our democracy. That means drawing districts that respect communities of interest, reflect the diversity of our population, and do not dilute the voting strength of any group.

Fair redistricting ensures that all Representatives—regardless of party affiliation—are held accountable to the people they serve. It also strengthens trust in our institutions and encourages civic engagement. Texans want to know that their voices matter and that their votes count. HB 4 can help restore and reinforce that trust.

The decisions made during this redistricting process will shape the future of Texas for the next decade and beyond. They will influence policy, leadership, and resources for our schools, infrastructure, healthcare, and more. That's why it is so important that we get it right.

I urge you to support HB 4 and ensure that Texas remains a place where every citizen has an equal say in our democratic process. Let's move forward with a plan that reflects the realities of our growth and honors the values of fairness, transparency, and equal representation.

Thank you for your service to our great state and for your commitment to doing what is right for all Texans.

Sophie Roth
Self - real estate agent
Austin, TX

I oppose. This is an unethical power grab, with the intent to further stifle opposition to the current ruling party. It is an authoritarian tactic that undermines the very core of democratic principles. Any representatives that vote in favor are anti-American and anti-democratic. They are afraid of the people they serve and their voices. I oppose, I oppose, I oppose.

Kristy Lines
self -- attorney
Austin, TX

Once upon a time, the Republican party agreed that communities of interest based on geography and demographics meant something in our representative democracy. But this bill, with proposed maps, is a transparent and absurd disruption of that principle -- flat out gerrymandering to a degree that should get it laughed out of the state house. Central Texas attached by a bare thread to East Texas... South Texas to West Texas... North Texas to all points rural... just to disenfranchise the millions who live in cities and dilute the votes of minorities into meaninglessness. It is shameful and should be struck down as illegal. What an embarrassing proposal.

John Turlington
Self
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB 4 and ask that you do not vote it into law. Mid-decade redistricting, prompted by Trump so he can “get 5 seats in Texas” is exclusively a way to disenfranchise voters in Texas and concentrate power in the Republican Party. Not only is it a miscarriage of justice to adopt these maps into law, but it is a thinly-veiled attempt to chip away at the Voting Rights Act. If the districts were drawn “race blind” as their 2021 authors indicated, then why is it the DOJ is asking to remedy racial issues in the districts it cited in its letter? Furthermore, why is Adam Kincaid, someone who isn’t even a Texan and certainly isn’t elected by the people of Texas, the individual who drew the maps? This is wrong and it will only serve to further disenfranchise voters of color in Texas and provide a pathway to do the same in other states across the nation. Again, I am opposed to this bill and ask that you do not vote it into law.

Ashley Quintana
Self
Benbrook, TX

I fully oppose the redistricting plan. This map is drawn to intentionally disenfranchise minority voters and is a clear violation of the Voting Rights Act. Constituents should get to choose their representatives, representatives should not get to choose their constituents. My home county is close to a 50/50 voting county and is a minority majority county but this leaves my county without any Democrat representatives despite the makeup of the county showing otherwise. This is a racial gerrymander plain and simple and I do not support it.

Alex Donovan
Self
Austin, TX

As a lifelong resident of Texas, I do not believe that the redistricting proposed will accurately reflect the actual composition of the population of Texas. One of the newly drawn districts spans nearly the entire length of the state. Populations with very little in common by way of political issues are getting lumped together, and while I realize that is WHY those lines have been drawn the way they are, it is not right or just. United States citizens have the right to representation, and with the new redistricting, there is a very small chance that their representation will truly be aligned with their political beliefs. If any other political party were pulling this, it would be met with the appropriate level of ridicule. Please let everyone’s voices be heard - not just the ones you want to hear.

Nancy OBrien
self, retired accounting supervisor
Houston, TX

It isn't fair to be redrawing lines for redistricting at this time. Just how Republican does Texas need to be? Why are you so hesitant to stand up to fairness? Why are you so afraid to tell the current president "no"? You might be surprised how badly Republicans will do in November 2026.

Dillon Mosman
Self
Austin, TX

You know why this bill is wrong. You don’t have to prostrate yourself at Trump’s feet and do whatever he says. I know you will anyway, so I hope California and New York and Illinois do the same damn thing y’all are doing here.

Catherine Browne
Self/Nurse
Dallas, TX

I do not want the new maps

Christine Reynolds
Self
Spicewood, TX

I am against HB4. It is being pushed by those who do not care about Texas voters and only care about their own job security.

Jill Pollard
Self
Benbrook, TX

I am AGAINST redistricting.

Carrie White
Self - Corporate Finance
Houston, TX

My name is Carrie White, I am a resident of CD 7, and I strongly oppose the redistricting effort and the maps that have been proposed. This brazen move by the Governor at the behest of Donald Trump is taking representation away from communities of color and is shameful. I am proud of the community I live in, the way its residents support each other, and the diversity that we have. I have a representative in Congress who can advocate for my community, but my neighbors just one district over in CD18 do not and now the Governor is trying to further silence those constituents. What is being attempted in this redistricting push is blatant racial discrimination. There is no justification for this congressional redistricting- it is unnecessary and will cause the state to waste time and money. We need fairly chosen representatives who will be responsive to the needs of all the people, not just to billionaires and special interests.

Katherine Nickl
Self
Plano, TX

Dear Members of the Texas Legislature,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB?4 and the proposed mid-decade redistricting of Texas's congressional districts.

Redistricting is intended to reflect population changes after the decennial census—not to serve short-term partisan goals. Texas completed redistricting in 2021, and there has been no significant population shift to justify this extraordinary redraw. HB?4 is not about representation; it's about entrenching political power.

The proposed map aims to increase Republican-controlled seats from 25 to as many as 33 out of 38. This would be accomplished by dismantling coalition districts and diluting the voting power of Black and Latino Texans—despite the fact that people of color drove the state's population growth over the last decade. This is not just unfair—it is unconstitutional and likely violates the Voting Rights Act.

Moreover, the process itself has been deeply flawed. Public opposition has been widespread at hearings across the state, yet testimony has been disregarded, and in at least one case, suppressed by law enforcement. Redistricting should be open, transparent, and grounded in public input—not rushed through a special session at the behest of national political figures.

Texas deserves maps that represent people, not parties. I urge you to reject HB?4 and uphold the principles of fair representation, democratic legitimacy, and racial equity in our electoral system.

Respectfully,
Katherine Nickl
Plano, 75093

Lyndsey Raney
Self, Librarian
Austin, TX

I was not aware the Texas State Legislature and our governor was such a group of sycophants towards the president. Tell me, if he were to say 'jump' is your response to say 'how high'? This new map is a farce, and does a disservice to rural Texans and urban Texans alike. How dare we give rural Texans a representative who may live hundreds of miles from them just because we can't stand to face the changing nature of our state. How is that good representation, that someone may speak for them who's never even driven that far out to see where they live? Is this government so afraid of the idea of having to talk to their cohorts and coordinate with them? It's a coward's move, honestly. If you feel like the only way you can win an election is to rig it with a map where someone in a downtown neighborhood of a city lives in the same district as someone 2 hours away in a small town, all that says to me is you're bad at your job and you know it deep down. Because otherwise you'd have no reason to cheat. And that it is designed to force Greg Casar to run against Lloyd Doggett in primaries and Al Green to run against Sylvester Turner's successor is further evidence to that. Nevermind that maybe dissenting opinions and voices that provide another point of view could have made a world of good. Maybe if we'd be more inclined to listen to those we'd have a flood warning system in Kerrville. Maybe we'd have better disaster response. Maybe we'd focus on things that matter like healthcare, how to help low-income Texans when the tariffs kick in, how to better fund public schools for the kids whose parents can't turn to a charter program. Maybe we could decide to regulate THC levels rather than calling that too much trouble and killing a nascent industry in this state. But given that this state couldn't even fix the electric grid after some of us froze to death, and are making us pay off the weight of the utility companies' sins in that failure, perhaps I'm expecting too much of this legislature. Perhaps, to be expected to do an adequate job is simply beyond your capacity as a governing body.

Hana Hassibi
Self
Austin, TX

I believe that this bill goes against our country's ideology of equal and fair representation of individuals.

Monica Hozdic, Mrs.
self
Atlanta, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map!

Bonnie Sullivan
Self
Austin, TX

We don’t need a guy from NYC to make decisions for Texans. Our Reps are supposed to represent us not him.

Kelly Littleton, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

I didn’t grow up in Texas — I chose Texas. I live here. I work here. I vote here. And I deserve to be heard.
HB?4 isn’t redistricting — it’s political weaponization. This is about Donald Trump holding onto power in all three branches of government and preemptively rigging the 2026 midterm elections. For Republicans, the endgame is clear: carve out five new GOP-leaning districts now to stave off expected Democratic gains.

Texans shouldn’t have to fear that their votes are overridden before they’re even counted. Our community in western Austin is already trapped in Chip Roy’s district which doesn’t reflect our values or needs. Now, HB?4 would deepen that manipulation across the state — Austin, Dallas, Houston, South Texas — targeting democratic districts expected to swing and flipping them without regard for fair representation.

This isn’t just about power — it’s about silencing Texans. HB?4 dilutes minority representation, suppresses voting rights, and sets a national precedent of rigging elections before they happen.

If being loudly unrepresented by Chip Roy—who aligns with Trump’s agenda more than his own constituents—wasn’t enough, HB?4 would strip even more communities of local voice and self-determination. This is voter suppression, plain and simple.

Texas deserves leaders who trust its people — not leaders who fear losing power in 2026. Speak for us. Stand for fairness. Vote NO on HB?4.

Benjamim Lash Benjamim Lash
Self, product manager
Houston, TX

I oppose redistricting plans designed to dilute votes and result in officials out of proportion to the electorate.

Andrew Pedrazas
Self
Wimberley, TX

The current maps are still being challenged in federal court. I’m against this redistricting effort because:. The new maps fail to meet Constitutional requirements and are racially discriminatory.

Ashlyn Wimberly
Self (Biblical Scholar)
Waco, TX

My name is Ashlyn Wimberly, and I am a constituent from Waco. I'm writing to implore that the officials elected to fairly and responsibly represent the people of Texas publicly condemn the radical redistricting process that threatens our state. All state leaders must speak out against the dangerous precedent established by this blatantly partisan gerrymandering. Do not allow Texans' voices to be stifled by such undue and unjust interference.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

John Pantzer
Self / CEO, Engineer, Inventor
Richardson, TX

This redistricting is unfair, and you all know it. You can't win elections on the strength of your ideas, so now you've decided to change any rules you want to in order to stay in power.

In the end, this will be your ruin. People that you are elected and sworn to serve will not long abide your unprincipled determination to remain in office. They will get tired of being belittled, dismissed, and unheard. They will rise up with fury and throw you out, as they should. You know this is the way of things.

And why are you doing this? To win an election for Donald Trump? He's already standing in the grave with one foot. But even if not, what goodness is coming from his way of running the country? More fear, more hate, more corruption in government, more incompetent people in positions of leadership. Is that the world you want to leave to your daughters and sons? Is that the world in which you want to live?

I urge you to vote for rightness, fairness, justice. I urge you to act in this moment so that your descendants will be proud of you, and not ashamed of your betrayal in our hour of need.

Todd Oiesen
Self
Pflugerville, TX

HB4 promotes poor governance by limiting idea competition. HB4 steals Texans votes and fair representation. HB4 is un-American and anti-Texan.

Olivia Montgomery
Self, analyst
Austin, TX

Dear Texas Reps,

I’m writing to urge you to oppose HB 4. This bill would move me out of a district that includes my community and place me in one with faraway rural towns that don’t share my day to day concerns or priorities. I want to vote with my neighbors—for a representative who truly understands and reflects our shared needs.

Please don’t take away my voice in my own community.

Thank you,
Olivia Montgomery

Kellie Vrba
Self School district employee
Blooming Grove, TX

I strongly support HB4! Don’t let the great state of Texas down!

Sandra Smith-Gray
self
Austin, TX

I object to the proposed Texas redistricting map because it unfairly dilutes the voting power of minority communities, undermining fair and equal representation. The map appears to be drawn with partisan intent, prioritizing political advantage over the democratic principle of one person, one vote. It fails to reflect the true demographic and geographic diversity of the state.

Virginia Shelton
self
Haltom City, TX

When did politics Trump democracy and fairness. I was a Republican. This party has pushed me to vote Democratic because Republicans will do ANYTHING for power. I oppose the redistricting. Would you want this everytime that a party gains power. What goes around, Comes around. Please find some integerity and vote against this power grab. Now voting Independent. Your constituent, Virginia Shelton. (I voted every single election)

Sonia Tinajero
Self
El Paso, TX

We need to be represented by someone that lives and knows our community. Someone who lives miles away and is unfamiliar with our community will not have our best interest in mind.

Adrian Rose
Self
Midland, TX

Residents of Texas would love to redistrict the state in a way that is ACTUALLY reflective of the population. But this isn’t giving the people the ability to fix the current gerrymandering, it’s adding to it. To describe it as anything different is to call me and all other Texans idiots and spit in our faces. It’s very transparent how this helps no one, but is presented with unbelievable audacity.

Miles Crismon self - clinical psychopharmacologist
Austin, TX

Please focus on addressing the needs of Texas citizens rather than spending time and taxpayer dollars to gerrymander Texas congressional districts. It is important for all Texas residents to have representation and not have our congressional representatives only representing part of our citizens.

Maria T Gutierrez, Retired Middle School Teacher

Self

El Paso, TX

Removing the number of current voices from El Paso is totally criminal! Giving 5 more seats for the GOP just to help the Republican Party win?! No! Gerrymandering to rig the election for Trump is about as illegal as you can get. The politicians are choosing their voters instead of vote red choosing the politicians!
This decision is not healthy for Texans because ALL voices matter with the current political lines. So this means that when a republican President can change any political boundaries to suit him/her whenever they feel threatened and run the risk of not being voted for the next term?
Our community needs to be represented by elected leaders here, not those that are 500 miles away. We should not be competing for resources that are 500 miles away, and that is what Ft. Bliss would have to do. How does anyone in San Antonio prioritize the needs of El Pasoans when it struggles to provide its own constituents with proper home assistance, medical care and Veteran care in San Antonio. El Pasoans do not want to hand over our needs to a voice who has voted to cut Medicare, Medicare, and Veterans programs.
Local representation needs to be heard by individuals we have voted for in El PASO.

Amanda Rios-Place

self

Spring, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. As a public educator and librarian in Harris County, I see everyday how important it is for Black, Brown, and Indigenous voices to be heard and taken seriously. Fairness, equity, and representation of our diverse communities is vital for Texan and American democracy. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Griselda Melendez

Myself

San Antonio, TX

I am vehemently opposed to this new redistricting map. This is textbook gerrymandering and directly conflicts with either Equal Protection Clause of the 14th amendment. I thought Republicans were ALL about the constitution, but I guess that only applies when it benefits them and keeps them in power. The constitution guarantees everyone fair and retail representation. These maps would not accurately represent me and millions of other people. You don't just represent the people that elected you, you represent EVERYONE in this state. I urge everyone to reconsider approving this bill. Have y'all thought of the backlash? Are you prepared to lose more seats than you've planned? Are you prepared to be the reason Texas turned blue?

Barbara Mink, Dr

self AND... I was a publicly elected official for 24 years (2000-2024) on the Board of Trustees of Austin Community College District ... and Board Chair four times

Austin, TX

It is important to have open dialog and to hear all voices. The state of Texas cannot just do what President Trump tells them to do to close down dialog and open debate of issues. This redistricting is merely the House doing what "Daddy wants you to do" without thinking for themselves and standing up for what is right... for upholding every American's right to have freedom of speech. I strongly oppose this redistricting effort to limit freedom of speech and open and honest dialog. The House needs to hear what all citizens are thinking about issues and not just limit thinking. Discussions need to be held to determine what all citizens are thinking and feeling. Are our members of the House so weak that they cannot think for themselves and can be bullied on this?

Alice Yi
Asian Texans for Justice Action Fund
Austin, TX

I am here to express strong opposition to the proposed Bill HB4, which redraws the Texas congressional maps.
The new map divides and dilutes the political power of Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) communities across Texas. For example, Northwest Austin—an area with a significant concentration of AAPI residents—has now been split among five congressional districts: CD 10, 11, 17, 31, and 37. With over two million AAPI individuals, we are the fastest-growing racial group in the state. Making arbitrary changes without new census data will result in maps that do not reflect our growth or our voices.
Fair maps mean fair representation. That means drawing districts that respect the true diversity of our communities—not manipulating boundaries for political gain. This proposal appears to be a clear partisan effort to gerrymander communities like mine, undermining our ability to be heard.
Gerrymandering erodes trust in our democracy. It silences communities that deserve a seat at the table. We strongly urge the committee to maintain the current maps until a fully funded and accurate census is completed in 2030. Furthermore, future maps should be drawn based on census data and community boundaries—not voting patterns.
Abusing political power to preserve political advantage is unacceptable. Our communities deserve better.
Thank you.

Dwight Schmidt, Dr.
Self
Canyon Lake, TX

I am against what clearly is an attempt to manipulate voting districts in favor of Republicans getting elected. This effort is nothing other than Governor Abbott catering to Trump’s demands. This is not democracy but a further move towards authoritarianism. It undermines the votes of Democrats and minorities. It is bad for Texas and millions of Texans who do not support the Trump agenda and whose voices effectively will be diminished.
A healthy democracy only exists when a government truly and openly allows, protects and takes into consideration the interests, values, desires and rights of all citizens. Let us not pretend that this redistricting effort is fair and just or necessary. It is being done to alter the likely outcome of the 2026 elections. It is being done to deflect a growing populace angered by Republican policies and Trump’s declining popularity. It is being done because the cruelty of ICE, the grift of the President, the lies regarding Epstein, the disruption of the economy and so many other things are coming to light.
This bill is wrong is so many ways. Please reject its passage.

Jennifer Scalo
Myself
Austin, TX

This is undemocratic!!!! Please stop trying to cheat Americans!

Chris Nigro
District 1
Austin, TX

The state of Texas is actively trying to g to disenfranchise voters. End this insanity

K Simpson
Self- business owner
Austin, TX

I Strongly Oppose this redistricting bill

Daniel Keeling, MA
Self
Dallas, TX

Daniel Keeling
1804 Altadena Lane
Dallas, Texas 75232
Keeling2036@gmail.com
Aug 1, 2025

Dear Redistricting Committee,

““We must fight till hell freezes over and then fight on the ice.” — Vertner Woodson Tandy, December 1937.

I am writing to express my profound concern regarding the proposed congressional redistricting map for Texas, particularly focusing on the potential loss of districts representing minority communities in major metropolitan areas. The implications of this redistricting are not just about geography; they have far-reaching consequences for representation, equity, and the political voice of millions of Texans.

Historically, minority populations in Texas have faced systemic barriers to fair representation, and the current mapping process threatens to exacerbate these issues. The involvement of Adam Kincaid, known for his controversial redistricting practices, raises significant concerns about the integrity of the map-drawing process. As the president of the National Republican Redistricting Trust and various associated non-profits, Kincaid has a track record that includes the racially gerrymandered map of Tarrant County. His influence on Texas's congressional districts should alarm anyone who values fair representation for all communities.

The loss of minority districts in urban areas would undermine the progress made over decades in ensuring that the voices of people of color are heard at all levels of government. The Voting Rights Act of 1965 was a crucial turning point in combating racial discrimination in voting, yet recent trends suggest a regression in the protections it once afforded. The removal of provisions that protected voters of color from discrimination in 2013 has led to a situation where minority communities can be easily fragmented and marginalized in the redistricting process.

For instance, in major cities like Houston and Dallas, minority populations are concentrated but often underrepresented in congressional districts. If districts are drawn in a way that dilutes their voting power, these communities risk losing the ability to elect representatives who genuinely reflect their interests and needs. The historical context is sobering; prior to the Voting Rights Act, minorities faced significant obstacles to political participation, and we must not allow history to repeat itself.

Moreover, the potential alignment of minority districts with areas that do not share common socio-economic interests can lead to a lack of advocacy for the specific issues that affect these communities, from healthcare access to educational resources. The voices of these populations must not be overshadowed or diminished by the interests of political operatives focused on partisan gain rather than the well-being of constituents.

In conclusion, I urge you to consider the broader implications of the proposed congressional redistricting map and to prioritize the preservation of districts that represent minority districts.

Kayellen Walker
Self, Museum Assistant
San Antonio, TX

Hello, I live in San Antonio and I am represented by someone in Austin. I am not adequately represented. My district, TX-21 encompasses Austin, New Braunfels and my small portion of San Antonio. San Antonio is nothing like Austin or New Braunfels. Now the legislature is trying to redistricting mid Census. There is no reason to do this. It's a naked attempt to further dilute San Antonian's votes.

The current special session should be to help Hill Country Texans to recover from the floods last month. That is a legitimate reason to call a special session. A mid Census redistricting is not warranted.

Jaynell Garrison
Self -- Education Consultant
Austin, TX

My name is Jaynell Garrison, and I’m speaking today as a concerned Texan who believes in fair representation and a government that reflects the will of the people.

The redistricting plan currently being proposed is a blatant attempt to silence millions of voters in our state. Almost 5 million Texans voted for Democratic candidates in 2024 — the second highest total in the nation. Yet this plan seeks to erase their voices, dismantle diverse communities, and entrench political power through manipulation rather than merit.

This is not about fair representation. This is about preserving power for a single party at the expense of democracy.

Gerrymandering in the middle of the decade — just because Texas is finally in play — undermines the trust voters place in our system. Representation should be decided by voters, not by those desperate to hold onto power.

I urge this body to reject any redistricting map that prioritizes partisanship over people, and to stand with Texans who want their voices — all of our voices — to count equally.

Thank you.

David Potenza
N/A
Southlake, TX

I support HB4 and the redistricting

JOE GATSON
Congressional District 9 constituent
Houston, TX

I’m opposed to this illegal redistributing plan.

Reginald Reynolds
Self
Fort Worth, TX

We do not need a king. Every citizen in Texas has a right to fair representation. Taxation without representation is not a privilege. It is a right! We currently have people in leadership who want power without responsibility to the people who elect them. We need elected leaders that has the courage to stand for the electorate rather than bow down to a man. There's only one King named Jesus Christ we submit to. I pray you will do unto others as you would others do to you. You have the opportunity for greatness! Leave the maps alone.

Sean Ingle
Self
Lavernia, TX

I am 100% against this redistricting. Please stop gerrymandering, this is especially impermissible because of the reasoning for it in this instance. This is being attempted purely to please trump and in order to try and give him every possible advantage he can get later on because he knows that his policies and practices are not well received by many of the American people. It is a blatant attempt for him to create and hold more power and me and many others will be watching to see who votes to give trump even more power than he has already been handed. Do the right thing please, and say NO to this redistricting!

Miranda Hitchcock
Self, nonprofit
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting effort which serves partisan interests rather than advocating for the needs of Texans.

Marisela Orta
Self
Lockhart, TX

I grew up here. When I was in high school back in the 90s I remember one of our UIL topics was gerrymandering. That was back in the 90s. Over 30 years ago. That was around the time the Texas GOP used gerrymandering to take control of this state. And it is shocking to see these gerrymandered districts that span hundreds of miles. Narrow slivers that allow the GOP to stay in power despite the fact that the constituents have little in common with one another due to that distance. Texans in the Valley have different needs than Texans in San Antonio. But gerrymandering isn't about serving constituents. It's about the Texas GOP maintaining power at the expense of Texans. Politicians that game the system to stay in power have no business in public service. That is what you are supposed to be, in case you have forgotten. You are supposed to work for us. For Texans. Not for your own interests. Not for your party. Not for a corrupt president. Not for fascism. And that is what you stand for. What you are doing by gerrymandering our districts is un-American. What you are doing places you squarely on the wrong side of history. It shows you are cowards. You don't want a fair fight with properly drawn districts that doesn't disenfranchise voters. It shows that you know you can't win. So you choose to cheat. You choose to bend the knee to a fascist administration. That is your legacy. Your family in the future will look back in disgrace at your actions. They will distance themselves from your legacy of ruin. So own your ruin. Own the fact that you are part of a fascist party. That you are cowards who are afraid of a fair fight. Texas deserves better than you. Texas deserves politicians who actually will serve the people of this state.

Karen Jacobi
Self
Richardson, TX

I am a retired teacher and live in House District 32. My neighborhood is a diverse mix of individuals and families.

We deserve fair maps that reflect our communities and values. The new congressional map that has been proposed at the insistence of national republicans represents one of the most extreme partisan gerrymanders in the nation. Texans deserve a fair map that represents the diversity of our state, not one that silences our voices.

This map does not represent the Texas I’m from.

Do your job in advocating for your constituents rather than bending a knee to DonaldTrump and national GOP.

Kristin Studer
Self - Executive Assistant to the CEO/Founder
Fort Worth, TX

I write in strong support of HB 4, which aims to realign Texas's congressional districts to more accurately reflect the state's evolving voting demographics and ensure fair and effective representation for all Texans.

Over the past decade, Texas has experienced substantial population growth and demographic shifts. The latest census data confirms significant increases in Hispanic, Asian, and African American populations, as well as a surge in suburban and urban growth in regions like the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, Houston, Austin, and San Antonio. These changes have altered the political and cultural landscape of the state, resulting in a voter base that is markedly different from the one used to draw the current congressional map.

HB 4 offers a timely and necessary adjustment. By redrawing the districts to align more closely with current population patterns and voter distribution, the bill promotes more representative governance. This realignment ensures that congressional districts are not only equal in population, as required by law, but also more reflective of the diversity and political engagement seen in today's Texas electorate.

Passing HB 4 demonstrates a commitment to upholding the principles of democracy—ensuring that each Texan's vote carries appropriate weight and that communities of interest are fairly represented. As Texas continues to grow and change, it is critical that our congressional districts evolve accordingly. HB 4 is a forward-looking step in that direction.

Mancil Carroll
Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Inc
FRISCO, TX

I am Dr. Mancil Carroll and I am the current president of the Xi Tau Al.bda chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Inc. I m also the pastor of a historically black church in South Dallas. I oppose the congressional bill to redistricting. With 60% of the state of Texas being people of color, this is a blatant attempt to dilute the votes of the constituents of this great state. The Republican party is doing everything it can to erase the voices of many people and to leave them disenfranchised. They do not represent the people but rather the governmental swamp that caters to the whims of the president.Vote no on this proposal and allow the people to express the right given to vote in fair elections.

Jeff Hudgins
Self - VP Global Services
Denison, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Melvin Waxler, Mr
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting at this time is a clear abuse of the political process, especially when tied to a request by any President attempting to jockey with Congressional representation in advance of an election. The fact that the Texas Legislature is moving forward with redistricting at this time and under these circumstances is shameful. I teach my children and grandchildren about integrity and how to live this value. I'm hoping to see a Texas Legislature imbued with the same value that just says no to redistricting off the accepted ten year schedule and for all the wrong reasons. Thank you for the opportunity to express my views. By the way, I have cast my individual vote in the past for both republicans and democrats. This is not and should not be a partisan issue.

Lisa Hunt
self
Converse, TX

I am strongly against the redistricting of the Texas congressional maps and honestly can't believe that you didn't even try to disguise it as something Texas needs to do. You are already in litigation for the last time you did this and simply have disregarded the only growing demographic in the state, which is the actual reason we do it in the first place. It makes us look weak as a state and for all the touting of Texas as such a great place, that some Texans think we should secede from the rest of the country, is embarrassing. Donald Trump is not the governor of Texas, nor is he the king of Texas. He also can't primary all of you Republicans, but we can. He is a lame duck President, or will be after the 2026 midterms. Why you are afraid of him amazes me.He can only primary you with more far right lunatics and if you are fighting for your constituents, you have nothing to fear. This is going to backfire and I for one can't wait to see it. This also starts a chain of other states doing the same thing. Pretty soon, we will be redistricting every year. One last note, people of Texas are beginning to remember what we stand for and how we fought for this state a very long time ago. We did not fight to be used by a man whose only joy in life is to make other people miserable. I beg you to call his bluff and say no to this insane power grab. He is a weak man who wishes he were a great dictator. If we start this process, we will regret it and you will lose in the end. Don't mess with Texas will just be another slogan that died along with your dignity

Sarah Graham
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I write today in strong opposition to House Bill 4. While redistricting is a legal and constitutional obligation, HB 4 fails to meet the fundamental standards of fairness, transparency, and equal representation.

This bill:

Dilutes the voting power of communities of color – Despite the fact that almost all of Texas's population growth in recent years has come from Black, Latino, Asian American, and other nonwhite communities, HB 4 does not fairly reflect this in its proposed district maps. This is a blatant violation of the Voting Rights Act and the principles of representative democracy.

Lacks transparency and public input – The process behind HB 4 was rushed and largely conducted behind closed doors, with limited opportunities for public engagement. District lines should be drawn with communities, not for them by partisan interests.

Prioritizes political advantage over people – This bill appears designed to entrench incumbents and preserve partisan power rather than create competitive, community-based districts. Gerrymandering – whether Republican or Democratic – erodes public trust in government and discourages civic participation.

Disrespects communities of interest – HB 4 splits up historically unified neighborhoods and cultural communities, undermining their ability to elect representatives who understand their needs. A fair map keeps communities intact.

For these reasons, I urge you to vote NO on HB 4. Texans deserve a redistricting process that is inclusive, equitable, and guided by the values of democracy—not political self-interest.

Megan Bouchareb, Dr.
Self and voters of Travis County
Austin, TX

This bill is illegal gerrymandering. Full stop. Merging the 35th and the 37th districts is illegal voter suppression of Black and Latino Central Texans. This is designed to eliminate accessibility, accountability, and a strong voice for our shared values. It is cheating - cheating that even my grade school children know is wrong. Perhaps Republican "public servants" should stop trying to silence Democratic and Independent voters, do their jobs, and listen to ALL of the people of Texas, not just the ones who agree with their warped values.

Roberta Albracht
Self
Austin, TX

I was born and raised in a small town in the Texas Panhandle. I have lived in Texas all my life.
Why is Texas being handed over to the wishes of the federal executive? Texas prides itself for it's independent spirit and rugged individualism. What is behind ceding the sovereignty of our great state to the president? Why not stand up for all the citizens of our state? Do not give in to this pressure. Do not undermine our free and fair elections. This is not Hungry, Russia, or any country that usurps the vote. Texas should lead the way in preserving the voters' voices, instead of being a state that gives in. Show the country that Texas,as it's history shows, remains independent and full of rugged individuals.

Andi Peto-Selby, Ms
self
La Marque, TX

Quit gerrymandering our districts - All constituents have a right to be equally represented. Republicans can’t seem to win if they aren’t cheating- It is no different than fixing an election.

Rochelle Wilson
Self
Bedford, TX

I stand and support of the HB4 redistricting map.

Andy Volk
Self,Arts/Film
Austin, TX

The history of Texas has been rife with gerrymandering of districts to limit the voices of the historically marginalized communities, and this new map will be shameful repeat of history and will hurt many voices in some of Texas’s largest cities. It’s clearly a ploy to limit the votes and seats of the opposing party, which in itself is limiting constitutional freedom at a time when many are screaming to be heard by those in power. This is not the will of the people and instead the will of individuals only seeking to align themselves with a despot and an egomaniac. Texas residents are proud and dignified, and this 21st century gerrymandering of political voices is a step in the wrong direction.

Sedrick Montgomery
Self / City Employee
Fort Worth, TX

My name is Sedrick Montgomery. I am a constituent of Texas Senate District 10, Texas House District 97, and U.S. Congressional District 12. Just a few months ago, several minority voters in Tarrant County were targeted by a blatant, racially motivated redistricting plan. Black, Hispanic and Asian voters were cracked from Tarrant County Commissioners Precinct 2 and packed into Precinct 1. As a result, their political power, acquired over time through population growth and coalition building in the Southern sector, was diminished by elected officials that chose to silence them instead of engaging them politically. That was a textbook example of racial gerrymandering which is illegal.
Now, at the request of President Trump, Governor Abbott and the Texas State Legislature are seeking to employ the same racially motivated redistricting plan to silence minority voters at the federal level to maintain power of the U. S. House of Representatives.
First, I call on members of the Texas House and Texas Senate to Vote NO regarding this mid-decade redistricting plan that is nothing more than a racist power grab intended to dilute the political power of Black, Hispanic and Asian voters in large urban centers throughout the state of Texas.
After watching the public hearing that was held in Tarrant County, it is abundantly clear that I am not alone, and the majority of North Texans have no interest in seeing new maps being drawn. As a fellow Texan, I encourage you to tap into your independent, lone star spirit in this moment. This is not the time for our elected officials to abdicate our state's priorities to carry out the desires of those in Washington, D.C.

Respectfully
Sedrick J. Montgomery

Robert Kirk, Dr
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose any gerrymandering efforts from the White House to lessen my representation in Congress

Cassandra England
Self, Chief of Staff
Cedar Park, TX

To the Members of the Congressional Redistricting Committee:

I am submitting this comment in opposition to the current redistricting map under consideration. This proposal is an insult to the voters of Texas and a fundamental attack on our democracy. It is a cynical effort to manipulate district lines to achieve a partisan advantage, rather than respecting the will of the people. This map intentionally carves up our communities, pits incumbents against each other, and creates absurdly shaped districts that have no basis in real-world community lines. The purpose of redistricting should be to ensure every Texan has a voice, but this plan is designed to silence millions. I implore you to abandon this gerrymandered map and commit to a process that produces districts that are competitive and accurately reflect the diverse and growing population of our state.

Betsy Singleton
Self (retired)
San Marcos, TX

The poposed new lines divide Hays County into several districts. We need representation as the one community that we are with our growing Hispanic population. It's absurd to pair us with distant costal communities. Please revise to keep Hays County residents together!

Andrew Chin
Self
Austin, TX

AGAINST. The proposed maps do not fairly represent the populations in the affected districts. These maps are designed to disproportionately affect representation by race and dilute the voting power of people of color.

Pamela Overeynder
Self
Ausrin, TX

I am opposed to this untimely redistricting move designed to ensure more Republican representation in the Congress. It is unjust, underhanded and just plain wrong to disenfranchise voters For political gain. It is a giant stain on the democratic principles and a dangerous escalation of authoritarian take over of our democracy.. I fear for our country…

Justin C
Self
Dallas, TX

I support HB 4 by Hunter

Ingrid Caanen
Self/BSBCR/ HEB Connection
Spring Branch, TX

Hello,
I'm In favor of HB 4
The Hill Country residents (even those moving in) predominantly share the same conservative values. We in (CD21) are historically RED & want to stay that way - and we want to keep Chip Roy who lives in our district.
We have nothing in common with the disastrous leftist leaning ideology of the Democratic Party who is out of touch with common sense, protecting all citizens, not just minorities, and I am Hispanic, protecting our borders, children, women, protecting our resources, land and uphold patriotism and love for country not hate. Our voices in the Hill Country could be silenced.
Thank you for taking my thoughts and serving the great State of Texas

Max Weinberg
Self
Austin, TX

This bill robs representation from millions of Texans. Reject it immediately.

Jacqueline Suhr
Self
Nee Braunfels, TX

As a Republican in a very Republican city, you all are pushing me to be a Democrat. If you do this, I'm done! I'll become a Democrat, just because of this. Thank you for waking me up.

Ana O'Quin
Self, social worker
Austin, TX

I support fair, honest, and ethical districts in our state, not ones that are gerrymandered to silence minority voices! Please consider the voices of ALL Texans that want to come together to make true change to make a better state for everyone, not the loud but limited voice of a political party that already holds majority in the House and Senate.

PAUL BUERGER, Mr.
Self
SAN ANGELO, TX

You're cheating. It's unethical. It's so disgusting to try and consolidate power for power's sake and bending knee to DJT. Shame on you! Have a conscience and find some decency.

Katrin Hartmann
LWV
Georgetown, TX

The voting population of the State of Texas is politically far more evenly divided than what voting districts represent. Which is a partisan power grab that leaves millions of voters without representation. The intend to disenfranchise more voters is painfully obvious with this special redistricting plan in middle of the census period, solely based on the demand if the current president. For politicians to pick voters is inherently dishonest. Political districtsing (gerrymandering) is one of the most unfair and despicable practices to ever have been devised. More extreme districting in Texas will trigger more extreme districting in other states, in order to gain more seats for either the same or the other party. This representative form of government in this country is being undermined. Honest politicians need to work together to establish NON partisan districting committees in the entire US. Political districting belongs onto the scrap heap of history.

Lory DuMenil
Myself
San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting. It’s blatantly cheating.

Les Johnson
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I'm against redistricting so stop it!

Joseph Pennock
Self
Rowlett, TX

I believe in a free and fair Texas that doesn’t require drawing of insane districts to be able to properly represent the people that live here. If the people want to vote a certain way, that is the will of the people. If the district redrawing makes a persons vote worth less then we are no better than the countries that have fake elections and ballot stuffing. Please reconsider the insane maps and get a 3rd party in here to review.

Lauren Brewer
Self
Mansfield, TX

Texas has much bigger issues that we need to focus on at this moment. Our state should not be capitulating to our President’s every whim. The proposed new maps is disenfranchising thousands of Texans to promote a single political party. Texas has a chance to show that the states are not here to solely service the federal government and especially not a single elected official.

LD Kirksey
Self
Austin, TX

I vehemently oppose the redistricting plan proposed by the Governor and the Federal Administration. This redistricting plan would violate the voting rights of countless Texans and create a further imbalance of representation in the State.

Phil Casali
self Point, TX

support

Jason Loveless
Self
Sachse, TX

I am FOR Redistricting.

Micah Nishigaki
Self/Physician
Dallas, TX

I am a constituent who lives in zip code 75240. I am against the redistricting, as this would water down fair representation for districts with what is being proposed. This is also occuring before the next census due in five years, and I'm sure that with any redistricting we do now wouldn't fairly represent the communities we have currently, as we don't have an updated census at this time. We need to use our time to focus on real issues that Texans face, and focus on redistricting when it is mandated (and preferably with a better and more independent system). Thank you.

Chris Hulsey
Self - Analyst
Haslet, TX

I support this redistricting plan, HB 4.

Claire Adkins
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I do not support the redistricting of Texas in a way that limits the actual representation of voters in Texas. It is blantant that this is only a power grab for Trump and his republican followers who do not actually care about the people that live here. Rather Trump and his followers only look to serve themselves and those who benefit financially from this move. Districts should be about showing true representation of the people that live here, not just the wealthy or 'powerful'. Everyone's voice matters in democracy, but by allowing elected officials to redistrict mid-census to shift the seats republican when that is not reflective of the actual voters, you allow them to silence people and leave them behind. Please do not allow this to happen. This is my opinion of the matter.

Tricia Southerland, Mrs
Texas voter
Austin, TX

This bill is an undeniable attempt to lessen the power of my vote. We will be increasing our voices and our participation not the reverse.

Sara Gonzales
Self/Business Analyst
Castroville, TX

STRONGLY oppose. This is blatant gerrymandering and it’s disgusting that this is being openly tolerated.

Craig Licciardi
Self/sales
Flint, TX

I strongly support this bill. To the victor goes the spoils. Don't squander the ability to preserve protect and defend our nation by augmenting our majority. If you believe Democrat socialism is best for this country then vote against it. If you believe in conserving the nation that our founders gave us, then augment our majority and vote for this bill so we grow that positive influence. Thanks—

Jane Yorke
Na
Austin, TX

Against

Christy Berry
Self
Austin, TX

Thus is pathetic bending the knee to a corrupt president and I find it appalling that this gets any attention when there are so many more important issues. It's embarrassing how we cave to Trump.

Shannon Rosenfeld
Self
Frisco, TX

Winning elections in this manner is not winning. Republicans may gain a few seats in the midterm but they will lose their base in the long run. This is not TX conservatism but rather is capitulation to an increasingly corrupt national party. Do better. Win on a platform of ideas. If you cannot win that way, what should that tell you?

Adam Earley, Mr.
Self
Round Rock, TX

This map is absolutely ridiculous. Why would San Antonio's district include parts of El Paso including a military base? I can answer- it's to dilute their votes since many vote Democrat. This is UNdemorcratic and corrupt. Politicians shouldn't be able to pick and choose their voters in order to fix their own elections. It's currently gerrymandered enough. Of the Democrats we're doing this, y'all would be infuriated and call them out for cheating. Please do better.

Jack Broussard Myself, Retired !
Lufkin, TX

I'm 100% against the ban on THC !!!

Cate Berry
Self
Austin, TX

Please don't pass this bill! It's unconstitutional and corrupt. Do what's right. It's important to be fair to your constituents and the state of Texas itself. History and the voters will judge you harshly if this passes. Winning fair and square is perfectly fine. Don't cheat. Fight fair.

Shawn Lee
Self
Cedar Park, TX

I oppose redistrictIng. It’s a form of cheating. Leave democracy in place.

Andrea Garcia
Self
San Antonio, TX

The impending effort to redistrict will continue the tradition of continual mismanagement of tax payer funds. Proof of this lies within the cuts to healthcare, food security to impoverished persons in our State and the tragedy in Kerr County during the July fourth holiday. This mismanagement is further compounded by the lack of response during the Uvalde, TX tragedy at Robb Elementary, where our Lieutenant Governor blamed too many doors for the tragedy. Lastly, if the impetus for Redistricting are concerns about voter fraud, the Republican party has continually won in Texas, hence the point is moot.

Dorothy Haviland
self
Austin, TX

The people trying to do this have no shame. This is a clear strategy to FIX AN ELECTION!
Shame, shame, shame on all of you trying to fix the next election this way.

Meagan Dutton
Self, RN
Godley, TX

This is wrong & we all know it.

Jennifer Kling
Self
College Station, TX

If you can’t win without cheating because your policies are unpopular, dehumanizing, authoritarian, and anti-Christ, perhaps do some soul-searching instead of cheating.

Catherine Ruiz Ind
San Antonio, TX

Do not redistrict. Do not be a puppet for Trump. Have decency and be your own man/woman. Be strong, not weak puppets.

Mark Valtierra
Self
Pflugerville, TX

As a resident of Pflugerville, Texas, I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 4 (HB 4) regarding congressional redistricting. The proposed district lines are a clear example of gerrymandering that undermines the integrity of our democracy, dilutes the voices of our communities, and threatens fair representation in Congress.

Pflugerville is a diverse, growing, and dynamic suburb of Austin with unique needs, challenges, and priorities. Yet under HB 4, our community is carved apart and lumped into a congressional district that spans across distant, unrelated areas that do not share our lived realities or local concerns. The redistricting proposal effectively severs Pflugerville from neighboring communities with which we share schools, transportation infrastructure, economic ties, and a common vision for the future.

This is not just a matter of inconvenience or political frustration. Gerrymandering districts in this way distorts representative democracy. When our congressional district stretches into areas with vastly different demographics, economies, and interests, our voices are diminished. Our ability to advocate for better public schools, transportation improvements, affordable housing, environmental protections, and access to healthcare is weakened by being grouped with regions that may have competing or conflicting priorities.

The proposed map also fails to reflect the racial and ethnic diversity of communities like Pflugerville, which is home to significant Latino, Black, and Asian American populations. By cracking apart these communities, HB 4 dilutes our collective voting power and weakens the ability of minority populations to elect candidates of their choice. This could violate the Voting Rights Act and flies in the face of principles of equal representation.

A fair map should keep communities of interest intact. Pflugerville is integrally connected to northeast Austin, Round Rock, Hutto, and Manor. We share schools, roads, businesses, and civic institutions. We should not be split or drawn into sprawling districts that prioritize partisan advantage over community representation.

Redistricting should not be used as a tool to protect incumbents or political parties. It should be a transparent, nonpartisan process that reflects the will of the people and the realities of our communities on the ground. HB 4 is not that. It is a partisan gerrymander that undermines public trust in government and democracy itself.

I urge lawmakers to reject HB 4 and return to the drawing board with a commitment to fairness, transparency, and community representation. The people of Pflugerville—and all Texans—deserve congressional districts that respect our communities and give us a real voice in our government.

Carol Francis
Myself
Sunset Valley, TX

For a number of reasons, I respectfully ask the Committee Members and our Representatives in the House to vote against a new redistricting plan. First of all, I wonder why this is coming to the table now, when there is no mandate to redistrict in the middle of the decade. It would seem that this effort may be in response to President Trump’s call for five more seats becoming republican? Secondly, the maps should not be manipulated to influence the voting outcome. People have the right to vote for whom they wish, and to cloud that vote by redistricting is counter to the principles upon which our country was founded. It is disgraceful to think that our representatives would gerrymander districts to gain seats for the party in power. As representatives of the people, who were chosen to faithfully represent the wishes of your constituents, do not vote for these redistricting maps.

Jana Robbins
self, veterinarian
Boerne, TX

As a native Texan and someone who has lived almost my entire life in Texas, I am appalled by the blatant dishonesty shown by what appears to be the majority of our current Legislature with this redistricting effort just to aid the Chief Criminal in the Oval Office. Our state stood at one time for honesty and integrity against all odds, but now neither of those are attributes are important. Everything revolves around being servants to the "Orange Jesus." I don't know how those in favor of this effort can ever explain themselves in front of the REAL Almighty that they so often invoke. You are selling out your constituents to the greatest con man who ever lived, and to his billionaire friends/supporters. Trump is the most immoral person ever to lead this country, and those supporting this bill are only to happy to help him. Horrific!

Ashley Bailey
Self
Pflugerville, TX

Strongly opposed to the redistricting map. Do not allow this, do not vote for this.

Stephanie Poole Martinez, Dr.
Self/education
Buda, TX

I am a Texan and a voter. I am 100% against the redistricting. We the citizens you represent do not want this to happen. I am pretty disappointed in those involved. If you have to cheat to win, you should not win. Obviously, you did not learn this in kindergarten. It is unethical and immoral as well. We, the citizens, voters, and tax payers of Texas, are watching—so is the country and the rest of the world.

Hunter Warren
self
San Antonio, TX

The periodic redistricting to favor one party over another is sad, undemocratic and unethical. This strategy is used by the Republicans to maintain their influence over Texas even as their priorities shift farther from those Texans they represent. How will we ever have a representative form of government if the party in power is artificially able to maintain it this way? There’s nothing fair to the people of Texas, about this process. There needs to be an independent redistricting process that seeks to equitably represent all Texans. Enough with the autocratic government tactics!

Alison Downs
Self
Fort worth, TX

At the risk of sounding childish, this is just so gross. Cheating to win because Donald Trump told you to? It’s honestly embarrassing. Focus on helping the flood victims and leave behind this wildly unpopular and shameful redistricting effort.

Carolyn Croom, Ms.
Self, retired
Austin, TX

HB4 would separate communities of interest and would increase political polarization, reducing voters' voices, effectively impacting everyone--Republicans, Democrats and independents. I live in Austin, and the proposed map for this area would effectively disenfranchise the Austin area.

Redistricting outside the census cycle wastes taxpayer money when that money should be prioritized for urgent flood recovery and flood alert efforts. The legislature needs to focus on the recent devastating floods in this Special Session, not spend time on what's being viewed as a power grab. Current maps are still being challenged in court, so new maps shouldn't be drawn. And Texans deserve a fair and transparent process, not what is happening now. There was very little notice and the hearings are all crammed into just a few days.

Do what is right for Texas, and drop redistricting efforts until the appropriate time, either after court challenges are over in order to address any concerns coming out of that, or at the beginning of the new census cycle in the next decade, and not before. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Croom

Charlotte Moore, Mrs.
Self, hairstylist
Fort Worth, TX

The new redistricting map looks absolutely ridiculous, the clown who drew it should be ashamed of themselves but I doubt they're capable of that.

Tim Macon
Self
Watauga, TX

I oppose the redistricting. Your shortsightedness and blind trust/fear of Trump will cost you future elections. The realization that our representation is secondary to Presidential preference is enough to turn our backs on you. If this happens you are turning your backs on Texans of all political stripes.

Amal Rahhal
Myself
Arlington, TX

This map is not conducive or representative of the people of Texas and should be redrawn.

Kennedy Nelms
Self student
Austin, TX

I do not approve of redistricting the map. This is not for the benefit of the public, this is a heavy manipulation attempt. This is only being done to sway the vote and keep a republican lead because it is known that most people do not agree with the right as of late.

Jennifer Vickers, Ms
Self
austin, TX

This bill is an outrage that will skew the voting in our state denying real representation to the people of this state. It is party motivated NOT democracy driven. Fix the existing problems in our state - like the horrific devastation in our hill country-do not instigate new disasters like passing this bill!

Barbara Hankinson, Dr.
Self/Physician
Plano, TX

My name is Barbara Hankinson, M.D. I am a family physician from the urban/suburban area of South Plano in Congressional District 32. I am writing in opposition to the proposed changes to the map of District 32 put forth in HB4.
I want my District to be drawn with like-minded, minority groups so my votes, views, problems, and issues will not be drowned out with the addition of an overwhelming number of rural East Texas voters which are known to be more Anglo-centric and frankly, more Republican. My needs and problems are generally not represented well by Republican members of Congress, and it is my belief that these same Republicans are proposing maps with a view merely to hold onto their jobs rather than assure fair representation for the voters of Texas.
Furthermore, I want the litigation from the last attempt Republicans made to seize control and consolidate their power from 2021 following the 2020 census to play out-- I want the courts to weigh in on the legality of those maps before other, more egregious maps are passed.
Therefore I oppose the congressional map proposed by HB 4, and I request that it be replaced by a map bringing more fair and equitable representation for all Texans, not just for my fellow Texas voters in CD 32.
Sincerely, Barbara Hankinson

Breanne Diaz
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill!

Chance Rushing
Self
Austin, TX

You must uphold the laws and norms and say NO to this illegal redistricting.

Mary Farley
SELF Marfa, TX

I adamantly oppose the redistricting that the state is trying to ram through the Texas legislature to become law. Texas, under the current administration, Abbott et al, has become one of the worst places to live with our rights being restricted at every opportunity. What the passage of this bill will do is further feed the corruption and biased representation of the people of Texas to continue minority rule, instill voter suppression and to make our votes less significant. This is plain and simple a corrupt power grab to enable the current minority in charge to expand their reach and make a democratic process impossible. This is an illegal redrawing of the map to serve the most corrupt president we have ever had, at least in my lifetime and that includes Nixon. It is not fair, just or emblematic of equality in voting rights of all Texans, it serves the few, not the many. The state is failing on so many levels, just look to Hunt Texas to see the terrible consequences of the current Texas administration partisan political reach. This map will insure that continued preventable disasters will continue as the corrupt people in power continue to skim off the top with no regard to the citizens of the state. There will be more abuse of power, more deaths and a continue slide to the bottom in health care, education and public safety if the current administration is allowed to rig elections by redistricting the voting maps to accommodate our corrupt national government. I often wonder if any of the people currently in power in Texas have any sort of moral compass or compassion - for others or for their children who are going to inherit a complete squandering of resources and a state that is no longer a place to be proud to live in. DO NOT ALLOW THIS REDISTRICTING MAP TO BECOME LAW!!!!! IT IS CRIMINAL AND WORKS AGAINST THE CORE OF OUR CONSTITUTION AND MOST IMPORTANTLY, WORKS AGAINST THE INTERESTS OF THE MAJORITY OF TEXANS.

Luann Ballachey, Ms.
Indivisible Centex
Temple, TX

I am strongly opposed to the redistricting and the outrage remapping of Texas! This is a power grab by the Trump administration and Texas lawmakers. This amounts to 5 seats and this is totally unacceptable.

Kendra Trainor
Self- educator
Farmers Branch, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting map. It’s inappropriate to redistrict during a non census year and the proposal purposely divided neighborhoods to favor republicans, rather than allowing voters to choose their representatives.

Rebecca Hallum
Self
Allen, TX

I strongly oppose the current redistricting proposal to add more Texas House of Representatives seats. While population growth may justify reevaluating representation, this process must be rooted in fairness, not political gain. This does not reflect the values of what true Texans stand for.

The proposed maps appear to dilute the voting power of communities of minority and urban areas, undermining the principle of equal representation. Every Texan deserves a voice in our democracy, not just those in politically favorable districts.

I urge you to prioritize transparency, equity, and nonpartisan redistricting. Voters should choose their representatives, not the other way around.

Samuel Jones
Self
Austin, TX

The people of Texas are watching you and how you vote. Represent your constituents not the interests of the federal government. Vote no!

Jeanne Rodriguez
Self
Euless, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. God bless America!!!

Kristine Lackey
Self
Houston, TX

Nothing says “I’m weak” like sneaking in in the dead of night to gain an upper hand. This redistricting outside of the norm, after our maps were created 4 years ago and not to be done again for another 6, is a slimy, dishonorable and dishonest attempt to rig the game in republican favor. It is disgusting, and should not be allowed. Everyone involved should be ashamed. If you want to win, you should earn the support of the people. This destroys your credibility and weakens your argument - it says “I cannot get the support of my people so I have to demolish everything and build it exactly how I want so I can get what I want.”

Weakness. Underhanded and deceptive. Not Christian at all.

Victoria Huxham
Self
Plano, TX

This redistributing attempt is unconstitutional and is a direct attack on Texans because y’all don’t like that we are holding you accountable after years of failed leadership. You know this is basically rigging the election in your favor because of whatever person or corporation that is backing you. Stop gerrymandering Texas and actually work the people you’re supposed to represent instead of finding new ways to get more power.

Alexandra Hasert
Self/healthcare
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 4. This mid decade redistricting effort is unnecessary, disruptive, and undermines public trust in the Democratic process. Redrawing congressional lines just a few years after the last redistricting cycle appears to be driven more by partisan interest than by genuine population shifts or fairness. The proposed map would break up established communities, dilute the voting strength of minority populations, and give one political party a clear advantage, potentially flipping several seats through manipulation rather than voter will. Our communities deserve stable, representative districts drawn with transparency, public input, and fairness, not rushed proposals during a special session. I urge lawmakers to reject HB4 and to protect the integrity of our elections by maintaining fair and representative congressional maps. Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

David Flanagin
Self
Little Elm, TX

This is a vile, anti-democratic, crooked attempt to expand inegalitarian control and power, drafted and pushed by people who have no genuine love for this country's ideals or for the constitution. Elected representatives are supposed to REPRESENT the PEOPLE - not the president, not donors, not corporations, not a single party only, not their own interests - but the politicians in power in Texas Right now have been displaying a hatred of those democratic principles. Redrawing districts to shrink the opposition party, to squelch differing viewpoints, is so fundamentally contrary to what this country is supposed to stand for. And the fact so many who push this despicable anti-democratic agenda claim to be Christians is the pinnacle of hypocrisy. Those who support this twisted, evil grab for power do not seem to care what their place in history will be. In the coming years, those who championed this will be seen as crooked politicians, self-aggrandizing hacks, and enemies of democracy. If you want to talk about "enemies of the people," look no further than the mirror. Trying to silence those with whom you disagree and take power from them, attempting to disenfranchise and ignore the perspectives of at least half the population, is the very epitome of being an enemy of the people. And you guys supporting this KNOW that. The pitiful, damning thing is that you just don't care. Don't talk about morality when you do not really believe in morality but only in wresting and maintaining power. That's not moral. Jesus taught that loving God hangs on loving others as you love yourself, regardless of whether they think like you do or agree with you. He said that whatever you do to the least in society, you do to him. But you people do not care about what Jesus said, and your eschewing his teachings demonstrates that you do not really believe in him - because you are unconcerned about violating the essence of what he taught. You are hypocrites. Your service to a monster who is the antithesis of Christ betrays your lack of belief in God or Christ. You are the kinda of people of whom Jesus said he will spit out and say "Away from me, for I never knew you!" SHAME ON YOU for betraying your oaths to the constitution and to the people of this state. You are, in truth, not just cheaters but traitors - and history will see you that way. I pray that you will soon reap what you sow, as Jesus said, and that the light will drown out the darkness. You still have time to repent and, with humility, latch onto truth and Justice and actual patriotism and love for democracy and the principles of this once-great land, but you are rapidly running out of time. Look in the mirror...get on your knees... those who claim to believe in God, reads the words of Christ and ask yourself if he would approve of this kind of oppressive, power-hungry move away from democracy and concern for people other than yourselves.

Andrea Boatright
Self
Alvarado, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting map as proposed.

Eric Oria
Self
Flower mound, TX

This bill is unconstitutional. The obvious nature of the intent of this redirecting to silence the voice of the minority goes against everything our founders fought for. Where is the dignity and honor anymore in our politicians?? I highly oppose this new map and these districts.

Laura Pratt
Myself
Dallas, TX

I oppose this mid-decade redistricting plan as our state leadership has yet to produce any evidence of a need that serves the actual constituents of Texas rather than the current GOP and Trump. My district is TX 32 and the split proposed will align my part of Dallas across multiple counties including Tarrant, which locally we have nothing in common. This proposed map dilutes my vote and my voice, and dilutes my neighbors voices as well. It is an obvious power grab initiated by Trump and not the State of Texas, and it's being done solely to support the federal level thereby a disservice to the people of Texas.

Pamela Cardenas
Self/retired
Tyler, TX

Please pass HB4. We, the people of the state of Texas, need to support President Trump. We need representation in Washington that will continue to support President Trump and what he's done on border security and deportation of criminal aliens.

Kaylyn Gustafson
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

I would like to strongly condemn this radical redistricting. This is blatantly partisan gerrymandering and sets a dangerous precedent.

Mandi Pairish, Ms.
Self
Carrollton, TX

I live in CD 32 and is robust in community. The area served by this community deserves to be well represented by not only demographics but geographical location. I strongly urge against this racial power grab from the Trump Administration.

Erika Maassen
Self/nanny
Austin, TX

I'm writing to formally protest these alterations to the map. This is ultimately a manipulation of the election process and should not be allowed.

William Christ, Dr.
Self
San Antonio, TX

These bills to create more districts that will vote Republican is an attack on democracy. If you vote for the gerrymandering suggested in these bills, you are voting against a two-party system. Democrats, who traditionally carry approximately 44% of the votes in Texas, will not have representation proportionate to their numbers. What Florida did and Texas is trying to do will escalate a nation-wide attempt to turn purple states into Blue or Red political states. Texas History will not be kind to those who vote for these bills.

Lindsay Nicol
Self
Austin, TX

HB 4 by Hunter weakens the integrity of our election system by redrawing district lines that actively remove liberal voices, creating a slippery slope that could undermine fairness for all Texans. While it might seem advantageous today, manipulating districts to silence opposing viewpoints sets a dangerous precedent that could backfire when political tides shift. Conservatives believe in winning through strong ideas and genuine debate not by changing the rules to silence opponents. Let's protect Texas values by rejecting partisan gamesmanship and keeping our elections fair and transparent.

Morgan Kirst-Petit
Self
Farmers Branch, TX

As a resident of Texas I oppose this bill. Gerrymandering in order to keep power does not allow the state to truly represent its constituents.

Teresa Cantu
Self
Liberty Hill, TX

It’s ridiculous I even have to sign this thing to voice that you should not be allowed to pick your voters. If you actually have faith in your party then prove you don’t need to cheat to win. I do NOT support this redistricring.

Paul Meadows
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly reject this redistricting bill.

Lizzie Cain Clark
Self
Austin, TX

I urge you to vote down all redistricting efforts until the next census is taken.

Loren-Li Moore, SGT (ret)
Self
San Antonio, TX

I’m a Texan by choice. Two years ago, I moved my family here in search of opportunity and a better life—just like my parents, who left Puerto Rico in 1985 without speaking a word of English. They built a life, raised three daughters, and showed me what resilience, hard work, and determination looks like.

I am the proud product of everything this country promises to be—if we have the courage to live up to it. I’m a disabled veteran, a wife, a mother, a Latina, a student, and a worker. I am a human being with moral courage, and I refuse to be erased. I refuse to sit idly by like all of you and watch Texas be further destroyed for my sons.

This redistricting scam is designed to silence voices like mine. And while I may be just one voice, I will not be quiet. My voice joins countless others in standing up to this corrupt, cowardly power grab—because Texans didn’t ask for this, and we deserve better.

Your silence, your surrender to a twice-impeached, 34-time convicted felon, speaks volumes. You are handing him power on a silver platter while abandoning the very people you swore to serve.

History may not remember my name—but it will remember your complicity and cowardice. It will remember that when faced with the choice to show intestinal fortitude, you chose blind allegiance to your party and a wannabe king over service to the people.

Let me be clear: I am not like you. I will never beg for favors. I will never grovel for crumbs. I will ALWAYS stand for what’s right. I will never be silenced.

Texans are suffering—from systemic failures, from real losses like those in Kerr County—and that is what you should be fixing. So stop playing games with our lives. Do the job you were elected to do. And if you won’t, step aside—because there are people with a backbone willing, ready, and able to fight.

Yeannet Ruiz
Self
Houston, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed Congressional redistricting map currently under consideration. As a concerned resident and voter, I believe this map fails to represent the interests of our communities and undermines the principles of fair and equitable representation.

The proposed map appears to prioritize partisan advantage over the fair representation of voters. By diluting the voices of specific communities—whether by splitting neighborhoods, consolidating opposing voters, or redrawing boundaries for political gain—this plan undermines public trust in our democratic process. Redistricting should be about ensuring that every vote counts equally, not about manipulating lines to serve political interests. This fragmentation reduces our ability to advocate effectively for the resources and policies that matter to us. Any redistricting plan that results in racial or ethnic vote dilution must be rejected outright.

I urge the legislature to reject this map and instead adopt a fair and transparent redistricting process that centers the will of the people, not politicians. Our democracy depends on maps that reflect real communities and provide every voter with an equal voice in government.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Everett Lunning
Social Justice Ministry, Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, Austin, Texas
Austin, TX

I am opposed to HB 4. Texas is already heavily gerrymandered, already in violation of the Voting Rights Act. This bill will increase the injustice. From the beginning, Texas has been organized by the wealthy for the benefit of the wealthy. Texas began as a slave economy. The revolt against Mexico was led by enslavers striving to keep their human property. The Republic of Texas was dominated by enslavers. The Constitution of 1876 was written by the wealthy for the wealthy. For 100 years after the Civil War, voting rights were suppressed and Texas became a low-voting state. In the 20th century Texas politics became dominated by the energy industries, and rich oil men used their money to support laws that ensured that they would keep their money. For the last 40 years Republican politicians have carved up voting districts so that no Democrat has been elected to a state office. One party rule is inherently corrupt. Our Attorney General is a criminal. And now Texas Republicans are bowing to a criminal president who is striving to maintain a majority in the US House to support his criminal administration. Texas is now a plutocratic autocracy on a level with Communist China. HB 4 will maintain this criminality into the next century.

Samantha Starnes
Self
Fate, TX

We (Texans) do not want to redistrict. Vote no to redistricting. This is rigging the game and it’s wrong. I will do everything in my power to make sure the people pushing this will be known and not be reelected. This is not democracy. This is how democracy dies.

Anna Kamburis
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill

Cynthia Gan
self - student
Houston, TX

This is a disgusting move to rip the representation away from millions of residents in Texas. Please do not pass this bill, do not allow this illegal redistricting attempt to happen, and instead at least give an attempt to draw somewhat fair lines that give proper representation for Texans.

Nancy Bridges
TRTA
Allen, TX

Our homes are selected based on favorability and school districts. I wish to make it known that I pay my taxes willingly to uphold this community and school district. I will not be subjugated to the whims of a corrupt tyrant or his henchmen. There will be no taxation without representation in the United States of America. What you are doing here today is reprehensible, morally bereft, and illegal. My representatives should vote against changing the voting precinct lines without a census having been completed in the same year. Thank you for considering my voice, as that is what you are paid to do.

Jim Buell, mr
Self retired
Georgetown, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. I think it reflects the proper distribution of the Texas electorate.

Isabelle Headrick, Dr self, teacher and mom
Austin, TX

I urge all Texas representatives to vote against this bill. This is a racist and undemocratic power grab away from people of color in Texas. If anything, they should be allocated MORE districts, given their population, not fewer. Doing this shows that the Republicans in Texas are afraid they cannot win the arguments about what is best for Texas on their merits but have to cheat instead. As a mom, I would not allow my children to engage in this kind of behavior—so why should politicians be allowed to? The people of Texas deserve to have actually fair and free elections, and politicians of every color, religion and political belief should have an equal chance at winning so Texas voters can have REAL CHOICES. Please stand up for what is right and vote against this bill! Thank you for reading this note.

Mary Heerwald
Self - comms contractor
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting effort. As elected officials who serve only because we - your constituents - gave you the ability, we undeniably, wholeheartedly demand that you not proceed with this disgusting, blatant effort.

Hans Maverick
Self/policy researcher
Austin, TX

I am writing in opposition to HB4. The present effort to rearrange congressional districts in Texas is a transparent, politically motivated power grab and must be stopped.

Linda Perez
Self
El paso, TX

The United States is facing a dangerous erosion of democracy, one driven by extreme partisan gerrymandering and fueled by blind loyalty to a single political figure. Republican-led legislatures across the country are redrawing district lines not to represent the will of the people, but to silence them. This calculated manipulation of electoral maps strips power from voters, especially communities of color, younger voters, and working-class families. It is a deliberate attack on the foundational promise of fair and equal representation.
Gerrymandering flips democracy on its head. Instead of voters choosing their leaders, politicians are choosing their voters. These rigged maps protect those already in power, eliminate real competition, and allow elected officials to ignore the needs of their constituents without consequence. This is not just unfair, it is unconstitutional. It violates the Equal Protection Clause, undermines the Voting Rights Act, and directly threatens the principle of "one person, one vote."
At the same time, the blind, unquestioning support for Donald Trump by many elected Republicans and their base adds fuel to this democratic backslide. No president, past, present, or future, should be treated as infallible or above accountability. That mindset directly contradicts the purpose of America's three co-equal branches of government, designed to ensure that no individual becomes too powerful. Yet we are watching elected officials abandon their constitutional duty to act as a check on the executive, trading principle for party loyalty and fear of political backlash.
This cult-like devotion to one man, even in the face of proven lies, corruption, and criminal indictments, is not patriotism. It is the opposite. It endangers the rule of law, weakens the separation of powers, and invites authoritarianism. A president is not a king. Our democracy depends on informed citizens who are willing to hold every leader accountable, regardless of party or popularity.
The combination of gerrymandering and blind presidential loyalty is no coincidence, it's a coordinated effort to lock in power, suppress dissent, and erode democratic safeguards. If we care about the future of this country, we must demand fair maps, transparent elections, and leaders who respect the Constitution more than they fear losing control.
True democracy means checks and balances. It means representation for all not just the loudest or most powerful. And it means never being afraid to question those in power, especially when they act like they're above it.

Alicia Barr, Dr.
self, educator
Lubbock, TX

As Americans we all know the importance of a democracy, where all voices count and elections are supposed to be fair and protected. But right now I am truly scared for the future of America. All the signs point toward the end of democracy and the beginning of authoritarian rule aimed at silencing and punishing those who disagree. Having a different opinion than those in power should not be justification for taking away their rights and their representation. Please REJECT this corrupt redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps. Please be brave and stand up against what YOU KNOW is unfair. EVERYONE deserves representation in a democracy. Please fight for a just world and reject winning by cheating and bending all the rules in favor of one party. Cheating is not honorable.

Rena Puckett
Registered voter
Wylie, TX

Please pass this bill for better representation of our views as Texans.

William Gausnell Retired
Heath, TX

Please pass this bill to keep Texas Red and conservative

Jenny Knowles
Self
Frisco, TX

I fervently oppose this proposed redistricting. We Texans are beyond tired of our representatives not caring about any of us. This new map is a blatant power grab, and the Republicans are openly cheating. STOP IT. The Trump loyalism has to stop. Quit putting yourselves on the wrong, very fascist side of this insane history.

LeAndra Cross
Self
Arlington, TX

This realignment doesn't take into consideration the people these seats will represent. This is wrong and unethical.

Nancy Maza
Self
Houston, TX

Redistricting is not necessary. It feels like a blatant attempt at gerrymandering and ensuring or actual voices are not heard. This administration has caused enough damage.

Jacy Lewis Watkins self and communications
Midland, TX

Incredible that during the special session the state decided we needed to redraw maps to suppress voters instead of doing something about our failing power grid, emergency fund for flash flood devastation or any of the other myriad of problems facing the state. Stand up to Trump and say no to voter suppression. This is simply disgusting gerrymandering. I currently have no voice where I live. My representatives do not listen to me so at this point I am being taxed without representation to give tax breaks to greedy corporations. I'm sick and tired of this idiocracy this state wants to pull. Instead of making life better for those living in the state we want to bow down to a fascist person who is currently in the oval office. Let's all be truthful and just call him a fascist pedophile but I guess the republicans don't care about stopping pedophiles anymore. Stand up or step down. You have the chance to take a stand instead of handing him the reigns to ruin this country. Take a stand and vote no to redistrict and suppress voters even more in this state.

Raul elguea
Self - Engineer
EL PASO, TX

Please don't touch our district. We like the way it is currently. Thank you! God Bless!

Kathryn Van Winkle, Dr.
self / editor
Leander, TX

I strongly opposed this redistricting effort and the proposed map. This new map is a naked power grab that would disenfranchise voters in my Central Texas region. It deploys racial gerrymandering, which is illegal. I urge the legislature to oppose it.

John Middleton, Mr.
self / retired
Houston, TX

Texas does not need Congressional Redistricting at this time, and I am appalled that this is even being considered (especially with the Republican tilt). Also, you have delayed on new elections for deceased democrats leaving some Texans without true representation.

Scott Swanson, Mr.
Self
Austin, TX

In the middle of the decade because Texas is in play, state leaders are redrawing congressional maps in order to save Republican power instead of letting voters choose their representatives through the democratic process. The proposed maps cut out Democratic members of Congress and destroy the power of our communities — all to protect Republican power while silencing Black, Hispanic, and Asian Americans. It is a disgusting, vile, and grotesque mockery of democracy that poses a serious threat to Texas voters' representation and could boost authoritarian control. We see you. We can't believe what you say, because we see what you do. You took an oath to uphold the Constitution. Now is the time to remember that.

Mark Loovis
Self
Richardson, TX

As a voter in Texas, I am writing to express my deep disappointment and concern over the recently proposed congressional district maps. These maps appear to prioritize political gain over the fair and equitable representation of the people they are meant to serve.

Rather than organizing districts based on shared interests, community ties, and geographic logic, the maps seem to carve up regions in a way that dilutes voices and fragments communities. It is disheartening to witness a process where citizens are treated not as individuals with needs and concerns, but as strategic pieces in a larger power struggle.

I feel that the intent behind these maps is to silence the already limited voice I have, which is my vote. When districts are drawn in ways that strip voters of meaningful influence, it undermines the very foundation of our democracy. It sends a message that power, not people, is the true priority.

This process lacks transparency, fairness, and respect for the voters of Texas. I urge the Legislature to reject these maps and pursue a redistricting approach that genuinely reflects the values of representation, accountability, and community.

Respectfully,
Mark Loovis
Richardson, TX

Brenda Hampton
Self
Kingwood, TX

I am a voter and against redistricting at this time. Redistricting is done after a census. There was a census in 2020 and redistricting in 2021. There is no valid reason for redistricting other than political gain. We live in a democracy and people fought and died for freedom, due process, and equality. Redistricting during a special session right before an election is none of the above. DO NOT VOTE FOR REDISTRICTING. This is illegal.

Crystal Harrison
Self Executive Toshiba
Austin, TX

I stand in support of HB4 redistricting map

Cliff Caldwell
Self
San Antonio, TX

Redistricting! Just because you have the power does not make it right. In fact, because you have the power you have a higher duty to act in good faith towards the constituents of this state. Redistricting now, just 4 years after it was last done, serves only the purpose of satisfying someone who has redrawn boundaries to suit their own agenda. Did the people in the affected areas ask for this to be done? Has it been done free of malice or malintent? Does it correct some prior wrong? I currently live in a Congressional District that stretches hundreds of miles not because it was what was right but it was what was expedient to power. That is fundamentally wrong! Reject this effort to redraw the boundaries now.

Colleen Donart
Self
Sugar Land, TX

I am vehemently opposed to the mid decade, off cycle redistricting plans that are a direct attempt to let Republicans STEAL 5 seats. This is a blatant attempt to take away the voices of people in minority-majority districts. I emplore ALL legislators to have the COURAGE TO CARE!!! and vote against this!!!

Melissa Coupal, Dr.
self; independent researcher, writer, and translator
Austin, TX

Like many Texans, I am proud of my family's heritage in this state. My father's family arrived here in 1836. Independence, both of thought and of action, are values my family cherished then, and I cherish now. This includes political expression. Each citizen of this state should have the ability to hold and share political opinions, support political action, and to cast a vote that expresses those opinions and actions. We should be able to cast our vote confidently, with the knowledge that one person, one vote is a a right and value upheld by the government of the State of Texas. As legislators, it is your responsibility to ensure that each and every Texan is represented in our state and our country's governmental decisions. One way those rights are protected is by making sure that the voting districts established by the state accurately reflect that district's demographic makeup. Districts should only be redrawn when demographic shifts require it. The current redistricting maps presented for your consideration do not reflect such changes. They are presented in response to demands from cowardly state and federal leaders, greedy to retain power whether or not the people the purport to represent wish them to do so. Please do not give in to these demands. Please vote in the best interest of ALL Texans. Thank you for voting against redistricting.

Nicole Baker
Self- Vice President HR
Denton, TX

As a long time Texan raising my family here, I am appalled at the thought that my state government would try to redistrict and redraw the maps just to appease a Trump demand. We are our own state who should pride ourselves on thinking for ourselves, fighting fair and following the rules. This is not what Texans want you all to be doing and I will not cast a future vote for anyone that supports this. It’s undemocratic and shameful.

Samir Shah
Self, marketing professional
Austin, TX

Blatant attempt to rig an election, from a party ostensibly concerned about voter fraud.

If this goes through I will redouble my effort and my funding for Democratic candidates in the state house.

Justin Linder
Self
Austin, TX

The Texas lege must absolutely oppose this change. Republicans should be campaigning and winning on actually good policy ideas rather than trying to redraw districts to their advantage at the direction of the federal government and president.

darryl JOHNSON
Self
Killeen, TX

Why are we doing this when food and gas is increasing, and we are worried about what demographic is in which district. This is stupidity at its finest

Patrick Hess
self
Mansfield, TX

This bill is extremely shady and shameful. This absolutely will only serve to degrade the Republican party's reputation, they used to have a spine but now cannot stand up for their selves or their constituents. This bill is a desperate power grab and will only serve to disenfranchise all Texas voters.

Texas Republican representatives, I urge you to do what is right and stand up for yourselves and your constituents. Vote No on HB4 congressional redistricting.

Gary Spinell
Self
McKinney, TX

So the plan is for you to choose the voters instead of having the voters choose their representatives. If you ran on and endorsed wholesome values and plans to help everyone you wouldn't have to rig the election! As your constituent and someone deeply invested in preserving the integrity of our democratic process, I respectfully urge you to oppose and speak out against Texas House Bill 4 (HB 4) and similar redistricting measures that undermine local autonomy and distort fair representation.

Core Concerns:

1. Erosion of Local Control HB 4 represents a significant state overreach that preempts the authority of municipalities to govern local matters — including district lines, voting access, and community representation. Local leaders are often more attuned to the demographics, needs, and values of their constituents. This top-down control not only disrespects local governance but creates a dangerous precedent that weakens community self-determination.

2. Partisan Gerrymandering Though redistricting is necessary after the census, HB 4 has resulted in maps that favor one political party disproportionately — despite growing demographic diversity and shifting political attitudes across Texas. Packing and cracking communities of color dilutes their voting power, marginalizes their voices, and violates the spirit, if not the letter, of the Voting Rights Act.

3. Voter Confidence and Democratic Legitimacy When districts are drawn to guarantee outcomes, voters lose trust that their participation matters. Gerrymandering drives polarization, reduces competitiveness, and leads to extreme candidates who are less accountable to a broad base. A healthy democracy requires that elections be meaningful contests — not foregone conclusions engineered through maps.

4. Legal and Constitutional Risks Similar redistricting laws have faced successful legal challenges in the past for violating constitutional protections and federal laws such as the Voting Rights Act. HB 4 exposes Texas to ongoing litigation that wastes taxpayer dollars and undermines the credibility of the legislative process.

5. Missed Opportunity for Reform Rather than doubling down on partisan redistricting, Texas could have f ollowed the lead of other states that established independent redistricting commissions — giving citizens more control and creating maps based on fairness, transparency, and accountability. This approach encourages broader civic engagement and reflects the will of the people, not just political operatives.
In closing, redistricting should be a tool for representation, not manipulation. HB 4 sacrifices the democratic principle of fair and equal representation in favor of short-term political gain. I respectfully ask that you consider the long-term consequences and advocate for reforms that serve all Texans, regardless of party or zip code.

Rebeckah Mersinger self, Executive Assistant
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting bill, HB 4. As a lifelong Texan, a recent graduate with a BA in Political Science, and someone who grew up in the rural town of Goldthwaite, I recognize exactly what this is: a blatant power grab poorly disguised as governance.

As someone who has studied political systems and works directly with underrepresented, minority communities through my job at MELJ Center, a nonprofit that serves formerly incarcerated people and their families, I see how these redistricting decisions directly impact policy outcomes, community funding, and civil rights. These current efforts are not driven by necessity or fairness, but they so obviously display how Republican lawmakers in Texas are submitting to Trump's anti-democratic demands. Redistricting should be about fair representation, not political manipulation. However, these maps do not reflect the demographic and political realities of Texan communities. They are not only a blatant attempt to suppress minority voices but also dilute the voices of rural and working-class Texans. Gerrymandered districts disconnect lawmakers from the people they claim to represent. They allow politicians to choose their voters, rather than voters choosing their representatives.

Texas is stronger when all people, regardless of geography, race, or political affiliation, are fairly represented. Anyone who votes for this map will be remembered as an abomination for contributing to the deliberate deterioration of democracy. The people of Texas deserve leaders who defend democracy, not followers who sell out to a racist administration that treats voters like obstacles, not citizens, and clings to power through deceit and manipulation.

Isela Porras
self
El Paso, TX

Disappointed in the Republican Party. It seems that you are not working for Texans. You need to remember you represent Texans not the president. Do what is right for Texas!

Cherrelle Duncan
Self
Houston, TX

My name is Cherrelle Duncan, and I am a Texan who stands in opposition to this redistricting process and the maps presented.

There is no legitimate reason for mid-decade redistricting. This process is a waste of taxpayer dollars and serves no purpose other than to dilute Black political power. It is clear to anyone paying attention that this is not about fair representation, but that this is about racial gerrymandering and intentional voter suppression.
Let’s be honest: the field hearings were performative. You had these maps in your possession and failed to produce them for public review in good faith. To release them and call a hearing with less than 48 hours' notice, while the public is still reviewing the details, is a textbook example of a process designed to limit input and silence dissent.

This map eliminates two of the four Congressional districts in Texas where Black voters have historically elected candidates of their choice. The 9th and 18th Congressional Districts, both protected by law, have been gutted. You’ve redrawn the 9th into a district with only 10% Black population and fractured the long-standing base of the 18th.

This map is crafted to destroy the Black and Brown coalitions that have historically fought for justice and equity in Texas. It is no coincidence that these maps provoke intra-community conflict while diluting our collective power. This is about the future of our democracy, and the message you're sending is loud and clear: you are not drawing maps to represent Texans—you are drawing maps to erase us.

We will not forget. And we will not be silent.

Anne Livingston, Ms.
Self - Educator
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the current redistricting effort underway in the state of Texas. This process, at this time, is both inappropriate and unacceptable for legal, ethical, and democratic reasons. First, let's be clear: redistricting is meant to happen once a decade after the census. Texas last redrew its maps in 2021, and by law, there is no requirement or justification for doing it again now. There's simply no legal mandate for mid-cycle redistricting, which makes this an obvious political maneuver, not a constitutional necessity. Second, Texas's electorate is diverse and growing. According to the independent Voter Project, about 46% of voters lean Democratic, 38% Republican, and the rest are independents. But instead of maps that reflect that balance, the current proposal would give Republicans control of up to 30 of 38 congressional districts. That's not democracy, that's gerrymandering. These new maps unfairly target Democratic incumbents, especially in urban and minority-majority areas. They force Democratic lawmakers into the same districts and dilute the voting power of Black and Latino communities. This is happening just as the Department of Justice is raising concerns about previous maps already suspected of violating the Voting Rights Act. Let's not forget - Texas has a long history of federal courts striking down its redistricting maps for racial discrimination. And yet, here we are again, with a rushed partisan process, thinly disguised as a "correction." Furthermore, this redistricting effort disrupts vital constituent services. When representatives are swapped out midterm, thousands of Texans risk losing access to caseworkers managing their Social Security, veterans' benefits, and immigration help. This isn't just political – it's personal! Redistricting now is a obvious power grab that undermines democracy, disrespects communities of color, and damages the integrity of public service. Finally, I'd also like to remind all of you that you work for the people of this state not those in Washington DC. Texans deserve state lawmakers who are focusing on the myriad issues facing the state now - like figuring out how to improve our response and preparation to natural disasters; providing our children safe, research-based, and evidence-informed education; and addressing affordability and the cost of living. Shame on you for kowtowing to the whims and directives of anyone other than the people of Texas. For the sake of every Texas voter, I implore you to prevent this redistricting effort!

Jenny Spencer, Dr.
Self, Researcher
Austin, TX

As an independent living in Austin, Texas, I urge the committee to reject an unscheduled and unnecessary redistricting, which does not reflect the interests or needs of our community and will serve as a political manipulation to de-value the voices of my fellow Texans.

Megan Peterson
self
Austin, TX

Do not gerrymander the state of Texas. The Gov Abbott and the rest of the Texas legislature work for the people of Texas and not for Trump or the man from Virginia trying to force this issue.

John Gardner, Mr
Self
Arlington, TX

I oppose this racist corrupt bill to strip away the voices of Texas voters. Do Not give away Texas to Donald Trump!
We are proud and independent Texans We do not bend to Washington DC's will.

Dawn Luck-Ezell
self
San Antonio, TX

This is the criminals in charge trying to stay in charge. They know their policies and scams (such as the voucher ordeal) are not popular so they have to redistrict so that they can win at all cost and stay in charge. These are not republican ideas, they are millionaire and billionaire ideas. Check the facts, not Fox.

Jonathan Carroll
Self
Austin, TX

As a lifelong Texan, and someone who lives in one the proposed affected districts, I fully oppose this blatant and disgusting power grab, which is going to be a waste of Texas taypayer time and resources, and will ultimately be ruled unconstitutional. Our leaders need to have pride and a backbone, and not cower to every ridiculous whim of the felon president. Leave our districts untouched by this obvious racism, stop this ridiculous gerrymandering attempt now.

Leticia Cuvillier
Self, neonatal nurse practitioner
Brownsville, TX

The purpose of this letter is to express concerns regarding the proposed congressional redistricting map being considered by the legislature.

Specifically, the potential impact of merging the 35th and 37th districts in Central Texas is concerning. This move could result in voter suppression and dilute the voting power of Black and Latino communities in the area. Redistricting should uphold the principle of "one person, one vote" and ensure fair representation for all Texans.

This change could significantly affect the community in Brownsville potentially splitting our community and hindering our ability to elect a representative who truly understands and advocates for our needs. The community relies on having a representative who can effectively address local concerns.

It is urged that the proposed redistricting map be opposed and that a plan that respects community integrity and complies with the Voting Rights Act is advocated for. Ensuring that all Texans have the opportunity to elect representatives of their choice, regardless of race or background, is crucial.
Leticia Cuvillier

Katelyn Absalom
self; graduate student
Dallas, TX

I am commenting to state my opposition to a mid-decade redrawing of the Congressional Districts. The legislature and Governor Abbott should be ashamed of their legislative priorities for this special session, especially in the wake of the recent floods that killed over 100 people. Texas citizens are concerned with our safety in a time of increasing natural disasters due to the climate crisis. We do not want the congressional districts redrawn for no other purpose than political gain. If the districts are to be redrawn, then they need to be drawn in a fair and non biased way according to the census data. The goal of redistricting should be to give more power to the people — everyone is entitled for their vote to be counted as equitable with their fellow citizens. Abuse of the district maps harms all citizens, especially the most vulnerable. The districts should be drawn with equity in mind, not political gain. Once again, I oppose the mid-decade congressional redistricting and encourage all state representatives to join me in my opposition. Thank you.

Mona Mehdy, Dr.
self, professor
Austin, TX

I am writing in strong opposition to the proposed mid-decade redistricting of Texas. No clear evidence has been furnished for why this unprecedented, completely out of step with the regular decade scheduling of redistricting action needs to be taken. There should be no redistricting at this time and the special session should be devoted to the disgraceful state of flooding management, the lack of emergency sirens, the need for rezoning in floodplains and financial assistance to those who were harmed by the July 4th floods and financial support for them to relocate to safer areas.
I stand opposed to the HB 4 proposed map that was released today, July 30, 2025. This map shows glaring, one-sided, GOP favored in elections changes in districts reduces non-GOP and minority voters strength, specifically targeted across the state. The proposed map rampantly controverts the intent and stipulations of the Voting Rights Act and undermines representative democracy through the drawing of maps aimed at promoting political outcomes and not upholding citizens having strong protected voting rights across the state to decide elections. You were not elected to further damage our Texas democracy but rather to solve problems for our state.

David Broadwell
self - retired teacher
Plano, TX

I would like to request that the legislature show that they are elected for their own constituents and reject the redistricting of our congressional voting districts towards an non equitable slant for one party or another. Let us vote with our neighbors and let the chips fall where they may. It is sad to think otherwise. It's about right and wrong, fairness versus greed. Politicians should be elected by who they are and not influenced by money and re election. Whether this is how its always been does not matter. We need to start the change for the best equity for the people you represent and not just some people in a far off place called DC. Otherwise, how would you be able to sleep at night knowing you gave away your integrity.
Sincerely,
David Broadwell

Robin Johnson
CWA union
Dallas, TX

I think this is a shame about the new map you have drawn up. You have eliminated a lot of voters and you did this all to give into a peer pressure. What happen to the Voters Right. What happen to working with you people. You have always scream VOTER FRAUD WHAT IS THIS. This is unacceptable for the American people and I hope you will not support this MAP

Timothy Edward Duda
self/retired educator
San Antonio,, TX

undemocratic attempt to cling to power and demand the legislature draw maps that are maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state.

?
undemocratic attempt to cling to power and demand the legislature draw maps that are maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state.

?
undemocratic attempt to cling to power and demand the legislature draw maps that are maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state.

?
undemocratic attempt to cling to power and demand the legislature draw maps that are maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state.

?
We are witnessing an undemocratic attempt to cling to power. I demand the legislature draw maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state.

?

Dale Upshaw, Veteran retired
Self/Retired veteran
San Antonio, TX

Republicans control more states with no guardrails—so they can gerrymander fast and furious. Texas, Florida, North Carolina, Ohio—they could lock in 10 to 13 extra House seats by 2026.

But Democrats? If Newsom breaks California's independent redistricting laws, and New York joins in, they could claw back up to 10 seats of their own. It's a knife fight. And if both sides go all in? Republicans still come out just barely ahead—but at the cost of democracy itself."

So here's the question: do Democrats fight fire with fire—or stay the moral course while losing power? Because if no one plays fair anymore, the people lose either way.

This isn't red vs. blue—it's rigged vs. real. Pay attention. Speak up. Because next time, your district might just disappear."

Let's be real—this isn't about fair representation anymore. It's about locking down power before the next presidential election. Republicans are laying legal landmines to protect Trump in 2028. These maps? They're not just districts. They're weapons.

And for Democrats? If they don't counter—if they let California or New York stay 'neutral' while Texas runs wild—they risk losing the House even if they win the national popular vote by millions. That's not democracy, that's manipulation at scale.

But here's the catch: Democrats built their brand on defending voting rights, clean elections, and commissions. If they go full-throttle gerrymander, they risk losing the moral high ground—and trust with their own base.

So the ultimate question isn't just 'Who wins?'—it's: What do we lose? And the answer is: faith. Trust. Legitimacy. Because once you normalize the rigging, you don't get the rules back.

Either we fix this now—or America becomes a rigged democracy in red and blue ink. And nobody gets a fair shot ever again."

Now let's talk about who really gets crushed in this redistricting war: Black and brown communities, working-class voters, and young people.

These gerrymandered maps aren't just about flipping party colors—they're about erasing voices, slicing through neighborhoods, and making sure certain communities never get the power to fight back.

In Texas? They've already started cracking Latino districts in the Rio Grande Valley and slicing up Black-majority neighborhoods in Houston. In Georgia and North Carolina? Same playbook—dilute, divide, and dominate.

And don't think Democrats won't do the same if they're desperate enough. They'll protect incumbents, sideline progressives, and freeze out grassroots movements if they think it helps them hold the chamber.

At this point, we're not just watching parties battle—it's the architecture of democracy being rewritten behind closed doors. The Constitution gives states this power. But when that power is abused, and the courts won't step in?

Then it's up to us. The people. Because once both sides stop pretending to care about fairness, the only question left is:

Who's drawing the map—and who gets erased?"

Claire Peters
Self
Spring, TX

This is abhorrent, do not gerrymander our state.

Nina Lian
Self
Houston, TX

I am firmly opposed to this redistricting effort. The Texas Legislature should focus on establishing the necessary regulations and support to prevent the horrific flooding and deaths which just occurred in Central Texas. You should not be making a mockery of democracy with these shameful, gerrymandered voting maps. They are a disgrace to the notion of democracy. Stop these maps now.

Jaycie Dardeau
Self
Addison, TX

We should not be redistricting in the middle of a decade. This is clearly just a ploy for Donald Trump to try to steal 5 seats from the American people and more specifically Texans. Do not mess with Texas. This is undemocratic and our state is gerrymandered enough. We deserve to be accurately represented. What are the republicans so scared of that they can't play fair?

Grace Chen
Self - Nurse
Dallas, TX

I do not approve of this act by the Texas Legislature. If redistricting is truly necessary, it should be done during a normal legislative session to allow Texans the chance to speak their minds on the matter. Being rushed and forced through behind closed doors as it is right now is wrong. We have the right to be heard and a right to defend our electoral rights. Please do not move forward with this bill. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Emmett Dear
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I do not want gerrymandering or purposeful silencing of our voices.

Bernadette Silva
Self
El Paso, TX

El Paso is a thriving and diverse community representing everything I love about Texas. Sadly, political forces are seeking to break up our wonderful city to pick and choose who they'd prefer to represent, flying in the face of our vote and will. I am fervently against continual efforts to split up our neighborhoods even more than they already are after the previous round of redistricting. From the chopping and slicing of our community in North Hills, it is blatantly apparent that our neighboring member of Congress is selecting higher income households to represent while also avoiding representing our community. In the meantime, Rep. Escobar is left to rally for our people as best she can, while being asked to answer for his votes. El Pasoans and the rest of Texas deserve better than this manipulation.

Xing Huang
self
Converse, TX

I stand in opposition to redistricting. Redistricting should be about fair representation. Unfortunately, the new map splits neighborhood, dilutes voices of minorities, and draws lines prioritizing political incumbency over people. Gerrymandering undermines core principles of representative democracy. The map does not reflects the real growth in diversity at a time when people of color (such as Asian Americans) represent the largest growth in population in Texas. I urge you to reject this attempt at power grab. Do the right thing to put people over politics!

Kathleen Springer
Self, psychologist
Houston, TX

I oppose this plan to redraw congressional maps because not only is it cheating, it’s cheating that can be done by blue states too. The governors of CA & NY have already said that they will redraw their maps if TX goes through with this plan and I believe them. With this bill, we may be able to redraw the TX map to gain 5 seats, but I believe it will ultimately end up costing us way more than 5 seats.

Jack Applewhite, Mr.
Self, Retired
Austin, TX

Redistricting should NOT happen until 2031, AFTER the 2030 Census. I expect my Texas elected officials to deal with Texas' issues, NOT do the bidding of President Trump. Do you represent Texans or are you President Trump's lackeys? This special session has other, far more important, issues with which to deal. Thank you.

Kelly Roberts
self/Realtor
McKinney, TX

It is unconscionable that there is even a consideration of redistricting at this time, when it is not due. We have technology at our disposal. AI could easily and simply draw maps according to the latest census. To pervert our representation in this way is cheating, plain and simple.

Elena Karaytcheva
Self, Marketing Director
Houston, TX

I do not support this bill and do not want it to be passed.

Andrea Green
Self
Austin, TX

Texas HB 4 by Hunter is un-American and anti-Texas bill. This bill is playing politics and ignores the needs of the people. This bill is politicians choosing voters, and not voters choosing politicians, which is fundamentally anti-democratic. I am opposed to this bill and I ask you not to vote it into law. Thank you for listening and respecting the land and communities we call home.

Devin Light
Self, Student
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong objection to the proposed mid-decade redistricting map. This map is a clear example of partisan gerrymandering, strategically drawn to dilute the voting power of urbanized communities and artificially reinforce Republican control for the foreseeable future. This is a cynical exercise in which politicians are choosing their voters, rather than voters choosing their politicians. Such a practice undermines the very foundation of representative democracy, effectively disenfranchises countless Texans, and further erodes public trust in our already-fractured electoral system.

Fair districts should be drawn based on clear, non-partisan criteria. They should be compact and contiguous, respecting established geographic and political boundaries like county lines, city limits, and natural features. Most importantly, district lines must preserve communities like neighborhoods, school districts, and local economies that bind Texans together. When a community is kept whole within a single district, its residents have a genuine opportunity to elect a representative who understands and can advocate for their collective needs. The current proposal does the opposite, intentionally carving up cohesive communities for the sole purpose of achieving a partisan outcome.

I urge you to reject this unfair map and support a process that creates districts based on community integrity and fair competition, not partisan advantage.

Barbara Uskovich, Mrs.
Self
Midlothian, TX

Vote YES

Millicent Turner
N/A
Irving, TX

Consider all people of Texas not just a select group of people.

Eleanor Bartosh
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the redrawing of district lines.

Danielle Bryant
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting maps being considered in this special session.

During the regular session, the Legislature wasted hundreds of hours pushing Greg Abbott's deeply unpopular voucher scheme—an out-of-touch plan to rip millions from neighborhood public schools—while refusing to hold a single hearing on literacy, student behavior, or the teacher shortage. And now, instead of addressing the devastating floods that took hundreds of lives, we are dragged into a special session to redraw gerrymandered maps so Republicans can cling to power nationally.

That's exactly what's happening again today. Don't be fooled. This isn't about fairness or representation—it's about power. The existing maps are already cracked and packed in ways that make no sense for communities and are under active litigation, but we know this process is not about fixing them.
Everyone knows this is a Trump-backed power grab—a rogue DOJ letter cooked up to give cover for grabbing five more seats to serve a politically toxic agenda.

Trump's platform is wildly unpopular in Texas. The same Texans whose schools you defunded this spring will lose their Medicaid, their hospitals, and in too many cases, their lives—so billionaires can get tax breaks. And you know it. These new maps are nothing more than an attempt to cheat voters and cement political control instead of serving the people of this state.

I urge you to reject these maps, reject this sham process, and start governing for Texans—not for Trump, not for the DOJ, and not for the GOP's political survival.

Debbie Havranek
Myself
Allen, TX

I am for the redistricting of congressional districts.

Susan Backer
self / retired
Liberty Hill, TX

NO REDISTRICTING FOR TEXAS! Mr. Trump should keep his hands off of our State. Abbott should focus on setting up warnings for severe flash floods in this special session.

Mandy Tran
Self, Receptionist
Katy, TX

I urge Texas representatives to vote against HB 4. I oppose HB 4 because it is a corrupt election rigging attempt by the GOP. The new maps, drawn by the GOP-majority Texas Legislature, will give the GOP five new seats in the US House of Representatives in the 2026 midterm elections, an obvious conflict of interest. It is clear that the Texas GOP is obeying President Trump's demand to create five more GOP seats for him ahead of the 2026 midterms so he can secure more power. If Trump and the GOP want to win elections, then they should serve their constituents, such as by combating rising grocery prices, funding critical flood recovery, and releasing the Epstein Files. Instead, HB 4 is a pathetic election rigging attempt that erodes the political power of everyday Texans like me and my loved ones.

Wayland KEITH
Self
Denton, TX

I am in favor of the redistricting of congressional districts

Marylyn Holland
Self
Lubbock, TX

No redistricting

Anthony Stevens
self
Austin, TX

It's absolutely disgusting power grab. It 100% proves that the republicans are anti-american, and only interested in their self interests. Republicans are afraid of losing power, and instead of just being better, they have to resort to changing the rules so that the voice of Texans can not be heard. If we wanted a FAIR map, there are resources for that, but a FAIR map would show that republicans are not as popular as they would believe. It does show that they do not believe in fair representation.

MERY ARRIAGA, Ms
Constituent
San Antonio, TX

This is wrong yall should be ashamed of yourself for gerrymandering. You testicle are really going to let trump ribe ypu to this this the the people this is not the usa that we want to live in the USA with freedom. Of speech and opportunity for the people to vote you are coward scum i have child braver then you your scare the state will trun blue good its about time I hope evil spirits haunt you and your families till the days your bloodlines die.

Kimberly DeWeese
self / attorney
Plano, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose HR 4 and the precedent it sets for redistricting in Texas. Redistricting should serve the people—not a political party.

Using the redistricting process solely to increase one party's number of seats undermines public trust and erodes the democratic principles this state and country were founded on. This kind of manipulation does not reflect the will of the voters; it reflects the will of politicians protecting their own power.

Texans deserve fair, transparent, and nonpartisan district maps that ensure all communities have equal representation. HR 4 moves us in the opposite direction. I urge you to reject it.

Maryam Vali
SAAVETX
Allen, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Maryam Vali/SAAVETX
Allen, Texas

Mikaela Frissell
Self
Austin, TX

This bill is wrong for Texas and is will only add to the problems of hyper partisanship in the country. Please do what is right for Texas not for Trump and the Republican Party.

Stephen Bridges
The 134 Pac
Rosanky, TX

Against passage. You're chosing your voters instead of voters choosing candidates. Stop the steal.

Brandon McGinnity self, HVAC technician
Austin, TX

This redistricting is unconscionable, how dare you! Blatantly corrupt and partisan to silence the voice of right about HALF THE STATE'S POPULATION. This in no way should pass, this is undemocratic, unTexan and unAmerican. You should be ashamed of yourselves. And remember what happened last time "taxation without representation" occurred.

Kristi Giemza
Self
Lubbock, TX

Gerrymandering is bad for a healthy representative democratic republic - whether it’s done by democrats or republicans. Please exert your independence from political pressure in DC and do what is best for the citizens of Texas.

Susan Stasney
Myself
Round rock, TX

Absolutely not. Do not mess with Texas and redistrict our state.

Michael Stueber
Self
La Grange, TX

We need to do it

Adrian Avalos self, material worker
Houston, TX

My name is Adrian Avalos, and I am a proud resident of Congressional District 29. I submit this comment in strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan that would redraw and fracture our district.

CD-29 is more than just lines on a map — it is a community bound by shared values, cultural heritage, and common concerns. The proposed map would break apart communities of interest and weaken the ability of Latino voters and working families to advocate for their needs. It is clear this redistricting effort is politically motivated, not driven by what’s best for the people who actually live here.

Fair representation matters. Our district deserves to remain intact so that our voices — especially those who have historically been marginalized — are not silenced. I urge the committee to reject this map and instead adopt one that reflects the reality and integrity of our community.

Thank you for the opportunity to speak out.

Sincerely,
Adrian O. Avalos

Morgan Ray
Self - student
College station, TX

Stop gerrymandering our state

Jennifer Hernandez
IUPAT, International Union of Painters and Allied Trades DC10 and myself
Humble, TX

My name is Jennifer Hernandez, Director of Government Affairs and Union rep with the IUPAT, International Union of Painters and Allied Trades District Council 10. We represent glazier and painters and tradeshow workers in Houston and throughout the state. I'm here today not just as a union leader, but as a proud Houstonian and a community advocate who's been on the ground—walking our neighborhoods, organizing workers, and standing with families after floods, blackouts, and attacks on our rights. Today, I speak for the working people of Houston—the backbone of this city. And I speak out against this dangerous redistricting process that threatens to divide our communities and deny us a voice.
Let me be clear: these proposed maps are not about fairness—they're about power. Houston has three congressional districts up for possible redrawing. And the lines being considered would fracture Black, Brown, and working-class neighborhoods—splitting us apart just to protect political careers that don't represent us.
People deserve to elect leaders who come from our communities—who know our schools, our streets, our struggles. Not politicians forcibly drawn in. That's gerrymandering—and it violates the Voting Rights Act, plain and simple.
We need representatives who understand Houston because they live in Houston. Because they've knocked on doors here. Because they've stood in food lines during storms and marched alongside us when our rights were under attack time and time again.
Governor Abbott is using this special session to push Trump's agenda—focusing on political control instead of recovery from catastrophic floods, funding our schools, rising housing costs, and failing infrastructure. While Texas families are still rebuilding, our governor is redrawing maps to lock us out of power.
This isn't just political—it's personal. When you silence a district, you silence its future. And in Houston, we're not going to be silent. We take care of each other when the system fails. And we will fight for districts that keep our communities together and make sure our votes count. Texas belongs to the people. And we demand maps—and policies—that reflect us, not repress us.
So I ask you: Don't erase our voices with the stroke of a pen. Stand with Houstonians. Stand with Texans. Stand for fair maps. And put Texans first—not Trump's politics. I'm a constituent of CD 18 and I don't need new maps, I need representation.
Thank you.
Jennifer Hernandez

Marni Kane
Self
Austin, TX

I'm AGAINST HB4. These maps disproportionately harm communities of color, stripping away their chance at fair representation. You are disenfranchising the very citizens you claim to serve. It's an embarrassment to Texans everywhere. Please put a stop to the shameful gerrymandering bill now!

Elizabeth Liggett
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting will not represent the people of Texas and their desire for good education, good representation that actually enacts the will of the people to have clean affordable energy and food. People over corperations and economic greed. Do not redistrict, you aren't helping Texans and protecting them from climate change, pedophiles, and due process. Please work to get our state better schools, more affordable energy, better cost of living and a working wage.

Dennis (Denny) Kelley
Self
Temple, TX

I support congressional redistricting

Siena Pegues
Self - marketing
Austin, TX

I am a regular voter in Travis county and have been for 15 years. I am against HB4 because gerrymandering is illegal. This is an attempt to steal votes for the Republican Party from the Democratic Party in Texas. This should not even be up for debate it is unconstitutional to do this. I urge Texas reps to listen to the people who hired them and who pay their bills and to vote against this bill.

Danielle Mason
Self
Abilene, TX

Hi - as a born and raised Texan I am appalled at our state government consistently trying to drown out the nearly half of Texans who tend to vote blue. It's shameful and disrespectful to the representative republic we claim to patriotically support. This type of partisan gamesmanship at the behest of the president is absolutely a backwards approach to the governance of this country. Our constitution reserves all other powers to the state. We do not live in an authoritarian state with a federal head of state who can summarily rule by decree. And anyone who proposes that they are a patriot who loves this country but operates as if they are a federal minion is diametrically opposed to what patriotism actually stands for. I oppose the redistricting to "give the republicans 5 more seats" and I say this as an independent voter who votes split ticket 100% of the time. But I will not vote a single republican ever again if this is where the party chooses to go. Honor your code of ethics. Represent Texans first. And Trump not at all.

Michele Berg
Self - Software Development Manager
Austin, TX

I am deeply opposed to the immoral gerrymandering being considered in this bill. Maps should be drawn to follow pre-existing county or other such boundaries looking at the efficiency gap as a key metric. They should not be drawn by parties, but by non-partisan bodies. If courts find that gerrymandering occurred, all members of the commission should be removed and the courts appoint a new commission to draw the maps. Kicking maps back to partisan groups to run down the clock should be banned. This would be fair to everyone, not just whatever political party is in power at the time.

Jacqueline Blanchard, Ms.
Self, Fundraising Coordinator
Austin, TX

I am writing as a concerned Texan to express my strong opposition to any efforts to gerrymander or unfairly redraw district lines in our state. The people of Texas deserve fair representation that reflects our diverse communities, not maps designed to protect political power or silence the voices of certain groups.

Gerrymandering undermines the foundation of our democracy. It allows politicians to choose their voters, rather than voters choosing their representatives. This practice dilutes the power of communities, especially communities of color, and leads to policies that do not reflect the needs or values of the people.

I urge the Texas Legislature to commit to a redistricting process that is transparent, equitable, and centered on the fair representation of all Texans. Our districts should be drawn based on accurate census data, community input, and a commitment to protect voting rights, not partisan gain.

Please do the right thing for our democracy and stop gerrymandering in Texas.

Matthew Norman
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing in opposition to the redistricting efforts in this special session. I see a few major problems with the efforts to redraw the maps:
- First and foremost, redrawing the maps outside of the standard redistricting cycle erodes trust in the government. It is apparent that the party in power in Texas is only taking up this issue because they have been directed to do so by the President of the United States. The government does not get to pick and choose the voters it wishes. The voters pick the government. By further gerrymandering the Texas congressional map, the government has taken power from the voters.
- Second, there is already a Republican-approved map being used in Texas. If the current map is not a proper representation of the state's voters, why was it approved in the first place?
- Third, congressional maps should be drawn by someone in Texas, not a think tank outside of the state. Texans are proud to be from Texas, and rightfully so. Though we don't all agree politically, we're still Texans. Part of Texas Pride is not allowing outside influences to push us around. How sad that we are on the precipice of allowing a Virginia-based think tank to redraw our congressional districts [again] at the behest of a President from New York.
- Finally, following the devastating floods across Central Texas, there is nothing more important than making sure Texans are safe. Now is absolutely the time to drop this unnecessary redistricting effort and focus on warning systems for natural disasters. The deaths of hundreds of Texans could have been avoided had systems been in place. This should be your priority, not redistricting.

When this bill passes through committee, as I'm sure it will, Democratic congressmen and women are sure to leave the state for a quorum break. Republicans will have no one to blame but themselves. I am also curious to hear the response when Democrat-led states like California redistrict Republicans out of office. Will Texas Republicans cry foul when other states do exactly what they've done here in Texas? This whole fiasco can be avoided by rejecting HB 4.

Clayton Colwell self -- senior software tester
Austin, TX

Ever since Ann Richards left the governorship, Texas has been plagued by Republican dirty dealings and gerrymandering cynically used to silence the voices of Democrats, who are consequently grossly underrepresented in the Texas political arena compared to the state's population per capita. And now, at the request of a President determined to shift the USA into his fascist regime, those principle-lacking Republicans are going to make it even worse, dishonestly making a blatantly game-theory move, not to adjust for population corrections informed by a census, but solely because they fear that their objectively terrible and unpopular policies will lose them power in the 2026 midterm elections. It's been bad enough that Republicans continue to submit maps that courts repeatedly determine are racially discriminatory while claiming they're not, but now to cynically agree with those courts, but not with the race the courts identified, is the worst sort of hypocrisy, and it displays the worst parts of Republican "character". Please do not agree to this heinous even-worsely-gerrymandered redistricting map, and expose the way in which gutless cynical Republicans are bending the knee to a tyrant and betraying the ideals of the nation they pretend to revere.

Susan Head
Self/veterinarian
Benbrook, TX

Redistricting mid cycle is atypical and a misuse of power to sway votes by disallowing fair representation. Please do not support the drawing of new district lines.

Shannon Langham

Self. Small Business Owner in mfg and construction

Austin, TX

I am a proud, seventh-generation Texan. My children are 8th generation, my Grandchildren 9th generation.
I am a small business owner, we manufacture and fabricate products for the construction industry. I work with the largest builders in the United States.
One of the most important guiding principles that I taught my children is that CHOICES HAVE CONSEQUENCES.

YOU can control your choices - you cannot control the consequences of YOUR choices.
We KNOW the proposed redistricting scheme is designed to eliminate accessibility, accountability, and a strong voice for EVERY TEXAN.
It is simply Donald Trump's demand to maintain his stranglehold on the US House of Representatives.
The Texas GOP has forgotten their duty to the citizens of Texas and traded their honor to protect a felon.
WE SEE WHAT YOU ARE DOING Texas GOP.
Under this plan, many Austinites will find themselves in districts with Congressmembers based in San Angelo, Victoria, and Waco.
Austin is not even in the same climate zone as Victoria!
VOTERS should select their leaders, not the other way around.
This "Trump Map" relies on crooked lines instead of honest votes.
Every citizen has a right to be heard, and their voice is especially important when the issue is whether citizens will be able to elect someone to represent them in Congress who can be a strong voice for their values.
Making choices that suppress the will of the people and undermine the democratic process WILL NOT go unnoticed.
You often boast about your support for Texas small businesses in manufacturing and construction, yet these redistricting plans do everything to undermine the Texas citizens who run these businesses and the jobs they create for employees who contribute to our state's economy.
The long-term consequences of YOUR decisions will inevitably impact the political landscape for those who engineered those choices.
You are opening Pandora’s box and you will have NO CONTROL over what spills out of that box.
Texans remember when their fundamental rights are disregarded, and YOUR choices have led to a significant loss of trust
AND there will be future electoral repercussions for THOSE responsible for choosing to ignore the will of Texans.
YOUR legacy will be a long-term consequence, shaped by the short-term decisions you choose to make right now.

Donald Trump, the most unpopular president in American history - will be remembered as a stain on our pages of American history - what do you want the history books to say about you?

AGAIN-You control YOUR choices - you do not control the consequences of your choices.

If Texans Remember the Alamo - they will NEVER forget the very public and very obvious Texas GOP efforts to oppress and suppress TEXANS.

We know exactly what to do with garbage ideas - Don’t Mess With Texas!

Joseph M. Murray

Self. Management Training Consultant & media artist.

Flower Mound, TX

Blatant act of partisan gerrymandering. Shameful & possibly unlawfully. Must be opposed.

Natashia Gerald
Self / SOC Alumni Bearcave / The Paradigm Shift-Dallas
Dallas, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any attempts at premature redistricting in the state of Texas. This move is not only unjustified—it is a blatant act that exposes how far some of our legislators are willing to go to bend the rules, distort democratic processes, and serve personal and partisan agendas over the public good.

Texas has a long and painful history of racial discrimination in housing, voting, and representation. The scars of redlining still mark our communities—an ugly legacy of exclusion, disempowerment, and systemic injustice that disproportionately affected Black and Latino residents for generations. For lawmakers to now push forward with redistricting before the constitutionally mandated time is a disturbing echo of that past.

This maneuver is not about fair representation; it is about power. It is about rigging the map so the voices of communities of color and working-class Texans are diluted, silenced, and ignored. It is about undermining the will of the people for short-term political gain. And we see it for what it is.

The rationale being offered—that the Department of Justice is applying pressure under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act—is not a sufficient or credible justification for wholesale redistricting. If a court finds that specific districts violate federal law, then narrowly tailored remedies should be pursued. But absent a judicial mandate, any attempt to redraw the full map amounts to a political strategy cloaked in legal language. There is no credible basis for a full redistricting effort unless a federal court orders it as a narrowly tailored remedy for a specific violation. Anything else—especially when rushed through under the guise of DOJ "pressure"—should be seen for what it is: a political strategy cloaked in legal language. This approach is not just unlawful; it is immoral.

We are not living in a post-racial society. The structures that enforce inequality have simply evolved. What we are witnessing today is the new Jim Crow—more subtle in appearance, but no less oppressive in effect. Gerrymandering, voter suppression, and premature redistricting are tools of modern disenfranchisement, and we will not stand by while our rights are stripped away under the guise of legislative procedure.

The tools may be more sophisticated today—algorithms instead of red ink—but the underlying intent behind efforts like HB4 feels disturbingly familiar. We cannot allow redistricting to become yet another instrument of disenfranchisement.

I respectfully urge you: do not move forward with HB4. Do not let political expediency outweigh constitutional duty. The people of Texas deserve transparency, fairness, and a commitment to democracy that puts principle above party.

Again, I remind you—History is watching. Choose to be on the right side of it.

Natashia Gerald
Dallas, TX

Kayleigh Bukowski
Self
Houston, TX

I oppose this bill. This is not redistricting, it's silencing. Anyone that supports this bill is silencing the voices of our community that have a right to be heard.

Lindsey Ramirez
Texas AFT
Austin, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Travis County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Nataly Uriegas
N/A
Austin, TX

My name is Nataly Uriegas, and I live in 1703 E 16th St, Austin 78702. I'm writing to urge you to stand against the proposed redistricting maps being pushed through the Legislature. These maps appear designed to entrench partisan power rather than represent the real diversity and needs of our communities.
We deserve fair, transparent, and community-centered district lines—not ones that silence voters or split communities. I'm especially concerned about how these changes will impact Austin's representation in Congress and the Legislature.
Please use your voice and vote to:
Oppose gerrymandered or rushed maps,
Push for public input and transparency,
Support long-term redistricting reform like an independent commission.
Thank you for your leadership and for representing our district.

Jennifer Scalo
self
Austin, TX

This is blatant cheating, undemocratic and unAmerican. Shameful.

Donnetta Toston
Self and the Dallas Community
Dallas, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the recent drawing of new maps in our community. As a resident and concerned individual, I believe it is essential that such changes are made transparently and with the approval of the people affected.

Unfortunately, these new maps were implemented without a vote from the community, which raises serious concerns about fairness and representation. The process appears to resemble gerrymandering, where boundaries are manipulated to favor certain interests rather than representing the true demographic and political makeup of our community.

Gerrymandering undermines the principles of democracy and compromises the trust we place in our local governance. I urge you to reconsider the current map boundaries and to ensure that any future redistricting processes are conducted openly, fairly, and with the participation of the community through a transparent voting process.

I hope you will listen to the voices of your constituents and take steps toward fair and equitable representation.

Suzanne Green
self
Sugar Land, TX

I live in congressional district 7 represented by Lizzie Fletcher. This letter serves as my opposition to redistricting without new census data. Please abandon this effort and focus on more pressing issues, such as flood mitigation and response. Although thousands of constituents testified intelligently against this redistricting in person and online, you continued this charade without proposed maps being released. It was requested that maps be released with ample time for public review and testimony at a hearing; however, you scheduled the hearing two days after the proposed map's release. This is not in good faith. As was stated multiple times throughout a hearing by the public, we the people, should choose our representatives. The representatives do not get to choose who they represent by redrawing lines without cause. I chose Lizzie Fletcher because she represents the needs of our racially diverse district and communicates with us honestly and in an unbiased manner. In the proposed map, Fletcher's district will shrink and many of us will lose her representation, which is a tragedy. Even more tragic is that Sylvester Turner's District 18 has remained unrepresented for six months, and rather than doing right by District 18's constituents, you are further taking away their representation by merging Districts 9 and 18. The changes to districts 9, 18, and 29 significantly dilute the voices of Latino and Black American minorities. The minorities are the backbone of Houston, and their voices need to be heard, not diluted. If anything, the proposed maps are racially biased against minorities. Please stop this process or redraw the maps to represent Houston fairly. Nobody likes gerrymandering. Please form an independent redistricting committee. It is unfortunate and creates distrust when representatives redistrict with a conflict of interest to maintain their position. Thank you for your time.

Angel Uribe
Self. Teacher
Houston, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Sam Woollard
Self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting bill. Texans should have fairly drawn districts so that the will of the people is truly represented. Blatantly drawing districts to benefit one party is inherently wrong. We should have a neutral body draw district lines so that all Texans are fairly represented

Ashlynn Long
Self, Legal Support Staff
Austin, TX

This move for redistricting is in no way representative of what Texans want, or what is in our best interest. This is a clear example of our state government being ruled by federal powers and toeing the party line, to the detriment of our state’s citizens. I implore all reps to vote NO to this bill.

Heather Kanenberg
Self - College Professor
Houston, TX

As a longtime resident of Texas and a college professor who lives and works in Harris County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that changes the districts and reduces the voting rights and voices of my neighbors. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation. I urge the committee to abandon this attempt by national political leaders to change the way Texas operates! We have a history of being independent and doing what is best for all Texans. Please do not pass mid-decade redistricting maps! Thank you.

Caia Maglinao self - apparel decorator
Georgetown, TX

By redrawing the lines as proposed, you are trying to suppress voting and fair elections. You are diluting minority voices, making sure their concerns are not heard. If republicans can't win without cheating, they shouldn't be in office. Focus was given into how you assume people will vote, rather than to what those areas really need. Rural communities have different needs than urban communities. Both deserve fair representation. This scheme is a disservice to ALL Texans.

Ellen Marshall, Dr.
Self - Professor Emerita - Alamo Colleges - San Antonio College
San Antonio, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB 24. Redistricting based on 2020 census data was done in 2021. The current maps were previously argued in sworn testimony by many Republicans as being legal. Now those same Republicans are saying that they are illegal. This turnaround is a blatant attempt at gerrymandering. This is absolutely wrong to do something like this mid-decade. Please do not pass this absolutely unnecessary bill.

Cliff Kaplan
Self
Austin, TX

This redistricting is a terrible idea -- let the voters choose their officials, not the officials choose their voters. The process, holding field hearings only before the map was published, and then cutting registration off before noon for public testimony at the 8/1/25 hearing, is also very bad form. Let people be heard in the process. It is too rushed, and moves the over all civic culture in our country in the wrong direction, to further empower President Trump, and disempower We the People.

Anacani Gonzalez
Self
El Paso, TX

I do not support redistricting. I live in a district where our local representative does not live here and he does not visit or vote in the best interest of my community. His constituents have to lean on the support of Rep. Veronica Escobar because Rep. Tony Gonzales doesn’t bother to meet any of his constituents in El Paso. I urge you to not resdistrict and instead focus on how you can ensure your constituents have access to Healthcare, better pay, lower property taxes, fund public schools, and support an immigration reform.

Elizabeth Galiger
self. teacher.
Austin, TX

I am horrified to witness Democracy being dismantled, the most powerful country in the world reduced before our eyes. Redistricting to go from horrible gerrymandering to extreme gerrymandering at the whim of a criminally convicted president is NOT doing your job. your job is to represent your constituents, and i realize you've already gerrymandered things so much that there are very few representing my voice and you want to make that even fewer, but i beg you to honor what's left of democracy and reach inside yourself to remember any decency you once had and vote AGAINST the most blatant gerrymandering in our state and our country.

Julie Wall
Self. Music/Piano Teacher
Austin, TX

Fair districting so ALL TEXANS’ votes can count, not just Trump supporters

Valerie Street
self / teacher
Cedar Park, TX

I stand with the overwhelming majority of Texans who have testified before this committee already to reject this attempt at redrawing congressional districts for the sole purpose of increasing a political party's representation in Congress. Such an action, it would seem, seeks to deliberately subvert the will of Texas voters who should be able to elect the candidates of their choice as well as hold their elected officials accountable at the ballot box. The current district maps have never been about serving the public's interest or community's needs and the proposed changes in HB 4 would diminish the voting power for Texas communities of color. Texas lawmakers cannot have it both ways. To have both disclaimed and relied upon race in the same redistricting, when in the end, the only consistency is that the State’s position will suppress the votes of people of color. I urge you to reject HB 4 and put an end to this waste of state resources so that we might put focus back where it needs to be: Serving the people of Texas.

Jennifer Demeules
Self
Houston, TX

The new districts for my area do not align to my demographic. My small neighborhood is pieced into a new district that extends far into the suburbs and outlying areas of Houston. My concerns and needs as a constituent are much different. My current districting aligns much better to the urban area that I live in.

Rachel Wimberley
Self
Austin, TX

Y’all already redrew district lines in 2021. Shame on you. This undemocratic attempt to cling to power is shameful. We demand the legislature draw maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state. Texas deserves better than gerrymandering for Trump.

Brandon Stewart
Self
San Antonio, TX

As my representative, I expect you to OPPOSE redistricting! Gerrymandering is illegal, and I do not support suppression of the Black and Latino vote. SAY NO TO REDISTRICTING!

Michael Erwin, Mr.
Self
Leander, TX

I am strongly opposed to congressional redistricting. This is a sorry attempt to silence our growing liberal population out of fear for your own power and money. Gerrymandering in the hope of protecting your own status is shameful.

Licida Canan
Self
Conroe, TX

I am strictly opposed to this new map and the new districts it would instate. This map is not based on population shifts or fairness, it is drawn using “political performance” as the guiding principle. Rep. Hunter himself admitted the goal is to create five more GOP-leaning congressional districts. This bill is a clear attempt at gerrymandering and suppression of minority votes.

Sandra Tennant
Self
Cedar Park, TX

How can politicians elected by the people, surpress the same voters from their right to vote. How can you possibly look yourself in the mirror and justify this. We have certainly gone wrong some how in being compassionate human beings to.just plain greedy for power. What goes around, comes around in November.

Alfredo Ontiveros
Self
El Paso, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting of Texas as presented. First, it is unethical as it will strip our currrent district of valuable electoral votes. The state of Texas must maintain its current congressional district until the next census so that proper and more accurate count of residents are accounted for. Texas has always stood by itelf in its governance and should not rely on outside interests to influence this redistricting issue. Secondly, redrawing districts now would harm the El Paso and Ft. Bliss area stripping a vote in state congress not to mention the loss of revenue to this already minimally represented district. UTEP would also loose funding and representation where UTEP is nationally recognized for its strong educational system in the PHD areas. DO NOT vote on redistricting now but wait until the next census is complete.

Julie Bonner, Dr.
Self, content designer
Austin, TX

Why are state leaders redrawing congressional maps with no new Census and no public demand? To protect Republican's political power. They are afraid if they don't obey Trump bad things will happen to them. These proposed maps silence the voices of millions, cut out Democratic members of Congress, and tear apart our communities. But as far as I can see in the 35 years I have lived in Texas, Republicans truly do not care about the people they supposedly serve. It's all about them adhering to their religion of Republicanism and obeying Trump, even in the face of lies from the current president about not cutting Medicare and Medicaid, evidence that many people in Texas are dying from floods, hurricanes, and lack of health insurance (but they are fiscally conservative so they don't want to spend the money to protect Texas from natural disasters), and lack of rights and respect for anyone who is different than the average Republican male. Republican Texas senator Bryan Hughes learned one thing once it affected him personally, that some women will need an abortion to prevent them dying from an ectopic pregnancy. He was quite ignorant about that until it happened to his wife, then he sponsored a bill that allows the doctor to decide if an abortion is needed to save a pregnant woman's life. It seems that Republican elected officials are not capable of governing on the behalf of their constituents unless they experience misery, fear, and inequality firsthand. Everything is getting worse for the people of Texas with men like Abbott, Patrick, Paxton, Cornyn, and Cruz representing them. They do next to nothing to make the lives of the people of Texas better (except for the 1% and their fellow Republican males). It is a true disgrace.

Rachel Clemens
self
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my deep concern and strong opposition to the newly proposed redistricting maps. As a resident of Austin, I am appalled by the blatant gerrymandering in these maps, which appear designed to disenfranchise voters—not only in my community, but across the entire state.

Redistricting is intended to occur once per decade, following the census, to reflect population changes fairly. Undertaking another round of redistricting outside of this normal cycle—especially under political pressure—is an abuse of power and undermines the democratic process.

The maps in question fail to represent communities of interest and instead divide and dilute the voices of voters, particularly in diverse urban areas like Austin. This kind of manipulation damages public trust and sends a message that political self-preservation is being prioritized over fair representation.

I urge you to oppose these maps and demand a transparent, nonpartisan redistricting process that respects the principles of representative democracy and ensures every Texan’s vote carries equal weight.

Sincerely,
Rachel Clemens
711 East 43rd Street, Austin, TX 78751

Matt Williams, Mr.
self
Austin, TX

This blatant attempt by Texas Republicans to gerrymander statewide districts in a fashion more favorable to them keeping or increasing control in the U.S. Congress is vile and disgusting. It reeks of desperation and fear. Who would try to pull such a stunt if they weren't afraid of losing fair-and-square in future elections, especially the 2026 midterms? This isn't the Texas way to settle anything; this is the cowardly way. Stop this you-know-what. The Republican majority in the state legislature should be figuring out ways to prevent what happened on July 4 in the Hill Country from ever happening again, not bowing down to King Trump's imperialistic whims.

josh Busby, Dr.
Self - professor
Austin, TX

This is anti-democratic power grab by Republicans seeming to gerrymander elections by redistricting out of cycle to prevent what would like be a return to a Democratic majority in the House of Representatives in 2026. Wait until the normal 10 year cycle to redress districts after the next Census. This is cheating.

You would deprive Austinites of adequate representation by just trying make more Republican districts. This will set in motion an unraveling of districts across the country as red and blue districts re-do political maps. This will deprive voters of choice and representation and depart from established norms. We are begging not to do this as this will likely irrevocably undermine the prospects for free and fair elections. Do not do this.

Deborah Beck
self/teacher
Austin, TX

I am a former resident of CD 10 (McCaul) who was redistricted in 2021 into CD 37 (Doggett). District 10 was ridiculous. It combined parts of Austin; several rural counties east of Austin; and some suburbs of Houston. The entire district was 150 miles long and its parts had nothing in common. At the same time, my community was chopped in two -- I was in a different district from people who lived literally three blocks from me. For ten years, Representative McCaul ignored me and his other Austin constituents. He did not hold town halls and he refused to meet with constituents who came to his office every week requesting a meeting. Unlike “Representative” McCaul, who bent over backwards not to represent me, Representative Doggett actually represents me, and all of his constituents whether or not they agree with his policy positions. No one deserves the unrepresentative, undemocratic, community-killing gerrymander that I lived with for the first decade of my residence in Austin.

The proposed redistricting does not address any needs of Texans. It is not a good-faith effort in any way. It is simply the Governor rushing to do the bidding of President Trump with no regard for the voters of Texas. The Legislature and the Governor work for us. We pay your salary. This is not what we want and it is not to our benefit.

It is absurd to redistrict when our current maps are in court to determine whether they illegally include racial gerrymandering. Given that 95% of our population increase since the 2010 census was minority voters, and none of the districts that are now in court are majority minority, racial gerrymandering under the current set of maps is a good possibility. The new map is even more flagrantly racially gerrymandered.

Voters have not received adequate notice of the proposed map, of hearings on redistricting, and voter input during hearings is artificially limited. This process seems designed to disenfranchise voters at every stage, from the conception of the maps to the maps themselves.

If the GOP had confidence in their policy ideas, they would simply campaign on those ideas. This power grab in the guise of redistricting is an attempt to hold onto power when the GOP knows that if they ran on their actual policy ideas, they would lose in a landslide.

Your voters deserve better. We deserve a transparent redistricting process that starts with actual maps, in which we have ample advance notice of all its stages, in which voters’ voices are a central part of the process, in which all relevant communications are publicly available indefinitely, and in which any of the amply tested non-partisan mechanisms for redistricting are used, rather than chopping up Texas into nonsensical squiggles to appease President Trump.

I would be ashamed to do the things the GOP is resorting to, to take power they know they cannot get without this bad faith power grab. This redistricting shows that the GOP in Texas is weak and morally bankrupt.

Jennie Larder
self
El Paso, TX

do not change the districylts for El Paso

Aneel Nazareth
Self, Software Engineer
Austin, TX

I believe that every Texan's vote should count, and that the people should be able to choose representatives who actually represent their communities. The proposed plan makes no attempt to align with actual communities, instead carving up cities and counties in ways that deliberately divide them so that their voters are disenfranchised.

The right time to do redistricting is after the decennial census, and the right way to do it is with an independent, bipartisan commission that is responsive to voters and communities. Texas should back away from this naked power grab and ratchet down the polarization in our politics.

Nick Edinger
Self, Editor
Austin, TX

There is no electoral reason to redistrict. End gerrymandering, do not support this bill

Anita Holguin, Mrs.
Self
El Paso, TX

I want it to be acknowledged that I am a citizen of El Paso County and do not agree with the congressional redistricting of VA Hospital, Ft. Bliss and the El Paso International Airport. Leave these areas to those who live here in El Paso.

Adrian Fuentes
Self
El Paso, TX

I’m deeply concerned about the recent redistricting proposal in our city of El Paso, which has shifted nearly half of our community into a different district and altered its political makeup from Democrat to Republican. Redistricting should be a fair and transparent process that reflects population changes—not a tool to dilute voices or manipulate political outcomes.

This move raises serious questions about representation and voter equity. Our communities deserve boundaries that keep neighborhoods intact and ensure all voices are heard, regardless of political affiliation. Gerrymandering undermines the democratic process and weakens trust in our institutions.

We need to hold lawmakers accountable and push for independent redistricting commissions to prevent partisan interference. I encourage everyone affected to stay informed, stay engaged, and vote—because change starts with us.

Thank you for your consideration,

Adrian Fuentes

Ariana Chigani
Self
Richardson, TX

What is the purpose of this redistricting other than to tilt the scales? I've yet to read a solid or valid reason as to why this is being done halfway through term.

Austin Barnes
Self - engineer
Austin, TX

The proposed districts put my north Austin home in the same district as Midland and Odessa, over 300 miles away. With 38 districts in the state there is zero excuse to have people in the state‘s 4th largest city not be represented by someone local. This change is absolutely unconscionable and this should be clear to everyone regardless of political affiliation.

Sherry L. Beck
self
Mabank, TX

"As a Texas AFT member and former public school educator in Kaufman County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation."

Gina Mateer, Mrs
Self
Austin, TX

Written Testimony Opposing Texas HB 4 (Redistricting)
Submitted to the Texas House Committee on Redistricting

Chairman and Members of the Committee:

My name is Gina Mateer, and I submit this testimony in strong opposition to House Bill 4. As a Texas resident who values representative democracy, I am deeply concerned that HB 4 perpetuates unfair redistricting practices that disenfranchise voters—particularly voters of color—and undermine the principles of equal representation.

Texas has one of the most diverse populations in the country. According to the U.S. Census, the majority of the state's population growth in recent years has come from Latino, Black, and Asian communities. Yet, HB 4 fails to reflect this reality. The redistricting maps proposed under this bill reduce the number of districts where communities of color can meaningfully influence elections, despite their population growth and constitutional right to representation.

This is not only unjust, it is unconstitutional. The Voting Rights Act of 1965 prohibits voting practices that dilute the strength of minority voters. The Texas Legislature must not continue the pattern of racial gerrymandering that courts have previously ruled against. HB 4 risks repeating this discriminatory history, potentially leading to further litigation at taxpayer expense.

Additionally, HB 4 appears to be driven by partisan motives rather than a genuine effort to ensure fair and competitive elections. By carving communities apart and packing or cracking voters based on political affiliation, HB 4 entrenches incumbents and undermines public trust in the democratic process.

Every Texan—regardless of race, political party, or zip code—deserves to have their voice heard and their vote count equally. Gerrymandering silences communities and distorts representation. Instead of rushing through maps that do not reflect the will of the people, I urge this committee to go back to the drawing board and engage in a transparent, inclusive redistricting process that truly represents Texas.

Please vote no on HB 4.

Respectfully,
Gina Mateer
Austin Texas

Jessica Craven
Self-interpreter
Melissa, TX

If you can't win without creating a map that looks like complete chaos cut out with cookie cutters that favor your side and let you win when the reality is 60% the other party, it sounds like it's time to pack your bags and get out. The people dont want you and the only reason gerrymandering is still legal is because this country never punished former slave owners.

Louis Forrai

Self, retired.

San Antonio, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose the proposed mid-decade redistricting plan currently under consideration by the Texas Legislature. This plan represents a deeply concerning effort to manipulate electoral districts for partisan advantage and threatens the fair representation of millions of Texans—particularly communities of color that have been the driving force behind our state's population growth.

Redistricting is traditionally conducted once per decade following the U.S. Census to reflect shifts in population and to ensure that district boundaries are drawn fairly and equitably. There is no legitimate reason to undertake redistricting again in the middle of the decade, especially when the maps drawn just a few years ago have already been used in elections. This rushed process is not about correcting errors or responding to legal requirements—it is about consolidating political power at the expense of representative democracy.

The proposed maps appear to be intentionally drawn to reduce the electoral influence of Black, Latino, Asian, and Indigenous communities across Texas. These communities accounted for nearly all of Texas's population growth over the last decade, yet the redistricting plan fails to reflect that reality in how representation is distributed. This is a clear act of disenfranchisement that echoes a troubling history of racial and partisan gerrymandering in our state.

Public feedback at recent hearings has been overwhelming and consistent: Texans do not support these maps. We want transparency, accountability, and fairness in the redistricting process. We want maps that represent all Texans—not just those who currently hold power. Rushing through this plan with limited public engagement and no compelling justification further undermines public trust in our institutions.

It is unacceptable to redraw political boundaries for political gain, especially when doing so harms the very communities that have contributed most to Texas's growth and vitality. Our democracy depends on voters choosing their leaders—not politicians choosing their voters.

I urge lawmakers to reject this mid-decade redistricting plan and commit to a fair, transparent, and inclusive process that ensures equal representation for all Texans, now and in the future.

Marissa Paz

Self

El Paso, TX

Please let El Paso continue to have its own district. El Paso does not need to be under the umbrella of San Antonio. As a lifelong Texan- we know Texas is HUGE and I worry the breath and scope of such a vast area isn't beneficial. El Paso deserves its own district.

Sarah Harsdorff

Self

Lakeway, TX

Against HB 4

This is nothing more than a mid-cycle attempt to steal seats. Perhaps if republicans decided to support ALL of their constituents - rather than pander to lobbyists and rich donors - they wouldn't have to worry about cheating to stay in office.

Candice Swanson
Self
Hurst, TX

My name is Candice Swanson and I live in CD24. The Republicans have had control in Texas for 30 years. Before we give them more power, let's see how that has been working out for Texans?

A 2025 survey shows Texas ranks 49th for quality of life because of the deficiencies in healthcare, reproductive rights, and worker protections.

Texas has the worst uninsured rate in the nation — in fact, the percentage of uninsured children is more than twice the national rate.

Texas is 50th in overall women's health and reproductive care according to the Commonwealth Fund.

Texas Medical Board states that 127 of 254 counties do not have a single OB/Gyn doctor.

According to JAMA, in the year after SB8 went into effect, infant mortality in Texas was up 13%.

Government data shows that Texas leads the nation in freeze-related deaths, flooding deaths, and work-related fatalities.

A 2025 WalletHub study found that Texas has the highest number of people in financial distress.

With these dismal statistics it's no wonder the GOP needs to rig the system because their record for Texans is abysmal. Who voted for this? Why would we want more disfunction?

When one party gerrymanders for total domination, what are the incentives to work for the benefit of everyone? Gerrymandered-safe representatives don't have to weigh how their decisions will affect Independent voters like me — the system is rigged, so you'll never need my vote. You have no incentive to listen to my concerns. That's not democracy. That's autocracy.

Rebecca Bird
Self. Retired Social Worker
Richardson, TX

I am testifying today regarding HB 4. & I am stating that I am against this outrageous attempt to redraw the districts. I live in Richardson & in Dallas County. We are a majority BLUE district. I do not want to be represented by these republicans- they do not represent me. This blatant attempt to steal my district to please Donald Trump is disgraceful. Leave the Districts as they were.

Jeff Basen-Engquist, Voter
Self
HOUSTON, TX

Please do not support this legislation. Representation in the House already is out of balance. We should not have legislators selecting their voters, but rather facing and convincing voters to support them. Redistricting between census years is a raw power grab rather than a democratic practice. My historic District currently has no representative as our Governor maximally delayed a vote. Now the effort is to rig the next and future elections. Please stop! The ethical approach is to deal with the current status through the ballot, not a shameful power grab.

Patricia Honea-Boles
Self
Huntington, TX

It is egregious the way Texas is gerrymander! The GOP can't win fairly so they stack the rules against the other side. This is heinous! If you can't win fairly get out of the game. Go to the house! And I mean you're home not the house of representatives!

Lara Meeker
self/HRDS Analyst
Cypress, TX

I strongly opposed the proposed redistricting. The proposed map is intended to further gerrymander our state and manipulate districts to favor Republican agendas rather than to serve the will of the American people.

Jack Jacobson, Mr
Self
San Antonio, TX

We must stop supporting the runaway dictatorship that wishes to control our thoughts, actions, and communication.

The loss of reason in our government must be reversed! We cannot stop all reasonable voting in order to ignore constituents and reason!

RUTH HICKS
SELF; RETIRED R.N.
GEORGETOWN, TX

REDISTRICKING IS EVERY 10 YEARS AFTER A CENSUS !!

Matt Burton
Self
Austin, TX

I disagree with the boundaries drawn out in the map. They are not representative of real populations, particularly in urban areas. This map cannot be adopted and should require an objective method by which to set these boundaries.

Tom Goodrum
Self
Austin, TX

Reagan era College Republican here. I oppose this bill. Thank you.

Dana Weed
Self
Austin, TX

As an Austin resident, I vehemently oppose the discriminatory GOP gerrymandering of our districts to cheat in elections.

JOSEPH SCHUESSLER, Dr
Self
Fort Worth, TX

To the Texas House Redistricting Committee:

I am writing to express my profound outrage and disgust regarding the current, entirely unwarranted, and anti-democratic push for mid-decade congressional redistricting. As a full professor of business, I approach matters with a clear understanding of process, accountability, and the long-term implications of short-sighted decisions. What I witnessed firsthand at the public hearing in Arlington on Tuesday was an absolute travesty of democratic principles.

The overwhelming sentiment from the public was unequivocally against this audacious power grab. With perhaps one or two individuals in favor, and approximately eighty vociferously opposed, it is abundantly clear that this effort is not about serving the people of Texas; it is about manipulating the electoral landscape for partisan gain. This is NOT democracy.

Our constitutional framework dictates that redistricting occurs once every ten years, following the decennial census. This established process is designed to ensure fair representation and maintain public trust. To unilaterally disregard this fundamental procedure, especially under the guise of vague "constitutional concerns" that conveniently emerge after a change in federal administration, is a blatant betrayal of that trust. It erodes the very foundation of our democratic institutions.

Furthermore, to solicit public opinion, as was done in Arlington, and then proceed to ignore the overwhelming feedback is a reprehensible dereliction of duty. It demonstrates a contempt for the electorate and a profound disconnect from the will of the people you are sworn to represent.

Let me be unequivocally clear: I am pissed. As a former Republican who historically aligned with many conservative principles, I find myself at a pivotal juncture. This cynical, anti-democratic maneuver has solidified my decision to vote straight-ticket Democrat. While it is often said that elections have consequences, I now assert that your actions and your blatant disregard for democratic process also carry profound consequences at the ballot box. This is not a choice made lightly, but a necessary response to an assault on the integrity of our electoral system.

This proposed map is designed for partisan advantage, not for the Texans it purports to serve. It is an affront to every citizen who believes in fair elections and accountable governance. I urge you to heed the voice of the people and abandon this deeply flawed and damaging endeavor.

Sincerely

Joseph H. Schuessler, Ph.D.
Full Professor of Business

Laurie Hernandez
Self
Horizon City, TX

Do not agree with Trump

Brandi Lea
Myself
Leander, TX

I am writing to you today in utter disgust and profound alarm at the brazen, anti-democratic power grab that is HB 4. This bill—spearheaded by Governor Abbott and Republican legislators at the behest of Donald Trump—is a tyrannical assault on free and fair elections. It seeks to gerrymander five Democratic seats out of existence, silencing millions of Texans, particularly communities of color in our metropolitan areas, to appease a defeated president desperate to cling to power.

This is not governance; it is sabotage. Texas's growth is fueled by diverse, urban communities, yet HB 4 dilutes their voices to create 30 GOP-favored districts out of 38—a grotesque overrepresentation of Republican power in a state Trump won by only 14 points. The map surgically targets Latino-majority districts in South Texas, dismantles Black voting strength in Houston and Dallas, and forces Democratic incumbents into primaries or unwinnable terrain. This is a direct continuation of Texas's shameful history of racial gerrymandering, condemned by federal courts every decade since the Voting Rights Act passed.

The damage will extend far beyond Texas. Democratic states like California and New York—representing far more congressional seats—have vowed to retaliate by erasing every Republican district in their states. This nuclear arms race of gerrymandering will shatter national cohesion and make the U.S. House irreparably partisan. Moreover, businesses are already vowing to pull investments from Texas, fearing the economic catastrophe that follows when a state abandons democratic norms.

HB 4 is a betrayal of Texans, a felony against democracy, and a surrender to Trump's authoritarian whims. I demand you reject this poison—or be complicit in killing representative government.

VOTE NO ON HB 4.

Alana Rusonis
Self
Austin, TX

Opposition to HB 4 - Congressional Redistricting

To the Texas Legislature:

I strongly oppose HB 4 and urge you to vote against this unconstitutional redistricting proposal that represents blatant voter suppression and undermines democratic representation.

Constitutional Violations:
This redistricting plan violates the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment by deliberately diluting minority voting power and creating districts that fail to provide equal representation. The Supreme Court has consistently held that redistricting must not discriminate against voters based on race or ethnicity, yet this plan appears designed to do exactly that.

Voter Suppression Through Gerrymandering:
HB 4 constitutes voter suppression by:

- Packing minority communities into artificially concentrated districts to minimize their overall influence
- Cracking cohesive communities of interest to disperse their voting power
- Creating bizarrely shaped districts that prioritize partisan advantage over fair representation
- Ignoring traditional redistricting principles like compactness and respect for political subdivisions

Violation of Voting Rights Act:
This plan likely violates Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act by diminishing minority communities' ability to elect candidates of their choice. Courts have repeatedly struck down similar schemes that dilute minority voting strength.

Democratic Principles at Stake:
Fair redistricting requires districts that reflect actual communities and give all voters—regardless of party affiliation, race, or geography—meaningful representation. HB 4 abandons these principles in favor of partisan manipulation that makes a mockery of democratic governance.

Legal Precedent:
Federal courts have already ruled against similar Texas redistricting efforts, finding intentional discrimination. This plan invites costly litigation that Texas taxpayers will ultimately fund while communities suffer under unconstitutional maps.

Texas voters deserve fair districts that respect constitutional principles, not partisan gerrymanders that suppress votes and divide communities. I urge you to reject HB 4 and work toward redistricting that serves all Texans equally.

Adam Till, Mr.
Self, Pilot
Houston, TX

Hello, my name is Adam Till. My wife and I live in the The Greater Heights area of Houston, specifically Norhill, in the 29th Congressional District.

I would like to voice our strong opposition to HB4 and this proposed Congressional Redistricting mid-census….especially now that there is an actual map of the proposed re-drawn districts!

This is, at its most basic, a craven attempt to cling…..however desperately…….to a thin Republican majority in the U.S. House by using the legally dubious and blatantly racist tool of partisan redistricting. This is “packing” and “cracking” at its worst, and done with obvious malice toward communities of color in Texas.

I would challenge anyone to articulate a reason for this effort, now….in this special session….in 2025….other than that of a cheaply won consolidation of power prior to what will undoubtedly be a horrendous mid-term result for the so called Republican Party.

If politicians willfully manipulate these maps for personal and political gain, it further erodes voter confidence in our democratic process…..and for good reason! Who could blame them..who could blame all Texans…for feeling ignored, abused, and affronted.

It is un-American, un-Democratic, and MORALLY FOUL to actively seek to FURTHER diminish the voice and impact of our diverse communities of color and political demographics.

I implore the committee to take the righteous step to say NO to HB4 and this proposed redistricting in this special session.

Diana Foster
self, retired
Austin, TX

Redrawing congressional districts to specifically underrepresent the voices of urban democrats and gain advantage for republicans is unethical. If republican values and policies can't win on their own merits, they should be modified to have broader appeal. I strongly oppose HB 4.

Jessie Gibbon
self
San Antonio, TX

PLEASE do not do proceed with the Republican suggestion for redistricting. we are gerrymandered enough, we’re trying to fight for our rights and barely have reps who can hear us because we’re so far away in these districts. PLEASE think about the people!

Dorothy Green, Mrs.
Self- retired
Grapevine, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Amy Benefiel
Self
Austin, TX

The people deserve to be represented by officials that actually care about the communities. This redistricting is not going to more fairly ensure the people of this state are adequately represented. The only purpose of this is because the current administration cannot win fairly, and on the merit of their campaign and so they must cheat. That is all this is, a way to cheat the system to ensure those who disagree no longer have a voice. This is unjust, unconstitutional and immoral.

Carrie Schweitzer
self
Dallas, TX

I testified at the July 28 House Redistricting Committee Hearing in Arlington, TX, but I will oppose again. This is political rape! With hundreds giving testimony that night, only one person voiced approval of this redistricting effort. Everyone else cried "NO, stop, don't do this!" But the shameful assault continues. Cowardly action in deference to Donald J. Trump. Litigation is ongoing on maps drawn in 2021, and the Legislature should deny further action until the verdicts are announced. Additionally, without census data to account for population growth and demographic shifts across the state - what will your analysis be founded upon? Or, I guess that doesn't matter either. And what about maintaining communities of interest? My urban CD32 is now drawn east almost to the Louisiana border! I respect my East Texas neighbors, but our communities, goals and political concerns are vastly different. The racially-motivated cracking and packing of districts that are majority minorty is a violation of voting rights - not at all surprising given Texas' history of VRA Federal oversight. When the citizens of Texas are burdened with life and death issues brought on by rising living costs, federal budget cuts for health needs, cuts to public school budgets and the climate-related disasters that cost tax payers billions - Republican legislators turn theie backs on constituents to genuflect to the Rapist-in-Chief.

Kitty Woo Ham, APRN, FNP-c
Self, Family nurse practitioner
Austin, TX

Redistricting the congressional map will not allow proper representation of public needs in Texas. It will cause more disparities needs of Texans while benefiting only the public officials that oversee these districts.
Please do not waste time re-writing maps. Please utilize time to the benefit of the majority of people who live in Texas.

Gregory Holtorf
self
Austin, TX

Please have integrity, honor, and wisdom rather than get in your hearts when you decide who is allowed to have representation.

Bria Moore
Self
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting map and this redistricting process which is taking place 5 years ahead of schedule is an insult to Texas voters. Draw maps that are fair to voters or abandon this sham process altogether.

Dagny Paul
Self
Austin, TX

This is disgraceful and a bald attempt to ensure that Texans are not fairly represented. Shame on you. We could be so much better than this.

Carl Hooker
self
Austin, TX

To the Honorable Members of the Texas Legislature:

I write to express serious concerns regarding the proposed mid-decade redrawing of Texas's congressional map. The draft map, released July?30,?2025, would reshape Texas's 38 U.S. House districts and potentially boost Republican representation from 25 to up to 30 seats—effectively flipping at least five districts held by Democrats in the Austin, Houston, Dallas–Fort Worth, and South Texas regions. These districts include heavily minority communities in the 9th, 18th, and 29th districts. ? ? ?

Unlike the usual once-a-decade process linked to the census, this early redistricting—commonly called "mid-decade" redistricting—is rare and often contested. It appears driven primarily by partisan motivations, echoed in public remarks advocating additional GOP seats. Critics have characterized the plan as classic "crack-and-pack" gerrymandering—consolidating Democratic and minority voters into fewer districts while diluting their influence statewide.

Voting rights advocates and legal experts emphasize that such changes may undermine representation for Black and Hispanic Texans—despite these populations representing much of Texas's growth since 2020. In past redistricting cycles, federal courts have required corrective remedies under the Voting Rights Act when maps diluted minority voting power.

Even the U.S. Department of Justice has flagged concerns that the proposed map may be intentionally drawn along racial lines—contradicting prior state claims of race-neutral mapmaking. ?

The timing—during an ongoing emergency session addressing recent historic flooding in the Texas Hill Country—has also drawn criticism, with some observers noting policy priorities may have skewed legislative focus. ?

The proposed map's consequences raise questions about fair representation, minority voting strength, and the health of competitive democracy in Texas. Given these factors, I respectfully urge you to reconsider the current plan. A more transparent, non-partisan approach—such as independent commissions or neutral criteria—would better serve Texans by preserving trust, protecting vote equity, and ensuring districts reflect communities, not partisan advantage.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Carl Hooker

Diana Brown
Self
Austin, TX

I do not agree with this I believe it's just Trump and Republicans to gain more control. It's wrong at this point. Women's rights have been taken from us, medicaid cuts, ect...none of this benefits me as I am a disable single mom. I don't represent any political party I consider myself an independent voter. And this bill should not pass..

Patricia O'Connor
Self
Katy, TX

I feel like my interests are already not represented. This redistributing plan is being used to give cover to the republicans whose only interest is their own not mine. You should be concerned about TEXANS and not Donald Trump, he has no interest in Texans

Sherry Ryan, Ms.
Self
Seguin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 4, which proposes redistricting measures that appear to further entrench partisan gerrymandering and diminish fair voter representation in Texas.

This bill undermines the foundational principles of our democracy—free and fair elections—by manipulating district lines to favor certain political interests over the voices of actual communities. It weakens the power of minority voters, dilutes genuine civic engagement, and deepens voter cynicism. At a time when trust in government is already low, HB 4 sends the wrong message to Texans.

I urge you to consider the long-term consequences of this legislation. The people of Texas deserve transparency, accountability, and districts that reflect real geographic and community cohesion, not partisan advantage. We need independent redistricting commissions—not backroom deals—that prioritize equal representation for all Texans, regardless of race, party, or region.

Please vote NO on HB 4 and stand with the majority of Texans who want a fair and equitable democracy.

Thank you for your service and for considering the voices of your constituents.

Dwain Aidala, MR
Self - Retired
San Marcos, TX

New Gerrymandering AKA Redistricting
Mr. Chairman and committee members, Good morning and thank-you for giving me a chance to speak to you.

My name is Dwain Aidala. I am a resident of San Marcos Texas, District 21 and speaking for myself. I'm also a United States Marine. I asked to speak today because I believe that the action under consideration by this committee violates the oaths that both you and I took as elected representatives and as a member of the armed services. I expect, under our constitution, that I, as the citizen, have the right to choose my elected representatives, and not that those who have been or want to be elected, get to choose who can vote to elect him or her.

I wear a cap on national holidays celebrating the history of this country. It identifies me as a Marine Corps veteran. That cap says, "earned never given". I believe this body should consider that statement. It appears to me that the action being considered is really close to "stolen not really elected".
I strongly request that you, as elected Texans, look to your sworn oaths and not further expand the disenfranchisement of a large portion of Texas citizens. If anything, you should be working to get us back to the intended meaning of "one person one vote".

Finally, in the Marines there is a hand-to-hand combat term of "weapon of opportunity". The Texas Republican party may think that this abnormal redistricting being considered is such a weapon. I would ask and warn you to consider that this action may be turned back against them. The current Federal administration's actions over the past 7 months, combined with this insulting gerrymandering of an already unfair districting map has a high probability of turning your recent supporters into enlightened citizens who realize that they are being played instead of being supported. Thank-you.

Peggy Kulesz
Self
Dalworthington Gardens, TX

Do not fall to outside interference ordering Texas lawmakers to redraw congressional districts. This is a horrible power grab that DOES NOT represent the will of Texas citizens.

Elizabeth Trimble, Ms.
Self
San Antonio, TX

Requesting my state representative does not support this bill. The redistricting changes further dilutes the unique differences of the affected districts thus not allowing the citizen’s voices to be adequately represented. This is especially true for the areas where less densely populated regions and portions of densely populated cities further combined. Our great state has a rich history of independence but this bill is showing the rest of the country that we are first in line to follow national rank and file and puts the greed of leadership over the needs of Texans.

Pamela Stein
Self
Highland Park, TX

I strongly urge you to vote against this blatant attempt to silence the voices of thousands of Texas citizens. Our government works best when both parties have a strong base and can work together for moderate policies that build a balanced government. By creating these ridiculously convoluted districts you are fanning the fires of mistrust and resentment. We will remember your votes and work to defeat all who support this toxic proposal.

Tanya Guthrie, Ms.
Self / retired
Austin, TX

I oppose redistricting as outlined in this bill. Redistricting should be fair to all Texans.

Rebecca González
Self
Fort Worth, TX

stop redistricting

Vincent Rodriguez
Self
Windcrest, TX

This is bad, shortsighted idea that will result in catastrophic GOP House losses in California, Illinois and New York, among others. Do not do this now. Be fair and wait until the results of the next Census.

Renee Stephenson
Self, Student
Austin, TX

To whom it may concern,
I am deeply troubled by the attempt to redistrict Texas. This is an anti-democratic move made by a president that has a history of treating elections as suggestions and a governor that already delays special elections to represent people in his own state. This is a move made by losers desperate to stay in power by illegitimate means, aware that their own incompetence, negligence, and malevolence is insufficient to win through the actual will of the people. This is anti-conservative, as the Seven Principles of Conservatism stress human dignity, which is intrinsic to fair representation, anti-democratic, anti-Texan, as it is a sign of weakness, and anti-American. The United States was founded on the principle of no taxation without representation. It is difficult to understand how anyone in the Texas Congress would be willing to be funded by the people's taxes in order to remove their fundamental right to fair representation. This is an embarrassment to the very people that suggest it and I hope that the Texas Congress will not shame itself by voting for it.
Thank you!

Kade Hells
Self
Cleburne, TX

Everyone knows what you're doing.
Everyone knows why.
If you want people to stop calling you racist, stop doing racist shit.
Stop supporting racist shit.
Nazi's don't go to heaven.

Susan Perry, Ms.
self / teacher
Austin, TX

Nefarious purpose, this bill. A waste of time and money to execute this bill. Only Donald Trump benefits from this bill -- is that what you want? more grift and corruption? If you vote to pass this bill, then be honest with yourself. You are voting for Donald Trump -- you are NOT voting for the Texas people in your district. Donald Trump does not care about the people in your district, nor you, except for how you can give him more power. Remember the Alamo -- vote no.

Virginia Fleiner
Self
Austin, TX

This redistricting plan is blatant gerrymandering. It prioritizes political power over people’s representation and should not be allowed to move forward!!
Politicians shouldn't pick their voters. Voters should pick their politicians. This map flips that principle on its head.

William Earnest
Self
Spicewood, TX

I support redistricting HB4 by Hunter.

Fayan Ridgley
SARW
Salado, TX

support redistricting

Cleveland Justin
Self
Grapevine, TX

I am against redistributing of Texas. Seems like blatant cheating. Let the voters decide.

Laurie Terry
Self / Accountant
Pflugerville, TX

I strongly oppose Texas House Joint Proposal 135. This bill appears to deliberately reduce the number of Democratic representatives in the Texas Legislature, undermining the principle of fair and equal representation for all Texans. Rather than reflecting the diverse political views across the state, HJP 135 risks manipulating electoral boundaries or procedures in a way that consolidates partisan power and weakens democratic accountability.

If enacted, HJP 135 would disenfranchise large segments of the population—especially in urban and minority communities that often vote Democratic—by diluting their electoral influence. Such tactics violate the spirit of the Voting Rights Act and contradict the foundational values of representative government.

Texas is a diverse and rapidly changing state. Our legislative process should empower voters and encourage competitive, fair elections—not rig outcomes in favor of one political party. I urge lawmakers to reject HJP 135 and pursue reforms that enhance, not suppress, democratic participation.

Brenda Bentley
Self
Tyler, TX

Redistricting as proposed is designed to illegally give the republican party a hugely lopsided majority and should be opposed.

Emilia De La Garza
Self
Edinburg, TX

If the HB passes many of the Latino and Hispanic communities will be affected. Republicans are heartless regarding the poor and marginalized. It’s basically taking away our voting rights and you all are picking our leaders. We, the minorities deserve a voice! My late Uncle Congressman Kika De La Garza served Congress for many years and did so much for the community. I learned the difference between the two parties. Democrats help, while Republicans destroy and fill their pockets, instead of them helping their Constituents. Come on. Get a backbone. It’s bad enough millions are also going to affected by the cutting of SNAP and Medicaid. Republicans don’t realize it can cause a lot of fatalities. I really request that you all get a heart and think of the Constituents that are going to be profoundly affected.

Sincerely,
Emilia I. De La Garza

Lorraine Kubala, Mrs.
self
El Paso, TX

I am writing today in opposition to the redistricting of Texas. You are letting Texas, TEXAS, get bossed around by an idiot yankee, and every one of you should know better. We don't take orders from Washington, or do we? Start acting the the Texans you are supposed to be instead of namby-pamby titty-babies. Stand up for your constituents and tell Washington we'll redistrict Texas when they pry it from our cold, dead, hands.

Victor Gonzalez self mechanic
Corpus Christi, TX

I do not support this bill.

Emmanuel Perez
Self
Temple, TX

This is a heinous travesty and waste of resources. We should be focused on preventative measures to ensure we are better prepared for natural disasters so the state government’s response is not outdone by a grocery store (especially with the cuts to FEMA thanks to the Trump administration). We need better warnings and funding in reserve for the increasingly more devastating weather we are experiencing and our people are dying to instead of this farce that seeks to maintain control of a failing presidency and steal the voice of the people. Act with honor so you can look your families in the eye and say you did the right thing. Give your children a future and a legacy they can be proud of instead of a stain on their family name.

Aubrey Evans
Self
Houston, TX

This is gerrymandering/cheating. Texas is a purple state and Republicans are not the only ones that live here! No to this Redistricting, it’s flat out cheating because Republican policies do not help Americans. NO!!

Steve Champion
Self, Software Engineer
Plano, TX

I've live in Texas all but the first year of my life while my Dad was serving in Vietnam. I'm a proud Texan from a long line of Texans. I'm embarrassed that our proud State has bowed down to the Federal government to do the will of a scared, bitter man. We are better than this. You must refuse to redistrict, the precedent you set here will never go away. We've argued our current maps are correct and we should continue to do so. The Federal government has admitted they just want the seats. There's no legal grounds to do so. The DOJ letter is a joke being used to make Texas look like we're unable to stand up for ourselves. I implore you to drop this or let it die on its own. Don't embarrass us further.

Caroline Harper
Self-teacher
Fort Worth, TX

Great — here's a revised version of the public comment, tailored specifically to Tarrant County, while still staying under the 3,000-character limit:

?

Public Comment in Opposition to the Texas Redistricting Proposal
Submitted by a Resident of Tarrant County

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan currently under consideration by the Texas House of Representatives. As a resident of Tarrant County, I am deeply concerned by the blatant partisan and racial gerrymandering embedded in the current proposal.

Tarrant County is one of the most diverse and rapidly growing counties in Texas. Much of that growth has come from Black, Latino, and Asian American communities. Yet, the proposed maps do not reflect this reality. Instead of creating fair opportunities for communities of color to elect candidates who represent their values and needs, the proposed districts intentionally divide and dilute these communities—denying them a meaningful voice in their own governance.

In particular, the splitting of historically unified neighborhoods in Fort Worth and Arlington appears designed to fracture the voting strength of minority populations. This "cracking" of communities undermines the core principles of representative democracy and violates both the spirit and the letter of the Voting Rights Act. Communities that live together, learn together, worship together, and work together should not be separated for partisan gain.

Moreover, the map appears crafted to protect incumbents and entrench partisan power, not to reflect the will of the people. Tarrant County is not the deep-red stronghold it once was. It is politically competitive, increasingly diverse, and deserves maps that honor—not erase—that complexity.

Equally troubling is the lack of transparency in the redistricting process. Community members have had limited time and opportunity to review the maps, provide input, or suggest alternatives. A rushed, closed-door process breeds distrust and damages public confidence in our institutions. Every Texan deserves a fair chance to participate in shaping the districts in which they live and vote.

I urge the legislature to reject this proposed map and commit to a redistricting process that centers fairness, transparency, and compliance with federal voting rights protections. Tarrant County voters should not be sacrificed to partisan interests. We deserve to be seen, heard, and represented.

Respectfully,
Caroline Harper
Tarrant County Resident

Hailey McClatchy
Self
Magnolia, TX

We do not need maps redrawn to better suit the whims of the current facicst regime. Texans deserve fair and even representation and these maps DO NOT do this.

Linda Rowlett, Dr.
Self
Industry, TX

Are the Republicans so afraid of democracy that they have to skew the districts? Isn't this called cheating in anyone's playbook? Are there no Republicans with a conscience? I, along with many others in my social circle, oppose redistricting that does not reflect the population of our state. I also oppose redistricting that draws districts with nonsensical boundaries. Districts should be drawn along community lines.

Savannah Hollis
Self - educator
Rockwall, TX

I oppose redistributing

Jameson Keller
Self. Management
Spring Branch, TX

I oppose the redistricting occurring in Texas.

Susannah Rolf
Self
Missouri City, TX

I am adamantly opposed to this. It is not an adequate representation of the people of Texas.

Arati Singh
self
Austin, TX

Dear Representatives:
Please do not bow to Trump's demands. Wake up. He is using you. You were elected to represent us--your fellow Texans. So please, remember why you are there and do your job. Do NOT support any congressional redistricting.
Sincerely,
Arati Singh

Charles Fife
Self - attorney
Rockwall, TX

I absolutely oppose redistricting

Tanya Uzelac
Self
Euless, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting

Melissa Zentgraf
Self-HR
Austin, TX

This plan is insane. I thought my previous district which stretched from Ft. Worth to Austin was nuts, but seeing a district that puts me, someone who lives in west Austin, in the same district as someone over 200 miles away? This does not tie neighborhoods together, as one of your brethren so cynically attempted to point out. It takes away my vote so that the corruption you so obviously support only grows stronger.

Spenser Cook
self, Cashier
Jarrell, TX

Shameful, an utter regression for the concept of a "fair and balanced" society. Short-sighted and corrupt. Dissapearing the voting power of an entire side of the aisle. The system that has brought this is better off burnt down.

Bobbi Roquemore
Self, lawyer
Houston, TX

I am appalled by this redistricting in the middle of the decade. Governor Abbott is already gaming the system through his slow-walk of replacing the late Rep. Sylvester Turner. But Abbott allowed this to be considered via special session, and this is being rammed through at breakneck speed? The Texas GOP should be ashamed of itself for doing MAGA's dirty work. Please reconsider and don't let Texas become another pawn in the MAGA swamp.

Ricardo Longoria
Self
Falfurrias, TX

My name is Ricardo G. Longoria, a proud constituent of Texas District 15. On Monday, I drove over six hours to Arlington because you refused to hold a hearing in South Texas. That choice speaks volumes about whose voices you value—and whose you deliberately silence.

I wish I could be in Austin today, but I cannot. So I’m writing you instead, with a simple message: This gerrymander is racist, unjust, and a direct attack on our democracy.

Why are you following the lead of a convicted felon in the White House? Do you not have a spine of your own? Ryan Guillen, of all people, should know the devastating impacts of gerrymandering—he once stood with Democrats before he was bought out by Republican interests.

This is wrong. And you know it.

These maps silence Black and brown Texans. It erases our power. It whitewashes the vote. You claim to be a patriot and a defender of the Constitution—yet these maps spits in the face of everything it stands for.

If you vote for this gerrymander, history will remember you not as a leader, but as a coward who enabled voter suppression and bowed to Greg Abbott, a governor who governs from fear, not strength.

Vote NO. Stop the steal. And stand with the people of Texas—not the politicians trying to rig it.

Alejandra Lopez
self
San Antonio, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in San Antonio, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. I live in district that could be effected by these changes. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Patrick Anderson
Self
Austin, TX

My family and I are 100% FOR redistricting. We believe the current congressional map is not fair, nor constitutional.
We support re-drawing the congressional maps in Texas.
Please support redistricting.

Catharine Wall
Self; Educator
Austin, TX

I am opposed to this bill. The 2021 districts were drawn BY Texas and Texans, FOR Texas and Texans, and based on demographic data from the 2020 Decennial Census. The current scheme has been mandated by President Trump to ensure up to five more Republican seats during the 2026 midterm elections: “Texas will be the biggest [redistricting effort]. . . . Just a simple redrawing, we pick up five seats,” Trump said.a couple of weeks ago. This is a cynical corruption of the decennial redistricting process! Governor Abbott has bought into it and Texas Republican legislators are buying into it with this partisan bill and with the redrawn districts. Shame on them for buying into the scheme. And shame on every single last one of y'all who votes for this bill.

Courtney Earth
Self
Houston, TX

I highly oppose the redrawing of district lines. This is obviously gerrymandering and we the people do not support it!

Marinan Williams
Slef
Austin, TX

We are not due for redistricting until 2031, five years from now. This is a blatant abuse of power and attempt to silence voices. We have already gerrymanded our districts such that the majority are underrepresented. Do the right thing. Focus on flooding and stop pandering to Trump.

Richard Walshin
Self
Rockwall, TX

I’m all for it.
Get it done.
Also get rid of property taxes

Mary Dimijian
self
Farmers Branch, TX

I am absolutely opposed to redistricting in Texas. I am in district 32 and feel that Julie Johnson has done a fantastic job representing me and my neighbors. There is no need to change the district just to appease Trump. I believe that is the only reason this is being done. I am hoping the Republican house will use common sense and cancel the redistricting plans.

Erin Fleming, Ms.
self and family
Austin, TX

Undermining minority voting power
Racial discrimination: The maps have been challenged in court for allegedly diluting the voting power of minority groups (Hispanic, Black, and Asian voters) by splitting them into multiple districts, hindering their ability to elect candidates of their choice.
Targeting growing populations: This is particularly concerning as minority communities have been responsible for almost all of Texas' recent population growth.
"Coalition districts" targeted: Current maps reportedly targeted and divided "coalition districts," where voters of color were key to electing representatives, aiming to strengthen Republican control.
Legality questioned: Critics argue that using partisanship as a proxy for race to diminish minority voting strength is illegal.
2. Partisan gerrymandering and unfair elections
Creating safe seats for one party: The 2021 map was designed to favor Republicans, leading to an efficiency gap suggesting they'd win more seats than fair representation would allow.
Reducing competitive districts: The current map significantly reduced the number of competitive districts, limiting voter choice and potentially impacting election outcomes.
Targeting vulnerable incumbents: The new proposed map targets Democratic incumbents, aiming to shift control of the U.S. House.
Trump's influence and mid-decade changes: The unprecedented mid-decade redistricting push is seen as a partisan maneuver, pushed by President Trump and the state GOP, potentially impacting the 2026 midterm elections and setting a dangerous national precedent.
3. Legal and constitutional challenges
Violations of Voting Rights Act: Several lawsuits allege that the maps violate Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act by diluting minority voting strength.
14th and 15th Amendment violations: Some lawsuits also claim the plans are intentionally discriminatory against Black and Hispanic voters and represent racial gerrymandering in violation of the U.S. Constitution.
Ongoing litigation: The legality of the existing maps is already being challenged in the courts, and new proposals are likely to face immediate legal challenges.
In essence, the Texas redistricting efforts are criticized for being partisan-driven, potentially racially discriminatory, and ultimately undermining fair and representative elections by creating districts that favor one party and diminish the voting power of minority communities.

McKenna Mitchell
Self
Sugar Land, TX

Against the redistricting that intentionally removes representation and is obviously designed to remove voices of the people in certain districts.

McCall Teicher
Self
Cedar Park, TX

This is an unfair bill and you all should be ashamed of yourselves for even trying to do this. Remember the why you got into all of this in the first place I don’t think it was to follow a maniac who sits in the highest seat and tell you what to do. What happened to your integrity and your conscience?

Gabriel Gonzalez, Mr.
Self
San Elizario, TX

I am constituent of the 23rd congressional district. I am embarrassed by the manner in which the proposed redistricting map came to fruition. This wasn't initiated in Texas. The was Donald Trump's administration ordering the Governor Abbott to find the GOP additional congressional seats to sway the upcoming midterms. He and his administration know they would lose in a fair election. So you are putting your thumb on the scale and essentially swaying the election. It is evident that the proposed map was already decided prior to the public hearings. Hence the confidence of expediting the process. Yet you act aloof even though everyone can see through you thinly veiled lies.
This map dilutes the representation of many Texans. And it is not lost on me that most of the affected districts are minority populations. Is it racist? Possibly. Is it tactical? Absolutely. Is it immoral? Undoubtedly. Many of you align with Christian principles so I will leave you with:
Mark 9:35
"If anyone wants to be first, he must be the very last, and the servant of all."

Robert Wiltzius, Mr.
Self, Retired Army, Systems Trainer
Harker Heights, TX

Elections have consequences as was stated so eloquently by President Obama. If the majority wants to redistricting, then they have that option. We wouldn't have this issue though if we repealed Public Law 62-5 and grew the House. 435 people for 350,000,000 is absurd. We could have 8 regional houses spread throughout the country and have 250 members in each house. Identical bills would be presented to each region for vote. Give the power of government back to the people by increasing the size of the body politic. Today, we have more oligarch or professional politician than common man in government. Regional Houses would allow for someone to have a career and drive four hours to cast their vote and then return home the same day.

Luz Irene Jaquez
Self/Data Tech
El Paso, TX

This map and this redistricting process is just totally unfair. Regardless of party, the people of El Paso deserve the chance to vote for our own representative who lives in our city. We deserve a representative who lives here in El Paso. Implementing this map is just unfairly rigging the system just to benefit the president. That's not right, no matter who the President is. Texans deserve better than this. We deserve to choose our own representative. I strongly oppose this bill.

sarah kelly
Texan
Kingwood, TX

This is absolutely against our rights as Texans, and inadequately represents the voices of our major cities. Please block this!

Amanda Smith
Self
Waco, TX

I don't not support the redistricting of Texas gerrymandering and silence of black and brown constituents in Texas

Amelia Minutillo
self
Austin, TX

A representative's job is to represent the interests of the people in THEIR residence. It is absolutely absurd for a representative to be expected to accurately portray the needs and wants of their constituents, when their constituents live hours away from each other and in entirely different communities. The government works FOR the people and is made up of the members of our community. The government is not a separate entity that operates under its own law and society. We are in this together and we need to start acting like it. Allow Texans the DIGNITY and RIGHT to have their voices heard and represented FAIRLY. I am extremely opposed to redistricting Texas and don't appreciate my governor being complicit in a manipulative scheme for power. Do not put reason aside to quell the petty worry that YOUR will won't be popular. Your job is to lift the voices of the PEOPLE in the community you represent, not insert YOUR voice as their mouthpieces.

Danica Barnett
Self, Marketer
Round Rock, TX

Redistricting Texas only serves the politicians who desperately need it to get elected in those areas.

Randy Lander
Self - Business Owner
Austin, TX

For all that Texas values its independence, y'all sure seem happy to follow Trump's whims. This new map designed to give Republicans more seats in Congress by slicing Democratic support as thin as possible in most districts and concentrating in a few others is disgusting. But you know all that. I just wanted to be on record as opposing this. You should be ashamed of yourselves but you're not capable of shame.

Laura Barnett
Self
McKinney, TX

This proposed mid-decade redistricting is a blatant political power grab—designed explicitly to flip up to five Democratic-held U.S. House seats for Republicans, boosting them from 25 to potentially 30 out of Texas’s 38 districts. That’s 79% control, in a state where Trump won only 56% in 2024. This isn’t democracy—it’s manipulation.

Charlotte Parker
Self
Mansfield, TX

I urge all elected officials to reject any redistricting proposals that would diminish the political power of minority communities.

Fair representation is the foundation of our democracy, and any effort to redraw districts in a way that weakens the voice of historically marginalized groups undermines that principle.

Voters deserve to choose their representatives—not the other way around. Supporting maps that dilute minority voting strength is not only unjust but invites legal and ethical scrutiny. I implore you to stand on the side of equity, transparency, and democratic integrity.

Ariel Peeri
self, retired
El Paso, TX

Do Not change El Paso maps to fix or rig our votes . Our elected officials must be from here and stop trying to fix the elections to your liking.

Patricia Harvey-Sneed
Self
Forney, TX

I support the redistricting

MaryJane Harrison
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am 100% opposed to the redistricting which is illegal and totally unfair to minority voters. Our representatives need to be aware of the fact of just how opposed we are because this will be your last term in office if this unfair redistricting happens. Stacking the deck the way the Republicans are doing makes you look petty and small and like you can’t win without cheating just like your fearless leader does.

Demethra Orion
Self
Houston, TX

My name is Demethra Orion, and I am a resident of Harris County. I stand in strong opposition to gerrymandering in our district maps because it undermines the very foundation of democracy— fair representation.
Harris County is one of the most diverse and economically vibrant counties in the nation. Yet, when maps are drawn with partisan or self-serving intent, they dilute the voices of entire communities, often splitting neighborhoods, schools, and economic corridors in ways that serve politicians, not the people. Gerrymandering makes elections less competitive, leaving voters feeling like their choices don't matter. That erodes trust, discourages civic participation, and alienates citizens from the democratic process.
I believe that our leaders should choose their voters by earning their trust and votes, not by manipulating district lines. Fair maps ensure accountability, encourage healthy competition, and reflect the true diversity of our county.
As a taxpayer and community member, I ask that you reject gerrymandered maps and instead adopt transparent, nonpartisan districting practices that put people not politics— at the center. Our democracy works best when every voice is heard and every vote counts equally.
Thank you for your time and consideration.

Cinthya Cheta
Self
FORNEY, TX

This redistricting represents capitulation to the pedophile predator in chief, currently occupying the white house. This does not help Texans. It is embarrassing and not Texan to bend over for a draft dodging rapist/racist. Do better!

Bryce Laake-Stanfield, PO3 RET
Self
Austin, TX

Testimony in opposition to HB4

My name is Bryce Laake-Stanfield, and I am in opposition to HB 4, I am a proud resident of Austin, Texas. I come before you today not only as a constituent, but as a disabled veteran, a queer Texan, and someone who has dedicated my life to advocacy in this state.

I've worn the uniform to protect our democracy, and I'm here today because what's happening in this redistricting process is a direct threat to that democracy.

Let's be honest: these maps are not about fair representation. They are about consolidating political power through gerrymandering, plain and simple. Texas has grown more diverse, more urban, and more engaged. Instead of honoring that shift, this process seeks to silence it—splitting communities like Austin, gutting representation for Black, Latino, and queer Texans, and drawing lines that serve politicians instead of people.

I've spent the last few years working with organizations fighting for veterans, LGBTQ+ rights, and disability justice. And across every one of those movements, we fight for the same thing: a voice. A fair shot. A seat at the table. But these proposed maps are a deliberate attempt to pull the chair out from under us.

Let's be clear: this is not just a partisan issue—it is a moral one. Because when communities are cracked and packed, when neighborhoods are divided so their voices carry less weight, that is voter suppression. And when suppression is codified into the very maps we use to elect our leaders, that is structural discrimination.

Democrats, progressives, independents and every person who believes in representative government must treat this moment with urgency. This is not just about districts. It's about whether Texans—especially Texans who don't fit into a narrow mold of power—will be allowed to shape the future of our state.

I'm asking this body to reject these maps and instead fight for a transparent, inclusive process that puts people before politics. Follow the Fair Maps Texas principles. Elevate community voices. And if you truly believe in democracy, then don't just speak out—act. Challenge this in court. Mobilize your communities. Do not let this moment pass without a fight.

Because Texans like me—veterans, queer folk, disabled people, our Black and Brown communities—we're not going anywhere. We've earned our seat at the table. And we're not going to stop until this state reflects all of us.

Thank you.

Shatha Kasem
Self
Houston, TX

Th is proposal is based on flawed data and fails to provide adequate representation for MENA communities.

Katherine Krueger
Self
Sugar Land, TX

I write to you today in deep frustration and disappointment regarding the blatant and politically motivated redistricting efforts being carried out under the influence of Donald Trump—a convicted felon who has repeatedly shown contempt for the truth, for justice, and for our Constitution.

The people of Texas deserve better than this charade. These maps should not be reviewed for another five years. Any premature remapping will not only waste millions of taxpayer dollars, it will disrupt and harm communities across the state and, most disturbingly, further suppress the voices of voters—especially those from historically marginalized communities.

I might ask you—what are you afraid of? Why are you bowing to the demands of a man who refuses to release promised documents such as those related to Jeffrey Epstein, clearly in an effort to protect himself and his inner circle? Why are you following the lead of someone convicted of crimes, instead of standing for the people of Texas?

You are not honoring your oath to the Constitution. You are not acting in defense of democracy. And people are starting to see through it. We see you- we know what you are doing!

Republicans I know—friends of mine—have expressed shame, remorse, and regret for ever believing in the party they once trusted. Are you yet ashamed? You should be. This is not what democracy looks like. This is what voter suppression and government manipulation look like. What are we doing? This is not what America was built on. This is not who we are supposed to be. History will remember your failures. What legacy will you leave when you are gone? One of courage and principle—or one of cowardice and complicity?
Right now, you are standing on the wrong side of history. You are turning your back on the Constitution and on the rights of your fellow Americans. You still have a choice. Choose justice. Choose the people. Choose democracy. We're watching. And we will not forget. Shame on you!

Julie McCoy
Self
Houston, TX

Doing this is in alignment to the political alliance that will destroy your futures. You will be voted out of office and your names will go down on the wrong side of Texas history. Praying you all start talking to the Lord and start doing the right thing for Texas and this country. We will remember this all, come voting time. Grow some integrity and stop pandering to an unlawful dictatorship!
We won't forget you… till we can get you out and gone. Say no to the gerrymandering you are creating to keep a convicted felon in office.

Marian Rain
Self
Dallas, TX

Further gerrymandering in this way is neither democratic nor American. Any representative who go along with this should be ashamed. It will only lead to a worsening partisan atmosphere.

Madeleine Mannix
Self
El Paso, TX

My father is a veteran and the VA in El Paso takes care all his medical care. My father would surely not be alive today if it were not for the VA. I do not see why the VA center located in El Paso and Fort Bliss should fall under the representation of a district spanning from San Antonio. It doesnt make sense. El Paso is between 7 to 9 hours away. We are closer to New Mexico than any other major city in Texas. That should mean that we are to be represented but someone from El Paso. Someone who understands our needs best. Ask anyone from central to east Texas, they will tell you that El Paso is not Texas. At least not like the rest of Texas. We are a unique city that needs to be represented by someone who understands, I believe that. There is no need for redistricting, as we already have a representative who fully understands what it means to live and be an El Pasoan.

Reymundo Diaz
Retired/self
El Paso, TX

We're better off being a part of New Mexico than Texas, we're treated like step children, being at the tip of Texas

Michael Hanna
Self
EL PASO, TX

It is practically criminal to do any redistricting during a non census year. This is only being done to attempt to keep the Republican majority in the house. Here in El Paso, the redistricting would severely limit our representation to be included in a house district that stretches all the way to San Antonio.

Elise Portley
The Sanctuary of Dallas
Forney, TX

The request to redistrict will not fully represent the constituents within rhe districts that they currently serve. The push to move on this so quickly is an example of gerrymandering and as a concerned and involved voter, I do not agree.

Doug Stevens, Citizen of Texas
Self
HORIZON CITY, TX

I see the governor does not care about El Paso. How can one, whose office is in San Antonio, effectively serve half of El Paso, the airport,and Ft. Biss?? They cant- or do they really care to. We know what you are trying to do Govenor Abbott- steal seats away from democratic voters/parry. Stealing away IQ, empathy, people wanting to help/serve the people who voted for them!! Serve their constituents!! What a concept!! Gerrymandering wouldn't have to be an issue if you tried to serve you're state!! Instead you are giving in..kissing the ring of the "president". Why ? Because the gop- the Maga party- the white party of incompetence, destruction of rights of people needs more seats. Instead of serving/helping people- you are choosing to steal from them!! I know it's the Maga way and it is wrong!! You know it , your party knows it , buy yall don't care. Shame on you!! May you all get your judgment. Thank you and God Bless....we need it.

John Hughes, Mr
self / self employed
Austin, TX

As a lifelong Austin, Texas taxpayer, voter, and family man, I demand to have my elected representatives living in and based in Travis County. I do not want to be represented by some know-nothing interloper from San Angelo, Victoria, Houston, Waco, or any other city other than Austin. Austinites demand to have their elected representatives based in Travis County. It's outrageous to suggest otherwise. Vote rigging and gerrymandering to remove fairly elected local leaders who know the needs of our area , and replacing them with rubberstamping good ol country boy bootlickers is poor policy and will not be tolerated - it is anti-Texas, anti-democratic and is a crooked scheme put forth by crooked men who have no better ideas to govern with. Voters select their leaders, not the other way around. We've had enough of this mismanagement of Texas sovereignty. Here in Austin, we pay attention to our elected representatives, who they stand with, what they do and how they vote. We don't elect felons or molesters or kings. This bill attempts to eliminate fair representation and we won't stand down.

Adelina Orozco Eaton, Mrs.
Self
El Paso, TX

Please don't vote to remove our local representation. Someone who lives 500+ miles away from our city doesn't know us or our needs. That person has consistently voted for bills that inconvenienced us and take away all that we've worked for to better our city. You know the difference between right and wrong. Make sure that you're voting for the people that live in the area of the 6th largest populated city of Texas. Stand up and do what's right. This is about people, not about party lines.

Talemah Jones
self pharmacist
Grand Prairie, TX

I do not support the redrawing of maps during this special session of congress. I feel that this is an attempt to take away the voice of the people and that Texas is only doing this to appease our current President. I ask that you do not carve up these districts and instead await the ruling on the maps that are already being deliberated over and the next census cycle to redraw the maps. If this passes I will work diligently with my fellow voters to remove all persons from office who voted in favor of this redistricting effort.

Connor Gleim
Self
Austin, TX

I am a lifelong Texan and I think this redistricting plan must be abandoned. I think that such blatant rigging of a district map is a slap in the face to millions of Texans and our right to a free and fair democratic process. I think if the state legislature had a Democrat majority and that majority attempted this same sort of partisan election rigging, every single republican member of the Texas legislature would be strongly opposed on the same moral and legal grounds. I hope that the members pay close attention to the earnest and passionate testimony of Texans like myself and that they change course and scrap this plan. I love my home state and I have since I was born, but these types of partisan overreaches and attacks on fair elections make me think that Texas doesn’t love its citizens. Finally, I don’t think that the authors and architects of this redistricting plan should call the bluff of states with Democrat majorities who can and will redraw their own maps to erase these five petty additions to the narrow GOP majority. I think that map rigging of any kind, red or blue, is wrong. But I fear that this plan being considered is only just the beginning between now and our midterm elections. I urge our legislators to abandon this plan. Texas is a one of a kind state, and a leader among the 50. This plan isn’t leadership - it’s ring kissing, boot licking conformity to appease Washington party leaders and bureaucrats as well as the president, who will never return this kind of favor.

Jenny Hassibi
Self
Austin, TX

Please play by the rules and redraw the lines after the next census. This is clearly a power grab and an attack on democracy.

Lilia Villarroel
Myself
Tomball, TX

I am writing to express my total opposition to the proposed redistricting map.

I reached out to my representative on this special committee, Rep. Tom Oliverson (District 130), but have yet to receive any response or acknowledgment. As my elected representative, he has a responsibility to listen to and represent his constituents — and his silence is unacceptable.

This committee has failed to provide the public with adequate notice of today's hearing. Many members of the public were not given a fair opportunity to prepare or participate in this process. That lack of transparency and rushed procedure undermines the integrity of our democracy and, frankly, should be considered unlawful.

I am deeply concerned that these maps were drawn to serve political interests rather than fairly represent the people of Texas. I see through this process and will not forget.

My vote will count — and I will use it. Once again, I am in complete opposition to this redistricting map.

Stephen Hendricks
Self
Keller, TX

I support HB 4 and the redistricting map being proposed. Thank you.

Al Lindsey, M.D.
Self, retired Family Doctor
Austin, TX

To continue, " letter from the DOJ is total BS. AG Pam Bondi wrote it to address Trump's Panic that he was going to lose his razor-thin House majority in the midterms & desperately wanted to reach out to Greg Abbott to bail him out. And obsequius puppet that he is, Gregie Baby agreed & added this to the special session agenda. Your plan is racist and unconstitutional. Mr. Hunter; and the field hearings were SHAMS, since there were no maps to evaluate. The People of Texas do not want more Republican Congress Folks, and DJT is underwater on every issue in every poll! The 2021 maps are fine for now, and your & Texas GOP's pretense of wanting public input and to serve Texans is another Sham. We will see You In Court!

Janice Graham
Self
Cedar Creek, TX

What are the republicans so afraid of that they are unable to hear a different opinion or approach to solve problems? What is happening to this country was unimaginable when I first started voting. It is also unfashionable why you would follow a man who is a convicted rapist, a man who cares nothing for our veterans, etc. You have lost your moral compass. Shame on you - I suspect the bottom line is all about money.

Adah Jones, Dr.
self and AFT
Wimberley, TX

As a Texas AFT member and an educator in higher education, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Gerrymandering is a blatant abuse of power to put certain communities at a disadvantage for having their voices heard. Voting is every person's right and privilege and manipulation takes away any real effect that each person's vote has. Please move towards equity and fair inclusion.

Donna Goll
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am strongly opposed to redistricting at this time, in this way! It is unfair and unethical. It is only happening because the POTUS is demanding it in order to secure more Republican seats in the 2026 elections! Do not capitulate to corruption! You know this is wrong! Give the citizens of Texas time to properly debate this and determine what is best for us. Do not allow DC to dictate what Texas should do! Allow fair maps to be drawn by an Independent Commission that fairly represents all Texas citizens!

Allison Campolo, Dr.
Tarrant County Democratic Party
Euless, TX

I am opposed to this redistricting effort as it is not being conducted in good faith. It is abundantly clear that the body is not convening and collecting testimony for a legitimate discussion about fair representation. This mid-decade redistricting is unnecessary and it is a cynical, calculated attack on the voting rights of millions of Texas, particularly communities of color. This is about kowtowing to the whims of a President who is a convicted fraud, yet demands fealty and "5 more Republican seats", even if it means sacrificing the very principles of fairness and democracy.

I think what really stuns me is that this body is undertaking this action in direct conflict with the best interest of even rural or Republican voters. By systematically carving up urban areas to dilute them with rural voters, this action only guarantees that all Texans will lose fair representation, regardless of party.

This committee asked for testimony last week without even giving the public maps. They lied blatantly and directly to our faces saying no map existed on July 28, 2025, and then released extremely technical and complex maps which take Texas - which is a 47% Dem, 53% Rep state according to the 2020 election and census - to a voting environment where Democrats only have the possibility of representing a mere 21% of the population only 36 hours later on July 30, 2025.

This isn't leadership, it's cowardice. It's an abdication of your responsibility to the people you swore to serve.

We will remember who stood for democracy and who bowed down to political pressure. You are diluting you own Republican districts with our numbers and you will overplay your hand. The shame of this blatant gerrymander will be forever tied to your names. Do the right thing or be remembered for this gutless act on the wrong side of history.

Caroline Docwra
Self
Houston, TX

The new map presented cuts one of the most diverse areas of Texas, Alief, into multiple parts and places us into a majority white, higher income district. This ensure the needs of our community will never be heard and our voices silenced. Our elected officials will not listen to the needs because we become the minority again where in Houston we are the majority. In our previous district our congressman spoke directly for us and what we want done with our hard working tax dollars. If is unconstitutional and unconsciable to take away rights from our community and will only lead into fascism.

Jennifer Bullock
Self/ Teacher
Austin, TX

As a life long Texan, I urge you to do the morally right thing and not gerrymander these districts. It is vital to the fabric of our democracy that everyone is allowed to have a voice and not be victim to greed and power. History has its eye on you.

Lauren Ivy Chiong
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am strongly against the redistricting effort. Thank you.

Cathy King, A person
Self
Austin7, TX

This bill is unconstitutional and illegal. Section 1 of the 14th Amendment demands that each person has the right to representation. You are violating that right if you pass this.

Angelica Rivera, Ms.
Self
Temple, TX

I am against this bill!! VOTE NO!

Kristin Hook, Dr.
Self - Scientist
Corpus Christi, TX

I'm a native Texan, a concerned scientist, and former congressional candidate for Texas' 21st Congressional District, which includes Kerrville and communities devastated by the recent floods.

I OPPOSE redistricting Texas maps based on partisan ideologies instead of data. I urge the members of this committee not to aid and abet a political power grab that harms all Texans and our democracy.

I'm thinking of the flood victims today. When I campaigned in Kerr County last year, residents told me their top concern was the subversion of democracy. That's exactly what's at stake here.

This special session should be focused on flood victims. Instead, Trump and Abbott are exploiting this natural disaster and the families still reeling from devastating losses to ram through a partisan agenda that allows them to cling to power in next year's elections.

This mid-census gerrymander attempt is a slap in the face to Kerr County and Texans everywhere.

I've seen what happens when maps are gerrymandered: constituents have no one to show up to town halls to hear their concerns and no one to advocate for them in the halls of power.

Every decade since the Voting Rights Act was passed in 1965, the state of Texas has been found guilty of violating it by diluting the voices of Latino and Black Texans.
Right now, the last redistricting plan the state legislature schemed up is being challenged in court for the exact same thing.

If you approve this redistricting plan, you could set a new record for violating the Voting Rights Act – not once but TWICE in a single decade. Is that the legacy you want to leave behind? Is that a legacy you would be proud to share with your children, grandchildren, and constituents?

You were elected by the people of Texans – not Donald Trump, not Greg Abbott. So ask yourself: who do you work for? Are you here to serve democracy or to serve tyrants?

Instead of gerrymandering our maps to take a wrecking ball to our democracy, this committee should work to put an end to partisan gerrymandering by creating an independent redistricting commission to produce fair, more competitive maps and a publicly transparent process.

Thank you for your time. We're counting on you ALL to do the right thing.

Summer Hernandez
Self
Cedar Creek, TX

This is not representative of the desires of most Texans. I strongly oppose this bill!

Cindy Martinez
Self
El Paso, TX

This country was not built overnight but it feels like it is being destroyed by spineless politicians who refuse to stand up to their “master “.
May I remind you that you were elected to ensure to ensure the laws and bylaws of this state and county are followed. Rigging an election before the people of Texas can vote stinks of gerrymandering. It is corrupt and racist, not to mention an attack on our Democracy.
Do your job!! But do it honestly and with integrity.
Ensure our democracy survives.

Abigail Madden
Self - dietitian
Houston, TX

I am 30 years old and a lifelong Texan. This is my first time getting truly involved in speaking out on political issues, because though I’ve known Texas politics to be deeply unjust for some time, things are now at a breaking point.

I am a constituent of Congressional District 18, and weeks ago when I looked up which representative to call to express my disapproval of the “big, beautiful bill,” I found that there was no one to call. Because Governor Greg Abbott continues to purposely delay the special election to fill the seat of the late Sylvester Turner, currently I am experiencing taxation without representation.

On my registration form to testify today, I wasn’t allowed to mark “for” or “against” the redistricting effort, because for some reason we are being asked to give “public comments” on a redistricting map has not yet been created. Even in the absence of a map, or a hearing that allows opinions to be tallied, let the record show: I am against this effort. Against unnecessary mid-decade redistricting which is sure to be further gerrymandering and disenfranchisement of BIPOC voters. Against following orders from the president for ridiculous Republican power grabs that come at the cost of people’s lives.

The fact that every person here was forced to mark “neutral,” that public testimony is capped at five hours, and that only three hearings are being held across this entire state, all reflect how our voices are being actively suppressed.

I am disillusioned with my government. I don’t believe the current political majority cares what I think. But I’m here anyway, because we the people will not be silenced. We deserve representation that doesn’t treat our voices as obstacles. We the people are watching, and we’re asking you—don’t mess with our congressional districts, and don’t mess with Texas.

Johanna Caruthers
Self
Dallas, TX

My name is Johanna Caruthers, and I live in US Congressional District 32, Texas House District 114, and Texas Senate District 23. I have lived in Texas for 10 years now; the only other state I've lived in longer was Pennsylvania, where I was born. I am against HB4 and oppose any efforts to redraw the voter districts in the state of Texas. Texans deserve fair maps that represent communities, not politicians. Any redistricting process that silences voters—especially communities of color—is a direct attack on our democracy. We are watching, we are organizing, and we will not accept maps drawn to divide and diminish our voices. This committee has a choice: serve the people, or face the consequences of ignoring them. I ask the committee to reject this bill.

Sean Gulick, Dr.
Self
Sunset Valley, TX

I was truly dismayed to learn that the State of Texas would take the highly unusual move of redrawing congressional districts out of cycle with the Census. This is clearly not driven by any kind of mandated action on apart of the state, nor is this the usual get it right with our updated population numbers. Rather this is entirely political and will have the effect of continuing to disenfranchise voters in the State of Texas. Let democracy have a voice and leave the districts alone until the next census.

Beatrice Navarette, Ms.
Self, Oncology Sales Representative
El Paso, TX

I am writing as a Texas voter to vehemently oppose the blatant partisan redistricting efforts being pushed by Governor Abbott to manipulate our electoral maps in favor of Donald Trump and his political allies. This is not representative democracy—it is election interference carried out under the guise of "redistricting."

Every Texan deserves fair maps that reflect our communities, not maps drawn to silence voters and rig outcomes. My vote is MY voice, and these proposed changes are designed to drown it out. Gerrymandering undermines the very foundation of free and fair elections and erodes public trust in our democratic institutions.

If our leaders can redraw maps at will to guarantee one party's victory, then the promise of democracy in Texas is nothing more than a sham. This power grab is anti-American, anti-democratic, and must be stopped.

I urge the Texas Legislature to reject this blatant attempt to manipulate our elections. We deserve fair representation—not rigged districts designed to keep one man and one party in power. Texans are watching, and we will remember who defended our right to vote and who helped destroy it.

Saman Hassibi, Dr
Self
Austin, TX

This is premature and does not accurately represent Texans. As a physician and father in our community I vehemently oppose the bill.

Meghan Burk
self
Austin, TX

I disagree with this redistricting approach - it is imbalanced and puts an unfair majority to the favor of Republicans, forcibly so. If America is a democracy, you cannot be upset if a majority vote Democratically. Allow us to be heard.

Shannon Byrne
self
austin, TX

AGAINST

Anna Krachey
Myself
Austin, TX

This is unacceptable. Gerrymandering. It's a biased mapping made with the goal of promoting one groups voice over everyone else's. This is not how you represent the people. It's biased and unfair.

Terri Crouch
Self
Waxahachie, TX

These maps are whole unfair, racist and unconstitutional! This is a very blatant power grab and the people of Texas do not want this! Remember you work for us! We will continue to fight this tooth and nail! Do not redraw the maps!

Sara Peck
Self
McKinney, TX

I Absolutely OPPOSE this redistricting! It is against true democracy! Please cite NO!

Cebron O'Bier, Mr.
Self-Financial Representative
Avery, TX

I am in favor of the redistricting giving the Republicans 5 more seats.

Betsy Sanchez, Mrs
Self designer
Galveston, TX

Dear Madams & Sirs,

I would like to voice my objection to spending time and money on redistricting in Texas. We have other more pressing issues on our plates than to gerrymander voting lines.

FYI, I lost my brother in the Kerrville floods. I am devastated. As elected officials you should be spending all your time making concrete policy, implementation and funding for the health safety and welfare of all Texans. Spend time on this session on flood control. One topic for the special session. Please do what you were elected to do and stop trying just get elected through redistricting and gerrymandering district to find votes.

Kimberly Horne
Self—teacher
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest. Thank you for your attention to this matter!

Lesley Forte
Self / paralegal
Anna, TX

I strongly oppose this bill.

Khristen Lister
Self
Houston, TX

I am opposed to this bill

Nora Fuentes
self
El Paso, TX

I wish to negate the new redistricting maps that affect El Paso. El Pasoans do not want a Representative that is almost 500 miles away. It is a known fact that the new redistricting maps affect the votes of minorities, which has been seen time and time again. Ohio for one example. Redistricting revolves around the ongoing struggle between political interests seeking to maintain power through gerrymandering and citizens advocating for fair, transparent, and constitutional redistricting processes that truly represent the will of the people.

Monica Tison
Self, Director of Customer Success
Austin, TX

I'm writing to demand that the committee vote against the biased redistributing map in Texas. The proposed map explicitly and openly denies Texans equal representation in our government by suppressing votes for a single political party. This flies in the face of our forefather's desire for free and fair elections, and unjustly manipulates the electoral process for the benefit of the Republican party. Currently, the 66% of Texans are represented by a Republican congressional member, even though only 55% of Texans voted for the Republican candidate. With the proposed map, that number would jump by 13 percentage points to 79% - a vast over representation of the political diversity of Texans. Voting in favor of this redistricting declares to Texans, the United States, and those watching around the world that we are no longer a democracy that truly values the voice of it's citizens. I urge all members of this body to to vote against.

Nadia Hubbard
Self
Garland, TX

The pushed redistict needs to be stopped. It is being used as a tool to suppress the votes and voices of those in the areas being changed.

Samara Flener
Self
Austin, TX

I stand against the republican attempt at redistricting which will disenfranchise underrepresented voters and is a blatant power grab at the behest of the most corrupt president and administration in the history of the United States of America.

Kaitlyn Kash
Self
Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Kaitlyn Kash, and I'm a resident of Austin. I'm a mom with kids in our public schools, an active neighbor involved in my community, and a Texan who cares deeply about fairness, democracy, and having a voice that counts.
I'm really concerned about what's happening with this redistricting process. It feels rushed, unnecessary, and—frankly—dishonest. Nothing has changed in our population to justify redrawing these maps right now. The only thing that's changed here is the political calculation. You can't say this isn't about party advantage. When asked by reporters about the possibility of redrawing maps to help Republicans win more seats, The President said, "Texas will be the biggest one. Just a very simple redrawing, we pick up five seats."
If there were any doubt about the motivation behind this process, the President's own words erased it.
The privilege you have as lawmakers to shape our congressional districts is not a tool for party gain. It's a responsibility—to ensure that all Texans, regardless of race, geography, or party, have a fair and equal opportunity to elect representatives who reflect their communities.
When redistricting is reduced to a "very simple" way to "pick up five seats," it shows that you're not focused on serving your fellow Texans—you're focused on protecting your political future.
This process risks silencing specific communities, especially communities of color across Texas, just to give one party a few more safe seats. It makes people feel like our voices and our votes don't matter.
We already struggle with low trust in government. Pushing through a redistricting plan mid-decade—when we're not even due for one—only deepens that mistrust. And meanwhile, real issues—like how to prevent future tragedies for children and families who died while camping or attending summer camps in our state—go unaddressed. These were families simply enjoying what Texas has to offer, and they never got the warnings in time. Solutions were filed last session that could help prevent this from happening again—and could still be passed.
You're treating our congressional map like a coloring book—not titled "How to Ensure Fair Representation," but "How to Secure Total Domination."
I hope you'll choose to do the right thing. Hit pause on this process. Let Texans keep the districts we just voted under, and focus instead on the urgent problems families across this state are facing.
Thank you for your time.

Jill Patton
self, business owner
Round Rock, TX

This bill is an affront to democracy. It silences minority voices and will skew our votes further. The system of our government is trying to silence us and you are complicit if you pass this bill. Please do the bidding of your TEXAS CONSTITUENTS and not our President. You owe US. We will not forget where you stand on Election Day. And you bet blue states will retaliate is you pass this.

Zachary Herbert
Self
Garland, TX

This is obviously unfair, and should not go through.

Gregory Callow
Self - Self Employed
Trinidad, TX

Redistricting is only to be done in the year following the census. Any other "gerrymandering" is an illegal political ploy! Please adhere to the law not politics!

Susan Kelley, Ms
none
Austin, TX

Good grief. What is wrong with you people? Even though this is a farce of public comment, here are my thoughts. Texans should be allowed, in their current districts, to make their opinions clear about the so-called Big Beautiful Bill which will harm thousands of Texans, will terminate entitlement to health care, kill many of our rural hospitals, do essentially nothing for working poor Texans, and increases funding for masked ICE bully boys to invade our schools, businesses, and farms. Our Founders intended for Reps to be elected from those who LIVE in our communities, would serve for two years, then return home. They never intended it to be a form of permanent employment and a source of personal enrichment. When I moved to Texas in 1973, I was a Republican, but I have watched the GOP sink into a cesspool of culture wars and violations of the all-important separation of church and state in passing laws embracing sectarian beliefs (the abortion laws being a stark example) and support the most amoral and unqualified President we have had in my lifetime. You claim a "mandate" yet you fear the judgment of voters on the harm being done to our Democracy and the Rule of Law. Shame no longer exists in Texas GOP.

Nadia Trevino
Self-Educator
Manvel, TX

This is a blatant and gross overtaking of government by a party that has always touted itself as the party of “small government”. We will not appease dictators in Washington nor here in Texas. We will not appease nor enable autocrats nor dictators anywhere. Stop this attempt to steal future elections in Texas and in the nation in order to keep Republicans in power. That is not a democracy!

Kelley Blevins
Self
Mount Pleasant, TX

I do not agree with this redistricting effort. The proposed map does not allow an accurate representation of our population and our political values.

Rachel Gyamfi
Self
Mansfield, TX

My name is Rachel Gyamfi and I live in Mansfield, right on the edge of Tarrant County, in congressional district 6.

I strongly oppose this redistricting plan. This is clear racial gerrymandering to boost the Republican's stronghold in the House of Reps. It works to silence the voices of democrats and independents. This redistricting plan comes not from the people of Texas, but the dried up orange that is sitting in the oval office. He does not care for us, he does not know us, and he does not represent us. But yall do, so I hope that after hearing our pleas that you will do the right thing and not vote on this oh so "secretive" map that we still have not seen.

Vote NO to HB 4 by Hunter

Jill Carter, Dr.
Self
Terrell, TX

Redistricting in Texas is unnecessary and harmful to the people of Texas. This attempt to redistrict is politically motivated to manipulate the 2026 Congressional elections to favor the Republican Party. This flies in the face of our democracy and the idea that American citizens have the right to representation. This redistricting plan seeks to silence the voices of Texas citizens, especially those who are Black and Hispanic. This is blatant discrimination and has no place in our state or country.

Andrew Moore
self/Executive and Small Business Owner Jonestown, TX

Members of the Texas House,

Texas is more than a place on a map — it is an idea. An idea forged in independence, built by people who believed in taking responsibility for their own future. For generations, Texans have carried that identity with pride: tough, self-reliant, unwilling to bow to the dictates of Washington, D.C. or anyone else.

That is why HB?4 — the proposal to redraw Texas' U.S. House districts in the middle of the decade — strikes at the very heart of what it means to be Texan.

This bill doesn't arise from new census data, demographic shifts, or the natural cycle of redistricting. It comes from partisan calculation — and worse, from pressure applied by forces outside Texas, including a President and his national operatives, who have made no secret of their goal: to engineer a map that delivers more seats in Congress for their party.

When Texas legislators allow mid-decade redistricting at the request of Washington strategists, we send a dangerous message — that Texas is willing to set aside its own traditions and values to serve the needs of a political machine we don't control.

By redrawing districts mid-stream:

Communities are torn apart. Towns, neighborhoods, even school districts will suddenly find themselves represented by someone they didn't vote for, someone who doesn't know their issues, someone who isn't rooted in their lives.

Constituent services are disrupted. Families who need help with a Social Security issue, veterans who need their VA claims handled, small businesses that need guidance from federal agencies — all of them will have their cases shuffled to new offices, creating confusion and delays.

Texans lose their voice. If your community is carved up into pieces, your concerns don't carry the same weight. When a district is engineered to serve a party instead of a people, your vote becomes a checkbox in someone else's strategy.

We were a republic before we were a state. We've fought wars to defend our right to self-determine. We've written independence into our very DNA.

We talk often about the Tenth Amendment, about state sovereignty, about keeping Texas Texan. But sovereignty isn't just about resisting federal mandates; it's about resisting the temptation to hand Washington more control over us.

HB?4 is exactly that temptation.

It says: Let's redraw our map — not because Texans asked for it, but because Washington did.

It says: Let's divide our communities — not because it helps Texans, but because it helps a party gain power in D.C.

It says: Let's put Texas to work for Washington, instead of putting Washington to work for Texas.

And when Texas Republicans vote for HB?4, they risk becoming what Texans will rightly call TINOs — Texans In Name Only.

You cannot claim to stand for Texas independence while handing over the keys to our representation. You cannot claim to stand for Texas values while reshaping our map to serve someone else's agenda.
I urge you: reject HB?4. Keep Texas independant.

Debi Castro
Self
Round Rock, TX

I ask that all our leadership publically condemn and refuse to support the radical Redistricting process happening in our great state. This blatantly partisan gerrymandering is a dangerous precedence and takes away the voice of so many of our citizens. Hardworking, critical members of our communities will be robbed of their participation in our democratic process. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Erik Powers
Self
Cedar Park, TX

This bill and this process are extremely unpopular. It's no wonder because it is blatantly undemocratic. Our political bodies are now so dysfunctional largely due to things like gerrymandering that stifle true representation of the citizenry. And now it's becoming a race to the bottom with other states threatening to follow Texas' lead. Rather than pursue this, why not pass a bill that bans political gerrymandering? Texans would certainly appreciate that.

April Patrick, Ms.
Self
Canyon Lake, TX

NO redistricting!! Please stop this.

Nicole Trejo-Serrata, Mrs.
Self
Alice, TX

This bill is a blatant attempt to silence Texan's voices. My district (15) would remove many and now include more registered republicans than democrats. The new district would include many citizens whom do not share our human experiences, lifestyles, political views, environment, etc. Do better! Vote against this atrocious bill. The whole country is watching you.

Elissa Saxon
self
Richardson, TX

If you rig these districts, I will not be voting for any of you in the next elections. Your actions are appalling and you all should be ashamed.

Joshua Bradley
Self, precinct 29 chair of Smith County, Texas
Troup, TX

As an active citizen, I urge the Texas Legislature to approve HB4. The current districts drawn in 2021 followed the flawed 2020 Census which officials have acknowledged significantly undercounted several states, including Texas, while overcounting others. Further, recent court decisions including the U.S. Fifth Circuit's 2024 ruling in the Petteway v. Galveston County established that districts based on "coalitions" of minority groups are not protected by the Voting Rights Act. It is time to correct the error of 2021, pass HB4, and restore fair Congressional seat representation in Texas. Thank you.

Tanya Mahr
Self - marketing director
Austin, TX

NO. As an east Austin resident represented by Greg Casar, I am strongly opposed to this legislation. I have lived in Austin for 12 YEARS, and FINALLY, for the very first time as a Texas resident, Casar has made me feel like I have a voice in congress that truly represents me. Sure, my district would be absorbed by Doggett's who I also support, but this bill ignores the thousands of voices who WON'T have a voice again, or whose voices will now be diluted because of more gerrymandering and political strategy that's an obvious power grab. We WILL NOT STAND FOR THIS. Hear me say this, we cannot and will not stand by and let Washington dictate our local politics as a ploy to remain in power. This is abhorrent.

Jeff Gifford
Self
Cedar Park, TX

What a disgrace. Embarrassed to be a Texan. Republican Party is not of the people, but for the wealthy. Name of thing done by the Republican Party that benefits everyday people in a positive way?

Richard Wiseman
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I fully support HB4 and the redistricting map.

Kathryn Genet
Self
Austin, TX

Mid cycle redistricting is designed to take away the voice of select citizens. It indicates the ruling party can not win on their policy and agenda. It is not democratic. It is not American. Those that push this: remember that we are a democracy. Your fellow citizens have the right to elect representatives that best represent their ideals in this competition of policy. That's how America became great. I know we all love America. Be a ruling party that is brave enough to put the judgement of your ideas and policy to the public. If you are afraid, then examine your policy or educate voters. No on serving Donald Trump. Be Texans. Be worth it.

Aman Sandhu, Ms.
Self
Flower Mound, TX

All Texans need to be fairly represented. I do not support this redistricting at all.

Sharon Guthrie
Self
Tyler, TX

Please support Rep. Hunter's redistricting plan. I encourage all Republicans in the Texas Legislature to approve HB4. The current districts drawn in 2021 followed the flawed 2020 Census which officials have acknowledged significantly undercounted several states, including Texas, while overcounting others. Further, recent court decisions including the U.S. Fifth Circuit's 2024 ruling in the Petteway v. Galveston County established that districts based on "coalitions" of minority groups are not protected by the Voting Rights Act. It is time to correct the error of 2021, pass HB4, and restore fair Congressional seat representation in Texas. Thank you.

Robert Barracca, Mr.
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Support

Amanda Erickson
self
Austin, TX

As you all well know, redistricting is supposed to happen based on the census taken every 10 years and get updated based on population change. This is a blatant attempt to gerrymander the districts at the whims of a certain president so the Republicans can stay in power. What this ends up doing is silencing voters, especially those in minority communities. No one wants this, and this certainly does not represent the will of the voters in any which way you slice it. Vote no on this power grab that threatens our democracy. Instead of spending so much time on this, maybe you should focus your efforts on the flood victims and making sure Texas has appropriate warning systems for all of the increasing storms and natural events that keep happening with more frequency. That would actually help people, but we know you only help yourselves.

Marlene DiLillo
self Retired
Harker Heights, TX

I am in SUPPORT of HB4. This bill is legal, and opposition is fermenting fear through lies and false information. Personal attacks against the committee members at this bill's hearings are unacceptable and reflect on the bad character of the persons making these threats and attacks. Both Dems and Republicans have precedent for this redistricting, so again, I support the swift passage of HB 4.

Allison Cleary
Self
Comanche, TX

The redistricting of Texas has been at the request of the President of the United States. This redistricting proposal was not initiated because our great state had a need for it, but because a sitting American President TOLD us this needed to happen. Since when have Texans bent to the will of the Office of the Presidency? Since when did the great state of Texas start looking out for the interest of the national government than for its own people? A Texans we tend to pride ourselves as being self sufficient and independent. We pride ourselves in looking out for one another and to fight against big government systems that have overstepped their lane of power. I implore you to not listen to the demands of the President. I implore you to stick to Texan values and continue to put us Texans first before big government. Reject this redistricting and embrace all of the Texan voices. When we as a state stand strong, stand together historically we have done phenomenal things, and I want to continue that legacy. It would devastate me to see my home state, the one I serve as a healthcare worker, the one where I was born and raised, to see the state that I love, fall to its knees in devotion to big government.

Susan Van Haitsma
self, retired
Austin, TX

This is a dishonest, openly racist move by Texas Republicans, who are damaging Texas and undermining this country's basic values of democracy and equality.

Rosa Ratterree
self
Burleson, TX

I respectfully, request the committee accept the HB 4 bill. I live in an area that will be affected by this bill, and will be better represented with the HB 4 bill passing.

Lynn Bridge, Ms.
Self- retired
Dripping Springs, TX

To all the Republicans on the Committee: You have fallen under the spell of the governor, who has fallen under the spell of the president, who has to cheat his way to votes to maintain power. I see what you are doing- you don't fool me. I live in Hays County, and you are clearly trying to silence voices here, rather than following the law and creating districts that represent local interests. You could choose to create districts which are representative of the voting patterns and the wishes of citizens, but instead, you choose to force your will on your constituents. This is not representative democracy. This is autocracy. This is not Texas. This is not America. You can choose differently, and you can help create liberty and justice for all; you know- America. Texas.

Tomas Jimenez-Williams
Self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to Congressional Redistricting in Texas. Thank you.

Veronica Rice
Myself
Austin, TX

Stop this illegal act NOW, and start representing us like you were elected by the people of Texas.

Jennifer Rodgers
Self
Austin, TX

District composition should not be manipulated to suppress the will of the constituents in order to appease President Trump or a corrupt conservative agenda to pander to those in power instead of fighting for the individuals you represent. Distract maps should remain unchanged and instead the focus should be how you can best protect and serve the human beings of the state of Texas and the Trump arm of the Republican Party. Please please think of the people who depend on you to represent their voices and their needs.

Kristena Glenn, Ms.
Self- attorney
Manvel, TX

I request my representatives of Brazoria County and other representatives to oppose HB 4. This redistricting is not being done according to census data, as it is premature. Therefore these districts are being redrawn to silence the voices of the constituents you represent. Do the right thing, and oppose this Bill.

Megan Morris
Self - Mental health professional (LCSW)
Austin, TX

As a citizen and a mental health professional, I am concerned about redistricting that separates community members into different districts that works to have them not represented in our government, a government for the people and by the people. There is no good reason for this gerrymandering to exist. A congress person should not have a strange shaped district that runs through different counties. Keep it simple. Allow people to have true representation. To not allow for that effects people's mental health. And, in the long run, the people will rise up. All we have to do is look at history. Societies do not continue to exist if their voices are not heard and represented fairly.

Marieke Lahey
Self / engineer
Houston, TX

I oppose the redrawn districts as proposed. Having a Rep responsible for vastly different geographic areas makes no sense, especially when needing to respond to natural disasters or other local issues. I've also been in a district so Gerrymandered that my neighbors one block down across a neighborhood street were in a different district. Very inconvenient when trying to coordinate discussion with Congress people who are supposed to represent US not rich lobbyists.

Hailey Maschinski
Self
The colony, TX

I'm a mom and I'm tired of watching politicians play games with our lives. Changing tax districts like this hurts families like mine. It takes away resources from our schools, our clinics, our neighborhoods. And let's be honest—it targets communities of color. That's racist, and it's wrong. We work hard, we pay our taxes, and we deserve fair representation. Not maps drawn to push us out or keep us quiet. This should be illegal. You should be protecting our voices, not erasing theM

Brian Murphy
self
El Paso, TX

I propose a vote in Congress for a special mid-decade ballot measure vote by constituents in the proposed areas for redistricting. I have also requested a similar request through the El Paso District 77. As the U.S. House of Representatives each passed as bipartisan the Freedom to Vote Act & John Lewis Voting Rights Act—the former including Texas Representative Brian Babin's Yea with 13 other Republicans, and from a 50-year history of discrimination lawsuits now pending decision from MALDEF & NAACP, please wait.
A vote will help confirm to our respective members in the Texas Special Congressional Redistricting Committee the constituents' will for the Senators to make leadership decisions, and it also serves as a partial census in tallying the number of eligible voters who vote—of whom I suspect many will have great interest to compel their viewpoint as many testified in the available committee sessions in the past week, and most statements were from El Paso with disagreement over either the current districting is not representative to the intent of the taxes we provide or the rumors that now show a similar plan of diluting the one, unique voice of El Paso County.
Having the official prospective redistricting map on the congressional website, is essential to help the voters make informed decisions.
The Lone Star Republic needs to hold fast to keeping it's business at the lowest level—not the DOJ—especially if there are discrepancies.

Marc Garcia
self, analyst
Houston, TX

Keep non-bipartisan Presidential hands OUT of Texas.

Kate Mesches
Self
Austin, TX

Stop the gerrymandering. This rushed, off-schedule "redistricting" is a blatant attempt to cement results of upcoming midterms at the demand of your maga overlord. I thought Texas loved its independence. You, the gop controlled Gov & lege are bought & paid for by maga. If you & the gop has the best candidates, the best plans & best ideas then why wouldn't you want to make it easy to vote?! Why would you have to try and disenfranchise voters just to have a chance at winning. This is criminal - even the last gerrymandering that gop did hasn't been approved by courts and now you're already doing it again?! Bring real democracy back to Texas. Let the people vote for their lawmakers - not lawmakers pick their constituents. Shame on you. You are on the wrong side of history (which we will teach again one day when you are gone)

Chelsey Hockett
Self
Terrell, TX

The map that was submitted is absolutely heinous and completely silences voices of a massive amount of our Texas community. Registering everyone as neutral is a horrible way to silence all of the voices that dared speak up. I am not okay with this redistricting and is not an acceptable way to treat constituents. This is a racist bill and a racist map. I hope whatever boots you have on the agenda to lick later, have stepped in dog crap.

Erica Robinson
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I would like to state for the record that I oppose the bill to redistrict and the gerrymandering in the state of Texas. I am a proud Texan and this is not just or lawful in communities of color. Let diversity reign in our great state. Thank you for your consideration. I must say that Chair Cody has been great with respecting all people during these public meetings. He also explains well when answering questions. Praying for leaders to do the right thing at the right time.

Makia Thomas
Self
Rosharon, TX

To the Honorable Members of the Committee,

My name is Makia Thomas, and I am a concerned resident of Rosharon, Texas, and I am a constituent of Congressional District 9. I am here today to voice my strong opposition to House Bill 4, a bill that I believe poses a significant threat to the principles of fair representation and democratic integrity in our state.

The core reason for my opposition is that this legislation, in its current form, dilutes the voting power of my community and other communities across Texas. The proposed maps are a clear and alarming example of partisan gerrymandering, designed not to reflect the will of the people but to create an unfair advantage for a specific political party. This is a perversion of the democratic process.

Furthermore, I am deeply troubled by the unprecedented timing of this redistricting effort. Redistricting is a constitutional duty to be performed once every ten years, following the decennial census. To undertake this process mid-decade, without a compelling legal or demographic justification, undermines the stability and predictability of our electoral system. This timing is not a coincidence; it is a calculated attempt to seize political power outside the normal, expected course of events.

Finally, I believe this bill is racially provocative. Texas has grown and diversified immensely over the past decade, with people of color accounting for the majority of our state's population growth. Yet, the proposed maps appear to intentionally minimize the electoral influence of these growing communities, packing them into a few districts or cracking them across many to weaken their collective voice. This is an affront to the very idea of an inclusive and representative democracy.

I urge this committee to reject House Bill 4. We, the people of Texas, deserve a fair and transparent process that respects the voting power of every citizen, not a cynical political maneuver that seeks to silence our voices. Please do the right thing for our state and our future.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

John Duncan
Self
McAllen, TX

With Dustin Burrows and 35 other RINOs giving TX House control to DEMOCRATS, this is an opportunity to put REAL REPUBLICANs and CONSERVATIVEs to represent the WILL of the people of Texas.

Anita Roselle
Self
San Antonio, TX

Strongly oppose this unethical push to redistrict Texas. Could offer a list of reasons but I'll keep it brief. its sneaky and unethical and everyone involved in these maps and putting them in place knows it. We the people are watching and taking notes.

Pat Cope
Voter
Marble Falls, TX

I support the redistricting as proposed in HB4 by Hunter, additionally, I support a smaller delta between voting precinct populations within a county:
TO: Eduardo Arredondo, Burnet County Attorney
FROM: Colleen Davis, First Assistant County Attorney
RE: Proportionality of County Election Precincts
MEMORANDUM24May2024
[...]The Texas Election Code governs all aspects of elections in the State of Texas. Specifically, Section 42.006 governs the population of county election precincts, specifying:
"A county election precinct must contain at least 100 but not more than 5,000 registered voters."
Although the number of registered voters is constantly changing, the data provided by [...] and Mr. Ferguson demonstrate that all 20 county election precincts in Burnet County are compliant with §42.006. The number of registered voters in each precinct ranges from 628 to 4,139.[1]
[1] County election precincts should not be confused with County Precincts. Burnet County has 20 county election precincts, which are distinct and separate from, but make up, the four County Precincts associated with each County Commissioner, Justice of the Peace, and Constable.
[2] Numbers as of May 21, 2024, excluding "S Voters."
Election Code §42.006(e): "In computing a number of registered voters under this section, voters whose names appear on the list of registered voters with the notation 'S', or a similar notation, shall be excluded."
Arguably, the Texas Legislature answered the question left by the Court in Avery regarding what constitutes "substantially unequal population," defining it as any county election precinct with more than 100 but fewer than 5,000 registered voters.
Section 42.031 of the Election Code requires that a Commissioners Court review county election precincts in March or April of odd-numbered years. If the court determines that any precinct is not in compliance, it shall order the necessary boundary changes.
Therefore, I recommend that in March 2025, this item be placed on the Commissioners Court Agenda and that a thorough review be conducted and presented.
It is likely that by that time, Precinct 19 (currently 4,547 registered voters) and Precinct 20 (currently 4,240 registered voters) will have surpassed the 5,000-voter threshold, especially with upcoming voter registration efforts.
However, any attempt to change precinct boundaries before the May county-wide runoff election or the November national election would be rushed and difficult to implement. Since we are currently compliant with state law, I recommend waiting until the mandatory review in 2025.
[Presentation of and the statutes relevant to Burnet County's registered voter population distribution within voting precincts (PDF)]
(https://destinyhosted.com/burnemindocs/2024/ComCt/20240528_4476/minutes/1459_8._Presentation_of_and_the_statutes_relevant_to_Burnet_County%27s_registered_voter_population_distribution_within_voting_precincts..pdf)
You wouldn't believe the "review" that was done in March 2025.

Crystal Chism, Mayor Pro Tem

Texas Coalition of Black Democrats Dallas County, Self

DeSoto, TX

PUBLIC COMMENT SUBMISSION
Crystal Chism, Mayor Pro Tem – City of DeSoto
Texas House Select Committee on Redistricting
August 1, 2025 – HB 4 (Hunter)

I submit this comment in strong opposition to HB 4 and the proposed congressional redistricting maps.

These maps were released less than 48 hours after the public hearing in Arlington — before the public's input could be fully received or considered. That timeline alone demonstrates a deliberate lack of transparency and engagement. This is cowardly behavior and a political power grab, carried out with complete disregard for the communities most affected. What's worse, the people drawing these lines do not live in the areas they are reshaping.

The proposed maps weaken the collective political voice of Black and Latino communities, despite the fact that these populations are driving the majority of Texas's growth. The result is a redistricting proposal that fails to reflect the demographic reality of our state. These maps are racially discriminatory and serve political interests—not the people of Texas.

As an elected official in southern Dallas County, I represent a city and a region made up of vibrant, diverse, and growing communities. Congressional representation should reflect the people it serves. Instead, HB 4 erases those voices for short-term political gain.

History will not forget this moment. Redistricting should be about fairness and equal representation—not partisan manipulation. As elected officials, you are obligated to serve all Texans equally, not just those who benefit your political future.

I urge the committee to reject HB 4 and return with maps that are legal, equitable, and representative of the true face of Texas.

Respectfully submitted,
Crystal Chism, CMO
Mayor Pro Tem, Place 6
City of DeSoto, TX

Joan Jordan

Self

Round Rock, TX

This is wrong and you all know it.
STOP CAPITULATING TO TRUMP!

Colleen Wu
Self, Genetic Counselor
Austin, TX

am writing to express strong opposition to the ongoing gerrymandering present in Texas's redistricting process. Redistricting should reflect the will of the people—not the interests of political parties or incumbents. Unfortunately, the current maps continue a pattern of manipulation that undermines fair representation, dilutes the voting power of communities of color, and weakens public confidence in our democratic institutions.

Texas is one of the most diverse states in the nation, with communities that deserve to be represented in ways that reflect their shared interests, geography, and lived experiences. Yet, current and proposed district lines often split these communities apart or pack them into a limited number of districts, effectively minimizing their political voice. This practice violates the spirit—and potentially the letter—of the Voting Rights Act.

Furthermore, the use of partisan data to draw safe seats for one party over another discourages voter participation, increases polarization, and results in legislators who are less accountable to their constituents. Voters should choose their representatives—not the other way around.

I urge the Legislature and all relevant bodies to reject any redistricting maps that are drawn with partisan bias or racial discrimination in mind. I call for a transparent, community-driven process that prioritizes fairness, competitiveness, and equal representation for all Texans.

Protecting our democracy starts with fair maps. Texas voters deserve nothing less.

Jeanine Ratliff, Dr.
Self
Aledo, TX

I oppose the redistricting plans for the state of Texas. This is highly inappropriate to do. Not only are the new districts unfair, but this is not the appropriate time to redraw districts. We need not bow down to this request. We must stand for what is right.

Jeff Gilbert
Self
Lake Jackson, TX

I absolutely oppose this unwarranted and unnecessary bill. Perhaps you could change policies to win elections and stop this immoral power grab. Since when did the Texas House begin tolerating those who lie, cheat or steal? There is no honor in this effort.

Wes Weinhart
Self / finance
Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting measure which is blatant gerrymandering to benefit the Republican Party in Texas. As an example too many DFW area residents are represented by elected officials that have no ties to the local area and do not properly represent our interests.

Anne Heller
Self / body worker
Austin, TX

I am against HB 4 to redistrict Texas because it will inaccurately represent the population of our state, since this is not a census year. Besides, it will disrupt the representation of this state by destroying the districts of congressmen already in office by popular vote. Redistricting should only take place after the census of each decade to be accurate and truly reflect the population of Texas. Stop gerrymandering and start passing legislation to care for your constituents as opposed to billionaires who have everything they want and need! Serve the common man and stop destroying the middle class!

JACQUELINE GONZALEZ
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose this illegal gerrymandering of Texas districts and outrageous power grab just to suit Republican interests. This is totally against U.S. democracy and the fair election process. Texas needs to do much better than this. You failed in Uvalde and Kerr County and we need fair representation at all Political levels.

Ashley Martinez
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing in strong opposition to House Bill 4 because it is unjust, harmful, and fundamentally un-American. This bill does not reflect the values of fairness, dignity, or humanity, and it certainly does not reflect the Texas I know, a state built by immigrants, shaped by diversity, and strengthened by community.

HB 4 opens the door to racial profiling and gives state law enforcement dangerous new powers that will almost certainly be used to target people based on how they look, where they come from, or what language they speak. That is wrong. It is a violation of civil rights and a direct attack on some of our most vulnerable neighbors, families who are simply trying to survive, work, and care for their loved ones.

This bill does not make Texas safer. It makes people afraid, afraid to go to school, to report a crime, or to seek help when they need it most. It erodes trust, divides communities, and distracts from real solutions to real problems. It is cruel policy driven by political theater, not compassion or common sense.

At a time when people across Texas are facing the fallout of economic hardship, extreme weather, and rising costs, we should be focusing on policies that unite us and lift us up, not laws that punish, scapegoat, and sow fear.

I urge you to do what is right: reject HB 4. Reject division. Reject fear. Choose justice, choose dignity, and choose a Texas that stands for all of us.

Susan Young
Self/Teacher
Austin, TX

I oppose the proposed maps for redistricting aka gerrymandering. This will result in someone representing me in Congress who does not understand or care about my community. Literally no one has asked for redistricting right now except Donald Trump. Texans do not want redistricting. I urge you to oppose this unethical and undemocratic power grab.

Sarah George
Self
Austin, TX

I disagree with this bill that once again. Is trying to silence certain demographics of Texans. This is not a representation of the people of our state which for who you were sworn to serve

Jessica Herring
Self
Burkburnett, TX

The redistricting plan clearly biases the Republican representation of Texas in favor of Republicans by an undue amount. When the President asks the Governor to redistrict to gain seats for their party - not to make it more fair and reduce gerrymandering, but to increase it! - there is a very serious problem in our Republic. This bill is an affront to 45% of Texas.

Jeffrey Guarnieri
self
San Antonio, TX

Please do NOT perform further partisan redistricting. I strongly oppose this bill and anybody who would support it. The right to vote in a district that represents you, and your local community values are essential to the spirit of Texas and America.

Omar Solis
Self; Economist
El Paso, TX

As Texans, are we proud of our cowardice?

When a man insults our wives, do we replenish his plate with the food from our own? When our children's lives are threatened, do we wait patiently beyond harm's reach? When election results differ by only a few percentage points, do we dilute the interests of constituents to benefit ourselves?

This is not the Texas I was raised to understand. Let's all move to California; we'll take turns playing the tambourine on the beach.

Carolyn McClugage
Precinct Chair 263/Leander
Leander, TX

Please support the Republican Redistricting Plan and vote FOR HB 4.
Thank you!

Shannon Davenport
SELF - Founder & CEO
Austin, TX

I'm a mother, a wife, a business owner, and a proud Austin voter—and I'm raising the next generation of voters.

Let me be clear:
We see what you're doing.

You let children drown in the Mystic flood.
You send them to school with no real protection from mass shootings—just drills and prayers.
And now, instead of protecting them, you're protecting your own power—by redrawing maps to erase our voice.

You're merging TX-35 and TX-37, forcing two sitting Democrats into one seat, and calling it democracy. It's not. It's a power grab.

You're counting on working people to stay quiet. On mothers being too exhausted to fight back. But we're still here. And we're not leaving.

I come from a long line of American patriots. My great Uncle Red died fighting in Sicily during World War II.
He gave his life to protect freedom—not to hand it over to a fake king born with a silver spoon in his mouth.

This isn't strategy. It's sabotage.
We vote. Our children are watching. And if you push this map through, they'll grow up knowing exactly who tried to silence them.

Reject this map. Or explain to your grandchildren why you chose power over country.

Guy Dowdy
Self / Retired
Allen, TX

I heartily support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map to make a much needed adjustment to reflect the current reality of the will of the Texans that live in those areas.

Teresa Jarriel, Dr.
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this restricting bill. Everything about the formation of this country was intended to give voice to the people. Actions like this that distort that voice are shameful. If you want more district seats for your party, tell your party to enact policies that benefit those who reside within reasonable district delineations. Don’t redraw the map. Shameful.

Alexa villalobos
self
Austin, TX

These boundaries sre not drawn along amy logical lines except influencing the election results. Maps should be drawn without partisan bias. Period. I do not support this new districting proposal.

Elias Frank
Self, student
Austin, TX

I just want to say that I holding flood relief hostage so you can force redistricting through is monstrous.

Carmen Garcia
Self /not currently working
Manchaca, TX

I am writing as a concerned native Texan and senior resident to strongly oppose the newly proposed congressional redistricting plan unveiled by Texas Republican lawmakers. This plan, as reported by reputable sources, seeks to redraw district lines in order to flip five Democratic seats into Republican hands in the next election cycle, most notably targeting districts in Austin, Dallas, Houston, and South Texas.

The proposed redistricting is an unprecedented, mid-decade maneuver pursued not out of necessity, but as a partisan effort pushed by national Republican party leaders. Public reporting clearly indicates that this redrawing is intended to artificially bolster Republican congressional presence. Such manipulation disregards the actual demographic and political diversity of our state, disenfranchising Texas voters and diluting fair representation.

This redistricting attempt circumvents traditional census timelines and erodes public trust by being initiated mid-decade, outside of established practice.

The map intentionally dismantles districts currently represented by minority and Democratic officials, further suppressing the voices of communities that are already underrepresented.

There is a clear perception, both statewide and nationally, that this is a raw power grab driven by partisan self-interest rather than the needs or will of the people of Texas.

There are so many other urgent needs that our fellow Texas citizens have at this time that we don't need to have focus shifted to this political agenda set by someone outside of our state. By prioritizing political gains over pressing state concerns like disaster relief, among others, you, our leaders will fail to address the urgent needs of everyday Texans, both Republicans and Democrats.

I urge you in the strongest possible terms: reject this proposed map and recommit to a redistricting process that honors the principles of representative democracy, respects the integrity of our diverse communities, and ensures every Texan’s vote counts equally.

The people of Texas deserve fair maps and a government that reflects, not manipulates, their will. Thank you.

Tessa Perez
Self
San Antonio, TX

I'm a Texas resident and I oppose the redistricting because it isn't the proper time and it doesn't represent the residents well.

Jeanette McKnight
Jeanette McKnight
Fort Worth, TX

I am HIGHLY opposed to the proposed redistributing. This gerrymandering is meant to suppress minority voting and boost republican results.

Rebecca Pope
Self/Homemaker
Nevada, TX

I’m to be brief and blunt. This redistricting plan is insane and makes lawmakers look like crooks.

Anthony Ferrante self - Software manager
Austin, TX

Political gerrymandering is a LOSING idea for Texas voters and an unjust way for officials to chose their voters instead of voters choosing their officials. This mid-decade redistricting attempt is CLEARLY only to rig the system to yield more republican winners and unfairly takes away the voices of your constituents and suppresses electoral competition.
We the people see through the charade from the DOJ as an unfair attempt to silence voices and that is NOT OK. Greg Abbot created these lines, let them stand where they are and don't gerrymander and silence Texas voters.

Betsy Woldman
Self
Austin, TX

Do not restrict our state yet again. Pay attention to the people you represent, what our needs are. Safety and flood prevention not new maps.

Guilherme Momesso Dias
Self
Georgetown, TX

I position myself against this bill. It is manipulation of the spirit of the law not based in objective or consistent criteria. This should not be a priority of the House and the State.

Sophia Powell
Self
Allen, TX

I heavily oppose the mapping y'all are doing to kiss ass for.

Macarena Martinez
Self
Grand prairie, TX

I, Dallas County resident, born and raised Texan, STRONGLY OPPOSE AND REJECT the proposed Congressional Redistricting. It is unethical, and it does not correctly represent the wants and needs of working class Texans.

Sharon Valdez
self/homemaker
San Antonio, TX

I'm against gerrymandering, or the redrawing of district lines. It is unconstitutional and unrepresentative of the people of this state. It is also immoral. You are choosing to silence the voices of people you are supposed to honor and represent. That is not democracy. That is not the freedom at the heart of this country. It's not the freedom our country stands for, nor is it the freedom that makes our country great. I will not support anyone who takes this course of action. Do not choose to silence the voices of your people on the basis of greed, in exchange for power. I'm an independent. I believe in discourse and different sides coming together to find solutions for the betterment of everyone. Don't make me a fool. Everyone might not get everything they want, but at least we can act with integrity and make good on our promises to each other as citizens and neighbors. We have laws for a reason. We have our constitution for a reason. This is a country of many voices and many perspectives, not just one. I believe we can come together with love in our hearts; with hope and optimism to speak our truths and still not lose sight of each individual voice. We are not a country of hate. This path our government is walking down isn't working. It's creating chaos and fear. Listen to your constituents. Listen to their troubles and worries. Listen to their hopes and dreams. Don't be so narrow-minded that you lose sight of and go against the very morals you herald and proclaim. Don't silence our voices. I ask that you don't redraw district lines.

Deborah Avellano sel
Corinth, TX

I am in Favor of HB4 and the proposed Texas Redistricting Map.

Adriana Knight
Self
Corpus Christi, TX

I oppose the rearranging of districts in our state. This gerrymandering only profits those who have a significant financial profit out of the Republican agenda. This is voter suppression of Black and Latino Central Texans. Please do not approve this redistricting.

Kelsey Phillips, Ms.
self
Austin, TX

This redistricting is appalling. Gross and stinky, the only way I can put it.

Jaslene Tavares
Self
Mesquite, TX

This is a deplorable and disgusting show of cheating. You are no longer following laws and just cherry picking what you deem is fair so that you can win. You are taking away the voices from constituents that are already under represented. This is gerrymandering and you are just a group of maga zealots. You have no moral integrity. You are morally bankrupt. Do not cow tow to Trump.

Kimberly Hart
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Redistricting in Texas has become a tool of political manipulation rather than a process to ensure fair representation. Far from reflecting demographic shifts or striving for equitable districts, the redrawing of district lines has repeatedly been used to entrench power, dilute the voices of communities of color, and undermine the foundational principles of democracy.

At the heart of the issue is gerrymandering—the deliberate drawing of district boundaries to benefit a specific political party or suppress certain voters. Despite the fact that Texas has seen significant growth among Latino, Black, and Asian populations, recent redistricting maps have reduced the number of districts where communities of color have a realistic chance to elect candidates of their choice. This is not just unethical—it’s undemocratic.

Redistricting in Texas has also been repeatedly challenged in court for violating the Voting Rights Act. The courts have found that Texas lawmakers have drawn maps with discriminatory intent, either by “cracking” communities to dilute their vote across districts or “packing” them into a single district to limit their influence elsewhere. These practices betray the principle of "one person, one vote."

Moreover, the process has lacked transparency and public input. Maps have been drawn behind closed doors with minimal opportunity for meaningful community engagement. This secretive approach silences the very people most affected by the changes—everyday Texans trying to have a say in who represents them.

Ultimately, redistricting in Texas has served to preserve power, not protect people. It undermines trust in elections, discourages civic participation, and erodes the representative nature of our government. We must demand independent, transparent redistricting commissions that prioritize fairness, equity, and true representation over political gain.

Texans deserve better.

Susan Carson
self
Plano, TX

The district map is already awful. Changing it to gain seats for one party is obscene. You're supposed to be representing the people. You should be making the districts accurately reflect the people.

Leila Fannon
Self
New Braunfels, TX

I'm totally against the Redistricting plan. Everyone is entitled to representation. Your job is to do what is best for us! We will be watching to see who is supporting this bill.

Katie Dieterich
Self
Fort worth, TX

I oppose this illegal gerrymandering.

Clare Nickel
Self/Retired
Abilene, TX

Vote AGAINST any attempt to redistrict (gerrymander) Texas in 2025. The only time to redistrict is when there is a new census put out.

Jenny Arthur
self
Austin, TX

Gerrymandering is unethical, not democratic, and anti-american. Every person deserves to have easy access to voting, and to be justly counted, and not swept here and there in order to skew the results in favor of a particular party.

Ruth Vonbieberstein
Self
Austin, TX

This is an illegal political move by Republicans at the direction of a felon. ILLEGAL

Laurie Pearson
Self
Katy, TX

I oppose this bill as it strips votes and representation from the people of Texas. Instead of changing voting district lines, try appealing to voters on issues. If your position does not win the people's votes, then you must change your position to reflect the voters wishes. Do not stoop to stealing votes. Tell trump to get out of our states business!

Damian Borichevsky
Self
Austin, TX

This is a disgraceful effort to limit the voting power of nearly half of the residents of Texas. While people are still missing from the floods and no investigation has been initiated, the Republicans have chosen to blindly follow the orders of a President who is leading this country further away from a democracy. This is one of the most embarrassing moves by a group that has already embarrassed itself beyond belief. Any state representative or politician who supports this should reevaluate their faith and moral decency.

Katherine Sandlin
Self/retired
Galveston, TX

What the hell are you thinking? This redistricting issue is a deplorable waste of your time considering the issues and tragedies your constituents are dealing with , which you obviously would rather ignore. Readjust your focus and serve your constituents, not some “leader du jour.” Texas has lost its spine. We are better than this.

Anna Boorhem-Stephenson
Self
Dallas, TX

I 100% oppose this blatant gerrymandering bill. Texas already has districts that obviously are drawn on racial and economic lines. Not to mention diluting the largest cities (where the majority of the population resides) to further the MAGA agenda. This bill is a fascist ploy that will continue to drag us into the authoritarian hell the GOP has created in Texas. Reject this bill.

Steven Maynard
Self
Houston, TX

This bill serves to unfairly take power away from constitutes and is undemocratic in nature. Adjusting the rules to give power to one party is unfair, the votes need to be earned no matter which party is in power. This effectively throws away the votes of thousands of Texas and ensures they will be overwhelmingly represented by leaders they didn't vote for. The duty of our government is to ensure that constituents are fairly represented, not to actively rig the system to disenfranchise voters.

Emily Cowart
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support redistricting.

Elizabeth Baker
self
Austin, TX

I considered myself Republican for years, however over the past decade the Republican party has devolved. This bill (Texas House of Representatives' HB 4) is the most blatant, dangerous, and undemocratic attempt to redraw congressional district maps in a way that dilutes minority voting power while artificially inflating Republican representation. This bill is a modern-day form of gerrymandering—a practice that manipulates electoral boundaries to favor one political party over another—and it disproportionately harms Black, Latino, and other minority communities. It really shows how weak, insecure, and anti-American the party has become. By packing minority voters into overwhelmingly white districts or splitting their communities apart, HB 4 undermines the fundamental American principle of fair representation. Lawmakers must reject this bill because it:
(1) Dilutes Minority Voting Power by intentionally weakening their political influence. Texas has a long history of discriminatory redistricting. In Veasey v. Abbott (2018), federal courts found that Texas' voter ID laws intentionally targeted minority voters. Similarly, in LULAC v. Perry (2006), the Supreme Court ruled that Texas' mid-decade redistricting violated the Voting Rights Act by dismantling Latino-majority districts. HB 4 continues this pattern by manipulating district lines to favor white, Republican-leaning areas while breaking up growing minority communities—particularly in cities like Houston, Dallas, and San Antonio, where Black and Latino populations have driven recent electoral shifts.
(2) Violates the Voting Rights Act of 1965, which prohibits racial discrimination in redistricting. If passed, this bill will waste taxpayer money on lengthy court battles—money that could be better spent on education, healthcare, or infrastructure while ensuring the loss of faith in our democratic process.
(3) Subverts American principles of democracy by prioritizing partisan gain over fair representation. Democracy depends on fair elections where every vote carries equal weight. When politicians choose their voters—rather than voters choosing their representatives—the system becomes corrupt.
(4) Contradicts Core American Values of equality and the right to vote. The United States was founded on the principle of government by the people, for the people. Yet HB 4 turns that ideal on its head. The right to vote is sacred.
This is a brazen attempt to suppress minority voting power, violate the Voting Rights Act, and rig elections in favor of one political party. It is unethical, undemocratic, and likely illegal. Lawmakers who believe in fairness, equality, and the integrity of our elections must stand against this bill. The right to vote should never be a partisan issue. It is a fundamental American right—one that HB 4 seeks to undermine. For the sake of democracy, justice, and the future of Texas, all legislators must vote NO on HB 4 or risk losing our American way of government.

Crystal Edwards, Dr
Self
San Antonio, TX

This proposed redistricting is arbitrary, deeply problematic, and blatantly unconstitutional. It intentionally silences and undermines the political voice of a majority of voters of color, violating the principles of fair representation and equal protection. I am deeply opposed to this bill, as it is not just gerrymandering—it is voter suppression.

Cynthia Mingea, Dr
Self. MD
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. Vote no

Laurie Lloyd
Self
Georgetown, TX

I support HB 4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Stephanie King
Self
Georgetown, TX

This is an obvious power grab by the republican party and an effort to disenfranchise independent and democrat voters via obvious gerrymandering. President Trump has clearly admitted that in interviews.To your ends, you claim to be doing this because the Department of Justice found the current maps included unconstitutional racial gerrymandering, a charge that you have interchangeably denied in court and cited as the basis for pursuing this mid-decade redistricting. None of the illogical reasoning, aside from Trumps honest explanation of a power grab make any sense. Just win elections by playing fairly and let the will of the people speak for itself.

Crystal Clark
Self- Real Estate
Houston, TX

I oppose the redistricting.

Judy Shorman, Business owner & manager
Self & Dog Boarding business
Galveston, TX

I am very opposed to redistricting at this time! There are many more important issues that you legislators could be working on! It's also not fair to citizens to cheat people out of being represented!
Here are some other issues: Emergency Management, including stable power, we don't even have that. Or how about 1 in 6 Texas families facing food insecurity? Or hurting innocent immigrants who are working hard & helping our economy?

Christopher Ford, Dr. myself
AUSTIN, TX

I am opposed to mid-decade redistricting.

Please attend to pressing business that will protect Texans such as dealing with the Hill Country floods.

Christopher Ford

Doug Readr, Mr
Self
Dallas, TX

I am opposed to this plan to Redistrict ing. It’s unfair for the voters of Texas.

Melissa King
Self
Austin, TX

Representation matters, Redistricting mid decade removes a congressperson that is supposed to be representative of their area. If the goal is to be a voice for constituents then redistricting cannot happen to please a president. Please stop this nonsense.

Nancy Pickens Robertson
Collin County GOP Precinct Chair 221
McKinney, TX

I support this redistricting bill! Please pass!’

Stephanie Zubieta
Self
Houston, TX

I heavily oppose this redistricting on the basis that these efforts have been made in attempt to dilute and silence the voices of the citizens you represent. This is gerrymandering and should not be allowed in a democratic society such as ours.

Dana Sprute, Dr.
Self
Austin, TX

This bill is a gross disenfranchisement of Texans. A mid-decade gerrymandering of Texas serves the purpose of Republicans to maintain power rather than allow Texas citizens to have true representation by their chosen representative. Please DO NOT SUPPORT HR4.

Erik Felthauser
self
Austin, TX

This is an utterly shameless power grab. Whatever party you are a member of, this is BAD FOR DEMOCRACY--Voter suppression is never the way. Shame on you for even proposing such a ridiculous map, Rep Hunter! Why go down on the wrong side of history?

Denita Jones
Citizen's Lab
Garland, TX

Good morning, Chair and members of the Redistricting Committee.

My name is Denita Jones, and I’m a community advocate and DEI leader here in Texas. I’m here to oppose the proposed redistricting maps, which I believe will have a discriminatory effect on communities of color, particularly Black and Brown Texans.

These maps break up communities of interest—communities that have fought for decades to be heard. The proposed changes destroy historical districts that reflect the cultural, political, and social power we've built over generations.

This is personal. These maps don’t just redraw lines—they redraw our futures. In many cases, they weaken districts where Black women, young voters, and returning citizens have organized and turned out in record numbers.

There is also ongoing litigation related to redistricting. I respectfully ask that you allow those cases to conclude before moving forward. Pushing this through now undermines public trust and the rule of law.

These proposed changes also threaten our federal influence—whether it’s on healthcare, education, or economic justice, these lines impact how we’re represented in Washington.

I urge you to listen to the voices from previous field hearings, to consider the decades of struggle for voting rights, and to draw maps that reflect the diversity and dignity of this state.

We deserve more representation, not less. And we demand a process that protects—not erases—our power.

Thank you.

Marcia Rayne, Ms
Kaufman co Democratic Party
Kaufman, TX

Redistricting AGAIN? I hope you realize one day that your actions form an alliance with all voters, black, white, brown. Doesn't matter what district. We are bonded with all districts, not just the ones you are illegally manipulated. You cannot stop us. Signed: a Texan descended from an immigrant family from the U.S. old Three Hundred settlers . Stephen F Austin brought us. My ancestor's flag is displayed in the Austin capital next to the Speaker of the House apartment. Check it out.

David Schulz
Self, Retired Cyber Security Auditor
San Antonio, TX

This is outright theft of votes as serious as any corruption of vote process- not hacking an individual system, hacking the entire foundation of Democracy.

Khoai Mi Ho
Self
Houston, TX

I respectfully submit this comment in strong opposition to Texas House Bill 4 (HB 4), which proposes changes to the redistribution of U.S. House districts in Texas. The bill undermines the fundamental democratic principle of fair and equal representation and risks disenfranchising large portions of our population—particularly communities of color and historically underrepresented groups.

Texas is one of the most diverse states in the nation, and its population growth—driven largely by Latino, Black, and Asian communities—should be accurately and fairly reflected in any redistricting process. HB 4 fails to do so. Instead of drawing district lines that provide equitable representation, the bill appears to manipulate district boundaries for partisan advantage, commonly known as gerrymandering. This practice erodes public trust, dilutes voting power, and disproportionately affects minority communities in violation of the Voting Rights Act.

Moreover, HB 4 lacks transparency and genuine public input. Redistricting should be guided by data, community feedback, and constitutional principles—not by political expediency. Texans deserve a process that prioritizes geographic coherence, equal population distribution, and the preservation of communities of interest. This bill fails on all counts.

I urge lawmakers to reject HB 4 and instead support a nonpartisan, independent redistricting commission that puts voters—not politicians—at the center of our democracy. Fair maps are essential to fair elections, and the people of Texas deserve nothing less.

Sincerely,
Khoai Mi Ho
Harris County resident

Elaine Robbins
self
Austin, TX

My mother taught civics her whole life, one basic tenet of which is equal representation under the law. She believed in U.S.democracy with all her heart. Please do your jobs and work on helping Texans. And don't allow any anti-democratic attempt to cheat one party's way into power by unfair redistricting. Don't make my mother give you an F!

Karen Darby
Self-Retired
Georgetown, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting proposal in HB 4. Congressional districts in Texas have already been gerrymandered unfairly and are still the subject of litigation. This redrawing would further dilute the voting power of vulnerable groups such as communities of color. and other marginalized groups. The impact of the 2020 gerrymandering and the HB 4 proposal is racist and prohibited by the Voting Rights Act. It also prolongs one-party rule that frequently fails to consider the interests of all constituents within respective districts. I urge you to consider fair redistricting, implemented by a nonpartisan, independent redistricting commission instead. We need to allow voters to choose their representatives in a fair process that groups normal communities of interest in a rational geographic area, so that representatives can more easily reach their constituents and hear their concerns. Please do not vote this discriminatory bill out of committee.

Stephen Pulsipher
Self, Writer
Austin, TX

Under the proposed maps, my neighborhood in North Austin would be divided between four congressional districts. My particular section of the neighborhood would be lumped together with a number of counties stretching from Central Texas to almost the border of New Mexico. While I understand that there needs to be a division somewhere and that a state as large as Texas will require some geographically large districts, this division seems to be a nakedly partisan effort to split a Democrat-leaning neighborhood among Republican districts. My neighbors a block north and a mile south would each be in different districts than me. We would go from voting with fellow residents of Austin to voting with residents of rural districts with different needs and voting patterns. Please drop this effort. You represent the people of Texas, not a particular party.

Dale Ryder, MR
Self
San Marcos, TX

The racial and political bias that this House Bill is trying to perpetrate is completely illegal! To take seats away because your master in Washington DC says so it despicable. You know that the people are rising up with one voice to say no to this crime of an administration and you know the only way not to lose Republican seats is to cheat. Gerrymandering is cheating. It takes the voices and votes of the people away so you can help create a dystopian and authoritarian government and disenfranchise your constituents even more. To take away the already marginalized people's voices is abhorrent. We need a government of the people and for ALL the people. Stop this illegal redistricting plan! We the people are at the top of the power of our nation and you all want to take away that power and give it to the plutocracy so you can keep your millions in campaign contributions coming in so you can keep your positions. You were elected to serve ALL the people not just the rich white men of this state!. I am ashamed of all of you Republicans that are kowtowing to the President. He does not care about you and is using your loyalty to money to control this stae and to disenfranchise the already marginalized communities of this state.

Stand up to the President and stop this illegal redistricting, do the jobs you were elected to fulfill and serve your constituents. If not 2026 could likely be the last time our country will have an election. The dictatorship of our country will be completed, with all of your collusion with it.

Cathy Edminster
Myself
Maypearl, TX

I strongly support this redistricting

Julie Anderson
Self
Bedford, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Kathy Clausen, Ms
Self
San Antonio, TX

I do not agree with the redistricting. You need to win by your ideals.

Julia Doody
Self
Austin, TX

VOTE NO!

I’m writing to voice my strong opposition to HB 4, a bill that is as undemocratic as it is transparent in its intentions. We cannot allow politicians treating redistricting like a political chessboard instead of a process meant to serve real people and real communities - the underrepresented.

HB 4 is a blatant power grab. Let’s call it what it is: a mid-decade gerrymander, engineered to entrench power, silence opposition, and strip representation from communities like mine in southwest Austin. There’s no population crisis forcing this redraw. No court order. No constitutional mandate. Just partisan opportunism disguised as governance.

I live in a community that cares deeply about public education, housing, sustainability, and civil rights. We show up, we vote, and we pay attention. But every time lines are redrawn to dilute our voices—every time you carve us up and toss our neighborhoods into sprawling, unrelated districts—it gets harder to be heard. We didn’t ask for this. We don’t want this.

The idea that this map was drawn “race blind” is laughable. It’s clear who this map targets: Black, Hispanic, and progressive voters whose growing power threatens the status quo. The new lines slice through central and south Austin, cracking communities and breaking up voting blocs that have every right to representation. You can’t erase people just because you redraw the map.

What’s most infuriating is the timing. Redistricting is supposed to happen once a decade for a reason. That process already happened in 2021—and it was flawed enough. To force through another map now, behind closed doors and with no real input, shows exactly how little respect this Legislature has for public trust or democratic norms.

HB 4 is not about fair representation. It’s about rigging outcomes before voters ever get to cast a ballot. It’s about making elections less competitive, not more. It’s about silencing communities that are growing, changing, and demanding better.

As a Texan and a voter in 78749, I am beyond frustrated. This is disgraceful and is not how democracy is supposed to work. I urge lawmakers to vote NO on HB 4 and stop treating our voices like obstacles to be moved on a map.

VOTE NO!

Diana Larkin
Self
Austin, TX

Unnecessary use of redistricting, and punitive to the majority of the population that lives in cities. This is not how democracy works, having parts of Austin combined with cities over 200 MILES away is so far from reality the only motive for this is disenfranchisement of all voters.

Joanne Kridner
Self and retired
Tomball, TX

I support HB 4 with redistricting maps as proposed. Please vote in support of this bill.

Jessie Lewis
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting is stripping your citizens of our voices and doesn't actually represent us, our wishes, or our needs. DO NOT REDISTRICT.

Vijay Singh
SAAVETX
Round Rock, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don't just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don't matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan's right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Vijay Singh (SAAVETX)
Round Rock, TX

Monica Stettler
Self
Grapevine, TX

I ask you vote against redistricting these counties. Please listen to the people of these counties, and do the ethical thing. Please remember that you were elected to make decisions for the people of Texas, not the president of the United States.

Dakota McCallister
Self
San Antonio, TX

The gerrymandering in this state is so awful they make necklaces of the shapes on Etsy because of how bad they are.

Merry Allebach, Mrs.
Self-author
Friendswood, TX

By redistricting in this way, you have disenfranchised Texas voters. This is not the purpose of government. With this act, you set off the starting shot for a race to destroy our remaining democratic form of government. Blue states will follow you, then red states again, and sooner than later, the voters no longer have a voice. Their only choice left would be where to live, not how to vote. You have been put in the positions you have, because of the vote. What happens when all this settles? Where will your jobs be when the public only has as much power to support you as a church mouse. Your colleagues in blue states will be gone, along with the democrats in red states, and there will be no recourse back. Of course you will not succeed at silencing your opposition. They will keep on shouting, and because of independent media, we will still hear them. You are speeding our decline towards an end akin to the fall of Rome. Your actions have already set us upon a precipice. We will not let you forget what you have done, should you choose to move forward. We will still share the truth, perhaps even louder than before, because votes no longer matter. There is no need for temperance. We will proceed full scale against you with an endless media blitz. Think about your future. Think about the consequences of compliance. Think about our DEMOCRATIC Republic.

Francis Luttmer
Myself
DALLAS, TX

This is completely a mistake diluting decent representation by a congressman. It throws together a mish mash of residents with out common needs

Daniel Strinden
self, SQA Manager / Product Manager
Austin, TX

A republic is a democratic state in which political power rests with the people, through their representatives. Fair and adequate representation is the cornerstone of any republic. Without it, the state loses legitimacy in the eyes of its citizens and other states.

When electoral maps are drawn with the intent to guarantee a political party more seats rather than to more perfectly reflect the will of the people, it undermines public trust in government, weakens accountability, and fosters cynicism about civic participation.

Cracking and packing districts, regardless of which party benefits, erode the principle of equal representation, the idea that each person's vote should carry roughly the same weight, and that all citizens should have a fair opportunity to elect representatives who reflect their interests. This principle is foundational to republican government and was formally recognized by the U.S. Supreme Court in Reynolds v. Sims under the doctrine "one person, one vote".

Make no mistake - the path of engineering electoral outcomes - of making congressional seats less representative of the will of the people - will lead our state into ruin. It is unethical, immoral, and antithetical to our values. It's wrong, and there's a part of all of you that knows it. I implore the representatives of the people of Texas to reject the proposed redistricting, to restore trust in government by doing so, and to protect the people of the State of Texas from unequal representation.

Adela Justice
Self, librarian
Houston, TX

The GOP isn't even pretending to hide gerrymandering anymore. Wow. What a disgusting, anti-American and anti-Democracy plan. Texans don't want this!

Liz Plaster
Self
Houston, TX

I believe that all Texans should be fairly represented. I do not think the new redistricting does this. Leave our state districts alone.

Amy Winton, MRS
Self
Carmine, TX

I support HB 4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Jennifer Thrift self, Executive Recruiter
Austin, TX

The Lege needs to hold on to the Texas spirit of independence and not bend the knee to Trump. Please hold the line against MAGA extremism.

Rhonda Jones
self, retired teacher
Sugar Land, TX

Gerrymandering is against the principles of democracy, and I want to speak out against this bill. It disempowers Americans, makes races less competitive and is a disadvantage for communities of color. Redistricting follows a timeline in the US, every 10 years after a census. Completing this early is only bowing to the orders coming from DC. Let's stand up and show them that Texas and it's lawmakers care more about doing what's right.

Karen Jurgensen, Ms.
AFT
Lockhart, TX

edit:
"As a Texas AFT member and educator in Caldwell County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation."

Kathleen Staudt, Dr.

self, retired professor and community leader

El Paso, TX

Thank you for the opportunity to testify. My name is Dr. Kathleen Staudt, retired professor of political science, after 40 years teaching, and co-founder of the El Paso Community First Coalition with its 25 allied organizations. I write on my own behalf in opposition to the mid-decade redistricting.

I focus on 3 issues: (1) districts should be based on geographic coherence, communities of interest, and population size. Both El Paso city and county did a methodical and fair job of redistricting after the 2020 Census, with LOCAL analysis and input. It was NOT a rush job, such as what you propose to do, and the maps were certainly NOT done by a distant, east-coast consultant.

(2)Texas should adhere to the long-established principle to redistrict every TEN YEARS after new data from the Census comes in.

(3) Texans and district constituents should DRIVE the process rather than pressure from Washington, D.C.. Texans always prided themselves on independence rather than obedience from 'above.'

Let me elaborate a bit more. While I recognize flaws in the last redistricting process, we who live in the 16th Congressional District experience relative geographic coherence and a community of interest in some parts of our large county. Yes, parts of #16 were gutted last time around and added to the San Antonio-based #23, the district which is a TEXTBOOK EXAMPLE of GERRYMANDERING (seriously, the map is illustrated in some government textbooks). The map recently dropped would make things worse. El Pasoans who work at the airport and Fort Bliss live nearby INSIDE our city and county. They deserve voice, responsiveness, and representation that coheres around their workplaces and neighborhoods.

In closing, these are my recommendations. *REFUSE mid-decade redistricting. Show some courage and independence from the feds! The popularity of the president and his political appointees is TEMPORARY, and if your coattails hang on them and their associated scandals, your political futures could be in doubt.*If you proceed and succumb to pressure from the feds, remember the evidence-based principles for redistricting: geographic coherence, communities of interest, and population size (not short-term political opportunism in this highly polarized context, one that is dynamic and changing).

I look forward to a post-polarized state in which independent redistricting commissioners can analyze the process with rationality and sufficient time.

Kathleen Staudt, PhD, Professor Emerita of Political Science, 7289 Cactus Spine Lane, El Paso, TX 79912

Mike Sweet

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to this bill which is another step by the Republicans to undermine democracy in Texas. Over 40% of Texans voted for Democratic candidates in the last election. The sole purpose of this bill is to silence their voices and take away their representation. We pay taxes and are increasingly being treated as second class citizens. I appeal to any Republicans with a sense of decency and respect for the democratic ideals that this country was founded on to vote against HB4

Bridget Tice

Self

Pflugerville, TX

AGAINST

Marilyn Kepner

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Mid-decade redistricting based on the 2020 Census is a ridiculous practice. As a resident of Texas for 40+ years , I see for myself the decline of government under Republican Philosophy . This redistricting is being done under the very public orders of the President and his henchmen. The state would be better served by addressing the issues made visible by the recent floods, public education funding and improving healthcare. I say NO to redistricting.

Himanshu Zambare
Self, employee
Houston, TX

I’m concerned about this bill, as it redistricts in a way that no one in a given district will be able to vote for someone who will properly represent the entire district. It is un-American. Additionally, with blue states threatening to do the same, we can’t let that happen either. We are a democracy and need to let the fair will of the people decide, not through gerrymandering. I implore you to vote against this measure, you will harm millions of hard working and good Texans with this. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Diane Brostoski
Self/retired
Colleyville, TX

I support the proposed redistricting map! Voting preferences have clearly changed. These communities should be allowed to reflect their voting preferences.

Cindy Nick
Self
Tyler, TX

Please protect Texas values and consider our conservative roots when redistricting. Rural Texas will not cave to the liberal cities who are trying to define the narrative in our state and nation.

Sharon Sanders
Self
Sanger, TX

I support HB 4 and redistricting

Jayne Baker
Retired from HaysCISD
SAN MARCOS, TX

Texas belongs to the people, all people. This is outrageous.... Mr. Trump should have no say in changing already gerrymandered districts... Our country is "for the people, by the people".... a democracy... Do you understand that?! How dare you give so much power to a supposed-president who is only in this office to benefit from it personally... TX is not much better, forcing inhumane actions on immigrants and trying to "dumb-down" the population to keep control of these inhumane and greed-driven actions. The Trump Republicans are trying to force insidious actions on our state and the entire world. Stop them now!

Kathryn Higman
Self, RN
Allen, TX

I’m writing to vehemently oppose the redistricting efforts being discussed. This maneuver is patently corrupt, appalls and disappoints me to know that my fellow Texans would behave in a way that so callously removes the voice and autonomy of more of your fellow statesmen than have already been suppressed. If your policies and stances are good, people will vote for them. Only those who know they’re on the wrong side of history need to manipulate votes at this level to grasp at power.

Tatum Owens
Self
Austin, TX

We are coming upon the 60th anniversary of the national voting rights act and the fact that we could potentially lose civil rights in 2025 is astounding. It is clear that the proposed maps are an effort to segregate voters by race, plain and simple— in the name of partisan games. I urge representatives to vote against the proposed maps as they would create a less representative democracy, in the state of Texas and unfair advantage in our elections.

Nora Dearing
Self - Retired teacher
Bay City, TX

As a resident of Matagorda County, this redrawing of my district smacks of trying to cheat to win! We are a rural, coastal county and this bill has us linked with Buda and other counties just to get the outcome you desire to please the president and not us, the residents of Texas! Stop trying to manipulate, intimidate and suppress our votes! What you are doing not only looks suspect and shady, it makes our whole state and especially YOU, look like a bunch of crooked, sleazy, used car salesmen and that is NOT WHO I AM! You need to do right by us and leave the maps alone! We've been gerrymandered so many times and enough is enough! What happened to integrity and honor in being a representative? I will be voicing my disgust at every turn about this illegal move by Republicans in this state. Cheating, lying and protecting criminals and pedophiles is what the GOP has turned into in this state. LEAVE THE MAPS ALONE!

Alicia Higareda
Self
San Antonio, TX

To the esteemed members of the Texas House,

I am here today as a concerned constituent, and I speak for many Texans who believe that the current push for congressional redistricting is a profound disservice to the very people you represent.

You were elected to serve the interests of your constituents, not to act on political directives from outside forces. The idea that you should "find five more seats" for any particular party, simply because it's requested, is an egregious overreach. This is not about fair representation; it is about manipulating the electoral process for partisan gain.

Redistricting, by its very nature, is meant to occur after the decennial census to reflect shifts in population. We just went through this process in 2021, and to consider another redistricting so soon is disruptive, unnecessary, and frankly, a waste of taxpayer resources. It suggests a blatant disregard for the stability and integrity of our democratic system.

When you redraw district lines in a way that prioritizes political advantage over the voices of the people, you are not upholding your oath of office. You are attempting to impose your will upon us, your constituents, rather than reflecting our diverse communities and interests. This is not what we elected you to do.

Let me be clear: we are watching. We expect you to act in the best interests of all Texans, not just a select few or a particular party. If you move forward with this unwarranted and manipulative redistricting, understand that we, the voters, will remember. We will not hesitate to exercise our right to vote you out of office.

This is our state, and these are our votes. Do not betray the trust we placed in you.

Thank you.

Beth Christopherson, mrs

self, social worker

Houston, TX

Please do not pass HB 4. This would lead to a further disenfranchisement of Texas voters, especially Black and Latino voters. Texans want to be able to choose their elected officials and not have the maps rigged so only one candidate can possibly win. Do not be Trump's weak-sauce minions. Democracy trumps party in the United States. The Constitution, freedom, and democracy are all at stake. Please do not pass HB 4.

Rekha Rao

SAAVETX

Irving, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Rekha Rao
Irving, Texas

Tony De La Nuez

self - security engineer

Austin, TX

As a constituent of Texas' 37th Congressional District, I am writing to express strong opposition to the redistricting efforts taking place. This proposed gerrymandering, if it were to succeed, is a clear statement that our government has no intention of representing and advocating for the people who voted for them. This plan would ultimately eliminate congressional representation for a multitude of Texans and effectively make their vote meaningless. Regardless of your party, I strongly urge each member of the legislature to put the people of Texas over the desires of a president who does not care about the democratic process.

Kris Liu
Self Kellet, TX

I strongly object to the abrupt decision to redraw district lines beginning on August?1,?2025 at 10:00?AM, or upon final adjournment/recess or bill referral. This isn't a neutral or necessary adjustment—it's a direct attempt to merge vibrant Asian-American and minority communities into rural Republican districts solely to dilute our voting power. That's unacceptable.

According to multiple news reports, the Texas GOP is using this mid-decade map change to vault five more reliably Republican U.S. House seats—despite no legal or demographic necessity for another redraw since the 2020 cycle ? ?. Critics point out that cities such as Austin, Dallas, and Houston—home to growing Asian, Hispanic, and Black populations—are being sliced and merged into rural hyper-conservative districts hundreds of miles away, deliberately cracking cohesive minority voter blocs ? ? ?.

Such tactics echo classic racial vote dilution through gerrymandering. The Voting Rights Act (§?2) and legal precedent (e.g. Thornburg v. Gingles) prohibit redistricting that "cracks" or "packs" minority voters in ways that weaken their influence ?. Texas courts have previously struck down maps for similar violations under Bush v. Vera and Perry v. LULAC—demonstrating that race-based manipulation remains legally forbidden ?.

To the architects of this plan: Where is the legal justification for an unnecessary mid-decade redistricting? Where is the demographic emergency? None exists—only a political calculation to weaken representation for Asian Americans and other communities of color increasingly engaged and growing in the state's urban centers ?. This is not neutral boundary-setting—it's re-segregation of the vote.

Bottom line: Don't sugar-coat it—this is an unconstitutional power play. It takes communities away from districts where their voting strength matters and tosses them into rural, conservative districts where their voices are drowned out. That is unjust. That is deliberate. We expect better from our representatives.

Elizabeth Sills
Self
Tyler, TX

I oppose this because it undermines fair representation by redrawing congressional districts mid decade to favor one political party. This undermine our democracy and hurts people from urban and minority communities. I believe that we should have representative districts, and this is not it.

Ruth Siegel
self
Pflugerville, TX

Why are Texans allowing federal government how to run our state? Tell them to take a hike, and do not vote for redistricting.

Robert Tait
Retired / Self
Plano, TX

Rigging the game to avoid losing in fair competition is despicable and weak. If you retain any kind of moral compass, be ashamed.

Rachael Jenkins
Fort Worth
Fort Worth, TX

Redistricting Texas to push out nearly all democratic voices is wrong. Whatever power you consolidate for you, can be used against you in the future. If you wouldn't want Democrats redistricting Republicans out of office, then Republicans should not do it to Democrats. Do unto others as you would have do unto you; love your neighbor as you love yourself.

Helen Husband
Self, retired public school teacher
Odessa, TX

I strongly object to the mid-decade redistricting that Gov.Abbot is pushing because he has bowed down to the wishes of the White House and the people behind Trump. Texas legislators are being used by Trump to illegally help the GOP maintain control of Congress. Do the right thing. Vote no on the HB 4.

Megan Gordon, MS
Self
Addison, TX

I am appalled at this blatant attempt to rig the game, once again, in favor of Republicans. If this is the only way you can win you are clearly not working in the best interests of your constituents. We want to be able to choose the individuals that represent us both here and in Washington. Those representatives should speak with our diverse voices and represent our goals and values. If the Republicans would like to win elections fairly, I would suggest supporting policies that actually HELP regular Americans rather than funneling money to people who have more than enough already. What's being done here is reprehensible and runs contrary to what a democracy should be. It seems obvious that this is exactly the point, but the people will not stand for it.

Kristin Turner
Self
Elgin, TX

Disagree with this blatant attempt to keep Republicans in power. Would you agree with this if Dems were pushing it to favor their majority? The people ask that neutrality and fairness be applied. Let us elect who we want in power, not who you do.

Michael Killalea
Indivisible 1431
Lago Vista, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed mid-cycle redistricting plan put forth in the Texas Legislature.

This redistricting is no more than an excuse to prevent people of color from voting. This proposal would steal voting power from those suffering from longtime racial inequities. This redistricting effort is a clear violation of the Voting Rights Act, which sets majority minority districts apart as political divisions important to an equitable democracy.

The notion that the 2021 maps discriminate against white people is absurd. That idea twists the reason the Voting Rights Act was made law – to protect those who for hundreds of years have faced discrimination and violence from their white neighbors.

Further, this map further distorts the philosophy behind political districts – that people in similar communities have similar concerns. The distorted weird maps proposed by the Legislature subdivide Texas into groupings with little in common.

The only gerrymandering should be to create majority minority districts, not to create more majority majority ones!

Reject this cruel, discriminatory map.

Redistricting helps only politicians. Let’s help Texans instead.

Thank you for your attention.

Kevin Bacon
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting to favor a single party will not be tolerated by this Texan. Do the right thing!

Claire Wrigley
Self
Houston, TX

I strongly object to the mid cycle redrawing of federal representatives districts. This is a blatant push to dilute minority voices, particularly those of Black and Brown Texans. The President of the United States is scared to face the fair vote of the people and has asked Texas to deliver the representatives since he was unable to steal the votes previously. This is an attempt to dismantle our democracy and Texas should not be the state to bow down and deliver to anyone.

Hon. Rudy Metayer, Councilmember
City of Pflugerville
Pflugerville, TX

My name is Councilmember Rudy Metayer, and I am a resident of Pflugerville, Texas. Thank you all for your service to Our State. Currently, my city is well served by 4 Congressmen: Michael McCaul, Pete Sessions, Greg Casar, and Lloyd Doggett. I am writing to voice my strong opposition to the proposed mid-decade redistricting plan.

To be clear, I'm not opposed to redistricting as a concept. Done correctly, with the correct data, it's an essential part of our democracy. That is not what is happening here. Even though the current maps from 2021 are still under federal review, your committee is pressing forward to substantially change how my constituents are represented. Multiple lawsuits challenging the 2021 redistricting maps in Texas are still pending, including LULAC v. Abbott, United States v. Texas, Gutierrez v. Abbott. Launching a redistricting process now—without any new census data and multiple unresolved lawsuits raises serious questions about motivation and fairness of the process.

Even worse, there is significant evidence that this is not normal political gerrymandering, but instead racial gerrymandering. The targeting of districts like CD 9, 18, 29, and 33, which are built on diverse, minority coalitions, is not coincidental. It's a direct attempt to diminish the electoral power of communities of color. The Supreme Court of the United States has found such efforts not to be just wrong, but illegal. Our diversity is our strength and we should be looking at ways to uplift ALL Texans. Not just ones that vote a certain way.

As a taxpayer, I do not want my dollars tied up in yet another legal battle defending unconstitutional maps. Texas has been repeatedly found to have violated the Voting Rights Act. We do not need to relive this history. We need leadership that respects the rule of law and the value of every voter's voice.

We often say elections have consequences. So do the actions you take in office. As a fellow elected official, I know all too well the importance of service to our constituents. That should be at the forefront in all that we do. How does drawing a new congressional map that has major portions of Cedar Park, Round Rock, and Pflugerville in the same district as Midland and Odessa improve the services to my constituents?

Please do the right thing. Stop this mid-decade redistricting effort and focus on creating a process that is lawful, data-driven, and inclusive of all Texans.

It's hard to do the right thing at times of discomfort, but it is in those times that character is shown.

Ann Minter-Morrison
Self
Round Rock, TX

I'm against redistricting during a special session of the legislature. This new congressional map is unfair and it's an unprecedented and anti-democratic power grab to manipulate the control of Congres. It would cause the 43% of Texans who voted democrat last election to lose 5 congressional seats. If Republicans can't win Texans over with their policies, they should not manipulate congressional districts to undermine the democratic principles of Texas and America!

Susan Turitz Cooper
Self
Richardson, TX

This mid-decade redistricting proposal is illegal! It is a blatant effort to gerrymandering. It is downright wrong! You know that I am telling the truth, and yet, you are doing it anyhow!

You acceding to the demand of an inept, corrupt, thoroughly selfish, "wannabe" king, instead of respecting the wishes and opinions of your thousands of constituents. You took a solemn oath to represent us, your thousands of constituents to whom you owe your loyalty. We are the ones who can also vote you out of office. Trump does not care a whiff about you as an elected official of Texas. He only cares about himself.

Yet, you are willing to sell us out to appease this tyrant!

You know perfectly well that Constitution provides that redistricting should take place ONLY EVERY TEN YEARS, following the Census, in order to fairly represent the nature and diversity of the people who live within the district. And a properly drawn district should be compact, with contiguous neighborhoods so that all of us are represented WITH NO DISCRIMINATION!

Therefore, I am registering my complete and adamant opposition to the proposed mid-decade redistricting.

Nirav Peterson
Self, Business Owner, Hendrikus Group
Jefferson, TX

Greetings Legislators: I am in full support of the Redistricting for Texas as shown on the redrawn map. I urge you to pass this bill quickly and get on with it. It is known that the past redistricting does not represent the current demographics of our great State, and it is your obligation, as our representatives, to be sure the We the People are represented accurately. Sincere thanks!

Rebekah Schraut
Self
Richardson, TX

I am writing to express deep concern over any proposed plans to redraw voting districts during this non-census year with the stated goal of securing additional seats for one political party. Redistricting outside of the decennial census undermines the integrity of our democratic process and erodes public trust in our elections.

Gerrymandering—manipulating district boundaries for partisan gain—disenfranchises voters, dilutes communities' representation, and distorts the will of the people. It is fundamentally undemocratic and has no place in a fair and free society. Redrawing districts to guarantee five additional seats for a particular party sends a message that power takes precedence over the voices of the people.

Texas voters deserve transparency, fairness, and equal representation. Redistricting should be guided by objective data, community input, and nonpartisan principles—not partisan strategy. Undertaking such a consequential action outside of the census process, especially for overtly political reasons, sets a dangerous precedent and calls into question the legitimacy of our electoral system.

I respectfully urge you to reject any efforts to redraw voting districts outside of the normal census cycle and to support legislation that makes gerrymandering illegal and enforceable. Our democracy is strongest when all voters are heard, not when political lines are redrawn to predetermine outcomes.

Thank you for your attention and service to the people of Texas.

Faith Carter
Self
San antonio, TX

I have lived in Texas my entire life and would obviously prefer to see our voting rights remain the same. Intentionally splitting democrat districts should not be a viable path to further republican victories. Let the PEOPLE decide how to vote, NOT those in power. If you can't win the democrat districts normally don't force them to become something they are not, the people in these districts have clearly voted for what they want and what they want are democrat representatives.

Mary Whittenberg
Self retired teacher, rehired
Arlington, TX

The map, I believe 2308, can not be considered anything but gerrymandering. When the district that takes a slice of downtown Austin and puts it in a district with east Texas, and Arlington parts of Fort Worth are thrown into a district with west Texas, it says one thing: Texas government no longer is interested in representing constituents. This map says that Texas government is corrupted. I said it, prove me wrong. History is watching.

Carol Watkins
Self Insurance Manager
San Angrlo, TX

I strongly urge the committee to not redistrict the state, yet again.

Pam Bell
Self
Valley View, TX

I oppose redistricting for elections

Lawrence Robinette
Self
Denton, TX

This is another attempt by the GOP to disenfranchise of minorities and white Democratic voters. Please get yourself a much thicker rug to pray on.

Ruth Soisson
Self-High School Science Teacher
Houston, TX

I am testifying in support of HB-4. Governor Abbott added this topic to the special session due to the report from the DOJ cited that four districts are unconstitutionally drawn and 3 of these are in Houston. While none of these districts are mine, I feel that the legislature should take this opportunity to make sure that these four districts and any others are drawn fairly, taking into account equal population, compactness, continuity, respect for the interests of the community , voting rights protections, and political neutrality. All Americans deserve to have a chance to have their vote count!

Keona Williams
Self
Katy, TX

Vote 'NO' on the redistricting effort. Prove to the Texas voters that you don't have to cheat to win!!

David Sims, Mr.
Self
Houston, TX

Texans aren’t cheaters… Follow the historic census=redistricting protocol… Don’t follow the crooks…

Bruce Allen
self retired
Woodway, TX

Dear Members of the 2025 Special Session Congressional Redistricting Select Committee,
I am writing to urge all of you to vote no on HB 4 and vote yes on any current or future bill which proposes a non-partisan committee to draw all future U.S. Congress District Maps for the State of Texas. My reasons for this request are below.
1. Our current representation in the United States Congress is not reflective of the actual communities in our state or of the demographic make up of our state. This bill makes that lack of genuine representation worse, not better.

2. This bill is deeply undemocratic. It is not being presented in good faith with good data (or adequate input from your constituents). Rather, the timing of this bill makes it very obvious that Texas Republicans are taking orders from Donald Trump, not the people of Texas. President Trump has been clear in his recent public comments. He wants 5 more Republican seats from Texas (rather than fair and just representation for Texans). He and the national Republican Party realize that they are likely to lose the next Congressional election because of their wildly unpopular agenda, behavior and legislation. So their plan is more minority rule through anti-democratic chicanery. They are asking you to do the dirty work for them, please don't! I believe that if you proceed with this legislation, as the saying goes, the people of Texas will "remember in November." Even if they don't, history will remember this sad chapter in our country and who stood up for Democratic and American values and who didn't.

3. As you know Texas is already a minority, majority state with tremendous ongoing growth in our diversity. This bill is the most brazen disenfranchisement of our brown and black fellow citizens that I have seen in quite some time. You can and should stand on the right side of history and do better (i.e. vote no on more extreme gerrymandering and vote yes on non-partisan redistricting commission, as several other states have done).
4. Our legislature has much more important and pressing work to do on behalf of the citizens of Texas. Do the work you were sent to Austin to do and use our precious legislative time and resources for urgent matters such as disaster relief, not for partisan politics.

Sincerely,
Bruce Allen

Emily Lineberger, Mrs.
Self
Carrollton, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I oppose any mid-decade redistricting, especially while the current maps are still being challenged in court. Furthermore, I oppose any redistricting that does not result in fair representation for all Texans. Texas has a long history of racial gerrymandering and discriminatory voting practices, so I urge you to prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided, thereby weakening their political voice.

Texans have the right to fair and equal representation that's achieved through a thoughtful, transparent process that allows meaningful public input. Lawmakers should have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps, protect minority voting rights, and respect county lines, city boundaries, and communities of interest. A rushed 30-day special session packed with unrelated agenda items is not the way to achieve this.

Texans deserve to have a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and results in equal representation for all, not this rushed and deeply flawed process. Flood recovery efforts and the safety of Texans should be the top priority, not redrawing political maps.

Thanks for responding to this urgent need.
Emily Lineberger

Peggy Maxwell
Self
austin, TX

For this bill

Jill Jacobs
Self
Austin, TX

Hello,

I am writing to express my concern for the redistricting in discussion now. We just re-districted 5 years ago, under Republican leadership. If there are issues with it they are as a result of the work done by Republican leaders. As a result, I deduce that this current need to re-district is not in good faith and is actually a way to disenfranchise voters like me in Austin and other cities which I am vehemently against. I advise you that the TX House and Senate work for TEXANS, not Donald Trump. Please do what's right for Texans and leave the districts alone till 2030 or if you are going to remap them, make them bipartisan and fair. Otherwise you leave no other choice than for us to deduce that Republican elected officials are up to no good, trying to alter the results of future elections with this exercise which is unconstitutional. Please stop what you are doing.

Thank you,
Jill

Matthew Davis, Mr.
Self
Cedar Hill, TX

Make redistricting fair. Everyone deserves a fair chance

Mary Ross
Self
Fresno, TX

This redistricting unfairly targets majority minority districts, that makes it racist. I reside in CD9 which is one of those targeted districts which will force US incumbent districts or incumbent minority US Representatives to run against each other and result in the loss of one Representative several times to give Republicans more Districts. This act is racist as the district lines of specific former majority minority districts were primarily chosen and redrawn in a way that will redistrict current targeted Democrat districts to Republican and result in the change and increase in the number of Republican Districts, and winning more elections, especially targeted four to five Districts.

This is shameful, racist, and should not be legal.

I OPPOSE this submitted redistricted map.

Elizabeth Roehm
Self, attorney/parent
Austin, TX

I'm AGAINST HB 4.

This is an openly partisan, unfair attempt to disenfranchise communities in Texas, particularly in big cities and "liberal" areas.

The proposed changes disproportionately affect people of color and dilute their votes, denying them a chance at fair representation.

This is NOT about serving communities; this is about silencing our voices.

Enos Richard Self Retired Military
Killeen, TX

District maps are supposed to be looked or redrawen only right after a census which happens every 10 years. This was last done after the 2020 census so there is NO NEED for it to be done now. Not only that the current district makeup throughout Texas does not provide full and true Representation to all citizens in all districts because most people like myself feel their representative DOES NOT listen to them NOR CARES how they feel, what they are going through or what help they might need. Those in charge should and needs to do a better job at speaking to ALL their constituents and understanding their needs. If Texas Government is really against the Federal Government dictating how Texas is ran and what Texans do then they need to show it through their actions and NOT by bending a knee to the demands of The White House.

Barbara Lampley
We The People
Austin, TX

Is it 2030 already? Hell no!

Amy Kane
Self
Cedar Park, TX

I am writing as a concerned citizen, parent, and longtime educator in Texas to strongly oppose any attempt at mid-decade redistricting.

Redistricting is meant to follow the census—not political whims. The current effort by Texas Republicans to redraw district lines mid-decade, outside of the standard decennial process, is a clear abuse of power and a betrayal of democratic principles. Voters should choose their representatives; representatives should not manipulate district lines to choose their voters.

This process lacks transparency, invites further partisan gerrymandering, and erodes public trust in the integrity of our elections. It wastes taxpayer resources and undermines the will of the people—all to serve short-term political gain.

As a teacher, I tell my students that democracy only works if we all play fair. What message does this send to them? That rules can be rewritten anytime power shifts hands? That voter voices can be diluted at will?

Texans deserve better. I urge you to reject any mid-decade redistricting efforts and focus instead on policies that serve the people—not political interests.

Ana Dalasta
Self
San Antonio, TX

There is not a reason or need to redraw district lines. This is a n unscrupulous attempt at gerrymandering. The people are not on support of this move.

Danielle Hargett
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB4 and the gerrymandering proposed in the redistricting maps. Texas is already gerrymandered and this only takes it that much further.

Democrats currently make up only about 34 percent of the state’s congressional delegation. Kamala Harris received 42% of the vote in 2024, and Colin Allred received about 44%. So Democrats are already underrepresented in our congressional delegation. HB4’s proposed new maps will worsen that disparity.

Stephen Alrubaiie, Mr
Self
Benbrook, TX

Redistricting is not what we want. Babies, every single one of you that want to try and play this game. This is not representative of how the occupants of this state want it ran and despite the public outcry that has been ignored for years and years and years about how wrong this is it seems to fall on deaf ears. But the people are tired of this and we are more aware than ever. More organized than ever and we will no longer tolerate this corruption and pitting us against one another. We will soon all be against you and you will have no one else to blame but yourselves.

Eugenia Beh
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Our Our maps and voting districts should reflect our communities and serve our benefits, not Trump's! Targeting communities of color to draw us out of fair representation is racial discrimination!

Patrick Brooks
self / retired
Houston, TX

Against this bill for a number of reasons. First the priority of the legislature should be on addressing emergency resource improvements after the recent tragedy of the hill country floods rather than this bill demanded by our president to try and obtain more Republican seats in congress. Second we should be doing redistricting in the normal interval of time after the next census not at the arbitrary whim of someone who is not from this state. Thirdly the map looks highly gerrymandered. Fourthly I do not even have a representative here in the 18th district due to the Governor dragging his feet to preserve an unfair advantage after the death of our representative. And of course the 18th is one of the targeted districts. These efforts to game the system seem all too common with our Republican leadership and they should be ashamed of themselves. Thank you.

Erin Greer self / public university professor
Dallas, TX

I am writing to urge my representatives to reject the redistricting plans that have been proposed, and which threaten to a) blatantly disenfranchise communities; b) further degrade the reputation of TX and its legislature, both among constituents and in the wider national and international outlook; c) contribute to the political rancor and polarization that radicalizes people and destabilizes our society. In other words: the stakes are high, and I consider it unjust, immoral, short-sighted, and all around dangerous for the legislature to egregiously gerrymander. Do the right thing, please. Protect the legitimacy and fairness of our electoral system.

Liz Fredrickson
Self
Austin, TX

I don’t agree nor do I support the gerrymandering of these districts. Brown people are under represented and bowing down to the DOJ is not ok. I don’t support this and I won’t support anyone who supports this vote. I will work hard to make sure this is your last vote.

Ada Yang Gomez
Self
Arlington, TX

As it’s been stated by many already redistricting for the purpose of gaining more seats for one party is unjust and unfair. I don’t know how much more you all need to hear this. We, the constituents, are not happy about this and do not agree to this. Leave it alone and focus on improving Texas instead of gerrymandering.

Angelique Gonzalez-Page, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

Hi! My name is Angelique Gonzalez-Page and I have a few thoughts about HB4 and the redistricting plan for Texas. It looks awful. I mean let's be honest gerrymandering is going strong in the state of Texas, and I completely understand the need to assert your political dominance for the next election cycle. But I do want to caution you on the direction that you are taking. Taking away the autonomy of citizens by diluting their vote is cheating. It's stacking the deck in your favor and it's the behavior a taker. There will be dire consequences for both the Republican and Democratic parties and politics in general in the state of Texas. Now I hate to sound alarmist, but I've cracked open enough history books to see a definite pattern starting to emerge. Most citizens have lives to live, families to raise and bills to pay. We all have something to lose. It's what makes most Texas citizens… cowards. That threat is enough to keep their heads down and trudging along. But then they start to lose hope. Now if this were Russia, China or some other country where the government has historical oppressed their citizens then this would be all good. But the United States of America was formed by a bunch of rebels, or a better term would be revolutionists. Conforming to the status quo is not something that Americans do, or we would be Brits. So, please take this world of caution and try for moderation. History has shown that when someone is taking too much like the Adolf Hitler, Napoleon Bonaparte, the South in the Civil War, those takers are punished hard. So hard that this cycle of punishment happens again and again. Honestly, I am tired of the political circle jerk that is Texan and American politics. But I am also hopeful. I am starting to see citizens think about what kind of world their leaving their children. Most citizens understand that life is unfair, but they don't and won't tolerate that for their kids who are going to be inheriting this plant after we are long gone. Thank you for your consideration and please contact me if you have any questions.

Cindy Brown
Self
Houston, TX

The new redistricting that is trying to go into effect is completely unnecessary and unfair. It is not even the time for the actual redistricting to happen. What this is trying to do is silence our voting rights.

Megan Jacobsen
self, self-employed
Fort Worth, TX

I oppose HB4, and hope that the Texas state house will pass a more fair districting map that accurately represents all Texas voters.

Shanley Hicks
Self
Austin, TX

I'm a concerned citizen in strong opposition to this redistricting effort. What's happening here is a blatant power grab. The maps are illegally drawn along racial lines. A mid-decade redraw is designed to silence our majority-minority communities. This session should be laser focused on disaster preparedness and alert systems in the wake of the catastrophic Kerrville floods.
And let's be clear: these maps aren't about Texans — they're about Trump. Why are we using Texas tax dollars and legislative time to push a political agenda that doesn't reflect the will of our people? The districts being targeted are in our metroplexes — the economic engines of Texas — which generate the bulk of our state's $2.6 trillion GDP. Undermining the voices of these communities isn't just unjust, it's economically reckless.
We should be laser focused on honoring the Texans who just lost their lives in devastating floods. Our resources should be strengthening emergency systems and protecting lives, not suppressing votes. This is a gross overreach, and Texans see right through it. We will not be quiet while our communities are carved up for political convenience.

Warren Williams
Self
Bedford, TX

am a 62 year old independent voter from Bedford TX

When I was a boy, If you had told my father and his friends while we sat around the campfire on our deer lease in Laredo TX that a New Yorker with fake hair, a fake tan and a gold plated toilet would mandate the Texas legislature's and the Governor's agendas they would have laughed in your face. Yet here we are

I wanted to address the points of discussion at the beginning of the meeting. We are here because Trump told you by proxy of the Govenor to find him 5 seats for the 2026 election. You can put lipstck on a pig but it is still a pig.

Race, legality, fairness, and the questionable procees for HB4 have already been well covered . I fully support my minority neighbors in opposition to HB4.

Another concern I have is:
Donald Trump has stated in a recent interview that he does not know if he is supposed to follow the constitution, after taking the presidential oath of office just a few weeks before for the second time.

Republicans at the federal level recently confirmed a judge who according to 2 witnesses advocated disobeying constitutional rule of law by not following judicial rulings.

Based on their actions, our Republican reps at the federal level are loyal servants of Trump and party, not protectors of the constitution. We are edging closer and closer to authoritarianism

Our founders designed the constitution to hopefully prevent future Tyranny in the executive branch. The coequal branches are supposed to be a check on the executive branch, not be a rubber stamp.

This is an American issue, not a partisan issue.

I urge you to vote no to on HB4. Do not give more power to a President who cannot say that he is supposed to uphold the Constitution.

Please the potential impact of your actions. Check this power grab by the executive branch by voting no on HB 4. Let the litigation on the 2021 maps complete it course.

I find it interesting that Trump who has longed claimed the 2020 election was stolen from Him with no credible evidence, inspired an insurrection, then pardoned the insurrectionists, is now telling the State of Teaxs to rig an election to get him 5 more seats.

References
During an interview with Ed O'Keefe of CBS News on Tuesday, July 15, 2025, President Trump stated that he wants Republicans in Texas to redraw the state's congressional map to create five new districts that favor the GOP

Donald Trump made statements questioning his duty to uphold the Constitution during an interview with Kristen Welker on NBC's "Meet the Press" in May 2025

ZEPHYR STONE
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I am incredibly disgusted by this blatant attempt to rid Texas of its democratically elected Democratic leadership. Gerrymandering is a cowardly, mean-spirited way to get your way. Are you that scared of Trump that you would cast all ethics to the side? Its shameful. Absolutely shameful and disgraceful. Our elected officials should represent us, not be manufactured to support a felon and sex offender.

Janet Modesto
Self / teacher
San Antonio, TX

Voters should have the power to choose their representatives.

Marina Lin
Self
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to this rushed redistricting for what looks like extraordinarily partisan reasons. This directly contradicts the principles of democracy - where Texans get to make their voices heard through voting for someone to represent their views. By diluting certain voices through redrawn maps, you are acting in ways that are why many are so disillusioned with politicians. You are supposed to represent your constituents, not redraw maps to stay in power. This is a mockery of the title "Representative".

Yangli Peng
self, student
Austin, TX

I'm a constituent living in Austin, and I strongly oppose this redistricting. It's a blatant manipulation of district lines that prioritizes partisan power over fair representation. This map does not reflect the will of the people, it reflects an intentional effort to silence voters and undermine the foundations of our democracy. Texans deserve districts drawn with integrity, not maps engineered for political gain.

Sean Birkenfeld
Self - IT Project Manager
Amarillo, TX

I strongly oppose HB 4 and the newly proposed congressional map. This redistricting plan is a blatant attempt to further entrench political power at the expense of fair representation. It dilutes the voting strength of communities of color, particularly in rapidly growing urban and suburban areas, and appears to violate the Voting Rights Act by undermining the ability of minority communities to elect candidates of their choice.

The proposed map would eliminate or weaken districts currently represented by diverse voices, and it favors one political party in a way that does not reflect Texas's changing demographics. Redistricting should be about fair representation, not political advantage.

Texas voters deserve a transparent process that respects communities, protects voting rights, and reflects the true diversity of our state. I urge the committee to reject this proposal and demand a fairer, nonpartisan redistricting process.

Jamie Judd-Wall, Ms
myself
Austin, TX

I oppose the redistricting plan for Austin, TX. I encourage my representatives to vote against this plan. I do not want the composition of the district to change in any way.
Thank you for your attention to my request, Jamie Judd-Wall

Kim Garmany, Texas Citizen
Self
San Angelo, TX

We all learned about the dangers of gerrymandering in social studies in 7th grade. Maybe elected representatives didn't? This proposal is atrocious and does not serve the people of Texas. Stop pandering to the federal government's inept leader and do something positive for Texas citizens.

Alfred Krebs, Pastor self---ELCA Lutheran pastor
Austin, TX

This redistricting plan is unjust and crooked and will greatly undermine our cherished USA democracy.

Kristia Leyendecker
Self
Flower Mound, TX

Please do not allow for mid-decade redistricting for the sole purpose of increasing potential politcal party representation. This sets an untenable precedent that could be implemented when another party is in power. We have a process for redistricting that we need to maintain. Districts need to represent the people living there not be redesigned at the whim of the president. That is not democracy.

Stephen Baumgartner, Mr.
Self, engineer
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose this effort by the TX House to carry forward this effort that has the explicit goal of advantaging one political party for future state and federal elections.

Deeply harmful policies being enacted by this U.S. Congress are being enabled by these efforts to change district lines, which in turn are reducing and minimizing the voices of non-White citizens.
Citizens are losing their voices because of these changes.
In the Houston area we are proud of our rich diversity of culture, language, opinion, and background. Our house representatives should broadly mirror this rich diversity and the rich variety of backgrounds and opinions.
An instruction articulated from the President, to replace reliably Democratic-led districts with districts that will be reliably Republican, was then embedded in a statement from the Department of Justice that the current districts are racially discriminatory or biased.
This is DESPITE the fact that in 2021 there was explicit confirmation from the Texas leadership (governor, attorney general) that the maps were not racially biased.
Changes to the TX district lines should be based on DATA and EVIDENCE, not swayed by a politician's or party's personal and political pursuit of power.

Adam Price
self CSM
Austin, TX

This is unacceptable. Texas does not have kings. I reject this redistricting action as a native Texan and American. Shame on you small willed men. You are low cowards. Listen to the people this is not a request, this is your duty. Reject this bill.

Monica Galante, Dr.
Self
El Paso, TX

As a lifetime resident of El Paso, 63 years, I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting map. In a moment that demands vigilance and unity, El Paso finds itself once again at the center of a redistricting battle that threatens to dilute our voice and compromise our future. The newly proposed congressional map—crafted under the influence of partisan interests and mid-decade maneuvering, or as many refer to it as gerrymandering—strips El Paso of critical assets and reassigns them to a sprawling district that stretches hundreds of miles away, tethered to priorities that do not reflect our community's needs.

This is not just a cartographic reshuffling. It's a direct affront to the principle of fair representation. Fort Bliss, the El Paso International Airport, and the newly funded $700 million VA Health Care Center—landmarks of federal investment and regional pride—would be forced to compete for resources alongside installations in distant counties. These institutions are not simply infrastructure; they are cornerstones of our regional identity, economic vitality, and federal investment. Again, relocating them to a district encompassing 27 counties, with competing priorities and limited resources, undermines El Paso's voice and jeopardizes our future. The proposed district spans 27 counties, each with distinct and often conflicting interests. El Paso's voice would be drowned out, its priorities sidelined.

The representative who would inherit this district has a documented history of voting against programs that sustain El Paso families—Medicare, Medicaid, veterans' services, infrastructure, and nutrition support. This is not theoretical. It's a pattern. And it's unacceptable.

We demand representation by someone who lives here, understands our challenges, and walks our streets—not someone who drops in occasionally from San Antonio. Our community deserves someone who understands our local challenges and advocates for our needs—not a distant figure whose priorities lie elsewhere.
I respectfully urge the House Select Committee on Congressional Redistricting to reject this proposal and preserve El Paso's right to local, accountable representation, representing the people of Texas, the people who elected them, and stop doing the bidding of others. With a 42.3% approval rating for the Republican party, is something you really want to push. Be a seed of growth and not continue the destruction of American civilization initiated and sustained by #47.

Mary De La Cerda
None
Eagle Pass, TX

Against,

Karen Risser
self retired
Richardson, TX

Redistricting in between the census taking and done to gerrymander the state even more than it is, is wrong.

Joel Bourdier
Self - musician
FRISCO, TX

Redistricting at this time is nothing more than a brazen attempt to cheat. Texas
Republicans - at the behest of Donald Trump - are attempting to steal seats. STAND UP TO FASCISM AND SAY NO TO REDISTRICTING!

Lewis Pierce
Self - Tech
Austin, TX

Hello, I am writing in regards to the newly proposed congressional map of Texas. The changes suggested by this legislature are obviously an anti-democratic attempt to immorally and illegally carve an advantage for the Republican party at the expense of Texas citizens.

I realize the voices of myself and the countless others who oppose Donald Trump's parasitism will likely be ignored so long as he holds power, but I would like to remind you that an alliance with dictatorial measures and authoritarian ideology can only lead to ruin. This lesson is oft-repeated through history, yet its siren's call seemingly has the power to entice and blind those weak enough to believe true strength can be found in domination.

I would invite you to consider your place in history. If you wish to be remembered as the individuals who unquestioningly fell in line behind a egotistical, anti-intellectual, and pedophilic tyrant, then continue on your current course. If not, then please remember that in unity we have power, and cooperation has never before been so sorely missed or so absolutely necessary.

I am a native Texan, born and raised. I visited the congressional hall as a child and always imagined it to be a place deeply reverential of reason and justice. I have a great deal of love for our state, and wish to see it thrive. However, I see the Republican party of today as unrecognizeable from that of my grandparent's day, and am dismayed by its current direction. I hope you will listen to the constituents whom you represent and were elected by.

Tamra Snell
self
Pflugerville, TX

I am writing to submit my opposition to the proposed redistricting currently under consideration. Redistricting is not an urgent issue and the timing of doing this mid-decade raises concerns about fair representation for all Texans and pressure coming from outside of Texas or a few people with power to dictate what will impact many Texans against their will. The proposal appears to break up Democratic seats and disenfranchise historically marginalized voters, such as Black and Latino voters. Carving up the districts to favor one party over another is not allowing Texans the right to fair and equal representation in our federal government. It is silencing voters.The proposal appears to target "coalition districts" and exacerbate racial gerrymandering. As a lifelong Texan and community member of Pflugerville, I want to have fair and equal representation for all Texans, regardless of zip code, race, or ethnicity. I strongly oppose this legislation and hope committee members will choose to do so, as well.

Ruben Ramirez, Mr
Self
El Paso, TX

To Whom It May Concern: El Paso Texas was not and does not need to be represented by someone 500 miles away who will not pay attention to our needs. Leave our district the way you set it up the last time.
Thank you!

Fallon Brazell
self
Denton, TX

My name is Fallon, and Im sharing my opinion on the new congressional map that is big proposed.. I believe it is a threat to our democracy and negatively impact voter diversity and accessibility.

Thank you,
Fallon Brazell
9032292197
624 Londonderry ln, denton,tx 76205

Richie Popp
Self
Plano, TX

I’m against this happening in my district

Larissa Huffman
Self
Austin, TX

As a native Texan and deeply concerned American citizen, I urge our representatives follow the law of the land and say no to Trump’s demand for immediate redistricting! The Constitution states voters choose their leaders, not the other way around. Be on the right side of history and do whatever is in your power to stop this illegal power grab!

Katharine Winsor
self
Rockwall, TX

Absolutely not. This is just another obvious attempt by the Republican party to appease their orange daddy and cheat. Vote no on redistricting.

Mary Hinson
Self
San Antonio, TX

I’m a young woman of mixed background living in San Antonio, and I’m speaking out because I’m tired of watching people who look like me and live like me get pushed to the margins—especially when it comes to redistricting.

This isn’t just politics. This is personal.

San Antonio is a city of culture, movement, and community. We’re growing fast, driven by young people, Latino and Black families, immigrants, and multiracial households like mine. But instead of being recognized for that growth, the new redistricting maps are designed to weaken our voice.

These new lines split up communities that have shared history, resources, and values for generations. They pit our representatives against each other and make it harder for us to elect people who actually reflect our lives. That’s not democracy—it’s manipulation.

As a young voter, I’m trying to stay engaged. I care about my neighborhood, my future, and my ability to create change. But how can we believe our votes matter when the system keeps redrawing the map to shut us out?

It hurts to watch leaders redraw our city like we’re just numbers on a board—like our culture, our languages, our stories don’t matter. It’s not just unfair. It’s strategic exclusion. And it’s happening at a time when youth voices are rising and demanding more equity.

This redistricting process feels rushed, closed off, and one-sided. The people in power aren’t listening—they’re redrawing the rules to stay in control. And communities like mine pay the price.

I’m asking for something simple: fairness. Keep our communities whole. Stop using redistricting as a way to silence Black, Brown, and young voters. Give us maps that actually reflect the people who live here.

I’m young, but I’m not naive. I see what’s happening. And I’m not going to stay quiet about it.

Michael Zizza
self
Austin, TX

BLUF: HB 4 by Hunter is unequivocally is classic gerrymandering and nothing else. I am opposed for the following reasons:
Gerrymandering fundamentally undermines democratic principles by allowing politicians to manipulate electoral district boundaries for partisan gain, rather than ensuring fair representation. This practice leads to "safe" districts, where election outcomes are virtually predetermined, diminishing the significance of individual votes and fostering voter apathy.
For diverse communities, gerrymandering can be particularly damaging. Districts are often "packed" (concentrating a group into a few districts to limit their overall influence) or "cracked" (splitting a group across multiple districts to dilute their voting power), making it difficult for minority groups to elect candidates of their choice and effectively voice their concerns. This disempowerment can lead to a lack of genuine representation for significant portions of the population, whose specific needs and priorities are then ignored.
The creation of uncompetitive districts also fuels political polarization. Incumbents in safe seats are less accountable to the broader electorate and more beholden to their party's base, encouraging extreme positions over bipartisan compromise. This can result in legislative gridlock and a government less responsive to the real challenges faced by its citizens.
Ultimately, opposition to gerrymandering stems from a belief in fair, competitive elections and genuinely representative democracy. It argues that electoral maps should reflect the will of the people and foster a responsive government, rather than serving as tools for partisan entrenchment and the suppression of voter influence.

Cynthia Bulanek
Self
Houston, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Kristen Babcock
Self - self-employed
Cibolo, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Shelley Stevens
self
Friendswood, TX

I support redistricting! Thanks!

Leah Neely
self
McKinney, TX

I am in support of HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. Thank you for your service in our state. Lets make it great again.

Nancy Hidalgo
Self (Engineer)
Austin, TX

Gerrymandering is not cool. Please don’t do it. Thank you.

Carla Trussell
self
Stephenville, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.
Carla Trussell

Beverley McClure
Self
San Antonio, TX

The Republicans are doing Trump’s bidding and diluting our votes in the process. This egregious bill will be challenged in the Supreme Court.

Michell Huber
Self
Austin, TX

I’m sickened by the way that Texas is furthering their already grotesque gerrymandering and voter suppression.

Karen Pritchett, Ms Personal
Bryan, TX

I support HB 4 concerning redistricting and hope you support it and will vote for it as well.

Thank you

Kenneth Sauter
Self
Garland, TX

It is way past time for Republicans to get the representation they deserve. Democrats have been gerrymandering and CHEATING for decades.

Janelle Jennings
Self
Amarillo, TX

I support HB4 and the redistricting plan. It’s important that the house seats in Congress represent the people and the way they are currently voting.

Michelle Villafranca Michelle Villafranca
Self
Alvord, TX

No redistricting mid-decade! Republicans need to earn Texans' votes fairly; not through manipulation & cheating the system. Don't undermine our votes!

Matthew Reynolds, Mr.
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Mid cycle redistricting is a huge concern. This partisan effort will reduce minority voting power and take away their ability to have fair representation. Just because Trump snaps his fingers doesn’t mean you have to do what he wants. This is not good for the people of Texas. It is a violation of voters rights and the vast majority of Texans do not want this redistricting to proceed. This is highly evident by the number of people who showed up from all across Texas to the public hearings and made their voices known. If this is passed it is going against the will of the people of Texas. The people who voted you into office. Please do not do this. Stand strong against the current corrupt administration in Washington and do what is right by the people of Texas.

Selene Rodriguez
Self
McAllen, TX

I strongly oppose Texas' proposed congressional redistricting map, which undermines fair representation and disproportionately harms communities of color. This plan is a transparent partisan power grab, designed to silence voters by dismantling competitive districts and diluting minority voting strength—especially in South Texas.

The map intentionally fractures communities of color, packing Black and Latino voters into fewer districts while spreading Republican voters into Democratic-held areas. These changes violate the Voting Rights Act, prioritizing political gain over equitable representation. The fact that 30 of 38 districts would now favor Trump by double-digit margins—despite Texas' rapidly diversifying population—exposes this as an undemocratic scheme to rig future elections.

I ask that you reject this discriminatory map and commit to a transparent, nonpartisan redistricting process that respects all Texans—not just one party's agenda. Our democracy deserves better.

Alexis Roberts, Mrs.
Self-homemaker
Austin, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I do not approve of Congressional redistricting at this time. The Republicans plan only serves to disenfranchise voters, which is not how the US government is supposed to work! Every citizen's vote must count, and the map should not be rigged to favor one party over another!

Isabel Gonzales
Self
Pasadena, TX

I do not agree with the re-districting. Will be detramental to the minorities. They will not have a voice regarding bills that will affect their way of life. This would also make the current president more powerful in erracting the constitution.

Linda Ford, Mrs.
Self
Fort Worth, TX

The State of Texas has grown immensely. I am a real estate agent and have seen the unbridled growth. We needed an opportunity to reevaluate where we have districts so that people are represented properly. Since Covid our population has increased and changed the demographics of the State. Please consider supporting the new map. We need to help Texas stay Texas!

Paul Williams
Self
Victoria, TX

Voting to redistrict before having accurate census data that is collected every 10 years is wrong. The president should not be trying to change our state districts to suit his wishes. I strongly urged everyone to vote NO on this matter. If you support this issue, contact me and explain your reasoning. It will assist me next time I vote for the people I choose to represent me and my family. Do not be a sheep and just follow someone who is supposed to be our shepherd.

Stephanie Mullin
Self
Pinehurst, TX

I do not want this redrawing of the voting maps of Texas. Stop this bill.

Katie P
Self
Houston, TX

It is silly that the state of Texas is told what to do by the current President of the United States. It is criminal to redistrict the state now, based on nothing more than racial lines. When I moved to Texas over 10 years ago, I was under the impression that I was moving to an independent state who won't bow to anyone and it's embarrassing how we're doing exactly that now.

Samantha Smoot
self, consultant
Austin, TX

For the past twenty years, I have worked in former Soviet Union countries, the Middle East and Africa, on behalf of the United States to advance democracy overseas. I have seen how elections can be a misleading piece of theater if the underlying electoral system is not fair. I have witnessed first-hand the ways autocratic forces pre-determine the outcome of elections to stay in power. The map before you is straight out of the autocratic playbook.

The point of a democracy is that the power is invested in the people, in the voters, to choose their representatives. The proposed map runs roughshod over the foundational principles of democracy. It is purpose-made to pre-determine the outcome of elections and to disempower millions of Texas voters.

Please reject this profoundly un-democratic effort to rob Texas voters of their fair representation.

The point of a democracy is that the power is invested in the people, in the voters, to choose their representatives. Gerrymandering undermines this foundational principle.

Richard Crawford
self cashier
Mesquite, TX

Redistricting should be done by a bi-partisan commission or unbiased 3rd party, it should not be done to gain partisan advantage or to give certain representatives safe seats. I don't think our founders foresaw the level of self interest that is present in today's political landscape. Also, just because you see someone else doing something that you consider to be wrong, doesn't mean that you should do the same thing. My parent's told me growing up that just because someone else decides to jump off a bridge, doesn't mean that you should do the same, if only this committee took the saem advice and chose a better way forward for the state of Texas regardless of who is in control and don't be fooled, your present control will not last forever so realize that the bed you make today you will have to lay in tomorrow.

Casey Snyder
Self
Dallas, TX

I am opposed to redistricting which redraws boundaries to clear favor one party or another. The proposal clearly favors the Republican Party. I am a registered Republican but I am opposed to the current Administration's redistricting because it is occurring outside the 10 year time period which ensures a fair process. Stop all redistricting until the year designated.

Karen Bone, Ms.
self - research administrator
Magnolia, TX

I am AGAINST the proposed redistricting map that has been released and do not want it to be approved. The proposed map would increase gerrymandering in our state rather than decrease it.

Gerard Marten-Ellis, Dr.
Self
Harker Heights, TX

I support HB4 because it is in the interest of the people of my district and the state of Texas

Robin Harger, Mrs.
Self
Georgetown, TX

This is always a battle, even today Democrats have urged Republicans not to redraw the current district maps, even as the Democrats are suing the state to redraw the maps. The current districts were drawn in 2021, following the flawed and corrupted 2020 census that officials have acknowledged that they had SIGNIFICANTLY undercounted several states, including Texas, a red state, while overcounting blue states. This transgression needs to be corrected and until another census is done, this is how to restore integrity to our state's representation.

Katy Watson
Self
Watauga, TX

NO REDISTRICTING

Charles Wedemeyer, Voter
The True Texas Project
FORT WORTH, TX

My family and I support passage of HB4. Texas needs this. Representative McQueeney (our Rep) and the other GOP Reps must get it done.

Aileen Blachowski
Self
Prosper, TX

I support the redistricting maps proposed in HB 4.

Nikki Henrichsen
Self
Sugar Land, TX

I am in support of HB 4. Please vote YES.

Carol Roach
Self
Sugar Land, TX

I am disappointed that Texas is even considering caving to federal pressure to redistrict. What happens the next time there is a liberal President? This would set the precedent that we listen to Washington instead of Texans. I have lived all over Texas, I've had Republican, Democrat, and other representation, and I have been relatively satisfied. Don't give the federal government more power than our state! Protect Texas independence! Keep our districts until the regular 10 year redistricting based on census data!

Jennifer Fogg
Self
Rockwall, TX

I am in support of this effort.

Cindi Picou

True Texas Project, Beaumont Area Registrar. Orange County Republican Party, Outreach Committee Chairman

Orange, TX

It doesn't need to be a long diatribe. This Congressional District map is extremely good for all the People of Texas. It accurately reflects the commonalities within areas. It is geographically sound. It is not gerrymandered. It simply makes sense. Please pass HB4 favorably from Committee.

JANET HARRAL

Jandeliers

AUSTIN, TX

This is absurd

Franklin Strong, Dr.

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to voice my strong opposition to the redistricting plan proposed under House Bill 4. Besides the fact that this redistricting is unnecessary, the proposed maps undermine the fundamental democratic principles that underpin our state and US Constitution. Our electoral system was not meant to be used as a winner-takes-all tool for consolidating the power of the party currently in charge. Texans want fair representation that reflects the real make-up of the state--not gerrymandered congressional maps that further disempower communities that already have less of a say in their own governance. Please vote against this bill.

Manuel Vazquez

Self

Pasadena, TX

This is not representation , it is total corruption and I firmly stand against any unjust gerrymandering!

David Coon

self, IT Operations Manager

Houston, TX

This is a waste of taxpayer funds and valuable legislative time. Why is there a special session to redraw congressional maps that were already declared fair and legal BY THE VERY SAME PEOPLE who now seek to change them?

There is no new census, no rulings, nothing seemingly has changed. So why are you going to such great lengths to create such absurd and transparently gerrymandered congressional districts? Some of them are over 400 miles long!

On what God-given Earth does it make sense to put College Station and downtown Austin in the same congressional district???

TX-23 is 490 miles wide between its most distant points in El Paso and Shavano Park. TX-11 has Notrees and Pflugerville in the same district nearly 300 miles apart. TX-13 has Texline and Denton as 400-mile separated district-mates. These selections make no sense if you truly want a government of and by the people. You are shattering the concept of local governance and control by breaking city communities apart and mixing them with menagerie of tiny county populations.

The given reasons are vague and thin, and do not give justification for this action. This isn't about ensuring """"fairness"""" - it's about establishing oligarchial control in my great state.

Shame on you for this. May your children forever be ashamed of your actions to take away democracy. May God Bless Texas, and have mercy on your souls.

Judy Field
self retired
Austin, TX

Consideration to Redistricting is an abomination when there are any number of real causes for concern in the state of Texas. Front and center, attention to the flood victims who continue to suffer loss. Where is your humanity?

Texas

Lenroy Malone
Self
Fort Worth, TX

My name is Lenroy Malone. I am a constituent of Texas Senate District 9, Texas House District 94, and U.S. Congressional District 24. Just a few months ago, several minority voters in Tarrant County were targeted by a blatant, racially motivated redistricting plan. Black, Hispanic and Asian voters were cracked from Tarrant County Commissioners Precinct 2 and packed into Precinct 1. As a result, their political power, acquired over time through population growth and coalition building in the Southern sector, was diminished by elected officials that chose to silence them instead of engaging them politically. That was a textbook example of racial gerrymandering which is illegal. Now at the request of President Trump, Governor Abbott and the Texas State Legislature are seeking to employ the same racially motivated redistricting plan to silence minority voters at the federal level to maintain power of the U. S. House of Representatives.

First, I call on members of the Texas House and Texas Senate to vote NO regarding this mid-decade redistricting plan that is nothing more than a racist power grab intended to dilute the political power of Black, Hispanic and Asian voters in large urban centers throughout the state of Texas.

After watching the public hearing held in Tarrant County, it is abundantly clear that I am not alone, and the majority of North Texans have no interest in seeing new maps being drawn. As a fellow Texan, I encourage you to tap into your independent, lone star spirit in this moment. This is not the time for our elected officials to abdicate our state's priorities to carry out the desires of those in Washington, D.C.

Virginia Raymond self, lawyer
Austin, TX

My name is Virginia Raymond. I live in Austin and speak only for myself.

I want to believe that each of you care for this nation and its principles. That you believe in the separation of powers – the legislative, the executive, and judicial branches – and that each of these functions is equal. You don't believe in dictators or kings. You do believe in, and hope for, and work towards, the ideals of democracy.

I want to believe that each of you is proud of the tremendous variety of histories, cultures, languages, and ethnic identities in our state and nation. You are proud of the Kickapoo and the Apaches, all the First Nations, the African Americans and Mexicans, the Germans and Czechs and Spanish and French, the Chinese, the Irish and Italians and Scots and Norwegians, the German Jews and the Eastern European Jews who came later, the Vietnamese and Cambodians, as well as the Central and South Americans who have enriched our state over the last five decades.

I want believe that each of you values not just the idea, but the actual practice, of one person, one vote. And I want to believe that you respect the tradition of drawing districts only when demographic changes demand rearrangement, in order to ensure proper representation of each voter.

I do believe, that your parents, grandparents, teachers, coaches and neighbors, and every person who raised you, is proud that you have taken on the obligations of public service, and that each of them trust that you would not betray these sacred commitments. You would not let yourself down, and you would especially not let your your children and grandchildren down, by succumbing to a greedy, immoral, partisan power grab of bullies in the White House and Governor's mansion.

You would not shame yourself in that way. You will not.

You would vote your principles. You will not redistrict.

You will say, Texas is not for sale, Mr. Trump.
Democracy is not on the auction block.

We have some pride. We have backbone. We have integrity.

Thank you for voting against redistricting.

Virginia Marie Raymond, JD, PhD
3209 Hemlock Avenue
Austin, Texas 78722
virginiaraymond@icloud.com

Michelle Howarth
Self
Sachse, TX

House districts should not be redrawn. If they are redrawn they should be drawn to be as geographically compact and non-gerrymandered as possible. Let representation actually be representative. No government should have to cheat to win by drawing ridiculous districts. Representatives should win election through good governance and doing the will of the people. Silly games like gerrymandering undermine the peoples trust in elected government.

Travis Ray
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose redistricting and think that the current composition is working for our state

Alexandra Cook
Self
San Antonio, TX

The redistricting of Texas does not fairly represent Texans and furthers to encourage voter suppression. The state needs to be fairly districted in order the allow Texans to have their voices heard. It is clear Texans are not happy about the GOP's power grab. You are hurting Texans and killing the livelihood of our state. Abbott should be ashamed of himself for trying to sell Texas out.

Sharon Edwards
Self
Austin, TX

The number of people moving to Texas over the past few years has increased greatly. Redistricting will improve the state's ability to serve the needs and address issues that havecome with that population growth. SUPPORT THIS BILL.

Darrell Herbert
Self city plan commission
Dallas, TX

To the Honorable Members of the Committee
My name is Darrell Herbert and I am here today as a concerned resident of Dallas, a former City Plan Commissioner, and a lifelong public servant. I speak with a deep personal knowledge of our city, its history, and its potential. I rise in strong opposition to HB4, the proposed congressional redistricting bill. This is not merely a political debate; it is an attack on the very integrity and progress we have worked so hard to achieve in our city.
Dallas is a city historically divided. For too long, the Trinity River has been more than a physical boundary—it has been a symbol of systemic segregation, a line in the sand that separated opportunity from neglect. On one side, we saw wealth and investment; on the other, communities of color were left to fend for themselves, grappling with a legacy of disenfranchisement and a lack of resources.
I have spent the last ten years of my life as a public servant, dedicating my time to changing this narrative. I have been a witness to the incredible, hard-won transformation of southern Dallas. We have seen what happens when communities have a true voice and representatives of integrity who listen. With dedicated leadership, we have secured critical investments in our infrastructure, revitalized our public parks, and attracted development to historically underserved schools. These are not abstract political victories; they are tangible improvements that have brought new life, safety, and opportunity to our neighborhoods. We have worked to bridge the divide, not to widen it.
This bill, HB4, threatens to undo all of that progress. It is a cynical, transparent effort to dilute minority voting power and strip our communities of the representation that made this progress possible. By carving up our neighborhoods and fracturing our communities of interest, this bill would replace representatives accountable to the people of southern Dallas with politicians who have no connection to our struggles and no incentive to serve our needs. It would make it nearly impossible for our community to elect a representative of our choice, effectively taking away our voice and our power to continue building a better future.
The hate that founded this city's divisions should be a matter of history, not a blueprint for our future. The fight for fair and equitable representation is what allowed us to begin healing those wounds. HB4 is a deliberate attempt to reopen them for partisan gain. It sends a message that the hard work of local leaders and the will of our community do not matter.
I implore you to reject this bill. Stand with the people of Dallas who are fighting for a city that is not defined by its past but by its future. Uphold the democratic principles that allow every community, especially those that have been historically marginalized, to have a strong, uncompromised voice. Do not take away the very power that has helped us build a more just and prosperous Dallas. Thank you.

Roxanne Claire
self business owner
Houston TX 77008, TX

The Texas Republican legislators should be ashamed of themselves. Redistricting for pure political advantage - to get people elected based not on policy but on naked political manipulation and chicanery is reprehensible. Our Constitution guarantees the right of representation. It is wrong - morally, ethically, and legally - to deprive citizens of their voice in government. If no one likes your policies, CHANGE THE POLICIES NOT THE VOTERS. Texas legislators need to vote NO on the proposal to redraw districts for the midterms.

saxon hajduk
self
austin, TX

I am against this redistricting proposal.

Sarah Burdick
Self
Dallas, TX

I can not believe that I’m even having to send a comment about Redistricting in the year of the lord, 2025. I just celebrated my 43rd birthday and I am lifelong Texan. As a young girl in the Texas public school system, I can vividly remember learning about gerrymandering in my history classes. It seemed so obviously wrong, but also something that had happened so long ago and something that we learned from. I never would have imagined we would be discussing this in present times and I wonder if my girls have learned about it in their history classes. What you are proposing is very clearly a tactic to silence all the blue voices in our traditionally red state. Our president even said the quiet part out loud. “We just need 5 more seats in Texas” and by god he’s going to do all he can to get them. I used to be one of those red voters, because that’s what how my parents voted, so that’s what I did. The current administration has made me more political than I would have ever imagined I could be and made me so aware of how corrupt the Republican Party has become. Every single person in this state has the right to have their voices heard and the proposed redistricting is a very obvious attempt to silence the perspectives that challenge trump, abbott, Patrick, Cruz and all the other white, male politicians representing our state that lead with themselves and their cronies at the forefront. Please do not pass this strategically racist bill. Please, for the little girl that I was sitting in her very white and very privileged classroom at Prairie Creek Elementary and for allllllll the children that will be looking back on this moment in 30 years. Please don’t pass this so we can all start getting back to a point where being from Texas is not an embarrassment.

Maria Froemming
self
Coppell, TX

It is unconscionable for the Texas Legislature to considering taking away the voices of OTHER TEXANS again, just to satisfy the President of the United States. The legislature should be working on flood relief, alternatives to the STAAR test, and other things that would actually BENEFIT the people of Texas.

Our Representatives need to either be addressing these important issues, or be home in their districts working with their communities. Calling them back to cater to someone who only cares about his best interests and power and NOT the people's best interests is precisely the opposite of what our legislature is supposed to do. The Texas House of Representatives is supposed to be THE PEOPLE'S HOUSE and should serve the people!

Kierra Francis
Self
Austin, TX

Save our state! No redistricting.

Pam Roche
Self, retired
Leander, TX

I’m very disappointed in the proposed new districts for Texas. The idea that a U.S. President can dictate such action to a state is beyond my comprehension. I have lost all faith in my state government to ensure that all people in the great state of Texas have real representation. This new map seeks to disenfranchise myself along with others and I can’t help but wonder what our current government hopes to gain by doing so. When you send a message to your citizens that you care nothing about the integrity of our government or about fair representation then you can hardly expect our support.

Brittany Walker
Self
Dallas, TX

As a life long Texan, I am strongly against this bill. Redistricting for pure political gain is extremely unsettling and I would hope our elected leaders would have more integrity. If our leaders must cheat the system in order to win, they don't serve to lead our state and/or nation.

Emily Doogue
Self- Public Health Professional
Dallas, TX

I am writing to register my opposition to Congressional Redistricting. This is a blatant attempt to negate the votes and voices of constituents in the current districts. it would be a shameful act of gerrymandering to allow this to move forward. I hope that the state of Texas proves allegiance to our residents and not blind obedience to President Trump. Thank you.

Laura Ts'ao
League of Women Voters Austin Area
Austin, TX

I'm writing as your constituent to express my strong opposition to HB 4 and the ongoing mid-decade redistricting process.

Texas completed its redistricting in 2021 following the U.S. Census, as required by law. There is no new population data to justify a second redraw at this time. Redistricting now, outside the normal 10-year cycle, sets a dangerous precedent and undermines public trust in the process.

This special session was called just one week after severe flooding affected communities across Texas. Our state's focus should be on recovery and meeting urgent needs, not on redrawing maps behind closed doors.

The current process raises serious concerns:

The proposed maps were released with little notice, leaving the public little time to review or respond.

Hearings have been scheduled with minimal advance warning.

Communities of color are being split or packed in ways that reduce fair representation.

Lawmakers are working with outside consultants in private, limiting public transparency.

Thousands of Texans have already spoken up. More than 3,000 people testified at redistricting hearings last week, and over 4,000 public comments were submitted. The message is clear: Texans want a process that is open, accessible, and accountable.

I urge you to oppose HB 4 and commit to a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and reflective of all the people of Texas. Our state deserves maps that are drawn through a process centered on data, community input, and the principles of equal representation.

Thank you for your service. I will be watching closely as this issue moves forward.

Marissa Curtis Gough
Self, epidemiologist
Austin, TX

As a Texas voter living in Austin and a mother of two, I'm strongly opposed to the proposed redistricting plan. Under this plan, I would be moved out of District 35, losing a representative who understands and reflects the needs of our community.

It's wrong to redraw district lines to benefit one political party at the expense of fair representation. Voters deserve to choose their leaders based on shared values and local priorities, not be shuffled around for political gain.

I want my children to grow up in a Texas where every voice counts and every community matters. Please reject this plan and commit to a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and representative of all Texans.

Meredith Margrave
Self/Editor
BURLESON, TX

I strongly oppose this irrational redistricting of our state's districts. It is unjust gerrymandering.

Tricia Kim
Self
Austin, TX

Vote NO on HB4. Don't prioritize party over Texans. Stick to the schedule & wait for the next census to alter the existing districts.

cindy montgomery
Self
Austin, TX

We need fair representation in Texas & this redistricting map is anything but. We know the strategy of this corrupt administration & Abbott. We can't let them take our vote away

Matt Valentine
Self, educator
Austin, TX

Do not further gerrymander the congressional districts of Texas. You will disenfranchise millions of Texans. Win elections on the strength of your ideas and your candidates, not by drawing absurd maps.

Jeremy Sutka
Collin County Democratic Party
Mckinney, TX

I stand before you to condemn an unconstitutional and racist assault on Texas democracy and NOT in favor of this bill

There is no legal basis for redistricting today. No new census. No court order. This is a raw political power grab: Donald Trump fears losing the House due to his toxic agenda, so he has asked Republicans to rig districts (again), stealing power from minority voters to prop up a failing regime.

We must follow the rules. This violates our Constitution: Article III, Section 28 of the Texas Constitution permits redistricting only after a census. No census has occurred.

Democracy should be representative but rather than win over voters, Republicans seek to gerrymander an even bigger artificial majority into Texas, where we already have extreme gerrymandering. Democrats only hold 32% of seats while having 45% of the voters. The new maps would further expand the divide between true representation and our maps.

Federal courts have ruled GOP maps intentionally discriminatory numerous times. While the 2021 maps are still tied up in court, the GOP is going back to redistrict again. Why? Because Trump demands it. Because he knows his policies can’t win fair elections, even with maps already rigged.

We demand you:
* HALT this illegal process NOW
* REJECT all new maps
* PUT TEXANS OVER TRUMP

Do not be complicit and bow down to this wanna be King. History sees this. Texans see this. Defend our democracy and stop this steal, or you will give voters yet another reason to vote you all out in 2026.

Let's stand up and be real Texans and reject the demands of DC. Do your job and represent all the people of Texas, not just the red dots on a rigged map.

Eloisa Flores self, Nurse Practitioner and Educator sinton, TX

Hello,

Why is the Texas AFT, a teachers union, whose lost its sole objective of educating our children as well as maintaining the competency of our teachers fighting against the redistricting of Texas?

The plan for Texas GOP redistricting is to upgrade the opportunity of the majority Hispanic and Black populated areas to vote in respect to the growth of its population.

The AFT should focus on supporting the growth and education of our Texas children as well as our teachers instead of creating division and mob attitudes among Texans.

I am in full support of your efforts with the Texas GOP redistricting.

Debbie Berry
Self
Allen 75013, TX

I am OPPOSED to HB 4. Every Texan deserves to have a voice in OUR elections. Our elected officials represent the people of Texas. The main reason I oppose this is because Mr. Trump stated publicly that he is asking Republicans in Texas "I want 5 new seats in the House". Just find me 11,780 votes in Georgia in 2020. This is interference at the federal level in our local elections. As a note, I voted Republican my entire adult life until Maga came along. Where are the Republicans that I voted for before 2020? Thank you.

Kim Farlow, Ms.
Self
New Braunfels, TX

Redistricting to establish 5 more republican congressional seats as demanded by POTUS is an attack on voters of Texas. The redrawn congressional district map submitted by Representative Hunter changes CD 21, my district, by increasing in favor of being a Republican district in 2026 by over 2%. CD 35 which included percents in Comal County is a democratic area of Comal County, is redrawn outside of Comal County and swings in favor of Republicans by over 45%. This map would disenfranchise the precincts with strong areas of democratic voters. Voters should decide who represents them, not politicians choosing their voters. The only item this special session should focus upon is flood relief and flood preparedness for all Texans. The lack of preparedness and advanced warning system was deadly and showed the lack of leadership (Governor Abbott, Director of Texas Emergency Management, Kerr County officials and the understaffed national weather service) caused over 100 children and adults to perish. Texans have had enough with Republicans not doing what is best for Texans health and safety. Redistricting should be shelved until after the 2030 census is completed. Every elected official is responsible for the health and safety of every Texan. Voters will cast their votes for candidates who will put their constituents above the demands of big donors and the President in 2026. Your actions in the Texas 89th Legislative Session and all special sessions will be judged by did this help the people or did benefit ultra rich donors and the POTUS. Stand up to POTUS and tell him your priority is flood relief and preparedness, not helping him retain control of the US House of Representatives. Enough is enough!

Jessica Paul, Ms
Self, TXDSHS Molecular Biologist
Austin, TX

I oppose HB 4 regarding the blatant gerrymandering being conducted at the request of president. Our state elected officials have a duty to respond to the needs of Texans not the desires of the president. Breaking up several of these court appointed districts is blatant voter discrimination. Texas deserves fair representation and elected officials that can serve their constituents appropriately. End the gerrymandering and win your offices fair and square.

TeAirra Reese
Self/ Educator
Grand Prairie, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal that silences the voices of Texans of color. As a union member and public school educator in Arlington, Tx I am deeply concerned about any map that reduces fair representation for the very communities that have driven our state’s growth. These proposed maps do not reflect the diversity or the needs of Texas. Every Texan deserves equal representation, and that starts with fair, transparent, and equitable district lines. Our students, our families, and our democracy deserve better.

Thomas Linker
iACT
Austin, TX

As the great State of Texas represents one of the largest representations in Congress, it should be the responsibility of the Texas Legislature to ensure that our representation in Congress fairly represents the various communities within the state. The primary reason for this is that different groups within the state have different needs, be they from rural or urban areas, higher or lower income, or different ethnicities. To strongly favor one segment over the other is to choke off a very basic right, which is enshrined in our founding documents as a nation: the right to be heard by their government to address their needs or "grievances". To scrape together a partisan majority by denying representation to any major segment of Texas is toxic to the exchange of views in Congress. Without a robust exchange of views taking place in Congress, we tilt towards allowing a truly toxic division in our society between those who claim the most power regardless of whether they deserve it, and those who would be left out. In the body politic of a nation, those who are truly left out, those who feel they have nothing to lose, are most likely to turn against the system that is not serving them. History shows us time after time that this is like breeding a cancer that can destroy a nation. It is this writer's earnest belief that the very stability of our society is threatened when any group attempts to wield absolute power over the population. The end result is bad for all concerned, the temporary winners as well. Civil wars are horrible outcomes for nations not willing to overcome serious divisions within a nation. Please do not support the redistricting in this bill.

Robert Jacoby, COO
self
Addison, TX

I am supportive of HB 4. The US Census was not as accurate as I had hoped. Further with massive growth in Texas in certain districts, a redraw of congressional maps is warranted. Texas is growing. This growth needs to be represented accurately.

Thank you.

Michelle Spinell, Mrs
Self
Mckinney, TX

As your constituent and someone deeply invested in preserving the integrity of our democratic process, I respectfully urge you to oppose and speak out against Texas House Bill 4 (HB 4) and similar redistricting measures that undermine local autonomy and distort fair representation.

Core Concerns:

1. Erosion of Local Control HB 4 represents a significant state overreach that preempts the authority of municipalities to govern local matters — including district lines, voting access, and community representation. Local leaders are often more attuned to the demographics, needs, and values of their constituents. This top-down control not only disrespects local governance but creates a dangerous precedent that weakens community self-determination.

2. Partisan Gerrymandering Though redistricting is necessary after the census, HB 4 has resulted in maps that favor one political party disproportionately — despite growing demographic diversity and shifting political attitudes across Texas. Packing and cracking communities of color dilutes their voting power, marginalizes their voices, and violates the spirit, if not the letter, of the Voting Rights Act.

3. Voter Confidence and Democratic Legitimacy When districts are drawn to guarantee outcomes, voters lose trust that their participation matters. Gerrymandering drives polarization, reduces competitiveness, and leads to extreme candidates who are less accountable to a broad base. A healthy democracy requires that elections be meaningful contests — not foregone conclusions engineered through maps.

4. Legal and Constitutional Risks Similar redistricting laws have faced successful legal challenges in the past for violating constitutional protections and federal laws such as the Voting Rights Act. HB 4 exposes Texas to ongoing litigation that wastes taxpayer dollars and undermines the credibility of the legislative process.

5. Missed Opportunity for Reform Rather than doubling down on partisan redistricting, Texas could have followed the lead of other states that established independent redistricting commissions — giving citizens more control and creating maps based on fairness, transparency, and accountability. This approach encourages broader civic engagement and reflects the will of the people, not just political operatives.
In closing, redistricting should be a tool for representation, not manipulation. HB 4 sacrifices the democratic principle of fair and equal representation in favor of short-term political gain. I respectfully ask that you consider the long-termconsequences and advocate for reforms that serve all Texans, regardless of party or zip code.

Stephanie Swanson
Fair Maps Texas
Spicewood, TX

Dear Chair Vasut and Members of the House and Senate Congressional Redistricting Committees,

I have sent to you all via email an expert witness report prepared by Dr. Monica Munoz Martinez on behalf of the Fair Maps Texas plaintiffs for our litigation challenging Texas' 2021 state legislative and congressional district maps. This report examines the history of voting discrimination in Texas against African-American voters, Asian-American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) voters, and Latino voters. It also examines how other types of discrimination against racial and ethnic voters depress their political participation.

I could not attach this document to the House's submission portal, which is why I sent it via email.

Thank you so much for your time,
Stephanie Swanson
Fair Maps Texas

Mary Beth Butler
self
Denton, TX

This is BULLSHIT. I am against this bill.

Idona Griffith
self, retired teacher
Austin, TX

Four weeks ago Texans experienced a devastating flood, which took the lives of hundreds of Texans and left behind millions of dollars in property damage. But instead of addressing relief and recovery, this body has chosen to focus on redistricting -- WHY? Because a 12 year old in the White House is demanding "more votes from Texas". Is this how we do things in Texas now? Have we all become the lap dogs of the federal government? This map wasn't even DRAWN by our legislators or any other Texas, but by the President of the National Republican Redistricting Trust in VIRGINIA, and it clearly was NOT drawn with Texan cummunities in mind. District lines should preserve and protect the needs of the communities within them, and Texans should be electing candidates that reflect the diversity of our state. This map does the absolute OPPOSITE!
This is unacceptable, unconscionable and un-American, and clearly NOT in the best interest of Texans. I call up the elected officials of this great state to STAND UP and SAY 'NO' to the selfish and partisan demands of the White house! Texans deserve the right to decide what is best for us and for our citizens, NOT the federal government, and our Legislators should be leading the charge AGAINST this travesty!

Elva Mendoza
Self, Public Health Social Worker
Austin, TX

Why is the legislature doing the bidding of Donald Trump instead of working to improve the lives of Texans? Mass shootings, devastating floods, maternal mortality, electric grid insecurity, water shortages, lack of affordable housing, underfunded public schools, and stunning numbers of uninsured individuals...these are real problems facing Texans that you are ignoring to rig elections and make it harder for voters to hold lawmakers accountable. The fact that it is legal to gerrymander for political purposes does not make it ethical or right. I hope there is some shred of decency left in those of you supporting this plan to feel the shame of what you are doing. Please reconsider your actions, and their national repercussions, which could include the creation of partisan districts in other states that do not favor your party. And to those of you representatives standing strong against this crooked plan, I applaud and support you.

Anne Holt
self
Blanco, TX

This is blatant gerrymandering!! Just another illegal maneuver from the Republican Party which I used to be a member of and with this version of the Party I will NOT be a member again!

William Pollard
Self
Austin, TX

This redisticting plan has nothing to do with providing fair representation for Texans and everything to do with pleasing one man - Trump - and one faction- MAGA. It’s not one person one vote, it’s one man, all the power I want. Please reject this abomination.

Tina Dunk
Self, TX resident
San Antonio, TX

I do not support this bill and the attempts to redistrict on an off-Census year. The premise for the redrawn map doesn’t align to where the population growth is happening, and the public didn’t ask for this.

Diane Larsen, Mrs
Self
Houston, TX

am firmly opposed to this redistricting effort. The Texas Legislature should focus on establishing the necessary regulations and support to prevent the horrific flooding and deaths which just occurred in Central Texas. You should not be making a mockery of democracy with these shameful, gerrymandered voting maps. They are a disgrace to the notion of democracy. Stop these maps now. Diane Larsen

Vienna Esson
Self - high school student
Austin, TX

My name is Vienna and I am 16 years old. What HB 4 is trying to do is sickening. This bill in its essence is against our democracy. I refuse to stay silent as our government supports bills that suppress votes. Voting is what makes this country a democracy. Even though I am not old enough to vote yet, I will fight for true and honest elections, something this bill will take away. Please, if you have any respect or appreciation for the ideals upon which this country was built, do not vote in favor for HB 4.

Aarya Kanuru
Self, Full-time Student
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this effort by the TX House to carry forward this effort that has the explicit goal of advantaging one political party for future state and federal elections.

Deeply harmful policies being enacted by this U.S. Congress are being enabled by these efforts to change district lines, which in turn are reducing and minimizing the voices of non-White citizens.
Citizens are losing their voices because of these changes.
In the Houston area we are proud of our rich diversity of culture, language, opinion, and background. Our house representatives should broadly mirror this rich diversity and the rich variety of backgrounds and opinions.
An instruction articulated from the President, to replace reliably Democratic-led districts with districts that will be reliably Republican, was then embedded in a statement from the Department of Justice that the current districts are racially discriminatory or biased.
This is DESPITE the fact that in 2021 there was explicit confirmation from the Texas leadership (governor, attorney general) that the maps were not racially biased.
Changes to the TX district lines should be based on DATA and EVIDENCE, not swayed by a politician's or party's personal and political pursuit of power.

Melani Howard
Self/Biologist
San Marcos, TX

I am writing to state that I am in strong opposition to the inclusion of legislation that provides a revised congressional redistricting plan on the Governor's call for a Special Session of the 89th Texas Legislature.
According to the 2020 Census, 95% of population growth in Texas over the prior decade came from communities of color in suburban and urban communities.
What was your thought process when you created these new redistricted maps? According to the 2020 Census, 95% of population growth in Texas over the prior decade came from communities of color in suburban and urban communities. The proposed map does NOT represent these citizens. You have collectively come together to revise districts that will elect the candidate that meets your agenda.
This redistricting proposal is not just a political maneuver—it's a threat to representation, resources, and rights for Black, Brown, Indigenous, immigrant, and working-class communities. When maps are manipulated, it distorts the very foundation of democracy. It silences the voices of those already struggling to be heard. It's about clinging to power at any cost. District lines should preserve and protect the needs of the communities within them, particularly the needs of historically underrepresented minority communities, not bow to the whim of out-of-state political operatives and extreme partisans. Government is at its best when it works to solve the real problems of ordinary people: disaster relief, inflated prices, affordable housing, a living wage, accessible quality health care – and when the voices of all citizens are heard, not just special interests and racially polarized extreme partisans. When the voices of special interests and extreme partisans dominate the political landscape, the needs of ordinary citizens are often overlooked. It's time for us to demand a better future, one where the voices of all citizens are heard and valued.

Marta Kvande
self
Lubbock, TX

I strongly urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. It is quite literally designed to make political representation unfair by reducing the influene of voters who are not white. Everyone's vote should matter. ALL Texans deserve fair representation for our students, our schools, and our communities.

Sally Fiveash
Self
Carrollton, TX

I support the proposed redistricting currently under consideration, as I believe that the redrawn districts will provide more representation of the surrounding areas represented by these changes, and believe that it is inappropriate to maintain districts that were drawn up because they were reported to be coalition districts, as drawing districts under those conditions did not provide the best representation of the members of the district. Please support this redistricting map.

Susan Kania
Self Pantego, TX

Vote No to changing the composition of the districts!! Listen to the people of Texas, not Trump!!!

Cecilia Zuniga, Dr.
Self
Houston, TX

As a resident of Texas I am compelled to strongly dissent to proposed redistricting of Texas (HB 4 by Representative Hunter) without legal challenges that show current districting maps are politically biased. Until the Representatives in our Texas government can show fact-based legal challenges to bias in existing maps, any redistricting efforts must be postponed. Texas must remain a beacon of upholding the balance of powers that keeps our Democratic Republic strong for American citizens.

Deborah Cavin, Ms.
Self - retired
Austin, TX

This is morally repugnant and counter to EVERY principle of democracy. If you—you!—pass it, you're breaking our country.

Dana Zeid
Self
Houston, TX

I am opposed to this Redistricting effort. The Texas Legislature should focus on establishing the necessary regulations and support to prevent the horrific flooding and deaths which just occurred in central Texas. You should not be making a mockery of democracy with these shameful gerrymandering voting maps. They are a disgrace to the notion of democracy. Stop these maps now.

Kirste Reimers
Self, realtor & graphic designer
Houston, TX

I am firmly opposed to this redistricting effort. The Texas Legislature should focus on establishing the necessary regulations and support to prevent the horrific flooding and deaths which just occurred in Central Texas. You should not be making a mockery of democracy with these shameful, gerrymandered voting maps. They are a disgrace to the notion of democracy. Stop these maps now.

Dorcas Hand
self
Houston, TX

I am appalled and angered that Texas Republicans are kowtowing to out of state forces to redistrict off cycle with a goal of stealing future elections and federal House of Representative votes. Texans are known as proud of their independence, but current Texas Republicans are groveling in fear. Your personal integrity is at stake. This effort to break minority areas up so that white votes have a stronger chance to win the day is taking our state backwards to an era I had hoped was history only. You are giving RACISM a voice when we need to do the opposite. Our neighbors of color are just as much citizens as whites are; state prosperity is built on their backs too. Every human who is a legal voter deserves the same voting power and too many of you in the Texas House are working to minimize or even suppress those with which you disagree, especially if their skin or culture differs from yours. You're fine with corn bread and TexMex except in your lawmaking. I want to respect my legislators, but you make it mighty hard.
DO NOT REDISTRICT. Just don't. Stand up for Texas' independence. It's embarrassing to watch you bow in this way.

Jennifer Whidby
Self
Richardson, TX

I'm strongly against gerrymandering in Texas. Fair representation is a cornerstone of a healthy democracy, and manipulating district lines for political advantage undermines the voices of voters. Every Texan deserves to have their vote count equally, regardless of their zip code or political affiliation.

Lu Paschal
Self, Librarian
Dallas, TX

Redistricting does not address any of my concerns as a voting citizen. Affordable housing, cost of living, climate resilience and disaster mitigation, healthcare, gender equality, public education. These are things that really matter, that uplift everyone in this state. Incredibly disappointing to see this going to vote when priorities should be on building a government that supports all of us.

Amanda Norris
Self
Austin, TX

AGAINST

Kim Nowak
Self
Denton, TX

I support HB4 and proposed redistricting map.

Andrew Share, DR.
self
Austin, TX

The current plan for redistricting is undemocratic. The only goal is to make elections less fair. I strongly oppose this style of redistricting. I would support a plan to redistrict if each district was drawn in a way to minimize the edge length of districts, rather than the dogs breakfast shapes of districts that are being proposed.

Josiah West
Panhandle People's Pantry
Amarillo, TX

In light of everything else politically going on in TX I hope this results in the deserved death of the GOP.

Jennifer Austin
Self
Austin, TX

Please represent the people of the state of Texas and do not proceed with this congressional redistricting.

Mary Jane Avery
Self
Burnet, TX

I support HB 4 by Hunter to redistrict and the current proposed redistricted map for fair and greater representation in the delegation from Texas in the United States of America from the State of Texas. Thank you. MJA

Kat Conklin-Collins
Self
Richardson, TX

Texas redrew its maps after the last census, those maps are still be challenged and the state is arguing in favor of the current maps in court. The maps were already drawn in favor of the Republican Party, packing and cracking diverse suburban areas for example, because SCOTUS has affirmed partisan gerrymandering is legal. We also know legal does not always mean moral or ethical. There are reps in N Texas who have constituents in East Texas when those area have different needs. I'm addition you're asking those reps to be able to meet with constituents who are nearly two hours away end to end. And were not talking west Texas that has a much less dense population. This is the increasingly growing areas like Collin County.
The republicans are struggling to actually run on a platform that voters are drawn to, so instead they play cowardly and decide to choose THEIR constituents. Fear should not be the arbiter of OUR reps, but they know an increasing number of Texans disagree with their parties policies. Instead of "manning up" and fighting to be competitive, they continue to show Texans how scared of us they are and try to remove our voices from the important process of choosing OUR reps. We may not have then money of PACs and Super PACs but the state & national republicans are SCARED of civically educated Texans. I won't ask you to do the "right" thing because there are plenty in the state legislature that will completely disagree with me on what is "right," but as a citizen I believe this rarely attempted mid-decade redistributing is wrong ad it benefits a few who ALREADY have power but are too scared of us. I do ask that you listen to the outrage & frustration of citizens who simply what districts that are actually competitive so we have reps who will fight & engage for US and not the big money & lobbies behind them.

Kathy Alloway
Self
San Antonio, TX

HB4 is blatant attempt to steal more votes in our state already seriously gerrymandered. I'll be watching and praying that Congresspeople with love of democracy, integrity, courage, and conscience win out in this dishonest battle for Texas votes.

Valarie Gold
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting as it is not a fair representation of the State of Texas. Gov. Abbott's call for a mid-decade redraw of some of Texas' congressional maps is clearly an attempt at gerrymandering to help his political party. If approved, the congressional redisctricting will lead to a poor and inaccurate political representation of Texans including myself and our community.

Charlene Ledbetter self; entreprenuer
Fort Worth, TX

It's a sad day when I realize how ashamed I am to be a Texan. Laughed at and ridiculed by the rest of the world as idiots. How can I blame them? DO NOT KOWTOW to the old-white-man's fear and racism and power-mongering. Don't you want to sleep at night, knowing you have integrity? That you've been responsible to ALL the people, and not just the one's that look like you? Redistricting Texas is ridiculous and you know it. Taking away from those who need it. You should be ashamed. Who are you fooling? No one. You will see a huge backlash from your idolatry at Trump and Abbott's feet. Elected officials are beholden and accountable to the public and you will reap what you are sowing. Can't wait to vote you all out.

Ian Strain-Seymour, Mr
self
Austin, TX

Honestly, you should be ashamed of yourselves. This whole off cycle redistricting is a danger to our democracy, which you have sworn to uphold. Setting the precedent for redistricting between cycles is yet another step towards removing the rule of law in our great state and country.

I don't understand how you can look yourselves in the mirror. I would love to hear you explain this to your grandparents and your grandchildren. How is this different the tyrannies like the USSR and the Nazis that we have struggled against in the past?

Do better!

Cheryl Lehman
self
Emory, TX

I support HB 4

Sonia Merubia
self
Austin, TX

I am against any kind of redistricting at this time because it is an effort to gain more Republican seats in the Congress.

David Park
self
Carrollton, TX

I would encourage members to reject the new redistricting in HB 4. This partisan gerrymandering of congressional districts is a transparent attempt to secure power for Republican Party at the expense of the effective representation of Texans. When political parties gerrymander districts for purely political reasons they are intentionally marginalizing the voices of Texans whose voices they do not want heard. In this case, and historically throughout the history of the United States of America, the voices that are marginalized and silenced are voices of color and the poor. As a Christian I follow a person who chose to set aside and lay down the power that was in his possession to be in solidarity with the marginalized and poor. Whether the Texas republicans can legally gerrymander the districts to advantage the Republican Party and President Trump is not the issue. For me it is a question of Christian ethics whether one should systematically disenfranchise a racial group and the poor. The answer to the Christian should be no. Therefore I encourage the committee and the House to vote against the redistricting.

Joe C Garza
Myself
San Marcos, TX

As a lifelong Texan I am against the proposed redistricting which will create 5 new districts which favor the dilution of democratic votes in favor of 5 districts that favor republican and promote the republican agenda.

Melissa Fender
Self
Grand Prairie, TX

I just said I want my voice to be heard & that I STRONGLY object to the this!!
DO NOT DO THIS!!

Mady Kaye
self, musician
Austin, TX

Redistricting is unAmerican. It directly benefits those in power who wish to remain in power and wish to benefit the rich, their cronies.
George Washington is whirling in his grave. Shame on all of you who kiss Trump's bottom, shame.

Vicki Bowman, MS
self/ Registered Nurse
Pflugerville, TX

Have any of you read the Constitution of the United States? Maybe you all should review this document! The redistricting is a big disgrace! The Constitution "assigns the CONGRESS responsibility for organizing the executive and judicial branches, raising revenue, declaring war, and making all laws necessary for executing these powers." I find no where in the Constitution that you are allowed to take the "wishes" of one individual into account to change laws This is a constitution " Of the People, By the People and For the People. Thus far I have witness the whims of one individual who has decided by himself that "He" needs additional congressional seats and has imposed his centralized autocratic government, much like a dictatorial leader to get what he wants. This is not Democracy, this is Fascism! The Office of the President has been disgraced! He is a convicted Felon who has not the right to be in that office. When you are convicted of a crime in the US, you are to loose your right to vote, possess firearms, serve on a jury, hold public office. What happen to that judicial process? Now you are working to Cheat the system to obtain what this individual wants due to his falling poll ratings. Please be clear, what you are doing is against the Constitution of the United States! I never thought I'd see the day when I would be ashamed of the people in office who are responsible for maintaining the rights and freedoms of the American people. What you are doing is disgraceful!! When did the Republican party become the Fascist Republican Party?

Kathryn Farries
Self
The Woodlands, TX

I support the redistricting to create 5 new districts in Texas

Kasye Palmer, Ms.
Self
Richardson, TX

Texas is already one of the most gerrymandered states in the country and you have somehow figured out a way to make it even worse. Redistricting should not be done in between census years unless a very large shift in the population has occurred. Redrawing these districts in such a hurried, unprepared manner, when the current map is already under a lawsuit is just irresponsible. I cannot believe how many republicans are kowtowing to Donald Trump. We are Texans. Stand up and fight for what is right, which isn't a haphazardly redrawn district map just to appease the current president. Earn your votes, don't gerrymander them even more than they already are.

Caroline Kofstad
Self
Denton, TX

"I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map."

Thomas Heathman
self
San Marcos, TX

I am adamantly opposed to redistricting Texas for the purpose to keep Republicans in power at the Federal Level. I believe the current administration and the Republican House and Senate have done more in the last 6 months to ruin this country than anyone has ever done before. I am a veteran and land owner in Texas and I will do everything I can to stop this redistricting and I urge you do the same. Remember that people will remember who votes for this bill and vote accordingly in the next elections.

John Close
Self/furniture sales
San Antonio, TX

How could anyone with morals, ethics or a heart vote yes for this?! If voting yes, that means that you're going backwards for what our country is all about. Everyone should be treated equal in our country. And we should have equal representation. If this bill is passed, I worry for my grandchildren to grow up watching this country become a dictatorship. I can't predict the future, but I can guarantee to you that in 20, 40, or 60 years from now that history books will write about an embarrassing time it was for our country. Voting yes means you will be apart of that history. If you even read this, thank you for your time. God bless all of us, Texas and the country. We need help.

Rosie Taylor, Mrs.
Self: Retired Nurse Educator (Christian faith)
Dallas, TX

I would urge the committee to think carefully about the implications of this proposed bill for ALL CITIZENS of Texas, as well your rationale for supporting it. It will definitely disadvantage the citizens of our state and it is absolutely immoral and unjust to the citizens of Texas.
Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Arian Augustus
Self - IT Support
Dallas, TX

I'm a constituent living in Dallas, TX. I am strongly opposed to redrawing thr congressional district maps. Republicans under the current political system have done enough damage. I want to see fairly drawn maps that represent all Texans, and all ideas but especially more progressive ones. I don't think the country is headed in the right direction under Republican leadership, and I d think redrawing the map to give Republicans 5 more seats will have terrible downline effects. If anything, if the maps are changing I agree with Representative James Talarico that's if we're redrawing the maps, it should be done by Texans in Texas and not someone in DC.

Mary Selby
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support HB4 and I think this is suppressing the voice of all Texans. This is a power grab and is not aligned with the democratic process. Do what Texans deserve and want.

Amy Hunt
Self: marketing consultant
Dallas, TX

Against

Danielle Buck, Mrs
Self
Benbrook, TX

I agree

Celina Oliveira, Dr.
Self / Laredo Constituent
Laredo, TX

I completely disagree with this redistricting in Texas.

Mark Vandine
Self
Lufkin, TX

This is illegal voter suppresion and in democratic.

Grace Fremuth Teacher
Austin, TX

This is blatant corruption and crime. Look at the map. What are these shapes ?! Texas is a diverse state. Most of it votes republican. Is that not enough? A dominating bully has to pick on the someone half their size? For decades Texas has dealt fine with Austin area rightfully representing its own. It's unconstitutional to split up a community and essentially making people who live here have no one that actually represents them. If you vote yes, how do you sleep at night? What is your blood pressure? How do you look people in the eye? The fact that this is what our government is taking its time to discuss rather than matters actually facing our state is despicable.

Leslie Bullion
Self
Arlington, TX

The proposed redistricting plan is outrageous. I strongly oppose this effort. The people of Texas should be fairly represented. This plan does not allow for we the people to be represented. Texas is not just a state full of Republicans. We have a diverse electorate and the districts should reflect that. I oppose this plan.

Gary Hopkins
Chair Pct. 37 Smith County
Tyler, TX

As a Pct. Chair for Smith county. I am asking our legislature to fully support HB 4. As has been noted by officials, the current districts drawn in 2021 were based on the 2020 census, which was officially noted as flawed, undercounting many states, including Texas. It is time to get this corrected! We can do this by supporting HB 4. I call on our legislature to vote for HB 4 and truly represent the great state of Texas! Thank you.

Marquette Greene-Scott
Self
Iowa Colony, TX

I am a resident of CD22. You all are moving us to CD14 in an effort to silence us. I am Mayor Pro Tem for the city of Iowa Colony. We are a vibrant and fast growing city. To lump us the way you're doing is an effort to silence our voices. I was also the Democratic nominee for CD 22. You have drawn me out of my district. This is blatant and racist attempt to take our voices and right to representation away. But y'all portray yourselves as Christian. Your actions are not Christ like at all. I serve a mighty God who sees all. Please remember that.

Douglas Lies
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I stand in support of the HB4 redistricting bill.

Wynne Prager
Self
Austin, TX

It seems to me that this is only happening because of Dinald Trump’s wishes. He cares nothing fir the people of Texas who will be made voiceless because of this bill. He cares only about power, and it seems our Texas legislature joins him in only caring about power. This nakedly political power grab will have repercussions far beyond the borders of Texas. I fear for our democracy.

Sabrina Salazar
Self
Del Valle, TX

This is not a fair map. Please do not go through with this gerrymandering.

Flora Gill, Ms.
Self
houston, TX

I disagree with the redistricting plan. Already, before this redistricting, The Princeton Gerrymander Survey gave these Texas districts an F https://gerrymander.princeton.edu/redistricting-report-card/?planId=recL5EF85h0ILukMA. There were only 2 competitive districts in the whole state, while a lot of voters live in precincts that are close to 50/50 including my own. It also got an F for compactness, and I wonder if there is a grade lower than F, because these districts are way less compact than before. In a perfect world, I wish we had an independent redistricting group that had equal representation of dems/republicans/and non-partisan types. I worry that this new map will disadvantage spanish speaking minorities (who were in texas before we were, incidentally). In the new map it seems you added a big spanish speaking area that was represented by Al Green and now they'll be represented by Brian Babin. CD36 is currently about 50% rural and white. Of course this new spanish speaking area is in just low enough numbers and low incomes that they could not single-handedly win in that district even if they found a spanish speaking candidate to run. I know many republicans were proud that they won over latinos in the last election, but I feel you are already taking them for granted with this new map. It is like saying, "thanks for your vote! Now we'll deport your grandma and gerrymander you out of your district." Cynically, because of state wide gerrymandering, this will very likely pass - even though it will make the republican races a little tiny bit less safe. I did notice that while you gave CD 36 a little more democrats in harris county and in beaumont, you added Lufkin to Babin's district. I think he used to be mayor there, so I guess you really really really want to keep him blindly doing the bidding for the big oil companies and trump. Additionally Lufkin has some strong KKK history (https://lufkindailynews.com/news/local/exhibit-traces-origins-of-kkk-in-angelina-county/article_23605463-6e35-5d48-ae55-67fc9436a798.html), so It might be hard for any minority candidate to even travel to that area safely. It is so obvious that this power grab is removing power for the people and giving it to the businesses that pay the republicans. I think that even rural voters are getting the short end of the stick because they have totally different needs (and sometimes opposing needs) than suburban and city voters that they are getting lumped in with. Please do not take the unusual move of gerrymandering the state mid-census. Just wait 5 years! I can only hope that this spectacularly backfires on the TX GOP.

Laura Gallier
self-retired CPA
Houston, TX

Oppose this mid-census redistricting, which is not necessary and not wanted. I listened to the public comments; Texans are overwhelmingly opposed to this rushed, opaque, unnecessary racist action. Once the proposed maps were drawn, we only got 48 hours' notice before the hearing. But we made time to study them; they were clearly and obviously drawn to dismantle Black and Brown political power in Texas' biggest cities. This is an overt attempt to erase Black and Brown representation with surgical racist precision. I urge you to stop these racist maps that dilute Black and Brown political power. I am a white lifelong Texan and I'm appalled at this brazen attempt to turn back the clock to disenfranchise our Black and Brown neighbors to consolidate white power. It is an incorrect interpretation of Petteway to conclude that the congressional maps as currently drawn are inconsistent with the Voting Rights Act, which addressed barriers to electoral participation, including poll taxes, literacy tests, intimidation and harrassment of people attempting to vote. The DOJ is wrongly advising Texas to redraw districts which Trump considers racially gerrymandered, just weeks after the conclusion of a trial over Texas' current maps, in which representatives for the state argued repeatedly that a race-blind process was used to draw the boundaries of the existing districts. Now suddenly Abbott expresses concerns that some districts were drawn "along strict racial lines", and coincidentally, these are all majority-minority districts, historic districts led by people of color with distinction for generations. This is blatant racism and pandering to the Trump Administration. The people of Texas - white, Black and Brown - deserve better. We deserve for you to be able to hold a thought and position for more than a few weeks, especially about something as crucial as the congressional maps so soon before we vote to fill a vacant seat in CD 18, of which I am a constituent. Say NO to mid-census redistricting; wait until 2030.

Michael Fladmark
Self, consultant renewable energy
Tool, TX

Texas republicans on this committee and statewide, whether vocal or silent, should be ashamed and be publicly rebuked for agreeing to redistrict Texas congressional districts mid-decade from a president asking to you to remap to obtain at least five more seats to solidify republican majority control of the Texas congressional delegation and the US congress. Texans not republicans are fighting back from the grass roots and will defeat you at the ballot box even with the gerrymandering, and your initiative will not be successful in the long run. You have awaked the sleeping giant of Texas non-voters who have finally had enough of losing their rights and freedoms. To the republicans on this committee your actions have awakened and emboldened Democratically led states to move forward to redistrict their states. You will lose!! This mid-decade gerrymandering action in Texas is at its base level racist, unconstitutional, and immoral justified by the over 3500 testimonials submitted to your 3 public hearings strongly not supporting redistricting. The virtual Texas senate hearings testimonies submitted were just as strong in not supporting redistricting. So we now have your map drafted outside Texas giving the president what he wants and now we all know the truth of your backroom actions. You are on the wrong side of history and your legacy will not be a kind one. So if you republicans on this committee have not figured it out yet - I am strongly opposed to redistricting mid-term and so go eff yourselves!! To my Democratic members on this committee - thank you for your continued voices speaking truth to power - and do what needs to be done in unity by standing up and stepping out to fight this action. We have your backs!

Margaret Lalk
self, retired attorney
Austin, TX

As a proud Texan and a voter, I am appalled and scared, yes scared, by this blatant power grab. The current redistricting bill does not reflect the best interest of Texans. We need a non-partisan group drawing fair districts which will allow the wishes of ALL Texans to be addressed in Congress. The wishes of hundreds of thousands of citizens will be disregarded by the current attempt to redraw the voting map.

Annette Langford
Self
Round Rock, TX

I strongly oppose Texas' proposed congressional redistricting map, which undermines fair representation and disproportionately harms communities of color. This plan is a transparent partisan power grab, designed to silence voters by dismantling competitive districts and diluting minority voting strength—especially in Austin

The map intentionally fractures communities of color, packing Black and Latino voters into fewer districts while spreading Republican voters into Democratic-held areas. These changes violate the Voting Rights Act, prioritizing political gain over equitable representation. The fact that 30 of 38 districts would now favor Trump by double-digit margins—despite Texas' rapidly diversifying population—exposes this as an undemocratic scheme to rig future elections.

I ask that you reject this discriminatory map and commit to a transparent, nonpartisan redistricting process that respects all Texans—not just one party's agenda. Our democracy deserves better.

Robert Ray
Self--Retired
Waco, TX

I hope that the people involved in this redistricting have integrity, courage, and honesty. They need to show that they believe in true Democracy and act accordingly--rather than to feel that they have to lick the boots of the President or Governor. Stand on your own integrity, people! You are to represent the PEOPLE as a whole--not the power-hungry and greedy! Do not feel that you have to cheat to win.

Kim Sturman
GOP Precinct 1050
Red Oak, TX

Please approve

Jason Cody
Self Engineer
Garland, TX

As a resident of District 32 I am opposed to this redistricting effort. This redistricting is a blatant power grab and the unjustified. This is nothing more than an effort to silence the voices of the voters in these existing districts and to remove their elected representatives. Let the voters choose their representatives and not the other way around.

Scarlett Luedecke
Self
Austin, TX

The United States of America is a democracy. We vote for the representatives who embody our values, needs, and communities. The GOP's attempt to cut this representation by redistricting the State of Texas is an attack on democracy. The needs of our communities come before the wants of Billionaires. It is the responsibility of our House Representatives, both Republicans and Democrats, to protect the constitutional rights of Texans, not exploit them for political gain.

Darcy Goff, Ma
Precinct 211
Austin, TX

Please vote NO.

Shelley Dennis, Mrs.
Self - music instructor, non-profit executive director
Temple, TX

The redistricting is not in the best interest of all citizens of the state of Texas. We need to protect all people and their right to representation.

JANIS REINKEN, Ms.
SELF/ATTORNEY
Austin, TX

What Texans need now are elected officials of integrity who are determined to UPHOLD the Texas Constitution and the United States Constitution. The Texas House and Senate should NOT CAVE IN to the MANIPULATION and INTIMIDATION tactics being used by the current U.S. Department of Justice Attorney General and Civil Rights Division, as stated in the letter dated July 7 2025 addressed to Greg Abbott and Ken Paxton. This is a blatant attempt to THREATEN the State into taking actions contrary to the Constitution and Laws. It sounds all too similar to that infamous phone call placed on January 2, 2021 by the president to Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger, urging him to find 11,780 votes in order to overturn the state's election results from the 2020 presidential election. Thankfully, Raffensperger had the fortitude and integrity to refuse.
MAKE NOTE and REMEMBER that the Bill of Rights under Article 1 of the Texas Constitution requires in Sec. 3a: "EQUALITY UNDER THE LAW. Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex, race, color, creed, or origin. This amendment is self-operative. (Added Nov. 7, 1972.)" https://statutes.capitol.texas.gov/Docs/CN/htm/CN.1.htm. In addition, the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution, Section 1 requires: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." https://constitution.congress.gov/constitution/amendment-14/
I strongly urge the Texas Senate and House to REJECT HB 4 and any other mid-decade redistricting plans, for many reasons: a) the Legislature should abide by the Texas Constitution and the U.S. Constitution, and prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided, thus weakening their political voices and diluting their votes; b) the current maps are still being challenged in court; c) there is no new U.S. Census data to use for redrawing congressional maps; and d) ALL Texans deserve a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and designed to result in fair representation for all. To suggest that redistricting can be done at any time without waiting for new Census data is like moving the goalposts at will, to rig the outcome of the game.
The Texas Legislature should not pursue this rushed and deeply flawed redistricting process. Keep in mind that Texas has a long history of racial gerrymandering and discriminatory voting practices. Instead of spending time on redistricting now, the Legislature should make flood recovery efforts and the safety of Texans the highest priority of this Special Session and any future Special Sessions.

Sara Chavez
Self
Corinth, TX

This will take away the voice of so many voters. It is very unfair for those people to not have appropriate representation from people that actually reflect the constituents served by that district. Please don't change anything to please outside forces. Texas is supposed to be for the people, not outside tyrants.

Tracy Wuster, Dr.
Self, Professor
Austin, TX

I am writing in opposition to HB 4 and any attempt to redistrict the great State of Texas. This is a bald power grab instigated by out-of-state interests and foisted upon the people. This is swampy and political in the worst way. The people of Texas deserve fair representation rather than political games. And the people of the Texas deserve politicians who will focus on what is important, such as flood safety and school funding.

Karen Keith
Self
Denton, TX

I am in favor of the redistricting of congressional districts.

Kia Biller
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Kia Biller. I'm a Texas resident living in Austin.

I am here today to testify against unfair redistricting. I am currently represented by Congressman Lloyd Doggett in District 37, but because of the convoluted redrawing of that district specifically impacting NW Austin that representation is now unclear. I heard Representatives talk about the current shape /gerrymandering of District 35, but I would argue that has now been redone with the "cracks" through my current district.

Just a little background to reflect my love and loyalty for Texas and Texans. I grew up in a small town and came to Austin to attend UT. I spent summers exploring Texas with my family and given the vast size of our State STILL spend multiple weekends a year exploring the people, culture, and history of around TEXAS. And because of my love of this state and all of our residents black, white, Hispanic and all others, I believe it is imperative that representation directly reflects the constituents in alignment with their populations.

As Representative Manuel asked in today's committee hearing and on the minds of many of us here today believe this redistricting is in response to or as retaliation against our strong leaders that are standing up against the current administration. We deserve to be represented by these leaders that will stand up for Texas, like Greg Casar, Jasmine Crockett, Al Green, and Lloyd Doggett whom have proven they give their constituents a VOICE and representation.

It has become clear that some in this state would rather cater to a person who does not reflect TEXAN values and whose fear of being recognized in the near future as the biggest LOSER is more important than reflecting the diversity of people that make my home state of TEXAS great.

Texas only wins with equal representation and voice. I strongly believe that if you have to CHEAT to win, you are still a LOSER. A better TEXAS and true Winner in all of this would be to oppose this map and for true representation propose fair districts for representation of ALL Texans.

Ashley Davis
Self
Dallas, TX

Opposed to the redistricting. Vote down.

Alison Shelton
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Alison Shelton, and I live in Austin 78758. I'm writing to urge you to stand against the proposed redistricting maps being pushed through the Legislature. These maps appear designed to entrench partisan power rather than represent the real diversity and needs of our communities.
We deserve fair, transparent, and community-centered district lines—not ones that silence voters or split communities. I'm especially concerned about how these changes will impact Austin's representation in Congress and the Legislature.
Please use your voice and vote to:

- Oppose gerrymandered or rushed maps,
- Push for public input and transparency,
- Support long-term redistricting reform like an independent commission.

Thank you for your leadership and for representing our district.

Sarah Herzer
Self
Austin, TX

Y’all Texas Republicans are really nasty for this. How does Trump’s boot taste, you boot lickers? Jesus is not going to be proud of you when you meet him now… He will not be telling you, “Well done, good and faithful servant.” You are servants of evil. Please refresh yourselves on the Sermon on the Mount instead of being obsessed with every word that comes out of Donald Trump. You are not bearing good fruit. Please reconsider your entire lives and turn to Jesus. Come on now.

Feldon Bonner II, Minister; Qualified Candidate for CD-18
Self; Qualified Candidate for CD-18 Special Election
Houston, TX

JOINT RESOLUTION/EXECUTIVE ORDER
To Recognize and Install Feldon Bonner II as the Interim Advocate and Designated Community Representative for Texas Congressional District 18 Pending the Special Election
WHEREAS,
The United States Constitution (Article I, Section 2) provides that when vacancies occur in the House of Representatives, the executive authority of the state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies; and
A vacancy currently exists in Texas Congressional District 18, leaving its constituents without direct representation in the U.S. House of Representatives; and Feldon Bonner II has fulfilled the legal requirement for candidacy by filing and paying the mandatory $3,125.00 fee to be placed on the ballot for the Special Election to fill the vacancy for Congressional District 18, as confirmed by the Office of the Texas Secretary of State; and
The principles of representative democracy require that the citizens of all congressional districts — including those historically underrepresented — not be deprived of representation, voice, or advocacy during the redistricting process or while urgent federal matters are underway; and
It is in the public interest and constitutional spirit of equity and representation to ensure that no constituency is left voiceless in matters of federal engagement, policy discussions, or congressional redistricting hearings; and
Other states have previously installed interim representatives, advocates, or liaisons in extraordinary or emergency circumstances to uphold the interests of the electorate during representation gaps;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED/ORDERED:
SECTION 1. INSTALLATION OF INTERIM REPRESENTATIVE
Feldon Bonner II is hereby installed and publicly recognized as the Interim Liaison, Community Advocate, and De Facto Congressional District 18 Representative for the State of Texas, empowered to represent the public and political interests of Congressional District 18 before all state and federal authorities, committees, and agencies.
SECTION 2. SCOPE OF AUTHORITY
This designation authorizes Feldon Bonner II to:
- Engage with U.S. Congressional committees and submit public policy recommendations on behalf of District 18;
- Represent District 18 constituents during state-level and federal redistricting proceedings;
- Advocate for federal legislative, appropriations, and civil rights matters affecting the district;
- Testify in official hearings or forums as the community voice of District 18;
- And coordinate with federal, state, and local agencies in a recognized liaison capacity.
SECTION 3. DURATION
This resolution/order shall remain in effect until the certified winner of the Special Election for Texas Congressional District 18 is sworn into office by the U.S. House of Representatives, unless rescinded or amended by further legislative or executive action.

Betty Curry, Ms
Self
EL PASO, TX

I strongly disagree with the redistricting of El Paso voters to be represented by someone possibly from a large distance from the issues and needs of our area. Whether Republican or Democratic, we have the right to local representation and this is just a ploy to remove our voice in what our borderland needs

Juan Alarcon, Mr
Self - realtor
El paso, TX

Need local representation!
Not representation from someone who is 600 miles away from our district.

Kimberly Meyer
Self/Admin Assistant
Austin, TX

This redistricting model is unacceptable. It is a direct assault on the right to fair representation.

Taylor Dodson
Self
El Paso, TX

I can't help but feel like this change is a concentrated effort to reduce or scatter the representation of El Paso residents in our government; this is not acceptable to me and many people like me. Do not proceed with this map.

Julian Martinez, Jr
Self
El Paso, TX

Our community should be represented by someone who lives here in El Paso, Texas.

Rachel Murphree
Self
EL PASO, TX

We in El Paso deserve LOCAL representation by people who understand our unique issues and concerns. This fight happened before and we are again demanding that fort bliss, the VA Medical center and so much more STAY in the hands if the people who know us best, not tacked in to a San Antonio rep who regularly voted against our interest. Please do not allow this redistricting to happen. Thank you

Kathleen Anderson
Self
El Paso, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting in Texas that would affect my district as well as others. I do not want representation by individuals that do not live in my district. This is a purely partisan effort to dilute votes and I am vehemently opposed to it.

Samir Al-Tabbaa
Self
El Paso, TX

Don’t change the map

Mark Ellis, Mr
Self
West Lake Hills, TX

This is a pathetic power grab.

WILLIAM KILGORE, Mr
Self, Volunteer
Lakeway, TX

Governor Abbott has asked the Texas Legislature to draw new district maps in this special session. His motivation for doing so is clear. Donald Trump has asked for Abbott's help to maintain a Republican majority in Congress in the mid-term elections of 2026. Trump wants Abbott to refine and improve the gerrymandered districting of the congressional districts in order to give one political party an unfair election advantage. We must recognize this for what it is: cheating. Although partisan gerrymandering is not illegal, it is cheating as any kindergartener could affirm. Gerrymandering insulates elected officials from all their constituents except those few who are primary voters in their same party. But we say, Democrats also gerrymander when they are in power. Also true. But any kindergartener can also tell us that two wrongs do not make a right, and the excuse that "Johnny did it, too" is not an excuse. Republicans in Congress successfully defeated both the John Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act and the Freedom to Vote Act in 2022, both designed to make voting more accessible and fair.

The citizens of Texas have not called for redistricting, which normally happens on a ten year cycle following a national census. The only purpose to redraw the maps now is to cheat on the coming elections. How our elected officials vote on the redistricting proposal will be a measure of their character.

Kathleen Bombach, Ms
Self Retired
El Paso, TX

I am strongly opposed to the Republican map for redistricting our Congressional representatives. Districts should contain contiguous communities, not stretch from El Paso to San Antonio. This is not what the Founders envisioned. Just because Trump commands doesn't mean the state legislature has to obey. You answer to us, not the very unpopular Trump.

Andrew Forsythe, Mr
self (retired)
Spicewood, TX

My understanding is that the only reason this unusual mid-decade redistricting proposal was added to the Special Session agenda is because Pres. Trump called the Governor and demanded it.

There was a time when Texas Republicans fiercely guarded their independence and were all about "state's rights". But today, when Donald Trump calls from Washington, they're apparently willing to make a U-turn and not only take this up, but make it their #1 priority.

Haven't we had enough of this partisan gerrymandering? Do Republicans really fear they have to go to these extreme measures in order to win elections? This is a vicious cycle and will only beget more of the same across the nation, inviting Democrats to do the same and "fight fire with fire".

We don't need this. Please devote yourselves to something that truly merits your attention: aiding the flood victims of Central Texas.

Thank you.

Benjamin Zavala
Self
El Paso, TX

This is an absolute grab for maintaining power and nothing is gained from Texas residents by this passing. It will pass since there seems to be an absolute need to try and please the current man sitting in the oval office. It will be interesting to see how many representatives will start to retire or flee the country once there is no longer a majority of republicans in the state and in the federal government.

Michele Beckley, COO

Merlot Corporation and self

El Paso, TX

To whom it may concern,

As part of an international business that has grown, shrunk, and stands to grow again, we have headquartered in various parts of town. We always knew we could count on reps at the Dept. of Commerce and and Rep. Veronica Escobar. At our largest we operated out of a large warehouse near the airport and hope to do so again.

We would want those same members as resources. We don't trust a rep headquartered in San Antonio to care about what we need. It's bad enough that our two Senators (at the federal level) don't even have offices in El Paso. We are a unique community, combined with Cd. Juarez and we deserve and need to have representation by people who live with us and sincerely care about us. I

I also serve on an early childhood education board and we are working with Rep. Escobar's office on some items for a conference and future community needs.

Changing that representation now strips us of all we have built. It is not in our best interest.

Anna Jewula

Self

EL PASO, TX

I firmly oppose rede structural ization in El PASo Tx where I live for the purpose to just gain house seats and not care about people living in El Paso

Holly Borel

self

Beaumont, TX

I am AGAINST the redistricting that is proposed currently. It is a blatant attempt by this administration to manipulate to steal the voices of Texans by gerrymandering additional republican seats. As my representative, I expect you to vote against it, or else you can expect me to vote you out of office at the next election.

Lana Lesley self, dog trainer
Austin, TX

I am opposed to redistricting Texas at the behest of President Trump, and with the goals of gaining five seats in the House of Representatives and retaining control of all three branches of government.

You have an opportunity to do the right thing by saying no. Or better yet, by correcting the gerrymandering you did in 2021.

In just 7 months, the Trump administration has undermined our democratic republic almost beyond repair, and Abbott, with your help, has been preempting Executive Orders and gleefully stripping civil rights from Texans. Consternation isn't enough. Being appalled isn't enough. Just following orders is complicity.

I'm sure there are moments when you all feel remorse at what you've watched or allowed or in fact made happen. Can you feel empathy for people being torn from their loved ones and falsely imprisoned; for people who have lost access to food and essential medical care; for people who are forced to risk their lives to give birth; for people who are raped and forced to carry a child to term? I am lucky. I'm too old to get pregnant. My ID matches my birth certificate. I'm white. I have some savings. Even with all that privilege, I feel you coming for me, so I can't imagine what people more vulnerable than I am are feeling, how they are surviving the sheer terror being inflicted on them. Why spend your days harming other people - people who literally cause you no harm and who have never harmed you?
How is that a way to live, making life harder for your constituents?

The very least you can do in this moment is to say no. to choose not to abet taxation without representation.
But imagine how good it would feel to have done everything in your power to love and care for the least of us, your brothers and sisters.
Thank you.

Lisa Cauley
Self
El Paso, TX

I've been a lifelong Texan. When I left El Paso I lived in Houston then Dallas until I came back home because of the racism in those areas. This type of hate is now all over the state. Republicans have simply ruined everything about our communities. Our roads are undriveable, workers have no rights and the republican party blames it on immigrants which people sadly believe. Now you want to consolidate even more power to make the citizens in our community bow down to the interests of people that don't live here, frankly hate the racial makeup of our community, and have no idea about what issues affect us. Clearly none of these concerns are yours. Democrats don't seem to want to move the needle either but let me be blunt. No taxation without representation was a rallying cry during the revolution. We in El Paso pay some of the highest property taxes in the state. How well will state coffers fare without our money? We can buy our goods elsewhere, we can refuse to pay property taxes we can do a lot of things to hurt you, and you need to keep in mind we have had less and less to lose because of your policies already. You need us more than we need you. Equitable districts are not only good policy but they are the law. You all may not care about the law but you will when the shoe is on the other foot. Again you need us more…

JAVIER GOMEZ, DR
SELF
EL PASO, TX

I BELIEVE THAT RE-DISTRICTING IN THIS BILL IS GOING TO PUT EL PASO,TX. AT A MAJOR DISADVANTAGE. AFTER HAVING HAD SIGNIFICANT A PROVISION OF NEEDS IN OUR CITY, THE CONSEQUENCES OF RE-DISTRICTING AND HAVING A REPRESENTATIVE WHO IS NOT FAMILIAR WITH THIS REGION IS GOING TO REDUCE THE ADEQUATE ATTENTION THAT EL PASO HAS BEEN RECEIVING. PLEASE DO NOT PASS THIS BILL!!!

T A Hadersbeck
Self, retired
El Paso, TX

Redistricting to benefit any political party at the expense of the constituents of the area is a very poor way to govern, our representatives are supposed to support the interests of the majority of citizens of the specific demographic of that area

Tory Meyer
self
AUSTIN, TX

Another redistricting effort by Republicans to rig the results of future elections and disenfranchise as many fellow Texans as they can, is sad and so depressing. Are you that depraved?! Are you so much against the Constitution and the representative democratic principles in our system of government that you have to twist and mangle subpopulations of our state to eek out more power for yourselves? Are you such spineless acolytes of Trump that despite knowing what an anti-Christ figure he is, that you bow to his every whim? How appalling. You should be ashamed of yourselves and if there is a God, he will hold you ultimately accountable for the multiple travesties of justice that you have undertaken in the quest of your own power and subservience of a false idol like Trump.

Ryan Mullenix
Self
El Paso, TX

Resources utilized for congressional redistricting would be of better use elsewhere. In these uncertain times I need my House of Representatives to focus on matters that actually affect their constituents. The House should be a voice for the people and not political parties. Work to make Texas the best state in the country. Improve our elder care. Improve our education. Improve our social care. Focus on the roads and city infrastructure. Focus on what matters.

James Lambeth
Self
El Paso, TX

I am totally for redistricting.

Aiden Arevalo
Self/Student
McAllen, TX

Shame. Shame upon all "Republicans" in our respectable legislative body who bowed down before D.C. politics, and the corrupted Governor and Lieutenant Governor of our great State. If you supported this legislation, let it be known that you are not worthy of your power. You do not possess the values of an American, nor those of a Texan. Not only will these redistricting efforts backfire in Texas alone, but should this pass, blue states can and will retaliate, making these futile efforts meaningless when other red states do not have the populations or the amounts of seats to make up for it. If you pass this bill, not only will you have betrayed Texas and the very foundations of our great Democracy, you will have done it all for nothing except the endorsement of our President. A proven rapist, a friend of Epstein, a racist, a convicted felon, a scam artist, a loser. Shame. Shame upon you all.

Robin McShaffry self, stagehand
Austin, TX

Do not vote for this terrible redistricting. Voters select their representatives, not the other way around. This is a blatant power grab and will not be allowed.

Sharon Tryon
Self
Waxahachie, TX

In agreement with the map, do not deviate from it with the five redistrict Republican areas

Brandon Mitchell
Self
Houston, TX

We do not need this in Texas. It is a waste of Time and Resources

Madelyn Bowman
Self
Arlington, TX

To the membership of the House Special Redistricting committee. My name is Madelyn Petty Bowman. I am writing this comment today to strongly oppose the proposed mid-decade off-cycle Redistricting plan. I am currently in District 6. I teach a college class about Texas politics and I teach my students about the Voting Rights Act of 1965. The events that led to this act being passed and its necessity are well documented. These included racial discrimination in voting and violence against individuals who simply requested fairness in the voter registration, apportionment, and voting process. The names of those who perpetrated these horrors are recorded. I fear that some of you are in danger of having your names written beside theirs. I urge you not to be myopic. Things will not always be as they are. Please do not sacrifice morality for short-term gain. I am already buried deep in a District that silences my voice. I have taken solace in the fact that there are other Districts (such as District 33) that do provide representation for my point of view. I have lived in Texas my entire life (55 years). Both of my parents and their parents did as well. I have seen some horrible things in my lifetime. I have watched legislators go from caring about their constituents to caring only about what one person wanted. That to me is very “unTexan” I do not understand where the backbone and grit of some legislators has gone. You all know, in your heart of hearts, that this wrong. You know litigation will follow. I was in Arlington when the National President of LULAC spoke. I do not see how you could sit in that room and not see the groundswell of opposition to this bill. I understand that the response in Houston was similar. Please do not proceed with this heinous action. Remember (In the words of Lin Manuel Miranda) “History has its eye on you.”

Candice Rood, Ms.
Self
El Paso, TX

This is an unabashed attempt to win at any cost, all in support of the policies of an amoral mad man. If you do this I don't know how you can live with yourselves. You will have abandoned all principles. Let all the people of El Paso have true representation.

Gloria Delgado
Self Retired HR Speciast
El Paso, TX

I would like to state that I am completely opposed to the proposed redistricting map which will adversely affect parts of El Paso County, all of Fort Bliss, El Paso International Airport, and the new VA Health Care Center. We, citizens of El Paso, TX deserve and demand to be represented by someone who is native to El Paso, and who, because of that fact, will always have El Paso’s interests and welfare as a top priority. I am the widow of a retired SGM/Vietnam veteran and I retired after 26 years of Federal service from VA Health Care Center. I hold the VA and Fort Bliss in a very special place in my heart, and I want to ensure that all active duty soldiers and veterans receive all the benefits and care that they have earned and are entitled to receive. We need to be reassured and demand that are interests in our community will be heard and attended to by a representative that lives in El Paso, and that will always place our city first, instead of being last in line since El Paso is more than 500 miles away from a San Antonio Representative. Your kind consideration of this statement is appreciated.

Ilene Barr
Self
Austin, TX

I am very against this Bill. There is no need for this now. The people
Of Texas will be hurt by this bill’s passage. Reconsider this obscene redrawing of the voting districts.
Thank you for your attention.
Ilene Barr

Benjamin Combee, Mr.
self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the new maps. It is unnecessary to redistrict the Texas maps between censuses, and this new map unfairly divides the Austin area, removing much of our representation in Congress. It doesn't honor the value of compactness.

Chelsea McFarland
Self, Software Engineer
Austin, TX

This bill will nullify the voices of members of my community in support of an authoritarian regime and I am entirely opposed to it. This effort is fundamentally undemocratic, and the GOP in Texas should be ashamed of how far they have fallen from our country's ideals in their desperate pursuit of power. Gerrymandering is a great evil of our time, and we will look back upon these efforts towards voter suppression and see them in the same ugly light as Jim Crow.

James Whitlatch
Na
El Paso, TX

Redistricting is a great idea. Take as much as you can from Veronica Escobar. She is worthless for El Paso.

Susan Stone, Mrs
self, retired
El Paso, TX

In my opinion El Paso would be destroyed by the new re-districting map. To take away resources from a city that is not rich, does not have a lot of resources, but has a large population in need of resources, is just unthinkable for strictly political reasons. We do fine under the current map, and I'm sure that the majority of our city feels the same as I do. We are not a worthless place that deserves destruction.

Eileen Held Slef
Austin, TX

If the Republicans really believe that your policies are correct, let the existing districts stand as they are and let people vote. The public knows, even Republican s, that this redistricting is nothing more than a sham to get additional votes for Trump. People should be placed in districts in which neighbors actually have the same goals in mind. You are proposing placing me and my neighbors who live in an Austin ETJ with people who live hundreds of miles away. We know nothing about the issues which affect them and they know nothing about ours. What happened to fair representation? In fact, why is the Legislature even taking this on when there are still so many people needing help from the floods. Do your job and tackle that problem of emergency systems before districting. Take care of the people in Texas rather than trying to placate those in Washington.
Again, we have nothing in common with the people in Waco or Hillsboro or Corsicana. In fact, I never even heard of Corsicana till redistricting has come up. I'm sure the people of those places would like to be represented by someone who listens to them just as we want people to listen to us. Stop trying to gerrymand your way into keeping political power.
Do not vote this in because you know that it will be challenged in court. Again, wasting so much of our taxpayer money on stuff like this which is only to satisfy a power grab. We want true representation and thought about how best to serve Texas, not this redistricting.

Daniela Dominguez
self
El Paso, TX

As an El Pasoan, I don’t agree that part of my city will be represented by someone from over 500 miles away. The district needs to stay as it is.

Yancy Lassiter
Self
AUSTIN, TX

As a citizen of Texas we all have varying thoughts on what represents our state. I hold that those who live within close proximity of me are the people who should be represented by me, as the original drafters of our Constitution intended. If we are to start chopping up our state into areas where those who are not close to us are allowed to represent us we are allowing power to be concentrated as the forefathers would not have intended. As a long time Texan, I believe potential gerrymandering of Travis county is going too far with the proposed changes again. Let those areas of the state be representative of those areas close together. Don't let us fall into the belief we can dissuade those whose ideas to be not heard. Current and Future Representatives and the people of Texas should be allowed to be represented by those neighbors they decide to vote for, not those hundreds of miles away who have never even seen their neighborhoods.

Stephanie Blakeman, Ms.
Self
El Paso, TX

Such blatent gerrymandering. This is so bald-faced I would be shocked that politicians would be so openly self-serving, but then I remember it's the unscrupulous and morally bankrupt Republican party. Have you no shame? If you cared about West Texas, Ft Bliss, veterans, the rural community, why wouldnt you ensure local representation? Why are is West Texas, which has many diverse needs, being lumped into one district. I think we all know the answer, but frankly it also shows that you don't care about rural Texans. For shame.

Bill Carvalho
Self
El paso, TX

Why would I want someone who doesn’t know or live in El Paso to represent me. Your

Joel Gilbert
Self
El Paso, TX

The proposed redistricting is gerrymandering by the President and Texas Governor and is illegal. The sole purpose is to allow the current administration to select their voters for 2026 and beyond, not to allow voters to select our representatives. This act should be criminal.

Sonja Olson, Ms
Self, project manager
Richardson, TX

I am a concerned citizen living in the Cottonwood Park area of Richardson. This means I am a constituent of TX-32, represented by Julie Johnson.
As a Texan, I would prefer that this legislature were working on disaster preparedness, reinforcing the electrical grid or preserving the environment. But instead, you have chosen to focus on this disingenuous plot to redraw our congressional districts outside the 10-year cadence of the US census. This is being done under direct political pressure from Donald Trump, and the primary purpose is to ensure Republican control of government regardless of the will of Texas voters.
The redistricting process should be approached with due deliberation. Instead, a single public hearing is scheduled within 48 hours of releasing the proposed map, which limits testimony to those in the Austin area and with tight time constraints that prevent many constituents from testifying at all. This entire process is negligent at best and downright sinister at worst. You are cheating because you do not believe you will win in a fair, free and open election. This is Authoritarianism 101.
Texas has a long history of discriminating against communities of color when drawing Congressional maps. Texas' recent population boom has been overwhelmingly driven by people of color, yet the 2021 redistricting did not reflect this reality. This will only be amplified by the new map proposed by this Legislature. With this in mind, at the very least, we should wait until the court rules on the 2021 maps before redrawing. Regardless, whether now or in 2031, this legislature should draw more representative opportunity districts for communities of color.
We deserve, and demand, competitive, representative districts which ensure all Texans have an equal voice in government. Thank you.

Laura Whittington
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

I have lived in Texas since the day I was born. I love many parts about this beautiful state, except that my representatives consistently attempt to disenfranchise me as a voter because they don't believe individuals with progressive mindsets should have a say in the place we build our homes and families. Even with these undemocratic practices sending the message of how little I matter, at no point do I believe that. Even though I am not proud of the way we fail to care for the people who live here, I love being Texan. As with many others you are harming, this is a place that I have financially contributed to since the age of 15 when I first began employment. I received my education here and completed a bachelors degree at a public university. I have owned property for nearly a decade. I am raising my three children here and am a valuable member of the community who volunteers with youth sports as well as the PTA. I shouldn't have to list any reasoning why my representation should reflect the community that I live in and have lived in my entire life, but I will because it's disgusting the way people who have lived here a shorter time than myself are trying to prevent me from having a voice. All to disenfranchise me and millions of others who will be affected by the policies created that are harming us daily. My family members, like many others, are struggling to afford groceries, basic needs and care for their health. These predatory practices and hard economic times have been the obvious aftermath of short sighted and downright cruel policies led by one party. It is the same party that is behind this historically partisan and corrupt gerrymandering, as a Social Studies teacher I am going off textbook criteria and it hits all of them. Growing up I remember as young as 10 the ways leadership in this state has failed my family. Now as a parent I feel the effects of leadership failing to protect and support families in Texas. What has been released as the congressional map is an insult to a state of millions who deserve to be governed by two parties who compromise to create the best environment for us to succeed and grow. It's also a choice that will forever follow the leaders who are actively silencing the people who they should be supporting. The past few years as a woman in Texas I have watched my state demonstrate how little it views my humanity. I also know I won't stop fighting to have a voice. I won't stop fighting for my children to have the ability to thrive and find joy in their public school and diverse community. I ask that compassion be your guide if you are truly the Christian individuals you claim to be. It's harmful to Democrats as well as Republicans. We deserve to have representatives who reflect us, not individuals who live hundreds of miles away. You can attempt to create these grossly, malicious districts, but it will not stop individuals like myself who love this state for the potential and the people. Not the profit and power.

barbara mckinney
Self
Houston, TX

I live in District 18. As a white person, I see what you are doing is racist. You are following orders from a pedophile, which I find morally disturbing. You held public meetings without any maps. I went to the hearing in Houston and I didn't hear one person speak up for this. If you have to cheat to win, you aren't winning. Stop stealing our voices and votes.

Bill Carvalho
Self
El Paso, TX

This president is a disgrace to the country that I fought for and proudly defended. Now you want to make it to where someone who doesn't know El Paso will have a say in my life. That's ridiculous. Why are you afraid of this man do you not have a conscience

Anna Lindsey
Self
The Hills, TX

This session should be focused on disaster relief rather than on redistricting. It is a disservice to Texans to call a special session for disaster relief and instead use it to push a political agenda.

Rebecca Scaduto
Self, nurse practitioner
Austin, TX

I believe the redistricting map proposed is purposefully designed to disenfranchise myself and my peers in Travis County. The shape of District 10 in particular is laughable.

Seth Wells
SELF, Executive Director Non-profit
Beaumont, TX

As a fifth-generation Texan, U.S. Navy Veteran, and disability advocate living in Beaumont, I am deeply troubled by the Texas GOP's plan to redraw congressional maps outside the usual redistricting timeline. This move is not only undemocratic — it's a direct challenge to the Constitution I swore an oath to defend.

We are still in litigation over the last redistricting process, along with other states that prioritized political loyalty over fair representation. Redrawing the maps mid-decade, without a clear legal or demographic justification, undermines the public's trust and sets a dangerous precedent.

Texans of all backgrounds deserve fair maps and honest elections. Leadership means earning support at the ballot box — not manipulating the lines to hold power. If our elected officials truly believe in the strength of their ideas and policies, they should welcome a fair fight — not rig the rules.

This is not about party; it's about principle. I urge every Texan, regardless of political affiliation, to speak out against this undemocratic action. We deserve better.

Noel Didear
Self - Retired State Employee
Austin, TX

Bowing to the will of Donald Trump will be remembered as a failure to stand up for democracy. Redistricting is a devious tactic to unfairly misrepresent your constituencies. Your voters will hold you accountable if you vote to redraw the lines just so you can gain 5 more seats by cheating. Instead of pandering to Trump do the right thing and represent ALL of the people in your Districts by voting against this effort. History will remember you and so will the voters of Texas.

Valerie Menard
myself
Austin, TX

I am opposed to redrawing maps at the expense of democratic representation. It's an unethical and unconstitutional power grab.

Carrie Davis, Mrs
Self
Austin, TX

Strongly disagree with redistricting map and plan. Major cities will be poorly represented with new maps as we have unique challenges to rural areas or smaller towns.

Elaine Cook
Myself
Cedar Hill, TX

I believe we should draw new districts.

Madalyn Hildreth
Self- Educator
Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose this bill.

Michele Zerah
self, MD
El Paso, TX

We ,El Pasoans and their families, and me and my family in particular, do not want to be represented by people who live in a far away district and have no idea of the local happenings. we are at the extreme west tip of Texas and 7 H from San Antonio. We need representation from people who breathe our air and drink our water and receive the same services locally.
when I loose power San Antonio does not. when there is a sand storm here there may be something else in San Antonio. if there is no access for certain specialists or services here , it is different elsewhere. Our representant must be from here or why not from NM or Arizona then?? just do not proceed with this ridiculous maps trying to change our votes. We are the people and our voices must be heard similarly considering where we live.
Do not try to rig or fix the elections and respect us.

Donna Short
Self
Schulenburg, TX

No comment.

Virginia Elizondo, Dr.
self, Deputy Director
Houston, TX

I do not wish for any of the longstanding districts be changed at this time. I live in congressional district 18, and I work with communities in district 29. There seems no real purpose for this to happen. Governor Abbott has left my district without representation for months when he could have called a special election. This shows is disinterest in my right to representation. There is no dire emergency for this change to happen, and no one from our communities asked for this. Abbott is not listening to us he is listening to others. The proposed map is ridiculous and it is hard to ignore how Al Green's, Silvia Garcia's and Jasmine Crokett's would make them ineligible to run in that district. Stop playing games with our representation!

Devkirn Khalsa
Myself
Austin, TX

I am asking you to vote against this bill. It is so wrong. It does not align with the will of the people of Texas and it is not democratic. It aligns with the will of DT, not everyone in Texas supports him and he certainly does not make decisions for our state.

Kushal Thapa
Self- research scientist
Buda, TX

I'm strongly against this bill. This redistricting will weaken democracy in our state.

Judith MartinTafoya
Robson Ranch CONSERVATIVE Women of Action
Denton, TX

Illinois has 17 districts with just 3 Republican. Democrats have redistricted to the hilt. With the influx of Republicans to Texas, we need more districts to reflect the Republican constituency.

Anna Banales, Mrs
Self, retired
El Paso, TX

Keep the maps as they are currently. El Paso needs its own representative who knows the area, its people and its needs. Combining part of the district with another one will cause the people of our area to lose their voice. We need a representative who is familiar with the particular needs of our district and who has the time to devote to it. Keep the maps as they are.

Anne Hebert
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill.

Xiangtong He
Self
Euless, TX

I am against congressional redistribution

Angelina Alanis, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

Born and raised Texan, writing in opposition of this unconstitutional process which will directly impede on fair representation throughout the entire state. Me and my neighbors deserve a process that's fair and transparent.

Debi Evans
Self, Travel Manager
Austin, TX

Good morning,
My name is Debi Evans, and I have lived in the state of Texas since 1994. I stand before you today to say clearly and firmly: Texas must not gerrymander our districts—now or ever.
Gerrymandering undermines the very foundation of our democracy: fair representation. When politicians draw district lines to serve themselves, not the people, it's not democracy—it's manipulation.
Let's talk facts. According to the 2020 Census, 95% of Texas' population growth came from communities of color. Yet, in the latest round of redistricting, the number of majority-Black and majority-Hispanic districts did not increase. In fact, some districts were redrawn to dilute minority voting power, despite clear evidence that these communities are growing and contributing more than ever.
Texas is one of the most diverse states in the nation. Nearly 40% of Texans are Hispanic, about 12% are Black, and 5% are Asian-American. Yet our current political maps do not reflect that diversity. Instead, gerrymandering has led to maps where one party holds over 60% of congressional seats, despite earning less than 55% of the vote. That's not fair. That's not representative.
Gerrymandering also kills competition. More than 90% of Texas state legislative races are essentially decided in the primaries. That means most Texans never see a real choice on their ballot in November. It's a rigged system—and Texans deserve better.
We are asking for fair, independent redistricting. No more maps drawn behind closed doors. No more silencing voters by cracking, packing, and stacking districts.
Let Texans choose their leaders—not the other way around.
Thank you

Brian Zimmerman
Self - retired
Austin, TX

I don't understand how Downtown Austin has a different representative than North Austin. I would prefer to have a map that doesn't need to be fought in the courts because the people putting the proposal forward are doing so in bad faith.

Parker Drain
Self
Garland, TX

I'm writing as your constituent to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting map currently under consideration in the Texas Legislature. As drawn, the new districts do not reflect the actual makeup and interests of our growing and diverse population. Instead, they appear to be designed to dilute the voices of communities like mine for partisan gain.

The foundation of our democracy is fair and equal representation. Redistricting should be about ensuring that every Texan's vote counts equally—not about protecting incumbents or manipulating boundaries to favor one political party. The proposed maps are clearly engineered to diminish the political influence of communities of color, especially Latino, Black, and Asian Texans, who represent the majority of the state's population growth. This is unacceptable.

Here in [your district or community name], we deserve representation that understands and reflects our local priorities—whether that's education, health care, infrastructure, or jobs. Gerrymandered districts split our communities and reduce our collective voice, making it harder for us to advocate for the issues that matter most.

I also want to voice concern about the process by which these maps are being created. Public input has been limited, and there has been a lack of transparency and accountability. Redistricting should not happen behind closed doors or without meaningful opportunities for communities to be heard.

I urge you to vote against this redistricting plan and to advocate for a map that prioritizes fair representation over partisan politics. Support a transparent process that centers the voices of your constituents—not one that silences them.

Our democracy only works when every voice is heard. I ask you to protect that principle by rejecting this unfair redistricting proposal.

Seth Johnson self / manager
Austin, TX

Please be respectful and do not gerrymander our state. Be proud of our diversity and respect our differences. Gerrymandering is an ugly political weapon that defeats democracy.

Glen Telge, Mr
Self
Houston, TX

Comments on 2025 Texas Redistricting from GTelge

Redistricting maps for Congressional, Senate, House & SBOE voting must be fairly drawn by a neutral non-partisan entity, resulting in a concentrated contiguous area with an equal number of eligible voters, so as to not unfairly favor any particular party affiliation, race or income level.
The current redistricting process allows the party in power to gerimander the voting maps in order to benefit itself for future elections while weaking the effectiveness of other voters.

In a state where roughly half the eligible voters vote mostly Republican and half vote mostly Democrat, the current redistricting effort will take us from having our districts 25:13 to 30:8 instead of 19:19 to better reflect the actual party affiliation of the state. The current redistricting effort is also relying on a legal challenge as an opportunity to create an even greater discrepancy with respect to race, effectively disenfranchising many voters.

Such "Pack & Crush" methods for redistricting should be ruled as both unlawful and criminal. I urge the State to consider where this behavior will ultimately do to our democratic political processes and to the future of our nation. This should not be constitutionally allowed.

Ian Abbey, Dr.
Self/professor
Houston, TX

This is Jim Crow in all but name, which is ironic because these same Republican legislators are trying to censor history lessons on the Jim Crow era.

Drew Mackintosh
Self
Austin, TX

Have you no shame? I don't know why I keep wondering this because the answer with republicans is always NO. Gerrymandering is wrong, regardless of the party. The right thing to do would be to section the state off like a grid and be done with it. You're doing the bidding of a corrupt narcissist, not your constituents. Please show some courage and conviction. Don't do this.

Kidada Summons
self
WYLIE, TX

I strongly oppose this proposed redistricting map because it is illegal, intentionally discriminatory, and unfairly dilutes the voting power of some communities. This map blatantly violates the Voting Rights Act and undermines democracy by manipulating district lines for partisan advantage. Republicans responsible for creating and supporting this map should be deeply ashamed of participating in such an undemocratic act. Texans deserve maps that honor fair representation, transparency, and compliance with the law. I urge immediate rejection of this unjust map. This is truly awful.

Jennifer Rodriguez
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I do not support redistricting to gerrymandering this state even more.

Gail Bradbury
Self/ Retired
Austin, TX

I am very much against redistricting at this time. It's obvious that it's only being done to help the Republicans stay in power. They already won last time, and they thought that was fair. It should be left alone or perhaps made more fair since the current system isn't particularly fair.

America Hernandez
Self
Austin, TX

As someone who was born and raised in South Texas, and moved to Austin to continue her education, the redistricting of these districts can alter the communities within them in a way I would never like to know. These districts rely on their community and their representatives, to be redistricted for the benefit of the republican party and not for the benefit of the people living within that community is disrespectful. I believe this redistricting would harm the communities within them rather than help them in the long run.

Whitney Harris
Self
Houston, TX

I oppose this redistricting attempt. It is an obvious power grab and attempt to silence specific groups of Texans. We should be helping the victims of the recent tragic floods and ensure Texans are safe and provided for. This is a shameful attempt to maintain power for a failing presidency and rich powerful elites who only have their best interests in mind. Respect Texans and respect our votes!

Meagon Torres
Self
Arlington, TX

I strongly oppose the bill for redistricting. It goes against all of our Texas values and making the people’s voices heard.

Ellie Wicks-Miranda
Self
San Antonio, TX

Stop cheating! The people deserve fair and equal representation. Y’all’s jobs are to serve us not billionaires and not Trump

Erica Baylor
self
Rockwall, TX

To: Texas State House of Representatives & Gov. Gregg Abbott, Subject: Opposing Congressional Redistricting in the Special Session - HB 4

Dear Representative Katrina Pierson,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the special session's agenda item on congressional redistricting, specifically the consideration of HB 4. The public hearing on August 1, 2025, concerning this bill, highlights a process that is both unprecedented and deeply concerning for the integrity of our democracy. I am in absolute opposition to this redistricting for the following reasons:
*No Legal or Justifiable Grounds for Mid-Decade Redistricting: Redistricting has historically been a decennial process following the U.S. Census. There are no justifiable grounds for redrawing these maps just four years after the last legislative redistricting session in 2021. To do so now sets a dangerous precedent that undermines the stability of our electoral process.
* Ongoing Legal Challenges to Existing Maps: The 2021 maps are still subject to multiple legal challenges alleging illegal gerrymandering. It is a waste of taxpayer money and legislative time to pursue new maps when the legality of the previous ones has not been fully resolved by the courts.
* Clear Partisan Intent and External Influence: The timing of this special session, and the specific push for a new map, appears to be a direct response to a request from President Donald Trump to gain five new seats. This external pressure and the explicit partisan intent behind the proposed changes are a blatant attempt to manipulate election outcomes for political gain, rather than to serve the best interests of Texas voters. As a public official, I expect you to represent the people of Texas, not a partisan agenda.
* Undemocratic Outcome: The current legislative body is already not representative of the state's diverse and rapidly growing population. This new map, as reported, would further dilute the voting power of minority communities, particularly Black and Latino voters in major metropolitan areas, and would create even fewer competitive districts. This is an attack on the fundamental principle of fair and equal representation.

The rushed nature of the process—with maps being released with little time for public review and a swift push through committee—is a clear sign that this is a partisan power grab, not a legitimate effort to improve representation. I urge you to vote against HB 4 and to oppose any effort to redraw our congressional districts during this special session. We must prioritize a fair, transparent, and legally sound electoral process over partisan advantage as originally intended by the Constitution of the United States.

Sincerely,

Erica Baylor
Rockwall

Donna Doyle
Self
San Antonio, TX

Stop the gerrymandering! Texans want to be heard. You are supposed to be representing us! Not steamrolling us!

Ann Parchem
TRTA
Dallas, TX

You guys are running scared. You are supposed to represent all people in Texas. Can you think about something other than property taxes? We need action on emergency responses. Can the state create safety nets, adopt regulatory measures concerning hemp-derived products, and approve a replacement of the STAAR exam?

Diana Briggs
Self
Austin, TX

What else is there to say? This is all because you know you all are unpopular and people hate this administration. I think you'll be surprised at how even republicans won't vote for you after you try to steal the next election by gerrymandering.

Robin Breed
Self
Austin, TX

If you value your house seat more than you do our republic you have no business being an elected official. The undermining of our democracy will result in the Republican Party's demise as you are guaranteed to drag the party further to the right and as we can see in DC it's not going so well. Do we have any reasonable Republicans left in the TX lege? Are you all Trump sycophants now? I can't imagine getting elected to represent thousands of Texans and checking your spine at the entrance to the Capitol. Shame on all of you. This won't end well. But it will end.

Charles Rice
self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose mid-census redistricting. I deeply support compact districts reflecting communities of interest.

Téa Johnson
United Leagues of Texas
Austin, TX

The Urban Leagues of Texas comprised of Austin Area Urban League and Houston Area Urban League strongly opposed to the current redistricting efforts and proposed congressional map. We urge legislators to vote against redistricting and any similar undemocratic measures that would silence the voice of everyday Texans.
Texas already redrew its congressional and legislative maps in 2021 as required by the U.S. Census. Attempting to redraw maps in 2025, mid-decade and outside of any new population data, is not a reflection of public need. This is a blatant power grab fueled by partisan pressure and national influence. This action undermines voter trust, destabilizes electoral consistency, and weakens democracy. Gerrymandering has long diluted the political power of Black, Brown, and working-class communities. Redistricting now would continue this harm by cracking and packing diverse neighborhoods, denying them meaningful representation in favor of districts drawn to protect incumbents and preserve minority rule. If redistricting proceeds, it must include an independent community review board and a transparent process that centers intentional public input— particularly from those most impacted by these changes. The public must have a say in how their communities are represented.
I also urge you to oppose any legislation that expands secret police files or opaque surveillance infrastructure— such as the G-file system. These proposals reduce transparency and accountability while endangering civil liberties, especially for communities already over-policed and under-protected. Additionally, Texans have spoken clearly on their priorities this special session: we want answers and action on disaster recovery. That starts with flood relief, enhanced emergency response systems, and stable emergency shelter funding. As homelessness and extreme weather intensify across Texas, our state must invest in life-saving shelter operations. Current inclement shelter programs are inconsistent and under-resourced. A permanent solution would support dignity, safety, and resilience for all Texans.
Breaking quorum to stop redistricting is an act of courage— not obstruction. Texans deserve maps that reflect their communities, not political engineering done behind closed doors. Mid-decade redistricting sets a dangerous precedent and signals to voters their representation can be manipulated for political convenience.
Texans are watching. We demand transparency, accountability, and fair governance. I strongly urge you to:
- Vote NO on redistricting proposals unless they include independent oversight and public participation,
- Vote NO on secret policing legislation like HB 2486 or any bill that expands unaccountable law enforcement files,
- Vote YES on funding for emergency homeless shelters and disaster relief to protect our most vulnerable neighbors.

We need leaders who defend democracy— not dismantle it. Now is the time to lead with integrity and act in the public's interest.

Sameeha Rizvi

Council on American-Islamic Relations Action

Richmond, TX

Dear Members of the Committee,
My name is Sameeha Rizvi, and I serve as the Texas Policy and Advocacy Coordinator for CAIR Action. I am writing to express strong opposition to HB 4.
Regardless of political affiliation, Texans deserve a fair redistricting process that respects their fundamental right to representation. HB 4, which proposes mid-decade redistricting, undermines this right. It is undemocratic, unnecessary, and lacks transparency.
As I shared in my testimony at the redistricting hearing at the University of Houston last week, the data being used to justify this redistricting effort is flawed. The 2020 Census failed to include a Middle Eastern and North African (MENA) category, following a decision by the Trump administration to block its inclusion. This exclusion led to a significant undercount of MENA communities across Texas and the country.
While the Biden administration has approved the addition of the MENA category, it will not be implemented until the 2030 Census. In the meantime, maps drawn using outdated and incomplete demographic data cannot accurately reflect Texas's population. Proceeding with redistricting under these conditions risks further disenfranchising communities already underrepresented in the political process.
Moreover, the process itself raises serious concerns. We have learned that the proposed maps were drawn by Adam Kincaid, a partisan operative based in Virginia with no meaningful connection to Texas. This decision disrespects the hundreds of Texans who took time to testify at public redistricting hearings and offer input grounded in lived experience and community needs.
Redistricting should be guided by principles of fairness, equity, and local representation – not by political expediency or partisan interests.
I urge you to reject HB 4 and instead commit to a process that honors the voices of Texans and ensures every vote counts equally.
Thank you for your time and consideration.
Sincerely,
Sameeha Rizvi
Texas Policy and Advocacy Coordinator
CAIR Action

Jodie Holmes

Self

Forney, TX

The redistricting of Texas in such a manner will completely deplete the already fading voice of the brown and black population.it is being potentially altered due to the minority having a voice? Due to minorities finding themselves in our delegates and choosing those that LOOK LIKE US to REPRESENT US?Is absolute madness. Taking away seats from those more than capable and knowledgeable to represent us as a people? Idiocracy is the most polite way I can put it. Texas is already stripping the voices and rights of women like myself. Do not strip the voices of all of the minorities

Martha Hernandez

None

Manor, TX

You all have done the work in 2021 to redrawing line again could only be iwholly intended to vitiate votes. Please do what's right for people.

Felicia Miyakawa
Self, none
Round Rock, TX

I have lived in round rock for 11 years. I am very much against these new maps and the call to redistrict mid decade in the first place. As voters and citizens, we should have access to the people who represent us. I am currently in district 17, but my congressman never comes anywhere near round rock. The elementary school where my son went to school, which is just over a mile away, is in congressional district 31. That much would remain the same in the new map. But if these maps are passed, his elementary school would be in congressional district 31, the middle school he attended would be in congressional district 17, and the high school he attended would be in district 11. This is all within just a few miles of our house. If we need to speak to our Congress person about what's happening in our schools, we have to call three different offices and have three different records going. Round Rock itself is split into four congressional districts, greatly reducing our ability to work together as a community on needs that would be addressed by Congress. But that's by design. I urge you all to keep Texas independent and deal with the citizens of Texas need, not what the president is asking you to do. Going through redistricting will set off an arms race. Other states will follow suit and we will end up with zero representation in the House of Representatives. Nobody wants these maps. Texas doesn't want these maps. Please set this aside and work on flood relief. That's all we want right now.

Kep Barlow
Self, self-employer
AUSTIN, TX

I do NOT support redistributing in Texas. It would upset upcoming elections and strip away the voices of Texas voters. It doesn't give enough time before the next election to go through the lawsuit and appeals that will come if this bill is passed. In conclusion I do NOT support this bill's passage. It harms Texans, and Americans as a whole. This attempt to throw the election is an insult to democracy.

Stephanie Howell
Self - Public School Educator
Coppell, TX

As a teacher, I am acutely aware of dishonesty and cheating sometimes being perpetrated by teenagers who are testing their, and my, limits. With that background, then, I know it when I see it. The proposed redistricting maps, then, are such an obvious attempt to cheat Texas voters in the most dishonest way imaginable - I'm stunned that anyone with greater than a middle school education would support them! Clearly, I do not support them and want my opposing voice to be heard, even if I cannot be in Austin in person for the discussion.
Remember: cheaters never win, and winners never cheat. I will certainly remember when I vote.

Nicholas Kern
self Engineer
Irving, TX

Redistricting in between census results are unprecedented, and cannot properly reflect the population Texas as the census results are outdated.

Trina Martin
Self
Round Rock, TX

Texas has never been and shouldn't now be ruled by Washington and specifically the president. This is a horrible precedent to set that will only incentivize future legislators to continue to randomly redraw districts for political purposes coming from Washington. You all voted and approved these districts in 2021 and to change them now is wrong. It's a bad look for this great state that has always been proud of our independent thinking.

Emily Erwin, Mrs.
Self, RN
Leander, TX

I am strongly opposed to congressional redistricting. This is a sorry attempt to silence our growing liberal population out of fear for your own power and money. Gerrymandering in the hope of protecting your own status is shameful.

Barbara Frandsen, Mrs.
League of Women Voters
Austin, TX

We all know that some behaviors are simply not right. People may get by with wrong and unfair actions, but we all know when wrong deeds are being done. To re-establish voting areas based on racial profiling is one of those wrong actions. I tell my children, grandchildren, and now great-grandchildren that feeling good about oneself at the end of the day is what matters. When a person knows that s/he caved in on doing the right, fair, and descent thing because of a bid for power or money, that person suffers at the end of the day. I urge you to do what will allow you to take an honest look at yourself in the mirror. If your grandmother is ashamed of you, you have done the wrong thing.

Erin Eriksen
Self
Houston, TX

I am against HB 4 and any redistricting effort during this Special Legislative Session. We all know this is on the behest of President Trump. There is no data to drive this mid-decade redistricting.

Robert Garay
Self
Houston, TX

Dear Members of the Select Redistricting Committee,

My name is Robert Garay. I live in TX Congressional District 29, Harris County, and I am providing testimony FOR HB4.

My area of CD29 would be changed to where I would now live in CD9. This new district configuration is a net positive for the area. This area would still be a majority-Hispanic district. In fact, both new CD9 and CD29 would still be majority-Hispanic districts. New CD29 allows Northern Harris County to unite communities of interest together while New CD9 does the same for Eastern Harris County.

The new CD9 would incorporate most of Eastern Harris County into a single district uniting multiple communities including Galena Park, Jacinto City, Deer Park, Channelview, Sheldon, Barrett, Cloverleaf, Highlands, Crosby and South Houston allowing all these municipalities and their voters to unite together to choose our congressional representative, all within the bounds of Harris County. In fact, the new CD9 also incorporates more of Pasadena into one district as well instead of being broken up into two districts as is currently constituted.

For those communities not entirely united with the new CD9 district, including Baytown, and La Porte, the map ensures that the dividing line does not go beyond the boundaries of Harris County thus maintaining VRA compliance and most importantly. significant influence with their local representative.

I urge the state Legislature to pass this Congressional redistricting map to ensure East Harris County is properly represented at the US Congress with the new CD9.

Thank you for your attention, consideration, and opportunity to provide public comment.

Sincerely,
Robert Garay

Detria BALLARD
SELF/RETIRED
Dallas, TX

I oppose this mid-decade redistricting scheme.

Lauren Holland
Self / Public School Teacher
Friendswood, TX

I vehemently oppose this. It’s not right. It’s not a decision being made to serve the people, but to serve a political party.

Megan Maxwell, Mrs.
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Hello, I would like to express my opposition to HB 4 for redrawing districts in the state of Texas. This effort to redraw maps in favor of one party over the other is an attempt to silence the voices and votes of my fellow Texans. This effort, while it may benefit one party now, it won’t forever. We are a representative democracy, for the people, by the people and it should remain that way. Not to silo power in to one party unfairly. If you want to win the election then do your jobs and win our votes, don’t steal them by drawing lines the siphoning off votes from your opponents. Show true bravery and patriotism and vote no against this bill.

Josue I. Zamitiz-Ayala
Self
Garland, TX

I’m writing as your constituent to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting map currently under consideration in the Texas Legislature. As drawn, the new districts do not reflect the actual makeup and interests of our growing and diverse population. Instead, they appear to be designed to dilute the voices of communities like mine for partisan gain.

The foundation of our democracy is fair and equal representation. Redistricting should be about ensuring that every Texan’s vote counts equally—not about protecting incumbents or manipulating boundaries to favor one political party. The proposed maps are clearly engineered to diminish the political influence of communities of color, especially Latino, Black, and Asian Texans, who represent the majority of the state’s population growth. This is unacceptable.

Here in Garland, we deserve representation that understands and reflects our local priorities—whether that’s education, health care, infrastructure, or jobs. Gerrymandered districts split our communities and reduce our collective voice, making it harder for us to advocate for the issues that matter most.

I also want to voice concern about the process by which these maps are being created. Public input has been limited, and there has been a lack of transparency and accountability. Redistricting should not happen behind closed doors or without meaningful opportunities for communities to be heard.

I urge you to vote against this redistricting plan and to advocate for a map that prioritizes fair representation over partisan politics. Support a transparent process that centers the voices of your constituents—not one that silences them.

Our democracy only works when every voice is heard. I ask you to protect that principle by rejecting this unfair redistricting proposal.

Ricky Woodling, Home Owner
Self / Retired
Bellville, TX

Please approve redistricting, to benefit Texas conservative values

Brian Long
Self
Richardson, TX

I am in favor of the redistricting plan.

Zachary Cocos
self
Austin, TX

Republicans claim this map is legal—but legality isn't a moral defense when the system itself is rigged. In Rucho v. Common Cause, the Supreme Court decided that partisan gerrymandering was a "political question" outside the reach of federal courts. That opened the door for states like Texas to use party data as cover—when in reality, party affiliation here is often just a thin proxy for race. The result? Maps that surgically carve up communities of color, all while insisting it's just politics. And with a DOJ more interested in protecting power than protecting voters, there's no meaningful check on this manipulation. This isn't representation. It's erasure wrapped in legalese—a direct betrayal of the promise of one person, one vote. Vote no on this map and serve the Constitution you claim to care about.

Ashlea Johnston
Self - Texas Citizen
Greenville, TX

Are you truly representing all Texans by redistricting in order to gain Trumps approval? The last time that I checked, only 58% of Texans voted for him. Why are you scared of Democrats representing Texans and challenging Republicans? That is the point of our democratic republic - multiple voices challenging each other to make us a better country for all of us.

Gresha Saenz
Self/homemaker
Houston, TX

I do not support the bill.

Charles Dwinal
Self
Dallas, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 4 (HB 4) regarding the congressional redistricting in Texas. This bill represents a blatant attempt by the Republican Party to manipulate the electoral landscape in their favor, undermining the principles of fair and just democracy.

The proposed changes to the congressional map are not only politically motivated but also threaten to dilute the voices of communities of color across our state. By targeting Democratic-held districts and creating an unfair advantage for one party, HB 4 disregards the fundamental tenets of representation that our democracy is built upon.

I demand that the legislature prioritize the restoration of fair and equitable representation for all Texans, rather than engaging in partisan gerrymandering. It is imperative that we uphold the integrity of our electoral process and ensure that every vote counts equally.

I urge you to oppose HB 4 and stand for a democratic system that truly reflects the will of the people.

Davis Brooks
Self, docent
Houston, TX

Speaking as a concerned citizen and believer in the democratic process, the proposed Congressional Redistricting outlined in House Bill 4 is deeply disturbing to me. The lack of new state census data since the last redistricting reveals a clear, troublingly partisan motive for the proposed district map. Redistricting as a process should be carried out solely based on observed changes in population to ensure the fair, accurate representation of all Texans across the state. The utilization of what should be a nonpartisan, non-aligned process by the Texas GOP sets a troubling precedent for the management of our democratic infrastructure. I strongly urge the Texas Legislature to hold off on the proposed redistricting until the next wave of census data allows for an informed redistricting process.

Kevin Martin
Self
Round Rock, TX

The redrawing of US congressional districts is unnecessary and unwarranted. This effort attempts to modify districts that are already drawn to weaken the representation of the citizens that live in them and make them even less so, simply in an attempt to increase a political advantage at the national level. This effort will disenfranchise hundreds of thousands of Texas voters.

Carlos Torres-Verdin, PhD
Self, Professor, UT Austin
Austin, TX

I OPPOSE HB 4 on Congressional Redistricting.
It's the wrong time to do legislative redistricting, in the middle of a decade, instead of the right time, after the 2030 census. Criteria were not stated or violated. Maps should have contiguous lines (Texas County Line Rule); districts should be but are NOT compact; population will grow and demographics will change in the next 5 y; maps are racially biased; maps are partisan; maps should not protect/favor incumbency; maps should but are not respecting community landmarks. Method should use modern map-making software that includes all 6 criteria (stated in #3) in addition to unique criteria including communities of interest.

Bills HJR 26, HJR 28, HB 221 propose a constitutional amendment to establish an independent citizen redistricting commission to redistrict the Texas Legislature, Congressional District, State Board of Education, and revising procedures for redistricting. Redistricting is a serious, laborious, long process, which cannot be rushed into a short period as it was in 2021 and now in 2025.

Gloria Elizondo Community
Houston, TX

I am against this

Maryann Wylie
Self
Plano, TX

I am FOR the redistricting of the US House of Representatives of Texas and would like for my state rep's vote in Favor of this bill!

Lindsay Hearne
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

I fully support HB 4 by Hunter. Fair and updated congressional district maps are essential to ensure every Texan’s voice is represented accurately and equally. Our state has seen significant population growth and demographic shifts, and it’s vital that our congressional districts reflect these changes to protect the principle of one person, one vote. This bill helps create balanced representation and ensures that all communities in Texas have a fair opportunity to be heard in the U.S. House of Representatives. I urge the committee to advance this bill.

John Chilstrom, Colonel
Self (US Air Force, Retired)
Austin, TX

As a long time resident of Texas, Travis County, and the City of Austin I am adamantly opposed to the proposed redistricting. In fact, the motive behind it smacks of political corruption and a violation of voters' civil rights. Redistricting as drawn is unethical and should be found illegal. Our citizens do not want or need this sham legislation forced by the administration in Washington, DC.

Leslie Martinez
Self
Fate, TX

Gerrymandering should be abolished nationwide. It is undemocratic, outdated and frankly irresponsible to keep practicing this "legal" form of fraud. The citizens of Texas will not forget nor forgive those who will not listen to us. We need politicians with backbone who will not bend the knee to a wannabe dictator. Enough is enough, grow a spine for the love of God, have some pride and decency in self and the office you hold. Good day.

Edwin Bautista
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Edwin, and I am writing today to speak out against the proposed congressional maps. Texas has experienced some of the fastest population growth in the country — in fact, we saw the second-highest total increase nationwide. This growth has been driven by our diverse communities, families, and young people who are shaping the future of our state.

Yet now, in the middle of the decade, without a new Census and without any public demand, state leaders are attempting to redraw these maps. These proposals do not reflect our reality. Instead, they silence the voices of millions of Texans, target sitting Democratic members of Congress, and carve apart neighborhoods that should remain whole. These maps are not about fair representation; they are about protecting political power at the expense of the people.

Redistricting should be about accountability, transparency, and ensuring that every Texan — regardless of their zip code or political affiliation — has an equal voice. We cannot allow gerrymandering to disenfranchise voters or undermine the communities that are the backbone of our state.

I urge this committee to reject these maps, hold real public hearings across Texas, and commit to a process that reflects the will of the people rather than the interests of those already in power. We deserve maps that keep our communities intact and our democracy strong.

Thank you.

Madison Wisdom
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed Texas congressional redistricting plan. This proposal undermines voter empowerment and instead perpetuates voter suppression by manipulating district boundaries for political gain.

It is deeply concerning that many of the same voices decrying “rigged elections” are advancing a plan that effectively rigs elections by diluting the voices of communities and predetermining outcomes. Redistricting should serve the people, not entrench political power for one party.

Rather than continuing a cycle of partisan gerrymandering, Texas should embrace reforms that promote fair representation and strengthen democracy. Common-sense, nonpartisan solutions include:
1. Ranked Choice Voting (RCV): Empowering voters to rank candidates in order of preference, ensuring winners have broad support and reducing the influence of extreme partisanship.
2. Independent, Nonpartisan Redistricting Commissions: Removing map-drawing power from politicians and entrusting it to impartial bodies that prioritize community representation over party advantage.
3. Grid-Based or Compact District Mapping: Utilizing clear, transparent, and geographically logical boundaries to keep communities intact and prevent partisan manipulation.
4. Open Primaries: Allowing all voters to participate in the primary process regardless of party affiliation, giving every Texan a voice in determining viable candidates.

These reforms are supported across the political spectrum and reflect the principle that government derives its power from the consent of the governed and not from manipulated maps. Texas voters deserve competitive districts, meaningful choices, and a system that truly reflects their will.

I urge you to reject the current redistricting proposal and instead pursue these proven, nonpartisan solutions that empower voters and uphold the integrity of our democracy.

Janet Lockhart
Self
Corsicana, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting map.

Norma Hackler, Mrs.
self
Austin, TX

To Whom It May Concern:
I oppose the Texas Legislature redistricting between Census counts.
My name is Norma Hackler. I have lived in Texas, specifically Austin, since 1986. I originally lived in Louisiana until 1976 when I left to work for a US Congressman in Washington, DC in his congressional office and later as a staff person on a legislative congressional subcommittee he chaired. I am, therefore, very familiar with US Congress and its house seats.
During my years working in Washington, DC both in a personal congressional office and on a subcommittee, I witnessed members of congress working across the aisle. We, both the Democrats and Republicans, played on the same softball teams, worked long hours together, socialized together and respected each other. Since departing that wonderful experience working in Washington, DC where I learned so much, I have witnessed a trend among Republicans to NOT work together across the aisle when the tea party entered Congress. This trend has continued until today only it is exponentially more toxic. Even the word "negotiate" seems to set off anger among certain members of congress.
A true and great democracy only works when there are two strong political parties working together. That is not what the current Republican party seems to want. The new Trump GOP party wants a one-party rule. Today, the Texas legislative body is poised to deliver that one-party rule to the Trump GOP party.; not by fair elections, but by rigging elections.
I understand that the Texas Republicans want to curry favor with President Trump. But please remember that President Trump has stated that democrats are his enemies. That is one-half of the entire United States and one-half of all Americans that he is calling his enemy. Is this what you want? To declare those Texans, who do not agree with you, your enemy. We, Texans, are better than that. We each deserve to choose who represents us in the US Congress. If this Texas legislative body adopts newly re-districted maps, I, as a proud American, recognize that not only are you rigging elections to keep Texans from being fairly represented, but you have lost all respect for yourselves, your dignity and your souls.
If these proposed redistricting maps are approved, you no longer have the right to run political ads saying you, as a Republican, if elected, will serve ALL Texans.

Kendell Wallace, Mrs
Self
Austin, TX

Simply stop the steal. It's a racist move.

Cindy Griswold
self
Johnson City, TX

I am fully against this disfranchisement of peoples voting rights for the sole purpose of retaining Republican party control of the government. They claim to be the party for democracy but this is very anti democracy. Also redistricting between two different census is abnormal and can only be attributed to wanting to disenfranchise people that vote for democratic politicians.

Megan Eunson
Self
Houston, TX

Please consider this my formal protest to this bill. You are simply trying to remove the true representation of the people of this state and are doing so with no really need or reason. You only want to please the president. He is not Texas- he is not us. Do not allow this to move forward.

Thank you.

Lauren Mangold
Self - MSW Student
Austin, TX

There is absolutely no way that this redistricting will result in justice for all in this system. Please reject this bill. This affects all Texans and this redistricting would result in unequal representation statewide. It would not be an accurate representation of the Texas population ethnically, economically, or politically.

Kimberly Brisco
Self
San Antonio, TX

What side of history do you want to be on? Stop this nonsense. Say no to this gerrymandering!

Amanda Bernay, Ms.
self, nonprofit administration
Austin, TX

I write to oppose this mid-decade redistricting efforts by Texas Republicans to kowtow to the wishes of Trump. This is a clear attempt to disenfranchise minority voters in urban areas, to split populations that lean Democrat, and to retain power under undemocratic pretenses. I am an 8th generation Texan, a granddaughter of lifelong Republicans who would be horrified at the hypocritical gymnastics today's GOP performs on a daily basis. Redistricting should happen after the next census, to balance the population representation of districts, and should not encompass more than 2-3 counties, full stop.

Angie Moore Angie Moore
Self, Senior Buyer
Hutto, TX

This redistricting does not make sense geographically or demographically. Texans are meant to have integrity. I vehemently oppose.

Liza Ossenfort, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to this effort at mid-cycle redistricting to favor one party over the other. It seems wholly improper to undertake such an effort. The effort strikes me as obscene.

Eric Vormelker
Self
Austin, TX

Just 11 days ago, I sat watching while you, Cody Vasut (a descendant of Romanian immigrants), calmly listened while you allowed less than half of the people that signed up to testify to this committee speak against doing any redistricting. Since then, more than a thousand more signed up, all but a handful of them telling you in no uncertain terms that you MUST NOT do this.

Now, here we are, with a viciously undemocratic map before you, a clear statement of your felon, pedophile President's effort to steal next year's election from us.

You make me sick.

There is no point in me reiterating all the ways that this is morally, Constitutionally, ethically wrong. You have heard it hundreds of times, and there's no telling how many more times it has been written to you.

I'm writing this to add my words to the mountain of outrage, the mass of fury against this ugly spit in the face of every one of our Founding Fathers.

Why did your family leave Romania? According to Google, it was likely in the 1910's, a time of chaos and collapse, with WWI leading to the end of the Ottoman Empire (just to Romania's east) and the Austro-Hungarian Empire (which Romania was a part of).

What would they think of you, their descendant, leading a charge to fascism? Helping a would-be king cement his hold on our republic? Maybe they would be proud of you, proud that you are doing your bit to destroy government by, of, and for the people. Maybe they would shed a tear, remembering King Carol I and the House of Hohenzollern.

But you are a deluded little pawn.

Maybe you think that, by doing Trump's bidding, you'll get a plumb position, some grift from the millions Trump is stealing from us and throwing at lawyers to try and crush any dissent.

But Trump doesn't care about anyone. He is the Prince of Lies, and you are being corrupted by him. Everyone is disposable to him. Everyone.

Including me, who was born in Dallas, a Texan just like you.

And including you.

The list of the traitorous people that will be remembered for working to end our republic will be long. But if you do pass this steaming pile of racist garbage out of committee, you will hold a special place on that shameful list of sycophants, propping up a wicked, evil tyrant.

Patricia Bendurski
Self- Hospice worker
Fort Worth, TX

As a lifelong Texan, who has lived here all 43 years of my life- I am appalled by this attempt to redistrict our state, in such a ridiculous way. The new districts being proposed are bullshit. They are not representative of our beautifully diverse state. And they do not take into account current census data. This is America. We deserve fair representation. I strongly oppose this bill.

Fonda Watson, Ms.
Self
Richardson, TX

As a citizen, taxpayer, and voter, I know that this effort at redistricting is an effort to silence minority voters. Every representative who supports this should be voted out at the earliest opportunity.

Elyse Zimmerman
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I do not support a redistricting in order to benefit one party versus the other. You are taking the vote away from the people, and you are all employed by the people. If this bill passes, it shows that you do not care about your constituents or their wants and needs and will be remembered. I do not want redistricting to gerrymander for Republican votes.

Brooke Primomo
Self
Houston, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to this unconstitutional method of redrawing congressional districts. The electorate chooses their representatives. Representatives do not get to choose their electorate. Only non partisan third parties should be used in any redrawing of congressional districts.

Amber Mulcahy
Self - Management
Longview, TX

Redistricting is not only not necessary at this time, it’s appalling that our leaders are considering it. There has not been an official census and there are a significant number of more pressing matters for the Texas government to concern themselves with. Please focus on disaster relief, job creation, and energy infrastructure at a minimum. Gain votes by delivering and following through on a message that is acceptable to more residents rather than rigging the system like common criminals.

Marla Sumner
Self-software engineering leader
Leander, TX

To our elected leaders,

As you start redrawing our voting maps, I'm reminding you to think about the power you have in your hands. This isn't just some paperwork exercise. You're deciding which people in our state get a real say and which ones get ignored for the next ten years. I know it's tempting to use this to help your own party, but for the good of all of us, you have to do what's right, not what's easy.

We all know the tricks of gerrymandering. We know about "cracking" our communities to water down our votes, and "packing" the other side into just a few districts. It's all done to rig the game so that you can pick your voters, instead of us getting a fair chance to pick our leaders. When you draw maps to guarantee a win, you're telling a lot of people that our votes don't really count.

Your job is to represent everyone you serve, not just your political party. You promised to follow a Constitution that says we're all equal. That promise is broken when you draw maps that are designed to make some votes matter more than others. That's just plain wrong, and it breaks the trust we put in you.

What you decide now will affect our state for years to come, long after you've left office. How do you want to be remembered? As people who did the right thing for our democracy? Or as politicians who just played the system for a win, making everyone more divided?

The choice is simple. Please, put the people first. Draw fair maps that give our communities a real voice and make elections feel like they matter again. The future of our democracy is in your hands.

Jacquelyn Dingley
Self - Retired Nurse
Austin, TX

I am opposed to the consideration of the new proposed district map for the US House of Representatives that was designed by the Trump Administration and revealed in Texas earlier this week (PLANC2308). There are no new census data to support the creation of these new districts in the first place. Furthermore, the proposed district lines appear to be carved up into a crazy quilt in order to weaken the voice Texans who live in large municipal areas. Therefore, there could be no legitimate reason to argue that representatives elected from these newly proposed districts would better serve the people of this state.

Sonia Dawson
Citizens of the state of Texas
Greenville, TX

Stop this insanity. This crazy redistricting is not serving the citizens of Texas fairly and appropriately. It is also making us a joke to other states and countries. Those that proposed this mess should be replaced, and hopefully will be at the next election.

No redistricting is needed at this time. You are just doing trump’s bidding. That wasn’t what you were elected to do.

Now please do your jobs and address more pressing and necessary issues or go home.

Carly Padgett
Self
Pearland, TX

My name is Carly Padgett. I am a resident of Pearland, Texas and I oppose HB 4.

Paul Spring
Self
Austin, TX

New redistricting Map Hearing Aug 1, 2025

Ann Connolly
Self, retired
Fort Worth, TX

I am strongly AGAINST these unfair redistricting plans which are designed to dilute the voting power of communities of color.

Lauren Wright
Self
Austin, TX

ChatGPT:

I write to express my strong opposition to the proposed Congressional redistricting plan currently under consideration. This plan undermines the principles of fair representation, weakens the voting power of minority communities, and prioritizes partisan advantage over democratic integrity.

Texas is one of the most diverse states in the nation, with communities of color accounting for over 95% of the state's population growth in the last decade. Yet the proposed map fails to reflect this demographic reality. Instead of increasing representation for growing Black, Latino, and Asian communities, the map dilutes their influence by cracking and packing districts—breaking up cohesive communities and redistributing them across districts to minimize their electoral impact.

This is not just unfair—it is undemocratic. The Voting Rights Act was enacted to prevent exactly this kind of racial gerrymandering. By ignoring the needs and voices of minority voters, the proposed plan violates both the spirit and likely the letter of federal law. It sends a troubling message that some voices in our state matter more than others.

Moreover, partisan gerrymandering corrodes public trust. Voters should choose their representatives—not the other way around. When maps are drawn to secure one party's dominance rather than to reflect the will of the people, it leads to extreme partisanship, uncompetitive elections, and elected officials who are less accountable to their constituents. That's bad for democracy, regardless of your political affiliation.

Fair maps benefit everyone. They promote competition, improve responsiveness, and strengthen our institutions. I urge this committee to reject this current proposal and instead support a map that reflects Texas as it truly is: diverse, dynamic, and democratic.

Please do the right thing. Protect our right to equal representation. Draw fair maps.

Allison Duckworth
Self
Wylie, TX

Absolutely oppose. This kind of gerrymandering is disgusting.

Kayla Rondina
Self, RB
San Antonio, TX

Redistricting is a deliberate attempt to disenfranchise voters and deny them equal representation under the law. This creates a constitutionally illegal gerrymander that discriminates against poor, non-white, or underrepresented communities. This push for a Christian nationalist country flies in the face of everything the Founding Fathers intended, and redistricting to favor a religiously-based minority is a poorly disguised racist and discriminatory attempt to keep the educated populace controlled. DO BETTER and listen to the majority of your constituents. Vote NO.

Eve Springer
Self
Austin, TX

As a Texas resident and US citizen I am strongly opposed to this redistricting!! It is not lawful.

Joey Reyes
self/self
Richardson, TX

This is a disgustingly un-American ploy to silence the voices of voters/taxpayers through underhanded and undemocratic means. Republican efforts to push this through simply because you have no real policy to run on, or to appease someone else, will only cement your legacies as power-hungry zealots who have no interest in actually governing.

James Ishmael
Self, teacher
Fate, TX

I oppose the redistricting.

Sheri Palmer
Self
Austin, TX

Texas representatives should be focusing on Texas Flood related concerns.Gov Abbott accepting this scam from Trumps DOJ is illegal and does not support the people of Texas. I am against this.

Lucas Myers, Mr.
Self, Business Leader and Community Organizer
Pflugerville, TX

To the Members of the Texas House of Representatives:

I write as a concerned Texan to condemn the current mid-decade redistricting effort. This maneuver is not about fair representation—it's a power grab designed to entrench extremist MAGA-aligned control and silence moderate voices.

1. This Redistricting Push Is a Power Grab

Texas does not need mid-session redistricting. What we're witnessing is a partisan scheme orchestrated by former President Trump and Governor Abbott to redraw maps mid-cycle and secure up to five additional GOP seats in the U.S. House—despite Democrats winning nearly 45% of the statewide vote in recent elections ? ?. The special session called to address flood relief has been hijacked for political advantage instead.

2. No Maps, No Transparency

Lawmakers are being asked to comment on redistricting without seeing even draft maps. How can the public weigh in on proposals that remain hidden? This secrecy suggests these maps would fail under public scrutiny if drawn in the open ?.

3. Communities of Color Are Being Targeted—Racial Gerrymandering

The plan packs and cracks Black, Latino, and Asian communities—diluting their voting power in major regions like DFW, Austin, Houston, and South Texas ?. Critics argue this move violates Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act and undermines fair representation in the state driving nearly all its population growth with non-white communities ?.

4. Texans Deserve Leaders Focused on Real Issues

While hundreds of Texans are still recovering from July's devastating floods—a disaster that claimed over 100 lives—legislative energy is being redirected from urgent relief toward partisan mapping ?. Every hour spent drawing lines is time stolen from real solutions.

5. Legislators Have a Duty to Fight Back

Texas lawmakers have effective tools—filibusters, quorum breaks, and legal challenges—to defend democratic representation. Democrats used such strategies in 2003 and 2021 to block voter suppression. That same courage is needed again. Texas Democrats have already threatened to walk out until flood relief is prioritized ? ?.

6. Gerrymandering Undermines Democracy

It shouldn't be politicians choosing voters—but that's exactly what's happening here. These maps do not reflect the will of Texans—they preordain outcomes, marginalize dissent, and erode trust in our democratic institutions.

Texans demand maps drawn openly, with true respect for communities, transparency, and fair process—not engineered advantages. Reject this redistricting scheme. Protect democracy, not politics.

Thank you for your service and attention. Your record on this topic will not soon be forgotten.

Susan Johnson
Self Retired
Austin, TX

I can imagine a circumstance (for example, an event that caused mass, long term evacuations of the population) that would warrant a mid-decade redistricting effort. The current redistricting has no such reasonable basis. In plain sight, the Trump administration has demanded that Texas redraw its maps so as to increase the likelihood that Republicans win more elections and the Governor has agreed to do so. This is not government serving its citizens. This is government serving a master manipulator and his minions. The government of Texas is weak and feckless. We do not deserve this.

Jon Spiers, MD JD
self/attorney
Houston, TX

As Conservative Texans, we live in Harris County. Our homestead is in Congressional District 7, Senate District 15, & House District 134, each held by a member of the Democratic Party.
The 2022 United States Census Bureau Post Enumeration Summary indicated a significant undercount of the Texas population. However, Texas can consider this data when determining the boundaries for its congressional districts.
The 2024 election showed a dramatic change in Texans' voting tendencies. The nearly 14% margin supporting President Trump & the conservative agenda is dramatic and well-documented. Many of these conservative voters were minorities who previously had supported Democratic candidates. Democrats seek to silence these voters.
Not all minorities have changed their voting patterns, but a voter's race is not at issue in this redistricting process — the partisan voting pattern is the sole consideration.
Because of this important partisan voting shift, Texas is justified in redrawing its congressional districts to ensure these voters are not disenfranchised.
Attempts to hinder redistricting are merely an attempt to diminish and even silence the voices of Texas' conservative groups that Democrats have previously considered "their" voters. The Democrats' fight to silence these voters is unacceptable & discriminatory.
In the 2019 case Rucho v. Common Cause, No. 18-422, 588 U.S. 684 (2019), the United States Supreme Court held that" partisan gerrymandering claims present political questions beyond the reach of the federal courts," deferring to the state's constitutional power to draw districts.
Beyond this black letter legal ruling, the Texas Legislature's plan to redraw congressional districts satisfies established principles.

- Compactness: The districts proposed by the Texas Legislature are more compact than before.
- Contiguity: All parts of the proposed new district structures are connected.
- Preservation of counties and other political subdivisions: The proposed districts are purposely drawn to minimize crossing political subdivisions, even though some smaller political subdivisions violate this principle.
- Preservation of communities of interest: The new congressional districts seek to preserve the connections of the communities served by the proposed districts. Arguments against this are race-based arguments that undermine the rights of the majority conservative voters to choose the candidates they prefer and to have their voices heard.
- Core preservation: The proposed districts will preserve the core of their predecessor districts.
- Avoiding incumbent pairing: The proposed districts do not place incumbent representatives in conflict.

Texas voters should not be silenced to preserve the status quo & protect the ineffective Democratic Party that does not represent the values of Texans.
Please ratify the new districts as proposed.
Jon Spiers, MD, JD
Dana Myers MD

Mary Wilson
Self / Program Manager
Grand Prairie, TX

I'm strongly opposed to this bill

Lewis Goldstein
Self
Austin, TX

To the Members of the Texas House Committee on Redistricting:

I submit this testimony as a concerned Texan who cannot attend in person, but who feels a profound responsibility to speak up against what is clearly a cynical and partisan attempt to entrench power through gerrymandering.

This new congressional map being proposed is not simply unfair — it is a direct attack on representative democracy. At a time when our state and our country are already dangerously divided, the decision to push through a map that ignores demographic realities, dismisses community representation, and intentionally undermines electoral competitiveness is both irresponsible and indefensible.

Redistricting is supposed to reflect the will of the people, not manipulate it. But this map does the opposite. It was engineered to dilute the political power of diverse and growing communities — especially Black, Latino, and Asian American Texans — and to protect incumbent politicians who fear accountability more than they fear undermining democracy itself. By rigging the lines, Republican leaders are choosing their voters, instead of allowing voters to choose their leaders.

What's happening here is not just politics as usual — it's a power grab. It is a blatant continuation of the Trump playbook: distort the process, ignore the facts, and suppress opposing voices. It is especially troubling that, once again, Texas is the testing ground for strategies designed to weaken democratic norms and disenfranchise entire communities.

I am grateful to Congressman Doggett and others who are calling out this effort for what it is — a crooked map designed to serve party interests rather than the public interest. I urge this committee to reject this map and return to the drawing board with the goal of creating districts that truly reflect the people of Texas: urban and rural, diverse in every way, and deserving of fair representation.

Texans of all backgrounds deserve competitive districts where every vote matters. We deserve a process that is transparent, inclusive, and rooted in the core American value of one person, one vote. If this map becomes law, that principle will be further eroded, and our trust in the democratic process — already fragile — will take another blow.

Do the right thing. Stop this partisan map. Defend democracy.

Respectfully,
Lewis E. Goldstein
Austin, TX 78750
512-426-0010

Carol Weston
self/social justice volunteer
El Paso, TX

Is is esential that the current boundries of the El Paso District NOT be changed. Our congressional representative. Veronica Escobar, lives here knows the people, the businesses the educational system that she represents. She has had excellent results assuring funding for Veterans, many of whom live at or are cared for by personnel at Fort Bliss. She secured $700 million in funding for the new Veterans Affairs Health Care Center. She is available in person, on the phone, and through her staff for all citizens here who have questions or need her assistance. She is one of us. she stands up for us ...for all who live here. We will stnad up for her. When she is followed, at some point in the future, by another congressperson whom we will elect --- we will provided a seamless transition. We are local. Our congressionl representative must always be local. That is the point! El Paso is not an "afterthought" to be occasionally remembered by a representative who lives a 9 hour drive away. El Paso is "the thought, the here and now" of the congressional representative who is thoroughly comfortable in this diverse city and county--a secure home for so many of its population. We thrive on interaction and connectedness to each other, to Fort Bliss, to the Health Center, to the International Airport, to UTEP. Don't divide us -- you will Not conquer us. Leave this district as it is. It will be a boost to TEXAS.

Alexis Lockhart
Self
Tomball, TX

This is wrong. Mid-decade redrawing of maps to cheat and get more R seats.

Kathy Ruiz
Self
Harker Heights, TX

I am strongly in favor of redistricting. This creates a more cohesive district allowing for better representation for all voters.

Katharine Elliott
self/ Artist
Garland, TX

I am opposed to the proposal to realign the districts-for the election of members of the United Stated Representatives. Represent all the people. This is a travesty of what you are trying to do to change the makeup of our voting constituents.

Kristy Wagner
Self
Robinson, TX

I believe Texas has bigger priorities than partisan redistricting at the request of the president.

Macy Pickett
Self
Conroe, TX

STOP GERRYMANDERING! This is such a blatant attempt at a power grab. You don’t care about the people you’re supposedly representing.

Micah Sharp
Self
Austin, TX

While families are still recovering from the devastating Central Texas floods, Texas Republicans are rushing through new congressional maps not because of new Census data, but to protect their grip on power as MAGA extremism loses ground. Texans deserve fair representation, not redistricting schemes to dilute their voting power and silence the voices of black and brown voters. Lawmakers should put Texans first and stop playing political games and bowing down to the orange felon. You represent us Texans not Donald Trump!

David Cruz
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting maps proposed by HB4. If adopted, these maps would decrease the representation of ~45% of Texans from 33% representation to 20% representation. In a democratic society, this type of disenfranchisement represents an existential threat by lowering trust in society and deemphasizing civic institutions. We are well down this path, and yet this redistricting represent a new level of anti-democratic practices. I urge the committee to reject HB 4.

Laura Lee Boice

Self - Psychotherapist

Austin, TX

My name is Laura Lee Boice and I live in Precinct 260, Congressional District 37. I have a private practice as a psychotherapist. I have seen firsthand the damage being done by minimizing people's voices. According to TX Public Opinion Research, voters are exhausted by political stunts and culture war noise. I see the exhaustion every day in my work, from all political affiliations. They want leaders who will focus on solving real problems. The proposed congressional redistricting seeks to further divide and squash our voice. Texas just redrew maps in 2021, and doing it again in this manner seems malicious and cruel. I ask you to give everyone a seat at the table. Represent all of us fairly. Partisan gerrymandering may be legal, but it is not just. I urge you to use an independent redistricting commission that offers a transparent way to draw maps that reflect the true diversity and needs of our communities. Thank you for your time. Sincerely,
Laura Lee Boice

Dr. Pamela Sardo

Self /pharmacist

Josephine, TX

Dear Members of the Committee,

Please consider the following key reasons in support of redistricting:

1. Rapid Population Growth: Texas has experienced one of the fastest population increases in the country, particularly in suburban and exurban areas. Redistricting ensures representation reflects this growth and adheres to the principle of “one person, one vote.”
2. Presidential Encouragement: President Donald Trump has publicly encouraged Republican-led states to undertake redistricting. Texas has the opportunity to follow that guidance in a lawful and strategic manner.
3. National Political Trends: States like New York, Illinois, and California are redrawing maps to favor Democrats, maximizing partisan advantage. Texas is permitted by law to redraw the map to maintain balance and protect representation at the federal level.
4. Modernization and Fairness: Many of the current districts are outdated and no longer reflect today’s demographic or community realities. Updating district lines enhances electoral fairness, aligns with legal requirements, and ensures all Texans are properly represented.

Sincerely,
Pam Sardo

Thank you for your consideration and commitment to a fair and forward-looking redistricting process.

Amanda Grantham

Self

Austin, TX

Please do what is best for Texans and stop all plans for redistricting. If you want to change district lines again, have the people of Texas vote on whether or not to allow it.

Diane Christopherson
self
Austin, TX

Greg Abbott caving to President Donald Trump's "request" to redraw Texas' congressional districts is just another example of the egregious lack of care for the sanctity of the vote and reveals GOP's current cowardly leadership. A two-party system has not existed in Texas in decades. Even though Republicans in the house and senate outnumber the Democrats in Texas, GOP legislators continually disregard the rights of citizens to exercise actual vote of opposition in an already unequal system that is no longer a democracy day by day. Disrespect of and refusal to even listen to ALL Texas citizens who do not appreciate what is being dismantled at the national and state level is not leadership. It is shameful and frankly un-American. Just because there is no law against redrawing maps before the mid-term doesn't make it ethically correct. Abbott was right to initially resist the idea. Now there is a rush to accomplish what should be done thoughtfully and with updated demographic information every 10 yrs; not whenever unethical politicians feel like it. And of course another round of lawsuits will follow. It has become tiresome. What a horrid lack of morality has taken over our state and our country. Of course SCOTUS neglected their legal duty long ago by allowing Citizens United to allow corporate mega funded PACs because apparently corporations are now people, and people are just trash. Then Texas removes body autonomy from women disregarding the medical and psychological consequences of this decision in the name of religion. The culture issues that predominate Texas legislative agenda is sad enough while climate change is denied and flooding kills children the GOP claims to care so much about, immigrant children are separated from their parents and racist law enforcers round up perfectly good people (and sometimes citizens of color) and put them in swamps and freezing cages. What have we become? Is any of this in the Bible?
I don't have to agree or disagree with everyone on the planet but I sure do believe in giving people agency, dignity and in human kindness. I simply do not understand why our "leaders" cannot work collaboratively to solve critical issues that really matter and that impact the environment, our health, the education of all future generations of children, and freedom of religious expression and even books we can read. According the Christian doctrine we all will be judged and not money nor power will matter but our souls will - and it's not looking like a good outcome from here for "leaders". I'm not woke or LGBT or any of the things that seem to bother GOP folks so much; but I do see a decline of tolerance and kindness and I pray it ends before I die. PLEASE don't do this selfish unethical redrawing and have some decency. Thank you

Stephanie Macon
Self- sales
Watauga, TX

I oppose the redistricting that is a blatant attempt at gerrymandering at the request of the president. This mid-cycle map times before midterm elections is an attempt to gain seats along partisan lines and disenfranchise minority voters. The state legislature should stay with the previously determined redistricting cycle and abandon this plan.

Mariel Amador
Self - Teacher
San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose this bill.

Patricia Zesut, Mrs
Self
Tomball, TX

I am extremely disturbed that the Legislature is reconvening specifically for the purpose of redistricting in a non-census year. The lines have already been drawn. There is absolutely no reason for this other than the President requesting it and the GOP’s inability to win those districts unless the lines are redrawn. Shame on anyone considering this anti-democratic, anti-American maneuver. How dare you try to thwart the will of your fellow Texans through this nonsense. The GOP will lose my vote forever if you go through with this.

Reed Bilz, Ms
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Residents of Tarrant County have already suffered from a power grab by our Country Judge. I am no longer represented by a commissioner who lives in my area. My interests are not the same as my gerrymandered fellow constituents. The court did not consider the hardship caused by their shameless efforts to rig the 2026 election.

I urge you to vote against HB 4 and get on with the business of leading Texas in fair and legal endeavors as you were elected to do.

Linda Bennett, Retired grandmother
Self
Houston, TX

I am a concerned Congressional District 18 constituent who votes in EVERY election. I strongly oppose any attempt to redraw Texas congressional maps in a way that consolidates political power at the expense of fair representation—especially for communities of color.
Redistricting should be a tool for democracy, not a partisan power grab. Unfortunately, what is being proposed by Republican leadership, including Donald Trump, appears to do just that: undermine the voting strength of Latino, Black, and other minority communities in Texas. These communities have fueled the state's population growth and deserve equitable representation—not to be diluted or divided for political gain.
This is not just bad policy—it's an affront to our democratic values. Voting maps should reflect the people, not entrench those already in power. Fair maps mean fair elections. Efforts to silence voters, especially those from historically marginalized communities, are unjust and will be challenged.
I urge you to reject any redistricting plan that undermines the Voting Rights Act, weakens minority representation, or prioritizes partisanship over people. Texans deserve better. Moreover, this is being done because of pressure from the White House- is that ethical? TELL GREG ABBOTT AND DONALD TRUMP NO!!

mary black, Dr.
self retired
Austin, TX

Over 5 million registered voters in Texas voted for Democrats in 2024, the second highest total in the country. It is patently unjust to gerrymander districts in order to silence those voters. If the people of Texas wanted redistricting, we would ask for it. We do NOT want redistricting because Trump asks for it, in fact we do not want it at all. Redistricting at this time is uncalled for, unnecessary, and merely pandering to Trump. It will destroy any hope of democracy that may remain for the United States. Do NOT do this.

Felecia Davis
Born Again Christians
Desoto, TX

While I am a strong advocate of the separation of Church & State, I'm compelled to speak to the sinful & blatant violations against the 10 Commandments of Gods Law. It would seem that TX Republicans have such a strong affinity to the 10 Commandments that they are placing them on the walls of our schools. So please allow me to apply God's Commandments to the actions of Legislators:
The very 1st commandment warns of exalting anyone or anything above the true and living God...(Thou shall have no other God before Me).
It's obvious that Donald Trump has become the god of TX Republican Legislators. Trump commanded them to STEAL 5 additional congressional seats representing communities of non-whites, and they are obeying. Although their obedience requires "Bearing False Witness" against under-represented communities of non-whites, they choose to satisfy Trump's "COVETousness Heart" to continue the control of the US House of Reps. The choice to obey Trump over God's commandments is a form of worship which is "Idolatry".
God's Word says that you can't serve two masters, and it is abundantly clear that Texas Republican Legislators have chosen Trump over God's Commandments.
So I'm calling on TX Republican Legislators to turn away from the idolatry of Trump and return to God's Commandments. Leave the current maps the same and do not STEAL away any more representative seats of non-white communities in Texas.
Be not deceived, whatsoever you sow....you will also reap.

Stacey Ferguson
SELF
HOCKLEY, TX

I vehemently oppose this unjust redistricting effort of cheating by the Republican party. We are living sad, dark days when WE THE PEOPLE have no trust in our elected officials. Where is the honor and basic human decency in politics today? Our democracy is falling apart every single day and with efforts like this shows we are truly lost. I pray this effort is not successful and God bless each soul involved in pushing this through.

Adam Rue
Self - engineer
San Antonio, TX

I’m writing to express my strong opposition to any redistricting plan that reduces the power of Texas voters through gerrymandering. Every community, regardless of race, background, or political belief, deserves fair and equal representation. Redistricting should reflect the will of the people, not be used to secure political advantage.

I urge you to support a transparent and nonpartisan process that ensures every vote counts. Democracy only works when it is fair.

Jon Stancik
Self
Tomball, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Sarah Kinard
Self
Helotes, TX

I absolutely oppose the redistricting. This bill does not equally represent the people of Texas.

Jose Sosa
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Texas trying to gain Republican seats by Redistricting mid-decade is a plain and simple cheating grab. One day when Republicans don’t control the Texas legislature, this bill will come back to haunt all Republicans! Dont pass it!

Jorge Casillas
Self
El Paso, TX

To the Esteemed Members of the Congressional Committee,

I am writing to you today as a deeply concerned constituent from El Paso, Texas, regarding the proposed redistricting plan outlined in recent reports. I strongly oppose the proposal to carve out parts of El Paso and merge them into the San Antonio district.

El Paso is a vibrant and significant city, fully capable of sustaining its own distinct congressional representation. Our city's unique identity, challenges, and needs are fundamentally different from those of San Antonio, a city located over 500 miles away. Representing a geographically fragmented district spanning such a large distance would inevitably lead to inadequate representation for El Pasoans, as our representative would struggle to maintain a meaningful presence in both areas.

Furthermore, this proposed redistricting feels unconstitutional and premature, occurring five years ahead of the scheduled process. If any changes are to be considered, El Paso should be expanding its district to encompass neighboring areas such as El Paso County and Hudspeth County, which share closer community ties and regional interests with our city.

I urge the committee to reconsider this proposal and uphold the principle of fair and effective representation for all Texans. El Paso deserves to maintain its integrity as a distinct and cohesive congressional district.

Sincerely,

A Concerned Constituent of El Paso

Marie Miglin
self, retired
Austin, TX

HB4 comments, 7.30.2025

Chair and committee members,

Thank you for the opportunity to provide these comments regarding HB4.

By shielding themselves from electoral consequences, elected Republicans aren't just redrawing maps; they're redrawing the very rules of democratic engagement. The result? A political landscape where dissent is punished, opposition is sidelined, and party loyalty is paramount. If that sounds familiar, it's because it echoes the centralized control strategies of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP).

Texas Republicans seem to admire the efficiency of the CCP in consolidating power and silencing critics. This isn't traditional conservatism. It's an authoritarian impulse to dominate indefinitely.

Texans deserve better than leaders who govern for themselves. This isn't just about redistricting, it's about resisting the slow transformation of Texas into a place where democracy becomes lip service instead of practiced principle.

I oppose this out of cycle redistricting and the resulting HB4, which is being dictated from outside of Texas and blindly implemented by elected Republicans here. Instead, I urge this redistricting committee to take this opportunity to implement a more fair and rational redistricting policy, by putting forward a joint resolution for a ballot referendum to establish an independent, non-partisan commission to be responsible for future redistricting.

We need more competitive districts, NOT more NON-competitive districts. This out of cycle redistricting push will take us further in the WRONG direction.

District boundaries should be drawn compact and contiguous. Many of our districts are not. The configuration of those that are not undermine the principles of fair representation. They defy logical and geographic coherence and they compromise the integrity of democratic processes. Enough already.

Sherry Lewis
Self, retired professor
El Paso, TX

The idea that an area of voters living in Far West Texas be represented by the same leader as San Antonio need to get a good map and observe the distance of the cities apart from one another. Ridiculous. Leave West Texas alone, and let San Antonio represent itself. El rPaso tends to vote Democrat, in keeping with our philosophy, so let it be.

Marsha Kamish
Myself
Katy, TX

I deserve my right to representation in Congress. You can try to steal it but that action will never be forgotten.

James talbot
self, artist
austin, TX

As a longtime Texas resident, I am angry at this blatant, anti-democratic power grab. It's unfair and against what our founding fathers intended.

Cindy Thomas, Mrs
Self
Houston, TX

This is BS. It’s not time to redraw the lines. This is an obvious power grab, but what it boils down to is racial gerrymandering- which is illegal!

Chris Powe
Self-retired
Grand Prairie, TX

I find it deeply disturbing that whenever there appears to be a chance that the GOP might have to relinquish a bit of power, it doubles down to tighten the stranglehold on good governance this state lost some time ago. Leave the already-unfair districts the way they are - play by the rules.

Tiara Derrick, Dr
Self
Rosharon, TX

I strongly oppose the newly proposed Texas redistricting map, which appears to violate both the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and the U.S. Constitution’s Equal Protection Clause. The map intentionally dilutes the voting strength of communities of color, particularly Black and Latino voters, even though these groups account for the majority of the state’s recent population growth. This constitutes racial gerrymandering and undermines the principle of one person, one vote.

By failing to create additional majority minority districts where legally required, the map disregards Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, which prohibits voting practices that result in discrimination based on race or ethnicity. The process also lacks transparency and public accountability, raising serious concerns about the integrity of our democratic institutions.

I urge the legislature and the courts to reject this map and support a fair, nonpartisan redistricting process that protects the legal and constitutional rights of all Texans.

Stephanie Legarreta
My family
EL Paso, TX

Please, Do not redistrict our city!

Kathy Schneider
self. Precinct chair/Dallas County precinct 2057
Dallas, TX

My name is Kathy Schneider and I live in CD24, TX12, HD108. I grew up in Austin without grandparents because a tyrant decided that they were illegitimate humans. My grandparents' rights were taken away. They lost their rights to make a living, to worship, to vote, to live in their home and eventually, they lost their right to live. Yes, this sounds extreme..... it is. I am disgusted that after almost 100 years, this extremism is coming to the US I have been born and raised in. Voting rights are being denied and humans are being illegitimized. Humans have a right to asylum as spelled out in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Recently, I became a German citizen. Ironic, isn't it? What would my German Jewish grandparents say about that? You may not care because you are doing the bidding for a hateful dictator just like the one who took away my grandparents' right to live.

Curtis and Jane Hoffman
Self
Dallas, TX

There are many Texans who are independents and Democrats who deserve to have their voices matter, their votes matter, and to know that our leadership cares as much about us as they do about their own followers. Everyone thinks that their ideas, values, needs should be addressed and win the day, but in a democracy we work together across party and other lines to find the best solutions for the most people. Stifling a large segment of voices in Texas to please and secure GOP leadership and dominance is not what makes our country unique and great. What made us great was when there was a true two party system with give and take, compromise, cooperation. Please let us have our voices, too. We have lost so much this year. Please give us an opportunity to be heard. Do not wiggle the lines so only one party can win most of this state where so many of us who will not be represented at all. Thank you.

Pamela E. Ice
Self, freelance writer, retired college professor
Dallas, TX

My name is Pamela E. Ice. I am a retired educator and I live in the North Oak Cliff neighborhood of Dallas in the already gerrymandered 33rd US Congressional District. I have come here to object to the mid-decade plan to redraw and further Gerrymander our congressional districts.
This redistricting is being entertained at the behest of Donald J. Trump who is searching for Five additional congressional seats to shore up the Republicans' narrow margin in the House. Governor Greg Abbott bowed to Trump's request to add redistricting to the special session agenda which should be focused on the Hill Country flooding, restoration, and future warning systems.
I implore this Congressional Redistricting Committee to decline to undertake this proposed Redistricting.
Sincerely,
Pamela E. Ice
2442 Alco Avenue
Dallas TX 75211-2613

Antonio Holguin
Self
El paso, TX

Leave the VA alone!

Katerina Cisneros
Self
Brookshire, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting plan. Redistricting should reflect the true demographics and interests of Texas communities, not serve partisan or discriminatory goals. The current proposal appears to dilute the voting power of minority communities and undermines fair representation. This is not only unjust, but it also erodes public trust in our democratic institutions. I urge the Senate to reject any maps that do not uphold the principles of equity, transparency, and accountability. Texans deserve fair maps that truly represent all of us-not just a select few.

Jessica Bundage
Self, Project Manager
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose the redrawing of Texas' congressional maps. There is no justification for this to be done now, more than 5 years after the 2020 census. Congressional maps in Texas are already gerrymandered enough to favor Republicans. If Republicans are truly confident in their ability to win elections and believe that their policies are the best policies for Texans, then they shouldn't feel the need to resort to such an obvious power grab. They should be able to win elctions with fairly drawn congressional maps on the strength of their positions and not through cheating.

Carolyn Brown
Self
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting makes absolutely no sense. It is clear what is happening and I'm so disgusted. My one neighborhood in Austin would be broken into three groups. One group would be with people from Odessa, one group with people near the Louisiana border and I would be with people 2.5 hours away from me in Hillsboro TX. It is so transparent what is trying to be accomplished and it is NOT listening to the voters in TX- it is manipulating them. Get it together, y'all!

Jennifer Kryska, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the redistricting of Texas. This will simply not be representative of the citizens of Texas. Not to mention the government overreach. This is not the path to making Texas a better state. All Texans votes should carry equal weight.

John Ficenec
Self / Photographer
Austin, TX

This is wholly undemocratic and thwarts the will of the people in districts like mine. Shame on a GOP that puts Party over Country. Your great-grandchildren will remember you protected a President who hung around individuals that engaged in pedophilia and sex trafficking.

Andrew Atlas
Self
Austin, TX

I am vehemently opposed to HB 4, which violates the democratic rights of the people of Texas. Currently, our congressional delegation is 66% (25/38) Republican despite the fact that Texas is approximately 55% Republican statewide. Based on statewide voting patterns, we should have only 21 Republican congressmen, yet this plan would create 30 (79%) Republican districts, which is a grotesque manipulation intended to serve the desires of one man: Donald Trump. Please respect the will of the people by doing the right thing, which means saying no to this arbitrary redrawing of our Congressional map.

Barbara Martin
Self
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting map is totally out of line with the people of Texas. The maps are drawn to explicitly make Democratic districts Republican. This is unfair, unethical and unnecessary. The districts are only being gerrymandered for political gain and to get Republicans elected. There is no constitutional concern. Our elected officials should be elected by consensus, not by gerrymandered maps which disenfranchises voters. Why is it not possible to draw fair maps for both parties? Are you so afraid Republicans cannot win on their own merit? Texas is still in recovery from the flood and trying to find their dead. This mid-decade redistricting should not be on the agenda right now. It is obvious to all the people that conducting redistricting right now is The Republican's effort at Trump's behest to cheat in elections and to disenfranchising voters.

Doug Farrell
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing against HB4 to redistrict the state of Texas. Partisan districting is wrong. It's wrong when New York does it, it's wrong when California does it, and it's wrong when Texas does it. Congressional representatives should be chosen to reflect the values and ideals of the people they represent even if you don't agree with those values. I certainly don't always agree with republican policies but I respect their ability to elect a proportionate number of politicians to voice them. Politicians changing district lines to engineer an outcome is absolutely abhorent - it disenfranchises voters and silences ideas.

Some of the greatest progress made by America has been through compromise, through listening to alternate ideas and working together to find solutions to our common problems. A mid-cycle redistricting to gerrymander 5 new Republican seats because the president told you to flies in the face of everything this House has been elected to do.

I was born and raised a Texan and I frankly have never been this embarrassed to bear that name. I hope this committee finds the courage to stop this redistricting, and maintain a (more) fair representation of the different people of the great state of Texas.

Thank you.

Raven Bonet
Self
El paso, TX

Gerrymandering should be illegal! Fort Bliss occupants many of them live and use El Paso’s resources, they are part of our district! This is a tactic to help the republican agenda!

Cecily Sailer, Ms.
Self, self-employed
Austin, TX

It is outrageous that the Republican leaders of this state, just weeks after the devastating floods in Central Texas, are prioritizing redistricting, which was already done five years ago, and which Republicans have been doing aggressively and unfairly for decades to disadvantage more progressive and minority voters. Our president is currently demolishing our democracy and Republican leaders are happy to do his bidding, shouting HOW HIGH when this man says JUMP. Republican leadership in this state has led to greater maternal mortality rates, destruction of Texas lands so corporations can make money off Texans and the beautiful spaces they love. Energy prices are rising, home prices are rising, we are facing increasing natural disasters right and left, and Republicans just want to gather more power. That's all this party is about -- stripping rights away from the people they serve, hoarding power, bullying trans people, making sure women die of miscarriage, and now bending over backwards, selling out the people of this state for a president who is hellbent on enriching himself while the rest of us scramble around for pennies. I love this state and have lived here my whole life. I love the culture, the land, the friendliness of the people. But the politics of this state are a source of tremendous shame. I wish Republicans had an ounce of shame themselves. Otherwise, we might have a viable future for our grandchildren.
Please find whatever scrap of morality you have left and drop this insane crusade. Let us keep our districts and turn your attention to more urgent matters for the good of Texas. That is your actual responsibility as elected officials.

Catherine Ballard
self
Cedar Park, TX

I am strongly opposed to the redistricting effort. It is unfair, uncalled for, and simply undemocratic. This effort is not about ensuring all registered voters in Texas have equal representation when casting their vote but to increase a certain group's representation. I am proud and grateful to live in the United States which has a system of checks and balances to ensure laws and rights are applied equally and enables us to have the democracy that so many have fought and died for. The more these checks and balances are degraded the closer we are to the losing the democratic principles this country is founded on.

Stephanie Williams
Black Voters Matter
Forney, TX

Good afternoon. My name is Stephanie Williams. I am a mother and grandmother, an activist, an organizer, and a former local elected official. I know firsthand how policy and representation determine the quality of life and resources available to families — especially those living in underserved urban and rural communities. Losing representatives of color doesn't just harm us now; it robs my children and their children of the ability to see fairness, equity, and equality reflected in leadership.

I stand here because when our rights are under attack — we fight back.

Right now, Texans are still recovering from devastating floods and other crises, yet instead of responding to these urgent needs, state leadership has called a special session to redraw congressional maps — maps already challenged for racial discrimination. This is not about fairness. It is about silencing Black and Brown voters, stripping our communities of power, and protecting political interests at all costs.

Texas already has one of the worst racially discriminatory gerrymanders in the nation. We should be repairing that injustice — not doubling down on it. Redistricting must be about people, not politics. Every Texan deserves fair representation, no matter their race, zip code, or income.

But we won't be silent. Black voters are the backbone of democracy. We've carried this country through every era of progress — and we're not backing down now.

We won't accept maps that carve us out and lock us out of the decisions and resources we've earned and deserve. We are organizing, educating, and mobilizing because the stakes are too high for our children and future generations.

It's time to take a stand and defend Texas from political overreach and attacks on our communities. We don't need maps drawn in fear. We need leaders rooted in justice.

We got power. We won't Black down. We fight back.

Thank you.

Leah Kaminsky
Self
Austin, TX

This gerrymandering is blatantly undemocratic. Imagine what would happen if the shoe was on the other foot for the opposite party. I know it never will be in TX -- but in your heart of hearts, do you actually consider this just? Fair? In keeping with the spirit of the founding fathers?

Grace Kuperman
self
Sugar Land, TX

Once again, Texas Republicans choose power and greed over their own people. Instead of working with POTUS to ensure your constituents don't lose their health care, food and housing assistance, disaster aid, and quality public education, you place your efforts in turning away from what is right—what government is meant to be for its citizens.

You defile what it means to be a modern conservative, abandoning any sense of integrity or service. People will lose their lives over your complete absence of common-sense priority setting. You grovel at the hands of our president, obeying his orders like a dog on a leash. You play games with policy, with people's livelihoods, and now—you know you cannot win.

This state is turning blue, and there is nothing you can do to stop the swell you know is coming. You may delay it, suppress it, redraw lines, and spin lies—but it is coming.

I'll go to sleep tonight knowing your heel to POTUS' call for redistricting out five Democrats—rather than doing what is best for Texas—will forever be a stain on your career and legacy. As a citizen. As an elected official. As a Texan. And as an American.

If you want a dictatorship so badly, go live in North Korea.

And while you're at it, be a gem and keep your white nationalist, corporate oligarchy out of our state. You are an unforgivable waste of American tax dollars—a parasite feeding off the very people you claim to represent.

Fernando Tafoya
self
El Paso, TX

A disruption of the ten year rule regarding redistricting will usher in consequences that will haunt our democracy for decades. The change proposed is not in the interest of Texans who agreed on districts already. An unreasonable change in the ten year rule, raises suspicion and presents to the public a question of whether we live in a democracy with rules one can rely on or are we now in an era where established rules can be ignored at the whim of any politician who has power at the time. The end result of this change is generating an era of turbulence where any party can ram through changes that the party believes are in their interest even though the accepted rule does not permit such an act. What follows this kind of policy? Battling interests every legislative session who do not need to concern themselves with any rules so the trend will be to advocate only for those issues that are in the interest of the party in power. Another party, like the Democrats can return the favor in a year or two and do what is being proposed by the Republican majority. The end result is electoral chaos, social unrest and a belief that our democracy is only a myth and the story can be changed on a whim. How would this bill's intent be explained to young persons interested in public service? Will the lesson be think only of yourself and use the system to empower yourself at the expense of the public good? On behalf of stability, precedent and the public good, this bill should be voted down.

Lori Wolter
Self
Austin, TX

I am absolutely opposed to the redistricting efforts by the Texas legislature. It is highly inappropriate for the president to dictate what the state of Texas should do. This effort is a clear attempt at voter manipulation. Please don't allow this to go forward.

Al Ludwick, Mr
Retired Pharmacist
Granbury, TX

Re drawing maps at this time is so absolutely obvious of a MAGA power grab. Say 'NO' to this or be forever known that TEXAS is as corrupt as the Trump administration. We are better than this. We, as Texan, are leaders, not followers of a corrupt Washington, DC. As a proud Texan, I'm begging you to please not soil Texas and not sell out to this Administration.

Sarah Gerson
Self
Austin, TX

This mid-decade redistricting is not normal. It’s a calculated, anti-democratic power grab. Why do you even run and hold office if you have no interest in presenting the will of your constituents? This is dishonest and the actions of fearful losers.

David Olivares
self/unemployed
San Antonio, TX

I am voicing my opposition to HB 4, a bill that is a second redrawing of the congressional maps the State of Texas uses to elect and send members of United States House of Representatives. Timing is everything and HB 4 came at a time that was rushed through, after the catastrophic flooding in Kerrville, Texas. That the redrawing of congressional maps is being brought up as a priority instead of relief for our own fellow Texans is quite frankly, tacky and gross. HB 4 is a slap in the face of this state and there is no reason to act like this is a priority, whatsoever.

Fred Herrera
Self
El Paso, TX

No to redistricting, to losing the airport, Fort Bliss, and the planned VA facility
No to losing our rights, voting freedoms and state and local constitutional rights. No to losing local representation for representation that is hundreds of miles away.

Joanie Steinhaus
self
Galveston, TX

Redistricting map. As you work your way through the process of creating a district map for the state of Texas, please ensure the map represents the people of the state and not a political party. Not only white people, but Hispanics, Asians, Afro-Americans, Native Original Americans and people of mixed race. The people of the state do not wish you to push your will upon them, but ask you to ensure their voices are heard and they have the ability to elect a candidate that represents them, their beliefs and backgrounds. Thank you.

Lucy Caire
Self
Houston, TX

We should be focusing on helping victims of the Hill country, floods, disaster, preparedness, flood, warning, equipment, and counties, where there is potential flooding. We do not need to waste time on redistricting when it was already already done in 2021. This is unfair and perhaps unlawful.

Farra Roessner
Self-employed business owner
Austin, TX

STOP with the redistricting plan. This is a big state, with a large population and yes DIVERSE lifestyles, occupations, needs and interests. By orchestrating this POWER GRAB you will be creating a complete bias so that only one agenda can be in place. That of Donald Trump. His concepts for this country are not necessarily legal, protective, healthy, morale or in the best interest of the PEOPLE. All the people. What is the matter with the Republican Party? Can you not represent your constituents according to constitutional principles? Can you not convince the people that what the party proposes is beneficial? Why do you have to do everything through force and chicanery? If a party cannot be forthright, it is because they are scheming to implement untoward and undemocratic demands upon the people. And clearly take away rights and freedoms that this country was founded on. Who are you people and what is it that you want?

Marty Harston
Self
Amarillo, TX

As a long-time registered voter who votes in local, state and federal elections I see no justifiable reason for the proposed redistricting. Texas is better than this, Texas should stand for all its citizens without the need to skew elections.

Earl Crane, PhD
self
The Hills, TX

I am writing to express my strong and unequivocal opposition to House Bill 4 (HB4), authored by Rep. Todd Hunter. This bill represents yet another blatant attempt to manipulate our electoral maps for partisan gain, undermining the principles of fair representation, democratic accountability, and the voting rights of Texans—particularly communities of color.

HB4 is not about ensuring fair or legal redistricting. It's a transparent power grab designed to entrench political control and silence growing, diverse populations across the state. Instead of respecting demographic realities and public input, this bill accelerates gerrymandering that fractures communities, dilutes minority voting strength, and reduces electoral competition.

Texans deserve districts drawn transparently, inclusively, and in compliance with the Voting Rights Act—not rushed, backroom efforts that rig the game for incumbents. This bill continues a shameful legacy of discriminatory redistricting in Texas, already challenged in court and criticized by federal judges in the past.

I urge lawmakers to reject HB4 in the strongest possible terms. Pass meaningful reforms to create an independent redistricting commission, restore public trust in the process, and ensure that voters choose their leaders—not the other way around.

Democracy in Texas deserves better than HB4. I stand with the many Texans demanding fair maps, equal representation, and a redistricting process we can all believe in.

Will Clark
Self
austin, TX

I do not support this obvious attempt to disenfranchise Rep Doggett's current district. I 100% support Rep. Doggett and his views and opinions.

Melitta Berger
Self, funding director
Austin, TX

Redistricting mid-decade is not necessary at this time. Please use your limited capacity to focus on more important life or death matters, such as flooding response, and the dire needs for affordable housing.

Savannah Larimore
Self
Austin, TX

I am an Austin resident writing to oppose HB 4 which plans to redraw the districts and significantly impact federal representation among my community. This bill intends to suppress voters in the Austin metro area and sets a dangerous precedent ahead of midterm elections. Already, Governors across the country including large Democratic strongholds like Illinois and California, have proposed similar bills should this one in Texas pass. Is this what our democracy has come to? A dash to redraw districts ahead of every election to favor the current presidential power? What is the long game here? This bill is dangerous and near sighted. I urge each and every one of you to consider the immediate and long term consequences of your actions on this bill. You have a chance here to do what is right for our state and our country, I hope you will meet the moment and vote "no" on this bill.

Tom Thornton
Self
United States of America, TX

The Texas Republican Party has completely subverted itself to Donald Trump. We have zero local control. Representatives and Senators are under threat of being primaried or lose their spot. They are willing lapdogs with zero original thought. There's next to no actual discourse within the Texan political caucus. Just obedience. I don't know why you guys got into politics in the first place, but it was apparently so you could fulfill your lifelong dream to be a bunch of cucks. I'm embarrassed for you.

Delwin Goss
Montopolis Community Alliance
Austin, TX

You can do this. I have no faith in a MAGA owned Texas Governor and Legislature, but don't whine when Blue States do the same thing. It's no longer about the Common good but strictly about your parties corruption, lies, treason, rape, sexplotation of minors and all. Basically a Fake Christian version of the Taliban.

Rowena Dasch
self, executive director
Austin, TX

I am disgusted by this mid-decade redistricting of Texas. There isn't even the slightest effort to make this look legitimate. If the shoe were on the other foot, the Republican Party would be crying bloody hell about this. The number of norms that have now been overturned over the past six months, and indeed over the past number of years, is appalling. I fear we are very close to voiding the civic contract and descending to chaos. There will be backlash over this as over so many of the issues that are in front of us right now. But for a society to function, you need stability, and the political whiplash needs to end. If the Republican majority passes this redistricting map, on what grounds would you stand to object if the Democratic Party were to find themselves in the position to return the favor? This must not happen.

Bruce Harris
Self - Consultant
Dallas, TX

Redistricting based solely on the demand by Trump shows me you are NOT doing your job in the best interests of Texas. This flies in the face of GOP's so-called 'less federal interference, more state independence'. Your wholesale willingness to violate our district makeup solely for your own power grab is despicable. Your efforts will be met by being voted out of office.
Is your moral conscience that misguided? I hope you can live with yourself if you vote for this most undemocratic action.
Obviously, this is more important than flood control and other critical needs of the state.

Plus, your complicity with taking instructions from a pedophile and convicted rapist tells me your moral fiber is tenuous at best.

Show some cajones and personal integrity by voting against this redistricting fiasco.

Sandra Colston
Self
Plano, TX

For years, Texas has fought to remain as independent of national politics as possible, sometime to the detriment of Texan citizens (flood warning systems along the Guadeloupe eg). Now, all of a sudden, the white house calls and Texas Republicans jump. Redistricting, or gerrymandering as it is rightfully called, mid census, not to insure the voting rights of Texas citizens, but to gain more republican congressional seats for the facist, felon, pedophile in DC, is out and out cheating. I am asking you to be the strong, independent and honorable people God made you, and vote for fairness, independence and the good of your constituents, by voting NO for HB4.

Jenna Napier
Myself and family
Denton, TX

Texans do not want new maps drawn until they are due in 2031. At that point if they are to be redrawn, they should be done by Texans and the public should be able to give input, rather than coming from an out of state source. If Republicans want to stay “in power” they should try implementing and voting for policies that are good for us and that we want, rather than cheating after pushing through unpopular and harmful policies.

Anne Russey
Self
Katy, TX

I strongly oppose redistricting proposals laid out in HB 4. I urge our representatives to do the same. Politicians should not have to cheat to win. Let your policies speak for themselves and persuade voters. Please stop playing political games, bowing to Donald Trump, and focus on serving the constituents - ALL constituents- of this state. Thank you.

Kristi Michener, Mrs.
Self--Retired Educator
Austin, TX

I am deeply saddened that our state is considering this Congressional re-districting scheme. It seems especially grim as we are currently living in the wake of the loss of so many lives in the horrible flooding tragedies that have just occurred. When a special session of the Texas Legislature is called at a time when we should be considering how best to protect innocent lives, prevent and properly manage terrible disasters, it is tragic that we are instead focusing full attention on a deliberate move to disempower citizens of Texas—especially those of color—from having a representative voice in our government!
A close look at the proposed Texas House map shows intentional targeting and dismantling of currently strong performing districts of color with historical significance. It ignores that several of the targeted districts were put in place by the courts to reckon for past discrimination by the state.
Consequently, the Texas House map proposal represents an extreme power grab at the expense of communities of color, layered on top of an already heavily gerrymandered map from 2021; and it tries to disguise racial gerrymandering under the guise of partisan gerrymandering.
In addition, since there is already pending litigation regarding the legality of the current maps, this makes a new level of redistricting both improper and illegal.

Charlene Shafer
self
Cypress, TX

My name is Charlene Shafer. I live in Cypress, Congressional District 38. One of the two new majority white districts created during the 2021 redistricting despite the census data showing the population growth was primarily people of color. The census reports whites are 45% of the population but control 60% of the congressional districts. It should be no surprise that the current maps are still being reviewed by a federal court. The new maps would gerrymander the representation to be 79% white with only 21% representation for people of color. Districts where people can elect their candidate of choice would decrease from 13 to 8. Texas has intentionally discriminated against voters of color for the past 50 years. This bogus redistricting attempt piles discrimination on top of discrimination.
Instead of focusing on the problems of Texas, Greg Abbott & Donald Trump have decided it's time to redistrict Texas in an attempt to maintain & increase power for an incompetent administration. If the Trump administration were not passing highly unpopular policies that

- take away health care & SNAP benefits from thousands of Americans
- give billionaires tax breaks
- cause food housing & health care costs to balloon
- spend more money on ICE than many countries spend on their army
- kidnap citizens, legal immigrants & hard working, law abiding undocumented immigrants from our streets without legal recourse

To mention only a few unpopular policies, there would be no need to redistrict to steal & cheat to win the next election.
What has happened to the Texas spirit of Independence? Where are the people who demand 'state's rights'. Greg Abbott & the Texas legislature should not bow down & kiss the ring of this unpopular, felonious president. This is another blatant attempt to silence more voters especially people of color.
Texas must solve our state's problems rather than silencing the voters of Texas to satisfy Washington DC. The current litigation should be settled before any redistricting takes place. The legislature needs to refuse to conduct redistricting mid-decade & concentrate on issues that matter to Texans.

Edith Sorenson
Self, professional
Houston, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal, wait until the proper time, and then make any needed changes with districts drawn to provide all Texans with fair representation. This is a dismal exercise: the map will inevitably be challenged in court. Wait until the proper time and perhaps for the first time since the Voting Rights Act Texans will have a map that isn't found to violate the Voting Rights Act. Moreover, if is true that this unprecedented mid-decade redistricting is to serve demands of the Trump administrations demands rather than the need of Texans, that is shameful! Reject this proposal!

Courtney Milligan
Self
Rosenberg, TX

Stop the gerrymandering. Stop cheating to win. Stop ignoring the voices of the people you are supposed to represent.
Start paying attention. Start calling sessions to vote on things that help the people here, like disaster relief.

Dwayne Cummings
Community Self and Family
Fort Worth, TX

We are intentionally observing the Public servants on this legislation.

alan friedman, Prof. Emeritus
self
AUSTIN, TX

This gerrymandering is a naked power-grab that serves only the narrowest political motive. Redistricting should occur only after a new census every 10 years and be administered by a bi-partisan commission that serves the interests of the state's constituents, not those who happen to have power at any given moment.

N Miles
Self, IT
Elgin, TX

Shame on you. This is not the way to get what you want. You all know that this is wrong - you are doing evil. Do the tight thing and draw reasonable districts. Grow up, this isnt a board game, this is real life.

Jill Elliott
Self : entrepreneur
Austin, TX

This attempt to redraw district lines is an unlawful, unethical and short-sighted power grab by Republicans more interested in retaining power for the FEW than representing the voices of the MANY people that live in Texas. It is appalling to see our state bend to the whims of our current President, to try to pad future elections, because Republicans are concerned with the backlash of their current policies and actions and how that will affect them in the polls. Instead of cheating and rigging the system, Republicans should face the voters they represent and truly understand our needs to represent us fairly.

This gerrymandering will unfairly target people of color and low income populations of Texas, further marginalizing voices Republicans wish could be silenced, who deserve a voice and vote in how our state and nation is run.

Do better.
Fight fair.
Do your jobs and represent the needs of ALL Texans in government.
Instead of lying, cheating, rigging elections, and working to keep yourselves in power for the betterment of you and the 1% you wish you represented.

Thomas Sanders, Mr.
Self
Sumner, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Dawn Scheffer
self
Krum, TX

As a lifelong Texas voter, I believe redistricting driven by Washington undermines democracy by favoring partisan interests over fair representation. Mid-decade map changes set a troubling precedent, risks silencing communities—especially in South Texas—and erodes voter trust. Redistricting should reflect the will of Texans, not serve the agenda of any one party. Please vote against any map changes.

christopher coleman
Self
Plano, TX

This is all part and parcel of the Republican effort to grab further power at the expense of the public's interests. The effort is not about fairness in what it's trying to achieve nor in how it's being achieved. It's solely for the self interest of the Republican Party. It is not to fairly represent the public, a principle upon which our government was founded. It is naked aggression upon our representative democracy. It is un-American. It is un-Texan. It is wrong, very wrong.

I strongly urge this committee to reject any maps as part of this redistricting effort. They do not reflect Texas's preferences for Congressional representation.

Sylvia Vega
Self
Converse, TX

Redistricting is solely for the purpose of suppressing and/or unfairly setting barriers for citizens to vote. Every American 18 years or older should have a right to vote without any barrier tangible or intangible!!!

Sarah Bruni self-self-employed and mother
Dallas, TX

This is not how a Democracy works. We are tired of the Texas Republicans stealing seats and gerrymandering.

Haar Miller, Mr.
Self
Austin, TX

This is a shameful, corrupt attempt based entirely on the whims of federal officials to engineer preferred outcomes. This will increase division in our state, further erode electoral norms, and is wildly irresponsible. Gerrymandering has a long history in the United States, and it started in New England. It is a mechanism of political nepotism and elitism that responsible, reasonanle citizens abhor and detest. This committee should focus on fair redistricting based on relflecting and uplifting the communities that exist and are desperate for authentic representation. Anyone who votes on these vortex districts, built entirely around voter patterns and not political, geographical, cultural, or human development is willfully complicit in the destruction of our institutions and unfit for office. Are these maps created by A.I. agents? Is this the future you want for your neighbors and families? Please stand up and fight for texans civic rights, and separate us decisively from the national efforts to divide us further. A republic only works if representatives are prudent, and wise in their decisions of public trust. Please deliver us from this madness and continue our tradition of independence and exceptionalism among the states.

Gloria Hunt
Self
Austin, TX

Totally unnecessary. Totally ignores logical community based districts. Exacerbates the current big political divide. Shameful.

Jamie Gardner
Self
Austin, TX

Good morning,

My name is Jamie Gardner and I’m a constituent from Austin, 78751.

I'm calling to urge the committee to oppose HB 4 and the mid-decade redistricting called by the Governor. It makes no sense to spend any time on further partisan gerrymandering when we should be 100% focused on disaster prevention and relief. It's the least we owe to the 135 souls lost to the floods and the lack of a warning system. It is unconscionable to put political positioning over this work and their loss.

Further, what would an abuse of your power look like, if not changing the rules to benefit only your side? We are Americans and we are better than this. We should stand for every American having a voice in their government. Please do everything in your power to stop this shameful dilution of representation from our few minority-majority districts -- clearly targeted on this basis.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Michael Hebert
Myself
Austin, TX

I am writing to you today with a deep sense of frustration and disappointment regarding H.B. 4 and the broader issue of gerrymandering. This is not a technical disagreement; this is a fundamental betrayal of the democratic principles our state and nation were founded upon.

Gerrymandering is a deliberate act of rigging the system. It manipulates district lines not to serve the people, but to serve a political agenda, effectively devaluing the votes of countless Texans. This process robs citizens of their voice and their power, turning our elections into a predetermined exercise rather than a genuine expression of the will of the people.

I urge you, in the strongest possible terms, to reconsider this approach. We deserve a transparent and fair redistricting process that empowers all Texans, not one that disenfranchises us. Do not approve a system that puts politics over the people.

Erica Matlock, Esq
Self
Austin, TX

Texas Republicans are rushing this bill through because they know it's unpopular and it's likely illegal. Ken Paxton has sworn in Court that these maps are legally drawn and race-neutral; so what basis does Greg Abbott have for redrawing them when no new data has been presented and when the maps have been upheld in court? Who is lying? Republicans also told Texans and the world on Monday that no map had been drawn. So how did the map appear on Wednesday? Who drew it? What data was it based on? And who directed its creation? Who all saw it before it was released to the public? When was it given to members of the House and senate? Why are you only allowing public comment for one day after the public release of the map? Texans deserve answers; instead we're given secrecy. Flood relief was supposed to be the focus of the special session, under auspices of Greg Abbott. But Republicans have had seven (7) hearings about redistricting. Where is flood relief? The reality is that Article 3 of the Texas Constitution, under Sec. 49-d-3 has provided for a special fund for water projects which specifically mentions flood control. That section of the Constitution was added in 1985, before I was even born. In the Kerr County Commissioners Meeting on August 28, 2017, Commissioner Moser said Kerr County did not need additional funding for flood damage, because they had six million dollars in reserve/surplus funding and any money paid out would be reimbursed by FEMA (check the transcripts). According to CBS, Texas has at least $23 BILLION in surplus funding and more than $28 BILLION in its rainy-day fund. I urge Democrats to break quorum if your Republican colleagues refuse to do their jobs. They have let someone else draw a map they haven't seen or researched for more than 72 hours. And they want us to trust it, but they can't or won't tell us who has drawn it, why, and what data they used. There are more than 30 million Texans and they're only allowing public testimony for several hours on one week day, during business hours in the work week, in one city. If the Republicans truly cared about flood funding, they could have put up for a vote at any time during the regular session or this special session to use the rainy day or surplus funds without crafting new legislation. They're disingenuous about why this special session was called, and Greg Abbott is playing politics with the deaths of little girls in order to sell Texans down the river in service of Donald Trump. He and republicans are also trying to outlaw THC but paying no attention to the addictive and deadly kratom drinks that are being sold to kids at gas stations because the truth is they can't be bothered to learn what kratom is. They have no idea what the real problems are that Texans are facing because all they do is take lobby money and parrot their talking points. A sweetgig, if you can get it. But the rest of us have to work for a living. Which is why there aren't more people at the Capitol today.

Destiny Villarreal
Self
San Antonio, TX

Public Comment on HB?4: Mid-Decade Redistricting in Texas

My name is Destiny and I am submitting this comment to strongly oppose HB?4, the bill introduced in the Texas Legislature's Special Session to redraw U.S. House of Representatives maps mid-decade, effective for the 2026 election cycle.
HB?4 represents an unprecedented and deeply concerning departure from the standard democratic process. Redistricting is intended to occur once per decade based on census data, a process Texas already completed in 2021 following the 2020 census. This mid-cycle redistricting, initiated just four years later, raises serious questions about the integrity and intent of this effort. The timing and scope make it clear that HB?4 is not about fair representation but about political gain.
The draft map unveiled on July?30,?2025 is designed to potentially flip up to five Democratic-held seats, which would shift Texas's congressional delegation from 25 Republican seats to 30 out of 38. This would fundamentally alter the balance of representation in our state without any new census data to justify such sweeping changes.

Critics, including civil rights organizations, voting rights experts, and community leaders across Texas, have correctly identified HB?4 as a textbook case of partisan gerrymandering. The proposed maps target minority-heavy and Democratic-leaning communities, particularly in Houston, Austin, Dallas, and South Texas—areas that are home to large Black and Latino populations. If enacted, HB?4 threatens to significantly dilute these communities' voting power and undermine decades of progress under the Voting Rights Act.

Supporters of HB?4 argue it is a legal response to Department of Justice concerns over race-based districting, but this justification rings hollow. The proposed changes do not protect minority representation; they fracture and diminish it. Gerrymandering communities of color under the guise of compliance is still a violation of the Voting Rights Act and of the fundamental principle that every Texan's vote should carry equal weight.
The process surrounding HB?4 has only deepened public distrust. The special session, which began July?21 and runs through August?19, has been marked by rushed hearings and limited public input despite massive protests and overwhelming opposition. Hearings, including those held at the University of Houston, have seen ordinary Texans—Republican, Democrat, and Independent—stand up to reject this blatant power grab. Yet the Legislature appears poised to move forward without regard to the voices of the very people these maps are meant to represent.Democratic leaders at the state and national level, including Minority Leader Hakeem Jeffries, are already exploring legal and procedural avenues such as quorum breaks and litigation to block HB?4. Federal lawsuits challenging the 2021 maps remain unresolved, and if HB?4 passes, it will almost certainly trigger years of costly legal battles that Texas taxpayerswill fund.

Deedra Van Ness
Self
Santa Fe, TX

Please stop Gerrymandering our state and allow everyone's voices to matter. Vote against redistricting.

Conrad Davis, Mr.
self
San Antonio, TX

I find it unconscionable to perform a special mid-decade redistricting in such a brazen and cynical attempt to further gerrymander this state. Let the people have their voice and a fair vote!

Michi Lafary
Self
Austin, TX

Please do not adopt these new boundaries for voters. There is no need to do this.

Kara Banff
Self - Sr. Enterprise Partner Manager
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the current redistricting zones proposed in Texas. These maps are blatant examples of gerrymandering — drawn not to reflect the will of the people, but to entrench political power and silence the voices of communities of color, urban voters, and working-class Texans.

Redistricting should be a fair and transparent process that ensures every vote counts equally. Instead, these manipulated district lines undermine our democracy by distorting representation and diminishing public trust in our electoral system. Voters should choose their representatives — not the other way around.

I urge lawmakers to reject this undemocratic redistricting plan and demand a map that truly reflects the diversity, geography, and interests of Texas voters.

Kurt Wise
The American people
Austin, TX

I'm against HB4, the people are not served by riggings elections in order to cover up poor policy.

Susan Anderson
Self/ Teacher
Austin, TX

As a public school educator and union member in Austin, Texas, I urge the committee to reject this attempt to gerrymander our districts, for political gain.

Diarmid Campbell
Self, Assistant Business Agent
San Angelo, TX

Good afternoon, Members of the Legislature.

My name is Diarmid Campbell, I'm with the IBEW Local 520, and a resident of San Angelo. I appreciate the opportunity to speak before you today, and I thank you for your attention to a matter that impacts every corner of our state: redistricting.

I'm here to express serious concerns about the bill currently under review during this special session. Redistricting isn't just a technical exercise—it's the foundation of fair representation in Texas. When the process lacks transparency or tilts toward partisan interests, it threatens to silence communities that have historically fought for a seat at the table.

This proposed bill risks doing just that. It prioritizes political advantage over public trust, and in doing so, it could dilute the voices of underrepresented populations—especially in working-class neighborhoods like mine.

I urge you to oppose this bill and instead stand for a redistricting process built on fairness, accountability, and respect for all Texans. Every one of us deserves a voice that counts equally, regardless of zip code or background. That's not a partisan principle—it's a democratic one.

Thank you again for your time, your service, and your commitment to protecting the integrity of our electoral process.

Cecily Dennis, Dr
Self
Austin, TX

Absolutely not!
If you want me to believe that the Republican Party should be renamed the fascist party of America then keep doing what you're doing. So far I've seen nothing but a limiting of the voice of the people. Act like you represent The People of Texas and stop this nonsense. He wanted to dilute the voice of the opposition. I guess that means you're afraid that really you are a minority. If you've got so much power and so much of the voice why do you need to redistrict? Only losers afraid of losing power would try this BS.

Bryan Keeley
myself
Longview, TX

I'm testifying in FAVOR of HB4.

Jonathan Ledwig
self
Victoria, TX

Greetings- As a Texas AFT member and former public school educator in Victoria County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Marvin Brown, Mr
self
Frisco, TX

If you can't win except by fine-tuning your house districts to specific mathematically perfect subsets of voters, then you're not really participating in representative democracy. This is a transparent attempt to achieve a political outcome that has nothing to do with governance, and it needs to stop.

Patricia Hessel
Self retired CPA
Onalaska, TX

Unlawful, shameless, power grab by power hunger people.

Ashli Acevedo
Self
Lumberton, TX

To the Members of the Texas Committee on Redistricting,

I write today to express my unequivocal opposition to the proposed redistricting plans currently under review. I request that this testimony be entered into the official public record as a formal objection rooted in concern for racial equity and democratic integrity.

The proposed maps reflect deliberate dilution of voting power among historically marginalized communities—particularly communities of color—by fracturing neighborhoods, disrupting communal bonds, and diminishing opportunities for genuine representation. This is not only a disservice to the constituents affected but a direct violation of the protections guaranteed under the federal Voting Rights Act.

Texas's strength lies in its diversity. Any plan that weaponizes redistricting to silence voices and perpetuate systemic disenfranchisement runs counter to the very ideals our democracy was built upon. These racial undertones and consequences must be confronted, not codified.

I urge the committee to reject any map that contributes to voter suppression under the guise of administrative necessity. You are entrusted with the power to draw lines that lift voices—not silence them—and history will judge these decisions accordingly.

Let this letter serve as a documented stand against injustice and as a call for maps that reflect fairness, equity, and legal compliance.

Respectfully,
Ashli Acevedo
Lumberton, TX 77657

Annalee Ring
self
Houston, TX

This redistricting ensures that elected officials do not represent the politics, desires, and goals of their constituency. This is an undemocratic move to gain power and is against the wishes of the people you supposedly represent.

Ashly Waltman self, Quality
Rosharon, TX

The ongoing redistricting process in Texas raises serious concerns about fairness, representation, and the integrity of our democracy. Rather than reflecting the true demographics and political makeup of the state—particularly in diverse and rapidly growing areas like Fort Bend County—the proposed maps appear to be blatant attempts at gerrymandering, designed to dilute the voting power of communities of color and suppress the voices of liberal and Democratic constituents. This undermines the principle of "one person, one vote," and disenfranchises voters who deserve to have their interests fairly represented. Redistricting should not be used as a political weapon to entrench power; instead, it must be guided by transparency, equity, and a commitment to reflecting the will of the people.

Alistair Welchman, Dr.
Self, University Professor
San Antonio, TX

As a Texas AFT member and university educator in San Antonio, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Lauren Jalufka
Self
Bee Cave, TX

I am FOR HB4 and redistricting the Congressional Districts.

Rustin Wright
Self
Frisco, TX

I support HB 4 for creating fair, lawful districts that reflect Texas’s population and protect voter representation. Please pass this bill.

Sylvia Orellana
Self
Pasadena, TX

Do NOT redistrict. Gerrymandering should not be allowed

Lindsay Rojas
Self
Austin, TX

AGAINST - this purposed re-districting does not accurately represent Texas residents and should not be passed.

Mobi Warren
self, retired public school teacher
San Antonio, TX

This is a blatant and undemocratic power grab. As a Texan, I am appalled by this proposal on redistricting.

Jenna Fishner
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest.

Stacie Miller
Self
Austin, TX

Adamantly opposed to this redistricting plan. It is a power grab and means less representation for all. This flies in the face of what our founders meant when they established representation for the people. You are not solving our real problems and should be focusing on what we need and not just your political power grabs.

Raymond Yin
N/A
Austin, TX

"I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest."

Linda Adair
Self
Snook, TX

I live in District 10. It is already gerrymandered as there is the thin strip connecting most of the district to a portion around and in Austin that contains the home of Rep. McCaul. I believe that the legislature picked him to be our representative. I now see that the proposed district now contains another thin strip that connects us to another further away location. I don't believe that when you have to use thin strips of land to form a district that it is going by the rules of creating districts. It is also insane for a state government to bow to a presidents desire to make elections illegal. District 10 needs to be un-gerrymandered.

Dixie Houston
Self
Austin, TX

I am very opposed to this bill. It isn't fair and it's manipulative on the part of the Republican Party. Please vote no.

Lesa Walker, Dr.
Self; Physician
Austin, TX

I 100% oppose the proposed redistricting map. It does not accurately reflect and represent the people of this state and where they live. It is created to force upon the people a specific alignment that favors the Republican party. This is NOT democracy. The districts should be created to reflect adjacent neighborhoods where people share common life experiences and which allow them to elect Congressional representatives to address issues that pertain to where they live. Gerrymandering is dirty politics. Please act ethically and uphold the principles of democracy by voting against this bill. Please strengthen the fairness of our election process and do not succumb to the temptation to tip the scales in favor of any political party. If Texas allows redistricting to aid and abet one political party, that is against everything that we hold dear in our democracy. You are accountable for ensuring a fair election process. I expect that you will!! Thank you!

John Gardner
Self
Austin, TX

I would like to address HB 4, the redistricting bill.

The already flawed district maps drawn in 2021 have been accepted by the voters and the courts. In the proposed maps, my district is ludicrously broken up and lumped with wildly different communities with different needs.

It seems obvious with this clearly illegitimate redistricting will spark other (Democratic) states will retaliate, reducing the voice of voters that you should be considering.

Both this special session and the inevitable legislation, which will surely cost taxpayers millions of dollars, represent a huge waste of money which is not what I expect from financially conservative representatives.

Karen Sager
Self, retired
Somerville, TX

This is an off year, illegal gerrymander of voting districts that are already heavily weighted toward Republicans. I strongly object.

Deb Mooneyham, Ms
Self
Houston, TX

You know you're not fooling anybody with this redistricting we are paying our taxes and we should be able to have the representation that represents us. Not just Republicans and not just Democrats. You are opening a can of worms and the retaliation by the blue states are going to put you in a situation where you will be run by only blue Trump will not succeed in his terrible presidency. It's going to get worse and all of you Republicans will be voted out just watch. I don't even vote most times locally but boy will I now!

Brigid Shea, Commissioner
Self
Austin, TX

Thank you members. I'm Travis County Commissioner Brigid Shea, & long time environmental advocate, speaking for myself. I have no illusions that my testimony will change the outcome, but I believe it's important to call out the fundamental unfairness of this proposal.
We regularly hear from the president that the system is rigged; that the actions of the powerful are unfair; that people are being cheated. It's a big part of the national conversation and I believe, when untrue, it contributes to corrosive cynicism about politics and our democracy.
So I have a few questions: do you all believe that this mid-decade redistricting, with no new census data, passes the fairness test? By comparison, this would be like a football team, believing they might lose, changing the rules in the middle of the game. Would anyone think that was fair?
Another question is, if the Democrats were in the majority and they did this, would you think it was fair?
Finally, which do you really think is more important and deserving of your time-unfair redistricting or serving the devastated flood victims and funding the infrastructure to prevent this kind of disaster in the future.
I'll leave you with this: I presume you became a State Rep because you believe in government and you believe in our democracy..so please don't undermine it and don't give people more evidence to believe the system is rigged.

Claire Duncan
Myself
Austin, TX

Shameful power grab that undermines the will of the people

Betty Gallegos
self
El Paso, TX

I think that re-drawing district lines out of the regular residtricting sequence is wasteful of the legislature's time. It also sends a message that the current Federal Administration has a strangle hold on it's designated party. I would much rather that each legislator, both State and Federal, follow their own decisions as relating to theis constituents, and that they primarily focus on theis constituents needs.

Cyd Goldfarb
self
El Paso, TX

I am against redistricting major parts of El Paso to be represented by someone who has no interest in the well being of our community as well as Ft. Bliss. Ft. Bliss has always been considered a part of the El Paso community and I expect representation from someone who lives in my city. What is being done is criminal and unconstitutional.

Mary Lynn Rice-Lively
self retired
Austin, TX

As a native Texan dedicated voter and I’m calling Texas Representatives to stand strong against the Trump-ordered gerrymandering. A healthy democracy facilitates an electoral system where citizens by voting choose who represents them. We do NOT want elected officials, especially those acting as puppets for the Trump regime to choose who represents us by drawing voting districts into a gerrymandered configuration that favors a felon President. Vote against the proposed newly drawn voting districts.

Susan Simmer self - citizen
Austin, TX

Stop this racist redistricting fiasco. Your unusual mid-decade redistricting comes after a pressure campaign waged by failing-would-be-dictator Trump’s hopes of padding Republicans’ narrow majority in the U.S. House. Do the right thing for citizens and LET US VOTE and be fairly counted

Chuck Kelley
Myself
Haslet, TX

Please support the redistricting plan.

Michael Wolfe, Hon.
Self
Houston, TX

I support HB 4.

Tanya Kelly
Self, Office Manager
Nacogdoches, TX

I support HB4 and the redistricting map as proposed.

Brian Nelligan
Brian Nelligan
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting plan is a blatant power grab by corrupt and morally bankrupt republicans looking to use any means necessary to consolidate power and diminish the voices of those who do not agree with them. This plan to gerrymander Austin and other progressive cities is despicable and should not be allowed to proceed because its intended purpose is to skew voter representation, and it is an affront to the democratic principles our state, and country, were founded upon.

Barbara Aguilar
self
El Paso, TX

shame on you for even considering this!!! Stand up and do what's right for the people of El Paso and the other areas you are gerrymandering. We know what's best for us. SHAME ON YOU! I don't understand how you can cave in to this. Power comes with a price.

Donna Collins
Self retired
Fort Worth, TX

I support HB 4 redistricting

Shelby Goodrum
Self
Austin, TX

I am against this redistricting plan.

Erynn Cherveny
self
Austin, TX

Fully against it. This is stupid.

Jessica Deel
self - graphic designer
Lufkin, TX

Public Comment Opposing HB 4 – Congressional Redistricting in Texas

I'm writing to oppose HB 4. I'm a long-time Texas resident, and I care deeply about the integrity of our democratic process. As a woman and a voter, I believe fair representation is the foundation of a healthy democracy—and this bill threatens that foundation.

HB 4 appears to continue a troubling pattern of gerrymandering that protects those in power instead of reflecting the true diversity and needs of our communities. I'm especially concerned about the lack of transparency in the redistricting process and the disregard for meaningful public input.

The maps we draw now must respect the voices of all Texans—especially those who have historically been excluded or overlooked. Fair maps are essential to ensuring that every vote counts and every voice matters.

I urge our lawmakers to reject HB 4 and commit to a redistricting process that is transparent, equitable, and representative of the people—not just the politicians.

Amy Moore
self, retired
Austin, TX

I am urging all members of the Texas House of Representatives to reject the Trump redistricting maps. It is reprehensible that the map is being redrawn 4 short years after the last redraw. This is a complete power grab by Washington, D.C. - an area of the US that I've heard Texas Republicans complain about most of my 55 years on this planet. The citizens of Texas did not ask for the new map. They didn't ask for a map that gives the entirety of the Texas population less voice.
This body continues to refuse to listen to their constituents (example: the Voucher bill that only passed because Trump called the Republican caucus on the day of the vote), and keeps bringing sideshow bills instead of doing the real work Texans sent them to Austin to do. Please reject HB4.

Gene Daigle, Retired US Coast Guard Chief
Self
Alvin, TX

First and foremost I'm STRONGLY OPPOSED to THIS PLANC2308 US Congressional Redistricting Proposed Maps. The CURRENT US Congressional District Maps are ALREADY ILLEGAL and in violation of the VOTING RIGHTS ACT (VRA) and this proposed maps will only continue to disenfranchise and crack and pack ALL people of color (POC) and their communities, Hispanic and Latino, black, Asian, and indigenous Native American communities. The current map is still being challenged in the Federal Court System and this proposed map TARGETS specifically POC and their elected members of Congress in a very precise and Unconstitutional way. 95% of the population increase in the entire state of Texas are POC with the plurality majority population throughout the state being Hispanic/Latino at just over 40%, non-hispanic white 39.6%, black 12% and Asian at 5% with the FASTEST rate of increase being Texas Asian population. Does the Congressional representation look like these demographic makeup of Texas? ABSOLUTELY NOT and Texas legislators want to reduce that non-white representation numbers EVEN MORE, and WHY and for WHAT PURPOSE? The SUPER VAST MAJORITY of Texans and Texas registered voters are OPPOSED to these proposed maps as you continue to hear with each and every Texans testimony and those who submit these write-ups. YOU are public servants that work FOR WE THE PEOPLE, NOT for Greg Abbott, NOT for TRUMP, NOT for the Republican Party. NO, you work FOR, WE THE PEOPLE. This continued assault on our democratic norms and pillars of our democracy will not end well and will only continue to add FUEL TO THE FIRE of political divisiveness that when people feel government is not working on THEIR BEHALF ultimately WILL NOT END WELL. The colonists fought a Revolution because of an unfair Tea Tariff. Y'ALL are trying to take SOMETHING AWAY that is much more cherished, that sets this country apart from all the other types of democratic counties, and that is having a democratic Constitutional REPRESENTATIVE Republic with the key word being REPRESENTATIVE. If our elected politicians are NOT doing the work on BEHALF of their constituents and instead working on behalf of their ultra wealthy donor class or in this case FOR A SINGLE MAN, then our current form of government IS NOT WORKING FOR WE THE PEOPLE, and continuing down that path will not be good for ANYONE. We DO NOT believe in ABSOLUTE ONE PARTY RULE system as that would no longer be a REPRESENTATIVE SYSTEM. WE would NO LONGER be a CONSTITUTIONAL Republic as OUR VOICES are NO LONGER being heard. YOU and YOUR COLLEAGUES WORK FOR WE THE PEOPLE and swore an oath of office to FAITHFULLY execute the duties of the of of the State of Texas and will do to the BEST of my ABILITY PRESERVE, PROTECT, AND DEFEND The Constitution and LAWS of the United States and of this State. How you proceed from THIS point forward will determine if you actually are following that oath and WE THE PEOPLE will ENSURE by any means that you do so.

Taylor Robertson
Self
Austin, TX

To have our representatives blatantly cheat to gain more seats for their party is absolutely revolting and stand against EVERYTHING America was founded on. You have absolutely no right to do this. The American people want true freedom and democracy, this is not democracy. Anyone in support of this re-districting is in complete support of destroying democracy and giving complete power to a party that has bent the knee to a controlling and abusive president that only thinks of greed versus listening to the people.

Todd Milburn, Collin County Precinct 145 Chair
Collin County RPT
Allen, TX

I am FOR HB4 and the redistricting of Congressional Districts!

Andy Wilson self - digital manager
San Marcos, TX

As someone who would go from being represented by someone I like very much (Greg Casar) to someone under this new map I very much dislike (Chip Roy) this is unacceptable to me. Taking a small but progressive city like San Marcos full of college students and punting us in with a district that largely is unlike us at all and doesn't share our values is a terrible way to draw a map, especially in the middle of the decade. Redistricting is supposed to occur once, after the census. Texas has taken mas that were already illegally gerrymandered and have now added insult to injury. These districts are patently illegal under the Voting Rights Act and the only reason these are moving forward is because the Trump Admin's Justice Department will look the other way so Ersatz Milosevic can get his 5 seats he wants.

People should choose their politicians, not the other way around. This is shameful and illegal. Stop these maps.

George Avellano, Dr.
Self
Corinth, TX

I stand strongly in support for passage of HB4, the redistricting of Texas Congressional Districts. Texas has had a massive influx of population in the last five years and needs to adjust its districts accordingly. Vote Yes to redistrict the Congressional District lines. Thank you,

Cyd Goldfarb
self
El Paso, TX

I am against redistricting of the El Paso area. As part of our democracy, representation by someone who lives in our city is written into the constitution. Any attempt at redistricting outside of census years is unconstitutional, illegal, and criminal.

Jean Jeffries
Texan citizen, American citizen
Plano, TX

This is an illegal attempt to gerrymander the vote. This is a blatant abuse of power and I am strongly opposed to redistricting during the mid terms. If you cannot win wihtout cheating, perhaps the GOP should just step down. Quit rigging the system when a majority of Americans and Texans do not like the outcomes. This is GOP cheating out in the open. If you cannot win wihtout rigging the system, you do not deserve to be in office. Plain and simple.

Sherry s Karns, Mrs
Self
El Paso, TX

This is not representative of a democracy and will alienate me forever from voting Republican.

Tiffany Valle
Self - Community Outreach & Program Coordinator
Houston, TX

FIX THE FLOODING FIRST. We just had a massive tragedy in our state related to issues with alert systems (alert fatigue from getting irrelevant blue alerts no one wants), not to mention all the other flood activity we generally have in our state due to weak & aging infrastructure and procedures. WHY are you focusing on redistricting if not to enable one particular party to have an advantage over another? Waste of time, waste of resources, and just pathetic. Wasting time on frivolous, surface level bs as usual.

g cunningham, MR
Self / marketing
Austin, TX

This seems like just a brazen grab for power by our President and Governor. These districts (as drawn) are maddeningly precise and clearly designed for one purpose.... (republicans winning more seats....). And I know we are hiding this true goal, but President Trump literally bragged about it on air, so.... From the AP story on this effort: "Asked as he departed the White House for Pittsburgh about the possibility of adding GOP-friendly districts around the country, Trump responded, “Texas will be the biggest one. And that’ll be five.”

Amber Guerra-Perez
Self
San Antonio, TX

We teach middle schoolers gerrymandering is wrong. Why can’t a bunch of “adults” get their acts together and do better for their communities? Do better for their children and grandchildren? This bill is disgraceful and those elected officials to keep rigging the system. A system that is meant FOR THE PEOPLE BY THE PEOPLE- constituents need to be properly represented.

Aubrey Hornak
self; Scientific Research Lab Manager/Artist
Robinson, TX

Hello, my name is Aubrey Hornak. I am a U.S. born white citizen living in Robinson, TX, in U.S. Congressional District 17/Texas House District 56. Robinson and Waco have a culturally, economically diverse population with huge gaps in housing, food, health care and education access. So many of the people here DO NOT and HAVE NOT had fair representation in the Texas and federal legislatures, despite being constituents and community investors. I work and go to church with them and see, first-hand, the discrepancy of basic human rights. I also witness the fact that they are often the most generous, kind, faithful and community-oriented people. It would best serve our community to deal with the actual problems Texans are facing right now, like flooding, recovery and emergency communication issues. It is wrong – and unfair to all Texans – for the Legislature to take up mid-decade redistricting to further disenfranchise communities of color when the court has not even weighed in on the last round of discriminatory redistricting. We need a fair, non-partisan committee to work toward a more representative district map that puts the constituents first. Our state legislators’ jobs are to serve the people of Texas, not the other way around. The current district maps have never been about serving the public's interest or community's needs. In fact, the makeup of Texas’ congressional delegation does not reflect the diversity of our state. Texas consists of 60% people of color, but only 34% of our congressional delegation is represented by people of color. This is not a fight about political parties. It is a fight about political power and who gets to wield it. The federal court needs to be able to make a ruling in the current litigation, and new maps should be adopted if and when the court deems them necessary. District lines should preserve and protect the needs of the communities within them, especially the needs of historically disenfranchised communities. Districts should elect candidates that reflect the diversity of our state. We need Congress to pass the John Lewis Voting Rights Act, which will modernize and revitalize the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and protect voters from race-based discrimination. It also would set minimum standards to enable all voters to experience free and fair elections. Government works best to solve the real problems of ordinary people: affordable housing, a living wage, good public schools and accessible quality health care. Our elections and representatives should ensure that the voices of all citizens are heard, not just special interests, wealthy donors, and racially polarized extreme partisans. Ultimately, there is no justification for this congressional redistricting. With our state reeling from the tragic loss of so many lives from recent floods, Texans should be seeing caring consideration from their government, not an unjustified congressional redistricting intentionally directed at communities of color. Thank you.

Kim Parker
Self executive
Cedar Park, TX

As a native Texan, I strongly oppose the restricting of Texas districts during this session. This is being done in direct opposition to the intent of our country’s belief on fair representation. To gerrymander our districts to benefit one political party over another is unethical, antidemocratic and untexan.

Paul Van Helmond
Myself
Katy, TX

I oppose HB4. This mid term redistricting is a racial and partisan gerrymander. There is a case going through the courts challenging the constitutionality of the current district borders. The right way to proceed is to let this case come to its conclusion and then fix the districts if the courts require it.

Rodney Lenfant
self
Cedar Park, TX

I strongly oppose HB4, which represents a dramatic redrawing of congressional districts with little to no public input or transparency. There were no local or district-level hearings, effectively silencing the voices of the very communities that will be impacted. The proposed maps appear to be intentionally drawn to dilute fair representation—especially in areas like Austin—undermining the core democratic principle that voters should choose their representatives, not the other way around. Texans deserve a redistricting process that is open, fair, and representative of all communities across the state.

Glynn Pride, Capt
Self
Amarillo, TX

Why should minorities pay taxes: this is clearly taxation without representation?

Neha Shah
Self / Tech and entrepreneur
Austin, TX

To the Chair and Members of the Committee,

My name is Neha Shah. I live in Travis County, where I've served as a Volunteer Deputy Registrar for many years. I'm also a technology product manager, and an entrepreneur. I work to build efficient, high-impact tech solutions that solve real problems at scale.

Using the frameworks of business and tech, I want to highlight how this redistricting effort reflects poor prioritization and resource allocation.

ONE - Time and budget are finite. Why is this committee expending effort on redrawing maps less than four years after they were finalized and signed into law? Meanwhile urgent issues like flood relief across Central Texas and the Hill Country remain unaddressed, and put tens of thousands more at risk without appropriate oversight and accountability into emergency response infrastructure and response. Simply put, redistricting is not a high-impact initiative for the current moment.

TWO - in product development, we design with the end user or beneficiary in mind. That means gathering feedback, reviewing performance data, and responding to real needs. The only feedback that this Committee seems to be relying on is that of the White House. This redistricting process has lacked transparency and offered little in the way of accessible Texan public input. In business, this is how you lose your customers. In government, it's how you lose voters' faith in democracy, or get voted out of office.

THREE - Redrawing these maps without clear, measurable benefit—especially after they were approved by the Governor and this committee in 2021—creates churn and erodes public confidence. As elected public officials, your responsibility is to prioritize stability, transparency, and outcomes—not partisan gain.

This process doesn't meet the bar for sound public governance strategy. I urge the committee to refocus efforts on the real problems Texans are counting on you to solve.

Thomas Doyle
Self/University Professor
San Marcos, TX

I oppose the current redistricting proposal altogether. By following President Trump’s call to create five new safe GOP districts, Texas will incentivize a proliferation of redistricting across blue states that will not only fail to achieve the GOP goal, but it will further polarize the country and weaken our standing in the world. It is time for the GOP to uphold the norm that voters should choose representatives, and not that representatives can select their voters.

Jada Lozano
Self, PC Technician
Texas City, TX

This map redistricting is unmistakably gerrymandering. If you vote yes to this---YOU ARE ON THE WRONG SIDE OF HISTORY. You will be remembered as a coward who did not stand up for democracy and bowed to authoritarianism. This "divide and conquer" map will strip The People's power and freedom, it's inherently UnAmerican.

Tell Webster
Self
Missouri City, TX

I submit this testimony to express strong opposition to mid-decade redistricting proposals. Such actions undermine democratic principles, violate established legal precedents, and threaten electoral system stability.

Mid-decade redistricting violates the Fourteenth Amendment's Equal Protection Clause by serving purely partisan purposes rather than legitimate governmental interests. The Constitution establishes a decennial census as the basis for reapportionment, creating a natural ten-year cycle that provides stability and predictability. Disrupting this framework without compelling justification undermines the systematic approach the founders intended.

Voters have legitimate expectations that district boundaries will remain stable for the full decade unless extraordinary circumstances require change. Mid-decade redistricting effectively disenfranchises voters by changing rules after elections have occurred under existing maps. Citizens who participated in previous elections did so understanding their boundaries were established for ten years. Altering these boundaries invalidates their electoral choices and undermines effective representation.

The practice creates dangerous precedent where the party in power redraws maps whenever politically convenient, transforming redistricting from necessary constitutional process into partisan warfare. This destroys representational relationships that require time to develop between officials and constituents.
Mid-decade redistricting wastes enormous public resources on map drawing, legal challenges, and administrative implementation without legitimate justification. It creates significant voter confusion about polling locations, candidates, and representatives, inevitably reducing participation. Local election officials face unnecessary burdens updating voter rolls, reconfiguring locations, and educating workers.

Since our republic's founding, redistricting has followed the decennial census cycle, providing democratic stability. Federal courts have repeatedly recognized this ten-year cycle's importance and expressed skepticism toward mid-decade efforts. If this practice becomes acceptable, it will create an escalating cycle whenever government control changes, transforming our system into constant flux and destroying public confidence in electoral fairness.

Rather than mid-decade manipulation, states should establish independent redistricting commissions using transparent, neutral criteria prioritizing communities of interest and geographic compactness over partisan advantage.

Mid-decade redistricting represents a fundamental threat to democratic governance and constitutional principles. The decennial cycle has served our democracy for over two centuries and should not be abandoned for partisan advantage. Our democracy depends on electoral systems voters can trust. We must choose democratic principles over partisan objectives and constitutional stability over political expedience.

Sally Wiethoff
self
COPPELL, TX

I am writing to express serious concern about the suggested redistricting plan in Texas. Gerrymandering is a coward's way of cheating to obtain power. It is not the process of a true democracy. It dilutes the voice of voters, entrenches power, and undermines fair elections. All Texans, regardless of party, deserve districts drawn transparently and equitably.
It is inappropriate for the White House to instruct a state on how they handle their districting, particularly to issue specific instructions to gain 5 more seats in their favor. This interference oversteps constitutional bounds. Those organizing this plan have an old world view of the public, and don't seem to think they have the intellect or the right to a voice. The people must always have a voice, and those scheming over this new map are derelict in their duty by attempting to silence Texans.
It's also strikingly hypocritical for Republican leaders, who so often champion states' rights and local control, to now support measures that override local governance. Federalism is not a partisan principle to be discarded when convenient—it's a foundational element of our system.
Redistricting must serve the people, not political power. I urge this body to reject any plan that compromises fairness, transparency, or local autonomy.

Jessica Rivera-Lucas
Workers Defense Action Fund
Richardson, TX

Let me get this straight. Texans are knee-deep in floodwaters, homes destroyed, lives upended—and Governor Abbott's priority is redrawing voting maps to protect his political pals? This isn't leadership. This is cowardice dressed up as governance.

While families in Southeast Texas are still drying out their homes and praying FEMA shows up, Abbott is playing foot soldier for Trump, pushing partisan redistricting maps that are designed to silence everyday Texans—especially communities of color—and lock in control for politicians who care more about power than people. If this isn't a Trump takeover, I don't know what is.

Let's be real: Texas has always prided itself on independence. We don't take kindly to D.C. meddling—or Mar-a-Lago meddling, for that matter. So why is our Governor bending over backwards to please a man who couldn't point to Hidalgo County on a map if his spray tan depended on it?

This isn't about fairness. It's about fear. Abbott is afraid of a changing Texas—a Texas that's young, diverse, and engaged. So instead of listening, he's rigging the rules. These maps don't reflect Texas values. They reflect desperation. Because when your ideas are outdated, your only play left is to redraw the field.
Even worse? Abbott's using a special session—which should be focused on flood recovery, school funding, and real public safety—to chase Trump-style chaos: criminalizing health care, banning people from bathrooms, and now redistricting behind closed doors. This isn't leadership. It's political theater at its worst.

And let's talk plain truth here: these maps are discriminatory. They dilute the voting power of Black, Latino, and Asian communities—Texans who deserve representation just like everyone else. Voters should choose their politicians, not the other way around.
So I'll say it loud for the folks in the back: Texas deserves better. We need leaders who put Texans first, not politicians looking to impress Trump or hold onto power like it's their last breath. We are Texans—tough, proud, and rooted in justice. We show up for our neighbors in a storm. We don't redraw their rights behind closed doors.

Governor Abbott, stop the games. Start serving the people.

Daphne Hoffacker
Self
Austin, TX

We're really tired of the cheating. As a voter, I am tired of the disenfranchment. I'm tired of having to work so hard to keep you from doing stupid, harmful, thoughtless things to our state. Nobody signed up to be represented by Trump's Toadies. It's time for Texans to elect representatives who will pass a law requiring nonpartisan maps. Let's let Texas voters decide who they really want to represent them instead of having it decided by this legislature at this time. Shame on you, Texas representatives. Rest assured we will not forget that you keep selling us out for a pedophile, adjudicated rapist, felonious fraudsters, and the tiny hands behind the January 6th Insurrection. State leaders have let us down. And having to cheat on Congressional maps is a confession.

Elizabeth Nguyen
Self, Remote worker
Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Elizabeth, and I’m testifying against House Bill 4.

Let’s not pretend this bill is about “fairness” or “compliance.” These maps were drawn to protect political power, not to represent the people of Texas. I don’t believe for a second that most of you don’t know that. You know exactly what these maps do: they silence communities of color, split up our neighborhoods, and dilute our voices so you don’t have to be accountable to us.

It’s hard not to feel like the game is rigged. Voters speak, but those in power redraw the rules so they don’t have to listen. You work with the federal government when it suits your agenda, but ignore federal protections when it comes to our rights. You accept donations and favors from wealthy donors and industries, then turn around and tell us you’re just following the law.

Meanwhile, we’re the ones doing the work—raising families, paying taxes, caring for our neighbors, and building communities. All we’re asking for is a chance to be fairly represented. Not to be carved up and counted when it’s convenient, then cast aside when it matters most.

I’m here today because I still believe Texas can do better. Because democracy only works when everyone has a voice. And because I won’t sit quiet while power gets hoarded and people get erased.

I urge you to reject HB 4 and draw fair maps that represent all Texans—not just the ones who help you keep your seat.

Thank you.

Whitney Torres
Self
Buda, TX

Redistricring is a gross abuse of voting rights and public representation. This is a clear and blatant power grab. Do NOT silence voters by redistributing where votes are counted for whom.

Aurora Silva, Ms
Self / e-commerce organizer
Austin, TX

Abbott is letting Trump take over Texas. Instead of working to help Texans recover from a devastating natural disaster and preparing for the next one, Abbott is using the special session to push Trump’s political agenda in Texas. Lawmakers have 30 days to redraw the maps, with no requirement for transparency, public input, or fair representation. We deserve a process that is transparent and accessible.

Abbott and his allies are not focused on solutions. They are using Trump-style politics to distract, divide, and push through extreme policies that serve a political agenda, not the people of Texas.

Texans know our worth. Across this state, we are taking care of each other in the face of disaster, rising costs, and political attacks. It’s time for leaders who will put Texans first, not Trump’s agenda.

Whether it’s: redistricting, banning abortion, attacking trans Texans, or making it harder to vote,it’s all connected. These aren’t separate fights — they are all part of Abbott letting Trump dictate what happens in Texas, while our communities are left to deal with the real crises on our own.

Santiago Hernandez Jr, Mr.
self
San Antonio, TX

My name is Santiago Hernandez, and I'm a resident of Congressional District 35. I am against HB 4 and the redistricting process because these maps don't accurately reflect the population in Texas. Just because things are allowed to be done, that does not mean that they should be. For example, people can break promises; it's their prerogative, but we should maybe strive to keep said promises. Respectfully, this process is not transparent and is being rushed in a special session. I would like to know where in the Texas Constitution or the rules of the legislature does it say that everything on the call in a special session needs to be taken up? I am disappointed in the GOP's attempt to cheat to gain 5 more seats in Congress. Stop trying to rationalize this awful and racist attempt to please the president. You don't work for him; you work for Texans, and Texans have repeatedly spoken against this plan.

Tomas Mendoza
Self
Justin, TX, TX

As a Texas resident and elected official deeply committed to fair representation, I strongly support HB 4. Ensuring that congressional districts reflect the true demographics and interests of our communities is foundational to a functioning democracy. HB 4 provides an opportunity to correct historical imbalances and reinforce public trust in the electoral process.

I believe redistricting must be driven by transparency, fairness, and a commitment to keeping communities intact—not manipulated for short-term political gain. The measures in HB 4 demonstrate an effort to achieve these goals by establishing districts that better align with population shifts and community interests.

This bill is a step toward restoring equitable representation and upholding the values that Texans deserve: accountability, integrity, and a government that listens. I urge the committee to advance HB 4 and move us closer to fair maps that reflect the people, not just politics.

Catherine Barton
United Women in Faith at Saint John's UMC Austin, TX
Austin, TX

This bill is a deliberate attempt to dilute the votes and to stop the democratic process in the state of Texas.

Rachel Hernandez
Texas AFT
Round Rock, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Round Rock, Tx, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Karen Horgan
self
Fort Worth, TX

I adamantly oppose this attempt to redistrict.
This is a brazen move by the Governor, pressured by the President, to gain 5 new Republican seats in the House at the expense of majority-minority districts.

The 4 districts in Texas being targeted are all represented by people of color. Coincidence? I think not. It is clearly an effort to undermine the voting strength of minority Texans.

This is blatant racial discrimination. Communities of color are intentionally being split up - diluting their voting power and representation.

There is no justification for this congressional redistricting.
Texas maps were drawn in 2021 - doing it again now, mid-decade, is not normal.

Your proposed map is even worse than the current map. Districts drawn in such a way that it will be nearly impossible for the constituents in those districts to have equitable representation. Districts are meant to be fairly homogenous in needs. For example, a district which combines a large rural population with a large urban population is not giving fair representation to the needs of either group!

You have no new census data to support your maps.

Racial data must be taken into consideration to uphold the Voting Rights Act. The new redistricting plan clearly violates the VRA.

This special session should be used to help people impacted by the devastating floods. Relief efforts, rebuilding efforts, planning better emergency preparedness systems. Helping Texans should be your priority.

Stop this racial gerrymander power grab and do something constructive for the people of Texas.

Jocelyn Fulbright
Self
Dallas, TX

You should be ashamed of yourselves. How do you sleep at night

Lindsey Jeffrey
Self / teacher
Goldthwaite, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. As a Texas public school educator in Comanche County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Lydia Sullivan
Self - Nonprofit Executive
New Braunfels, TX

I respectfully submit this comment in strong opposition to House Bill 4.

Redistricting should serve the people—not partisan interests. HB 4 undermines the principles of fair representation by proposing district maps that dilute the voting power of communities of color, fracture neighborhoods, and prioritize incumbent protection over democratic integrity.

This bill fails to reflect the demographic realities of our state. Texas has seen significant growth in Latino, Black, and Asian American populations, yet HB 4 reduces their ability to elect candidates of their choice. By splitting cohesive communities and ignoring the guidance of the Voting Rights Act, this bill effectively suppresses the voice of the very Texans who have contributed to our state's rapid growth.

HB 4 also ignores public input and transparency. This process has lacked sufficient community engagement and rushed through critical stages without meaningful oversight. The people of Texas deserve a redistricting process rooted in fairness, data, and accountability—not secrecy and partisan manipulation.

I urge you to reject HB 4 and demand a redistricting process that centers community input, complies with federal law, and protects the rights of all Texans to fair and equal representation.

Thank you.

Rosanne Mills
Self
Dallas, TX

My name is Rosanne M Mills. I live in Dallas, Texas. My U.S. Congressperson is Julie Johnson (D-32). By this written testimony, I strongly oppose the Texas Legislature’s and this Committee’s brazen attempt to redistrict, in fact, gerrymander, select congressional districts mid-census.
This is a craven strategy by Governor Greg Abbott and the Pam Bondi Department of Justice to make Republican voters and votes count more and Democratic votes and voters count less, which has the intended consequence of suppressing the votes of individuals based on race or national origin, in violation of federal law. It is blatant racial discrimination. It will be found to be illegal.
There is no compelling reason to have a mid-census redistricting. There is no compelling data that has been published since the last census about changing voter populations or demographics. The only reason why this is part of the special session agenda is because one man wants it, and the Republican Legislature and Governor wants it, to cement their political power. This scheme furthers Republican politicians and the party choosing their voters, instead of voters choosing their elected representatives.
This “choosing the voters” scheme is most apparent in the redrawn District 32. In this district, the swing in voters from a balanced district to one with a 42.8% more Republican district. The public only finds out this information because the maps were not released, dare I say, withheld until the hearing process was nearly concluded.
In order for our democracy to function, the public needs to have a voice in the process. It is absolutely unacceptable for both the House and Senate Redistricting Committees to be holding hearings without having maps visible to the public a map. How do you expect the public to actually participate in this process? The Legislature clearly plans to ignore public input and pass maps that discriminate against voters in violation of federal law. I urge this committee to table this bill to allow HB 221 and HJR 28, filed by Rep. James Talarico, to be taken up. The bill and resolution proposes to create an independent redistricting commission. This is an opportunity for the Texas Legislature to finally get this process right and avoid millions of taxpayer dollars and years of lawsuits, so I hope that you will take this testimony to heart. Thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony against HB4.

Isaac Levy-Rubinett
Self, editor
Austin, TX

Hello, I am a proud Texan and lifelong Austinite who is dismayed at the HB4 bill being discussed today. Texas is the best state in the United States not because it bows to the demands of corrupt national politicians like Donald Trump, but because it charts its own course and lets Texan voices be heard. Right now, we are facing a takeover by Trump and his fascist style of politics—these redistricting maps are a naked attempt to rig the election in favor of him and his cronies. People around the country are paying attention. Regardless of whether you are democrat or republican, right or left, young or old, we can all agree that Trump's hands belong nowhere near Texas. We can all agree that we deserve leaders who prioritize Texans. We need help recovering from devastating floods, we need better wages for working people across the state, we need abortion care for Texas women, and we need politicians who will stand up to Trump's efforts to warp our state to his benefit.

Srila Shrestha
Self- student
Austin, TX

I am throughly against this new district map, as it is not for representation but for keeping the GOP in power and to promote active voter suppression.

Susan Tedter
self
Austin, TX

I oppose the redistricting now proposed by the legislature. I feel like my current representatives are the ones I would like to keep and best represent my interests and concerns. Susan Tedter

James Woodfin
Self and spouse, both retired
Austin, TX

I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest. You know what you are trying to do is illegal and unconstitutional. Save the state and its taxpayers the time and expense. Focus on real needs, such as flood planning and public education.

Sidra Carzola
self
Pflugerville, TX

I am writing to oppose mid-decade redistricting that Texas doesn't need. Our districts were redrawn less than 5 years ago and this session should be focusing on flood relief rather than partisan maps redrawn at the request of the current President. The maps were not recreated at the behest of Texas and our lawmakers are being asked to comment on redistricting without even seeing proposed maps. The proposed changes split communities that share little in common into districts that very likely violate the Voting Rights Act and leave many without representation. Have faith in our current maps, provide for our neighbors devastated by flooding and show those who would attempt to tell our state what to do that you "Don't mess with Texas."

Jerome Emil Villanueva
self software engineer
Austin, TX

As a proud constituent of Texas' 37th Congressional District, I am writing to express my strong opposition to the current redistricting efforts in our state. The blatant gerrymandering taking place is an affront to the democratic principles that should guide our electoral process.
Austin's vibrant, diverse, and civically engaged population is being deliberately fractured to dilute our collective voice. This isn't about fair representation, it's about political manipulation. Carving up Austin into multiple districts that stretch hundreds of miles beyond the city serves no purpose other than to undermine the will of the people who live and work here.
Every Texan deserves a representative who reflects their community's values and needs. I urge the legislature to put people over politics and commit to a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and rooted in respect for communities, not partisan gain.

Michele Chambers
self
Austin, TX

Altering the playing field to get more Republicans into office is outrageous. We have a right to fair representation in Texas and this bill upends the fair representation of the population. This MUST stop.

Brian Canny
self
Austin, TX

I, like the majority of my fellow Texans, am opposed to the map now under consideration before the committee.

Despite this rushed, last-minute push to re-gerrymander the state at the behest of an out-of-state billionaire, you have received testimony from hundreds if not thousands of Texans, and the vast VAST majority are opposed to this partisan push for mid-decade redistricting. Every those "supporting" redistricting, the conservative voices, hope that this time, the districts will be redrawn out of consideration for the communities affected.

No one wants the distorted mutant districts that Republicans created in 2021 and are pushing again.

The current maps break up communities, disenfranchise neighborhoods, and try to dilute the power of minority citizens, and the proposed map now under consideration in HB 4 is even worse. It has even more slicing and dicing of suburbs and cities designed to weigh down urban areas with vast rural swaths, which effectively robs power from all.

From the start of this ill-conceived redistricting process, you have heard hours and days of citizen testimony opposed to this type of gerrymandering, and a vote in favor of the map under consideration would mean you either ignored or disregarded the concerns of your fellow Texans and Americans.

I do not support the push to redistrict now at all – and I am vehemently opposed to this new map. Republicans bristle when accused of racism, but your actions are louder than your meager protests. Republicans are weaponizing redistricting to hold onto power and escape accountability, and when those actions marginalize minority communities, it becomes a racist act, regardless of intent.

The committee should reject with this map, should not advance HB 4, and should allow this special session to end without any changes to the maps. Then, Texas should create an independent committee so that, when we have new and accurate data from the 2030 Census, the district lines can be redrawn to accurately reflect the communities in our state and ensure equal and fair representation to all Texans.

Chris Glenn
Self / Retired
Austin, TX

I am vehemently opposed to redistricting just because Donald Trump has ordered it. Voters are already concerned about what is occurring during his second term. Extreme actions are being taken, which voters did not vote for. The electorate is angry. Redistricting at this point will only exacerbate our outrage, and doing so could likely jeopardize the Republican Party by backfiring. Gerrymandering only works when voter turnout is low, and that certainly won't be the case next year.

Lindsay Pulido
Self
Grapevine, TX

Please oppose mid-decade redistricting. The proposed map is an attempt to weaken just representation in our democracy. It is racist and potentially illegal. It disturbs me that my state skirts the line of legality with racist gerrymandering. Republicans will no longer have my vote. Try advocating for the interests of your constituents get votes.

Brenda Cameron Self/charitable Foundation
Tyler, TX

This is a no brainer - if you care about Texas and conservatives. please!!!

Tami Sewell
Texas AFT
Granbury, TX

I am opposed to redistricting at this time. I feel that changing districts at five year intervals instead of 10 is unnecessary expense and will not yield accurate election results. Red voters had a clear majority in the 2024 election and any district changes could influence that negatively.

Judy Ward, Mrs.
Self
Richardson, TX

I am currently in congressional district #32 represented by Julie Johnson. From the map I saw yesterday, it's impossible to tell whether I will remain in 32 or be assigned elsewhere. The proposed map takes some suburban areas of Dallas and shoves them into a ridiculous gerrymandered district which also includes parts of deep east Texas. We have about as much in common as we would with residents of Brazil. I and my fellow citizens are livid over the continual attempts to politically play us as pawns on a chessboard. My 10 year old granddaughter could draw fairer maps with a ruler and a pencil. I am tired of the rhetoric "well it's perfectly legal". What that means is that it's not expressly illegal to gerrymander. What happened to ethics? Simple right and wrong. Political gerrymandering is simply wrong. Our current representatives would do well to remember that they have been elected to represent us, the citizens of Texas, not pick and choose who votes for you or our congressional representatives. So....do the right thing. Do your jobs and stand up for us.

Amanda Friedeck, Mrs.
Self
Alice, TX

I am for congressional redistricting HB 4 to better represent our communities and constituents.

Patricia Chance

Self, retired computer programmer

Beaumont, TX

I am disgusted by the power grab that Donald Trump is making. Greg Abbott is aiding and abetting a criminal. The vast majority of the GOP is aiding and abetting a criminal. This is an UNFAIR AND GREEDY action to stay in power. It is unfair to minorities.

The GOP does not love Texas. The GOP does not want what is best for the people. The GOP fights as dirty and nasty and dishonorably and maliciously as they can to to stay in power. They have no DECENCY at all. They have no love for DEMOCRACY. This redistricting in the middle of the cycle is absolutely wrong and is the antithesis of what proper representation is. If this bill is passed, all who voted for it will go down in history as the ABSOLUTE TOADIES who FAILED their CONSTITUENTS in order to support a corrupt criminal! Shame on you all. You know what you are doing is morally wrong. You are disgusting and you give Texas a bad name.

Rachel Walker

Self

Austin, TX

Redistricting, do not let this happen. It is undemocratic and will take away my congressman.

Vivek Gani

Self

Austin, TX

I reside in Central Texas - specifically south Austin south of Slaughter Creek. The proposed redistricting borders would put me and the family I give care to under a different district that spans all the way to the Texas coast. I object to this proposal as it does not feel like a fair process of representation.

Sara Bradley Carta

Myself and Fellow Texans

Austin, TX

My name is Sara Bradley Carta. I live in the Crestview neighborhood of Austin in the 37th Congressional District of TX. My representative is Lloyd Doggett-I am here to state my opposition to this mid-decade redistricting. Everyone in this state and across the country understands that Governor Abbott and TX Republicans are doing this to please Their King, Donald Trump. The Texas Republicans gave up on fighting for the people of Texas a long time ago. They have already heavily gerrymandered the state to keep themselves in power, they continue to rig the system.
Americans are waking up to the horrible policies being passed by The Trump regime and have witnessed the horrible policies being enforced in our state of TX for decades.
The people of TX will fight for our democracy, for our Voting rights, for our freedoms.
People across political and class lines are coming together everyday to stand up to the authoritarians who are destroying our country.
We will fight with everything we have.
We do not want this redistricting-you,our politicians, should listen to the people you work for us-not the kings and the corporations-but the real Texans and Americans-the people who just want a decent life for their families and themselves-and stand with us against this racist new map.
We need more districts to be drawn to fairly represent communities of color.
This is an attempt to silence the voices of people of color, working class folks and to keep the elites and wealthy in power.
We demand that our government do the right thing for its people.
Thank you for your time

Gloria Cisneros Lenoir, Dr.
Self
Austin, TX

I implore all elected officials to not draw congressional maps so that those who want to be elected select the voters to assure their win. Let us allow all voters to have true and fair opportunities to elect those who they feel will represent them with integrity and care, and not let us be pressured by those in power in Washington, D.C. and allow those in D.C. to take over our wonderful state of Texas.

vanessa galindo texans
new braunfels, TX

I OPPOSE!!!!!!!!!

Evelyn Martin, Ms
SELF
Driftwood, TX

Do not change the districts. Everyone needs to be represented equally

Dawn McDonald
Self
Houston, TX

Population Growth
Redistricting, a process that adjusts electoral boundaries to reflect population changes from the census, ensures districts have roughly equal populations and comply with the “one person, one vote” principle enshrined in the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Texas, which has experienced substantial population growth from 2020 to 2025, has seen its population surge from 29,145,505 in 2020 to an estimated 32 million by July 2025, as reported by the U.S. Census Bureau. Redistricting is crucial in maintaining fair representation and upholding the Constitution. The current maps - Texas House, Texas Senate, and Congress - do not reflect the massive growth in Texas over the last five years.

Adam Nagel
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Y'all are actually morons

Kantrell Stewart
Self
Lancaster, TX

It’s disheartening how one person’s has influenced people who know the difference between right and wrong that constantly chooses wrong. He will not be in office forever. God is watching and if that doesn’t matter to you, keep doing what you are doing.

Rebeccz Martin
Self
Dallas, TX

I am opposed to re-writing the Congressional maps in order to get five more Republican seats before the mid-term elections. This should be illegal.

Beth Yturri
self
Garland, TX

I oppose this attempt at mid-term redistricting. The current map is held up in the courts and we need them to complete the process guaranteed by law. We should wait until they finish their process and provide a ruling. Then, if instructed, we need to have an independent redistricting commission redraw the map with input from non-partisan experts and real everyday Texas voters. Politicians should be chosen by the people who elect them, not the other way around. As a former educator, I know that even the youngest of my students know when something is unjust or unfair. This blatant power grab is similar to rewriting a test while student are halfway through the multiple-choice section. I attended the Capitol last Friday and was unable testify because public testimony was only allowed for five hours. Then again in Arlington, testimony was restricted. Now that there is finally a map available to comment on, I cannot travel to Austin, and I do not agree with the redrawn map. The proposed map further divides my community, Garland, TX - Congressional District 5. Currently, we are scooped out of the DFW area and grouped with communities reaching far southeast of us with different needs and challenges. The proposed map splits the city of Garland even further, in half, south vs north, in an attempt to change Congressional District 32 as explicitly targeted by the Trump Administration. Texans are proud of our sovereignty, and we should protect it at all costs. Do not let any president or federal administration of any political affiliation bully you and dictate whose votes should be silenced. This is a dangerous precedent to set across our nation, and it is a direct threat to democracy.

Veronica Escobar, Honorable Member of Congress/TX-16
El Paso, TX

Dear Texas House Redistricting Committee:

As the member of Congress representing Texas' Congressional District 16 in El Paso, I strongly object to the mid-decade effort to redistrict congressional districts in Texas. It has been widely reported that state leaders have initiated this process at the behest of President Donald Trump and his instruction to "find five more Republican seats." Not only is this a brazen power grab by the White House, but fulfilling this directive requires the state of Texas to violate the Voting Rights Act to do so. This limited and rushed process has left countless Texans without a voice – unable to travel to the very few public hearings, and because of how swift this process has been, most Texans are likely unaware that this process is even happening.

Speaking on behalf of my constituents in El Paso, the TX-16 map represents a minor change in population, but a massive change in representation of our most critical assets, including Fort Bliss, the William Beaumont Army Medical Center, the under-construction VA Health Care Center (which I secured $700 million for in congressional appropriations), our international airport, the Kay Bailey Hutchison Desalination Plant and more. There is no logical reason why these assets should be shifted from a local representative to one who is more than 500 miles away in San Antonio. Redistricting should not split up communities of interest.

Fort Bliss is El Paso's largest employer and El Pasoans have invested heavily in infrastructure and quality of life improvements directly and indirectly affecting the installation. That has included a total of $6.8 billion in investments ranging from healthcare expansion to transportation and infrastructure. To put it simply, El Paso and Fort Bliss are invested in each other's success. There is a similar story with El Paso International Airport, where the city has invested heavily in making major improvements to it and I have been able to help them secure more than $64.5 million in federal funding for many of these projects, including a new air traffic control tower. There are more improvements and projects at Ft. Bliss, the airport, and more that are needed, and these institutions benefit greatly from having the attention of a member who can prioritize them.

I urge the Committee to restore El Paso's congressional boundaries preceding 2021, or at the very least, leave the 2021 redistricting boundaries for TX-16 intact to maintain continuity for these communities of interest.

Community leaders including the County Judge, the Mayor of El Paso, and the chairmen for both the local Democratic Party and Republican Party all uniformly oppose the changes proposed to Congressional District 16.

Veronica Escobar
Member of Congress

David Isaac
self
Hockley, TX

I would like to express my concern regarding the proposed redrawing of electoral maps in Texas. It is my firm belief that maps should accurately and fairly represent the populace. The current redistricting efforts appear to be driven by a desire for political advantage rather than equitable representation, which I find deeply troubling, especially as they are being undertaken in anticipation of the upcoming election.

Jessica Meuer
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. If you have to donate bunch of redistricting to get votes, maybe you shouldn't be in office.

Tessa Gerarde
Self
Arlington, TX

Redistricting to please a president and a governor is shameful . I am completely against this idea and am tired of representatives being bullied by a president and governor instead of doing what they were elected for ————- To represent the wishes of the people they are supposed to be representing!! Integrity is a top priority. Do what you ere elected to do!!

Nisha Abraham
Self
Austin, TX

Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As a member of the South Asian American community across Texas, I'm writing to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Nisha Abraham
Austin, Texas

Myrna Dalton, Constituent
Self
Temple, TX

Redistricting is voter suppression. Our communities deserve to choose our leaders, politicians do not get to choose their voters. We need our elected officials to stand for us, the people they work for. It’s time to stand up for what is right and fight against a presidential administration that seeks to influence the way Texas votes. We need a legislature and governor that won’t bend to outside pressure. Show us that you stand for us and vote against redistricting.

Nathaniel Hampton, Jr.
Self
Keller, TX

My name is Nathaniel Hampton Jr. I am a constituent of Texas Senate District 9, Texas House District 98, and U.S. Congressional District 24. Just a few months ago, several minority voters in Tarrant County were targeted by a blatant, racially motivated redistricting plan. Black, Hispanic and Asian voters were cracked from Tarrant County Commissioners Precinct 2 and packed into Precinct 1. As a result, their political power, acquired over time through population growth and coalition building in the Southern sector, was diminished by elected officials that chose to silence them instead of engaging them politically. That was a textbook example of racial gerrymandering which is illegal. Now at the request of President Trump, Governor Abbott and the Texas State Legislature are seeking to employ the same racially motivated redistricting plan to silence minority voters at the federal level to maintain power of the U. S. House of Representatives.

First, I call on members of the Texas House and Texas Senate to vote NO regarding this mid-decade redistricting plan that is nothing more than a racist power grab intended to dilute the political power of Black, Hispanic and Asian voters in large urban centers throughout the state of Texas.

After attending the public hearing held in Tarrant County, it is abundantly clear that I am not alone, and the majority of North Texans have no interest in seeing new maps being drawn. As a fellow Texan, I encourage you to tap into your independent, lone star spirit in this moment. This is not the time for our elected officials to abdicate our state’s priorities to carry out the desires of those in Washington, D.C.

Alison Campestre
Self
Houston, TX

As a concerned citizen of Texas, I am deeply troubled by the recent push, encouraged by former President Donald Trump, to redraw district lines for purely partisan advantage. Redistricting should represent fair democratic principles, ensuring all Texans' voices are heard—not silencing voters or manipulating boundaries for political gain.

Our democracy depends on transparency, fairness, and accountability. Gerrymandering undermines these values, weakening voter confidence and diminishing the fundamental right of citizens to choose their representatives, rather than representatives choosing their voters.

I urge this legislature to prioritize the integrity of our elections by rejecting partisan-driven redistricting proposals. Texans deserve fair districts that reflect the diverse voices and communities across our great state. Uphold the promise of representative democracy by keeping our electoral process transparent and just.

CINDY REYNOLDS
Myself
Meadows Place, TX

Leave the district map alone!

Paul Toprac
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose any mid-decade redistricting. I find it un-American. We are supposed to be a country about fairness and decency. I hope that you uphold these dear American values.

Ingrid Blue
Self
Arlington, TX

Please do not dilute my vote. It's unfair to every Texan to redraw the lines for republicans. It feels as though republicans can't win on ideas and feel the need to cheat in order to maintain control. This is ruining our democracy and subverting the will of the voting public in Texas. I want to know that I am voting for the person that I believe will do their best for our state. This is unfair and cruel. Please leave the district lines alone.

Shireen Kaul
self
Austin, TX

Please do not sell out to Donald Trump. We have already seen your cowardice. There is still time to turn back. Taking away representation from your opposition party so your President can further push his agenda is one of the most undemocratic things you can do. And for what? For him to defend him and his rich friends? This is unsustainable and you should be more afraid of the repercussions from YOUR CONSTITUENTS than the chance that Trump tries to primary you. If you vote for this, please reconsider why you entered into politics and ponder how far you have gone from any semblance of a "public servant". Everything you do to your opposition party can and will be done back to you. Do you think that California and other democratic states won't just add more blue seats on? There is no winning this, but there is ruining your reputation and any chance of seeming like you are a Republican for republican "values", rather than just a puppet of Trump. I don't know about you, but I would distance myself from an Epstein conspiracy hider.

Jose Ramirez, Mr.
Self
Round Rock, TX

I am whole heartedly against this very obvious Republican steal of 5 seats. The maps make it very clear that Republicans are trying to dilute Democratic votes and swaying elections in their favor. The president has publicly forced Greg Abbot to locate 5 more seats for him because he knows that Republican WILL NOT WIN midterm elections. I do not consent to Republican representation of the entire state of Texas - it is a blatant steal of elections and political power. Rural areas of Texas DO NOT ENCOMPASS and DO NOT DICTATE what the majority of the citizens in this state want. Personally, I used to skirt the line between democratic and republican values, but the Republican party has shifted into something that is unrecognizable and at the very core UN-AMERICAN. This is CHEATING. There is a loss of fair elections. If republicans had ANY faith that they will win in the primaries, a redistricting would not be necessary. STOP IGNORING what is being done right in front of our faces and quit gaslighting citizens by saying that "this is what the people want."

Lora Schafer
Self
Schertz, TX

Vote no on redistricting.
We need fair and balanced maps, not packed districts that dilute voter populations. This may gain the GOP seats, but it will also weaken seats, meaning the GOP will have to defend more seats in more places. Not good for Texas.

Donna Oshatz, NA
SELF
Austin, TX

The proposed maps specifically target Democratic and minority communities in major Texas cities, including:

Austin: Potentially combining Representatives Greg Casar and Lloyd Doggett's districts to eliminate a Democratic seat.
Houston and Dallas: Dividing and diluting historically Black and Latino neighborhoods to weaken their voting power.
South Texas: Redrawing lines to flip historically competitive districts to solidly Republican.
I am vehemently opposed to this attempt to add Republican districts and silence the voices of Texas Democrats and Independents. This scandalous attempt to subvert the rights of the Texas electorate is shameful.

Lois Day
Self, occupational therapist
Little Elm, TX

I hope your crazy plan to change my district that includes many precincts near me, to one that I'm not even in anymore, backfires on you. It will result in confusion that may hurt both political parties and will definitely hurt the democratic process. Please reconsider, but if you go forward with it, I will work to turn my new district and my old district blue.

Lynne Perry
Self/self employed
Austin, TX

This partisan political move to rob many Texans of their say is an atrocity. Texas has been Gerry mandered to the inth degree. To have legitimate representation of all Texans ,I strongly oppose this bill as a born and raised Texan. Texas needs a free thinking governor and legislature who do not bend the knee to a bully commander in chief. Stand up for all Texans and vote no on redistricting.

Noah White
Self, Lifeguard
Kyle, TX

I believe that the passing of this bill will only hurt us Texans - if we stand by and allow our districts that protect our individual interests be unfairly reformed, we will open the door to future changes that target our interests as citizens. Our elected officials are in power in order to communicate the interests of each district - not to change them in favor of their own interests.

Alexander Murray
Self
Austin, TX

Texas HB 4 by Hunter is one of the most un-American and anti-Texas bills I have ever seen. This bill is clearly designed to play politics in a larger political performance and quite literally ignore the needs of those you represent. This is not a right or left issue, this is our elected officials, the ones we voted for, choosing to redistrict communities in Texas that are different geographically, culturally, and population size. Texas is a big, beautiful, and unique state and with that comes different needs for each community. The way this bill is structured it appears the drafters of this bill see Texas as a generic box you can plug and play. As politicians you know the uniqueness of your constituents and the land they call home, you know this bill doesn't serve the needs of the people that chose you to represent them. I am opposed to this bill and I ask you not to vote it into law. Thank you for listening and respecting the land and communities we call home.

Shannon McGill
Self
Buda, TX

I respectfully ask that anyone considering this change take a moment to reflect deeply on what is truly best for the American people — not just for today, but for generations to come. Please set aside party lines, personal gain, and power, and focus solely on the good of our nation. Now more than ever, we need unity over division. I urge you to help us move in that direction.

Jessica Wolfson
Self
Austin, TX

This is a terrible idea and will damage the democracy and values of our country. Please reconsider for the sake of our country and its future.

Robyn Daniels
Grassroots
Tyler, TX

Please pass HB 4 as it's time and makes sense for the proposed redistricting map

Sara Ball
self
Allen, TX

I am a constituent of a district that is already heavily gerrymandered and combines suburban southern Collin County with rural Hunt county. Our interests and needs are very different and we've been split from other suburban areas to minimize our voice in government. This blatant rigging of the system mid-decade is not based on any new data or population shift, but merely due to a call from Trump to his Texas Republican buddies in power to "get [him] five more seats" in Congress that are currently Democratically held. The map was not available for any of the hearings. Also, Texas Republicans are talking out of both sides of their mouth claiming there's no racial motivation on one side and then claiming reverse racism on the other. They cannot have it both ways. On top of which, the priority for this special session should have been the disaster relief and preparedness hearings and conversations around the disaster that was the July 4th flood along the Guadelupe. It is blatantly partisan and openly cheating for the party in power to be picking their voters in future elections rather than having to own up to their constituents about the choices they've made during their term.

Arturo Moreno Jr
self
El Paso, TX

I vehemently disagree with President Trump's goal to redistrict lines to favor Republicans in Texas. This is wrong, embarrassing, and one more effort for him and his groupies to dismantle democracy for an autocratic form of government. DO NOT let this happen!

Richard Banks, Mr.
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I oppose this bill because it will harm my ability to have fair representation in Congress.

Eric Wilson
self
Austin, TX

I truly appreciate seeing the proposed redistricting maps. They're a delightful reflection of the writing on the wall. Rather than figuring out how to write policies that better our state for generations to come, the only conceivable way the Texas republican party can continue to maintain the illusion of power is to draw lines to try and break the will of Texans that disagree with them.

I stand firmly against the proposed redistricting map and demand that our state's elected officials ensure that every Texan has the opportunity to be fairly represented in their district.

Ashley CHENG
Self
Austin, TX

I am appalled that the Texas legislature is taking up Redistricting mid cycle. I strongly oppose the proposed maps but more importantly I vehemently oppose the complete disregard for democratic values and process by even taking up a redrawing of the maps in this way. You are stealing an election before it can even happen.

During the last redistricting cycle, I testified during every available hearing (both online and in person), which I think amounted to 10 testimonies to the House and Senate in 2021. Back then we were given little to no notice, but I was able to take part because I worked remotely and didn't have family obligations or childcare to worry about then. Plus, I was passionate about the once-in-a-decade process and planned that flexibility into my schedule in advance.

This time because of the unprecedented, unlawful and last-minute nature of this redistricting announcement, I've been out of state traveling for the summer with my family and unable to attend hearings. Our community and its concerns are completely being ignored in this "process."

This is a shameless partisan power grab and an act of blatant racism that even my lifelong Republican family members are embarrassed by — family members who have voted for Governor Abbott and President Trump in every election.

During the last redistricting, on the heels of the well documented rise of anti-Asian hate during that time, I was deeply concerned about intentional dismantling of minority communities of color in the maps and the disenfranchisement of said voices. I was told again and again by our elected officials like Senator Joan Huffman that the maps were drawn "race blind." How are those same maps now being scrutinized by some of the same people for being racially drawn? Please make this make sense.

According to the 2020 census, 95% of the population growth was due to communities of color. These communities, including those that are being specifically disenfranchised with these new districts, deserve to elect candidates of their choice and voices that truly represent them.

Please stop trying to rewrite or completely ignore the Voting Rights Act and the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. These communities of color are here, and you can't rewrite us out of existence. We're supposed to be one nation, indivisible. We won't be made invisible by these maps.

Laura Hoelter
Self, social worker
Austin, TX

Re-zoning would be absolutely detrimental to our state. Not only does it not make sense, but it puts thousands of marginalized communities at risk.

Sabrina Mercedes
Self
Austin, TX

This bill is completely unlawful and would not reflect an accurate or appropriate representation of the voters in Texas. I highly urge you not to pass this. It will set a very dangerous precedent.

Evan Hunt, Candidate Elect Evan Hunt Campaign
McKinney, TX

Chairman Vasut, members of the Committee,

My name is Evan Hunt. I am running for Congress in Texas's 3rd Congressional District and writing today to voice my opposition to the mid-cycle redistricting actions of this Body.

We all know that the job of a Representative, be it in the United States House or the Texas House, is to advocate for the interests of the people who elected them. Districts are meant to be cohesive communities, with similar interests and needs, so that their Representatives can advocate clearly on their behalf.

Texas's 3rd District is made up of both Collin County and Hunt County which are rapidly growing, and include cities such as Frisco, Plano, McKinney, Allen, Princeton and Greenville. This new map proposes to unnaturally stretch the district east into far more remote areas, thereby expanding it from two to seven counties, and breaking down the common interests within the District. Each of these counties have their own needs and deserve to be represented with as little dilution or distortion as possible.

By pushing for these new maps, this body is clearly more concerned with appeasing a President who is determined to cheat to win, no matter the cost to our democracy and no matter who gets hurt. We all know why this is even a discussion right now - the President is so worried about losing control of Congress in 2026, due to one reckless, failed and unpopular policy after another, that he's exerting his influence over our State Government. This isn't a debate over constitutional concerns - this is political partisan games at their worst. This is about race and power. Minority voters in 3rd District have been gaining ground, organizing, and making their voices heard. And what is this body proposing to do in response? They want to crack our communities and scatter our voices.

Mr. Chairman, our democracy should be about making sure every voter, no matter their ethnicity, ZIP code, or skin color - both rural and urban - gets fair representation. I would hope the members of this body would agree.

You can redraw the map, but not the truth. The American voter can see what is being done in this room. We shouldn't let one man in the White House dictate the democratic process in our great State. Cheating is not, and has never been, the way to get ahead in Texas. Let's not forget it.

Susan Richter
Self retired
AUSTIN, TX

Redrawing districts in the middle of a census period is uncalled for and a brazen attempt to dilute the votes of Democrats and people of color. Challenges will certainly be filed. The existing maps, which were disingenuously claimed NOT to be race based when created, are now acknowledged to be racially discriminatory - illustrating the deceit of the ruling Republican leaders. Do not redraw maps. Leave the existing maps in place, saving millions of dollars of Texas taxpayer money.

james cowan
Self
Temple, TX

Stop this waste of taxpayer money. Tell Trump to leave Texas alone. If candidates cannot win without further gerrymandering they don't deserve to be given a public trust.

Kip Sieger
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Stop the partisan gerrymandering !!

Amy Gibbs
Self
Houston, TX

I urge the Texas state legislature not to rush through the redistricting process. Please take the time to do this correctly and with updated information after the 2030 census. The 2021 maps are still being litigated. And it is without a doubt that these new maps will also face legal hurdles, wasting time and taxpayer dollars. No one was asking for this, until the request came from the DOJ, and the rationale behind the change is so transparent. This rushed process and the resulting dilution of the voting power of Black and Hispanic/Latino communities will only erode the already waning trust in our government and electoral process.

No voter should ever feel disenfranchised. We should be finding ways to encourge people and make it easier to vote. This is not a solution to anything.

I live in CD-18, which has been without representation for a total of 257 days since Rep. Jackson-Lee's death last July. We are in a moment in history, with so many daily tragedies and a long list of concerns, where we all feel so helpless - not having representation has made that feeling even worse. This district has been suffering, and this is not the moment to create additional challenges and shake the bedrock of the CD.

Furthermore, to rush this process when attention should be on the flooding in the Hill Country and the treats to the gulf coast region as we approach huricane season should be of greater priority, is unconscionable.

Kristen Bowdre Self- Social Worker
Austin, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose House Bill 4, which proposes redrawing Texas's congressional maps in a manner that is blatantly gerrymandered and fundamentally undemocratic.

HB 4 does not serve the people of Texas—it serves the interests of those in power who are attempting to entrench their control by manipulating district lines for partisan gain. This undermines the principle of fair representation, which is a cornerstone of our democracy.

The proposed maps dilute the political voices of communities of color, despite the fact that population growth in Texas has been overwhelmingly driven by Latino, Black, and Asian communities. HB 4 ignores this reality and instead carves up neighborhoods and cities in ways that fracture communities and minimize their collective power.

This kind of gerrymandering not only violates the Voting Rights Act but also erodes public trust in our elections. Voters should choose their representatives—not the other way around.

I urge lawmakers to reject HB 4 and to commit to a transparent, nonpartisan redistricting process that reflects the true makeup of our state. Texans deserve fair maps, equal representation, and a democracy that works for all of us. We should be using special session time to address disaster preparedness, not redistricting outside of the normal schedule.

Carisa Armstrong
Self
Bryan, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting bill. It will hurt this state and it does not support democracy or the people.

Thomas Paolini
Self/Multiple Jobs
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 4 by Hunter. The congressional redistricting proposed in this bill is unethical and an abuse of power. Elected officials have a duty to preserve the American Democracy we cherish and ensure it for future generations. This redistricting proposal undermines and compromises that Democracy. HB 4 must be defeated.

Naomi Lurie
Self
Austin, TX

I live a five-minute drive from the Domain Shopping District in the heart of North Austin. Yet, for many years, my congressman was in College Station! A distortion designed to dilute my vote and strengthen a party that does not represent my value system and priorities. When the district lines were corrected I found I had representation in Congressman Lloyd Doggett, and I have valued that tremendously. Please do not do this awful manipulation of the system and artificially redraw the district lines in a way that misrepresents what people want. You will be increasing the disparity between what people want and what their representatives advocate for and accomplish.
Respectfully, Naomi Lurie

Darlene Luna
none
El Paso, TX

Gerrymandering/redistricting is CLEAR scheme by republicans to destablize voters right to choose a rep. that represents the voters concerns and issues related to the area that the voter resides in.
It allows politicians to choose their voters, rather than the voters choosing their politicians. It makes elected officials less accountable for their actions and weakens responsiveness to voter issues.
It weakens voter engagement, because voters feel like their vote does not COUNT or makes no difference! In turn harming communities and the demcratic process!
I am 100% against this redistricting. Voters need to be represented in a fair and timely manner!
It is totally against what the founding fathers intended.
Thank you.

Kris Dudley
Self/ retired
Austin, TX

Austin resident 40+ years - lived in Houston prior. Drawing a district that INCLUDES BOTH Casar and Doggett does NOT REFLECT the constituent demographic - I've moved to South Austin and have just recently put in Casar's district. Previously, I was NOT REPRESENTED by Chip Roy! In Houston, having a district that DOES NOT adequately reflect Houston's 3rd Ward is CRIMINAL!
My sense is drawing new districts based on previous Trump county wins may just backfire - considering the ICE activities in the state - and the terrible polling numbers by Trump himself. This whimsical map may indeed TOTALLY BACKFIRE - leave the maps alone. Texas and US leadership must recognize Texas is becoming a minority/majority state - long term Texas residents are being treated like chattal- afforded only the will of the criminal masters! Leave the maps alone !!

Curtis Mitchell
Self
Fort Worth, TX

This is a terrible bill that shouldn't be passed. It's taking away voices from minorities and basically all the democratic seats

Will Primrose
self
austin, TX

To hell with y’all for trying to manipulate the People of Texas with your redistricting. To hell with y’all for kneeling down for that crooked pervert Donald Trump. To hell with y’all for prioritizing this undemocratic scam while Texans are still recovering from the July 4th flood tragedy. Thanks be to god that one day, on a geologic scale, your disservice to the People of Texas will be insignificant. Eat it & Resign. Shame on you all.

Dawn Williams-Richardson
Self
Killeen, TX

My name is Dawn Williams-Richardson. I am military spouse, mother, youth director at my church, and a 39 year retired educator. As a teacher and administrator, I taught every student that came through my door. I represented each of them and fought for them like they were my own. No consideration of race, creed, religious background, or gender. I worked hard for each and every one of them.
As representatives of the people of Texas I urge to not revise congressional districts simply because the president wants to secure seats in the 2026 election.
People voted for their representatives. Every citizen in the state deserves to choose for themselves; who best represents them and their community.
The fact that only districts with a majority minority population tells us more about the motives.
You were elected by your constituents. You are supposed to answer to them, not Gov. Abbott or Donald Trump.
Bill after bill you show us that our needs take a backseat to what your donors want.
It is to silence communities who already don’t have enough representation in government. It is to silence Black and Brown communities. It is to make sure that the harmful effects of the big bad bill take effect without any oversight. It is not the will of the people who elected you. If the policies being passed at the federal level were sound and beneficial to the majority, you would not have to redistrict to keep power. Breaking up communities of color is racial gerrymandering. Our own AG stated under oath that these district were not set up by race or color but Trump wants to break them up because of it.
We the people elected you and we the people will hold you accountable.
We urge you to focus on flood controls, the power grid, keeping rural hospitals and clinics open, and shoring up our public schools and leave redistricting to be done during the census period.

Kevin Burns
Self
Houston, TX

Texas taxpayers should not be forced to foot the bill for a special session just to redraw maps that were already declared fair and legal by the very people who now want to change them. If nothing material has changed — no new census, no court ruling — then what is this really about? The explanation offered, a vague letter, is not justification for upending the democratic map-drawing process again.

This is not about fairness, it is a naked grab for power in a heavily gerrymandered state where 42% of the population of Texans have only 32% of the representatives in the House, where the death of a Congressional member left a district unrepresented because the Governor did not want the people to have their will exercised.

The continuation of a winner-take-all politics has removed fair representation from a minority contingent may be setting the stage for revolution. As the great men who founded this nation were inspired by the slogan, "no taxation without representation." Will the Texas legislative body adopt King George IV's policies or will they return to American ideals and restore accurate representation by population?

Jamie Mower
Self
Richmond, TX

I am almost at a loss of words for what is happening not only in our country but in our great state of Texas. The abuse of power and a loss of trust in the very people in power and who we elect and trust to govern us is now alarming to our society and our very liberty in this “democracy”. No person, no politician, no president should be allowed to change our districts for their own political gain and agenda. We, as Texans, need to do the right thing and not allow this to happen to our people. I am scared of what the future holds for our country, our democracy and our republic. Leave the district boundaries alone! These representatives have been rightfully elected by the prople to help represent us- especially in these trying times!

Michael Kneeland
Self
San Antonio, TX

As my representative, I expect you to OPPOSE redistricting! Gerrymandering is illegal and I do not support suppression of the Black and Latino vote. SAY NO TO REDISTRICTING!

Valerie Mitro
self
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting plan raises serious concerns about fairness and democratic integrity. By manipulating district boundaries, the plan appears to dilute the voices of historically underrepresented communities while disproportionately favoring one political party. This undermines the foundational principle of "one person, one vote" by skewing representation in a way that no longer reflects the true makeup of the population. Voters should choose their representatives — not the other way around. When district lines are drawn with partisan intent instead of reflecting genuine community boundaries, it erodes public trust and weakens the legitimacy of our electoral system. Fair representation should never be a partisan issue, it’s a fundamental right in a healthy democracy.

Kiley McAbee
Self / real estate
Lewisville, TX

This is a completely shameful and sham process. Stop kowtowing to Donald Trump and work for your constituents. We deserve to have our voices heard. Gerrymandering by both parties needs to finally stop - be the ones to end the shameful cycle. And halfway through the decade, after your own party drew the last map, now you need a new one? Come on. Respect your citizens and yourselves.

Dana Dean
Self. Realtor
Austin, TX

This absurd redistributing plan is an unvarnished power grab. The lines divide areas that have similar concerns and specifically target democratic neighborhoods. It is past time to remember you represent us, not Donald Atrump. Grow a spine and leave the districts alone. There is no new census to justify this blatant move.

Shantanu Ganguly
Self
Austin, TX

Hon. Representatives, redistricting based on the 2020 Census has already been done. Why again now?

It is clear that it is to lean further in favor of the majority party, without feedback from state residents but under pressure from the POTUS. If enacted, it will further disenfranchise large swaths of voters who will be pushed into districts where their vote will not count.
This redistricting is unethical and should not be done.

Kim Goyette
self
Austin, TX

Hello, I am a 30+ year Texan residing in Austin in Travis County. I am extremely concerned about the proposed redistricting maps. Texas has a long history of passing discriminatory election laws and racial gerrymandered maps. What is happening right now continues the pattern. Communities of color make up more than 60% of the Texas population, yet people of color only represent 34% of our congressional delegation. Since Texas leadership is funded by tax payer dollars, Senators, House Representatives and the Governor should represent ALL Texans. We should have fair mapping that represents the voice of every Texas citizen. This short notice special session focused on redistricting is an intentional way to split up communities of color to reduce voting power and sway the voter outcome. I believe that Travis County proposed maps intentionally do not represent the majority of people in Travis County by extending district mapping into areas that traditionally vote republican and thereby water down the power of Austin voters. I am asking for an Independent Redistricting Commission to offer a transparent way to draw maps that reflect the true diversity and needs of our communities. I am asking you to change your priorities and focus on fairly representing ALL Texas citizens' needs. Thank you.

Martha Owen
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. It should be be seen as what it is: a power grab. Democrats should not be shut out of the opportunity to participate in our democracy. The redistricting should be done every 10 years to reflect population changes, not to suit either party. This sort of thing makes all of us lose faith in our political system and we are worse off as a country/state because of it.
Martha Owen

Rebecca Molis
Self. Retired
Round Rock, TX

Texans deserve to have their voices heard. Redistricting to provide gerrymandered seats does nothing to represent the needs of every Texan. If you have to cheat to win, then you know that what you are doing is wrong. Stand for what Texans need - gun laws, funded public schools, healthcare, and social services. Stop pandering to felons and billionaires

Laura Kaplan, Nurse
Self
Spicewood, TX

You're supposed to represent ALL the people of Texas! Rigging elections by gerrymandering to get rid of Independents and Democrats is illegal!!

Barbara Smith
Individual
Nacogdoches, TX

Do not redistrict. This is a power play and is seen as such.

Elizabeth Runge
Self
Houston, TX

This is not okay! I am currently in Congressional District 18 which our Governor has decided doesn't deserve to have a voice. Now you THINK you can take away our representation with the redrawing of the voting map. This is NOT enhancing voter representation and you know that. Trust me, you have poked the bear and the next election will show that the voters care about those who mess with their representation. You should all know and act better. God have mercy on your souls.

Kenya Ross, Mrs.
Self
Dallas, TX

You are working against the people you are to serve. Stop and think. Be fair. Nothing good will come from this redistricting.

Maya Modi
Self
Dallas, TX

There are more registered democrats in Texas than registered republicans.

Please do not bow down to our dictator so he can have 5 more seats. Your constituents will have more respect for you if you stand up FOR our rights and voices. Fight for democracy!

Susan Grumbles
Self
McKinney, TX

All voices need to be heard for representation in a democracy. Redistricting silences voices and does not adequately represent the voters. Please reject the proposal for redistricting.

Lia Rosen
Self
Austin, TX

The redistricting as shared in the maps for HB 4- reveal a lack of transparency and are a rapid response based on party lines. I ask that you do not approve this bill and instead wait until the census is complete in 2030 so we can use appropriate data to recreate maps.

Marjorie Guerra
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose the Redistricting and Gerrymandering. What is happening should be against the laws you are supposed to be making for a fair and just Texas.

Kris Fuentes
Self
Hutto, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting and urge you to vote no. I live in central Texas and this proposal moves me into a district with Odessa. This gerrymandering. Is unacceptable. Do not cower to political bullying. Vote no.

Elizabeth Ayala, Mrs.
Self
San Antonio, TX

We recently had a redistricting done in our state. You are wasting tax payers money by concentrating on this issue again rather than more important issues. Stop this attempt to redistribute our state.

Rebecca Allen
self
LOCKHART, TX

Do not redistrict!

Cynthia Sanchez, Ms
Self- Coach
Bedford, TX

No Redistricting

Della Shorman
Self
Galveston, TX

Please leave the current districts as is. The splitting up to add more districts will disenfranchise 100s of 1000s of voters.

Laurel Trevino
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB 4 on Congressional Redistricting for the following reasons. 1. It's the wrong time to do legislative redistricting, in the middle of a decade, instead of the right time, after the 2030 census. This complex process is being crammed into a short 30-day period. Why was it not scheduled during a normal session? Why are you redistricting instead of helping flood victims & preventing natural disaster losses again? 2. Major goals/objectives were not stated. 3. Criteria were not stated or violated. Maps should have contiguous lines (Texas County Line Rule); districts should be but are NOT compact; population will grow and demographics will change in the next 5 y; maps are racially biased; maps are partisan; maps should not protect/favor incumbency; maps should but are not respecting community landmarks. 4. Methodology should: use modern map-making software that includes all 6 criteria (stated in #3) in addition to unique criteria including communities of interest, state Confidence Interval (95 or 99%) and Standard Deviation (5 or 1%). Bills HJR 26, HJR 28, HB 221 propose a constitutional amendment to establish an independent citizen redistricting commission to redistrict the Texas Legislature, Congressional District, State Board of Education, and revising procedures for redistricting. Redistricting is a serious, laborious, long process, which cannot be rushed into a short period as it was in 2021 and now in 2025. Stop playing politics instead of helping flood victims NOW!

Suzanne Seriff, Dr
Self
Austin, TX

As a lifelong Texan and dues paying member of Travis county for over 50 years I urge you to not pass this bill which would egregiously and incidiously carve up the voting districts of this state to deny voters rights or abilities to have those voices heard. Don’t do it!!!

Caitlin herron
Self
Fort worth, TX

I'm opposed to this redistricting proposal. It does not honestly represent the values or needs of all Texans. It will create a version of Texas geared to represent and amplify the voices of only some, only some values, only some people, and will leave the rest of us out. This is clearly intentional. This is clearly hateful. This is clearly only in the interest of the few. And somehow they are very interested in taking away the voice of others. When the rest of us are looking for all voices to be heard and not silenced. I, a lifelong, Texan do NOT support redistricting proposal HB4. This is not the Texas way y'all.

Veronica Seemann
Self Registred Nurse
Austin, TX

I am vehemently opposed to this redistricting bill. It is very obvious that it is being proposed to please and at the urging of the current president. We are only 1/2 way thought the time when this should be done. We have many more important issues that our legislators should be discussing like protecting our adults and children from needless gun fire, emergency warning systems, loss of electricity to name a few of the events that have plagued our great state. Please do the right thing and do not redraw the congressional districts. The State of Texas needs to do better to serve the citizens of Texas. Thank you.

Lori Hall
Self
Grapevine, TX

I adamantly oppose the Texas redistricting bill. I'm embarrassed to be a republican! This is un-American and clearly a desperate act to silence marginalized communities.

Alyssa Stebbing, Rev
Self
Austin, TX

This will not allow fair representation for all Texans. We have a right to representation if we pay taxes. Make it fair to all constituents. I oppose this bill. As a minister in the church, this will harm my parishioners and our community.

Cindy Skinner
Self
Lago Vista, TX

I write as a concerned Texas resident urging the Committee to prioritize transparency, community input, and fairness as you consider the proposed mid-decade congressional map. The delay in receiving proposed maps undermines trust in the process and limits meaningful public participation. Texans deserve an ample time to review proposed maps in advance of a vote. Moreover, the proposed changes appear designed to bolster Republican control in the U.S. House by adding up to five new GOP-friendly districts, potentially shifting power from urban and minority communities in cities such as Austin, Houston, and Dallas—even though nearly all growth in Texas since the 2020 Census is among non-white populations. This constitutes racial gerrymandering and would disenfranchise Black and Latino voters. Beyond political advantage, substantial concerns have been raised that redistricting mid-decade may disrupt essential constituent services—disconnecting residents from offices familiar with their ongoing cases and federal entitlements. As your Committee prepares to vote, I ask that you ensure: 1-Release of proposed maps with ample review time before any vote. 2-Public hearings in affected communities with accessible virtual testimony that allows every Texan who chooses to testify the time to testify. 3-Independent review to prevent dilution of minority voting strength. Citizens in Texas and across the US know what the orange felon has told the governor to do - and he intends to do it to protect the power he has and needs to pursue his national aspirations. And you, the committee members who may vote for this illegal racial gerrymandering are nothing but useful idiots…political pawns. Your time will come…you know you are on the wrong side of history..those you hurt and your conscience will never forgive you and you will be held accountable. This decision will shape Texas' political landscape for years to come. Please uphold the principles of fair representation and democratic process. Respectfully, Cindy Skinner, Lago Vista, TX.

Eliza Fisher

self; university employee

Austin, TX

I am extremely opposed to the passage of this bill!! Redistricting should improve the degrees to which districts represent their constituency, not artificially decrease it.

Michelle Brite

Self, music teacher and professional

Austin, TX

The new map is gerrymandering and It is undemocratic. Districts are supposed to be drawn to ensure representation by the diverse communities that live in a state, as they each have different needs and interests to be represented politically. In order to do this, many states use non-partisan, independent redistricting commissions to ensure fairness, but Texas does not. The proposed map has been drawn by Republicans to ensure that voters who tend to vote Republican dominate in the majority of districts and voters who tend to vote Democrat, are packed into just a couple of districts, giving the Republicans an 80% majority of House seats. In the last governor's election (2022) the Democratic candidate (Beto O'Rourke) won 43.8% of the vote and the Republican candidate (Greg Abbot) won 54.8% of the vote. In the 2024 presidential election the Democratic candidate (Harris) won 42.4% of the vote and the Republican candidate (Trump) won 56.3% of the vote. It's not about turning Texas blue, it's about having fair maps and fair representation.

- It is racist. The districts that are being redrawn are primarily populated by Black and Hispanic populations who vote Democratic. U.S. House Reps Marc Veasey and Jasmine Crockett no longer live in their districts under the current maps, which is a method of reducing their chance of being reelected. Both of them are Black lawmakers and were elected to represent districts that are primarily populated by people of color. The current map has diluted the ability for Black and Hispanic voters to choose their own representatives in Congress, which creates a system where one race is given more say than another - blatant racism.

- It lacks data. The maps are supposed to be redrawn every 10 years following the census, so that the best data can inform how the districts are drawn so as to fairly represent each voter as best as possible. We are at the five year point between censuses, so no new demographic data has been acquired. The Texas government previously testified that the maps were drawn "blind to race", but the U.S. Department of Justice has stated this needs to happen to rectify the previous maps because they are racist. It's an insulting line of reasoning and has no basis in actual demographic reality.

- It is divisive. Democratic states, such as California, are already considering redrawing their lines to give them more Democratic districts in response to the Texas plan. This sets a terrible precedent and will further deepen ineffectiveness, combativeness, and conflict between the left and the right. In my opinion, it is simply self-defense for Democratic governments to try and balance the system in whatever way they can, but it is still destructive and will have an overall negative effect for the country.

Gordon Jeffries

self

Plano, TX

This is an illegal attempt at gerrymandering. This is changing the rules in midterm and I am firmly opposed to this. If the current folks cannot win in their district, then they don’t win. Plain and simple. Preserve our voting rights.

Nathan Hiebert

Self

Austin, TX

What kind of fucking pussies redistrict their state at the behest of a wannabe dictator? You pedophile protectors in the GOP are a fucking disgrace. The political climate is a powder keg and you dumb motherfuckers are playing matches.

Nick Caveness, Rev.
Drop pastor CTChurch
Pasadena, TX

I am for redistricting
Redistricting is a process that adjusts electoral boundaries to reflect population changes from the census, ensures districts have roughly equal populations and comply with the “one person, one vote” principle enshrined in the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Texas, which has experienced substantial population growth from 2020 to 2025, has seen its population surge from 29,145,505 in 2020 to an estimated 32 million by July 2025, as reported by the U.S. Census Bureau. Redistricting is crucial in maintaining fair representation and upholding the Constitution. The current maps - Texas House, Texas Senate, and Congress - do not reflect the massive growth in Texas over the last five years.

Samantha Morris
Self
Pearland, TX

I am strongly opposed to new maps halfway through the period. This is a shrewd and cruel political move to block out representatives and crack and pack federal districts so that we have a 1 party system. THIS IS NOT DEMOCRACY! And I'm absolutely sick of the Republican party lying to Texans. I went to the Houston hearing and we were all told, THOUSANDS of people were told there were no new maps, we're just seeing what the public wants, and of course we'll give MULTIPLE hearings across the state once we have new maps so the public can weigh in. That was a LIE. Not 5 days later NEW MAPS had magially appeared and low and behold the legislature is having ONE SINGLE hearing at the capitol only. I'm sick and tired of the lies to Texans, the intentional obfuscation, the deliberate attempt to disenfranchise Texan voices. KNOCK IT OFF!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

ANN SOULE
self
Austin, TX

I am against HB 4. Voters should chose who represents them not having the candidates chose who is in their districts. I am against further gerrymandering demanded by Trump to dilute the democratic vote.

Ryan Matcham
Self
Fort worth, TX

This is a power grab. We used to be the one state that stood independent of the President. Now we bow to Trump whenever he speaks. Stand up for Texas and stand up for Texans.

L Thompson
Self retired
Austin, TX

NO TO ANY REDISTRICTING

Anna Salinas, Ms.
Self
Grapevine, TX

I’m a 10th generation Texan and this is a shame. Gerrymandering belongs to back-alley, third-world authoritarian power-grabbers - not proud patriots working for justice and truth. Get out of here with this nonsense.

Donna Wurster
Common Defense
Murphy, TX

Subject: I Fought for Democracy — This Map Undermines It

My name is Donna Wurster, and I am a proud Army veteran, a resident of Collin, Texas, and a member of Common Defense, the nation's largest grassroots organization of progressive veterans.
I'm submitting this testimony to STRONGLY oppose the proposed redistricting map. The way this map is drawn is not just a political tactic — it's a direct assault on democracy, on communities of color, and on the veterans who return home to live in them.
This map targets Black and Brown neighborhoods, strips representation from active, community-rooted congressional leaders, and slices up communities where veterans rely on accessible services and trusted representation. It seeks to dilute urban votes seen as more democratic with rural voters unfairly characterized as more autocratic.
As a veteran, I am deeply concerned that this map makes it harder for us to defend and expand services through the VA. It's no coincidence that these lines gut areas where our VA Not for Sale campaign has traction — because silencing our voices silences our fight to protect the benefits we earned.
This redistricting proposal is not neutral. It is strategic, harmful, and unjust. I urge the committee to reject this map, hold public hearings in the affected communities, and draw lines that respect real people — not partisan power.
Vote NO on this Bill and prove to me that you are not the men and women Federalist 10 warned us about, "Men of factious tempers, of local prejudices, or of sinister designs, [who] by intrigue, by corruption, or by other means, first obtain the sufferages, and then betray the interests, of the people."
Signed,
Donna Marie Wurster
Army Veteran
Member, Common Defense
Collin County
donna.wurster@gmail.com/ 214.335.3628

Tonya Hall
self
El Paso, TX

To the House Select Committee on Congressional Redistricting:

My name is Tonya Hall, and I am a Texas resident writing in strong opposition to HB 4.

This redistricting proposal is not just unfair — it is outrageous. Under HB 4, neighborhoods just 15 miles from mine would be drawn into a district represented by someone 500 miles away in San Antonio. That is not representative government. That is a blatant manipulation of the map to protect political power, not the people.

There is no logical or community-based justification for these lines — only a partisan one. Let's call it what it is: a calculated grab for more congressional seats at the request of the President, who explicitly called for Texas to deliver five more Republican seats. This is not about fair representation — it is about political fear. Fear that Texas voters are shifting, that we will no longer vote for officials who have repeatedly failed to act in our best interest — on healthcare, education, the power grid, and more.

HB 4 is a direct attack on our democracy and an attempt to actively silence the voices of Texans. Voters should choose their representatives — not the other way around.

I urge this committee to reject HB 4. We need fair maps, not partisan ones. We need representation that reflects our communities — not one that distances us from power by hundreds of miles.

Warren Smith
Self, retired
Austin, TX

This bill is a blatant political jerrymander, designed to keep Republicans in power even as their actual support dissolves. It must be rejected.

Pat Jackson
Self
La Grange, TX

I approve this bill!

Heather Coffee
Self
Austin, TX

Mid-decade redistricting, prompted by Trump so he can “get 5 seats in Texas” is exclusively a way to disenfranchise voters in Texas and concentrate power in the Republican Party, not only is it a miscarriage of justice to adopt these maps into law, it is a thinly-veiled attempt to chip away at the voting rights act. If the districts were drawn “race blind” as their 2021 authors indicated, then why is it the DOJ is asking to remedy racial issues in the districts it cited in its letter? Furthermore, why is Adam Kincaid, someone who isn’t even a Texan and certainly isn’t elected by the people of Texas, the individual who drew the maps? This is wrong and it will only serve to further disenfranchise voters of color in Texas and provide a pathway to do the same in other states across the nation. I am opposed to this bill and ask that you do not vote it into law.

Richard Santos
self, writer
Austin, TX

I believe rural voters will suffer through these new maps. Representatives will have a harder time attending to rural concerns while dealing with the urban dwellers who are being pushed into these districts.

Julie Gross, Ms.
self - educator
Austin, TX

I am AGAINST HB4 and oppose these unfair redistricting plans. I demand fair maps that represent all Texans. District lines should be drawn to represent the populations included, not silence the voices of the citizens you are supposed to represent. The government of the people, for the people, by the people weeps for what has become of this society.

Hannah Abercrombie
Self
Allen, TX

Do not illegally gerrymander our state even further. This is a disgusting attempt to disenfranchise millions of Texans just because Trump wants you to. Have a backbone. Do the right thing.

Samantha Johnson
Self
Austin, TX

This is a shameful tactic to attempt to squeeze this redistricting in among the face of so much death due to the floods. The focus of this special session should have been emergency preparedness and support for the communities that lost so many lives. The fact that this is even a bill is beyond disappointing. You are attempting to circumvent the people’s vote.

Vivek Mehta
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Vivek Mehta, and I am a proud Texan, born and raised in this state. I do not belong to any political party. I vote based on values, integrity, and which leaders best represent the will and interests of their communities.

That is exactly why I am speaking out today in strong opposition to HB 4.

This mid-census redistricting effort is not being driven by the people of Texas. It is being pushed from the top down, rushed through in a special session without justification, transparency, or accountability. The Legislature is attempting to redraw congressional maps that were already passed just a few years ago and are still under active review in federal court.

Why now? Why not wait for the courts to rule? Why waste money when redistricting was completed just 3 years ago?

The only conclusions is that this process is designed to suppress the voice of voters, not amplify it. Communities are being split up, carved into new configurations that dilute their ability to elect representatives who truly understand and advocate for their needs. Districts are stretching across vast geographic areas that share no common interests, linking urban neighborhoods to faraway rural towns with no clear justification.

That is not democracy.

The people of Texas deserve a system where representation is earned, not engineered.

Let the courts finish their work. Let voters keep the power to choose leaders who listen to them. And please, do not waste our time and money on a rushed, unnecessary redistricting process that confuses voters and and distracts from the real issues facing Texans today.

Thank you.

Elias Berthoud
Self
Horizon City, TX

This isn't in the best interest of El Paso Texas citizens. Leave our district lines as they are. Our current Representative is Doing Her Job. She knows the community's within El Paso and takes care of El Paso Texas.

Annagae Li
Self
Austin, TX

This is absolutely not in the best interest of TEXANS. No, no, no!

Elizabeth Buel
self
San Antonio, TX

As a Texas AFT member, I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal and oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Cyrus Reed, Dr
Sierra Club, Lone Star Chapter
Austin, TX

Sierra Club opposes this process and these maps, which do not create communities of interest. Please find our full comments here - https://www.sierraclub.org/sites/default/files/2025-08/hb4-sc-house-special-08-01-25.pdf

Deborah Cosgrove
Admin Asst
El Paso, TX

I am deeply disappointed with so much of what the Republican party is doing right now but this redistricting proposal sits at the top of the list. Not only is the Texas GOP capitulating to the pressure of current administration, but they are doing so for no apparent reason, other than a power grab. No census information makes this redistricting necessary, the timing is highly unusual and completely suspect. As a voter living in El Paso Texas, I want to be represented by someone that knows El Paso. Someone that lives here, eats here and cares about El Paso. I do not want representation by someone more than 100 miles away. I hope these comments are taken seriously.

Del Cooney
self/marketing
austin, TX

My name is del cooney, from Austin, TX. I am a constituent of district 37. I am writing to register my strong opposition to the mid decade redistricting proposed in HB 4. I've lived in Austin for over 20 years. This process is rushed, with limited hearings and opportunities to receive feedback from concerned Texans. The proposed maps have a potential to radically change the congressional representation for communities across the state, and forcing this through in a special session raises serious questions about gerrymandering and intentional disenfranchisement. I oppose this bill

June Mullin
Self
Round Rock, TX

I oppose this redistricting effort. It is unnecessary, and will disenfranchise groups of voters who deserve to have their voices matter.

Alexis Bruton
Self retiree
San Antonio, TX

How dare you try to take away fair districts that represent the beautiful diversity of our Texas? When your MAGA mess catches up with you - as is coming with the flooding disaster that could have been averted - you will answer for violating the Constitution at the bidding of a would-be tyrant whose reckoning is coming too. Destroying Barbara Jordan's district for example is a profound error morally and politically that will hasten the destruction of what's left of the GOP and create a tidal wave of new voters such as in California after Pete Wilson turned on immigrants in the 80s - turning CA blue for decades.
Your craven kowtowing to the absolute worst instincts of the power mad in DC is an abomination that directly contradicts the proud heritage of Free Texas.

Maria Scranton, Dr
Self
Austin, TX

I do not believe redistricting is needed. We just did redistricting and already had a court case. Personally I do not think politicians should be drawing the lines. I think this is a set up for cheating. Representatives should be elected based on merit and their platforms not due or cheating. That is not representation by the people and for the people. It's representation of special interests

Marsha Thornton
Self
Red Oak, TX

I am not convinced that there is anything I could say that is not something that has not already been said or that, furthermore, would compel the republican legislators of Texas to cease and desist this action of redistricting, unashamedly done to capture additional congressional seats to maintain power. Several commenters in both the House and Senate hearings that occurred even before the maps were released have already commented on why this redistricting exercise is wrong. Yet, I submit these comments today as a lasting testament to my opposition to this redistricting exercise. It was inexcusable to have public field hearings before the maps were released. It is inexcusable to allow only 48 hours for members of the public to receive and review the maps and make their way to the Capitol to comment in person. Although the rules for a special session only require 24 hours' notice for a public hearing, anyone truly interested in the public's input would have permitted far more time. It is unreasonable that at least one of the districts in the proposed map stretches from Lubbock to San Antonio, and another district stretches from Dallas to the Texas-Louisiana border. For these reasons and so many others that I will not delineate today, I strongly oppose this redistricting initiative.

Ann Morris
Myself
Lago Vista, TX

Confirm the the New district map

Gary Grisaffe
Self
Austin, TX

First, you all have failed to explain why this is needed mid-cycle though we all know the real reason. Second, these maps are blatantly nonsensical. Your only goal here is seemingly to dilute power of the minority party. This should be neither normalized nor accepted. If you cannot win on your ideas and leadership, please move aside. You're serving nobody but yourselves.

Jo Webber, Dr.
Self , university professor
AUSTIN, TX

I DO NOT support mid census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting interests of the community. This redistricting effort is totally unnecessary. Stop this effort and do something that actually helps the people of TX like increasing funding for public schools and increasing Medicaid funding.

Sean Miller
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly disagree with the proposals laid out in HB 4. They represent an effort to further dilute my representation and voice, as well as the voices of thousands of Texas. Given that this is happening outside of normal redistricting times, which historically coincide with the Us Census, I am forced to believe that this is nothing more than a nakedly partisan effort to remove representation for left-leaning voters in Texas. Voters should pick their political representatives, not the other way around. Please reject this measure.

Diane Jones, Mrs
Self
Dallas, TX

I'm against the HB42 redistribution map.

Adriana Castro
self
Houston, TX

As a constituent from Harris County, I strongly oppose any mid-decade redistricting efforts that diminish the voting power of minority communities. Our communities deserve fair, representative maps—not political manipulation.

This proposal is a clear overreach and appears to be an attempt to suppress the civic voices of marginalized voters. I urge you to stand for fair representation and reject this undemocratic effort.

Anne Dunkelberg
self - retired Texas Health Policy Analyst
Austin, TX

I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest.

Sarah Miller Fellows
self
Austin, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I strongly oppose any mid-decade re-districting, especially while current maps are being challenged in court. I am especially concerned that redistricting will not result in fair representation for all Texans. Texas has a history of using gerrymandering and voter suppression tactics to limit representation of racial minorities. I urge you to prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided.

A 30-day special session does not provide sufficient time for a thoughtful, transparent process that allows for meaningful public input and ensures that lawmakers have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps. Furthermore, rushing this process during the special session distracts from the very necessary priorities of ensuring flood recovery after the devastating July 4 flooding. I urge you to not pursue redistricting during the current special session.
Sincerely,
Dr. Sarah Miller Fellows

Rudolph Maio
Self
El Paso, TX

I'm against redistricting before the next census. We will be losing the 700 million dollars our current US representing raised for a VA clinic / Hospital etc. This money will go to ppl 500 miles away for their use.
I want a rep. With a presence in El Paso area district. NO TO REDISTRICTING

Tanya Walshin
Self dental hygienist
Rockwall, TX

I am in support of redistricting.

Jaba Banerjee
Self
Austin, TX

Stop the redistricting.

Celena Hebert
self
Austin, TX

Redefining the districts should not be done this way. Gerrymandering should be stopped, not made even more extreme.

Paula Allen
Self, retired teacher
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose mid-census redistricting, and instead support districts reflecting communities of interest.

Marshall George
Self
Austin, TX

The fact that Texas has elected to take up a congressional redistricting request made by a sitting president is absolutely mind boggling to me, given that Texas has always argued the majority of its values are based off the premises of “states rights” and “limited government”. Additionally, it’s worth noting, not that I should have to, that this redistricting tactic that is being used is the same gerrymandering tactic that was used, and fought against in a massive way by Republicans, in the early 2000’s when Democrats held the majority in Texas. Is it right to do it when the shoe is on the other foot? I think not. Plainly stated, gerrymandering is wrong. Period. It does not matter who is doing it, because it’s ethically reprehensible, deeply Un-American, and the least Texan thing I believe you can do. That is, of course, unless you support the suppression of minority groups, silencing the voices of citizens in how their government is run, and the overall deprivation of rights promised to every citizen in the US Constitution. Given how vehemently residents of Texas, and other southern states, have argued that suppression of minorities is not something they are in favor of, how they are all for liberty and justice, etc., I find it hard to believe that this is the behavior we would want to engage in with the full knowledge that it does exactly the opposite by going against out espoused values. My congressional district has been some cartoonish shape since I can remember, and the entire purpose of it being drawn in that manner has been to disenfranchise individuals by diluting their voices through the dilution of their votes. There is zero reason I should share a congressional district with someone from Bryan, Texas, because the issues we face on the majority of things are inherently different. Not everything, but a great majority of things. Since this is patently obvious to anyone who would spend even 1-2 mins looking at a map of the state, it leaves a single explanation as to why my district was drawn that way: political gerrymandering. I’ve looked at the proposed map, and it is legitimately worse than the map I currently am forced to contend with; which, is just further evidence that this push to redistrict mid-decade, and during a special session where time is limited by design, is a politically motivated push to gerrymander for additional political gain by a Republican Party who is grasping for the power to undo institutions from which they receive the lions share of benefits. We need to do better. I am opposed to, and believe you should oppose, this redistricting attempt. This is a fly-by-night operation, and we are already on a dangerous trajectory as a nation. This legislation only serves to move us further down that dangerous path. Do not be complicit, and have your name recorded in history texts as being part of a dark era for this state and our nation.

kimberly thomas
self
austin, TX

Every elected leader – Democrat and Republican – must commit publicly to rejecting any and all efforts to redraw maps for partisan gain.

Voters should choose their leaders, not the other way around. Independent redistricting commissions are the best way to guarantee fair maps and equal representation for all. I am AGAINST redistricting.

Rex Warner, County Chairman San Patricio
Portland, TX

With the changes that have happened in the last five years, it’s only correct to redistricting and only evil people would want to continue to not have the people who representative correctly by redistricting

Kay Dutta
Rockwall County Republican Women
Rockwall, TX

I support: Legislation to revise the congressional redistricting map.

Katherine Keenan
Self
Austin, TX

Good morning,

My name is Katherine Keenan and I’m a constituent from Austin, 78703.

I'm calling to urge the committee to oppose HB 4 and the mid-decade redistricting that is being considered. Early warning systems and flood prevention is much more important and valuable to Texans than partisan gerrymandering. I am also concerned this will start a tidal wave of similar actions from states of all political persuasion. This is not time well spent. We have more important matters to attend to.

Further, every American deserves a voice in their government. Please do everything in your power to stop this shameful dilution of representation from our few minority-majority districts -- clearly targeted on this basis.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Joyce Moore Newell
Self
Beaumont, TX

Thank you for this opportunity to share. As a public educator, I know and teach that everyone is important and has a voice. With this proposed redistricting, the voices of so many will be silenced. Texans have not only lived but thrived because of our diversity. Now is not the time to go backwards by enacting laws that are blatantly racist and disenfranchising. I strongly oppose gerrymandering our districts. It is just logical to see that 62% of Texans of Color are not currently represented at 62% in office and even less representation will happen with the proposed changes.

Susan Wittliff
Self, Wealth Manager
Austin, TX

We are opposed to this redistributing and will consider moving if this is enacted.

Kathleen Young
Self
Cedar Park, TX

This is an outrageous violation of the constitution that will take voices away from many texans. This is not only more racist than the last map, but obviously just an attempt by republicans to have more white nationalist representation.

Barbara Terry
self, retired attorney
Austin, TX

I am a lifelong Texas who has voted in every single election since I turned 18 over 40 years ago. I am appalled at the attempts by this current Legislature to gerrymander our US House districts during this special session. A special session, I might add, that was publicized as a session to address the catastrophic floods in the Hill Country over the July 4th weekend. But here you are, sneaking around doing Donald Trump's dirty work. No State should be redrawing districts in an '05 year, halfway between census counts. And wow! What abysmal districts you've proposed. Under this proposed map, my small neighborhood will be divided into not 1, not 2, BUT # US House districts. Why? I'm betting it's because my neighborhood votes solidly Democratic. It's why y'all redrew us just 5 years ago, to protect John Carter from defeat since he is a yes-boy to the GOP and Trump. So under this joke of a map, I will be "represented" by a person whose district stretches to Hillsboro. My neighbor less than a bike ride away will be "represented" by someone whose district stretches to Midland, and a third neighbor a bike ride the other direction will be "represented" by someone whose district includes the Piney woods of East Texas to the Louisana border. THAT IS NOT REPRESENTATION!!!!! It is a violation of our rights and all that is moral with our government. I can't be properly represented by a person who doesn't even share the same weather and soil as I have. And y'all know this!! You're so scared of Trump and losing the House to the Democrats that you are willing to hurt millions of Texans who trust y'all to serve us. Well, NO MORE! You pass this joke of a map and we will all join forces to make sure you don't win reelection and that this gerrymandering ceases. Do the RIGHT thing and spend this session helping the poor families y'all give public words to but ignore once the gavel comes down.

Grayson Sherwood
Self/Technical Coordinator
Allen, TX

Our government should accurately and honestly represent its people and our communities. Texas has had a long unhealthy history of not representing Texans well. This bill will further pervert the people’s representation so much so I am concerned about civil unrest, the safety of our government, and those who represent the government. There are so many other greater issues that plague our home state, time, money and resources should go to these other issues that Texans are genuinely concerned about and not towards a destruction of democracy.

Patricia Taylor Voters
Holly Lk Rnch, TX

I am adamantly opposed to the redistricting. There are districts in Dallas that extend almost to Texarkana. This appears to be an effort to rig the upcoming elections and insure that votes by and for democrats are drowned in a sea of red votes from 100 miles away. It is wrong, you know it’s wrong and eventually we will find a way to vote you out. We will fight by every legal means to get our democracy back

Jena Masquelier
Self
Frisco, TX

Absolutely in favor of redistributing. The influx of people moving to texas make this necessary

Oscar Ugarte, Sheriff
El Paso County
El Paso, TX

Thank you for the opportunity to submit comments on the proposed redistricting plans.

As Sheriff of El Paso County, I'm urging the Committee to keep Fort Bliss, the El Paso International Airport, and surrounding areas of our community within Congressional District 16, currently represented by someone who lives in and understands El Paso.
Fort Bliss is one of the largest military installations in the country and a vital part of El Paso's identity. Thousands of soldiers and their families live in neighborhoods across the County, send their kids to local schools, and are deeply involved in our community. Fort Bliss doesn't stand apart, it functions alongside the rest of El Paso. Moving it into a different congressional district would disconnect it from the very people and institutions it relies on every day.

The El Paso International Airport connects our region to the rest of the country. It supports our economy, welcomes visitors, and plays a critical role in our growth. Decisions about transportation, trade, and infrastructure that affect the airport affect all of us. Those decisions should be made by someone who understands our local priorities.

Most importantly, the communities around these areas, veterans, working families, and longtime El Pasoans, deserve a voice in Washington that comes from here. Someone who lives in El Paso, knows the people, and will always put our community first.

El Paso is unique. We're a binational, bilingual, and deeply connected border community. Our representation should reflect that.

Craig DeBarge
self
Austin, TX

I felt it was important to speak out against this bill, as it is placating the president's demands to basically rig the system so that the votes of Democrats and minorities are wiped out through unfair and unnecessary redistricting- ensuring Republicans have all of the control. This is unbalanced and violating the rights of every single Texan who votes in what should be fair elections.

James Doyle
Self
Carrollton, TX

I am strongly in FAVOR of the maps put out yesterday in support of HB 4.The maps correctly reflect the composition of he electorate in our state.

Ruth Solis
Self Bulverde, TX

Esteem Representatives,

This letter is directly address to the Republican members and their gerrymandering. Our country was founded on the ideals of democracy which include fair elections. It also included the ideals that the citizens of this country had a say through their votes in fair elections. The power grab by the Republican party is both unlawful and in complete opposition to the ideals upon which our country was founded. The Republican policies are hurting this country and this state. You know it and at the directive of current president Republicans sold us out.Gerrymandering is cheating. You are cheating us of our voices. You are cheating us as your constituents. You have decided party is more important than this state and this nation. Instead of helping Texans in our hour of need due to the life taking floods in the Hill Country, you decided to help the Republican Party. You decided to help the man who would throw you under the bus, if the need arises. The Republican power grab serves only one group of people and, not all Texans. You will rue the day you turn your backs on Texans to satisfy a man child and his accomplice the governor of this state. You have failed us in every sense of the word. You have demonstrated to your sons and daughters that cheating is more important than doing your job and earning your goals fair and square. Your greed will be your undoing. Your greed will hurt this beautiful state and its residents all because you bent a knee to the erratic leader of the Republican Party.

Melinda Vescovo
self/retired attorney
West Lake Hills, TX

Let's keep Texas values, of which fair play is primary. Redistricting to bend the knee to the federal government and current president is absolutely the least Texan action that could be taken. It's an absolute parody of true Texas ideals of independence, fair play, honesty, and helping each other. I urge you to reject this redistricting and let Texas stay Texas - not become a mere tool of the current president in his rapacious quest for wealth and power. Do the right thing - which is to NOT do this!

Leslie Dell
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Please vote against redistricting that will deprive many voters the right to vote for whom they want (a Democrat?).
This should be done after the census, not midway. Vote to do the right thing, not to do whatever Trump tells you to. Play fair!!!

sean collins
self - software developer
texarkana, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Bruce Ray
None
Cresson, TX

This is absolutely anti democratic!

Tansy Silva, Analyst
Self
Elgin, TX

This bill does not represent what a true democracy consists of. This is blatant and abusive. The power comes from the people and not the people currently in power. We choose the representatives. The representatives work for us. They are to serve us and not their own special interests. This is wrong. Stop the carving up of our state. Hands off!!!

Mayra Radzinski
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

As a life long Texan and voter, I've watched the districts in Texas be redrawn to dilute the voting power of majority voters time and again. The last time I remember was in 2021. If districts have to be redrawn every few years to keep you in power, how much power do you really have?? How about instead, you listen to your constituents and act in their best interest so they will have a reason to vote for you. Please, honor the job which you have been trusted with and respect the will of the people. Thank you.

Linda Hinds
Self
Houston, TX

There is no reason for the Special Session or any other session to occupy itself with congressional redistricting. It is unnecessary, confusing to voters and will cause the state to waste time and money during the special session – only to later waste more time and money in litigation over whatever maps are proposed. It is an insult to the sovereignty of Texas that we would even respond to Trump's request to give him 5 more Republican seats. Stop the steal and represent your constituents who are overwhelmingly opposed to this gerrymandering. Please stop this pointless work, your abdication of your responsibility to the people who elected you and these unjust maps.

Anne Schellekens
Self, Homemaker
Austin, TX

Redrawing the maps just to take out the Democrats is unfair and unjust. Cheating in order to win is not an honorable way to be. I'm highly disappointed and disgusted by the attempts of this administration to drown out the voices of their constituents. Shame. Shame. Shame.

Cara Fuller
Self
Sanger, TX

Blatant gerrymandering. Removing the voices to appease a pedophile.

Denise King
Self
Desoto, TX

I oppose the proposed redistricting maps. They do not represent the diversity or needs of my community. Stop the gerrymandering!

Peggy Kligman
Self
Denton, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I oppose any mid-decade redistricting, especially while the current maps are still being challenged in court. Furthermore, I oppose any redistricting that does not result in fair representation for all Texans. Texas has a long history of racial gerrymandering and discriminatory voting practices, so I urge you to prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided, thereby weakening their political voice.

Dee Walsh, Ms
Self
Grapevine, TX

As Alison Campolo pointed out in Arlington on Monday night, this disenfranchises everyone. It is a cowardly capitulation to a felon demagogue and the entire apparatus behind his election and cruel fascist administration for which Republicans are fully responsible. Please do not redistrict in this mid decade period. There are already unfairly drawn districts, one of which I live in. I am not represented by my representative and haven't been in years and not be cause I am a Democrat. I am not.

Ronnie Gatlin
Self
Italy, TX

I support this map as drawn. Thank you!

OKSANA SPANN, MRS
NONE
granbury, TX

I SUPPORT

Marjorie Mock, Mrsh
Self Retired
North Richland Hills, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Sasha Smith
Self - Business Administrator
San Antonio, TX

This new propositions for redistricting goes against what I belive to be right as a Texan. Each person should have a voice and be represented equally. This bill will strip the right to be represented for many people. You cannot break the rules just because you do not like them. You have no merrit if this bill goes through and you will be destroying the very thing that makes this state great.

Erin Tassoulas
self
Austin, TX

Please listen to the majority of Texans, we do not want to have redistricting forced on our state at President Trump's whim. Show some back bone and stand up for Texas and Texans. You claim to love freedom and states rights but your dont show it with your attempted actions. This is a time for our state to come together. Not further disenfranchise the citizens of this state!!

Joseph Laycock, Mr
Self
Austin, TX

This bill is blatant gerrymandering ordered by Trump so that he can avoid the consequences of his actions. It is evil and radically undemocratic. As a Texan I am ashamed this is even being proposed.

Nikhil Batra
Self
Austin, TX

No no no. Stop the racism and marginalization of your constituents!

Susan White
Self
Arlington, TX

This is blatantly partisan and should be illegal. There should be no redistricting allowed before the 2026 election.

Stesha Pasachnik
self
Fort Worth, TX

I strongly oppose the suggested redistricting. This is clear racial gerrymandering that is not in the best interest of the state. It focuses on keeping a small portion of the state's interest in power and not on representing the entire population. Texas must do better!

Ronnie Beale
self
Grapevine, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Kathy Keith
self
Combine, TX

If Republicans could win on their policies, you would run on them. Obviously you can't, which means you have to cheat. How corrupt can you be? Evidently there is no bottom. Outrageous.

Randolph Streng, Mr.
Self
Dallas, TX

As a Fellow Texan, I am strenuously opposed to the Texas Legislature redistricting Congressional Districts two years after the last redistricting of Congressional Districts.

I have lived in Congressional District 32 for years, and the proposed new district takes away my representation in Congress. Being a lifelong Texan, like you I know there is very little in common with Texans in the Dallas Area, where I reside, and those in East Texas.
The proposed new District also disenfranchises me by ensuring my vote, doesn't count.

Additionally, the proposed map was drawn by someone in Virginia working for the Republican Party NOT BY Texas Legislators or Texans.

Therefore, I strenuously urge you NOT to redistrict Congressional Districts in Texas at this time.

Nadine Eidman
Self - retired
Houston, TX

Redistricting for the sake of rigging elections to support 1 party over another, regardless of party is unconstitutional, undemocratic and UnAmerican! Our votes need to be representative. Absolutely NOT acceptable!

Roslyn Barrutia
Self
Austin, TX

Against

Jaime Gonzales
SELF
El Paso, TX

I am against the redistricting of congressional districts in the state of Texas because it exemplifies blatant gerrymandering that undermines fair representation. These redrawn maps are disingenuous, deliberately diluting the political power of communities of color by fracturing their neighborhoods and lumping them into districts that do not reflect their shared interests. Rather than promoting equitable representation, the redistricting process in Texas appears engineered to preserve partisan power at the expense of marginalized voices.

David Dixon
President; Small Business Owner
Austin, TX

As president of a professional project management business, I hear of the strong concern from multiple suppliers and project management professionals that this bill will result in significant risks to firms thinking of moving to Texas. It is seen as increasing business instability, reducing opportunities for growth, and difficulties in attracting and retaining top talent in the state. I am personally concerned of the backlash to be expected during the midterms. Respectfully, D. R. Dixon

Cecilia Flores, Chairwoman
Alabama-Coushatta Tribe of Texas
Livingston, TX

My name is Cecilia Flores, and I am Chairwoman of the Tribal Council for the Alabama-Coushatta Tribe of Texas. We are a federally recognized Tribe with over 1,400 enrolled members, and our Reservation is located primarily in Polk County. I am submitting comments in opposition to House Bill 4, the proposed changes to the state Congressional districts. Since 2023, we have been part of Congressional District 8, represented by Congressman Morgan Luttrell. The current district is anchored in East Texas, comprised predominantly of rural and suburban counties, very similar to our home county of Polk. The current Congressional District 8 is a perfect fit for the Tribe, as most of the areas in the district have similar demographics, common interests and values. In addition, Congressman Luttrell has represented the Tribe in the US House of Representatives with respect, passion and conviction. He has taken the time to learn about our Tribe, our people, and the issues and concerns we have. His committed representation of the Tribe is necessary to us due to the many issues the Tribe faces on a continued basis. As a Tribal government, we have to address matters that affect our people such as safety, housing, health care, transportation, and education. We regularly engage with the federal government and Congress to ensure our Tribe's continued success and prosperity for our Tribal citizens, and Congressman Luttrell has been a true champion for us. House Bill 4 proposes to now place Polk County in Congressional District 10. This new district runs from Polk County in East Texas all the way to western Travis County. We feel the priorities and issues facing not only the Tribe, but also the entire East Texas region, will be significantly diminished if we are placed into the same district as Austin. The population center of Congressional District 10 will now be Austin, a city that does not share the values, common interests, and priorities as the Tribe and all East Texas communities.The Alabama-Coushatta Tribe strongly encourages this committee to reconsider the placement of Polk County in Congressional District 10, and would respectfully ask that you place Polk County in Congressional District 36, which is more reflective and representative of the Tribe's values and daily priorities.
Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Kevin McGarity
Self
Pflugerville, TX

This redistricting will greatly reduce the actual Democracy in our Democratic Republic system and steal power away from the citizens, representatives and voters they represent. I abhor these redistricting attempts and any attempt to take away the power of my vote.

Emily Leuba
Self, Marketing
Austin, TX

We undermine the strength of our democracy when we intentionally subvert representation, which is what this bill does.

Marcia Strickler-Watson, President
Capital Area Conservative Republicans
AustinN, TX

Texas is currently one of the fastest growing states in the country and where I live in Williamson County is the fastest growing county in Texas. I fully support HB4 redistricting to happen now, Gaining 5 additional congressional seats will help the districts even out the heavy constituent distribution in Williamson County as well as other districts in Texas.

Sophie Cummings
Self
Lorena, TX

I support HB4 and the redistricting map

Karen Smith
None
Waxahachie, TX

Stop gerrymandering in Texas! Stop doing Trump’s bidding! This is voter suppression!

Sherri Colca
Self
Driftwood, TX

This is not a democratic process. This a is also not the right time to do redistricting.
Please, with all due respect, I urge you to vote against this a bill.

Gerald Ward
self - retired
Austin, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Devin Moreno
Self
Dallas, TX

This redistributing is a direct and bold attempt at gerrymandering. Any representative who votes to keep these ridiculous maps made by out-of-state firms to silence the congregation and disregard the will of the people deserve to be voted out immediately for betraying their constituents they swore to represent. Voters choose their Reps not the other way around. The citizens of our great state will be watching and you will face the consequences of your actions

Dawn Bennett
Self -retired
Tioga, TX

I’m totally opposed to the GOP redistricting proposal. The current district lines have been effective for the GOP in our state and are a distraction. Vote “No”

Alexander E.M. Johnson, Dr.
Wheeler Avenue Baptist Church and Self
Houston, TX

Woe unto you, O lawmakers who redraw lines not for justice, but for power!

For you carve up communities like spoils of war, and call it democracy.

Woe unto you, who silence the voices of the poor, the Black, the Brown, and the broken!

For you honor the Constitution with your lips, but your hearts are far from equity.

Woe unto you, who hide behind legal language and partisan maps!

For the Lord sees through every crooked district and every unjust decree.

Woe unto you, who pass laws in the night and draw borders in secret!

For justice does not dwell in the shadows, but cries aloud in the streets.

Woe unto you, who suppress votes while quoting Scripture!

For God is not mocked, and righteousness rolls down like a mighty stream.

Woe unto you, architects of disenfranchisement!

You build your houses on sand, and the storm of truth is coming.

Woe unto you, who gerrymander to keep power, not to serve the people!

For the true Judge of the nations weighs your motives and finds them wanting.

Woe unto you, who would rather redraw lines than repair lives!

For every line you draw to exclude, heaven redraws to include.

Woe unto you, who claim to follow the Prince of Peace but practice policies of division!

For Christ came to break barriers, not to build them.

Woe unto you, Republicans who twist the map to twist justice!

Repent, or the map you made will become the measure by which you are judged.

Melissa Roth
self retired
Pflugerville, TX

I am a concerned citizen and voter in Texas currently residing in District 17. I am 70 years old and live in the city for a reason - more accessibility to medical resources, shopping needs, and community. I want my representative to understand those needs and address the shortcomings in services. There is no need for redistricting at this time. It is a blatant power grab by the Republican party. I see from the proposed map that I would be in District 11 which is mostly rural counties that stretch to Midland. I live in Pflugerville and the needs of my community and my family matter. We have needs specific to an urban and growing area. It is already difficult to get any response from my representative and he is much closer. The economy, education, and transportation needs of Midland and all those mostly empty counties are vastly different from those of Pflugerville, Austin and Round Rock. Our district is already gerrymandered. The proposed map does not take any demographics into consideration except party affiliation. We are supposed to have representation that reflects our population and that includes gender, race, age, economic parity, and educational levels. None of that is demonstrable in this new map. You are just "following orders" to cheat your way to staying in power. The people of Texas have no voice and you count on that.

Rachel Dvoretzky
Self - Executive Director
Houston, TX

I have been a resident and voter in Texas Congressional House District 29 (and briefly District 18) since 1991. I am also a native Houstonian and 3rd generation Texan who has voted in every election since 1978. This bill is a shame on Texas and on the governor. Redistricting, when used to entrench one party's dominance regardless of voter shifts determined through the census, crosses from democratic process into authoritarian engineering. A democracy stops being one not only when votes are no longer counted, but when they no longer matter. This bill shamelessly and transparently intends to disenfranchise the true representation of predominantly Democratic and/or non-white areas of Texas, specifically in the blue-purple parts of the cities that drive our economy in the 21stC. It also glaringly reveals the inherent weakness of the Republican Party in Texas, now in thrall to a deranged, dangerous felon in the Oval Office: if you cannot win honestly, you gerrymander to steal power. This goal is antithetical to the Constitution. It will ultimately backfire on Texas's position as a desirable place to live, work and learn. And when the current administration collapses of its own incompetence and criminality, Texas will fall along with it as long as you, Governor and committee, tie our Texas fortunes to Washington.

I am against this redistricting. Follow the law and wait until the next US census. Call for an interim election for the House 18th District now. Uphold your oath of office.

Jett Baker
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this special session redistricting. The maps are unfair. The process and the timing of passing these new maps is an obvious attempt to dilute the people’s vote in favor of a specific political candidate and party. I oppose the unfair passage of these unfair maps.

Andrew Eller
Self - State Republican Executive Committee Senate District 24
Temple, TX

I am FOR this bill. With the Petteway vs Galveston County decision by the Fifth Circuit, the types of districts we have had since the 2020 census, are really not logical potentially illegal. The changes being proposed by Plan C2308 provide for Congressional Districts that better meet the makeup and district lines as required by and allowed by the Petteway decision. In addition, redrawing district lines after it is discovered that changes are needed for better compliance to a court decision and without a census is the best thing we can do especially in this instance.

Pam Matula
Self
Houston, TX

This is straight up gerrymandering. District lines should be intuitively drawn to represent local population not to advance political maneuvering.

Leslie Spotz, Dr.
Self- retired professor
Stephenville, TX

As a Texas voter, I am against any and all redistricting before the next Census. This is 100% illegal. The governor and his people are trying to do something that is totally illegal. Stop it. Shame.

Eric Beauchemin
Self
Plano, TX

I've always considered myself an independent, but this blatant gerrymandering is pushing me away from anyone who supports this partisanship.

Ginger McGilvray
self, embodiment therapist
Austin, TX

No. Texas cities are communities of people who share common needs. You know that breaking up our cities like this denies people of representation, and you know that this only adds fuel to the fire of division in our state and nation. Donald Trump does not own me. I see what this is and it is shameful. Money and power greed cannot buy your salvation. Salvation is our living breathing legacy, how we live and regard our human family and our earth. Republicans who have sold their souls to billionaires, hungry ghosts, are going down a really dark road. Please wake up, turn around and rejoin your own humanity. This time in our history will pass and what kind of people will we be when the lights come on?

Do not gerrymander Texas for this power grab by Donald Trump, the most lost soul I've ever witnessed. It's really pathetic and I don't understand how you can't see it, Republicans. Do not be cruel and unfair to your fellow humans by denying our Constitutional right to representation. Let's do something good and surprising in the State of Texas. Let's become a place of honesty, mutual respect and courage.

Thank you for reading my input.

Sincerely,
Ginger McGilvray
TX House District 51

Allison Estolas
self, Administrative Professional
Fort Worth, TX

This proposed legislation is a race to the bottom for authoritarianism at the local, state, and national level. It does not represent the people. It further marginalizes vulnerable populations and benefits no one other than those who are already privileged.

Eric Sheppard, Mr.
Self
Dallas, TX

HB 4 is not just a redistricting bill, it’s a calculated attempt to undermine the voice of millions of Texans. This map makes a mockery of representative democracy. Instead of protecting the interests of Texas voters, the legislature appears to be bending over backwards to satisfy political operatives in Washington.

The proposed map strips urban centers like Austin, Houston, and Dallas of fair representation, despite these regions driving the majority of Texas’s GDP. By merging districts such as TX-35 and TX-37, the plan dilutes the voting power of Black and Latino communities in Central Texas A. It’s a textbook case of voter suppression, and it violates the Voting Rights Act.

What’s more, this redistricting effort is happening outside the normal 10-year census cycle, using outdated data from 2020 and the American Community Survey B. There’s no legal or demographic justification for redrawing these lines now. Even members of the redistricting committees admitted they had no role in creating the map and hadn’t seen it before the hearings B. That’s not transparency, it’s manipulation.

If HB 4 passes, it could result in at least five new Republican seats by relocating Democratic incumbents and creating seven new districts A. This isn’t about fair representation it’s about rigging the game.

Texans deserve better. We deserve maps that reflect our communities, not ones that fracture them for political gain. HB 4 must be rejected.

Erika Vinette
self Manchaca, TX

I am writing to express my STRONG opposition to the current redistricting efforts in our state.
The blatant gerrymandering taking place is an AFFRONT to the democratic principles that should guide our electoral process.
I'm in Manchaca, TX and would fall in district 27 under this new change. It's absolutely INSANE that the proposal would put me in the same district as people in Corpus Christi THREE HOURS away from where I live.
I am a proud Texan, I've lived here for 25 years, and EVERY Texan deserves a representative who reflects their community's values and needs. Grouping people 200 miles away from each other absolutely does NOT accomplish this.
I urge the legislature to put people over politics and commit to a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and rooted in respect for communities, not partisan gain.
Thank you

Wanda Whitney, Major, USAF-RET
Self - Major, USAF-Ret
Georgetown, TX

I Support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Lisa Franey
Self
Mansfield, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to non-data/non-census supported change in districting. In every possible way is is OPPOSITE what is good for constituents and the state. It will only trigger lawsuits- a complete waste of money, resources and time. Do not do it!!!

Donald Dickson, Mr.
self -- retired
Friendswood, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Ana Trevino
Maverick county
EAGLE PASS, TX

This is illegal, census isn’t for about another 6 years.

Charles Wrench, mr
Self, Retired
Arlington, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. I urge all members to vote for approval of HB 4.

Taysha Glass
Serving Holistic Empowerment (SHE)
San Antonio, TX

The Founder of our Organization is a disabled veteran and Texas resident. We are appreciative of you for having this hearing. Are you open to suspending judgment and allowing diverse viewpoints to be apart of this discussion? Texans are currently grieving over multiple deaths and rebuilding our communities. We do not support congressional redistricting because we have other urgent matters to address. FEMA has limited resources and many are working long shifts with very few off days. These heroes are sacrificing time with family and running towards danger. How can we better support FEMA and survivors of flooding is of greater importance than redistricting. In addition, having an election to fill vacant slots is very important. How can Texas run efficiently without proper staffing numbers? Last, individuals connected to DOGE resides in Texas and have publicly mentioned our president being involved in sexual violence against underage girls and women. Releasing these files will help Texans feel more safe. Politicians in Texas can set an example to other states by resolving this issue and holding anyone guilty accountable. In closing, having an emergency election to fill vacancies, providing better support to FEMA workers and survivors of flooding, and resolving DOGE sexual violence allegations is what we should focus on. We can discuss redistricting at another time. Thanks for including diverse viewpoints in your decision.

Andrew Currie yourself
CORINTH, TX

“If you can’t win, you cheat” is a well-known saying. This was probably a common saying during the steroid era of 1995-2005 in Major League Baseball. Instead of playing on a level playing field, athletes put their own bodies and careers on the line to hit the ball a little bit longer than their rivals. Well, here we are in the year 2025 and it appears that this saying is still alive and well! Instead of baseball this time, our Texas state legislature is wanting to cheat and disenfranchise in the form of gerrymandering. They were given the ultimatum of FIVE seats from Donald Trump. We have Texas state representatives jumping at the command of a federally elected non-Texan to cheat and disenfranchise those Texans they serve! Much like athletes doing steroids, you will now put your career on the line as you damage the body of your Texan voters.

Lisa Schlegel
Self, health care professoinal
San Antonio, TX

Democracies are lost when elections are no longer free, fair, or competitive and when voter suppression becomes systemic and decisive. If Texans allow this outrageous gerrymandering to pass, then we will lose the democracy that our forefathers fought so hard to build. Look at authoritarian countries such as Turkey, Russia and Hungry. Is that the future you want? Country over party. Liberty over dictatorship. Those are the stakes.

Sharon Mills
self/retired educator
Deer Park, TX

Something is horribly wrong when one party decides to and does the redistricting. A committee of equal number of both parties should set district lines and must agree. I am disappointed in my representatives who obviously cannot make an honest decision to do what is right for the people of our state.

Alan McRoberts, Mr.
self
Austin, TX

I believe that the voters should be able to vote for the person running for an office and not the elected officials deciding which voters they want voting so they can increase their chances of getting elected.

Jeremy Matthews
self software engineer
Plano, TX

Dear Committee,

I testified before you in the Arlington hearing on July 28. I testified against this redistricting effort. Near the end of the hearing, Chair Vasut said that he knew not of any forthcoming maps. Yet less than 48 hours later, a map is introduced by Rep. Hunter who sits on this committee. Such a map doesn't get produced and reviewed that quickly before it's introduced. I don't know if Chair Vasut knew that this was going to happen, but this exhibits very bad faith on the part of Rep. Hunter, if not all the Republicans on this committee. Is the public to presume that no Republican on this committee knew that this map was forthcoming, especially so soon after the Arlington hearing? Hardly. Rep. Hunter or someone should have been forthright with the public rather than the public being effectively lied to.

This is all part and parcel of the Republican effort to grab further power at the expense of the public's interests. The effort is not about fairness in what it's trying to achieve nor in how it's being achieved. It's solely for the self interest of the Republican Party. It is not to fairly represent the public, a principle upon which our government was founded. It is naked aggression upon our representative democracy. It is un-American. It is un-Texan. It is wrong, very wrong.

I strongly urge this committee to reject any maps as part of this redistricting effort. They do not reflect Texas's preferences for Congressional representation, not by a long shot. I also urge Democrats and anyone in the Texas legislature opposed to this effort to muster all they can to defeat it. The opposition will be much appreciated. And as I mentioned in my testimony at the Arlington hearing, I ask that if a quorum break occurs that it does not involve legislators fleeing the state. This redistricting must be fought not from DC, not from another state, but from within Texas.

Thank you for your time.

Kenneth Biasco
self
Richardson, TX

This bill is a clear attempt to over throw the next natl election and already has brought the promise of retaliation from other states

Ellen Hatton
Self/retired
Georgetown, TX

I oppose this bill.

Stephen Zarate, Mr
Self
Maypearl, TX

I support the map as drawn

Sandra Rodriguez
Rio Grande Valley
Harlingen, TX

I am NOT for redistricting or gerrymandering. My district matters. For You to use the loss of life during the floods and disciss this issue during a special session is Inappropropriate.
I do Not approve of this new proposed redistrict of the 956, Rio Grande VALLEY

Alejandra Angulo
Self
Austin, TX

Please vote against HB4

Why are you trying to silence the voices of Texas's diverse communities? Do you believe it's fair for us to pay taxes without true representation?
This proposed congressional map places the house representative for people living in downtown Austin over 200 miles away — someone who probably does not reflect the interests, values, or lived experience of people living here. That is not meaningful representation; it's performative at best.

I believe I live in a democratic country. But if this map is approved, it will become clear that Texas is being governed not for the interests of its people, but to serve the interests of Donald Trump and partisan power.

Very few Texans have testified in support of this redistricting plan. That should tell you everything. If you represent us — your constituents — then why are you doing something we so clearly oppose?

What Texans want right now is flood prevention and relief, not partisan gerrymandering mandated by Trump.

Please vote against HB4

Cynthia Dreessen
Self, Banking
Fort Worth, TX

The majority of Texans including myself are against this sneaky and dangerous redistricting bill. It is absolutely not in the best interests of the majority. Nor is it in the best interests of democracy. This bill is blatant partisan gerrymandering and no one is even trying to hide it. The proposed map intentionally fragments minority and lower income communities into districts less likely to elect candidates of their choice, It is not right. It supports racial discrimination and voter suppression. It's up to those with a conscious who know that is is wrong to stand up and speak out without fear of retribution from colleagues or those supposedly in the same party. This practice is going to set off a dangerous domino effect across the country. Don't disappoint Texans. This bill must be voted down. Voters don't like this bill. Neither history nor voters will be kind to those that vote for this bill.

Kimberly Glessner
Self
Austin, TX

As a lifelong Texan, a mom, and a small business owner, I'm outraged by the lengths our state leaders are going to just to hold onto power. This redistricting process isn't about fair representation—it's about silencing the diverse voices that are shaping Texas' future.
The new maps were drawn in secret and pushed through without real input. They're designed to dilute the voting power of communities like mine—working families, people of color, everyday Texans who want a say in what happens to our schools, roads, and health care.
I teach my kids to play fair and work hard. It's shameful that our lawmakers refuse to do the same. If your policies can't win on a fair map, maybe it's time to rethink your policies—not sabotage our democracy.

Monica Frame
Self Accountant
Waxahachie, TX

I support the redistricting of this map as drawn Conservatives need to stand their ground for moral values in our state!

Judy Dewberry Democracy
Duncanville, TX

I need my voice heard!! ??Stop cheating Republicans can't win on their policies so they have to steal our votes ?? Stop bowing down to your king and work the everyday people like you were voted in to do ?? COWERS ALL OF YOU ??????

Joyce Setter
Self Retired
Duncanville, TX

Please quickly more forward on this to stop the politicalization of the Voting Rights Act by dismantling coalition districts NOT protected by Federal law.
US Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in Petteway vs. Galveston County in 2024 supports this redistricting map. Fair redistribution is essential!

Delilah Garza
Self
San Antonio, TX

I object to redistricting! Fuck Abbot!

Jolynn Free
Self
Austin, TX

This is too much. There will be consequences m.

Gregory Free
Self
Austin, TX

NO! This is too much.

Leo Aimsila
Texas Freedom Network
Rowlett, TX

To Whom It May Concern,

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on HB 4. My name is Leo Aimsila and I live in Rowlett. I am a volunteer with the Texas Freedom Network, in their collegiate program at the University of Texas at Dallas.

I am writing to convey my concerns about House Bill 4. The purpose of redistricting is to secure the appropriate representation of voters across our extremely diverse state. As stated on the “Legal Requirements for Redistricting" webpage on the official capitol website, redistricting is to be completed following the publication of each United States decennial census in order to “equalize population” among electoral districts. It is extremely unusual for redistricting to be pursued mid-decade. More concerning is that this redistricting would effectively dilute the voting power of people of color in contravention of the Voting Rights Act.

I believe House Bill 4 is not only untimely and unnecessary, but if enacted would directly harm your constituents. Texas is an extremely diverse state across every dimension– topographically, racially, linguistically, economically, etc. It is essential that the full spectrum of voters’ voices are represented in lawmaking, and you have been elected, in part, to protect the interests of the people and the democratic principles of this country.

I urge you to reflect upon Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The map under House Bill 4 “packs” certain voters of color into a handful of districts, and “cracks” the remaining voters of color between other districts, effectively diluting their collective voting power. It is unconstitutional for a vote in one district to have less of an impact on the outcome of an election than a vote in another district because of the way districts have been strategically drawn.

Please vote NO on House Bill 4, and protect the interests of your constituents as well as your constitutional and legal obligations.

Sincerely,

Leo Aimsila

James Garvin, Dr.
Self - Retired
Fort Worth, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. This blatant unapologetic power grab is disgusting. It further polarizes our already divided nation and disenfranchises countless citizens. Texans deserve better politics than this!

Travis Ward, Mr
self retired
San Antonio, TX

I do not approve of the redistricting proposal.

Sandra Russell
Myself
Temple, TX

This is nothing, but theft. The only way thunder a win is by cheating. This is unlawful and those redrawing districts should be totally ashamed. Greg Abbot is spineless to allow this foolishness to happen in TX. Let people vote without deterring them or redrawing districts because you know this administration has messed up so badly people are fwd up. No matter how many lines you redraw, our voices will be heard.

Meghan Molinari
Self
Georgetown, TX

I oppose this bill

Karen Maxwell
self
Abilene, TX

I want the gerrymandering to stop. Both sides have carved out districts to benefit them. This is unfair.
I oppose creating these five districts that favor the Republicans.

Stacy Arnold
Self nuclear medicine technologist
San angelo, TX

Redistricting in an office year is not useful. Does not represent the population of Texas interests and helps to undermine undeserved communities.

Norma Garcia
Self
Kyle, TX

I am tired of seeing redistricting occurring because of the need to manipulate the districts in favor of the republicans. Stop messing with the redistricting. Accept who the people are voting for. Texas is not all red, there are parts of Texas that are blue.

Sophia Costell
Self
Austin, TX

Please reject HB 4! It is blatantly racist gerrymandering that the Texas people do not stand for.

Kimberly Phipps-Nichol
self
Houston, TX

Firstly, as a resident of Texas, I am absolutely dumbfounded that this redistricting conversation is happening during a special session. Talk about a lack of democratic process at the behest of the Feds. How un-Texan like can y'all be?! Texas bending knee to a petulant US President who can't win honestly? Where is y'all's spine? A: This business is for general session following a 10 year census ONLY. B: Next time around when the Federal leadership has a different party affiliation and asks the same of states because they can't "win" honestly, you'll cry FOUL because you KNOW this is wrong. Don't be hypocrites! Texas gerrymandering has become an epic level farce. This state is so carved up, it specializes in only giving voice to the wealthy minority white residents, even though they are truly the minority. Carving up districts to keep the ethnic minority-majority from being truly represented is absolutely sickening. Y'all have had to sink so low and pull these back room deals because you can't even do your business in daylight. No transparency or accountability to constituents, just an echo chamber of inhumane policies cranked out by folks acting anything BUT the "Christians" they claim to be. Y'all know you can't win honestly, and so you happily rig the game to keep yourselves in power at the expense of our most vulnerable and under represented citizens. Texas should be ashamed of itself for pulling this BS.

Anne Gulick
Self, Retired
New Braunfels, TX

This is clearly an attempt to disenfranchise minority voters at the behest of Donald Trump seeking to hold power. Our Texas Legislature should be concerning themselves with things that benefit the people of Texas and the first topic of business should have been flood control in the Hill Country not this ridiculous vote grab.

Bernadette Kingsley
Self retired. School Nurse
Katy, TX

Redistricting is not needed so tired legislators Play power games instead of serving their constituents. Stop bowing to a criminal president you serve us not him.

Melissa Wise
Self
AUSTIN, TX

Please stop pushing this horrifying bill through. Don’t cut Texas up in ludicrous ways that only benefit you. This is a crass power grab during a special session that is supposed to be about protecting Texans. Please show us that you have any interest in helping anybody other than billionaires (and your own pockets and future seats.)
Truly these wild attempts at gerrymandering are intended to further disenfranchise non-white voters. And it’s disgusting. Please at least pretend to represent something other than your own greed.

Ariana Pettigrew
Self--Freelance Grant Writer
Austin, TX

How dare you claim to represent Texans when it's clear that you're only catering to the whims of a wannabe dictator?! I'm a 7th generation Texan on my dad's side and a first generation German-American on my mom's; and for decades I've heard Texan politicians tell Washington DC to keep its hands off of Texas. Does "Don't Mess with Texas" ring a bell? Yet, the first time Fuhrer Trump whistles and says screw the system so I can stay in power, you click your heels and say "Jawohl"! Shame on all of you!

Barbara Baruch, Mrs
self- retired
san Antonio, TX

On behalf of myself and my family, we oppose this unfair extraordinary redistricting bill which has no basis in the Texas Constitution and is meant to benefit a single political party and not the people or the voters of Texas I will never vote for any legislator who votes for this bill.

Ava Shepperd
Self
Austin, TX

Please do not pass this bill. It will create unfair conditions for democrats and gives too much power to republicans. In America, everyone should be equal. This is a democracy!

Jami Cowart
Self substitute teacher
Canyon, TX

I hope that you will seriously consider your constituents and your duty to answer to them and not Donald Trump. You were elected by the people of your district and it is not right or fair to redraw maps because the president wants more seats. Please follow your conscience and do not redraw maps before the results of the last census. It is also blatantly obvious you are trying to force certain people out and are creating districts you don't anticipate losing. I hope if these maps are redrawn that your plan backfires.

Mary Adolph
Self / Training specialist
Austin, TX

You know this is wrong. Every single one of you knows that this is wrong. This does not represent the ideals of this country, and you don't care. It's shameful.

Bettie Forman
self, health coach
Austin, TX

Please do not ram though this redistricting plan. These maps were drawn to intentionally dilute the voting power of communities of color, particularly Black and Latino voters.
You are splitting up minority-majority communities and placing voters into districts where their voices are less likely to be heard or are unlikely to elect their preferred candidates.
This is in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act and the U.S. Constitution.

The redistricting process is driven by Trump's desire to solidify the Republican party.

I live in Austin, a primarily doemocratic city and there is the potential elimination of a Democratic seat by combining districts while historically competitive districts along the border flipped to Republican-leaning ones.

The redistricting process is being rushed and lacks transparency, with decisions made in backrooms rather than through open public debate. You alll need to listen to all the public testimony!
This limits the opportunity for meaningful public input and raises questions about fairness and accountability.

Lauren Fancher, Mrs.
Self
North Richland hills, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. This redistricting would fundamentally cut off and silence so many that deserve to have their voices heard. This is a manipulation by those of you that are proposing this redistricting are very well aware of how it will drown so many voices out. I'm imploring that you please reconsider this and see it as the corruption it truly is. If this was being done in good faith you wouldn't be holding the emergency services proposal hostage for this gerrymandering effort. This is most unchristian-like behavior and I encourage y'all to self reflect on your true motives.

Jacob Myers, Mr.
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing in strong opposition to HB 4, a bill that I believe to be fundamentally undemocratic and unconstitutional. The redrawing of congressional districts as proposed in this legislation appears designed to dilute representation, marginalize minority voters, and undermine the foundational principle of fair elections.

This bill reflects an ongoing pattern of partisan gerrymandering that prioritizes political entrenchment over public interest. It is antithetical to the values of representative democracy and in clear tension with constitutional protections under the 14th and 15th Amendments, as well as the Voting Rights Act.

Redistricting should ensure equal, nonpartisan representation for all Texans—not cement power for one party at the expense of fairness, accountability, and civil rights. HB 4 fails this test.

I urge the committee and all lawmakers to reject HB 4 in its entirety, and instead pursue a redistricting process that is transparent, independent, and legally sound.

Ryan Pollock, Mr.
Texas State Building and Construction Trades Council
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose HB 4. This bill is not about fair representation. It is about rigging the system to keep one party in power and silence millions of Texans—especially working people, communities of color, and union members.

Redrawing congressional maps mid-decade is a clear abuse of power. It fractures communities, weakens voters, and turns elections into formalities. The goal is simple: control the outcome before the people ever get a say.

As someone who works with and represents workers across Texas, I see exactly how this will harm our democracy and our economy. When voters are silenced, working families lose their voice on wages, safety, and dignity. This map is designed to make sure we do not count.

You may have the votes to pass this bill. But history will show that you chose Donald Trump over the people of Texas. You chose loyalty to one man and one party over the freedom and autonomy of millions.

Passing this bill may feel like the path of least resistance. But when political leaders dismantle democracy to cling to power, the long-term result is not stability. It is chaos. It is growing public distrust, deepening polarization, and the erosion of any peaceful path forward. The more the system is rigged, the more people lose faith that it can deliver justice or change. You are laying the groundwork for instability that none of us will be able to contain or be safe from.

Supporting this bill is as corrupt as it is cowardly as it is stupid.

Angelyn Crawford
Self
NORTH RICHLAND HILLS, TX

These maps are bad. Do not change them to this.

Brendan Winters
Self Sales
Austin, TX

I know y'all don't care about honesty or integrity, and I'm sure no one will even read this, so I won't waste too much time. You know what you're doing with these district maps. The city of Austin is being shamelessly gerrymandered, restricting our voting rights. You claim to be patriots but you continue to hurt the very principles our founders stood for. You are the Pharisees that Jesus condemned, and you don't even care as long as you get paid.

Give us reasonable voting districts please. It makes no sense for someone in South Austin to have the same representative as someone in Corpus Christi and you all know it.

Abigail Kirk self, upper level manager
Georgetown, TX

I am vehemently against redistricting right now. It is a horrible idea, unconstitutional, and not reflective of what Texans on either side of the aisle want.

Mary Peticolas
Self
El Paso, TX

I am vehemently opposed to redrawing the Texas voting map. This is an effort to further gerrymander the state of Texas. I am opposed to this proposal and urge you to kill the proposition.

Beatriz Maldonado
Self
Brownsville, TX

The idea or action of redistricting because the governor / president want to keep control is ridiculous. As part of a community is mostly Hispanic and in an area where it is hard to get people to go out and vote, this type of action will hurt not only the citizens of the city, but also the community and its funding. It is unconstitutional and frankly those Republicans that are bending their knee and kissing the rings, of both the governor and the president, remember you will not be in power for ever. This action is illegal and it is plain wrong. As a voter, a citizen, a minority, and a taxpayer I demand that you keep your promise of servicing the people that voted you in. Keep your promise and oath of upholding the rule of law, the state constitution and the US Constitution. Fear is only a success if people don't act against it.., otherwise you just become another puppet which in the end your strings will eventually be cut. Serve your community, do what is right and stop this from happening.

Beverly McCain
Self
Katy, TX

This power grab ordered by trump to take away the rights of voters to be represented in a state district that reflects the actual makeup of their area is disgraceful. You should be ashamed. You are supposed to represent all citizens not just the ones who agree with you. You must not gerrymander these districts to gain more power. The country is watching you and if you think ripping away the voices of Texans by cheating because it is the only way you can stay in power you are in for a big surprise. You have no right to disenfranchise people who don’t agree with you. This regime will go down in history but not in a good way. Leave the districts alone. Let the people decide who they want in power

Tyler Loofs
Self
Georgetown, TX

I deeply, deeply encourage my representatives to think about their actions in willfully and callously creating these farcical districts. Your legacy will be that you are an opponent of giving people a voice, and in favor of naked loyalty to yourself over your constituents. Those who support this are enemies of democracy... make no mistake. This is not strategy, it's sinister sycophancy.

Terri Muldoon
Self as a teacher
Dallas, TX

Gerrymandering is a wicked solution and is designed by a president who is trying to act against our Constitution. It will quell all who aren't wealthy white voters. Show courage and do what is right and moral by voting against this evil bill.

Meagan Clark
self - Creative Production Manager
Bastrop, TX

Gerrymandering is to cheat on democracy and to undermine the principle of one-person-one vote. In a district that has been manipulated, the election is reduced to a mere ritual to verify the pre-determined result.

- Gerrymandering is to cheat designated groups in the power of their vote. One form of gerrymandering is to split a group, say a predominantly black neighbourhood, between two districts, thereby reducing their block vote into a small minority in each district.

- It contributes to bringing politics and democracy into disrepute. A system that enables and allows the holders of power to cheat on democracy and that operates so as to disenfranchise voters, does not deserve respect.

- Basically, gerrymandering moves political power from the onstage arena of voting into backstage arenas of manipulation.

Gabriela Molina, Mrs.
Self retired teacher
El Paso, TX

As a life long resident of El Paso, I am insulted to think that someone that does not live in El Paso can represent myself and my family. Ft. Bliss and the airport area is part of our community and our culture. My father was a Korean veteran and he and my mother are part of the Ft. Bliss national cemetery. Our culture is entwined with Ft. Bliss as well as the International airport. We are a unique border city that no one but our congresswoman can understand. I am a proud Hispanic that votes at each election, and you better be sure that I am looking at these sessions and my state legislators and how they vote. This special session was about the floods that occurred during the 4th of July. Please know we are watching what you vote and don't vote on. As for myself and my family we definitely do NOT like this Redistricting in mid decade instead of every ten years!! My vote counts and I say NO to this redistricting plan by Republicans!!

Tasha-Nova Borozny
self designer
Dallas, TX

It is so clear that this redistricting is gerrymandering. The people who said they would represent us, are now actively working against us. The needs of someone in rural Texas vs urban vary greatly. It is unfair to group huge areas together that have different populations, different infrastructures, different demographics, different topographies. To move forward with this redistricting is to pit a person who lives downtown in some of the largest cities in the US against distant neighbors counties and counties away that doesn't even have a stoplight in their small beautiful town. Texans deserve to get the needs of their communities met, without it coming at the detriments of our fellow Texans. Rural Texas should not have to vote or pay for highly trafficked downtown Dallas roads, and a DFW city resident should not have to vote on zoning laws for people a hundred miles away. Stop subverting the will of the people. Stop trying to pit Texans against other Texans. If Texas reps truly care about personal freedoms, then you'd stop taking ours away by trying to make our votes count for little to nothing. To approve this gerrymandering is a truly shameful thing. Don't mess with Texas. Thank you for your time.

Andres Martinez
Self
El Paso, TX

There is a need for the voting process to be fair. Texas must not become a corrupt state government. Show the rest of the country that Texas legislators are honest and beyond reproach. Show courage and vote against redistricting.

Suzanna Nope
Self
Plainview, TX

Gerrymandering is cheating. If you can’t maintain power without cheating, you are weak, immoral, and dishonest. STOP gerrymandering!! Stop silencing voices!! Do NOT pass this!!

Arlene Ronquillo
Self
El Paso, TX

I oppose to this unusual redistricting when it is not in order of every decade as per law. Republicans should not have POWER to make this happen mid-decade. It is unlawful and unjust to many constituents in these district areas. It is our choice and our votes that should stand until it is the rightful timeline. Republicans and Democrats are voted in by Texans and should wait until next elections. Vote NO!

Christine Nguyen
Self
Houston, TX

OPPOSE redistricting. This is an attack on our democracy and not an accurate depiction of what the people want!

Laura Mattingly
Self, digital communications coordinator
El Paso, TX

As a lifelong El Pasoan, I strongly opposed this bill. The proposed redistricting would gut El Paso of valuable resources and assets, such as Fort Bliss and the airport. Fort Bliss is as much a part of this community as any other part of the city, it is intertwined with our very identity, and has shaped the way our city has grown. To try and separate them in representation would be to the detriment of our city and state. I urge our delegation to vote NO on this bill.

Cheri Thompson
Self
Dallas, TX

It's absurd to do this. I can't begin to express my distaste for the very gumption that the state of Texas has decided to move on in this. What has the state of TX become? 2021 wasn't enough, so in order to keep the power's that be in control this is what we've sunken to. It's deplorable absolutely deplorable.

Gabriela Nevarez
Self
El Paso, TX

I oppose the effort by Republicans to redraw district maps.

Caroline Cope
Self - SVP
Austin, TX

This bill is a flagrant violation of democracy. Authors and supporters should be ashamed of themselves. I support my democratic representatives in their decision to break quorum.

Tamara Wilhite
Taxpayer Citizen (Self)
Euless, TX

I am in favor for creating a balanced district representation map. Too many times partisanship politics influences fairness and there will always be empty baseless complaints by the opposition. Use numerical population FACTS, not feelings about race, to determine district boundaries.

Beth Culver
Self, code official
Austin, TX

I do not support this map as it appears to continue to be gerrymandered to favor one political party over another. The map should be redrawn only to reflect the actual conditions of the state without catering to one party in order to support an actual democratic process.

Christie Roden
self retired
Denton, TX

Many people in my district have expressed their dissatisfaction and disgust with the current boundaries, and now you want to make it even worse? Redistricting Texas for political gain between census years is unfair, anti-democratic, and ultimately harmful to the state's integrity and future. It disregards the regular, data-driven process intended to reflect actual changes in population and community needs. it also erodes public trust in the electoral process Furthermore, this kind of gerrymandering can deepen divisions within the state, foster cynicism, and discourage civic participation. It sends a message that political power matters more than the will of the people, undermining faith in the idea that every vote counts equally. While gerrymandering may seem to grant the party in power an immediate advantage, its benefits are ultimately illusory. In the short term, it can provoke public backlash and mobilize opposition, undermining legitimacy and eroding trust in governance. Over the long term, gerrymandering creates noncompetitive districts that breed complacency, discourage meaningful debate, and alienate voters. As demographic shifts and political tides inevitably change, such artificial boundaries can backfire, trapping the very party that drew them. Ultimately, true strength lies in fair representation, not temporary manipulation.

Donald Browning
Self
Duncanville, TX

I support the proposed redistricting map and HB4.

Crischelle Navalta
Self
Edinburg, TX

I do not agree with redistricting. The people in office currently for my district do not represent my values nor do they listen when I call and voice my concerns. Right now, I feel that my votes will no longer matter and that I will no longer be represented in the local and federal level. This is wrong.

Jennifer Brooks
Self- Preschool Assistant Director
North Richland Hills, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map!

Sheila Patterson, Ms
SELF
Plano, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Sara Winter
Self
Austin, TX

This bill to gerrymander Texas is blatant voter suppression of Black and Hispanic folks. It is clearly an attempt by Republicans to cling to power in the upcoming midterm election. It is undemocratic, unconstitutional and a disgrace.

chanda parbhoo
saavetx
dallas, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans

Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,

As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.

South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.

But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.

In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.

This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.

What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?

Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.

When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.

We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.

We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.

Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.

Sincerely,
CHANDA

Michelle Crawford
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the proposed map of redrawn Texas congressional districts. The current map already overrepresents one party: Based on the 2024 presidential election results, Republicans should hold at most 22 seats, yet the current map allots them 25. This new map further disenfranchises voters in violation of the Voting Rights Act and the accepted norm that congressional districts should proportionally represent the will of the voters in geographically compact areas of shared interest. By redrawing maps mid-decade at the behest of the White House, the Texas Legislature shows that they neither respect the law nor think for themselves. In response, leaders of other states plan to counteract this power grab by similarly gerrymandering their own states' maps in favor of Democrats. Where will the escalation end? I urge the Legislature to recall both their oaths to uphold the law and their ethical obligation to serve the people of Texas -- all of us.

Penelope Reeves

self - farm owner, fitness instructor

Driftwood, TX

This is a sham and a perversion of the democratic process with this obvious attempt to elect more republicans. When I view the proposed maps I am shocked at the blatant efforts by the TX republicans to do the bidding of Trump. As a FORMER republican, I am outraged and WILL vote Democrat in ALL the upcoming elections! Never thought I'd say that! Furthermore I will be an activist against this kind of political stunt. Texans deserve better than this.

Julie Woody

self, retired attorney, 2d career ospice chaplain

San Antonio, TX

This current and purely political redistricting effort is a disgrace. It was callously announced and embarked upon in the middle of a humanitarian crisis in Texas from the July 3-4 floods. It is unquestionably happening, and happening now, to satisfy the President's demands as he continues his unrelenting quest to consolidate power in the executive branch. When our country's democracy fails, when POTUS is an official autocrat, when the oligarchy's vice grip is irreversible, Governor Abbott and Texas lawmakers will share the blame. Shame. Shame. Shame.

Rachael Morgan

Self

Houston, TX

I oppose this map, which takes me out of my congressional district. It appears to intentionally dilute the votes of Democrats and Independents rather than being more reflective of constituents since the President ordered Texas GOP to get him five more congressional seats.

Tanya Taylor

Self - self-employed

Cedar Park, TX

Mid-decade redistricting in Texas is unnecessary and politically motivated. It fractures long-standing democratic norms, lacks data justification, and increases litigation exposure—all while eroding public trust and accountability. You are making a mockery of our democracy and destabilizing the electoral system.

Julie Campbell

Myself, children and grandchildren

Austin, TX

Please do not bow down to the political BULLY in the White House! Manipulating our voting districts mid decade is such a bad idea even Abbott refused to do it, until the Bully in Chief got to him. IT IS NOT GOOD FOR TEXAS! And certainly not good for the country. Show the U.S. exactly what Texas is made of and stand up against manipulation. Show them Texas independent spirit in action!

Alisa Danielle Hess

Self

Austin, TX

We don't need to keep redistricting. The republican plays and power grabs need to stop.

Audra Wagner

Self

Pampa, TX

I support HB4 and the purposed redistricting map.

Monique Tschurr
Self
San Marcos, TX

I am AGAINST HB 4 by Hunter. This is such a blatant steal of votes and representation for non - Republican voters. Quit catering to Trump demands and take care of Texans. This redistributing has removed local power from Texas citizens. Make up your minds Texas Republicans- are you party of small government or handing everything over to the feds?

Natalie Dunaway
Self
Houston, TX

I do not want this state any more gerrymandered than it already is. If you "didn't consider race" when the districts were drawn last time, then there is no justifiable reason to redistrict to break up "coalitions." Maybe worry about getting some representation for Sylvester Turner's district, before you put the time and effort into disenfranchising another swath of folks. This state is quick to call "federal overreach," for any and everything, but in this case... the President of the United States gets full say on our voting maps? And not even trying to be discreet about why- he wants you to "find" 5 GOP seats. That isn't representative democracy, that is dictatorship. If any changes are made to the districts, let it be for a more accurate representation of the citizens of this state, who are a lot less extreme than our elected officials reflect.

Kristen Delgado-Williams, Mrs.
Self
San Antonio, TX

Dear US House Representatives,

I am writing to express deep concern about the current redistricting maps in Texas. As a constituent and a voter, I believe that fair and equitable representation is a cornerstone of our democracy.

The recent maps appear to dilute the voting power of minority communities and prioritize partisan advantage over public interest. I respectfully urge you to:

Support an independent redistricting commission for future maps.

Oppose any gerrymandering that weakens community representation.

Increase transparency and public participation in the redistricting process.

Texans deserve maps that reflect our state's true diversity and population shifts. I hope you will act in the interest of all your constituents and support fair redistricting.

Sincerely,
Kristen Williams
San Antonio, 78249

Victoria McCuistion
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose continued gerrymandering of our TX Congressional districts. As a multiple generation Texan, when did integrity completely leave the state? How can any of you look at these ridiculously drawn districts and think this makes sense, is fair, and what our founding fathers intended? Absolute power corrupts absolutely and the Texas ruling power continues to reinforce that truth.

You have poked the bear too many times. And if this passes it will be your undoing not only in this state but across the country.

Stick to the norms of redistricting after the census every 10 years. And in place of that draw congressional districts fairly and evenly rather than dissecting districts that cross multiple cities and counties aimed at diluting Texan voices.

Elizabeth Cantu Yourself
Austin, TX

It is amazing that you want to rid of my elected official because you are threaten what I want for my community. I am an employee of Austin ISD and I served my community for 4 years. I am disappointed that grants that could help the most needy and defenseless of our community, the children, are vanishing before our eyes. The "elected" officials in our state has not cared about the health and educational needs of our cities and state. Now you want to mess up my representations to serve Trump's agenda. If you comply with his ridicules demands, then you are setting our country to future abuse to our democracy that no longer care what the constitutes say or need. How can we have a democracy when the politicians chose their voters? Do the right thing and reject this bill.

Jose Miranda
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose the proposed congressional redistricting measures being considered on August 1, 2025. Redistricting should reflect fair representation and uphold the principles of equal voter voice, yet the current proposal appears to disproportionately favor partisan interests over communities of interest and demographic balance.

Such redistricting may dilute the voting power of underrepresented groups, fragment cohesive communities, and undermine public trust in the electoral process. Any redrawing of congressional boundaries must be transparent, data-driven, and free from political manipulation. I urge the committee to reject the current plan and instead advocate for an independent redistricting process that protects democratic integrity and ensures all Texans are fairly represented.

Janice Pennington
Self
Joshua, TX

I am disgusted that Republicans are trying to move districts around so they can hold power. This does not represent the residents of Texas. Republicans are purposely trying to disenfranchise people of color. The first item on this special session agenda should have been helping families affected by recent floods and working on alert systems to prevent such tragedies in the future. I urge you all to stop this power grab. Say no to HB 4.

Natalie Austin
Self
Harker Heights, TX

I support Texas HB 4 because it updates congressional districts to reflect Texas’s population growth and ensures strong, stable representation that aligns with our state’s values. The bill responsibly exercises the Legislature’s authority to create fair and effective districts for our growing communities.

Melinda Luevanos
Self, preschool teacher
El Paso, TX

El Paso has been long neglected by our State and Federal government and this proposed redistricting seeks to further erase our city. We deserve to be represented by someone who actually lives in our community and recognizes the needs we have. Someone who lives out of town has no idea what our city and community is like. El Paso deserves accurate and fair representation. We are more than just a political pawn. I am against this redistricting and I hope El Paso continues to be represented by an actual El Pasoan.

Casey Talbert
Self
Wylie, TX

We are not due for new maps until 2031. I want my rep to oppose the redistricting efforts and fully focus on flood and disaster relief during the special session. Thank you.

Angelica Giamona
Self
San Antonio, TX

We are not due for new maps until 2031. I want my rep to oppose the redistricting efforts and fully focus on flood and disaster relief during the special session. Thank you.

Naomi Owuor
self
Cedar Park, TX

I strongly oppose redrawing the districts to give potus extra Republican seats. Texas has never been the whipping boy to the federal govt so why are we starting now. Your focus should be on how to prevent future flooding atrocities and ensuring the survival of Texas' people & resources rather than kissing the emperors ring.
Do your job as elected representatives of the people in your state.

Amanda Dinn, Mrs
Self
Round rock, TX

This bill is not FOR THE PEOPLE!

Dustin Kim
Self, Actuary
Austin, TX

I am writing to register my strenuous opposition to the redistricting efforts this special session. It's nakedly antidemocratic and will only serve to further discourage and disenfranchise voters.

Christopher McDonald, Rev.
Self
Grand Prairie, TX

Given your blatant disregard for the citizens you swore to God you would serve, I consider your actions regarding HB 4 a blatant disrespect of God. And since no comment will change your desire to worship President Trump, I will direct my public comments to the God to whom you swore. Join me in prayer.

In the matchless name of Jesus, He who came to help the poor and oppressed (Luke 4:18), I lift my petition to thee. I pray that every legislator who proudly participates in the passing of HB 4 and any bill that overtly discriminates or disenfranchises your children, that you will show them in a tangible way that you are really in charge. Your scripture records the myriad of ways you exact vengeance on those who purposely harm your people, yet these leaders boldly disobey you as if there are no consequences. I pray for the consequence of your choice to fall upon them, that they might understand you are not to be played with. Lord, come to the aid of your children whose voices these legislators are determined to silence. They do not believe you are able nor sovereign enough to put an end to their evil intentions, so show them the error of your ways. I understand this ask may result in their sickness, removal from office, catastrophe, or even death. But Lord, let your will be done for the sake of your glory. Whatever you need to do to make these people repent and reverence you above Donald Trump, do it. Give them everything they deserve because they refuse to love the neighbors who don't have their same skin tone or political belief.

I lift this seriously Father God in Heaven. For we have no one else in the Texas State Legislature that we can depend on. So please do it for we who love you. In the name of Jesus I pray. Amen.

Keep trying to make your wrongdoing prosper and I'll keep praying that God repays you for your wicked deeds, His way. I'm putting this all in His hands.

Holly Keyt
Self, physician
Olmos Park, TX

I write in strong opposition to the proposed redistricting maps under consideration by the Texas Legislature. These maps do not reflect the will of the people and violate the core principles of fair representation and democratic integrity.

Redistricting should ensure that every vote counts equally and that communities are kept whole. Instead, the newly drawn maps appear to be a deliberate attempt to dilute the voting power of rapidly growing and diverse populations across Texas. By ignoring demographic realities and breaking established redistricting guidelines—such as maintaining compact, contiguous districts and preserving communities of interest—these maps undermine public trust and democratic legitimacy.

The process has lacked transparency and meaningful public input. Rushing to enact maps that serve partisan interests over fair representation erodes the fundamental right of Texans to choose their representatives.

I urge lawmakers to reject these maps and instead adopt a redistricting process that is transparent, nonpartisan, and accountable to the people of Texas.

Respectfully,
Holly Keyt
Olmos Park, TX

Sarah Oldenburg
Self
Euless, TX

Texas is gerrymandered and should be redrawn to ensure Texans pick their politicians rather than the other way around. This is fraud and we deserve better!

Jess Levenson
Self public relations
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose HB4, the proposed redistricting bill. It is a partisan attempt to entrench minority rule by gerrymandering communities of color and urban voters out of meaningful representation. Despite driving nearly all of Texas's recent population growth, these communities are being strategically silenced through manipulated district lines.

This bill does not reflect the will of the people — it reflects the interests of Republican incumbents and MAGA partisanship. By pre-determining electoral outcomes, HB4 strips voters of real choices and pushes our politics further into extremism and dysfunction.

Texans deserve fair maps drawn through a transparent, independent process that prioritizes equal representation. Other states have done this successfully with nonpartisan redistricting commissions, and Texas should do the same. Instead of cementing power through unfair maps, we should build a democracy that works for all Texans.

Please reject HB4.

Michelle Born
Self
Austin, TX

Please vote no on this bill that further stacks the deck against patriotic Americans in the great state of Texas. We have voted for the representation that we want, and this bill will effectively take that away from many of us. The lines are already unfairly drawn, and it is obvious that this is a move that makes district lines even more unfair. This is blatantly cheating to win. None of the legal criteria for redistricting are met at this time. The current maps are gerrymandered. The proposed maps violate voting rights, and are unconstitutional. We want a strong, independent Texas, not one that can be walked all over at the whim of whoever is in the white house. Please vote no on HB 4.

Janet McBride
Self
Longview, TX

I am against redrawing district lines in my state of Texas. That is gerrymandering plain and simple!

Kris Brown, Rev.
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am 100 percent opposed to this bill. It takes away the possibility of my being fairly represented in Congress. It is shameful political manoeuvring and an attack on democracy.

Susan Pascoe
Resident
Austin, TX

This is a patently dishonest move to appease the president. We do not need redistricting! I urge you to listen to your constituents. Shame on you for not doing that.

Jill Eastwood, Mrs
Self
Houston, TX

There is no need for redistricting right now. No new census has been taken. No new boundaries need to be drawn. This is a waste of taxpayer time and money. Your focus should be on more pressing matters that save lives of Texans.

Geoffrey King

Myself as a registered Republican voter

Dallas, TX

This is a LONG OVERDUE measure by House Republicans and Senators to FAIRLY represent the majority of Texans. We must also PUSH to have ANOTHER CENSUS nationwide as the last one was grossly hijacked by The Democrats and MILLIONS of Americans have since relocated to Republican States. PUSH THROUGH THE REDISTRICTING PLAN no matter what. PUSH The Trump Administration for a new census to FAIRLY represent the citizens of Texas and other Republican states. TAKE NO PRISONERS. The Democrats have renounced ALL MEASURES of civility, they have attempted to ARREST AND IMPRISON The Leader of our political party AND his supporters. YOU MUST SUCCEED for you citizens. We demand it.

Mk Carter

Self/CPA

Dallas, TX

Please stop the current redistricting effort mid decade as this is not the time to re-district. if it is absolutely necessary to re-district, please draw maps that reflect the communities that the congressional representatives will be working with. Voters should select our representatives the current maps being shared indicate that the representatives are trying to select their voters to meet a demand by our current president that is undemocratic, contrary to the ideals of the majority of the voting population of Texas.

Kristen Hurst

Self - Principal of an LLC

New Braunfels, TX

I strongly oppose the gerrymandering effort involved in the current redistricting plan. This does NOT represent the people of Texas. The whole idea of America is that our representatives SERVE US, at the state and national level. From the bottom up. This is a clear power grab that disenfranchises the people's will. You KNOW this is wrong. You know it in your heart. You KNOW that if the opposite party tried to do this, you would vigorously oppose it. It is unethical, unpatriotic, unAmerican, and WRONG. YOU KNOW THIS. Do not support this destructive gerrymandering plan. SUPPORT YOUR CONSTITUENTS. REPRESENT US. Let all representatives represent the will of THEIR constituents. Work things out on a bipartisan basis. Texans are SICK OF THIS. Americans are sick of it. We want and deserve and DEMAND representation.

Darius Provost-Evans

self

Houston, TX

I'm urging everyone on the committee to vote NO and create a non-partisan commission to draw all maps going forward. End gerrymandering once and for all.

Michael Jackson
Self
Mansfield, TX

One would surmise that at this juncture in our country and in our state with freedom of self-expression, autonomy, in the age of limitless educational opportunity, it would be embarrassing to cower and become so illegitimately paralyzed at the weightless and, quite frankly, imbecilic inept unintelligible babblings of one man. This man whose background warrants not even the smallest modicum of attention or credence. This man whose comprehension and level of intellectual prowess was stunted at the capacity of an elementary grade level. One would surmise that it would inspire shame and regret to be even remotely connected to - let alone align with - such displays of idiocy; The same idiocy that suggested injections of bleach as a response to a global pandemic.

One would surmise... because the evidence clearly supports the opposite eyewitness account. The evidence of such cowardice, such spineless action, is the reason we are here. The reason this conversation even necessitates response and the reason it has seen the light of day is because of the very weakness select individuals choose to display at the mere idea of one man's selfish, self-serving words and requests.

What more can be said and reiterated that hasn't already been expressed in some form or fashion? It is a disgrace that this capricious redistricting plot isn't summarily dismissed, but it isn't surprising. There are those who sit in decision-making seats who are proud to be subservient. Proud to be spineless. Proud to be beta males. Proud to be dominated. I suppose if the directive were for you to wear skirts and heels at his sheer amusement, for the duration of your elected and short-lived terms, it would also be presented with joy to the public as "the good and 'right' thing". I suppose it would be a sigh a relief that you get to live your truths in public and not behind closed doors. Dare to dream a little while longer.

Should this expression not read clearly, let it resound as a full and transparent dissent for any redistricting in the state of Texas, much less at the suggestion of one mentally unwell man.

There are corners of society, sects of the population, and powers in heaven above who are keeping track, keeping score, and making notes.

Personally, I'd be more fearful of that retribution.

In short: Grow a pair and learn to say "no", for your own sake.

Elizabeth Skerpan-Wheeler
self
Austin, TX

Redistricting should be done every 10 years, after the census. This current proposal is not justified by the data and has not been requested by your constituents. The President demanded it and Texas Republicans caved in. Our representatives must show the courage to stand up to bullies and to represent the people of Texas. I have been paying attention to coverage of this issue in many forms of media, and it's apparent to me that nobody wants this, other than legislators who are afraid of the President. Fear should not be a driver of policy in a democratic government. This is wrong and you know it. Please vote NO.

Eileen Deeter, Mrs.
Myself
Austin, TX

The districts have no need to be redone again. The only reason you are trying to redo them now is the give President Trump extra seats in Congress. Maybe you should just have district lines by county and then allow everyone’s voice to be heard instead of manipulating data for the. Emeritus of the Republican Party.

Alton Pennington
Self
Joshua, TX

I am appalled that Republicans are choosing to gerrymander our state's districts instead of addressing the needs of flood victims and proposing methods of prevention for the future of that area. This is nothing but a power grab and bowing to a man who wants to be a dictator. I say no to HB4. Spend your time helping flood victims and improving a flood proned area.

Cheney Crow, PhD
self, retired UT faculty and writer
Austin, TX

There is no valid reason for redistricting in Texas AGAIN! Less than 10 years since the latest redistricting? What are you achieving for your constituents? You would betray your own oath to the constitution and to your constituents to prove fealty to a president who violates the Constitution, the rule of law, the freedom of the judiciary, even the press? Who threatens American Allies who fought beside us in our wars? Who disparaged John McCain and is threatening our future in research: our Cancer Center at MD Anderson, NASA in Houston— NASA staff is down 20%, critical missions being cancelled. How many people have lost jobs and are now being paid NOT to work? I'm ashamed to live in a state that won't put its citizens first. How many hours have you spent on flood relief? And how many on this map? Please reconsider your priorities. There are humans in your state who rely on your help, your honest representation, your good will and earnest dedication to work on their behalf, not your own. I hope you will remember the oath you took so that your children can be proud of your work as a honorable representative, fair and devoted to the people he works for. Your actions teach your children, and ours, what politics looks like. The example you set will carry into the next generation. I hope you want your legacy to be marked by integrity, honor, and truth. Good service were can be grateful, that you can be proud of. I want to be proud of you, too.

Marguerite Dreiss
Self
Houston, TX

I oppose this off-cycle redistricting initiative. Why not await the 2030 census, as is customary?
I implore you, Congress people, to not cave to DJT's demands.

Cheryl Gwartney, Mrs
Self
Double Oak, TX

I am in favor of passing HB4.

Erika DeLaRosa
Self
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose districting at this time. It is unnecessary and I do believe all of our lawmakers, Republicans and Democrats, know this is not what the people of Texas need nor is it what anyone wants. We have much more pressing matters and this can wait. This would not benefit any Texan. This would however harm many Texans.

Oppose this redistricting. Thank you.

Reva Enzminger
Self
Austin, TX

You are taking away representation this killing our democracy. I strongly urge you to reconsider

Nicola Quillen
Self
Wylie, TX

Oppose redistricting

Jennifer Easter
Self. Physical Therapist.
Austin, TX

The history of gerrymandering in the USA is not something to be proud of. Texans used to stand up for fairness, justice, and integrity. What has happened to our Legislature? Are you only emboldened by Trump and feel like cheating is the New American Way? Stand up for what is right. Honor your Oath. Represent your constituents. We do NOT want redistricting.

Lane Law
Self. Texan. AGAINST HB 4
Bertram, TX

This Redistricting Scheme shows the true colors of the modern Republican Party in our state. It exposes them to be weak people who would gleefully hand over control of Texas to the Executive Branch in Washington DC. The GOP obviously has no faith in Texas Republicans to earn votes by being good at their job, otherwise they wouldn't be trying to put such a heavy thumb on the scale. The District Map being proposed was clearly drawn by people who don't know Texas. They don't know our culture. They don't know how important our neighbors are to us. The proposed map is engineered to silence the votes of hardworking, everyday Texans simply because they don't fall in line with the National Republican Party. The voices aren't just Democrats. Many are Texans who just want to elect someone who represents the needs of their community instead of the Manhattan real estate market and Florida resort industry. Show Washington DC that we believe in individual responsibility and individual liberty way out here in the Lone Star State. I call on Texas lawmakers to Cowboy up and strike down HB 4. Keep Texas freedom alive.

Noelle Vinson
Self (Registered nurse)
San Antonio, TX

I am commenting to express my deep disappointment in the leaders of Texas for letting Trump walk all over them and demand they give him 5 more Republican seats when it is illegal for the district maps to be redrawn at this time. You all know this is wrong, and yet you're doing it anyway. You represent Texans, not Trump. You Republicans know your agenda is deeply immoral and unpopular, and the only way you are going to continue winning is by cheating, so that's what you're trying to do. Gerrymandering hurts your constituents and should be outlawed. You should be fighting for the rights of the people who voted you in, not pandering to the felon in the White House. I hope you all have the courage to stand for what is right and fight for Texans, but if you don't, know that we the people will not stop fighting for ourselves and each other. Do not let this redistricting happen. It's illegal and immoral, and you know it.

Ann Rayner
Self/ retired Health Care professional
Carrollton, TX

We need to reject any efforts to redistrict that put Democrats at a disadvantage.
put Democrats at a disadvantage

Evin Law
Self
BERTRAM, TX

I am an 8th generation Texan. My grandfather was the Republican Party Chairman in every county he lived in for most of his adult life. George T Rogers - he also played baseball for the Texas Minor league and was a career Marine, fighting in two wars. I can't claim to read minds but I know that he would be ashamed of this Republican Party and this plan in particular. He always told me that I was left handed because my parents were so left-wing, but I'd bet money that this behavior would have driven even him to the left. You MUST vote against this bill, or please don't ever call yourselves Texans again. This isn't how Texans win.

Mikey Goralnik
Self, landscape architect
Austin, TX

I am fiercely opposed to the proposed congressional redistricting before the Texas House. It is clear that the intent of this bill is to dilute the voting power of people who vote for liberal or progressive candidates; in my area, this means that Hispanic, black, and young voters will see their voices undermined. My own district would be eliminated, in an attempt to consolidate power for an administration that I did not vote for, and that appears committed to ensuring that my children will grow up in a greedier, more callous, and less safe nation (and state) than the one they were born into. The new congressional map is unconscionable, not to mention unconstitutional, and I hope to see it confined to the margins of political discourse where it belongs.

Eloisa Acha, Mrs
self
Austin, TX

I have been a resident of Austin for 30 years but is not until recently that I have learned how republicans have managed to stay in power despite the balanced representation of voters. The disrespect to the people of this great state and the cheating is so obvious you all should be ashamed. Everyone knows this is unusual timing and you are bending the knee to Trump. Stop moving the post, stop the waste of time and money and instead work hard to listen and represent the people you serve, work to support urgent matters like our flood victims and disaster response systems. Object to any redistricting and get to work for the people, for our kids for our wonderful state.

James Ishmael
Self
ROCKWALL, TX

I oppose redistricting.

Robbin Polter
Self
AUSTIN, TX

No redistricting !!!

Frances Johnson
Self
Fort Worth, TX

All districts should be fairly drawn to represent the true make up of Texas citizens. Redrawing them to give more seats to one party is wrong. You would be shouting off the other side was trying to do it. Do better. Be better.

April Balcombe
Self
Austin, TX

This is not a democratic process to have a special session to redistrict maps, especially combining Doggett and Cesar. This is a very bias and unethical thing to consider. Please vote no to redistricting. Thanks for your service to the public.

Dorrie O'Brien
Self and Self employed.
Grand Prairie, TX

Oh, go for it, fellahs! Don't let the Dems stop you!

Flor Montiel, Ms.
self
Pilot Point, TX

No more gerrymandering! Oppose congressional redistricting in Texas!

Brooke Cummings
Self
Garland, TX

This is highly unusual and suspect. Please please PLEASE do not pass this. Make district maps normal again!!!

Carla Ramirez
Self
San Antonio, TX

To say I’m disgusted is an understatement. To say I’m surprised would be a lie. I carry the Constitution on me every day. I’ve read the Bible in seven versions, eight if you count The Message (I don’t). Democracy only works when those in power fear losing it. Our system survives because of disagreement, dissent, and diversity of thought.

Parties have changed drastically in my lifetime, but I never imagined that those who once championed traditional, patriotic, conservative values would bow to a man who shares images of himself as a king, accepts foreign gifts, cheats on his wives, pays hush money through lawyers, and allies himself with regimes more Goliath than David. He ignores genocide, asking the victims to die quietly so land can be seized.

This is who you choose over your constituents? What a sad day for Americans, and a truly awful one for Texans.

Megan McLawhon
Self
College Station, TX

We the People do NOT support redistricting. Gerrymandering is oppressive. Let Texans speak for themselves. Our congresspeople should REPRESENT US and SPEAK ON OUR BEHALF for what is best. Stop cheating us. You are elected by us to represent us. NO TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION. Stop redrawing lines to quell our voices.

Haley Carter

Self, a concerned citizen who already feels disenfranchised enough!

Princeton, TX

This is an abuse of power, to disenfranchise people in the city by dividing a county up to win elections even though it divides communities in ways that nobody is represented properly. This whole state is embarrassing itself on the world stage working so hard to overthrow the votes and wishes of the people with legislation and administrative barriers, literal attacks on people who don't align with the current politics, stripping and gutting our voices so that elitists and corporations are happier. Selling Texan lives out to the highest bidders. Do not gerrymander us anymore!! County to county borders already exist, there should not be a single county that is divided once, much less several times over. Corruption at the highest level and total disenfranchisement of the entire population of Texas. Thank you for your time and consideration, as a voter I expect to be heard. I'm so tired of feeling silenced in this state because the leadership lacks integrity and a sense of duty to the public it is chosen to serve. Politicians don't even ask what we want, we don't even have voter initiatives. I find Texas politics overall to have a false claim to democracy.

Julia Orduna

Self

Houston, TX

I do not agree with mid-decade redistricting. This is a ploy by people in power to maintain their power by rigging the system. We cannot allow the people’s voice to be gerrymandered and manipulated for profit. SAY NO to silencing the people!

Rosemary Miranda, Ms

Self

Edinburg, TX

This proposed map aims to eliminate Mexican Americans and Black people from the voter rolls without actually saying so. It pairs voters who have no interests in common with each other
Its artificiality is almost farcical if it weren’t the actual republican proposal
This proposal must be voted down

BHARAT DHURKA
Self, Behavior Consultant
Plano, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans

Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,

As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.

South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.

But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.

In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.

This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.

What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?

Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.

When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.

We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.

We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.

Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.

Sincerely,
Bharat Dhurka

Ranjan Misra
SAAVETX
Dallas, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don't just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don't matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan's right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Ranjan Misra/ SAAVETX
Dallas, TX

Gregg Welpe
self - Leisure Travel Specialist
Royse City, TX

Under the new map, I'd be placed in Congressional District 32, which now stretches over 100 miles from urban North Dallas all the way to rural Upshur County. That's not a community. That's a political weapon.
No one honestly believes a single member of Congress can represent both ends of that district in any meaningful way. These are entirely different parts of the state, with different realities and needs. And the people in each of those communities deserve someone who knows them—and fights for them.
Instead, these maps are designed to silence people. To divide us. To make sure the outcome is decided before anyone votes. That's not democracy. That's control. When voters feel like their voice doesn't matter, they stop showing up. When communities are stitched together just to serve a political strategy, nobody truly gets represented. This new map is a crime against equal and fair representation when communities of color are being split apart solely for the purpose of re-electing the white minority into Congress. These new maps are simply just Jim Crow 2.0 and a direct and clear violation of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

Debora McFerrin
Self
Austin, TX

Chair, Members of the Committee,

I am here to strongly oppose the current redistricting proposals, which undermine the principles of representative democracy, distort the political voice of Texas's growing minority populations, and appear motivated not by the needs of our state — but by the political interests of a single individual, Donald Trump.

Let's be clear about the facts. According to the 2020 U.S. Census, 95% of Texas's population growth over the past decade came from communities of color — with Latinos alone accounting for nearly 50% of that growth. Yet the proposed maps fail to create any new majority-minority districts and, in fact, reduce the voting power of these very communities. In practical terms, that's not just negligent — it's discriminatory.

This isn't the first time Texas has been here. In Shelby County v. Holder (2013), the U.S. Supreme Court gutted the preclearance provisions of the Voting Rights Act, which had previously required Texas to submit redistricting plans for federal approval due to a long history of voter suppression. Following that ruling, Texas was quick to implement maps that federal courts later ruled were racially discriminatory.

In Abbott v. Perez (2018), the U.S. Supreme Court upheld most of Texas's 2013 redistricting map — but even then, the lower court had found intentional racial discrimination in several districts. That case showed the damage that can be done when maps are drawn behind closed doors, ignoring the will and demographics of the people.

The current proposed maps continue this pattern: packing and cracking minority voters, slicing up diverse communities like Houston, Dallas, and Austin, and preserving power for incumbents at the expense of fair representation.

According to the nonpartisan Princeton Gerrymandering Project, Texas's congressional maps receive an "F" grade for partisan fairness. The analysis found that the maps create an extreme Republican advantage that is not reflective of statewide voter behavior. This isn't about fair representation — it's about insulating a political class and appeasing Donald Trump, whose influence continues to distort the integrity of our democratic institutions.

Members, this redistricting process is a constitutional responsibility. It demands transparency, fairness, and fidelity to the principle of "one person, one vote." I urge you to reject these maps, restore public trust, and uphold your duty to represent all Texans, not just those who share your political party or allegiance to Donald Trump.

Democracy in Texas should not be drawn to serve one man's interests. It should be drawn to serve the people.

Thank you.

Lynn Coyle
Self
El Paso, TX

Please defeat this bill. This bill is an extreme power grab that crushes our democratic right in El Paso to select our representatives. It will destroy our vote in El Paso. Adhere to democratic principles and protect our right to participate in selecting our representatives. Defeat this authoritarian action.

Alejandra Gonzalez self, court interpreter
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redrawing of Texas' congressional maps. This redistricting effort is not driven by population shifts or legal mandates, but by partisan strategy, and it undermines the principles of representative democracy. The proposed changes would dilute the voting power of communities of color, split cohesive districts, and force incumbents into unfair matchups, all to secure political advantage for Republicans.

Redistricting should reflect the will of the people, not manipulate it. Merging districts like those of Reps. Greg Casar and Lloyd Doggett, or stretching a single district from Lubbock to San Antonio, is a blatant attempt to suppress diverse voices and consolidate power in the hands of Republicans. As it is, Democrats in Texas have no real say, but this move would silence their voices completely. Corrupt tactics like this blatant gerrymandering erode public trust and violate the spirit of fair representation.

I urge lawmakers to reject this map and recommit to a transparent, equitable redistricting process that respects the Voting Rights Act and the rights of every Texan. Our democracy depends on it.

Karisa Stokley
Self
HOUSTON, TX

Texas does not need to spend time or money or redistricting right now. We are also not due for one yet. There is no need to do this prematurely.

Michelle Fandrich
Self
Pflugerville, TX

This is partisan gerrymandering designed to undermine our democracy and prevent the views of those in opposition of the current administration from being heard. It is dangerous to the liberty of the people of the United States and should be soundly rejected by any patriot, regardless of party affiliation.

Randall Kimbrough
Self
Beaumont, TX

Support

Katy Manck
self - retired
Gilmer, TX

Sticking rural counties onto hunks of metro areas will ensure that rural voters WON'T be represented! How will folks in Upshur Co (pop. 45,000) be heard in proposed distr 32 when some rich dude from Rockwall (147 k in county) or Richardson is elected? Why is Upshur being split off of current distr 1 & 5 which contain the big towns where we shop, go to doctor, etc?? We have plenty of smart people in Texas who can create reasonable & fair maps instead of the Tex Legislature just meekly taking this weird map drawn up by DC bean-counters who've never changed terminals at DFW Airport! Show some guts and make good maps, instead of wasting state funds on all the lawsuits that will come up because of this extreme gerrymandering. And help rural voters be heard!

Julianna Gelderloos
True Texas Project
Cleburne, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Quy Nguyên
Retired
Spring, TX

I am strongly supporting HB4 and propose r? districting the map

Melisa Williams
self, teacher
Buda, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting that is happening right now. This redistricting is set up to silence a large portion of Texas constituents. It feels like the only way Republicans think they can win is by rigging our great state. I feel like Republicans should try to win this state by actually working for the people of the state. This redistricting is being done because Trump asked for it to be done not because it's best for Texas. By doing this, there will be repercussions from blue states.

James Hall
self
Dallas, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Staci Schwantz
Self artist
San Antonio, TX

I oppose the Redistricting. President trump admitted the purpose is to increase republican seats. The redistricting should be done by a nonpartisan committee.

Brittney Hoch, Mrs.
self
Bastrop, TX

Dear House committee, please reject this unfair redistricting bill! It is wrong and blatantly corrupt to change districts between censuses just because Trump asked Abbott. The people elect representatives by voting. Representatives don't pick how they want their districts to vote. Thank you, please reject this bill.

Christi Moseley
self
Austin, TX

I'm writing to request that you not move forward with redistricting. It is such a blatant power grab that I think it's unhealthy for young people to see that this is the behavior of grown men who have been elected and empowered to protect us. The fact this legislature is so slavishly loyal to the whims of Donald Trump makes them look like cowards... not proud Texas men. I am asking, as an American, as a Texan, as a wife, mother, grandmother and dedicated voter, don't do this!

Valentin Mora
self
San Antonio, TX

About 20 or so years ago, my domestic partner and I attempted to go vote at the local library where we always go vote. We come to find out that was the year that a second location was used depending on whether it was a local or Fed election. We were told to go to the other location to vote and as we exited, a TV reporter asked if we had any difficulty voting that day. I mentioned that I was aware of the redistricting efforts at the time that was causing confusion on election day for people trying to vote after work before the polls closed and the camera immediately went on and I went on to say that since it was only the noon hour, my partner and I had plenty of time to go to the other voting site and cast our vote and that the GOP gerrymandering that went into causing voter confusion, etc was why I insist on voting for Dems. The Texas GOP again isn't even trying to deny wanting to redistrict the voting map again. It's blatant! And it's wrong!

Ramon Chavez
self
Buda, TX

My name is Ramon Chavez, and I live in Buda, which lies in Congressional House District 35. It is absolutely unacceptable for both the House and Senate Redistricting Committees to have drawn up a map that will ultimately be challenged in court because of its blatant disregard of fair elections. The Legislature clearly plans to ignore public input and pass maps that discriminate against communities of color.
Recent actions by Texas legislators have raised serious concerns about civil rights violations targeting Latino and African American citizens. These are clear violations of their civil rights, reflecting a troubling pattern of voter suppression and intimidation in more recent years. Unfortunately, it also reflects the latest round of bigotry and racism in Texas since its founding as a republic and as a state.
In Texas, where Latinos represent over 40 percent of the population, these actions are particularly worrisome. Texas is now a majority-minority state, with Latinos, African Americans, and Asian Americans together constituting 60 percent of the population. The current attempt to redistrict our congressional districts mid-census is the latest effort at a broader, more concerning strategy aimed at suppressing minority voices. I cite for you the removal of more than one million voters from Texas voter rolls in August 2024 that disproportionately affected citizens and people of color in our state. Thus, it comes as no surprise that the latest redistricting scheme is a further attempt at disenfranchising communities of color. More lawsuits will follow, adding to the legal challenges that already underway. How much will this cost Texas taxpayers? I will join in the legal challenges that are sure to follow in the wake of the currently proposed maps.

Jim Coupal
self
Austin, TX

This bill is an open faced maneuver to explicitly and specifically dilute progressive voting areas. Shameful acts are clearly a point of pride now for the Republican arm of the legislature. Rubber stamping Trump's outrageous and unfair demands apparently has lost all consideration for conscience. Republicans have given up thinking on their own except where it comes to taking away services and liberty for the Texans they are supposed to represent. Stop it. Killing this bill would be at least one small step in the right direction.

Leslie Wentworth
Self, retired
Round Rock, TX

I support redistricting!

Charlene Murphy
Self
McKinney, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

KAREN MACIAS, Mrs
Self
Cibolo, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed districting map! Thank you!

Cashabriun Gary
Self
Dallas, TX

We should be represented in this process.

Morene Podlaski
self
FRISCO, TX

Please let state representative know i am FOR the redistricting in HB4.

Antoinette Locks
Self
Houston, TX

Subject: Disapproval of Congressional District 18 Redistricting

I vehemently disagree with the proposed Congressional District 18 redistricting. This district has a rich cultural and historical heritage, especially for the Black community in Houston, and has long been a voice for marginalized and underrepresented groups.

In addition to undermining decades of civil rights progress, redrawing CD 18's boundaries in a way that weakens these communities' voting power also jeopardizes equitable representation and community cohesion.

Any modifications that weaken the district's historical identity, split communities of interest, or move core neighborhoods need to be reexamined. I implore legislators to uphold CD 18's integrity and guarantee that everyone's opinions are heard in Washington.

Sincerely,
A CD 18 resident Antoinette L.

Jane Thompson
Self
Dallas, TX

After reviewing the proposed map with my family, we believe that any doubt we might have had about the intentions of this body being a good-faith effort to re-draw a fair, racially unbiased district map have been put to rest. This map is a cynical, racist, voter hating, power grab, done at the behest of the POTUS. I never thought I'd see the day when a Texas governor and legislature would allow the CEO of the FEDERAL GOVERNMENT to tell them how to run this proud state. You are cheating we, the people of Texas, from choosing our preferred representation. I'm a born and raised Texan and have lived in blue, red and purple districts and while the gerrymandering has been going on for some time, this map is about the worst I've seen. I'm especially angry as my community is in TX 32, and your map will allow white majority rural counties to decide who represents my multi-ethnic, urban community. I can tell you that the good people of Anderson County have vastly different concerns, needs and goals from those of my community; I can tell you this because I know the people there. I own property in Palestine that has been in my family since it was built. It is a wonderful community and beautiful East Texas country, but they do not share the same concerns that we do here in my neck of the woods. I ask that you table this redistricting plan at least until the legislation over the current map wraps up and there is more time allowed for citizen input now that we've seen this absurd map proposal.
Thank you.

Joni Carroll
Self
Fort Worth, TX

This should be illegal. This is taking the will of the voters away.

Victoria Hund
Self
Trophy Club, TX

I have been a republican for most of my life. I voted for Donald Trump in 2016. The behavior and cruel policies of this president and lack of willingness of the entire party to stand up for what is right made me vote for a democrat in 2020 for the first time. I keep hoping that one day someone from the party I used to know will have the guts to speak out, but they have all become spineless jellyfish. This bill is just GROSS. You held a special session to review a horrific natural disaster which left children dead, then slipped in a redistricting bill at the end because our "Supreme Leader" demanded more House seats out of Gov. Abbott. This is disgusting. Shame on our Representatives. Shame on our Governor. Shame on our state. Our president feels no shame, so we'll leave him out of this. Our state deserves better, so DO BETTER. Fight this. Say no. Be the elected officials our fine state needs.

LyAnna Johnson, Rev.
Self, pastor
Austin, TX

We should be focusing on the real needs of Texas, especially the flood victims, and not wasting time and resources on redistricting at this time.

Philip Kendlehart, Mr.
Self
Allen, TX

I oppose a complete ban on THC! Many citizens including children and Veterans use THC to treat health and mental illness! A complete ban is unnecessary and harmful to these individuals! Regarding recreational use, I believe that it's better to legalize cannabis and allow the state to control and tax it than leave it to illegal dealers and the underground!

Zoe Bechtel
self
Austin, TX

This bill is shameful, you're stealing citizen's RIGHTS to having representation. Not only are you stealing it, but you're stealing it for a president that doesn't care about you. Instead of focusing on LEGITIMATE issues like the floods, the homeless population, the lack of proper education, nature conservation, access to clean drinking water, or one of the other numerous human rights violations happening in this state, law makes chose to focus on redistricting when it's not even the year to redistrict! AND THEN, the map writer isn't even living in Texas, how utterly disgraceful is that?!? This is a waste of tax payer money and time.

Nona Farris
Self
Austin, TX

This bill was created not to address any inequities in voting districts and representation, but because the Republican president of the US is afraid of the outcome of the midterm elections. It is illegitimate in a constitutional democracy and seeks to remove representation from citizens and voters. It should be rejected out of hand.

Erik Helwig
Self, Musician
Austin, TX

Texas needs to focus on more important things than partisan redistricting at the request of the president. Gerrymandering is a plague that needs to be stopped.

Jen Margulies
Self
Austin, TX

I live in CD 35, where I'm thrilled to be represented by Greg Casar, a former member of the city council i where I live. My representative calls me and other constituents regularly, holding live town halls over the phone where he updates us and hears from us. I've lived in Austin long enough that Lloyd Doggett once represented me, very well, but in the interim – without moving, mind you – I was in CD 25, a gerrmyandered district where I was unrepresented by a Republican rep who avoided speaking to us at any cost, shutting us out of his office, never holding town halls, taking meetings or phone calls, since he didn't need or care about the sliver of Austin jammed into his Republican district. I know what real representation feels like, and what fake representation feels like.

People are talking a lot about democracy these days. One of the things that I hear some folks saying is that we don't live in a democracy, we live in a republic. Well, in a constitutional republic, representation still matters. And redistricting has everything to do with representation. It's disingenuous to pretend that there is any need other than partisan politics for this legislature to take up redistricting this summer. Saying the 2021 map has issues and so we need to build an even more gerrymandered one right now, is like someone messing with the engine of your truck and then telling you, hey your truck's running kinda rough. Let me come in there and just take out some these parts. You don't need that catalytic converter, right? And while I'm at it, I'm gonna just reshape this lock on the door and recode that ignition key too so that if you're Black or Brown or working class or tend to vote Democrat, your key's just not going to work that well anymore. You could maybe still get in the truck or maybe still get it going, even though it's not really configured right anymore for you to access it, but it's sure not gonna slide right in and get you on the road the way it should.

To belabor this metaphor, the vehicle is our democracy. Representation is our collective vehicle to having a voice in our democracy. This uncalled for redistricting effort is trying to steal our truck, with the intention of driving us all down the road of your choice and taking away our say to help determine the direction our communities and our country can go.

I'd like to remind you that you work for Texas, not for Trump. Not for the national Republican party. Stop stealing from Texans, vote no on HB4 and get back to work on what Texans need from you.

Jennifer Thompson
Self
Plano, TX

I do not support redistricting being done at the demand of a president or any other politician or political figure. Texas has more important issues that we need to focus on.

Rachel Powelson
Self
Richardson, TX

This is a shameless attempt to dilute the power for blue voters. Gerrymandering goes against the ideals of democracy. No one wants to live in a state where their vote doesn't matter. This bill is insulting to Texas voters.

Kathleen Hammond
self
Rowlett, TX

I am very much against the redistricting effort the legislature is considering. Since when does Texas take marching orders from Washington. The Republican party already holds the majority in the Texas legislature. Why is it necessary to tip the scales further? People of color deserve representation too. Deliberately breaking up the districts representing the view point of people of color is not fair play. Government works best when all citizens are represented. We already lack this in Texas. Please don't make it worse.

Paul Hedrick, Mr Citizen
Dallas, TX

Redistricting is a further strangling of democracy in Texas. Are you republicans afraid of trump? Any excuse you make is ridiculous!

Jessica Jolly
Self
Dallas, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House,

I strongly oppose the proposed congressional district maps for the State of Texas. These maps fail to uphold the fundamental principles of fair representation, transparency, and respect for the diverse communities that make up our state.

The proposed redistricting plan is harmful to Texans for several key reasons:

1. It dilutes the political voice of communities of color.
Over 95% of Texas' population growth in the past decade came from Latino, Black, Asian, and other nonwhite residents. Yet the proposed map does not create any new majority-minority districts and, in fact, weakens several existing ones. This denies growing communities the representation they deserve and likely violates the spirit of the Voting Rights Act. Communities that have driven our state's growth should not be sidelined through deliberate line-drawing that splits or minimizes their voting strength.

2. It prioritizes partisan advantage over the will of the people.
The proposed map is engineered to preserve power for one political party, rather than to reflect the real political and geographic diversity of Texas. By creating safe seats and eliminating competitive districts, it reduces accountability, fosters extremism, and gives voters fewer meaningful choices. Texans deserve elections where every vote truly counts.

3. It fragments communities and erodes local representation.
Many communities, especially urban neighborhoods and communities of color, are unnecessarily divided across multiple districts. This makes it harder for residents to advocate for their needs, and harder for elected officials to represent the interests of coherent constituencies. Redistricting should aim to keep communities of interest together, not split them for political gain.

4. It undermines public trust.
The redistricting process has lacked sufficient transparency and genuine public engagement. Maps that dramatically affect our representation for the next decade should not be drawn behind closed doors. Without fair process, the outcome will always be suspect, regardless of party.

Texans deserve congressional maps that reflect our state's diversity, respect community boundaries, and ensure all voices can be heard. I urge you to reject this flawed proposal and create a map that strengthens, not weakens, democracy in Texas.

Sincerely,
Jessica Jolly

Edna Flood
Self
El Paso, TX

I am a registered democrat and oppose the republicans efforts to change the political map in their favor.

Kathryn Whitley Chu, Hon.
self/teacher
Austin, TX

I am opposed to HB4, a mid-decade redistricting of congressional districts. The proposed map breaks up communities, makes it harder for citizens of counties like Travis County to be fairly represented in Congress, and violates provisions of the Voting Rights Act and US Constitution.

alfredo arellano
Republicans of Maverick County
Eagle Pass, TX

I would like for Maverick County to be fully represented by Congressman Tony Gonzales. There is no reason for our County to have 2 representatives and both of them live almost 2 hours away from us. The affected area in Maverick County is primarily Precinct 2 which was Rep Gonzales's best precinct in Maverick County. Other than that I fully support the Map as drawn in other districts to accurately reflect Conservative Latino Districts.

Cheryl Parker, Dr.
Self - retired
Carrollton, TX

As a Texas resident, I respectfully submit this public comment in opposition to House Bill 4, authored by Rep. Todd Hunter. The redistricting proposal outlined in PLANC2308 raises serious concerns about fair representation and democratic integrity.

The proposed congressional map appears to fragment communities and diminish the voting influence of historically marginalized populations. Such outcomes risk violating the principles of equal representation and community cohesion that should guide any redistricting process.

Texans deserve a transparent process that reflects demographic realities and invites meaningful public input. HB 4 falls short of this standard. I urge lawmakers to reject this proposal and pursue redistricting methods that honor the voices and rights of all constituents.

Thank you for considering this comment in the public record.

Nisha Abraham
Self
Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Nisha Abraham. I live in Austin Texas in Congressional District 37. I am testifying on the Legislature's attempt to redistrict our congressional districts mid-census. I am strongly opposed to these efforts. This brazen move by the Governor and the DOJ to increase Republican representation in the U.S. House by taking it away from communities of color is shameful. It is blatant racial discrimination. How districts are drawn affects every political issue, from the economy to healthcare to public education. If politicians are elected from districts that don't reflect the population, you end up with situations where politicians support policies that the vast majority of people oppose, or they won't support policies that the vast majority of people support. When politicians manipulate maps for personal or political gain, it prevents residents like me from having our voices heard on all of these policies that affect us. For example, here in Travis County there are many people struggling to afford healthcare coverage, and the Tax Bill that was just passed by Congress by the narrowest of margins threatens to kick even more people off the Medicaid rolls. Texas already has the highest rate of medically uninsured in the country. In order for our democracy to function, the public needs to have a voice in the process. It is absolutely unacceptable for both the House and Senate Redistricting Committees to be holding hearings without having maps visible to the public a map. How do you expect the public to actually participate in this process? Therefore, I am asking that this Committee to commit to holding a public hearing after the maps have been drawn but before they pass through committee. You must also give the public a minimum of 5 days notice and capability to review the maps before this hearing. I also want the legislators who draw the maps to explain why they chose to draw them the way they did, and to not hide any communications they have had regarding drawing the maps. If not, I strongly urge the house to reject the redistricting plan and will keep these decisions in mind as the November elections roll around.

Justin Grifgin, Ssg
My damn self
El Paso, TX

As a 100 percent disabled veteran, this makes me sad. Please allow me to have LOCAL representation that I voted to represent my word to the house. Wow.

Stanley Lehto, Maj.
Self/Retired
San Antonio, TX

I believe the redistricting proposed by the Republican House is a complete sham. The existing mapping is bad enough (25 to 13) and already includes blatantly racist gerrymandering. So this additional process not based on new census information is an obvious political ploy to try to make up for the expected negative impact on Republican voters by the abominable Big Bill recently passed by the U.S. House.

Elizabeth Young
Self
Helotes, TX

You just redistricted about 4 years ago. This action is not representing all of Texas. You are shutting out my voice and my beliefs. I, and people like me are not being represented by making this a right wing radical state.

Alicia Cozza
self, small business owner
Austin, TX

I am outraged at this blatant attempt to silence to voices of millions of voters in Texas. What I want to see is politicians trying to get re-elected by winning the hearts and minds of the voters they represent, by behaving as the representatives they are meant to be. As in, REPRESENT the PEOPLE and the WILL OF THE PEOPLE. Redistricting in this way to solidify the hold they have on the government in the state of texas is disgusting. If the representatives supporting this are so great at what they do, why are they so worried that they will be voted out that they would split up the electorate in this extremely gerry-mandered way? Instead of trying so hard to stay in power in such a corrupt and anti-democratic way, maybe they should instead focus on improving the lives of all Texans. Stop this nonsense and be a representative that people want to vote for, so that you win based on merit instead of clinging to power selfishly so that you can pass laws to harm the vast majority of Texans.

Padmini Jambulapati, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

As a member of the South Asian American community across Texas, I write to express my opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.

But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.

In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.

This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.

Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.

Brandy Eastman
Self/ Caretaker
The Colony, TX

This plan is nothing but a power grab. The redlining of BIPOC districts to favor white male republicans is so transparent. Do not support the silencing of voices thar disagree with you.

Earl Bishop
Burnet county Republican party precinct chairman
Marble Falls, TX

I support

Shanette Eckols
Self
Austin, TX

I am a fifth generation Texan. My family came here in mid 1800's and established a ranch in Driftwood. I am outraged at this unfair, unneeded redistricting! Our country was founded on the idea that the people vote so they can be heard and have a hand in the priorities of their country. To brazenly dilute our votes, just to make the president happy is a complete betrayal to ALL Texans. I am honestly shocked that anyone even considered doing this. Much less that they're planning it. So so disappointed in the state I was born and raised in! Do NOT make our districts worse and more unfair than they already are.

Gregg La Montagne
Myself
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to this redistricting efforts outside. Gerrymandering districts to please the president is undemocratic and clearly un wanted by the majority of Texans.

Melissa Seago
Self - Project Coordinator
Dallas, TX

I am against redistricting just to kiss Trump's a. Abbott should be ashamed

Mary Stone, Dr
Self, retired physician
North Richland Hills, TX

I agree with redistricting. Texas is Republican +10 and we need a state house that represents that. Republicans are the party of limited government , personal responsibility, prolife. Let's have a state government that represents that. Thank you.

Pamela Campbell
Self
Houston, TX

The Voting rights act of 1965 prohibits Redistricting plans that discriminate against minorities. These plans to redraw districts with intent to appease Trump will dilute the voting power of minorities and is completely illegal. If this goes through we will take this to court and you will lose.

Maggie Leysath
Self
Nacogdoches, TX

This bill is a travesty of justice. Please vote no on redistricting.

Dannielle Bush, Ms
Self
Pflugerville, TX

The new proposed map is a blatant attack on democracy. The map now gerrymanders an already gerrymandered map. It's disgusting that the TX GOP is bowing down to Trump. In court, the state argued that the old map was a fair map (it wasn't either) and then they turn around and make it worse. I strongly oppose this map and all the members of the TX legislature should too. This should be a bipartisan effort to stop this.

Robert Bretsch
Self
El Paso, TX

I am in full support of the redistricting process as proposed for the state of Texas.

Sarah Harte, Ms.
self
San Antonio, TX

Vote against the redistricting bill. It's an unnecessary power grab.

Jessie Portillo
Self - program manager
Austin, TX

Redistricting should be done in alignment with the census. The mid cycle change is a blatant attempt to appease a dictator and abandon constituents.

Joy Casnovsky
Self
Elgin, TX

Dear Committee members,
I'm asking you to respect the democratic rights that our country was founded on. You need to create districts that allow for fair representation of Texans. Your proposed maps are the opposite. They dilute certain voices only to retain power for others. I'm against the proposed maps and proposed districts.

Devin Culbertson
Self
Austin, TX

Illegal vs immoral-
While the legislature as the legal ability to redraw bizarre new districts that defy rational explanation, no one with any integrity could look at these maps and think that these new boundaries are fair to Texans. Travis county can't rationally be included with areas stretching from Aransas to Midland. Please consider your morals alongside your politics and make districts that are fair and reasonable, if you change them out of cycle at all.

David McBride
self Manchaca,, TX

The people in power change the rules (districts) to stay in power. We need a fair and honest government not one rigged to keep the minority in power.

Ben Nicholl
Self - White collar work
Mesquite, TX

God is ashamed of y'all and you do not represent your constituents.

Commenting to document that I oppose your gerrymandering for later, since we know you don't listen to anything anyone In Texas who isn't paying you via lobbies.

Rodney Craig myself as a registered voter
Austin, TX

I object to the redistricting maps to facilitate republicans to create a larger percentage of their voters in certain areas. Please leave the voter districts as they are.

Joseph Medina - Sandoval
Self
Pflugerville, TX

As someone who was born and raised in the state of Texas, this "redistricting" is the most abhorrent attempt at gerrymandering that I've ever seen. This Bill aiming to take away the representation from many of us who are already a minority vote is nothing but a bending of the knee to a tyrant. If Donald Trump and the GOP only won Texas by 6% of the vote, how does giving him and the party an even 3 more seats in Congress make any logical sense? The math just doesn't add up. If we let this sorry excuse of a district map pass, we're playing with entire communities not being represented because their vote was tossed around to where they become. minority voters. The last time we had a tyrant in this country that ruled over people who were not allowed representation, we started the American Revolutionary War...I urge our Representatives to do not what they are told to do, but what is right. Do not bend the knee to Donald Trump, and do not succumb to a party that would throw you out the second they don't believe you fit in the picture.

Hunter Bonner, Mr.
Marion County Republican Party
Lone Star, TX

I am the Marion County Republican Party Chairman. In 2024, Americans, and specifically Texans, voted for a change in government. They chose to vote Republican, and expect a Republican mandate in our Texas Legislature. Part of achieving that is having Congressional Representation in Congress that reflects the sentiment and will of the people. It is entirely reasonable for the Texas Legislature to redraw Congressional District lines to reflect that mandate from the people.

This is not a racist ploy, as Democrats have tried to portray. In fact to assume that this needed redistricting somehow affects people of color, is to assume that all people of color vote a particular way, that being Democrat. If the last 10 years have shown anything, it is communities of color are voting more and more Republican.

I support the redistricting efforts to better reflect representation that our Founding Fathers gave up life, limb, and treasure to protect.

Katherine Cox
Self, writer
Austin, TX

I oppose this map. This redistricting is not representative of Texans and disenfranchises millions of them. We deserve representative democracy.

Anna Creecy
Self, finance & insurance
Keller, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting. It’s clear gerrymandering, designed specifically to favor one political party over the other. Elections should be free and FAIR.

Caroline Staudt
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am AGAINST redistricting (read: gerrymandering). It will only further the divide economically and socially, leading only to our collective detriment.

Stephanie Tassin
Self- physician
Salado, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. This is clearly gerrymandering and cheating by republicans in order to silence Texas democrats.

Janette Minasian Pires
Self
Grapevine, TX

I stand in support of the HB4 redistricting map.

MANUEL JR ANGEL
SELF. VOTER
SAN ANTONIO TX, TX

Against map redistricting. It' unfair and prejudice.

Linus Betz, Mr
self, student
Boerne, TX

Should be illegal, and totally unjustified. All involved should be ashamed of themselves and rethink what it means to want to live in a democracy.

MARCUS HENRY
Self, Data Intelligence
Waxahachie, TX

Vote YES.

Linda Gil
Self retired
San Antonio, TX

This is the state of Texas. This state does not belong to Donald Trump. He is mot governor. Abbott, show some courage. Texas is not for sale. No redistricting. No gerrymandering

Robert March
Self Finance
Austin, TX

I’m reaching out to strongly oppose the current redistricting process in Texas. The use of gerrymandering to draw district lines for partisan gain undermines the core values of representative democracy. It weakens voter influence, reinforces political power structures, and compromises the fairness of our elections. Every Texan, regardless of political affiliation, deserves a redistricting process that is transparent, equitable, and free from manipulation.

It’s also troubling to see any federal executive branch, including the White House, attempting to direct how states manage their redistricting. This kind of intervention steps beyond constitutional limits and risks damaging public trust in what should be an independent process.

At the same time, it's disappointing to see some state leaders, who often advocate for states' rights, supporting measures that sideline local control. Redistricting should reflect the interests of the people, not the priorities of political power. I urge this body to oppose any approach that sacrifices fairness, transparency, or local autonomy.

Rosalyn Peterson Family - retired
Austin, TX

This redistricting is so bad for our state and eventually our country.

Jaime Waller
Self
Houston, TX

I am opposed to any efforts, actions and further measures the Texas legislature is taking to redraw congressional districts for any reasons other than the results following the 10 year census. This is a blatantly illegal gerrymandering plan to disenfranchise voters and usurp their will. It is a political move to support only the authoritarian takeover of our nation and give more power to Felon 47 Mr. Donald J. Trump. The panel of judges must uphold the law!

Kim Coachman
Self: Bilingual Educator
Houston, TX

HB?4 is a blatant power grab that undermines fair representation in Texas. The proposed map unfairly targets minority communities—especially Latino and Black voters—by cracking urban areas and diluting voting power.

This mid-decade redistricting is unnecessary and politically motivated, designed to boost GOP seats ahead of 2026. It ignores the population growth driven by communities of color and likely violates the Voting Rights Act.

Texans deserve transparent, inclusive, and fair redistricting—not a rushed, partisan scheme. Vote NO on HB?4.

Paul & Mary Jane Aranda, Mr. & Mrs.
Self Retired
San Antonio, TX

One hindred percent!

Kathleen Parsons
Self - freelance paralegal
Houston, TX

Redistricting is a political power and it should be used fairly and to the fullest extent possible by the party in power or the system will not work. Democrats use power to the MAX when they are in control. Historically, Republicans have been cowed and seemingly afraid to use the same power when they have it. Well, the people are fed up with this kind of Republican and this is one of the reasons MAGA is ascendant. We are being crushed by Democrat policies, that are the result of Democrats using the power when they have it. The founders designed a contentious system that's function depends on BOTH sides using power. Republicans MUST meet this moment to use this power to benefit our people (who are racially diverse) and values. Texas is MAGA and trending more MAGA which is a multi ethnic, middle class & working class movement. We must embrace this movement and harness its energy. Country club, pearl clutching, go along to get along, back room colluding establishment temerity does not meet the moment. Bold, righteous and fearless leadership that gains territory and moves the ball down the field is what the people want. Thank you for your consideration!

Lily Yepez
self
Austin, TX

As one of your constituents, I’m writing to urge you to REJECT this corrupt redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps.

Gov. Abbott is letting Trump control him while ignoring the real problems in our lives. Please do everything in your power to fight back and put Texans first!

I strongly urge you: REJECT this process!

Thank you.

Bruce Hurta
Self - banker
Houston, TX

Not interested in helping Trump and Abbott cheat to win a Republican majority.

Sierra Marshall Bluebonnet’s
San Antonio, TX

This is ridiculous that you are even trying to redistrict and use a tragaty as a scape goat to do so. You should be ashamed of your self’s your not public servants your helpers to a tyrant! And one day you will be remember as such! The people of Texas and the people of America will never surrender to your fascist ways! Your scared of losing so now your trying to cheat your way to a win, well cheaters never prosper and you don’t have the votes you think you do to win those seats regardless of the gerrymandering you do! Your own people are sick of your shit! Be a patriot and stop this nonsense and stop licking the boot heals of a fascist leader!!!

Velma Vela Ybarra, Member Tejano Dems, Familias Unidas, Tx LULAC
Familias Unidas, Texas LULAC, Familias Unidas
Del Rio, TX

I, Velma Vela Ybarra of Tejano Democrats, Texas LULAC, and Familias Unidas, decry the plans underway to redraw congressional district lines in Texas. The proposed bill redrawsp lines that undo all that we as minorities, especially Latinos, have fought for continuously . STOP THREATENING TO FURTHER NEGATIVELY IMPACT OUR CIVIL RIGHTS. AFTER DECADES OF DISCRIMINATION AND SUFFERING!! Stop doing what is obvious: trying to withdraw representation lines to impact negatively on our civil rights!!
We are here to stay and will not allow you abusers to destroy our civil rights . If the proposed bill is supported further , we will fight back and hold Republicans accountable through our strengthened political power!!! Submitted by Velma Vela Ybarra, 612 W Garza, Del Rio, Texas , Val Verde County.

Alanna Boss
Self - Contracts Manager
Dallas, TX

I am writing as a concerned Texan and constituent to strongly oppose the proposed congressional redistricting plans currently under consideration.

These proposed changes appear to further dilute the voting power of historically marginalized communities and favor partisan advantage over fair representation. As a citizen, I believe legislative districts should reflect the true demographics of our state - not be manipulated to protect incumbents or political parties.

Texas is a diverse, dynamic state, and our congressional maps should ensure that every community - regardless of race, income level, or political affiliation - has an equal opportunity to elect representatives who reflect their interests and lived experiences.

Gerrymandering undermines democracy. It fosters political extremism, erodes public trust, and alienates voters. Instead of redrawing lines behind closed doors to secure power, the Legislature should be working transparently and in good faith to create maps that are representative, inclusive, and equitable.

I urge you to reject any redistricting proposal that does not pass these fundamental tests of fairness and democracy. Texas voters deserve better.

Sincerely,
Alanna Boss
Dallas, TX
Registered voter

Darren York
Self
Wolfe City, TX

I live in Fannin County and CD4. I am completely in favor of the new redistricting plan. For CD4 where I live the represented area is much more compact and represents for the most part entire counties with the exception of where population totals make it necessary to make it partial county. I believe that the new CD4 district represents a geographically similar area and that greatly increases the ability for a Congressman to more easily represent and interact with Constituents. From a CD4 and personal perspective I am in total favor of the new redistricting plan. From a state wide perspective I equally support and am in favor of the plan. With such a vast area to cover and scattered population centers to consider I believe the new plan is a feasible and fair plan of congressional representation. While I am not directly impacted by the broader plan, I am impacted by having a fair and representative plan to select members of our Texas congressional delegation. I am in favor of the current plan as it accomplishes that goal by respecting equal population, distribution of urban and rural populations, and a competitive and representative balance in each district. This plan is a practical, equitable and reasonable drawing of these representative lines as can be. With an infinite number of possibilities this plan represents a just and credible option that meets all the benchmarks of our desire for fair elections. I fully support HB4 in the redistricting plan put forward.

Kristi Swice
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

Dear Members of the Texas Legislature and House Redistricting Committee:

I submit this comment to strongly oppose the proposed mid-decade congressional redistricting plan, unveiled July 30, 2025, which seeks to create up to five new Republican-leaning districts across the state.

1. Violates democratic norms, repeats 2003 abuses.?This plan breaks tradition by redrawing congressional districts years into a decade, a tactic last seen in 2003—also struck down for violating the Voting Rights Act. The current effort mirrors that history and invites similar legal challenges.

2. Dilutes the votes of Black and Latino communities.?The changes disproportionately affect districts in Austin, Houston, Dallas, and South Texas—areas with large minority populations—and critics warn the plan consolidates Democratic voters into fewer districts, weakening minority representation and risking violations of federal voting rights protections.

3. Lack of transparency or meaningful public input.?Although public hearings were held, the proposed maps were released only after the fact, with limited opportunity for substantive feedback. Dozens of speakers described the hearings as symbolic and pre-ordained “power grabs,” particularly noting absence of hearings in crucial areas like the Rio Grande Valley.

4. Politically motivated by national GOP interests.?This plan emerged in direct response to pressure from former President Trump and a DOJ letter targeting four current majority-minority districts. Critics—including Senate Democrats—are calling for investigations into possible Hatch Act violations, arguing the redistricting serves national partisan aims rather than Texas voters.

In summary, this proposed redistricting plan is a partisan power grab disguised as a constitutional fix. It entrenches political advantage at the expense of fair representation, disproportionately harms Black and Hispanic voters, and negates public trust in the process.

I urge you to:
* Reject this mid-decade map.
* Respect the decade-long tradition of redrawing maps only after census data.
* Convene truly independent, transparent oversight.
* Prioritize equitable representation for all Texas communities.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,?

Kristi Swice?
Dripping Springs, TX

Gabriella Galindo
Self
Dallas, TX

I oppose the new map! Republicans need to stop cheating and stealing votes!

Alison Campion
Self, Accounts Director
Austin, TX

I am staunchly against the gerrymandering proposed in this bill. Texans, including those in communities of color, deserve to choose who represent them. This new map reduces our voice and our agency in that process. Please stand for Texans.

Connie Morgan
Self
Amarillo, TX

Advocating FOR redistricting so we have fair and accurate representation in Congress.

Kimberly Knight, Ms.
Self
Whitney, TX

Please leave the redistricting alone and focus on flood safety measures. If you leave it unfixed like the grid… which is a four year surplus disaster as its failure is the second occurrence. Texas doesn't need more Failures… which is dead bodies floating because of the same bad policies.

Kristina Downs
Self
Stephenville, TX

This redistricting is nonsensical. Districts should be drawn in a way that follows some geographic logic. Why not use county boundaries already in place? Why is there a tiny bit of Denton County in District 4? District 10 is another with a particularly bizarre shape. Why are so many not even contiguous? The legislature has a duty to serve all Texans, not just the ones they like. Who is served by this redistricting? Not the people of Texas.

Daniel Minshew, Mr.
Self, Software Engineer
Austin, TX

As a resident of south Austin, I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan that would fragment Austin's communities across districts spanning hundreds of miles.
The current redistricting proposal represents a clear attempt to dilute the voting power of Austin residents through gerrymandering. By carving up our city and connecting disparate communities separated by vast distances, this plan prioritizes political convenience over genuine representation.
Austin is a cohesive community with shared interests, challenges, and values. Residents of south Austin have more in common with their neighbors in central and north Austin than with rural communities hundreds of miles away. We share the same infrastructure needs, economic concerns, environmental challenges, and civic priorities. Artificially dividing us into separate districts that stretch across the state undermines our ability to advocate effectively for local issues that affect our daily lives.
Effective representation requires representatives who understand and can respond to the specific needs of geographically coherent communities. When districts are drawn to span hundreds of miles and include vastly different population centers, it becomes impossible for any single representative to adequately serve such diverse constituencies.
I urge the legislature to reject this proposed redistricting plan and instead adopt boundaries that:

Keep Austin's neighborhoods together in districts that reflect our actual community ties
Respect the principle that districts should be compact and contiguous in meaningful ways
Prioritize fair representation over partisan advantage
Allow all Texans to have their voices heard equally in our democracy

The integrity of our democratic process depends on fair districting that serves communities, not political parties. I ask that you vote against any redistricting plan that fractures Austin and instead support a process that respects the principle of one person, one vote.
Thank you for your consideration of these concerns.

Dan Minshew

Adrian Escalante
Self
Frisco, TX

I am writing as a concerned constituent to respectfully express my opposition to the redistricting proposals currently under consideration by the Texas Legislature.

Fair and representative redistricting is essential to a healthy democracy. Every Texan deserves to have their voice heard and their vote carry equal weight, no matter where they live. Unfortunately, the current proposals appear to weaken the representation of several communities, particularly communities of color, and may undermine public confidence in the electoral process.

I urge you to consider the long-term impact of these maps. They could limit the ability of many residents to elect leaders who reflect their needs and values. We need districts that keep communities and neighborhoods intact, especially those with shared interests, instead of dividing them in ways that lessen their collective voice.

Texans expect fair and transparent maps that reflect the state's growth and diversity. Redistricting should not be used to secure political advantage but should instead focus on equity, accountability, and broad public trust.

For these reasons, I respectfully ask you to vote against the proposed redistricting plans and support a process that upholds the principles of fair representation and inclusive governance.

Thank you for your time and service to our community.

Savanah Shanks
self
Austin, TX

Do not continue gerrymandering Texas. Our districts should represent the population accurately.

Aimee Norton
Self
Rockwall, TX

I support the redistricting map PlanC2308 as presented.

Rod Griscom, Mr
Self
Houston, TX

I m against the attempted redistricting. It is time for the cowards that are in our state senate and house to stand up to trump.Trump.. Win or lose your seats based on pixies for all texans, not to retain your policy power.Trump is a criminal that should have been impeached at the least, you are following him.

Steve Brown, Mr.
Self
Carrollton, TX

Please redistribute as necessary to allow for adequate representation for all American Texas citizens. OnLy citizens. If the population has shifted it only makes sense for the representatives to shift. Don't let people hunting for power over constituents they haven't served since being elected sway you to not redistricting.

John Tongate
self
Austin, TX

As a Texas citizen I ask you to not redistrict until the next census. If you do successfully pass new redistricting maps you are contributing to a failing democracy. If you proceed I interpret it as spinelessness being manipulated by the President while not representing citizens.

K G
Self
Austin, TX

Gerrymandering is unconstitutional and this is ridiculous

Laurie Hale
Self
Amarillo, TX

We need fair representation for Texas. I support the redistricting plan. Also please stop the money for Hollywood and send it back to the taxpayers.

Cindy Simpson
Self
Schulenburg, TX

Please pass the One Big Beautiful Texas Map! We must preserve GOP control of Congress to advance the Trump America First Agenda. Let’s get this done now! Do not adjourn the committee until you have passed the map! Thank you!

kim banda
self
Austin, TX

Redistricting more tfrequently than 10 years is problematic in many ways. I'm firmly against. han every

DONNA LIPMAN
SELF
AUSTIN, TX

I AM 73 YEARS OLD AND A GRANDMOTHER OF 8. I AM AFRAID, NOT FOR ME BUT FOR MY GRANDCHILDREN. I HAVE ONE GRANDCHILD WHO HAS CEREBRAL PALSY. HE WILL NOT HAVE THE ADVANTAGES WITH THIS CONGRESS THAT HE DESERVES. I AM APPALLED AT THE BRAZEN BEHAVIOR OF THIS BODY THAT WOULD CONSIDER SUCH AN OBVIOUSLY JUNJUST, POWER GRABBING MAP AT THE EXPENSE OF OUR COMMUNITIES OF COLOR. yOU ARE DRAINING THE VOTING POWER OF MY BLACK AND LATINO NEIGHBORS WHO HAVE TURORED MY GRANCHILDREN, NURSED MY LATE HUSBAND. THIS IS NO DEMOCRACY - IT IS SOME KIND OF EGREGIOUS ARITHMETIC CRUELTY. I MAY BE A WHITE WOMAN WHOSE ZIP CODE STILL CARRIES PRIVELEGE, BUT WHEN THE RULES ARE BENT TO SILENCE ANY OF US, THEY CHEAPEN THE CITIZENSHIP OF ALL OF US. I AM HERE SO MY GRANDCHILDREN LEARN TO RAISE THEIR VOICES. I ASK YOU TO REJECT THIS MAP AND DRAW ONE WHERE REPRESENTATIVE EARN THEIR VOTERS ON MY BLOCK, YOUR BLOCK AND EVERY BLOCK - NOT THE OTHER WAY AROUND!

Ben Kalenak
Self
CEDAR PARK, TX

Redistricting to find seats upon the direction of the president alone is not ethical, but to do it to stack more for a specific political party and not represent either areas demographics is a blatant abuse of the people. I do not agree with gerrymandering to rig your position, it defeats the purpose of democracy and undermines the state and our republic. I urge all members to vote no on accepting any redistricting before the census and not to allow further gerrymandering in our state. We need to have true representation for the people in a district and not someone spread thin between urban/rural areas or central Texas to other parts of the state.

Kris Moore
Self
San Antonio, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Laura Conany
Self
Austin, TX

I feel that it totally unfair to redistric in order to put Democrats at a disadvantage for election purposes.

Michelle Gilson
self
Austin, TX

You are diluting our voice to support a tyrant! This is unethical and undemocratic. Look at what happens to Travis County--ridiculous!! Is this the only way you can win...because you don't care at all about citizens and are only concerned with your power grab! You are disenfranchising one of the most educated countries in Texas and you KNOW they don't want you and your "conserve" all the money and power for yourselves. I'm still pissed with Gov Abbott for shutting down all but one of the mail-in voting spots during Covid! I DEMAND you give us our voices back!

David Frost
Self
Austin, TX

This bill is nothing more than a blatant power grab a shameful attempt to manipulate district boundaries to serve the interests of politicians rather than the will of the voters. We elect you to represent us, not to rewrite the rules of the game when the outcomes don’t favor you.

Changing district lines to dilute the voices of communities, especially communities of color or historically underserved areas, is not just unethical it’s anti-democratic. It erodes public trust, undermines the legitimacy of our elections, and insults the very people you swore an oath to serve.

If you care at all about the integrity of our democracy, you will reject HB 4 and any similar effort to redraw districts for political gain. Represent your constituents. Respect their voices. Do your job.

We’re tired of the games. We demand real representation not gerrymandering.

Matt Holmes, Mr
Self
Austin, TX

Your job, as legislators, is to work for the citizens of Texas. Emergency response review is way more important. This redistricting legislation has nothing to do with helping everyday Texans. Vote No on the new maps.

Barry Schwab
self and real estate agent
Salado, TX

I am in complete support of the published redistricting map. Move forward with this bill.

Wendy Tamez
Myself
ABILENE, TX

No Redistricting! We don't want cheaters! You need to win the vote fair and square! No Redistricting!!!

Julia Schmoker
Self/ sales
Princeton, TX

I support hb4

Carol George, Mrs
George household
Celina, TX

We support fair redistricting - therefore we support HB4!

Karin Knapp
self
Houston, TX

I'm writing in strong opposition to HB4. This rushed redistricting is not in the best interests of Texans. It isn't based on state needs, new census data or constituent requests. It is solely in the interest of Donald Trump, who has the gall to place his desire for political power above the needs of Texans reeling from the deadly, destructive July 4 floods. In addition, as a resident of Congressional District 18, I have been deprived of federal representation since March 2025 and will remain silenced until January 2026. That is a disservice to almost 800,000 Texas residents and dilutes the power of the entire state. Vote no on HB4 and get back to work for Texans, not Donald Trump.

Jeff Keen
self / self employed
Austin, TX

This proposal is heinous, and shows an unsurprising lack of ethics from a state government seemingly run by Skeletor. Redrawing these maps to tip the odds in the republican's favor at this point is basically just covering your ears and saying "la la la la la la" in an effort not to hear the truth that the real people of this state are screaming.

Katherine Holmes
Self (business professional)
Austin, TX

I disapprove of the proposed redistricting scheme. The map was redrawn and released in haste with little time for careful consideration on this important matter. Seems like an attempt to gerrymander the district where I am a constituent. This redistricting plan should be abandoned.

Stephanie Evola
Self
Dallas, TX

I currently live in the 30th district of Texas and I am writing to express my deep concern and strong opposition to the current congressional redistricting process. This redistricting effort is not only unjust—it is undemocratic and unconstitutional. Instead of reflecting the true diversity and will of the people, these maps are designed to silence communities of color and manipulate political power for partisan gain.
According to the 2020 U.S. Census, 95% of Texas's population growth over the last decade came from communities of color—yet the newly drawn congressional maps actually reduce the number of districts where Black, Latino, and Asian voters have a real opportunity to elect candidates of their choice. This is a blatant attempt to dilute the political power of the very communities that are driving the state's growth and vitality.
Voters should choose their representatives, not the other way around. Fair representation is a cornerstone of our democracy, and what is happening in Texas is a betrayal of that principle. I urge lawmakers and the courts to reject these maps and restore fairness, equity, and transparency to the redistricting process.

Ashlee Shumake
Self
McKinney, TX

I oppose the redistricting since the Republican Party is blatantly gerrymandering and they were the ones that redesigned the districts in 2021. There is no need for district maps to change unless it more evenly represents the citizens of Texas and does not place certain groups of people in a minority where their voices cannot be heard.

Kristi Polodna
Self
San Antonio, TX

The Congressional Redistricting ahead of midterm elections represents the the fear Republicans have of losing their stronghold. This is a cowardly move on their part. If you can't win without stacking the deck in your favor, then you KNOW what you're doing is wrong. This whole notion is shameful.

Craig Newcomb
self
Austin, TX

I'm against the redistricting plans, Texans deserve proper representation through fair and reasonable districts which most of these aren't

cheshta bajaj
Texas Freedom Network
Frisco, TX

To Whom It May Concern,

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on HB 4. My name is Cheshta and I live in Frisco, Texas. I am a volunteer with the Texas Freedom Network, in their collegiate program at the University of Texas at Dallas.

I am writing to convey my concerns about House Bill 4. The purpose of redistricting is to secure the appropriate representation of voters across our extremely diverse state. As stated on the “Legal Requirements for Redistricting" webpage on the official capitol website, redistricting is to be completed following the publication of each United States decennial census in order to “equalize population” among electoral districts. It is extremely unusual for redistricting to be pursued mid-decade. More concerning is that this redistricting would effectively dilute the voting power of people of color in contravention of the Voting Rights Act.

I believe House Bill 4 is not only untimely and unnecessary, but if enacted would directly harm your constituents. Texas is an extremely diverse state across every dimension– topographically, racially, linguistically, economically, etc. It is essential that the full spectrum of voters’ voices are represented in lawmaking, and you have been elected, in part, to protect the interests of the people and the democratic principles of this country.

I urge you to reflect upon Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The map under House Bill 4 “packs” certain voters of color into a handful of districts, and “cracks” the remaining voters of color between other districts, effectively diluting their collective voting power. It is unconstitutional for a vote in one district to have less of an impact on the outcome of an election than a vote in another district because of the way districts have been strategically drawn.

Please vote NO on House Bill 4, and protect the interests of your constituents as well as your constitutional and legal obligations.

Sincerely,

Cheshta Bajaj

Lacy Male
Self, Public Health Nurse
El Paso, TX

This attempt at redrawing maps mid-decade is illegal and unethical and wrong. Members of the Texas Stste Legislatire work for TEXANS and are not at the beck and call of the federal government. All the districts being targeted are minority-majority districts, and this attempt to to gain five additional House seats for Congressional Republicans, was prompted by Trump’s demand for strengthened control of the House of Representatives.

Texas is still reeling from the July floods. The special session should be focused on disaster prevention and relief, rather than mid-decade gerrymandering. Texas already disenfranchises minorities: 95% of the growth in 2020 came from minorities, yet the Legislature reduced the number of districts representing minorities. It makes no sense to redistrict while we still have pending lawsuits from the 2021 maps. Texas Republicans in the legislature and executive branches have argued in sworn testimony that those maps are legal, and those same Republicans are now arguing that the same maps are illegal and urgently in need of redrawing.

This is such a disingenuous and fake problem. You cannot have it both ways. Texans deserve representation from their elected officials. I live in El Paso—my representative should NOT be someone who lives in San Antonio and has never been here and will never be here. We deserve better than officials who openly hope to gerrymander districts in an attempt to retain their power because they’re too scared of people’s dislike of their unpopular bills.

Shenkwia Jones
Self
Fort Worth, TX

The redistricting of the Texas congressional map is one that is not a fair representation of our state. We the people want to have representation that represents all Texans. All Texans should have a voice when voting season is at hand. Why are we suppressing or diluting so many voices in our great state?

Chantal Perry
Self
Austin, TX

What is happening here goes against our American values. Republicans are trying to seize power anyway they can. They are trying to take away our rights and destroy our democracy. This is unconstitutional, it's illegal and it's disgraceful. This country is turning into a place that I don't even recognize. Republican are destroying our country and redistricting is one more way for them to take away our rights as American. They need to be stopped. Please think very hard about what is happening here and what kind of country you want to live in…because I don't want to live in Russia or China for a good reason. Republicans, Trump and his administration are heading us into an authoritarian government that no one in power seems to want to stand up against, outside of a few dems. I don't want to live in this country the way it is heading. I want our democracy back. Rejecting this bill is a small step towards giving the power back to the people. Please rejected this. If you don't, our democracy is over. It just doesn't exist anymore if people in power continue to take away our constitutional rights. No kings! No oligarchs! No authoritarians! Bring back the country my mother, my mother's parents and I were born and raised in. Just an aside, what is happening to the immigrants in this country is disgusting. Any TRUE Christian would know that and live by their Christian values to love thy neighbor. It's truly terrifying what is happening, at the hands of Trump, Miller, the cosplay girl whose name evades me and ICE, to our migrant population. If you want to solve the issue around undocumented persons in this country, reform our immigration laws. We are not concentration camp people. The cruelty and clear racism against brown and black people in this country needs to end.

Robin Downing
True Texas Project
Bedford, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

linda fogg
self
Houston, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting work and the map proposed. It reduces minority representation when the number of minorities has increased in the state. It violates the Voting Rights Act and is racist.

DAVID Wald, Mr.
Self, Retired
Houston, TX

There is no need for Congressional redistricting at this time. It may be appropriate following the 2030 Census.

Mary-Catherine Breed
Self
Houston, TX

I am strongly opposed to the redistricting and gerrymandering in this bill. It is a blatant attempt the subvert the will of Texans. We will not forget and other states will retaliate. You've already taken so much from us, your constituents. Please stop.

Mary Catherine Holcomb
Self.
Houston, TX

This is CORRUPT beyond measure. Do NOT let this proceed.

Keith Kisser
Self, librarian
Poteet, TX

This bill is a disgrace and an obvious power grab that will further diminish the voices of many Texans in their own government. It should be scrapped and the authors censured for attempting to subvert democracy.

Lauren Kusnierz
Self
Dallas, TX

I am extremely disappointed to see this special session devoting energy to redistricting when we, as a state have no more pressing concerns. Stop pandering to fringe groups and focus on the work Texans needs. Redistricting doesn't serve Texans. Focus your energies on issues like flood relief and better disaster management.

Elizabeth Demarest
Self
Austin, TX

This should absolutely not happen!

Annie Livingston
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting of Texas especially with the new map. All Texans want a voice in elections!

Morgan Wilson
Self
Houston, TX

This is racist. You know what you're doing. We know what you're doing. Stop it.

Makenzie Castongue
Self
Austin, TX

Against. District maps should be fair for all Texans, made with transparency, public input, and fair representation. We deserve a process that is transparent and accessible. I demand the legislature draw maps that are maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state, without bias of political agenda.

Angel vega
Self
Manor, TX

We should not redistrict the map. It is unfair in representation, limits the voices of citizens and goes against the established timeline for when redistricting.

This is taxation without representation and an example of how we started. Voices not heard, taxed, no support or resources from the taxation, and no ability to do anything but rebel.

We need our representatives to have a backbone and stand up for their constituents and do what is right by the law on what our country was founded on and what the public has demanded.

Nicole Zachary
Self
Houston, TX

As a constituent of district 18, I am appalled at how we currently do not have representation in congress. Moreover, redistributing us to other districts to remove our current seats is a gross overstepping of power. Trying to hurt your political opponents by making the people of this state bear the load of no longer being in a district that actually represents them is cowardly. Do not redistrict us! We deserve to have our votes counted properly and not thrown together as a statistic so that conservatives can make a showing of “owning the libs” or some other ridiculous political stunt that shows that you care not for the people and only care instead about preserving your power.

Stephanie Blakeman, Mrs
Self
Mckinney, TX

We do not need this bill or want this bill!! This is all about partisan politics and keeps voters from exercising their power! This is ridiculous and racist! Texans do not want this bill!! Stop!

Amaris Faith, Miss
Self retired
Gun Barrel City, TX

Please Pass This Bill!

Ruhiyyih Bell, Mrs.
Self - stay at home parent
Austin, TX

There is no legitimate reason for redistricting Texas at this time. It is your job to serve the people of Texas, not the President. Please do the right thing and let voters select their leaders.

Stephanie A
Self - 911 dispatcher
Dallas, TX

The new maps are awful and not a reflection of Texas at all. Why do Republicans feel the need to lie, cheat, and steal their way instead of winning on fair terms? You're on the wrong side of history and it shows you want things to go backwards. It's too late and at the rate we're going, our spineless politicians are going to burn Texas to the ground to prove a point. I've lived in Texas all my life, born and raised, and I am so insanely disappointed. If it continues to worsen being in this state, we're going to lose everything we hold dear. The redistricting is merely fueled by racism and hate, to disenfranchise and silence voices like mine that they just don't want to hear. You don't want to play fair, you just want to be bullies.

Darlene Davenport
Self/Retired
Houston, TX

I am opposed to the biased, unlawful, unconstitutional, unconstitutional, immoral, illegal plan to redraw the lines so that black and brown communities don't have a voice. That is not the right way or right thing to do. Everyone, every citizen is entitled to be heard.
I oppose this plan and stand with those against it.

Jenna Tan
self / engineer
Austin, TX

I do not support this new redistricting map. This change to the Texas congressional map is a blatant example of gerrymandering initiated by the president and Texas Republican congressional members following in line. At the end of day, every state has citizens across the political spectrum, and intentionally changing the map to only favor the Republican party with no justification other than the presidential mandate (which is not coming from the people) is injust. How does it make sense that Austin and surrounding areas will be carved up and sharing representation with cities as far as Odessa? This redistricting prioritizes keeping Republican power in Texas (and U.S. Congress) over actually representing the people, which is simply wrong.

Maria Delauter
Self/Caregiver
San Antonio, TX

Please STOP this racist gerrymandering. STOP being a hand puppet to Trump and serve the People that elected you into office. Do right for All the People of Texas.

Victoria Pina
Self
Kingsville, TX

This is ridiculous and a waste of time. People in the state actively need help, even not taking into account the awful flood that happened in Kerrville, but here the government is, focusing on issues that only serves themselves.

Myra McNellie, Retired teacher
Self retired teacher
Nacogdoches, TX

Dear Legislators,
Thank you for work. We appreciate your efforts. Please do not waste your time and effort to change voting districts. The map is freaky and the cause of silencing the voices if some of your constituents is concerning. Please do not be a part of rigged elections. Thank you.

Rebecca Clark
Self-Teacher
Houston, TX

I oppose the redistricting effort. This is an illegal power grab that will strip the voting representation of many people. This is an obvious power grab by Republicans that will disenfranchise many people and leave them without proper representation. Republicans do not represent the best interest of the people in the 5 districts that are being redistricted. We will do everything in our power to vote out those that support this in November and beyond. We are not going to let you destroy our democracy without a fight at the ballot box.

Johnson Varghese, Dr.
self
Corinth, TX

I respectfully submit this statement for the record in opposition to the proposed redistricting plan currently under consideration by the Texas Legislature.

This bill, as currently drawn, is a blatant example of partisan gerrymandering that undermines the democratic principles upon which our state and nation are founded. Instead of promoting fair and equitable representation, the proposed maps entrench political power at the expense of communities of color, urban populations, and competitive districts.

The proposed maps fragment communities of color across multiple districts, diluting their collective voice and violating the spirit—if not the letter—of the Voting Rights Act. This is particularly egregious given that population growth in Texas over the past decade has been driven almost entirely by communities of color.

The process has lacked meaningful public engagement. Community members were given little notice, limited opportunity to testify, and insufficient time to analyze how the changes would affect their representation. The rushed nature of this bill erodes public trust.

The maps prioritize incumbent and partisan protection rather than ensuring fair and competitive elections. Gerrymandering like this entrenches political power and discourages civic participation by making voters feel like their voices do not matter.

Redistricting should reflect population shifts and ensure that every Texan’s vote carries equal weight. This proposal fails to achieve that, instead favoring specific partisan interests over constitutional fairness.

This redistricting plan does not reflect the will or the makeup of the people of Texas. I urge lawmakers to reject [HB Number] and instead pursue a redistricting process that is nonpartisan, transparent, and equitable, guided by the principle that voters should choose their representatives—not the other way around.

Barbara Adams
self/retired
Roanoke, TX

You should be ashamed of yourself for attempting to gerrymander again. People in this state need to have their voices heard.

Maria Rodriguez
Self
Hurst, TX

Stop doing this for your own personal gains. Us Texans don’t need more gerrymandering. We need more representation of ALL of Texans. We will remember this and everything you’ve done come the 2026 elections.

Penny Weibly
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting as blatant gerrymandering and a power grab by that Trump administration that will silence the voices of Democrats. We are a diverse and great state. Please don't allow this absurd redistricting.

Stacey J, Pissed Off
Self
Austin, TX

I urge the Congressional Republicans to stop cheating by redistricting the Texas maps. It’s the only way Republicans think they can win an election is to cheat! STOP IT! Also, Greg Abbott is a puppet to Donald Trump just as Donald Trump is a puppet to Putin. Stop acting like a bunch of Nazis with your fascist acts and start helping the citizens in Texas. You are the most corrupt government next to those in the White House. Texans deserve better! I have and I will continue to vote against each and every one of you fascist Republikkkan cheaters.

Patricia Hartman
Self
Belton, TX

I am asking our Representatives to vote NOT to realign the current (gerrymandered) districts. Not only will this confirm the biased reputation of Texas, it will also set off many other states doing the same thing. We are NOT children who kick, scream and cry, when we don't get our way! Reece needs to represent ALL constituents of ALL economic backgrounds! Stand up to the Facismn and the Gerrymandering going on in our state!!

Lanette Aguero
Self, educator
Fort Worth, TX

I am opposed to Congressional redistricting. It is undemocratic and should be done following a census like usual.

Xavier Fonseca
Self
Corpus Christi, TX

My wife and I are against any redistricting in Texas at this time. It's especially concerning that the proposed changes are based on racial boundaries, so people of color are being divided while increasing whites in the districts. Our Representatives must not help Trump achieve his racist agenda!

Micaela Uriegas
Mysslf
Austin, TX

I vehemently oppose any and all redistricting efforts that the corrupt federal government asked our corrupt state government to do. Black and Brown people are already underrepresented in congress and this heinous act will only make it worse. See you in court.

Christina Boston
Self
Tomball, TX

I am adamantly opposed to the grossly unfair re-districting of our state. Don’t mess with Texas!!!

Christopher Savory
self
Pflugerville, TX

This is a blatant power grab by DJT and his cronies in the Texas leg & governor’s office. How about the republicans stand on the merits of their policies instead of trying to rig elections.

Marie Facini
Self, business professional
Dallas, TX

While gerrymandering is not new, these newly drawn district maps set a troubling and unprecedented standard — and represent a clear violation of the Voting Rights Act. Community begins with the neighborhoods around us. We share local needs, challenges, and priorities that cannot be meaningfully addressed when a single proposed district stretches across vastly different regions — like parts of Dallas extending more than three hours away to Callahan County.

Or, to use another analogy: the H-E-B in Frisco doesn't stock exactly the same goods as the H-E-B in Austin. Why? Because the needs of each community differ. Representation should work the same way: rooted in place, responsive to real people, and tailored to local realities.

If the party advancing these maps truly believed their policies reflected the will of most Texans, they wouldn't need to rely on such extreme tactics. The real path to winning more seats lies in developing bipartisan, centrist legislation that reflects the core value Texans hold most dear: freedom. That will build more trust and lasting support across communities. Thank you.

Jennifer Herbert
Self
Garland, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting changes. We need maps that truly reflect all Texans and not ones that are created to benefit a particular party.

Jenna Jabara
Self - Attorney
DALLAS, TX

I oppose the redistricting as currently proposed because it is clear gerrymandering and an attempt by a party in power to maintain control. Moreover, it has been pushed upon Texans by those outside our state and is contrary to the will of the voters. Our state leadership is spending time on politics when they should be focusing on things like a response to our recent floods,

Bailey Williams
Self
Kyle, TX

I live in Hays county, Kyle to be specific. I don't know think that if someone is elected in Matagorda they can represent the best interest of those in this area. And just the opposite, how can someone from Kyle be able to represent the interests of the folks in Matagorda. The lines do not need to be redrawn! You just did this in 2021!

Stephanie Vandine
Self
Lufkin, TX

I encourage our elected officials to vote in the best interest of Texas and not bend the knee to politicians in Washington who have no care for us. This proposed redistricting map further marginalizes already marginalized communities, silences voters of color, and is illegal voter suppression. It is intentional discrimination and deeply undemocratic. SHAME ON YOU.

Anna Ramshaw
Self, unemployed
Sugar Land, TX

I am writing as a concerned citizen and former teacher. Redistricting with an aim to increase the number of Republicans in Texas is disingenuous and should be illegal. My district is already horribly gerrymandered, and though my city voted for Kamala Harris for president in 2024, my district stretches to conservative counties that have limited common issues with my city. I have neighbors less than three miles away who are no longer in my district.

Since Republicans in Washington D.C. have shown little regard for the common American by voting for tax cuts to millionaires and billionaires by cutting programs to feed abd provide medical care to children, the elderly, the disabled, and veterans, I don't see the interest in sending more Republicans to Congress if this is what they choose to do.

EM Branagh
self
Austin, TX

OPPOSED! The League of Women Voters said it best:
Here's what's wrong:
Racial gerrymandering is being used to silence communities of color.
Hearings are announced with minimal notice.
Proposed maps are released just hours before public testimony.
Private D.C. lawyers are advising lawmakers behind closed doors.

I'd add that this bill is purely POLITICAL in nature and in response to the siren cry of the President and NOT in the interest of your TEXAS constituents. It is truly disheartening that our ELECTED officials are spending their time not on issues that matter to TEXANS but rather that serve their political aspirations. Texas claims to be pro-life but is the 2nd-worst state for children's health care, highest share of uninsured children. Texas has a food insecurity rate of 17.6%, with 5.4 million people (1 in 6) facing hunger, up from 16.4% in 2022. Texas has a child food insecurity rate of 22.2%, with 1,673,600 children (1 in 5) facing hunger, down from 22.8% in 2022.
The DFW area continues to have the third-highest number of people facing hunger in the nation, with a food insecurity rate of 15.7%, up from 14.3% in 2022.
All of this in light of a background of the destruction of the tragic floods where the state gov't seeks to blame local officials who (gasp!) were asleep at 3am just like their constituents or (gasp!) were away for the holiday weekend (Cruz in Greece, anyone?)
Do your jobs! Focus on what can truly help Texas! We did not elect you to blatantly serve the President and your party, we elected you to serve we, the People.

Joanne McGee, Dr.
Self Retired Psychologist
Wimberley, TX

As representatives of ALL the people of the state of Texas, please oppose HB 4 which is a power grab for extremists who are removed from our state. It is at the expense of those in our state with varied needs and beliefs and perpetuates a shameful part of our history which silences citizens based on race. Our state is diverse and the voices of all our citizens should be heard—it is the basis if our democracy and enshrined in our constitution.

Gloria Quesada
Self
Round Rock, TX

HB 4 I am opposition of the redistricting of our state. There is no reason to enact the creation of new districts. There is no new census data. Republicans are attempting to destroy minority representation through gerrymandering. The minority citizens of Texas are no longer being represented from previous gerrymandering in 2021. Changing the laws for white nationalist to increase control is a crime against the citizens of Texas.

Nicole Watkins
Self / store manager
Austin, TX

These redistricting plans equate to tyranny in our state. This is not in the best interest of the people of Texas, nor does it provide for democratic selection. I am disgusted that our state government is capitulating to Trump rather than focusing on and doing right by its citizens.

One party rule is not democracy and the plans illustrated in this bill would ensure it.

I object to this bill, and find it repulsive that the GOP has sunk so low and has no interest in representing the people who live here in a fair and democratic manner.

You need to focus on the real issues that real Texans are facing, not this divisive garbage that only serves an oppressive national agenda.

Cindy Stohr
Self, teacher
New Braunfels, TX

The blatant attempt by the current administration to cheat their way to keeping dangerous and unpopular policies that the majority of people have spoken out against by manipulating Texas representatives to cheat their way to tipped scales will be a blight on Texas if successful. You are elected to work for ALL Texans, not to be a pawn to an administration with policies so terrible they cannot uphold them without cheating. You were elected to represent Texans, and the fact that this is even happening is a clear indication that your constituents do NOT want these policies.

courtney miller
Self - lawyer
Fort Worth, TX

This isn't redistricting - it is apartheid. Shame on the Republicans for cowtowing to Trump and changing the map to silence minority voices, instead of working for towards solutions to help their constituents. Their only concern is power, not representation.

Robert Sciortino
Self
Austin, TX

This redistricting bill is ludicrous and gerrymandering. Please, reject this bill. The citizens of the state of Texas do not need more gerrymandering. Elections should be treated fairly on both sides of the political spectrum. One vote should equal one vote. This redistricting completely shameful and is an attempt to disenfranchise millions of voters. Please reject this bill and others like it. It is immoral and unfair.

Barbara Ribble
Self - Retired
Austin, TX

Please do your duty and represent all the people of Texas. To gerrymander is un-Americann. Government should be of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Rebecca Weitzenhoffer
self / none
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting bill. This is not the time for it. Stop cheating.

Katharine Cline
self
Austin, TX

As a long-time Texan and citizen of Austin, I am deeply concerned about this redistricting proposal. I have experienced the frustration of being lumped together with distant areas, instead of with the citizens that are closest to me and share the same interests and concerns. Instead of making districts more representative of the interests of all Texans, this map blatantly redraws lines for specific party interests. It disenfranchises people of color and citizens of Texas' largest cities. In order to continue to be an attractive place for people to move and work, we must make sure that the voices of all Texans are represented fairly. Our history of partisan gerrymandering is taking away the power and voices of the people and we must not continue with this most egregious next step. As a concerned citizen, I implore you to vote against this redistricting proposal and to pursue non-partisan redistricting plans that allow all Texans to be fairly heard and represented. Thank you.

DEANNA MALDONADO-ROCHA
Deanna For District 3
EL PASO, TX

Submitted Testimony
Deanna Maldonado-Rocha
City Council Member District 3
El Paso, Texas
Date: August 1, 2025
To: Honorable Members of the Redistricting Committee
Subject: Testimony in Opposition to Proposed Congressional Redistricting Impacting El Paso, Texas
Dear Committee Members,
Thank you for the opportunity to submit this testimony for your consideration. My name is Deanna Maldonado-Rocha, and I am a proud City Council member in El Paso, Texas. I deeply appreciate the important work you do and the time you have taken to review community feedback.
I am writing today to respectfully express my concerns regarding the proposed congressional redistricting that would significantly affect key institutions in our region.
El Paso is proudly known as the Veterans Capital of the USA. Our identity is closely tied to Fort Bliss, our VA medical center, and El Paso International Airport. These are not just physical assets—they are lifelines for our economy, our culture, and most importantly, our people.
Fort Bliss and the VA center serve thousands of military families and veterans, and they provide essential jobs in healthcare and support services. El Paso International Airport drives commerce, connectivity, and tourism. Shifting these crucial entities out of a district with local representation risks weakening the advocacy they deserve.
Our community’s future depends on leadership that lives here, works here, and understands our needs. Local representation ensures timely, informed decisions that reflect the realities on the ground.
I respectfully urge the committee to vote no on the proposed redistricting and to preserve the integrity of El Paso’s congressional representation.
Thank you for your time and thoughtful consideration.
Sincerely,
Deanna Maldonado-Rocha
City Council Member
El Paso, Texas

Allie Soileau
Self, Attorney
Austin, TX

This is a clear attempt at gerrymandering and stripping citizens of representation. This disgusting and undemocratic move should be blocked at every possible turn.

Jennifer Castillo
Self/Teacher
Austin, TX

This is gerrymandering and effectively silencing the voice of voters. This is America, a democracy. Let’s please keep it that way by ensuring equity with voting.

Donna Dove
self
AUSTIN, TX

I ,as a Texan and USA citizen do not want this useless redistircting. The time wasted to change already established and decided upon districts. Maybe use some of the time you will save to help the flood survivors.

Yvonne and Michael Tarango self and spouse retired
El Paso, TX

Re drawing the map to exclude our vote is against the U.S, Constitution and this should not be allowed. Our state reps and senators should do everything in their power to protest and walk out. It is so obvious so to what the Republicans are doing and shameful that they are afraid of the out come of the next elections.

Gabrielle Donley
Self
Arlington, TX

This redistricting map is a blatant disregard for the cultural makeup of the state of Texas. Civil liberties are being stripped when the voices of the constituents aren't represented by their legislative bodies. This map is a slight to democracy everywhere and reignites the embers of racism within this country. Vote NO on redistricting

Liz Belile, Ms
Self-data labeling analyst 3
Austin, TX

This bill is an outrage. I have already spent too many years in Texas without real representation (former constituent of Michael McCaul) to be silent now. I loathe the polarization of our current political system and society. This will only make it worse. I’m also disappointed that any Texas politician feels the need to obey a corrupt administration in Washington DC. Put our families and children first. Stop disenfranchising hard-working, tax paying Texans by taking draconian measures to carve up our voting districts. Fix the flood zones now!

Brooke Donohue
self
Houston, TX

As a lifelong Texan, a parent of elementary-aged children, and an advocate for the Alzheimer's Association who has visited the capitol to advocate for programs and funding, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Linda Gladden
Self
Austin, TX

It appears that some of our elected officials in Texas have lost their moral compass. Gerrymandering is wrong, and I am disappointed that some of our Texas elected officials are bowing to national political pressure. If President Trump is concerned about losing the election unless he manipulates the districts, he needs to examine why this might be the case. I have always been a Republican, but the values that are currently being exhibited make me question my political choice.

Laura Ramirez-Mann
Self
Buda, TX

Come and Take it! This is Texas, a state known for its defiant spirit, yet it appears to be ceding ground to what I view as an unprecedented power grab through redistricting. As a Texan, a woman, and a Latina, am deeply troubled by what perceive as attempts by Republican politicians to diminish my voice and the voices of others. While my current residence is not yet directly impacted by Governor Abbott's proposed redistricting, am gravely concerned that my community will be next if we do not challenge these actions, which believe are undemocratic, illegal, and discriminatory.

Max White
Self
Austin, TX

As a lifelong Texan, I am completely AGAINST this redistricting power grab.

This is such an obvious attempt to fix the election and we do NOT SUPPORT these actions.

Leave the DISTRICT lines as is— it’s a midterm election and it is not appropriate to do this!

Bready Johnston
Self - supply chain professional
Dallas, TX

I am writing this to let you know that I moved to Texas in an attempt to get away from federal government overreach. This attempt to re-district Texas would be defined as federal government overreach and is meant to skip the due process in order to consolidate power. I think most people would agree that the federal government ought to keep their hands off of Texas. The state is already Republican so the re-districting is not necessary.

Maggie Hendrix
Self/teachee
Arlington, TX

We cannot allow this fascist regime to take over Texas. We have no new census data and no new need to redistrict. The current districts are already racist and proof of gerrymandering. This will hurt the people of Texas, who are represented by the people on this committee. Make the right choice.

Denise Kotrla
self
Austin, TX

I oppose the proposed redistricting map as it is a blatant attempt at gerrymandering at Trump’s request.
This gerrymandered map will: result in local congressional offices being shut, tariffs to the working people on items such as produce & automobiles, increase ACA premiums by 75%(!), and will concentrate all power in the hands of Trump, bringing us closer to an autocracy, NOT a democracy. These are not the principles our nation was founded on. We were created as a democracy, and we must fight to remain a democracy for the people, & by the people.

Sadie Simmons
Self photographer
Benbrook, TX

I am AGAINST this bill undeniably, redistricting like this is a blatant show of racism and a complete power grab. I don’t know how it’s even on the table as a possibility, please use some logic here and do not do this.

Teri Pisciotta
Self
El Paso, TX

El Paso County is one of the fastest-growing counties in Texas. I strongly oppose the redistricting effort, even though I am a registered Republican. Stripping our county of resources and representation to our veterans, both active and non-active, as well as the airport, is offensive. People in our county need to be represented by someone who lives with us and understands our needs. The ability to gain power and strengthen a political party is one reason I have lost faith in our representation system. Please DO NOT approve this bill.

John Onderdonk
All Texans
San Antonio, TX

Redistricting should only be done after each census. This bill is a blatant move to undermine Democracy by the current administration and the Republicans. This action will result in a new paradigm that will, in the years to come, needlessly complicate and undermine the entire democratic process. I urge the Texas Legislature, for democracy's sake, do the right thing and reject this bill in it's entirety

Ana Rubalcava, Ms.
Self
Buda, TX

This proposal by the governor disenfranchises many voters and we demand that our votes count and not be gerrymandered out. All Texans should have equal representation.

David Booyer
self
San Antonio, TX

Honorable House Commitee Members: It appears clear that the purpose of this bill is to provide for a one party control of the government at the exclusion of the representation possibilities for citizens living in certain parts of our state and who also may be members of National minority groups,ie: Hispanic and African American. I am opposed to such a redistricting plan and demand you should vote against this bill.

Ronald DiPronio
self
Austin, TX

This is a ridiculous and wasteful exercise. If the only way the GOP can win elections is by cheating, then the GOP does NOT deserve to represent Texans at all!

Brandi Conover
Self
Lakehills, TX

Please redistrict to get 5 more Republican seats.

Elliot Trester, Dr.
Self. Physician
Austin, TX

As a citizen of Texas, and the United States of America, I try to fulfill my public service responsibility. As a family doctor, I spend a day during legislative sessions volunteering at the Capitol first aid station. I beseech the senators and representatives to do their public duty and not change configurations in the middle of a decade, when census information is old. We should have just, not gerrymandered, political divisions to give us all equitable power. Changing the rules in the middle of the game is not fair, besides being in this case racist. Let our legislators make up their own minds. This is not the time to do redistricting. Are our senators and representatives going to cave in to the bullying of our President?

Paul Sartory self/chef
San Antonio, TX

How dare you. You're gloating now but come midterms more people against this grab for power will come out to vote than you ever imagined. Good luck with this illegitimate and greedy redistricting. It is going to come back and bite you in the ass.

Jose Madrigal
Self
Houston, TX

I am totally against this bill which will only benefit Republicans. This bill is silencing the way I want to vote.

Karen Williams
AFT
Austin, TX

How dare you gerrymander Texas voting?! You just rewrote the map a few years ago. Redistricting happens when the Census is taken & population increases. NOT because Donald Trump wants it! Is he a dictator or the Pres? The Executive Branch is only 1 of 3 Equal branches. Stop turning h into a king & destroying our democracy!

Christine Riley, Miss self, registered nurse (RN)
Austin, TX

I am a private citizen residing in Austin, Texas. I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 4.

This bill is not about fair representation — it is a power grab, plain and simple. It prioritizes political control over the voices and needs of everyday Texans. Our democracy only works when our representatives act independently, with integrity, and in the best interest of the people — not as puppets for party leaders or national political figures.

There is no legitimate reason to redraw district maps at this time. We are not under any new Census mandate, and there is no court order requiring redistricting. The timing and approach of HB 4 make it clear: this is a political maneuver, not a public necessity.

Even more concerning is that this bill is being rushed through a special session, bypassing meaningful public input and transparency. That’s not how representative government should work. Texans deserve districts that reflect the real, diverse makeup of our communities — not lines drawn to preserve power or silence certain voices.

I urge you to stop and actually listen to your constituents. Do not allow yourselves to be used as tools for short-term political gain. We are watching, and we expect better.

Jill Walker
Self
Austin, TX

Let’s call this what it is: an overt, unconstitutional attempt to silence Black and Brown voters and eliminate their elected Democratic representation. These maps don’t reflect the people of Texas — they reflect fear. Fear of a changing electorate. Fear of accountability. And fear of the truth: that representation in this state is meant to serve all Texans, not just the politically convenient ones.
But the deeper issue isn’t just the maps. It’s the silence. It’s the complicity. It’s the fact that Republicans in this chamber — elected by the people of Texas — are refusing to stand up to a president who is dismantling democracy in broad daylight. Project 2025 is not some harmless policy plan — it is a blueprint for authoritarian control. It guts the checks and balances that protect all of us, no matter our party. It calls for mass firings, centralization of power, and open disregard for the Constitution. And let’s be clear: it is overwhelmingly unpopular across the political spectrum.
And yet, not one word of resistance from many of you. Not one act of courage to protect your constituents from this power grab. By refusing to hold President Trump accountable, you are no longer representing the people who voted for you. You are representing him.
And if you're struggling with where you stand, I ask you to pause and consider — What Would Jesus Do? Because Jesus never supported choosing power over the needs and voices of others. He stood with the marginalized, not the mighty. He called out injustice, even when it was dangerous to do so.
This moment demands more than party loyalty. It demands moral clarity. You were elected to serve the people of Texas — not to rubber-stamp a president’s authoritarian playbook.
I urge you: reject these maps. Reject complicity. Stand for democracy — while we still have it.

Scott Herrmann
Self
Rockwall, TX

I am IN SUPPORT of the redistricting map PlanC2308. We need to ensure that the Texas population is accurately represented and not over inflated due to the previous administrations inerrant handling of the border. Redistricting to align with the actual population is needed for our government to align with the will of the people.

Rebecca Miller
self
Dripping Springs, TX

I am deeply concerned about the ongoing practice of gerrymandering in our state and its harmful effects on our democratic process. As a constituent and an engaged citizen, I believe it is essential that every voter’s voice is heard equally and that our elections remain fair, transparent, and representative of the people. To do otherwise is unfair, irresponsible, and unethical, as it undermines the core principles of democracy by manipulating electoral boundaries for partisan gain. This practice skews representation, dilutes voter power, and ultimately distorts the true will of the people. It is not only an injustice to the voters in affected districts but also to the integrity of our entire electoral system. It undermines the public's faith in what we believed was a democratic government, so it is vital that we restore that faith in our electoral system by ensuring that district boundaries reflect the true will of the people, not the interests of a few.

As my representative, I strongly encourage you to stand for fairness and democracy by supporting meaningful redistricting reforms. I strongly encourage you to resist the manipulations and the pressures coming from Gov Abbot an President Trump.

Thank you for your attention to this important issue. I trust you will do everything in your power to ensure that our elections remain free, fair, and representative of all Texans and Americans.

Brant Stead
Self
Austin, TX

I am firmly against and do not support this bill for restructuring. The state already does not accurately represent the inhabitants and their interests and the gerrymandering to support on party over the other has to stop.

Daniel Fernandez
self
CORINTH, TX

I respectfully urge you to vote NO to HB4 and to any redistricting of our state until the next census. The future implications of this action will be felt by all Texans. Not only is it unfair and strips Texans to their right to representation, it will also put the economic future of our state at risk. We will continue to have professionals and corporations move out of Texas based on the rights that have already been lost and the ones that the people continue to lose. The optics of this are detrimental and makes us appear as followers. There is additional scrutiny since the Epstein scandal and as Texans we should do all we can to ensure we distance ourselves from immoral influence. Thank you.

VALERIE HAUSS-SMITH
self
Irving, TX

How is it possible that this redistricting is SOOOOO urgent right now? How about we take care of the actual problems plaguing Texas like the flooding damage, the flooding prevention system. I totally oppose this bill as it smacks of partisan politics and is aimed at dividing our constituants even further. NO to this bill!

M Hernandez
self
Eagle Pass, TX

The proposal to redistrict Maverick County in the newly introduced Texas House bill raises serious concerns for the residents of the county, particularly regarding fair representation, cultural integrity, and access to resources.

First, redistricting Maverick County could dilute the political power and voice of a predominantly Hispanic community. Maverick County, whose county seat is Eagle Pass, has a unique demographic makeup and voting history that reflects specific community interests and needs. By merging it with districts that do not share these same priorities or cultural identity, residents risk being represented by officials who are unfamiliar with or indifferent to their local challenges. This weakens their influence in policy decisions affecting education, healthcare, infrastructure, and immigration-related concerns at the border.

Second, redistricting could disrupt the continuity of leadership. Maverick County's elected officials are often deeply rooted in the community and possess firsthand understanding of its struggles. Redrawing lines may force constituents into districts with new leadership that lacks historical context or vested interest in Maverick's development, undermining ongoing projects and reducing accountability.

Third, this proposal may be seen as an example of gerrymandering—altering district lines for political advantage. Such actions erode public trust in the democratic process. If Maverick County is carved out of a district where it has common cultural, social, and economic ties, and placed into one where it becomes a political outlier, it will reduce residents' ability to elect candidates who truly represent their values and needs.

Lastly, changes to representation may lead to funding disparities. State and federal funds are often allocated based on district-wide statistics and influence. If Maverick County is lumped into a district with more urban or distant rural counties, its distinct border-related issues could be overshadowed, leading to underfunding in key areas such as public safety, border infrastructure, and public education.

In short, this redistricting proposal threatens to silence the voice of Maverick County residents, reduce effective representation, and compromise the allocation of critical resources. Instead of fostering unity and equitable representation, it risks marginalizing a border community with a rich cultural identity and specific policy needs.

Gabriella Goens
Self
Fort Worth, TX

As a concerned citizen, my household strongly opposes the redistricting of Texas. Please vote AGAINST this proposition!

Peter Comer
Self
Austin, TX

Fight the Trump Takeover & Reject this Corrupt Redistricting Process! Texas is being used as a testing ground for the next wave of Trump-style politics — even more extreme, divisive, and dangerous — but it shouldn't be. It's time to remind our leaders that Texans deserve fair maps and real solutions. A new gerrymandered, racist, corrupt congressional district map just dropped, and the Texas House Select Committee on Redistricting will have a public hearing on this map on Friday, Aug. 1. Governor Abbott is using the special session to push Trump's political agenda rather than addressing the real crises Texans are facing.

Claire Flores, Ms.
Self, Nurse
Dallas, TX

This is a racist redistricting scheme targeting communities of color, redrawing lines to silence Black and Brown voters and strip political power from the leaders we elected.

Heather Hartline-Grafton
Self, nutrition policy consultant
Spring, TX

I am disappointed and urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. Not only is this bill being quietly rushed through the process, but it is a proposal to silence voters, especially in communities of color. To make matters even worse, it is a politically motivated bill to win the favor of the current president, which is, quite frankly, pathetic. The GOP claims to care about election integrity. Many even have made false claims about rigged elections. This gerrymandering effort seems a lot like gaming the system and cheating - where is the integrity in that? This bill is not in the best interests of Texans. Do better.

Jacqueline Lousier Austin, Ms
None
San Antonio, Texas, TX

"As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Bexar County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation."

Laura Mavericl
self
Austin, TX

Hello! I am in a district being touched by this redistricting. This will make the state of Texas even LESS representative of the people that live here. This is a terrible shame for our state and I hope this will be voted down. It is sad to see our state government so scared of Trump. I expected better from Texas

Jessica Deany
Self, educator
Fairview, TX

I'm concerned about this redistricting and the partisan gains it represents, as well as a lack of fair representation. I'm 100% against this bill.

Josh Posey
Self
Waller, TX

I am for

Matthew Cliff
Self / artist
Benbrook, TX

I am against the mid decade redistrcting of Texas. It is unethical and is a power grab on behalf of a weak president and his weak cronies to silence the voices of Texans especially in minority communities. I am disgusted by this and will not stand for it.

Stephanie Flores
Self
Arlington, TX

Please do not do this redistricting. It is clearly cheating. Even children can recognize this re districting for what it is. Winning should be sought after with policies that people approve of, not with gerrymandering.

Kimiko Gordon
Self
Austin, TX

I am extremely opposed to the gerrymandering redistricting map. It is unfair and takes the voices away from primarily Black and Latino voters and communities. It is also not a census year, so it is unconstitutional and unnecessary. Please do not do this redistricting. Thank you.

Cassandra Bongiovanni
Self
Round Rock, TX

This is a ridiculous political grab, and districts should make sense geographically, not politically. I do not condone this bill and do not think our representatives should be wasting their time on these efforts instead of helping the people who put them in office (re. Flooding victims, energy infrastructure, traffic, etc.)

Mary Keenan, Rev.
self
Austin, TX

As a person of faith, I am opposed to redistricting for two reasons:
1) Racial justice: Redistricting according to the proposed map I have seen will intentionally weaken the political voice and representation of Black and Latino communities, particularly in areas like Houston and Dallas. It will limit the ability of minority communities to elect representatives who advocate for their interests. I urge the Legislature to create and maintain fair and equitable representation for all Texans.
2) Community interest: Recent efforts at redistricting in Texas and nationally have tended to create districts that promote the interests of a political party above the interests of the people in those districts. So, for instance, district lines split communities that have a common interest based on economic, geographic, educational, social, and community commonalities. Or the lines might link communities that have disparate interests. I favor districts that allow communities to elect representatives that can address their specific needs.

Joshua Skrobarczyk
Self - Film / TV Grip
Austin, TX

I recommend No vote on this redistricting effort. Texas is already not proportionally represented and this bill serves to simply further gerrymander our state for partisan gain. The objective should be an actual representative democracy, in which everyone has a voice representing their viewpoint, this bill is the opposite.

Beth McLaughlin
self small buiness onwer
Houston, TX

Whether I'm a Republican, Democrat, or undecided, I DESERVE TO BE REPRESENTED. Texas is already gerrymandered beyond sensibility. STOP THIS BILL NOW! Don't Mess With Texas.

Becky Jones
Self
Dallas, TX

All representatives please vote FOR HB 4. I am in favor of redistricting.

Elizabeth Peterson
Self
Horseshoe Bay, TX

Add more districts

Paula Decanini
Self
Pflugerville, TX

This gerrymandering of the state's districts is a disgraceful and undemocratic injustice that is being done to the people of this state. This is not a game. This our freedom to choose our own leaders blantently being taken away from us. If Republican policy and values had any merit then there wouldn't be need to resort to such dirty, underhanded tactics. It truly is shocking to see how little the party cares about the people.

Florinda Baldridge
Self / Director at a law firm
Houston, TX

This is beyond egregious. Republicans should get elected without having to rig the system. Liars and cheaters.

Michelle Affek
Self
rowlett, TX

Im publicly condemn the radical redistricting process happening in Texas. All state leaders must speak out against the dangerous precedent established by this blatantly partisan gerrymandering.

Sara Kinser
Self
Belton, TX

I am opposed to redistricting. If you want to make Texas Red, give me candidates that have our interest at heart. Earn my votes with policy, not cheating numbers.

Meagan Budic
Self
Kyle, TX

I oppose this bill. This redistricting is not what is needed or wanted for the people of Texas.

Mary Taylor, Mrs.
Self
Angleton, TX

I am opposed to redistricting and new maps. We need to have fair elections with fair representation. This is a calculated form of voter suppression and is driven by outside forces and not by Texans doing what is best for Texas.

Killian Quinty
Self-student
Houston, TX

This bill is made from someone out of state,does not follow the census,silences POC voices,and harms communities. It should not be passed

Claudia Torres-Yanez
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I testified before the house redistricting committee in May 2021, and I didn't expect to be providing comments again so soon, mid-decade. Much of what I said then still holds true: I love my community—its diversity, its energy, its mix of cow pastures and tech campuses. Pflugerville has grown, but what binds us is our shared civic life. And that civic life is undermined by redistricting processes that splits us into pieces, distorts representation, and disrespects our communities of interest.
Back in 2000, Travis County had two congressional districts. Today, we're cracked into five. Instead of being represented as a coherent community, we're now bundled with far-flung regions that share little of our lived experience or local priorities. Currently our district stretches east to outside Houston, under the proposed map that is flipped and would stretch west to Odessa.
Let me put it this way—with a Texas analogy:
If Texas were a barbecue plate, redistricting has become the equivalent of mixing brisket with banana pudding and calling it a balanced meal. It doesn't make sense, it doesn't taste right, and nobody asked for it. Well, only someone NOT from here asked for it. Worse yet, the state wants to claim it's following the recipe while clearly just taking the order, while throwing the cookbook out the window.
You can't on one hand say the maps were drawn race-blind, and then on the other hand carve up those same communities to serve partisan ends. That's not Texan—that's hypocrisy with a side of disrespect. My ask is simple and echoes what I said four years ago:
REJECT racial and partisan gerrymandering in any form and Follow a FAIR and TRANSPARENT process

Texans deserve better than maps drawn to protect power. We deserve fair maps - like a delicious plate of brisket with a side of potato salad and pinto beans, and a cold german lager.

Theresa Zelasko
Self
Austin, TX

I am fully and strongly AGAINST HB 4.

Paola Howard
Self
San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose this bill

Pegah Movahed
Self
Plano, TX

I absolutely reject the passing of HB 4.
What the representatives in this state are doing with our tax dollars for this is absolute bullshit. Instead of focusing on the myriad of things the people in this state need, you are debating a map that is already gerrymandered to begin with. Hearing Rep Hunter speaking about this at the opening was extremely infuriating. He explicitly stated this is 1) going to impact minority communities 2) approved the map created from the 2020 census & 3) is being done for political purposes (which he says is lawful).
I do not understand the double standard. How do some of you sleep at night knowing the terror you have caused and continue to? What makes you believe silencing voices different fom your own is the “godly” thing to do. I think every single person that votes for passing HB 4 should be fired by the people. If the members of Congress focused on making life better and more equitable for the people of this state, they wouldn't be wasting our tax dollars to find ways to keep that power. Their actions are pathetic, sad, and undemocratic.
Democracy dies when its power is being hoarded by manipulation and behind-the-scenes deals. The members of this congress know this. The question is whether they will do the right thing for their constituents or solely do what they think is right for themselves because their dear leader asked.
Every person has a line they won't cross. My question to each one of you is this: What is your line? Do you really think the baffoon in office won't turn against you too if he asks that you cross it and you refuse? He could care less about any of you.
Redistricting this state is far more than the 2026 midterms. Approving redistricting in the middle of the decade-- and for no valid reason-- is saying that you are ok with all the things Trump & his goons stand for. You can't think on your own and will blindly follow this man in to the pits of hell. That is what your actions will portray.

Cynnamon Hall
SELF/ Transportation
Fort Worth, TX

I oppose HB 4 and reject the gerrymandered map provided in the 11th hour of this committee. We should be using this special session to address the tragedy on the Guadeloupe River, instead we are wasting resources and time defending our votes from a coward Governor and Felon President. This is absurd. This map effects both D/R voters. Wait until the next census, reject this distraction and vote NO on HB 4.

Who drew these maps, and what is their motivation? Who paid to steal votes?
I am against the proposal to redraw the districts in Texas mid cycle. The voters and constituents have lived and voted under the current maps, which are grossly biased against areas where more non-white Texans reside. The current maps are under review for being unlawful, the maps flaunt the guidance of the Voters Rights Act of 1965 and dilute the votes from my district.

What is Governor Abbott afraid of? The 2024 general elections prove the will of me and Tarrant County voters, my neighbors, in fair and free elections. Voters have elected representatives and supported measures that address our specific needs. Texas is more diverse and capable than Abbott, or even Trump, and his merry band of bigots can imagine. You have poked the figurative bear, and upset your own party members and voters. You have knelt on your knees at the feet of this Administration and handed our State, our districts, and our votes over without our permission. You have shamelessly caused our County to pay your personal choice to redraw and restrict our districts and then taken our tax dollars to pay the SAME firm to defend your deplorable decision.

Tarrant County is not weak, we are highly educated, skilled and capable. We, voters, from whichever party aren't meek nor are we afraid. The Don't Mess With Texas isn't limited to lifted trucks and ten gallon hats.

By attempting to change our congressional districts you are actively eliminating our representatives in the state house. You are silencing entire areas and moving their influence and representation away from their center.

Our property taxes, our fees and and spending goes to make our communities more vibrant. The 2020 census revealed a large growth of Black, Latino and Asian populations in Tarrant County. You noticed, and you noticed that these voters supported strong measures to improve education, law enforcement, health care and commercial growth. Fort Worth is nearing 1 Million in population, the second largest city in the metropolitan, our residents build and continue to pour into the City and County. Taking our voice away, stealing our votes and diluting our power is unwarranted and unacceptable. We will not allow you to take our districts, you may not disenfranchise our neighbors. Keep your hands out of Tarrant County, Don't COME AND TAKE IT. Wait until the next census, wait until the courts rule on the 2020 census drawn maps. Don't Mess with Tarrant County and don't mess with Texas. Reject HB 4. Vote No.

Amy Berry
Self
Cypress, TX

I oppose HB 4 redistricting

Dave Trinite
self
Round Rock, TX

Flood response should take priority over redistricting.

Kitri Stephens
Self
Allen, TX

I am submitting this comment to strongly oppose Texas House Bill 4 and the deeply undemocratic redistricting maps it proposes. These maps are clearly drawn to dilute the voting power of communities of color, urban areas, and historically marginalized groups across our state. This is a direct attack on fair representation and a betrayal of the basic principles of democracy.

Every Texan deserves a voice — not just the politically favored or those who live in hand-picked districts. Gerrymandering robs communities of their right to be heard, to elect leaders who represent their interests, and to hold those leaders accountable. House Bill 4 attempts to manipulate district lines for political gain, not public good, and in doing so, it undermines the very foundation of representative government.

Additionally, I urge this body to halt all hearings and legislative movement on HB 4 until the Department of Justice is present and available for questioning by Texas representatives. The DOJ plays a critical oversight role, especially when redistricting threatens to violate the Voting Rights Act and disenfranchise large segments of the population. Proceeding without their input signals a disturbing disregard for legal accountability and civil rights protections.

Texas deserves a transparent, fair process. Anything less is a failure of leadership and a disservice to the people of this state. Do not move forward with HB 4. Protect the integrity of our democracy, ensure every voice counts, and demand full oversight before any decision is made.

Yim Meyer
Myself
Austin, TX

I am NOT Ok with redistricting at this time. It was done just 4 years ago that we were told it was drawn fairly and without racial prejudice. Now suddenly, it needs a special session for it, spending our tax money on this expensive undertaking and unnecessary issue. I am not ok with it. We just experienced a catastrophic July 4th flood. Taking care and prevent the catastrophic flood impact is the top priority on our Legislation, NOT the unnecessary, expensive re-districting at this time.

Michelle Tanner
Self retired
Parker, TX

I strongly disagree with this unnecessary redistricting that targets minority communities.

Kenneth Fulton
Self
Lavon, TX

I urge all Texas representatives to vote in favor of HB 5

Monica Olvera
Self
Pearland, TX

SAVE TEXAS!!! VOTE HB 4 FOR TEXAS SAKE!! We need to STOP agendas that are hurt TEXANS!!

Zuri Shafer
Self
Austin, TX

Howdy,
This redistricting plan will divide communities and unfairly represent the communities they serve. Please say NO to redistricting

Frank New, Honorable
Rockwall County
Rockwall, TX

I am writing in support of the redistricting map. We owe it to Texas and the nation to redistrict when massive population shifts occur. To not redistrict will allow states that citizens are fleeing to retain power that properly belongs to the states that citizens are fleeing to. Normally every ten years is sufficient to re allocate political power, but the influx of such a great magnitude as we are currently experiencing requires a sooner redistricting effort. Please bring this map to a vote and approve it.

Josh Acevedo
City of El Paso
El Paso, TX

Dear Committee Members,

As this committee works on state Congressional boundaries, I urge you to please keep intact Texas Congressional District 16 as it is. Of major concern to our community and our economy is the loss of Fort Bliss and the El Paso International Airport.

We are gravely concerned that Fort Bliss, the airport, and an upcoming VA Medical Center – which are critical economic, healthcare, educational, and community assets – will no longer be represented in our nation's capital by a local representative. Moving these assets to a congressional district anchored more than 500 miles away would be detrimental to our local economy and will negatively impact our large veteran and active duty community.

Fort Bliss is the largest employer in El Paso with a population of 67,655 soldiers and family members who call El Paso home. The post supports a population of over 158,000 people, including veterans, retirees and family members. Fort Bliss directly contributes to the livelihood of at least one in five people in El Paso and has helped define the culture and spirit of the region. Because of this, our local governments have made significant investments that directly and indirectly impact Fort Bliss. In 15 years, El Paso residents have supported the Army's mission and operations at a rate of $6.8 billion, including:

- $1.5 billion in local school bonds and expanded education opportunities
- $1.5 billion in healthcare expansion
- $700 million in quality of life projects
- $2 billion in transportation and infrastructure, and
- An expansion of housing to meet Fort Bliss and community needs

Further, the El Paso International Airport is vital to the economic health of this border region. We are actively working to add more direct flights to and from El Paso in order to attract new businesses and further grow our economy. New commercial growth is imperative towards our efforts at the City of El Paso to reduce the tax burden on homeowners.

It is paramount that the Congressional Member representing these mission critical assets be from our city and be someone who is well aware of the needs our community faces on a daily basis. As a City Representative who has previously served as a school board trustee, I ask that you please keep Fort Bliss and the El Paso International Airport within Congressional District 16.

Sincerely,

Dr. Josh Acevedo
District 2 City Representative, El Paso, TX

Julian Sumner
self
Temple, TX

My name is Julian William Sumner. I am FOR HB4 Redistricting.

Lendy Jones, Dr.
Self
Killeen, TX

I am adamantly opposed to the redistricting for election of members of the House of Representatives. I am a constituent of Representative Hillary Hickland and I am asking her to vote in opposition to ensure fairness in representation for ALL Texans!

Adriana Bonilla
Myself
New Braunfels, TX

I support the redistricting.

Rogelio Ramirez
Self-Fire Investigator
PFLUGERVILLE, TX

Don't agree with redistricting for the benefit of an individual on his way to dictatorship. District's should serve the people that live there. Redistricting takes power (voice and rights) away from people. no ,No, NO to redistricting.

Desiree Humphries
Myself
Austin, TX

Cause y'all can't win in a fair fight

Stephanie Albert
Self
Austin, TX

I would like to state my strong opposition to this redistricting plan. This redistricting would take away the voices of millions of Texans. Everyone deserves to have proper representation, whether you're red or blue, and this would take away that fundamental American right. The redistricting would be a huge blow to Texans and democracy. Please do the right thing and STOP the redistricting plan.

Melissa Rodriguez
AFT and myself
Dallas, TX

I urge the redistricting committee to reject this current proposal. As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Dallas County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation. A politically one sided state provides no balance for issues that affect us all. The republicans are already ruining our state and don't need more power to make ethically foul decisions.

Melanie Buhrman
Self
Austin, TX

I am here to testify in favor of this legislation because it is long overdue.

Texas has experienced rapid population growth, especially in the last few years. This is not a coincidence. People are fleeing oppressive, overreaching governments in blue states like California and New York. They're coming to Texas for freedom, safety, and the promise of fair representation.

But right now, they're not getting it.

Our districts no longer reflect the real population on the ground. Urban and rural communities alike are being diluted or stretched thin for political gain. That's not democracy — that's manipulation.

We have a duty to ensure every Texan, regardless of zip code, gets equal representation. Redistricting is not just a legal obligation. It's a moral one.

If we believe in the Constitution — and in the conservative principles that built this state — we must fix these maps and give the people of Texas what they were promised: a government that serves them, not itself. Thank you.

Kathleen Ryan Fernandez
Self/ retired teacher/ mother/ concerned Grandmother
Austin, TX

As I learned about the rise of Hitler and Nazi Germany, I could never grasp how a country could allow it to happen. It was totally incomprehensible to me that anyone would be willing to follow such thoughtless cruelty whether it be through force, trickery or simple ignorance.
I believe I couldn't comprehend because I was fortunate enough to be born in the United States of America. I carried a pride whose source was given to each of that made me know such horrors could never happen here. Our country was based on the ability to live our beliefs and choices in freedom. Gratefully, our living situation is better than any other country because we made it that way and continue to do so.Each of us is important and we are given the chance to make our voices heard.
And yet, here we are now.
I now clearly see how horrors arise within a nation. It's not just because of one big mouthed, thoughtless, power hungry bully. He cannot thrive without all of those enabling him to gather that power, thinking they are "golden" and safe because they're giving him what he wants. We all know a child would never refuse candy no matter how many people continuously offer it to him. It's up to the adults to limit such offerings despite the tantrums they may endure from the unhappy child.
So where are all of the Republican adults? Any Republican adults?
I fully hold you responsible for the rise of our dictator. You are the foolish enablers and you will benefit no more than the rest of the majority of Americans. I hold you personally accountable for the horrors we are already seeing and will continue to witness.
Do NOT REDISTRICT.
All Americans voices must be heard. This nation is better than one bully and his henchmen.

Bob Roberts
Self
Round Rock, TX

I am firmly against redistricting. It is unfair and does not allow me to choose freely my representatives.

Sara Reeves
Self
Round Rock, TX

This mid-decade redistricting with the sole purpose of silencing differing view points is unacceptable. You are disenfranchising your constituents. Win elections because people agree with you, not because you stacked the deck to silence voices.

Paul Breaux
Self
Leander, TX

There is no real need to redistricting texas, except for purely political reasons. Gerrymandering has already caused extreme polarization is our country and contributes to only the most extreme people of both parties getting elected because of the lack of competition.
Please focus on things Texans really need such as disaster recovery and warning systems instead of wasting time and taxpayers money playing political games that will end up being declared unconstitutional anyway.

Dennis Sugden
self
El Paso, TX

Please stop Trump from trying to rig 2026 and 2028 elections. Elections need to be honest and fair.

Maya Sanchez
Myself
San Elizario, TX

My name is Maya Sanchez, and I am a resident of San Elizario, Texas, in El Paso County. During Tuesday's redistricting hearing, it was clear the majority of participants spoke out against the proposed redistricting.
I want to clarify that I am not opposed to redistricting itself—when done fairly and based on data, it is necessary and appropriate. In fact, I believe that if the data were used properly, El Paso, including Fort Bliss, would warrant two congressional districts. However, the way this process is being handled—by this committee, our governor, and the President—is deeply troubling and, in my opinion, an abuse of power. It is not the role of the President to direct this process in search of political support.
Instead of fair representation, I find myself placed in a district that stretches nearly eight hours away from my home. I feel far more represented by Congresswoman Veronica Escobar of District 16, and I have more opportunities to engage her and her office, than what my experience has been with my actual congressman. And the proposed maps only exacerbate this disconnect.
For these reasons, I am strongly opposed to the current redistricting process and the maps as presented. I hope that after the 2030 Census, these wrongs will be corrected, and the process will be conducted as intended—to ensure all Texans receive fair and equal representation.

Emily Fischels
Self
League City, TX

I strongly urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal.
As a lifelong Texan and resident of Galveston County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence.
Texans deserve better than blatant manipulation by one party to silence their fair and equal representation in our government. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation

Marin Croix
self. Student.
Austin, TX

I oppose this redistricting plan. Our government is supposed to serve the people. Our people are not supposed to serve the government. Redistricting to favor more Republican representation is unfair to Democratic voters in Texas. If Republicans do represent the majority of Texas, they should NOT have to play dirty to be the popular party here. You are seriously limiting the voice of minority voters by favoring an already majority party.
Do the right thing. Represent your people. Work for your people. Don't make your people work for you. Don't manipulate the truth to benefit your party. Play fair so others may play fair in return. If you must exploit people to get your way, then "your way" is not a democratic representation of the people you are supposed to be representing.

Sandy Parham
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting. This should be planned FOR the constituents not for political advantage. And not just because our president wants more votes. This is NOT what democracy is!!

Bonnie Seelig
Retired Self
Spicewood, TX

With increased population - even not counting Biden's INVASION OF ILLEGALS - we are far underrepresented! We must advance President Trump's Agenda and majority! We need legislation passed to make the Executive Orders lasting!
PASS THE MAP OUT OF COMMITTEE TODAY AS SOON AS TESTIMONY ENDS! YOU WILL HAVE A QUORUM OF THE COMMITTEE! THERE IS NO EXCUSE TO ADJOURN! PASS THE MAP! LET'S BE SMART! THIS IS NOT THE TIME TO THINK YOU CAN DO SOMETHING BETTER!
Texas went for Trump! Therefore, the GOP should have the majority in the US House, not by 2 or 3 votes, but by 8 or 9.
Don't fall for the Gerrymandering blame. Look at the other states that went for Trump. Many are underrepresented in their state by the district lines that squiggle through the heart of every big city!
STAY STRONG! SPECIAL SESSION LASTS FOR 30 DAYS! DON'T DRAG IT OUT AND WAIT FOR A BETTER CHANCE TO "TAKE A STAND."

Tracy Alexander
Self
Midland, TX

We don’t need to disrupt our elections by drawing new maps. Stand up for your constituents and stop cheating the democratic process.

Tao Huang
Self
Austin, TX

I live in District 37 under Congressman Lloyd Doggett. I’m not here today to defend my district—I’m here to defend the reason I chose to become a Texan and an American: democracy.

I spent 30 years of my life under a totalitarian regime. In that country, it didn’t matter whether you voted or didn’t vote. One party always won. The legislature existed only to rubber-stamp decisions already made by the top. If voting didn’t go as expected, sessions were dragged on until the result matched what was demanded.

Does this sound familiar?

That’s not democracy. That’s theater. And it’s chilling to see echoes of it in a state I chose for its freedom, its promise, and its values.

HB4, under the banner of an off-cycle redistricting, erodes public trust. The maps we have now were drawn just couple of years ago and have not even been fully litigated. Why the rush? Why now?

We all have different beliefs, but we must ask ourselves: what principles do we live by? Are we willing to compromise democratic fairness for partisan gain? Are we willing to do what CCP has done?
Texans deserve to choose their representatives. HB4 pushes us closer to representatives choosing their voters.

Please vote no.

Barbara Posey
Myself
Waskom, TX

I’m testifying in favor of HB4

Maura Lyons citizen
Hickory Creek, TX

Please do not draw new maps for redistricting the state of Texas to not properly represent people that live in those districts. It seems as though Texas does not want to represent its constituents. It seems as though, this is at the behest of those in power who do not want to represent all the people of Texas. It is wrong and corrupt and it's shameful that the state of Texas does not want to have people vote for those that represent them.

Jean Kidd self / Interior redesign consultant
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose redistricting proposed by SB4 in the 1st special session of the 89th TX legislative session.

Jasmine Jones
Self/student
Austin, TX

This map is insanely drawn, we don't need a redrawing it was done 2 years ago, it's on a schedule for a reason. Also the president openly admitted it was just to pick up 5 seats. That's gerrymandering plain and simple.

Paula Waggoner, Mrs.
My family and Community
Austin, TX

Texas already redrew its congressional maps in 2021- this is a political move announced by the in-office President to retain control of Texas, Governor Abbott called a rushed special legislative session just one week after devastating floods hit communities across the state, choosing political manipulation over disaster relief.

This mid-decade redistricting is not normal. It’s a calculated, anti-democratic power grab. - Focus on helping from the flood disaster/recovery or funding education!

Karen Green
Self
San Antonio, TX

Redistricting is a cowardly move and it is anti-democratic. Any politician that actively works to silence the voice of the American people should be ashamed of themselves. Most of the politicians afraid of losing power now, won’t even be alive to see the consequences of their actions. But their children and grandchildren will suffer. Please do not take our voice away just because you are scared of a fair fight.

Rachel Rosen
Self
Austin, TX

I’m commenting today as a mother, a daughter, a wife, and a very concerned Texan.

I was raised in Texas, and it breaks my heart to witness what’s happening here. Just weeks after historic floods devastated our communities, leaders began redrawing maps to protect their own political power. It’s just wrong.

Here’s the thing- in the aftermath of the floods, I witnessed firsthand what Texas Strong really means. Neighbors showing up for each other—sharing food, clearing debris, offering rides, checking in. Everyday Texans leading with care.

That’s the spirit we need more of—not this.

This process has been rushed, unfair, and deeply disrespectful. And we all know that the harm caused because of this won’t fall evenly. It never does. These proposed maps will disproportionately silence communities already pushed to the margins. That is cruel and unjust.

As a mother, I want my daughter to grow up in a state where fairness matters, where leadership listens, and where power is rooted in service—not control.

Texans deserve better. Our children deserve better. And I won’t stay silent while our democracy is dismantled behind closed doors.

We deserve fair maps. We deserve real representation. And we will keep showing up until we get it.

Because Texans are more than political pawns—we are people, and we deserve to be heard.

Audrey McGehee
Self
Cedar Park, TX

1776 to 1965 voter suppression was the American way of life. New districts were drawn after the 2020 census by republicans suppressing the needs and needs and rights of minority communities. Redrawing the districts in an attempt to further suppress the rights of minorities is illegal and unconstitutional and NOT what the founding fathers intended for this country. trump is NOT the leader of Texas government or should I say should NOT be deciding what is best for our state. The republican party and trump say they believe in states' rights. Obviously NOT. What is happening in OUR state and OUR country is Jim Crow 2.0 and the writing of the Lost Cause 2.0. To lie about history and restrict the truth from being told is going to have seriously horrible repercussions on the state and the country. republicans say they are about small govenment and the rule of law. Yet, they continue to attempt to regulate EVERYTHING about our daily lives. THEY CONTINUE to BREAK the rules of laws without any guard rails. republican law makers are not law makers, they're law breakers just like their ruler djt. Where are the backbones of republican elected to represent the people? They've sold their souls to the devil. They claim to be Christians, yet the lives they live are NOT Christ like. They represent the rich wisthout a care for the middle class and the pour. Texas gives INCREDIBLE tax breaks to big businesses to get them to locate here. Yet the richest man in the world elon musk is NOT paying multi million dollars of bills to Texans that have worked to build his massive businesses. Look at the many small businesses in the Austin area that musk owes multi-millions of dollars and has stiffed and won't pay much like his old friend djt. Yet abbott and his cronies continue to do the bidding of these dishonest men. They're NOT making America great again, they're attempting to make America slavery again. This dastardly redistricting that they're forcing on Texas is not only wrong but INHUMANE.

Justin Harlin
Self
Pflugerville, TX

Redistricting should only be done once a year and not mid decade.

Jennifer Harper
self
Coppell, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the federal executive's demand that Governor Abbott and our legislature redistrict (gerrymander) Texas districts to flip five Democratic seats. Our redistricting was already performed several years ago after the 2020 census & was drawn up by our then majority Republican representatives & senators. This blatant power grab is beneath our great state of Texas. We Texans do not wish our voices to be further silenced. All Texans, regardless of party, deserve districts drawn transparently and equitably. You serve the people of Texas, not 1 person in DC. I urge this body to reject any plan that compromises transparency, fairness & our local autonomy.

Christina DeStefano
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Christina Destefano and I am a constituent of Travis county, and I am opposed to HB4. What we are seeing right now play out in this room can only be called a blatant power grab.

About a week ago, Trump and Abbott had a discussion, likely not intended for the public.

I need you to find five seats, Trump said to Abbott. And with his magic wand, Abbott jumped, fast tracking redistricting bills. Fast tracking this bill outside of its ten year cadence and fast tracking this bill in front of flood relief bills.

"No maps" republicans said last week. "No maps" then went on to take a scalpel and create an incision through districts belonging to outspoken Progressive leaders, directly punishing them for being the leaders y'all could never be.

Why are we here and not talking about flood relief? There are so many displaced Texans without aid. Why are we, Texans the ones rolling up sleeves? Do you understand how heartbreaking it is to be out in Sandy Creek sorting through debris as either scrap metal, wood, brush or "sad"? To find mud caked clothing belonging to a little boy about 5 where his once room stood, then come back to Austin to talk about party lines?

There's only a 35-40 minute drive, heck close enough to take the metro, between the conversations happening in this room about gerrymandering and conversations with a lady who lost three loved ones in the floods at sandy creek.

This redistricting bill is a gross overreach of power and dehumanization of Texans in Abbott's part.

Joshua Kaplan
Self
Dallas, TX

This is such a case of gerrymandering. In no way do these districts even make sense let alone represent Texans. Stop trying to steal our votes away from us so you can continue to abuse the people of this state. We want fair representation!!

Andrew Morris
Self, Proposal Manager
Corinth, TX

One of the founding principles of this country and this state is that the voters select their representatives. This anti-constitutional attempt at redistricting is one of the most blatant examples of representatives chosing their voters that has ever been seen. Our statewide elected leaders should not be at the beck-and-call of the President of the United States, especially over something so critical and something that had been decided not even four years ago. This committee should end its work immediately and wait until after the next census to consider redistricting - as the Constitution commands.

Ignacio Hidalgo
Self
Garland, TX

I’m writing as your constituent to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting map currently under consideration in the Texas Legislature. As drawn, the new districts do not reflect the actual makeup and interests of our growing and diverse population. Instead, they appear to be designed to dilute the voices of communities like mine for partisan gain.

The foundation of our democracy is fair and equal representation. Redistricting should be about ensuring that every Texan’s vote counts equally—not about protecting incumbents or manipulating boundaries to favor one political party. The proposed maps are clearly engineered to diminish the political influence of communities of color, especially Latino, Black, and Asian Texans, who represent the majority of the state’s population growth. This is unacceptable.

Here in Garland, we deserve representation that understands and reflects our local priorities - whether that’s education, health care, infrastructure, or jobs. Gerrymandered districts split our communities and reduce our collective voice, making it harder for us to advocate for the issues that matter most.

I also want to voice concern about the process by which these maps are being created. Public input has been limited, and there has been a lack of transparency and accountability. Redistricting should not happen behind closed doors or without meaningful opportunities for communities to be heard.

I urge you to vote against this redistricting plan and to advocate for a map that prioritizes fair representation over partisan politics. Support a transparent process that centers the voices of your constituents—not one that silences them.

Our democracy only works when every voice is heard. I ask you to protect that principle by rejecting this unfair redistricting proposal.

Sincerely,
Ignacio Hidalgo

Lydia Vinson
Self
Mansfield, TX

We DO NOT want the Republicans to redistrict our state. This is an unlawful attempt to silence the voices of Black and Brown Texans who dare to oppose the “presiding” party.

Melissa Ramirez
Self
Manvel, TX

I don’t understand why this redistricting process is going on. Electoral districts are revised every 10 years after a comprehensive and accurate census. This mid-period redistricting is unwarranted, unjust, and unethical. And now, the proposed maps which have just been released are a sham. What a manipulation of voters. Stop this blatantly political effort now.

Jonathan Apolinar
Self
Austin, TX

Already enough gerrymandering as it is, this is a clear attempt to tilt the seats in one party’s favor.

Kathryn Crenshaw
Self, Mother
Rowlett, TX

Good afternoon,

I am writing to oppose partisan redistricting of any kind, but especially in this case. It is exceedingly transparent that this is a move to co solidarity the power of one part and to limit representation. Parties can not be allowed to play part in redistricting. Not only does it move toward creating a one party state- which is the hallmark of communist dictatorships such as the USSR and China- but it limits representation even within the party. Politicians who have rigged an election to get themselves elected through gerrymandered districts not only don't need to listen to their opposition party, they don't even need to listen to their own constituents if they can refrain from being primaries. In the end partisan gerrymandering goes against the fabric of a free society and I urge all politicians to stand against this attempts suppress free speech through equal representation opportunities.

Blair Ault
Self/Brand Manager for Texas Distillery
Houston, TX

I was born, raised, and never left Houston, TX - I'm currently living in Near Northside and have done so for 13 years. I went to both the High School for the Performing and Visual Arts and the University of Houston Honors College, and moved quite a bit between residences all over this city.

The needs and communities of Near Northside do not resonate with the needs of the much more affluent (and incorporated as their own municipalities) West University Place or Bellaire. Near Northside is mostly pier and beam homes built and loved in by immigrant families in the 1920s; we need representation that understands the specific needs we have that our neighbors to the east and north of us more closely resemble than those on the opposite side of 610. This redistricting plan is an insult to the citizens of Houston and my hope is that this topic does not take up more agenda time when Central Texas needs our support and Houston's state takeover is still impacting students and educators.

Brooke Freeland
Drlf
Austin, TX

Oppose house bill 4

Mary Boesen
Sisters of Loretto
El Paso, TX

I cannot believe you are considering removing Fort Bliss and part of our county to other far away districts. El Paso provides s many essential services to the soldiers at Fort Bliss. These men in women have been in motor cycle and car accidents. They go to our hospitals and receive quality care. They are integral parts of our community, they shop in our stores, partake in so many cultural event, go to our schools, How can you remove them and their voices from the community they live in and hope that some legislator in Sn Antonio or even more distant can begin to attend to the needs of the people. There are many infrastructure needs that the federal government does provide for. It feels imperative to me that these citizens have the opportunity make there voices heard locally to a representative whose sessions are not 8 hours away.

Please do not take fort Bliss citizens out of El paso. If feels like you are treating them as cattle and ignoring the fact they each and every one should have local voice.
You remain in my prayers as you deliberate such life impacting moves.
Sr. Mary Boesen, SL

Melissa Berry, RN
Self Nurse
Amarillo, TX

The fact that this redistricting is even a thought is beyond illegal. The government is already breaking all kinds of laws and not following the constitution. Every one of these cruel and illegal things the president is doing is bad enough. The fact that so many people are bowing down to this evil dictator is unbelievable. The fact that the people that we the people to represent Texas and us the people might bow down to the president is absolutely disgusting. They are trying to take away our voices. What will be next ? The more you give in to a bully the more you suffer until one of you are destroyed. That is happening now! The constitution, the laws put in place for centuries are all being taken away until they no longer exist. Which we all should be scared! I know I am! Redistricting is just another ploy to have total control. They do not care about the people only themselves and their wealth. We should be able to trust our Texas representatives to do what the people of Texas want , the people they vowed to stand up for. You are voted for by the people not the government that is only out for themselves. Do the right thing and say no to this bill.

Mary Estrada
United States citizen self
El Paso, TX

As a citizen and person who lives in El Paso , under no conditions whatsoever, should there be any redistricting. It is just dirty politics!!

Peter Varteressian
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting at this time is blatantly political and unnecessary. The State Legislature is wasting our tax payer dollars on something the majority of Texans do not want. The President may want it but I thought Texans were more independent than is being displayed. The GOP is well positioned here already. This greed for power is sad.

Dave Wolter
Self, retired engineer
Austin, TX

I strongly urge the house to vote down this redistricting effort. It is clearly an effort for the GOP to further gerrymander the districts in an unfair manner. They are taking away the voice of Texans and that is not acceptable. Absolutely vote this down!

michael earney, mr.
self. artist, writer Utopia, TX

stop rigging the elections.

Sherri Esland
Self/disable cirizen
Austin, TX

Im not in favor of redrawing of maps to favor the Republicans fight to gain unfair grounds. The map should reflect the diversity in Texas. It shouldn't be for the rich to influence laws that are discriminate in nature. Please stop this action Asap.

Gwendolyn Mumford
Self
Austin, TX

You’re going directly against the constitution with these proposed maps. All Texans deserve for their voices to be heard.

Tracy Ferlet
Self
Austin, TX

The current plan redistricting is unnecessary and a blatant attempt at voter repression and dilution of Democratic representation..

Valerie Valdez
Self
San Marcos, TX

The redistricting of the state should be fair and transparent. There should be public input and oversight. Trying to push this item during a special session without the citizens of Texas being able to weigh in is very frustrating. It’s not a good look for our representatives to make decisions that are not in the best interest of the people who voted for them. This seems to be self serving of the politicians who fear they are losing their seats. It is unfair to the citizens whose votes will not be counted. Following through with supporting this bill is proof that the minorities in the state are continuing to be silenced through voter suppression. Vote against this bill and let your constituents decide. The people of Texas deserve better.

Olga Carrera
Self
El Paso, TX

To the Committee,

I am writing to strongly oppose your attempt to redraw our district maps in a clear effort to suppress voter power and rig outcomes in favor of a select few. This is not democracy this is manipulation, plain and simple.

Let me be absolutely clear: the people are watching. We know this redistricting is not about fair representation. It’s about bending the knee to party politics and protecting incumbents at the expense of everyday citizens. You are sacrificing public trust and integrity for short-term power grabs. That makes you part of the corruption, not the solution.

Many of you can and will be voted out. And if you were appointed, we will hold those who put you there accountable. Do not assume you’re safe. The tide is turning. Communities are more informed and more mobilized than ever. You are not acting in darkness. We see you.

Your job is to protect democracy not sabotage it. Stop the redistricting. Do what’s right. Or prepare for the consequences at the ballot box.

Sincerely,

Olga

Alejandro Sills
Self, Training and Quality Specialist
Austin, Texas, TX

I urge the Texas House and Senate to reject any redistricting measures that were done at President Donald Trump's behest. The latest released map is another racist gerrymander that enables politicians to choose their voters, instead of the proper course of voters choosing their politicians.

Kathye Epley
self Retired
FRIENDSWOOD, TX

It is wrong to redistrict areas based on a need to align with party preferences. It should represent the people who live in the districts, and they should have the right to be represented by someone they choose.

Mary Groth, Retired teacher Democrat
Grapevine, TX

As a Democrat Texan I feel redistricting is completely wrong! It’s unfair and unconstitutional to do it. The only reason Republicans want this is because of fear of not winning the midterms. You are hurting our country and our state.

Greg Allen, Mr.
Self/ retired
El Paso, TX

Leave districts alone, hasn't been 10 years. You Republicans look to anything to silence the masses. Half of El Paso going to San Antonio, nothing more than a power grab!!

Anjuli Herrington
Self. Jopari Product director
Austin, TX

’m a Gen X white and south asian woman, single, and living in Austin. I vote, I stay informed, I show up when it counts—and I’ve never been more disillusioned by what’s happening in Texas politics than I am right now.

Redistricting is supposed to reflect population shifts and ensure fair representation. But in Texas, it’s being used as a political weapon—redrawing the map mid-decade to consolidate power and silence certain voters.

Let’s be honest: this isn’t about reflecting demographic change. It’s about resisting it.

The proposed maps break apart communities that have grown stronger, more diverse, and more engaged—especially Black, Latino, immigrant, and younger voters. It’s a calculated move, one that ignores what Texas actually looks like today.

Even here in Austin, where civic participation is high, we’re watching districts be carved up in ways that make no sense—splitting neighborhoods, weakening urban votes, and making it harder for people to elect leaders who reflect their values. And because this is happening in a special session, the process feels rushed, closed, and designed to avoid scrutiny.

I may not have kids in school or a spouse at the dinner table, but that doesn’t make my voice any less important. Like so many others, I pay taxes, vote in every election, volunteer in my community, and care deeply about the direction this state is heading.

And frankly, I’m tired of the cynicism—of watching maps get drawn to protect the few at the expense of the many. It undermines trust in the system. It tells voters like me, and millions of others, that our voices only matter when they’re convenient.

We all deserve fair representation, regardless of zip code or political affiliation. Texas is changing—and redistricting should reflect that change, not suppress it.

I’m speaking up because silence is complicity. These maps are wrong. And the people of Texas deserve better.

James Dodrill self, electrical engineer
Dripping Springs, TX

This bill is overtly un-American. Democracy means that every voter should have an equal voice in electing their representatives. This bill is expressly intended to subvert democratic principles by dividing districts in a way that reduces the influence of people whom Republicans disagree with. But all people deserve and equal voice. Thus, anyone who supports this bill is blatantly against democracy, and against America as a country whose founding document states that all people are created equal. Shame on anyone who supports this bill.

Susan Curp
Me
Austin, TX

No to redistricting. This is ridiculous and a total abuse of power. Our governor and our representatives are not representing all of us when they allow this to happen. Texas is going to be the laughing stock of the country if we keep acting like Trump's lap dog.

Kim Caldwell
Self
Frisco, TX

This is gerrymandering, plain and simple. You will hear from your constituents at the next election!!!!!!!!

Kaye Kahlich Kaye Kahlich
Self -- retired
Fulshear, TX

This effort should be completely dropped and the State of Texas should instead use the process of an independent commission for redistricting. Other states have used this process and it has mitigated the detrimental effects of gerrymandering. Texas' leadership (Abbott, Patrick, & Burrows) should review their high school civics lessons and strive to be as fair as possible to ALL Texans. The current redistricting effort does NOT lead one to believe that Texas leadership is trying to be fair. Just because you CAN stack the deck does not make it a good thing.

Susan Peabody, Miss
Self
Grapevine, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Abigail Chaplin-Kyzer
Self, piano teacher
Corinth, TX

I write today to urge the committee to vote NO on HB 4 as well as any further plans to redraw the congressional maps before the established 10 year mark. The proposed maps further gerrymander our state and will leave countless Texans with unfair representation and little voice at the federal level. Texas lawmakers should not be cowed by the flippant demands of a rogue federal administration. Lawmakers must spend this special session focusing on positive changes to school testing and ratings systems and the much needed flood relief and disaster prevention that impact Texans every day.

Sharon Jorolan
DCRP
The Colony, TX

I support HB 4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Kyle Hamman, Mr.
Self
Plainview, TX

Please stop this. It is undemocratic unconstitutional and one step closer to authoritarianism. It is one party rule and strips people of their right to vote and gives the Republicans unlimited power. It must be stopped.

Elizabeth Grimmett, Ms
Self
Wills Point, TX

I support HB 4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Cheyanne Lozano
Self
El Paso, TX

As an El Pasoan and American citizen, I oppose the redrawing of district lines.

Linda Macdonald
Self
Elm, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Lauren Ehrlich
Self, teacher
Weatherford, TX

As a life long Texan and public school educator in Parker County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation

Joe Lebowitz
Self
Boerne, TX

Strongly opposed to this blatantly corrupt attempt to skew results!!!

Yavonne Martinez
Sekf
Porter, TX

We, the people of Texas, have spoken and we do not want our legislators passing a bill to redraw our congressional districts and get rid of those who represent the majority of us. However, the elected Republican representatives and the governor are not listening. The map which was likely supplied by the DOJ is pure racist. What Trump and others cannot handle is the thought that they ‘might’ lose so let’s cheat in advance.
I pray that these maps fail and we keep the maps from 2021. I pray that if these maps pass that God reminds those who passed them of HIS power. In the New Testament, God tells us over and over to care for one another. For those who do not care, whether you believe in God or not, may karma rain down on you or your colleagues for moving towards fascism, theocracy, communism or Nazi ways.

These Texas Democrats are at risk under proposed GOP redistricting maps—-TheHill.com 7/30/2925 by Mueller and Elbein

Whitney Riley
Self
Hondo, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

David Ramos
Self
Harlingen, TX

The state is moving away from the Marxist/Communistic Democratic party to America's MAGA GOP. We should reflect this in our redistricting in Texas. This has nothing to do with race. This has everything to do with right and wrong or American vs UNAmerican. Make our districts RED as many as can be updated to reflect our American Heritage.

Bryan Dausin
Retired citizen
San Antonio, TX

I'm in favor of congressional redistricting! We must get this done for fair representation!

Chloe Mills
Self
Round Rock, TX

This is a blatant power grab. We just redistricted 4 years ago—there is no data that would indicate redistricting is necessary for representation. Please beware of national implications as well! If we gerrymander Texas even more, other states may respond (such as California has threatened to do) which erodes democracy everywhere. Competition is good for democracy—please let us vote for candidates who actually represent us! Say no to gerrymandering.

Stephanie Hoffman, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

I am concerned that in the middle of the decade, state leaders are redrawing congressional maps with no new Census and no public demand. These proposed maps silence the voices of millions. Do not move forward with this!

Kathleen A Kasper, Dr
Self
Keller, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map."

Heidi Hall
Individual
Houston, TX

I fully support HB4 and the redistricting. Population has increased and so has the political landscape. Redistricting is needed!

Jay Towell
Self
Princeton, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Craig Calvert, Mr
Self - retired
Lakeway, TX

Texas is already wildly gerrymandered. Sending the nation back to the 1950's is not good governance. There will be a reckoning in 2026 and voters will remember or be reminded how the members of this body voter.

Laura May
Self- Educator, Public School
Austin, TX

I am AGAINST HB 4 by Rep. Todd Hunter. This bill will silence my voice and my vote. The proposed redistricting is unfair and unethical. Democracy means by the people and for the people. This bill is a form of voter suppression. Please be a true voice for all Texans and do not support this thinly veiled act of racial gerrymandering.

Marise Reynolds
self
Dallas, TX

“I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Judith Combs
Self
Mansfield, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. Please do not let the Democrats control this narrative.

Erin Moore
Self
Dallas, TX

This is a gerrymander on top of a gerrymander that YOU created. You are capitulating in the truest sense of the word and ceding your autonomy to the Federal government. They are, in other words, yanking your chain and you are being a good dog. The people will choose their representation, not the other way around. These maps will haunt you and you will look at this moment in the future as the moment you lost all integrity. Or has that already happened?

Barbara Stach
Self, retired pharmacist
Leander, TX

I’m not sure why the governor is beholden to the President to call for this re-districting at this time other than pure power. Does the governor not trust Texans with their votes?
Instead we will be allowing politicians to choose their voters. Gerrymandering is a divisive tool and should be unlawful in all states. Or maybe, when districts truly need to be updated based on defined terms, let a bipartisan committee come to consensus on the process and the outcome has a chance of being fair to all voters in Texas. That should be the goal. But then again, politics has a habit of getting in the way. This isn’t good for Texas, but that’s not who Governor Abbott is trying to please.
Thank you for your time.

Isabel Camacho, Resident
Self
Dallas, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose the current redistricting proposals under review. As a concerned Texas resident and voter, I believe that the proposed maps do not provide fair representation and seem to prioritize political gain over the rights and voices of everyday Texans.

Redistricting should be a transparent, inclusive process that guarantees every community fair representation. Unfortunately, the current maps weaken the voting power of communities of color, split cohesive neighborhoods, and erode public trust in our democratic system. These results are unacceptable and go against the principles of fair representation guaranteed by the Voting Rights Act.

Texas is a diverse and rapidly growing state, and our electoral maps must reflect that reality—not be manipulated to serve partisan interests. I urge the committee to reject any plan that continues gerrymandering.

Liz Dundov
Self, retired
Austin, TX

This redistricting of the House seats in TX is amoral and anti-democratic. Lawmakers work for the people. The people choose and elect their representatives, not the other way around. Lawmakers do not get to choose their voters. There are many and real urgent issues that need to be addressed. This is not a game. Gerrymandering is wrong, and should be illegal. This is taking it to the extreme. This is nothing but an egregious power play. It is dangerous and outrageous. Leave our districts alone! I strongly urge all lawmakers to not make these changes to the districts. This is corrupt! And Texans will not stand for it.

Paul Gaddis
Self, Mathematician, Engineer, Modern Polymath
Little Elm, TX

As a Descendant of the Founding Fathers, John Adams 2nd Cousin 8x removed, it is my voice of reason that this gerrymandering is UN-AMERICAN. THE PRESIDENT DOES NOT DICTATE CONGRESSIONAL LINES. THE PEOPLE DO. END OF DISCUSSION.

Linda Knight
Self
Hico, TX

I support HB 4 and the proposed redistricting map. Thank you, Linda Knight

Karen Freeman
Baytown Republican Women
Crosby, TX

As a native Texan and end current residence since 1959. I feel that it is extremely important that day. Values, I'm principals of the Republican party. The husband establish since its beginning, continue to be reflected by our representative districting of the state. The desire to stop such progress, it's a simple reflection. I have an agenda that does not meet the needs or the desires of the citizens of this great state. I implore the members of our party across the state to stand in unison with our elected representatives and maintain new Texas. Not only what it has always been, but what is its future, and that is a state built on principles, morals and values, as is reflectedin the Republican party- not just for the citizens who are residing here now. But for the future generations, you will when they lead this great state in the same path with the reflection of the same. Beliefs and principles.

Shelia Franklin
True Texas Project and self
FORT WORTH, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

James Rigby
Self/student
Hutto, TX

Don't pass this bill. The proposed redistricting is not non partisan nor is it fair

Angela Hudson
Self
The Colony, TX

I am in support of HB 4 by Hunter. Please pass this quickly.

Cheryl Thompson-Draper
self retired
Hallettsville, TX

AS attached as I am to my Congressman Michael Cloud CD 27- I look forward to joining forces with Monica De La Cruz in CD 15 It looks like a great redistricting. I love in Lavaca County which will be her farthest reach, but I know she can do this. I am all for it! Keep Texas- Texas!

Alyssa Ellison
self
Austin, TX

Please do not redistrict Texas. We're adults and adults don't change rules mid game just because it looks like they might not win. If what you are allowing to happen to our country is so unpopular that you're afraid of not getting reelected, perhaps you should start listening to your constituents (who elected you to stand up for their best interests) and stop capitulating to the whims of the current administration. Instead of using your powers to provide checks and balances to our federal government, it feels like you have given up on us. Silently going along with wrongdoing does not absolve you of those crimes. You have been sacrificing not only the ideals of this great nation, but also it's own people: people who will die because they will no longer have access to healthcare, people who will be kidnapped and tortured when they were only seeking refuge, people who will inevitably go hungry because of the economic instability caused by chaotic tariffs, people who will lose everything in natural disasters with no aide. What you have supported, or silently consented to, is not popular. Instead of redrawing the maps, maybe start standing up for democracy and get reelected the honorable way, by doing your job well.

Jane Kurzawa Cravey
Self
Austin, TX

No redistricting when there has not been an identified need because of population changes!!

Daniel Schaetz
Self, Program Manager
Austin, TX

The proposed changes would create inaccurate representation for our community.

Randal Mayfield
Self/retired
Iraan, TX

I support HB4 redistricting

Teddy Loney
self
New Braunfels, TX

This is blatant voter suppression. I'm sick and tired of Republicans putting party over country. Donald Trump is a horrible human being and Republicans are nothing more than sycophants incapable of doing the right thing by voters. Republicans have atrocious ideas so they know they must cheat to win, that's all this is. It's disgusting and you should be ashamed of yourselves.

Lilia Fierro, Mrs
Self
El Paso, TX

This will be a travesty for all areas involved in oppose to the redistricting for the bemefitnofvthebrich and Republicans

Beth Stuyck
Self / clergy
Bedford, TX

I’m opposed to the current redistricting plan. I oppose gerrymandering in any form. Districts should not be drawn for the express purpose of pre-determining the outcome of midterm (or any) elections, which is what this bill is explicitly intent on doing. District boundaries should reflect actual communities. If any candidate (regardless of political affiliation) can’t persuade the members of his or her community that s/he is the best candidate for the job, then they deserve to lose the election.

Lynn Beal
Self
Watauga, TX

This bill and this map is unconstitutional. You are not listening to the people you are listening to those who only want more power. Stop gerrymandering now! Voters are not happy!

Mariela Silva
Self - Tax Accountant
Austin, TX

As a constituent of Texas' 37th Congressional District, I am writing to express strong opposition to the redistricting efforts taking place. This proposed gerrymandering, if it were to succeed, is a clear statement that our government has no intention of representing and advocating for the people who voted for them. This plan would ultimately eliminate congressional representation for a multitude of Texans and effectively make their vote meaningless. Regardless of your party, I strongly urge each member of the legislature to put the people of Texas over the desires of a president who does not care about the democratic process.

Renee Trejo
Self
El Paso, TX

This is occurring right before midterms and immediately after the one-billion dollar funded migrant concentration camp at Ft. Bliss. This redistricting is a power-grab and not reflective of El Pasoans. This is gerrymandering through and through. Our city needs to be represented from someone that actually lives here. It is an absolute disaster to be handed over to San Antonio where they are 500 miles away. We do not approve this change and demand to stay as is. Census data is not even being considered, which is literally the entire point of redistricting.

Faye Dickson, Mrs.
self -- retired
Friendswood, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.”

DeAnna Willman self- author/artist
Levelland, TX

I support this HB4, redistricting bill. It needs to reflect the voting preferences of those being represented, and not give in to those who can not come up with real, factual reasons why it should not be done.

Jack Beaty, Mr.
ELF - BEATY FARMS (cattle ranch)
Aubrey, TX

Please vote in favor of E1.030 Congressional Redistricting.

Federico Hernandez, Mr.
self, engineering
El Paso, TX

Leave district 16 alone. Our district is properly represented now. Nefarious republican gerrymandering is illegal. it's this kind of system rigging that makes republicans the most untrustworthy party, go get some integrity, stop bowing down to the conman-in-chief and his dictator power grab. Tony Baloney Gonzales doesn't represent me or my values, get him away from district 16. he's a two-face hypocrite, seen him on Sunday morning political shows, he changes his tune to appease his fascist bosses instead of representing his constituents. He votes to cut Medicare, Medicaid, veterans' programs, nutrition programs, infrastructure funding, water and wastewater funding. and a cheesy useless tweet picture at Fort Bliss proves he's more concerned with making an appearance instead of working to proper representation of our city. El Paso doesn't want any of your Project 2025 shenanigans.

Stephanie Walsh
Self, Accountant
Fort Worth, TX

Please vote NO! As a citizen of Texas (and of the USA), I have the right to vote for someone who actually represents me and my family, regardless of which party they're from. This new map does not give me that right. It gives one party control. I'm fed up with representatives not actually working for the people they represent, instead, rigging it to work for their party. Stop the nonsense and get us back to what we are supposed to be, a REPRESENTATIVE democracy, not a gerrymandered democracy.

Pamela Gonce
Self
Amarillo, TX

Stop gerrymandering to steal our votes. You are supposed to be representing your constituents, not working to help Trump become a King. Think of your own children and grandchildren. This is the most corrupt administration in history and you have abandoned your constituents and your duty to the US Constitution. You have allowed the end to any and all guardrails of our democracy. Live up to your oath of office for once and stop this blatant corruption.

Angela Averitte
Self
Dallas, TX

This proposed map is ridiculous. What in the world do counties miles away from DFW have anything to do with each other? How can one person possibly even represent them? Dividing up Dallas to scoop out pieces and through them in with massive sections of rural Texans is a disservice to them both. Please quit serving this undemocratic un-American un-Texan administration. I'm appalled by this map and that we are even continuing with this blatantly racist agenda. I was a dedicated Republican. No more. Shame on you. Shame.

Margaret O'Connor
Self
Carrollton, TX

I vehemently oppose the proposed redistricting of my district 32. It was gerrymandered the last time to ensure a Republican seat and it is being gerrymandered again even worse. My area of Dallas and Denton county needs to have a representative who speaks for those of us who do in fact live in this suburban, well-educated, progressive thinking community. It is reprehensible to try to take away the voice of my community for political gain.

Julia Howry, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

I am against this attempt to redistribute by the Governor and the President of the US in an attempt to gain more seats in order to control the US House. It is a blatant power move and will only harm our country and our state if our state leadership bows to this demand from our President. Please stand up for what is right and what is fair and THIS is not - it's a clear political power move. You know it and the voters of Texas know it.

Nate Hemby
Self - Data Engineer
Dallas, TX

As a resident of Dallas, I am strongly opposed to this bill. Not only is this redistricting out of cycle and out of nowhere, but it further dilutes my vote on an already unfair map. I want to see this bill struck, and see the redistricting returned to its normal cadence. Redistricting should be non-partisan, fair, and draw boundaries that are reasonably compact, and provide proportional representation to the population. The proposed redistricting accomplishes none of these.

Samuel Vaughn, Dr.
Self - Professor of Music
Denison, TX

I am writing to express my extreme opposition to the plan for redistricting being considered by the Texas Legislature. I find this proposal to be deeply offensive to the principle of fair representation, blatantly anti-democratic and ultimately racist.

By seeking to insulate themselves and their party from accountability to their voters and taking orders directly from the White House, Texas Republicans are further undermining the public's trust in their government and are moving further down a path of authoritarianism. The fact that this proposal came directly from Donald Trump with the express purpose of stacking the midterm election in favor of Republicans should disgust any American who cares about fair representation. The added insult of pretending that this proposal is being undertaken to rectify racism, while disenfranchising communities of color is truly appalling and demonstrates a complete lack of moral character on the part of every person involved in promoting this lie.

I attended the recent hearing in Arlington this past Monday and heard speaker after speaker express deep opposition and anger against this proposal, with only 2 or 3 people expressing any level of support, only one of which was strong support. The dozens of people who spoke against this proposal were outraged and disgusted and ultimately seemed to be completely discounted by the Republican members of the committee who gave no justification for this proposal and often played on their phones, laughed, and sneered.

It is striking to see a room composed primarily of people of color being completely disregarded by a large number of white Republican men as the people try to assert their natural born rights for self-determination. This echoes the racist history of the south and this bill will, if adopted, move the state of Texas back toward a system of two-tiered citizenship, which will affect any person who does not conform to a white, Christian vision of acceptable identity. I urge every member of the committee to take stock of what they actually believe, to recommit to representing the interests of all Texans, and to vote against the adoption of the new map being proposed. Each legislature can either turn back from the toxicity of power at all costs or drive headlong into the fire of division, but you have the power and you are accountable. I urge each legislator to take this seriously and vote against this proposal.

Jacob Trauger
Self, Solar Manager
Austin, TX

This redistricting is clearly unfair and unconstitutional. It's not a left vs. right issue, is American vs. un-American. Silencing the voices of millions of voters is the opposite direction of who we are supposed to be. Shame. Worst of all, I feel pretty sure my complaint will fall on deaf ears and the people in charge don't care about my vote and pride themselves on ignoring me. Prove me wrong and do the right thing for all Texans.

iuliana ladewig
self
humble, TX

I respectfully urge the committee to oppose any redistricting maps that unfairly favor one party or dilute the voting power of communities across our state.

Redistricting should be conducted fairly and in a way that represents all Texans equally, regardless of political affiliation. Gerrymandering maps undermines our trust in our elections, weakens democracy, and silences the voices of voters.

I strongly encourage the committee to prioritize impartial district lines that reflect the true population and diversity of Texas, and to ensure a public, transparent process where all citizens feel heard.

I urge you to stop this attempt to undermine voters and instead support an independent, transparent redistricting process that reflects the true voice of the people of Texas.

Jill Robinaon
Self
Kerrville, TX

Leave alone. Stop the cheating

James Neal
Self
Irving, TX

There’s no need for this blatantly racist exercise. I’m against redistricting and further gerrymandering Texas districts because this is an intentional power grab to dilute Black, Asian, and Latino voters.

Peter Onyisi, Dr
self, professor
Austin, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. Less than four years after the last redistricting, we are being moved around again, with no justification other than letting politicians pick their own constituents. This violates basic principles of fairness. It is very hard to believe that representatives whose district boundaries change every few elections are going to have any meaningful commitment to the interests of the constituents whose votes are being intentionally diluted. This is an attempt to force many Texans into a case of "taxation without representation," and sets the precedent that if Texans vote the "wrong way," at any time the boundaries can be redrawn to stop their voices from being meaningful.
Once again, I urge you to reject this uncalled-for and un-American proposal.

Jakob Reynolds
Self - Attorney
El Paso, TX

I write in strong opposition to the re-drawing of Congressional Districts 16 and 23 as reflected in House Bill 4.

With a county population of 850,000, the El Paso community straddles the borders of three states and two countries. HB 4 will have a significant detrimental effect of removing Fort Bliss, the Army Medical Center and the El Paso Airport from Congressional District 16 (CD16).

The largest population base of current CD16 is San Antonio, a part of Texas Hill Country, which has its own established tourism and agriculture industries and receives over 30 inches of rain a year. El Paso, in contrast, is the westernmost county in Texas spanning 1,057 square miles of desert. Aside from the significantly different climates which affect key policy realities like availability of water and energy infrastructure, El Paso possesses a unique culture and geographic isolation from the rest of Texas. Simply put, El Paso has unique needs that demand ongoing local collaboration, expertise, and representation.

CD23 already stands as one of the largest districts in the US. An area larger than 29 states and spanning 29 counties in Texas from the western suburbs of San Antonio to the outskirts of El Paso. The proposed map removes local representation of critical El Paso community assets, adding them to an already massive district with competing and oftentimes conflicting representative needs and interests. Shifting Ft. Bliss, the Army Medical Center, and the El Paso International Airport means merging them into a Congressional District with other military installations and another airport 500 miles away. El Paso County will too often rank second in terms of resources and priority and the community will suffer as a result.

El Paso County and Ft. Bliss regularly enjoy strong and long-held ties including a rich military history. The Department of Defense's second largest installation at 1.12M acres, Ft. Bliss is intertwined with the El Paso Community: its 36,086 retirees, 45,000 retiree family members, active-duty survivors, military members and civilians live, work, go to school and engage throughout the El Paso region. And Ft. Bliss provides a significant economic anchor for El Paso's economy. The proposed map wholly removes from CD16 from the purview of El Paso representation for the first time in well over a century, leaving a gaping hole of needed, local representation.

The proposed map cracks communities of interest and dilutes local representation of core economic assets. I urge you to amend House Bill 4 to retain current Congressional Districts 16 and 23 as currently drawn.

Donia Kerrigan
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this redistricting. This redistricting should not take place.

Jonathan Tovar
Self
Spring, TX

I'm speaking out as a concerned citizen against the continued use of gerrymandering in Texas. Fair representation is the foundation of any healthy democracy, and gerrymandered districts directly undermine that by allowing politicians to choose their voters instead of voters choosing their representatives.

When district maps are drawn to dilute the voting power of communities—especially communities of color or political minorities—it erodes public trust, silences voices, and skews policy outcomes. Texans deserve competitive, representative districts that reflect the actual population, not political manipulation.

I urge lawmakers and the redistricting commission to commit to transparency, prioritize community input, and adopt maps that respect geographic and community boundaries. We must end partisan gerrymandering and protect the principle of "one person, one vote" across our state.

Traci Grossfeld
Self
Austin, TX

This country was founded in representing its people. I urge your to honor individual rights and input! Leave the map alone! My grandparents came to the United States as sole Survivors of the Holocaust from their families because they believed this was the best place in the world for freedom and a new life to build their family. They succeeded but this state and country are fast becoming reminiscent of the same hateful Nazi nation they somehow survived. PLEASE stop this destruction of our country.

Jackie Hayes, Ms
Self
Forney, TX

As a citizen of Forney, Texas I'm totally against redistricting for the purpose of making fellow citizens not count for racial purposes. This is not the American way!

Lynn Carter
Self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to these redistricting bills. Austin districts should not be split as much as they are, much less split even more. Voters in Austin should be able to choose representatives who match their beliefs. Further, the position that prior maps were drawn by the Republican majority in a manner to discriminate against white people is OUTRAGEOUS!

Anna Pierce
Self
Austin, TX

I am adamantly opposed to this bill. This is a shameful power grab and clear gerrymandering.

Elizabeth Bailey voting self
Flower Mound, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Dallas County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Dante Banks, Mr.
Self
Cypress, TX

I am voicing my opposition to redistricting bill.

Liesl Schmidt
Self, engineer
Austin, TX

There is no ethical reason for redistricting to occur in the state of TX. Unless a new census has been conducted, WHICH IT HAS NOT, to give justifiable cause for the redistricting, then none should occur. The reasons for this attempt at blatant gerrymandering have no basis in law or reason. This is being done with the intent to silence a vocal majority by diminishing their impact. The purpose of elected officials is to work for the people, not attempt to silence us by lessening the impact of our votes. Do the right thing by retaining the current district map and not approving the even more gerrymandered redistricting suggestion.

Sarah Freed
Self
Rockwall, TX

Vehemently AGAINST

Marnie Barnett
Self
College Station, TX

I do not support your efforts to re-draw the maps! Your motivation is only to serve the Republican party, that they may maintain control of Congress. If you do this, you have no regard for the ideals our country was founded on.

Allyson Vaughn
Self
Dallas, TX

This is absolutely absurd and clearly an attempt to solidify power in the most unfair way. I strongly object to this. Republicans have been in charge for the better part of 30 years and if things are broken it's squarely on them. Given the fact that they have already gerrymandered my district away from my representative and I am now represented by people who do not care about the people of this neighborhood or community. To continue this malpractice is in direct opposition to the will of the people and absolutely cheating. Republicans in Texas need to get it together and quit being so selfish and greedy. They like to cast blame on Democrats who haven't had a say in things for a long time because of their blatant cheating. Texans deserve better.

SarahWyatt Stringfellow
Self
San Antonio, TX

I strongly disagree. We should be focused on helping the flood victims.

Susan Casey
Self, retired
Austin, TX

I am very offended by this power grab by retrumplicans because they know how unpopular and cruel their policies and actions. I would like to pick my representatives, rather than have the retrumplicans pick for me! I have been voting for many years and this is disgusting.

Kym Colman
Self, Physician
Austin, TX

Redistricting should not be allowed by politicians. Gerrymandering is not benefitting the interests of the constituents.

Michelle Smith
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest.

Terry Maxwell
Self
austin, TX

For this bill

Misti Scaggs
Private citizens
Longview, TX

Absolutely not! Please do not do this. There is already too much division in the state.

Cheryl Turner
Self/Consultant
Houston, TX

To Whom it May Concern:
I write this public comment in opposite to the proposed redistricting map.

As someone who knows firsthand what it means to fight to have your voice heard - and to be represented by officials who genuinely serve the people - i am deeply concerned by this proposal. Fair representation isn't just about drawing lines. It's about protecting the voices of those who rely on their elected officials to see them, hear them, and respond to their needs.

This proposed map threatens to divide communities that have built power through shared struggle, civic engagement, and collective advocacy. It undermines the principle of "one person, one vote" by diluting the influence of historically marginalized neighborhoods- especially communities of color, working class families, and those who have already had to fight for basic rights and resources.

I urge you to reject the proposed map - not just because of what it does wrong, but because of what it fails to do right. Our communities deserve better. They deserve fairness.

Hope Cervantez
Myself
Ropesville, TX

Stop redistricting! I have experienced problems voting in Hockley County Texas within the last 10 years. STOP REDISTRICTING

Megan Lawrence
Myself
Austin, TX

No no no no and no. This is not representative government when you can redraw the lines whenever you want. The scheme is obvious, hypocritical and racist. Accountability for bad votes is losing reelection.

Michael suarez
Self/ veteran
Corpus christi, TX

I am against the Republican Party trying to vote and take more chairs

Ian Falkenbury
Self, Data Analyst
Austin, TX

This effort is a disgrace to Texans that are still suffering from the aftermath of the floods less than a month ago. It’s distasteful and repulsive that our state government would immediately bend at the knee to an authoritarian federal government and further disenfranchise their own constituents. I urge you to do the right thing and stop partisan gerrymandering in Texas.

Milan Raj
Self Software Engineer
Austin, TX

This redistricting does not represent the constituency of the effected areas. This is a shameful disregard of the citizens right to representation and shows complete apathy for the principles of our nation.

Gail Dickenson
Self - retired
Dallas, TX

I am a native Texan Anglo woman. I am writing in opposition to the proposed redistricting bill of the Texas house of representative. Texas already is racially gerrymandered. The proposed map will add to racial gerrymandering and will only further suppress minority voters in Texas. The Texas I live in stands for equal opportunity and a fair shake for all people. The proposed bill manipulates the state to try to eliminate the rights of minority voters. As a native Texas I believe in honesty and fairness - this bill is not fair and is a dishonest attempt to racially segregate and take away voting power from folks who aren't Anglo.This is a bad bill and I oppose it.

Giana Williams
Self, outreach specialist
Lancaster, TX

I just feel like if you have to manipulate borders and jurisdictions to win, it's not really a win. Please keep Texans at the heart of what you do. Redistricting is not going to help anyone but the budding oligarchy that's happening in this country. We have many other issues going on in this state. Redistricting should be at the bottom of the list of priorities. Please don't waste any more of your fellow Texans' time. Thank you!!

Theresa Johns Myself/retired RDN
Cypress, TX

Please pass HB4 to favor the GOP vote in 5 districts

Robin Petty
Self
League City, TX

I oppose this measure that further serves to make vote outcomes in Texas even further from public opinion. This bill is shameful, politically motivated, and anti-democratic.

Roger Owens
self
Arlington, TX

We don’t need an off cycle redistricting pause. Especially one with hyper partisan intent. If it needs to be redrawn…do it based solely on population and existing county/cuty borders.

Dennis Livingston
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting now at the direction of the POTUS is not in the best interests of an independent minded Texas. When did we become a puppet to the whims of Washington. This move is unnecessarily polarizing at a difficult time for our state. Our focus should be on implementation of the new school voucher law, supporting flood victims, and a million other issues effecting Texans.

Allyson Roylance
Self
Conroe, TX

HB?4 isn't a neutral redistricting effort—it’s a push by the GOP to rig the system and diminishes minority voices all so you can make Texas worse. This map is clearly unconstitutional and anti-American. What's worse is that you know this and you are doing it anyway. You are literally stealing democracy.

Claudia Schneider, N/A
Self
Houston, TX

TX’s proposed mid-decade redistricting—while maps are under litigation, there’s no new census data, and no accurate legal justification—is a violation of Texans’ rights. On 7/30/25, TX GOPs released a map to flip 5 Democratic seats, targeting Black and Latino districts in Houston, DFW, South TX, and Central TX.

Claims based on “voting trends” are a pretext for dilution; population shifts must be measured by decennial census data—not cherry-picked turnout models. This sham is capitulation to Trump, who demanded that TX deliver 5 more GOP seats. His comments—“Just a simple redrawing. We pick up 5 seats”—show intent to entrench power, not improve representation.

Reusing Butler Snow—the same out-of-state firm behind TX’s 2021 maps now in court—confirms bad faith. SCOTUS has held that when the same actors repeat discriminatory conduct, it’s evidence of unlawful intent. In 2011, DOJ cited Butler Snow’s Tommie Cardin for moving minority voters from a performing district with political infrastructure to one with predictably lower turnout—suppressing rising minority voting strength. They’re doing it again. These operatives recycle tactics that are neither race-neutral nor good faith. They weaken communities of color, double-bunk Democrats, and entrench white GOP dominance. And TX GOP use “privilege” to block review of how and what data was used. Not to mention, late-stage GOP claims of corrective intent are a pretext.

Trump’s demands show the true motive, and courts have held using race to achieve political outcomes is intentional discrimination. That is shown here: the map uses race as a proxy for partisanship. It dismantles CD-9 and CD-18, weakens Latino influence in CDs 28 and 15, and increases white-majority districts from 22 to 24. CD-18 was already flagged by the Biden DOJ; adding minority-majority districts is meaningless when voters can't elect candidates of choice. A 50% Latino district drawn to favor Trump +12 isn’t empowering—it’s silencing.

As a Latina Houstonian, I’m negatively impacted. My two homes, just two miles apart in CD-18, would be split—one into CD-7, the other into CD-29. My parents shift from CD-38 to CD-2. My sister’s home in Northside Village is on the unclear edge of CD-7, 18, and 29. Our voices—diluted. Our trusted voting infrastructure—fractured.
Public testimony overwhelmingly opposed this process as it follows a national strategy by Trump and the GOP to suppress civil rights, dismantle multiculturalism, and reverse protections for communities of color. It’s not isolated—it’s coordinated.

Generally, this follows decennial census during the regular session; lawmakers get, on average, 12 weeks for the task. As of 8/1/25, it’s only 11 days into this special session. In 2021, there were 16 public hearings. This cycle: 7. The new map—based on the 2021 map—posted just 2 days before the 8/1/25 hearing. In sum, this isn’t a fair process. It’s a race-based violation of the VRA and Constitution—and must be rejected.

Norman Howden
self, retired
Dallas, TX

The current effort that the Legislature has set in motion to redistrict Texas legislative districts is a blatant and unfair partisan power grab that is being done in support of a tyrannical and corrupt “wannabee” dictatorship.

Democracy only works when people are fairly represented in the legislature. From the founding years of our Nation we have guarded that principle. Conservatives want to defraud us – to take away a fundamental right that we own as citizens.

Texas Democrats are already unfairly limited in their ability to have votes count. When there are only 18 Congressional Democrats elected among 38 Districts, it is quite clear that a huge amount of Gerrymandering is in place – because there are about 8 million registered Democrats and only about 6 million registered Republicans.

Using partisanship to shape political participation in support of dictatorship is corrupt and is simply cheating.

Robbie Raker
SELF
Katy, TX

Texas need to stop the redistricting shenannigans. Our state must allow for proper representation of our population. I am against the proposed redistricting map.

Home Home
Self - Pilot
Porter, TX

Strongly oppose

Michelle Berry
Self/Retired
Cypress, TX

I am opposed to HB4 redistricting. It is a blatant attempt at unlawful gerrymandering. This is being done mid-decade right before midterms. We have an entire district that hasn’t been represented since March because our governor won’t call a special election. This is a sad attempt by the Republicans to form districts in their favor as requested by the current President.

Samantha Galindo
Self
Cypress, TX

I want this bill to be rejected by the Texas legislators. My representative should live in my town not two towns away

Ken Rafanan
self
San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose any redistricting that results in the further disenfranchisement of communities of color.

Vicente Martinez
Self
Brownsville, TX

We need to ensure our districts are representative of our state! These maps will cause so much harm to the communities we exist in. You need to do the right thing and protect our democracy. Shame if you vote to approve these maps! What future do you want to leave to our generations to come? Why don't you care about your legacy! You should ensure you leave the state a better place rather that destroy our democracy. Please vote against this.

Oluwayomi Adefuye
self, student
Garland, TX

Hello,
If Texas wants to really "be for the people" and make this a better state, then redistricting is NOT the way to go.

Elizabeth Morris
Self - Technical Writer
Corinth, TX

There is no rational reason to do redistricting right now unless you're trying to cheat the system into ensuring Texas does not fully reflect the spectrum of its residents. You ought to be ashamed of yourselves. You're not drawing us out, you're drowning us out. Stop this ridiculousness and get back to the real work at hand for ALL Texans.

Meredith Roach
Self
Austin, TX

Members of the legislature and Governor Abbott,

I come to you not as a political opponent, but as a concerned Texan—one of millions who believe in the fundamental principles of fair representation, transparency, and accountability. What we are witnessing in this latest round of redistricting is not a reflection of the will of the people—it is a manipulation of it. It is, quite frankly, a sham.

Redistricting should be about ensuring that every Texan, regardless of zip code, race, or political affiliation, has an equal voice in shaping the future of this state. Instead, what we've seen are maps drawn behind closed doors to serve political power, not public interest. These maps dilute the voices of communities of color, fracture neighborhoods, and undermine the democratic process. That is not representation—that is self-preservation by those already in power.

Let's be clear: this isn't about what's best for Texas. It's about what's politically expedient for those trying to align Texas more closely with the federal administration's power structures, even when that alignment goes against the values and needs of everyday Texans. Our leaders were elected to serve the people of Texas—not Washington, not party kingpins, and certainly not their own reelection campaigns.

We need courage in leadership now more than ever. Not the courage to follow polls or partisan agendas, but the moral courage to stand up for democracy, even when it's inconvenient.

Gerrymandering is not governance. It's a failure of imagination, a betrayal of trust, and a rejection of the diversity and dynamism that make Texas strong. We are better than this. You are capable of better than this.

If you truly love this state, then prove it. Show the courage to resist manipulation, and the conviction to lead with fairness. It is time.

Thank you.

Lorena Dunlap
self
San Antonio, TX

This redistricting map is striking at the heart of democracy and what the colonies fought the British crown over...taxation without representation. This map is a flagrant abuse of power in undermining real representation of one person, one vote. The redistricting has historically taken place after the 10 yr census which is 5 years away. Another abuse of power by the Trump administration and the Republican Party of Texas, courtesy of Greg Abbott.

Shannon Potts
Self
Austin, TX

The special session should focus on urgent state needs like disaster recovery from the Hill country floods, not a politically motivated redistricting effort that undermines voters' rights and diverts attention from critical issues.

The proposed map is a brazen, racially discriminatory power grab designed to suppress Black and Latino voting power, targeting districts where communities of color elect their preferred candidates, which echoes Texas's shameful history of racial discrimination in voting.

I am strongly opposed to President Trump's direct pressure on Texas to redraw maps mid-decade for partisan gain, calling it an unconstitutional interference that encourages other Republican-led states to follow suit and erode democratic norms.

Texas needs to uphold fair representation by preserving communities of interest, ensuring competitive districts, and reject maps that artificially inflate Republican seats from 25 to potentially 30 out of 38, despite only winning 56% of the statewide vote in 2024.

Lauren Bellatti
Self, Teaching Assistant
Austin, TX

As a Texas native who left Texas for 10 years but moved back lst year to pursue my PhD, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Elinor Torres, Mrs
Self - Retired
League City, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Varun Unnikrishnan
self. Software Engineer
Austin, TX

This is blatant gerrymandering, and is not a sustainable practice. Districts should be grouped geographically so people are represented fairly. No person can reasonably represent both me in South Austin, and also someone living in Corpus Christi, as is the proposed District 27. Please do not allow this redistricting to move forward. Doing this now will just open the door for someone to do this again in the future, and it is best to use common sense and not play partisan games with people's lives.

Tom Campbell
Self, retired school teacher
Lago Vista, TX

This is ridiculous, leave things as they are and redistrict every 10 years. I am tired of changing representatives; I am happy with McCaul. The prior rep was worthless. You are making Texas look like a totally corrupt state.

James Casto
Self, retired
Austin, TX

I am against this attempt to redistrict any part of Texas. This is a blatant power grab by President Trump and he's using Governor Abbott to get what he wants, which is as he said "5 more seats". Don't let Abbott or Trump do this. Leave our voting districts as they are and don't mess with them.

Melva Scott
Self
North Richland Hills, TX

It is imperative this proposed restricting bill pass to rectify the original redistricting found to be unconstitutional as it was based on racial gerrymandering. Texas is a red state yet we have districts set up to purposefully favor Democrat voters and gain an advantage. This is unfair and should have been rectified several years ago. It is past time our districts fairly represent Texas voters. Pass this bill please and correct this unconstitutional travesty.

Juan Morales, Mr
self
Eagle Pass, TX

No county should be part of more than one congressional district. This bill should be voted down and replaced by a bill that updates the map to ensure that every county in Texas only belongs to ONE congressional district.

Annalyn Parrish
Self - homemaker, homeschooler mother, and copy-editor
EL PASO, TX

I am a long-time resident and voter in El Paso, Texas, and am writing to protest the proposed redistricting map proposal. As the sixth-largest city in Texas, home to Fort Bliss, and located 500 miles or more away from the larger city centers in Texas, El Paso would be severely negatively impacted by this proposed map.

Our city is already overlooked by the Texas state government. We need to have local representation - someone who knows the city and its constituents, the unique needs of our border region, and is committed to working for El Paso and El Pasoans. Suppose El Paso is moved to this proposed district that spans from San Antonio to the Borderland. In that case, we will have to fight even harder to access the necessary resources to care for our veterans, military, and general population. I believe that our proposed representative--who votes to cut Medicare, Medicaid, veterans and nutrition programs, infrastructure improvements, and more--will focus on the needs of the constituents who are closer to San Antonio, and El Paso will be neglected. This will be detrimental to the health and well-being of our city and the people who live here. Therefore, I protest this redistricting and ask the Committee to make a better decision for the representation of El Paso. Thank you.

Margaret Whitt
self--retired (also a precinct chair and my constituents by far feel the same way).
Murphy, TX

I strongly urge you to pass this bill because the vast majority of Texans (including those in my precinct, my political clubs, my neighborhood, and my charity organizations) want better/fairer representation than what they currently have, and they believe this is a step in the right direction. It may not be perfect or please all the people (which you can't do anyway), but it is far better than what we currently have and better reflects the voting patterns and voting history of our state. People are moving here from California and other states for what we offer in common sense, restraint, law and order, and mostly good government. Let's keep it that way! Thank you for your consideration and service. Maggie

Kelly Blanscet
Self, Creative Director
Austin, TX

Dear Texas State House,

I am writing to express my deep concern and firm opposition to the recently proposed redistricting maps. These maps are not only deeply flawed—they are a direct affront to fair representation in our state.

As a resident of Austin, I am particularly alarmed by how the maps dilute the voting power of our community. The redistricting process has resulted in gerrymandered districts that clearly favor political interests over the will of the people. This disenfranchises voters, undermines trust in our democratic institutions, and weakens the accountability of elected officials.

What's more troubling is that this redistricting is occurring outside the normal 10-year cycle following the census—an irregular and unnecessary move that appears to be motivated more by national political pressure than by any genuine need to serve Texas residents.

Redistricting should be fair, transparent, and rooted in the principle of equal representation. This process falls far short of that standard.

I urge you to reject these maps and demand a process that centers the needs and rights of the people of Texas—not partisan advantage.

Sincerely,
Kelly Blanscet
Austin, Texas

Bethany Wallace
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support this bill as it is an undemocratic move that doesn't take into consideration the majority of the peoples' views. The fact that redistricting is brought up now, and not at the elected time it is supposed to be done, shows just how biased this bill is and should be considered as unconstitutional. When are we going to stop letting bullies control our state government. Please do not pass this bill as it will jeopardize the future of Texas politics and not in a good way for either side of the political line. Start thinking about the future and not the present.

Jessica Meurer
Self
Georgetown, TX

Hello,
My name is Jessica Meurer and I am in Williamson County, Texas. I strongly oppose the congressional redistricting. This is so clearly gerrymandering to benefit the Republican Party. Texas Republicans are already destroying all public institutions and services for their constituents. When will it be enough? Stop pandering to Trump. Do not pass this bill.

Libby Taylor
Self
Beaumont, TX

DO NOT PASS HB4! I'M SO SICK OF THIS RIDICULOUS LAW THAT YOU REPUBLICANS ARE TRYING TO PASS. DO YOU NOT SEE THAT THIS IS SHUTTING PEOPLE OF COLOR OUT OF THEIR DISTRICTS. I PRAY THAT SOMEONE IN YOUR PACK SEES THE DIVISION THAT THIS IS CAUSING FOR ALL.

Janiece Taylor, Mx
Self
corpus christi, TX

We have much glaring issues in the state of Texas other than that what immigrants are doing to them and put them in already unsafe circumstances not just by our federal officers, but by miscellaneous bounty hunters, we show the rest of our constituents that more important issues don't matter what we have issues with our education with our water quality with our air quality you were worried about unjustly profiling Latinos whom have committed no crime and are no danger to the greater Texas

Jeffrey Kaufmann
Self
Buda, TX

I am commenting against HB 4. This bill would establish a discriminatory map of US Congressional districts. The Republican majority has the votes to pass this unjust map. But they must know it will remove the representation of many Texans and substitute the will of Donald J. Trump. The Texas Legislature did not plan for this bill. Governor Abbott placed it on the special agenda to meet the demand of an imperial and power-hungry president. This map will disenfranchise many Texans in order to allow a massive redistribution of representation to the republican party which is becoming more and more extreme and unrepresentative of Texas. In statewide elections over the past decade, Republican candidates have gotten around 52 to 53 percent of the vote, while Democratic candidates consistently earn between 46 to 48 percent. But this map is intended to give Republicans 79% of our state's Congressional seats. This is a blatant power grab in the service of the president. Do not pass this map and HB 4.

Karen Glina
"self" Bookkeeper
Austin, TX

it is unfair to redistrict when there was no new population count. It is obviously a political party deciding to steal my rights.

Christa Salgado
Self
Dallas, TX

I'm a white Christian lady, formerly proud Texan, and I feel strongly that, agree or not, our government was designed to support difference of opinion and civil discussion. My parents always voted red so I thought I should, too, but over the last few years THIS version of the GOP is not recognizable. As it now stands, I could never vote that way again. One party should not rule the land; the checks and balances built in are there for a reason. All things should have moderation, and our district boundaries need this, too. Difference of thought, perspective, cultural values and beliefs, and diversity of representation MATTER. Our government officials should reflect this beautiful diversity, as well, to best represent the incredible and rich melting pot that is our Lone Star State.
I plead with you, please refrain from redistricting. Please ensure all of our neighbors have true and real representation in our local and state government. Thank you.

Denice Trevino
Self, Business Analyst
San Antonio, TX

Please put a stop to the redistricting

Jennifer Zerangue
Self, homemaker
Nevada, TX

I support the proposed redistricting plan!

Kay Smith, Mrs.
Self—Retired
Houston, TX

This is a bald-faced effort to silence people of color, who typically vote as Democrats. Drawing the lines to deny people the right to elect their representatives to Congress is a cheap play by wanna-be authoritarians. This is not what our Founding Fathers had in mind. I thought conservatism was about protecting our value system, not bowing to the president, whose approval rating is sinking fast. This redistricting effort is clearly illegal.

brenda miles, Mrs
self/ retired
Granite Shoals, TX

i support redistricting

Jennifer Garcia
Self
Austin, TX

As a Texan and a voter living in a district directly impacted by this proposed map, I am deeply concerned by what appears to be a blatant, mid-decade power grab—not a legitimate redistricting effort. Texas' population growth over the past decade has been overwhelmingly driven by people of color, particularly Hispanic and Black communities. Yet the proposed map fails to reflect that reality in fair and proportional representation.

Instead of honoring the will of a changing electorate, this map doubles down on gerrymandering—splitting communities of color, dismantling existing minority districts, and reconfiguring boundaries to favor Republican candidates in areas that have historically voted Democratic. The fact that these changes are occurring mid-decade, outside of the normal redistricting cycle tied to the census, is both unprecedented and highly troubling. It's even more so knowing that this effort was reportedly spurred by political pressure from Donald Trump's team to secure a few more House seats for his party.

This isn't about democracy—it's about entrenching power. Politicians are supposed to be chosen by voters, not the other way around. When district lines are manipulated to dilute voices and secure guaranteed outcomes, elections become performative. That's not representation. That's rigging the game.

What's happening in Texas could set a dangerous precedent. If other states follow suit—redrawing maps based on political strategy rather than constitutional process—we risk dismantling the very foundation of representative democracy.

The proposed map changes also raise serious legal and ethical red flags. The U.S. Department of Justice has previously flagged several Texas districts as unconstitutional racial gerrymanders, and courts have consistently found Texas maps in violation of the Voting Rights Act nearly every decade since the 1960s. That history, combined with the current proposal's clear intent to pack and crack minority communities, suggests we're heading down a familiar—and unlawful—path once again.

Texans deserve better. We deserve districts that reflect our communities, our diversity, and our democratic right to choose leaders who represent us—not serve the interests of a party or a president. I urge others to speak out and demand that our democracy not be carved up for political convenience.

Jordan Bellquist
self
Austin, TX

I’m writing to oppose this bill. Abbott’s proposal to redraw congressional districts mid-decade targets voters of color by attempting to erase their representation and potentially pits two Democratic districts in Central Texas against one another. The sole purpose of this bill is for Texas Republicans to acquiesce to Trump’s demand of creating five more Republican districts so he can control the House. Abbott is following what Trump asked him to do regardless of whether it’s timely, ethical, legal or in the best interests of Texans.

I live in Congressman Doggett’s district 37 which this bill directly affects. This bill proposes combining his district with Congressman Casar’s to create a lone Democratic district in Austin effectively minimizing District 35, which was created as result of a court order to ensure fair representation of that area. Redrawing lines to take away a court ordered district that protects the rights of the people living there is highly unethical, possibly illegal, and reminiscent of Abbott’s attempt to racially gerrymander this same district in 2017. Trump’s acknowledgement that District 35 was illegally racially gerrymandered initially is now his impetus to racially gerrymander it again.

Overall, this is a rushed and unfair redistricting process. It does not give constituents enough time to voice their opinion especially in the aftermath of catastrophic deadly floods in Central Texas on which our lawmakers should be concentrating.

Elizabeth Cullingford
Self, professor of English
Austin, TX

This is a partisan gerrymander designed to follow the instructions of Donald Trump as transmitted to Greg Abbott. It is aimed to disenfranchise people of color in Houston, and to make a mockery of Austin's liberal population by giving us 4 Republicans and only one Democrat to represent us. There is no way this can be justified. But beware: it may have repercussions Republicans won't like.

Mari Garay Caldera
Self
San Antonio, TX

100% ,,I Do Not Agree With This Redistricting Process “

Pravin Kelkar
South Asian Texans
Round Rock, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans

Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,

As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.

South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.

But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.

In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.

This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.

What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?

Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.

When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.

We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.

We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.

Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.

Pravin Kelkar
South Asian Texans

Lyman Hardy
self
Austin, TX

The proposed Congressional map is an affront on Democracy and Representative government. It is a power grab meant to silence voices and nullify votes. It is a direct attack on Black and Brown communities. The lines drawn in the proposed map are specifically designed to disenfranchise communities of color, especially Black folks in Houston and Dallas/Ft. Worth areas and minority communities in Austin and South Texas. It will impede the governments ability to serve the people which it governs, and remove the opportunity for Texas citizens to meaningfully participate in Representative government. I strongly urge you to vote against this brazen power grab.

Thank you for your attention.

Art Pronin
Jewish community leader
Houston, TX

I'm Art Pronin a Jewish community leader in Houston. I'm appalled by the maps. You divide Jewish community into parts based on where located north or south of brays bayou. In these times Jews should be under one district to not dilute their voices. The coalitions in these new lines are chopped up. The lgbtqia community is split as well blsck community like acres Holmes. I urge you to place communities together not apart.

Kelley Lawrence
Self
Allen, TX

There is no need to redraw districts at this time. We do not have new census data, and it is NOT what the people in Texas want.

Frank Drenner III
Self
Richardson, TX

Redistricting at this time is a misuse of power and a denial of our constitutional rights. This effort must be stopped before democracy becomes a farce in Texas.

Jessica Villarreal
Self - CAD Engineer
Clarksville, TX

I am a NE Texas resident who opposes HB 4 and I am asking members of the house to do the same. This bill will strip Americans of a voice in the midterm elections and is downright gerrymandering.

Amanda Egan
self, project coordinator
HOUSTON, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting bill.

Renee Jordan
Self
Plano, TX

I condemn this radical redistricting. I am speaking out against the dangerous precedent established by this blatantly partisan gerrymandering. I do not support it.

Travis Fell
Self, self-employed
Cedar Park, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map. Texas should use recent federal court decisions on the Voting Rights Act to draw federal House of Representatives districts that more accurately reflect the true nature of the Texas electorate.

Penny Messman
Self Teacher
Austin, TX

I am a Democrat in Texas who is increasingly frustrated with the direction the state is going. I am also dismayed that my voice is going to matter less and less because the governor bows to President Trump's whims. Instead of taking the chance and letting everyone's voices be heard, the state would rather disenfranchise a sizable population of Democratic voters because it's more important to appease the almighty Trump and his MAGA followers than to listen to our voices.

We are the ones who live in this state, and many of the Texas citizens are frustrated with issues like the crackdown on immigration, the lack of reproductive health, the lack of protection for natural disasters now that FEMA has been gutted, the lack of health care protection, SNAP benefits, and what about our aging power grid that no one has bothered to fix? This is only a sampling of what we are concerned about. We deserve better, and everyone's voices need to be heard at the voting box. That is the American way.

Why is it okay for Trump to demand a new map to get more seats? Since when has that become okay? Why is this state government bowing to Trump? You are supposed to work for your constituents. The constituents are supposed to choose their representatives because you are public servants. We are supposed to choose who represents us. You are NOT supposed to choose your voters. Why does Texas have this backwards, and why are you afraid to represent the people? You are supposed to represent the people, not Trump. Keep the current maps and redistrict after the next census. Listen to your constituents. Don't disenfranchise us. We want to make Texas, and the country great, and that can only happen if our voices are heard as well. Thank you.

Mark Meredith
Self/Tetired
Athens, TX

This redistricting process is a flagrant power grab instigated by state government officials out of fear of a criminal pedophile president. You should grow a spine and realize you are not serving your constituents, the people of Texas, but a malignant growth on our democratic republic named Donald Trump. Rest assured you will be held accountable by voters.

Rhonda Lorkowski
Self/retired
Euless, TX

You must support HB4. “I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.” Help keep Texas pro constitution and free.

Michelle Onorato
Self
HOUSTON, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to the redistricting plan proposed by the Texas Legislature . The maps aa they are currently proposed will dilute voting power of minority communities in our state's major population centers and amounts to gerrymander..

Cammy Rais
Self, speech-language pathologist
Coppell, TX

The proposed redistricting map is one of the most blatant, brazen examples of political cheating I have ever seen. If republicans believed their policies could stand up to public scrutiny, these types of un-American, anti-democratic games would be unnecessary. Republicans know their policies are unpopular, especially now that they have made protecting a prolific pedophile the official party stance, therefore they turn to mass disenfranchisement-by-dilution. Shame on anyone who chooses to support this deceitful plan over championing true representation of the people.
I oppose this redistricting plan in the strongest possible terms. Honor the spirit of the US: reject political bastardization of Texas districts.

Ashley Narup
Self
Leander, TX

Please focus on the important needs of our state. The families and communities affected by the flood are in need of immediate assistance. There is no reason to work on redistricting when the lines were just redrawn in 2021.

Irene Quintanilla
self
San Antonio, TX

This redistricting effort is an unfair maneuver to disenfranchise thousands of voices of legitimate citizens of Texas for unequal and partisan gain. The clear and biased impetus for this effort is unethical and disingenuous to our state government's articulated beliefs. I urge you to represent ALL the people of Texas as you are sworn to do and reject this clearly partisan power grab.

Robyn McAllister
Self
Houston, TX

I oppose the unfair redistricting! We do not cater to the president. Your job is to serve your constituents!

Taylor Mooney
Self/Director of Outreach
San Antonio, TX

I am a Texan resident and am strongly against this congressional redistricting. It is neither the proper time to look at doing this, nor does it accurately represent the residents in this state.

Jacob Weber
Self - Marketer
Manchaca, TX

Not only is this a blatant power grab, but this is an affront to the very spirit of our democracy. For far too long, Texas Republicans have “cracked” and “packed” the districts to demoralize the voters and keep voter turnout low, to hold on to unearned power. This is the most egregious example of that, and is blatant cheating. There is no rational, nor righteous justification for this. This willful corruption, at the behest of a tyrant whose approval numbers are tanking, will only serve to turn the people further against the Republican Party. Do better for the people you’re supposed to represent.

Diane Tate
Self
Coppell, TX

Do not be a cheater. Be fair in all aspects and let the best person CHOSEN BY THE PEOPLE win

Adele Aboutok
Self
Livingston, TX

Please strike down partisan redistricting in Texas. Districts should be determined by a non-partisan group charged with guaranteeing that everyone eligible has the opportunity to vote according to his or her conscience. If you, our lawmakers, have a conscience, you will see that this is the right thing to do. Have the courage to stand up for the rights of your constituents. Do NOT approve this bill.

Kirsten Murchison
Self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting. The maps drawn by the Texas legislature intentionally break up areas of minority and opposition voters, reducing their influence in elections. The districts should represent the people who live in them. Creating districts over 100’s of miles in order to manipulate voters is unfair. It shows the disdain the leaders of Texas have for the citizens by using us as pawns. The time and work of the State government is better spent working on issues that affect the health and safety of the people of Texas - like ensuring the loss of life over July 4th do not occur again.

Kevin OConnor
Self
Austin, TX

Shame on any American that can support this direct overthrow of Democratic values this country was founded on. We are not dumb, please restore our faith in sane government. Please reject this blatantly corrupt redistricting plan.

Rachel Yurek
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am opposed to HB4. Redistricting is not necessary mid-census cycle, and redistricting to make sure you win control is pathetic, undemocratic, morally reprehensible and just plain lazy. Holding sham hearings to allegedly LISTEN to public comments only to release your map 48 hours later is equally galling. Is there no low to which the GOP won't sink anymore? The limit does not exist.

Rocio Gonzalez
Self
San Antonio, TX

The movement to redistrict Texas is a blatant appeasement to the president and not a representation of the people of Texas. This is not what a democratic republic is supposed to look like. Gerrymandering does not serve the people. An obvious grab for power.

Deb Plante, Mrs
Self
Allen, TX

Stop the steal of our districts. Do not cheat for him. Do not gerrymander. This is unethical behavior and unacceptable

Jennifer Clifton
Self
Dallas, TX

I am completely against the redistricting and gerrymandering of these districts. This is outside of the normal schedule, and its only purpose is to discriminate and place Republicans in power. This is illegal, discriminatory and is wasting valuable time and taxpayer money. Where are the actions on flood relief or protecting the public education of our children?

Barbara Ivy
Self Leakey, TX

I oppose the redistricting maps currently proposed

Tamira Olbrich
Self small business owner
San Antonio, TX

I believe Texas has bigger priorities than partisan redistricting at the request of the president

Rebecca Lormor
Self
Richardson, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting bill, intended to unfairly favor Republicans.

Janet Young
self/retired
Houston, TX

My name is Janet Young. I am a resident of Houston, TX 77005, Congressional District 7 in Harris County.

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the redrawing of the Texas Congressional map. It was done by the Republican-led legislature four years ago. Now, at the request of the President, you are making a more blatant attempt at racial gerrymandering so that he will have five more winnable congressional districts in next year's midterm election. Instead, why not consider leaving the maps as they are and honestly working to win votes legitimately— the way it is normally done in a democracy.

The new map of Harris County Congressional Districts makes it clear— You are not only diluting minority votes, but in some cases also eliminating them. Districts 9, 18, and 29 bear no resemblance whatsoever to how they were previously drawn. In CDs 9 and 18, the racial gerrymandering by Republicans is absolutely appalling. Democratic Representative Al Green's District 9 has been moved entirely into conservative eastern Harris County, a loss for both the representative and his constituents who will miss their beloved representative of 20 years. As for predominantly Democratic CD 18, the northern half of the district is completely gone. The racial gerrymandering here could not be more obvious or more illegal.

Greg Abbott is putting the request of a lying, corrupt felon before the rights of Texas voters. We see what Republicans are doing— stealing votes, weakening the strength of minority voters, making greatly underserved communities more so, and trying to win at any cost, even if it means trampling on voting rights, civil rights, and the Constitution.

You should be ashamed of your blatant cheating and power grab. Such unabashedly crooked behavior is a a sign of a weak, desperate, and bullying party. Texas deserves much better.

Amy Recktenwall
Self
Katy, TX

I oppose the redistricting for a number of reasons. First, the current maps are in litigation due to unfair representation of the ethnic mix of Texas. The state has said in their defense under oath that the current maps are in fact accurate representation of all Texans. If this is a true statement, then the current maps are accurate and no redistricting is required. As no new census data has been gathered or any large demographic changes or mass migration has occurred, what is the antithesis of this change? This brings me to my second issue with this redistricting. This redistricting has been undertaken at the direct demand of the President who stated publicly he will have "Texas add 5 Republican seats." The executive branch influencing the state's election processes is illegal. This is blatant vote manipulation by the executive branch and is an illegal act in violation of the US constitution. Lastly, our current maps are gerrymandered and underrepresent our diverse Hispanic and underserved communities. This is the reason for the current litigation in progress. The new maps further exasperate this current injustice in the Texas district maps. This unlawful behavior by our elected representatives is unacceptable. America was founded on the idea that "taxation without representation" is unjust as is clearly outlined in the Declaration of Independence. The basis of this redistricting is not only illegal under the constitution (at request of the Executive branch) but also undermines the basis if our founding principles as a country. Do not allow this injustice to occur and undermine the vary ideals and values our great nation was founded upon.

M Allison MCGUIRE, Mrs
Self
OZONA, TX

I vehemently oppose any redistricting at this time. The last map was approved and voted for by the appropriate body. A new map is not due and should not be even a topic of discussion!

Jennifer Jackson
Self
Richmond, TX

I am opposed to the effort at redistricting currently underway. The districts in Texas are already so egregious as to miss the point of having proper representation for local interests. A complete waste of time when we are still trying to recover from a major flood.

Tyler Markham
Self
Austin, TX

The House should be focused on providing flood relief, affordable housing, and creating transportation solutions. Not doing a last minute redistricting that silences the voices of urban Texans. I strongly oppose this map.

Carrie Ives
self
Richardson, TX

This redistricting mid-decade is supposedly driven by the fact that the Republicans in Texas drew illegal maps the last time they drew them. How about we try drawing maps that actually reflect the makeup of Texas rather than the Republican party? That means that about 15 districts should be likely to be won by Democrats given that 43 percent of Texas voters voted for Harris. Given that the current maps are under judicial review for racial bias, why not set up maps that reflect the racial profile of Texas? So, that would be 15 districts that are majority white, 15 that are majority Hispanic, 5 that are majority black, and 3 that don't have a majority of one race. Or we could actually set up districts based more on geography and cities. I noticed that the proposed map has a little finger sticking into Austin around the governor's mansion.This is the kind of silliness that divides communities. Why is most of the city I am part of, in a completely separate district from me?
I was raised that rules should be fair and discussed before hand. This mid-decade redistricting is a clear sign that the Republicans are only interested in power not actually interested in listening to Texans. I have watched my beloved state fall further and further behind the rest of the nation in quality of life as Republicans worry about culture war issues and not issues that are critical to Texans like good schools, good roads, and good weather warning systems.

Katherine Whatley
Self
Austin, TX

I am totally opposed to this unlawful power grab to redraw the House districts in Texas . This action is unnecessary and attempts to dilute the voting rights of hundreds of thousands of Texas voters. We are currently facing attacks on the rule of law and the rights of individuals. I cannot accept this assault on my rights and the rights of Texas voters

Celina Galvan, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

The Texas Legislature is focused on President Trump’s power grab. Keep the State of Texas great for all residents not just the few!

Morgan Davis
self
Dallas, TX

If your power only comes through such ridiculous redistricting, are you truly powerful or are you merely pathetic? Anyone with eyes can see that you are cowards grasping at straws.

Herb Kienle
Self
Leander, TX

Redistricting to buy an election is unethical

Michaela Upshaw
Self
Flower Mound, TX

I am vehemently against this blatant attempt to silence democratic and minority voters. I reject the newly drawn maps and hope the legislature will do the same.

Nathalia Delgadillo, Ms self/ texas dshs
Austin, TX

I am a member of the current 37th district of Austin. The definition of gerrymandering from google is to manipulate the boundaries of (an electoral constituency) so as to favor one party or class.
achieve (a result) by manipulating the boundaries of an electoral constituency. That is clearly what is happening in this preemptive redrawing of the district map. As a brown women, I will not sit here and be silent as this redraw attempts to drown out black and brown voices. If the district map were fair, it would not look like the convoluted mess that is being proposed across our largest cities. As a resident of austin, I reject the proposal of a redraw of the district map that is not meant to occur at this time.

You all look like a fool. The word Gerrymandering is even used by republican politicians, admitting to this unfair practice.

Kathleen Sinnott
Self
Fort Worth, TX

As a lifelong Texan, I have stayed here because I have deep love for this state and its people. All of the people. Black, white, Asian, straight, gay, republican and democrat. I have hope in Texas that WE can stand up for ourselves. I kindly ask that before voting to approve this bill, you ask yourself these questions.
Who is this helping?
Who is this hurting?
What do my constituents want?
How can I truly make a positive change in Texas with this vote?

If you ask yourself and honestly answer those questions, you'd know the only person this helps is our President and it hurts every single Texan. Every single one of us who vote, who take pride in Texas, who take pride in our civic duties.

Please, do not redistrict Texas. Not a single person will get fair representation. This is against every single thing you took oath to when you were VOTED into your seats.

Take a seat, say no. Tell DT that no one messes with Texas. Texas protects Texas. Please have a heart and a soul, not just a fat pocket.

Julie Mitchell
Self
Corsicana, TX

Gerrymandering has no place in a democracy. It’s disheartening that cheating is even being considered. ALL Texans deserve to vote for representation that isn’t rigged. All politicians should work for our vote - not rig the elections.

Shannon Proctor
Self, Registered Nurse
Fort Worth, TX

My name is Shannon Proctor, and I am a resident of Fort Worth in District 12. I am a registered nurse with 19 years of experience, and over the past two decades, I have worked at nearly every major hospital in Tarrant County. I have cared for my fellow Texans through ice storms, blackouts, floods, and pandemics. No matter the crisis, I’ve shown up—because that’s what we do. Texans are known for our resilience and grit.

I am submitting this statement in opposition to the proposed redistricting plan currently under consideration in this special session. I have contacted every one of my elected representatives to express my concerns, and not a single one has responded. Despite the silence, this process continues to move forward—rushed and without justification—redrawing maps that are barely settled.

It is clear to me, and to many other Texans, that this redistricting effort is not about representing the people. It is about preserving political power and protecting incumbents who might struggle in a fair and competitive election. Even lifelong conservative voters are beginning to recognize the pattern and question the motives behind a mid-decade special session like this one.

As a mother raising three children in this state, I want them to grow up in a Texas where representation is earned through ideas and integrity—not engineered through manipulation. Our communities deserve to remain whole. Our votes deserve to count. Our democracy deserves better.

Please understand: we are paying attention. Texans are watching this process, and we will remember the choices made here.

Hannah Kania
Self
Round Rock, TX

I OPPOSE the congressional gerrymandering and redistricting.

Marissa Zepeda
Self
San Antonio, TX

I vehemently oppose this partisan effort to redistrict our state for political gain. Gerrymandering must end and all Texans should be represented fairly, not in such a calculated manner in order for one party to maintain political control.

Cortney Hollinger
Self
Austin, TX

I’m writing to express my strong opposition to HB4. This bill continues the harmful practice of gerrymandering, undermining fair representation and weakening the power of voters across Texas. Every community deserves a voice, and districts should be drawn to reflect the people, not to protect political power.

I urge you to reject HB4 and instead support a transparent, nonpartisan redistricting process that upholds the integrity of our democracy.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Dale Story, Professor
Self--Retired Political Science Professor
Houston, TX

Dale Story, Houston. I live in US House District 18, for which Abbot refused to call a prompt election to replace the deceased Sylvester Turner. I am writing now to strongly oppose HB 4 as an unprecedented and racist bill to redistrict Texas Congressional Districts. I have lived in Texas for 74 years (less 6 spent out-of-state for graduate school). I taught Political Science and US Politics in a large public university in Texas for 38 years. I have never seen or would have ever predicted such an unprecedented and racially biased grab for power. You redistricted in 2021, with two additional seats awarded to Texas due to population growth between 2010 and 2020 (which communities of color provided 95%). Yet you awarded those two districts to white voters. After the end of the regular session, King Trump decides he needs the protection of flipping 5 seats in Texas from Democrat to Republican. He gives Abbott the order and provides maps from a Republican racial gerrymandering expert from suburban Virginia. And here we are. Rather than focus on the important business of flood protection, you are bowing to the personal agenda of Trump. Under your map, the number of districts that elect a candidate of choice will decrease from 13 to 8 (out of 38). This will leave communities of color with only 21% of the congressional seats in the TX delegation despite making up over 60% of the state's population. The State of Texas has opposed redistricting litigation for over four years by claiming its maps were drawn entirely without consideration of race. However, the Department of Justice letter contradicts the sworn testimony of Texas's lead map drawers and its elected officials, and is wrong. Other than taking directions from Trump and his Virginia mapmaker, I don't think you know what you are doing. I have attended two of the recent hearings with public comments in Austin and Houston. I heard nothing but criticism of this process. I did not hear anyone defending it. I am anxious to hear if anyone in the August 1 hearing provides any support of the new map and this procedure. Houston state Sen. Carol Alvarado stated it best on Hello Houston as she blasted the new map. "This is the biggest pile of Texas turd I've seen in a long time and the Republicans are about to step in it," Alvarado said. "This does not pass the smell test."

Margaret Hylton
Self
Belton, TX

I support redistricting for Texas.

Kathy Phillips
self retired
Bulverde, TX

I am in favor of the redistricting map. Texas has had an influx of citizens since the 2020 census. The redistricting map proposed by Rep. Hunter is a good representation of the makeup of those districts. There are arguments that this map affects minority representation. However, this is not the case. As an example, District 35 has long been drawn to ensure a Democrat held that seat lynda baker

Self
Austin, TX

I beseech you to morally uphold the gift of our democracy and focus instead on the flood crisis -

Sylvia Carreon, President
Mission Valley Civic Association
El Paso, TX, TX

Redistricting !! As president of the Mission Valley Civic Association, I attended all the meeting of our City Redistricting in 2022 because it was the designated time to do that project. We need to do the same with the redistricting of congressional seats which are supposed to be done every 10 years, and it is not that time yet. President Trump is only one human being on this planet who wants to rule like a Dictator and will succeed if we allow this matter to Pass. Please go by the rules set by others with experience who set the rules. PLEASE

Michael Falcon
Self
Austin, TX

Against

Meg Greene
self - Education Consultant
Austin, TX

This redistricting is unconstitutional and undermines the voting power of people of color and democrats in the state of Texas, who deserve to have their votes count and their needs heard and recognized by their lawmakers. As public servants, who are responsible for representing the needs of their constituents, this bill silences the voices of many Texans and promotes a false homogenous majority. Vote no on this redistricting map and uphold Texans' right to democracy.

Susan Wehe
Self, retired teacher
Garland, TX

I oppose this legislation.

Shame on you all for supporting it.

Charles Wagnon
Self
El Paso, TX

Dividing El Paso and ornery communities up just to gain more Republican seats is unconscionable.
This gerrymandering has gone on far too frequently in the past and needs to stop NOW. Do not split our community up.

Michael Mill
self / retired
Austin, TX

I am against redistricting, as it is clearly politically motivated, racist, completely unnecessary, and does not appear to be beneficial to the voters. Thank you.

Denise Wrench, mrs
Self. Retired
Arlington, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Wendy McRoberts
Self
Danbury, TX

This map is an atrocious power grab and does not represent TEXAS VALUES. Texans should not have to spend every session fighting AGAINST their own representatives just to get tax relief, keep safe and regulated THC products to treat chronic illnesses or just live our lives without more bans. If this map passes your next bill should be to ban voting because you’re in for a surprise.

Donna Coker
Self
Garland, TX

Regarding redistricting.

Elizabeth Hightower
Self,D irector of Operations
Richardson, TX

Dear Legislators,

I’m urging you to vote no on HB?4. Redrawing congressional maps mid-decade completely undermines trust in the process and looks like exactly what it is -- partisan gerrymandering. The proposed map weakens minority representation, splits communities, and is being rushed without real public input.

Redistricting should happen after the census, not whenever it benefits ANY one party. Please reject HB?4 and push for a fair, transparent process that keeps communities intact and protects voting rights.

Thank you for your time,
Elizabeth Hightower
Richardson TX

Rekha Shenoy, Dr
Self, Dentist
Plano, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians like me.
In major metropolitan counties where people like me live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters like me and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano, like my husband, have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Rekha Shenoy,
Plano, Texas

Lauren Galindo
Self
Bulverde, TX

It is unconstitutional to redraw this map right now and breaks the norm of our 10 year cadence. Contrary to popular belief, there are a multitude of dems that live in TX and we’d like to be represented as well.

Anita Knight, Ms.
TX Impact, ACLU
West Lake Hills, TX

Besides the wrong and illegal timing for redistricting, based on census in Texas, this plan is unfair, unnecessary, purely politically motivated. This scheme is designed to eliminate accessibility, accountability, and a strong voice for our shared values. Why does Texas need to bow down to President Trump?

Santana Olvera, Ms.
Self
Groves, TX

I have been a resident of the Golden Triangle for over 28 years, and I am a healtchare provider that has served this community for over 14 years. I've already been redistrucred twice in my voting life time, and my US Representative lives in Lake Jackson, Texas with no similarities to me and my region at all. The amount of disconnect my neighbors and I have because we have different Reps to be able to come together to get state resources has been super detrimental to our region following multiple natural disasters we have endured. It is important the maps to be fair and ungerrymandered. This mid decade redistricting violates all precedent and disportionately effects my community which has a higher minority populations that are being gerrymandering out of a voice. All of the republican controlled mapping and redistracting has violated the civil rights voting act of 1965. These maps were okay for the 2024 presidential elections but now all of a sudden they are "racially driven." Please consider the people you are silencing by this MAGA agenda driven control for power they have not earned. The people are tired guys, and you should learn and have moral courage to be on the right side of history.

Linda Royce
self retired
HOUSTON, TX

I don't understand why this redistricting process is going on. Electoral districts are revised every 10 years after the census. This mid-period redistricting is unwarranted, unjust, and unethical. And now, the proposed maps, which have just been released are a sham. What a manipulation of voters! Stop this blatantly political effort now!

Sandy Johnson
Self
Cedar Park, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Rebekah Hamner
Self
Round Rock, TX

AGAINST- I strongly oppose. This proposed map is an outrageous and transparent power grab. Let’s call it what it is: racial and partisan gerrymandering at its worst. Redistricting Rep. Jasmine Crockett—one of the most visible, effective Black women in Congress—out of her own community isn’t just political strategy, it’s voter suppression.

Texas Republicans aren’t trying to win voters—they’re trying to erase them by surgically slicing Black and Latino communities into districts they can no longer influence. This isn’t democracy. It’s a desperate attempt to cling to power by dismantling fair representation, especially for women of color who’ve been holding the line for reproductive rights, economic justice, and equity.

Texans deserve leaders who are elected by the people—not maps drawn in secret to silence them. We see what you’re doing—and we won’t be quiet about it.

Jana Stroud
Self
Cypress, TX

I support redistricting and oppose coalition by race districts.

Faith Pizzo
Self
Plano, TX

I am against HB4 and this unusual mid-decade redistricting proposal. The current map is still being challenged in federal court and at least one of the maps drawn by republican control have violated the Voting Rights Act since its inception. We know what you are doing and why you are doing it. This is not what Texans want.

Susan Kelly
Self; Retired Journalist
Austin, TX

House Bill 4 is simply a power grab by Donald Trump to try to preserve his slim majority in the U.S. House of Representatives. Texas legislators and Governor Abbott need to grow a spine and do what's right for Texas and Texans. Redistricting will suppress the vote of many people of color and create an unfair map across our state. Please vote NO to stop redistricting. Thank you.

debbie pepin
True Texas Project - Hill Country
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting map is fair and representational. I support it 110%. Please vote to support us as constituents and Texans! We need strong political reps who really and truly do what THE PEOPLE want! Do it!

Kevin Pham
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing to OPPOSE the proposed redistricting maps. First I'd like to point the the suspicious timing of the gerrymandering. Typically the districts are redrawn every 10 years, after a US Census and the last one being in 2020. We are only 5 years away from the last redistricting. Second, the proposed maps are inherently undemocratic. They excise and graft largely left-leaning populations into solidly right-leaning districts. This is done to dilute the voice and voting power of the grafted populations. Representative Jasmine Crockett's district has been redrawn in such a way that she no longer lives within it.
These facts point to a blatant power grab at the cost of a democratic society and I vehemently oppose this action.

Carol Milder, County Chair, Republican Party, Leon County
Self
Buffalo, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Emily Singh
Self (Retired)
Austin, TX

I would like to go on record as opposing mid-decade redistricting. The proposed plan seems to be designed to disenfranchise Texans. The map I have seen in no way promotes the goal of communities expressing themselves through fairly elected representatives. Texas legislators should do the right thing and oppose a plan to impose a predetermined preferred result at the expense of the welfare and preferences of their constituents, who overwhelmingly oppose this redistricting.

Devean Toler Family
Rowlett, TX

The redistricting efforts by Republicans are a blatant example of gerrymandering—undermining the democratic process by manipulating district boundaries to preserve political power, rather than reflect the will of the people. This isn't about fair representation; it's about entrenching partisan control, silencing communities of color, and weakening the impact of voters in growing, diverse areas. Texans deserve districts that are drawn transparently and equitably, not lines twisted to protect incumbents and suppress opposition. Democracy suffers when politicians choose their voters instead of voters choosing their leaders.

Kelly Davis-Burns, Mrs
self
Austin, TX

This is not a good plan for the people of Texas.

Purvi Baron
SAAVETX
Sugar Land, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Purvi Baron
Sugar Land, TX

Christina Allen
Self, director of children and youth ministries at RPUMC
Richardson, TX

I am a lifelong Texan, a lifelong Christian (a cradle United Methodist to be more specific), I'm white, straight, and a woman. I'm writing to express my discontent at the redirecting happening in Texas. For multiple reasons: for it happening after 5 years instead of the typical 10 years following a census, for the obvious reason of President Trump asking Texas do this so he can have 5 more seats in the House, and for the blatant gerrymandering that will continue to occur. The voices of democrats in Texas will be silenced, with many of those voices being our black and brown Texas who historically have been silenced because of their race. It is obvious the proposed districts are just to group together certain voters and purposely divide others. It makes no sense to group people from both Austin and San Antonio into one district, and some of the other districts almost span the whole state. You know what you're doing and you know that you shouldn't. In 20 years when your grandkids asked if you made a difference with the power you've been granted, will you have to lie and say you did the right thing? Because if this goes through, you WILL have to lie, because this is wrong. We have to stop kissing the ring of Trump and just doing whatever he wants. He is not a God and he is not a King, nor does he even care about the everyday American. He cares about power and how much he can get. Please actually fight for Texas and make sure we are represented fairly.

Regards,
Christy Allen

Janet Pozmantier
self - consultant
Houston, TX

You have seen the outcry from citizens in all the districts you propose to cut up. You are aware that the proposed new Congressional map violates the Voting Rights Act and the Constitution. You know this special session should focus on doing all you can to prevent another horrific flood. 100+ people, more than 2 dozen of them children, should be honored with your actions. Instead, you will vote to rig our elections and take away our ability to fairly choose our representation. You will be complicit in dismantling the democracy our forefathers and mothers gave their lives for.
Please prove me wrong and stop this egregious bill. Do what is right for the citizens of Texas, and not for any political party's power.

Margaret Daniel
self retired teacher
Katy, TX

Please consider accepting and passing into law HB4. It would bring Texas back into compliance and create a fairer representation by adjusting the boundaries of the districts.

Douglas Robertson
Texans
Houston, TX

As a member of a family that held original land grant deeds from previous to the Republic of Texas, I nor my family have never been more disturbed by the actions of our state government. This bald faced attempt to undermine the very structure of our representative democracy only underscores the hypocrisy of the Republican claims of being the party of the rule of law. The fact that my state is complicit in this is horrific.

Travis Upchurch, Mr
N/A
Pflugerville, TX

Don't redistrict

Janice Estill
Self/retired
Meadowlakes, TX

I am for HB 4– I support it

Nan Maines
Myself
Mesquite, TX

Republicans know their policies are so unpopular, the only way they can hope to win elections is by "redistricting". Might I suggest making policies that are actually good for your constituents instead of good for yourselves? That way you wouldn't have to do something you KNOW is wrong in order to win.
Gerrymandering is NOT the way to go!! Stop it. Just STOP.

Michael Daross
self - software engineer
Austin, TX

This blatant gerrymandering is completely unacceptable. Republicans should be ashamed of themselves, although I'm sure they won't be (psychopaths tend to be lacking in that department). But they should also know that this will drive funding toward California's countermeasure.

Roxanne J Evans
Self
Austin, Texas, TX

Thank you, Chairman Cody Vasut and Committee Members.
My name is Roxanne Evans and I'm here to represent myself.
I live in the East/Northeast area of Austin.
My community has grown a lot in the last 10 years, but the growth has not been sufficient to justify a redistricting between censuses. As it now stands, the Black and Latino voting strength in my community is shrinking. Additional gerrymandering would create more harm, not only for people of color, but for longtime homeowners such as myself whose interests may be different from the newcomers moving into our neighborhoods, and newcomers who will see their votes dimished. Communities of interest, a time honored value that had been embedded in redistricting efforts, has already been destroyed. Please don't do any more damage to voters.
No one has been harmed more by map manipulation and voter suppression than Black and Latino communities whose voices have been minimized at the ballot box and in Congress. Do not exacerbate the situation by unnecessary redistricting.
And, since Texas has always prided itself on its independence, it is more than a little offensive that the Lone Star State would do the bidding of the White House in this needless redistricting process. All the slogans such as "Texas Strong" and "Texas Proud" are being reduced to "Texas Weak," "Texas Wimpy."
All Texas voters deserve state leaders who will stand up to them, not bow to the wishes of a tyrant. If you do the right thing for the right reason, all of Texas will be behind you and will defend you in front of the bullies in Washington.
Thank you for considering my comments and doing the right thing by Texas voters.
Roxanne Evans
7300 Meadowood Drive
Austin, Texas 78723

Tina Malone
Self
Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose HB 4 as it fails to provide fair and representative Congressional districts for all Texans. This proposed redistricting plan dilutes the voting power of communities of color—especially Black, Latino, and Asian American voters—despite their significant population growth in the last decade. These communities deserve equitable representation that reflects the true demographics of our state.

HB 4 appears to prioritize partisan advantage over public input, transparency, and the principles of representative democracy. The maps proposed under this bill would undermine public trust in the redistricting process and risk violating the Voting Rights Act by minimizing the influence of historically marginalized voters.

I urge lawmakers to reject HB 4 and instead adopt a redistricting plan that reflects the diversity of Texas, ensures compliance with federal law, and allows all communities to elect candidates of their choice.

Texans deserve fair maps—nothing less.

Dyanna Flanagan
self
San Antonio, TX

Let's do what's right for America and not be selfish in the flesh.

Jamie Hash
Self, DoD
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting effort, because it sets a dangerous precedent for gerrymandering without a public demand or new census. This is an obvious power grab driven by fear since the administration continues to see their support plummet. You shouldn’t have to redistrict if your policies and actions are widely supported. If passed, this will send a cascading effect across the nation and further exacerbate the chaos of this administration.

Kenneth Wicks self - Commercial General Contractor
Fort Worth, TX

I support HB4 and redistricting.

Don Cash
Self
Austin, TX

Just stop. You know this isn’t right. It isn’t fair. It isn’t representing the people of Texas. Such a waste of of time and tax dollars. Do something about flood warning systems instead. Do something right and good for a change.

Leslie Gilstrap
Self/Finance Manager
Houston, TX

Stop gerrymandering Texas. Those who can’t win by the rules, cheat. Stop cheating

Nakia Reynoso
Self
Austin, TX

I am totally opposed to this greedy, racist, and shameful attempt to redistrict. This is a blatant power grab that should not be allowed.

Kyra Edeker
Self, product designer
Austin, TX

Dear esteemed representatives, I am writing to urge you to reject the call for redistricting the Texas congressional map. As a moderate voter,Texas has already strayed very far from fair and representative maps that honor communities and common geographies. I urge you to resist the pressure from federal officials to mutate the map even further. Leave the map as it is!

And then -- I encourage you to serve the people of the great state of Texas by changing the way that congressional districts are created and create a non-partisan redistricting commission -- as 13 U.S. states already have in place. Reduce the acrimony, remove this from your plate, come back to the spirit of the law, come back to common sense. Now focus on taking care of the people in Kerrville and Hunt and on the people who make Texas great.

Sincerely,
Kyra Edeker

Monrovia Van Hoose
Self, Clinical Social Worker
Austin, TX

I have been a resident of Austin since 1995, and consider Texas my home. Like most Texans, I value my independence. Like most Austinites, I value our unique culture, and am proud to be the blue dot in the red sea that is our state. I oppose this redistricting that has been imposed on independent Texans by the federal government. As a proud Austinite, I demand to have representatives who reflect my values. Lloyd Doggett and Greg Casar both represent Austin and should continue to have a fair chance to do so. This bill is out of step with how redistricting is traditionally done, and it's out of step with Texas and Austin values. Please do not allow the federal government to control our state and local governance. Thank you.

LEOTIS HIGHTOWER, SFC
Pure Justice
FRESNO, TX

As a United States Army Veteran and a committed member of Pure Justice, I stand firmly against the proposed redistricting plan under consideration.

This redistricting effort not only undermines the democratic principle of fair representation—it borders on unconstitutional. As someone who has served and sacrificed for this nation, I cannot sit silently while communities—particularly those historically marginalized—are strategically silenced through political gerrymandering.

Redistricting should not be a tool for power retention; it should be a process rooted in equity, transparency, and justice. The current proposal threatens to dilute the voices of veterans, working-class families, and Black and Brown communities whose input and needs deserve to be represented, not redrawn out of existence.

Pure Justice and other grassroots organizations will continue to stand watch. I urge you—our elected leaders—to rise above partisan politics and uphold the Constitution. Reject any redistricting plan that prioritizes control over fairness. The people are watching. And as a veteran, I remind you: our democracy is worth protecting—not manipulating.

Allison Peeler Mitchell
Self
Denton, TX

Foolish. This will backfire and I think you all know it. I also don’t think you want this because a) you know no Texans want it and b) you’re only doing it because Trump told you to. Where is your commitment to Texans? To protecting us from big government? This is undemocratic, pure establishment pandering, and a cheap tactic to cheat your way to wins. You know it won’t work in the long run. Find your courage and put an end to this nonsense. You should be focusing efforts on things Texans actually care about: flood relief/ preparedness, insane property taxes, the wilting economy, and protection from big government. FOCUS!

Kathie Tovo, Dr.
self
Austin, TX

Dear Members of the House of Representatives:
Thank you for your service.
As a former elected official, I know that most who pursue public service do so out of a strong commitment to democracy and to the public good. Today, I ask you to honor those commitments by setting aside this unnecessary, inappropriate, and undemocratic redistricting process and the unjust map it produced.
The tragedies our state experienced this month require your immediate full attention. We need leaders who will set aside partisan politics and work together to address flooding and other natural disasters; to ensure that Texans are well-prepared to face the next natural disaster; and to bring resources to the many families who face long recoveries ahead.
Please exhibit that leadership.

Sincerely,
Kathie Tovo, Ph.D.

Ashley Mayo
Self
Austin, TX

Texas HB 4 by Hunter is one of the most un-American and anti-Texas bills I have ever seen. This bill is clearly designed to play politics in a larger political performance and quite literally ignore the needs of those you represent. This is not a right or left issue, this is our elected officials, the ones we voted for, choosing to redistrict communities in Texas that are different geographically, culturally, and population size. Texas is a big, beautiful, and unique state and with that comes different needs for each community. The way this bill is structured it appears the drafters of this bill see Texas as a generic box you can plug and play. As politicians you know the uniqueness of your constituents and the land they call home, you know this bill doesn’t serve the needs of the people that chose you to represent them. I am opposed to this bill and I ask you not to vote it into law. Thank you for listening and respecting the land and communities we call home.

Wesley Warner
Self, financial operations director
Dallas, TX

This bill is racist. It is a clear dismantling of self-governance. If you are not okay with Democrats, then don't do it yourself. Jesus taught us to do unto others as we would have them do. But apparently we dont care about following his teachings if it makes it so black votes don't count. This is absolutely disgusting and if this passes, I hope California gerrymanders so hard that you fascists will never pass another bill in congress again. WE THE PEOPLE run this nation

Hadra Wicks, Mrs Republican
Lubbock, TX

Pass this bill to

Timothy Cason, Mr.
Self
Arlington, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 4 and the proposed redistricting efforts currently under consideration in the Texas Legislature. These maps are neither fair nor representative of the state's diverse and evolving electorate. While redistricting is a legal and routine process, this particular effort is politically motivated rather than based on principles of equal representation.

First, the justification for reopening the redistricting process appears disingenuous. Texas Republicans drew the current maps in 2020 and have repeatedly defended their legality in court. Now, in response to a selective DOJ inquiry, the Legislature is choosing to revise only a handful of districts—conveniently, all Democratic-held districts—while ignoring similar issues in Republican districts. This selective response undermines the credibility of the process and suggests that the true goal is to weaken political competition rather than ensure compliance with the Voting Rights Act.

Second, the proposed changes disproportionately target diverse, urban, and fast-growing areas such as Dallas, Austin, Houston, and the Rio Grande Valley—regions with significant Latino and Black populations. These proposed maps reduce the political power of historically underrepresented communities, which runs counter to both the spirit and the letter of the Voting Rights Act.

Third, Republican leaders have been open about their intent: national and state figures have publicly stated that redrawing these maps is about maintaining Republican control of Congress in 2026. When lawmakers are explicitly saying the purpose of redistricting is to gain a political advantage—not to improve fairness or represent the people of those districts—it raises serious concerns about the legitimacy and ethics of the entire process.

Additionally, the timing and urgency of this redistricting effort so close to an upcoming election cycle raise concerns about transparency and public trust. It appears to be an intentionally rushed process to minimize public input or opportunity for meaningful review.

HB 4 risks deepening public cynicism about the democratic process in Texas. Voters should choose their representatives, not the other way around. This bill undermines the basic principle of fair representation and threatens the integrity of our electoral system.

For these reasons, I urge you to reject HB 4 and instead support a truly fair, transparent, and community-centered redistricting process.

Cile Mccormick, Mrs
Self
Dallas, TX

PLEASE VOTE FOR REDISRICTING !! Also please do not allow THC to be legalized in TX as it cannot be truly regulated and even worse it causes psychosis and schizophrenia. Unlike drinking and driving where you can test with a breathalyzer for over the limit you cannot quickly or accurately tell if someone is stoned and worse it's a gateway drug .

carol willman, Mrs
self
AUSTIN, TX

Please do not allow this mid-decade redistricting to happen. This is so unethical for Texas politics to even contemplate!

Margaret Balin
Self
Sealy, TX

Absolutely we need redistricting!!

Jo Ann Schatz
Self
Austin, TX

The effort to pit Doggett against Casar is shameful! I am a registered voter and longtime TX resident. I will re member this when I vote!

Cecilia Thornton
Self
Jarrell, TX

This map is an ABHORRENT power grab that silences the voices of the people. I oppose this new map strongly, and I urge all my representatives to let my voice, to let the people of Texas' voices be heard properly, and not silenced by new lines meant to split and silence those of us who already are the victims of current ones. We don't need to be silenced further, and doing so is an act of betrayal to democracy and the very premise of equality and freedom that America stands on. You cannot support this map and say you support democracy. I urge you all to support democracy, and to veto this map for your people.

Kristin Smith
self
Denton, TX

I oppose the new map and redistricting

Noel Emmons
Self kohls employee
Garland, TX

Do not perform illegal actions to gerrymander yourself an advantage you fucking cowards. This directly spits in the face of citizens and their rights to self determination.

Daylon Brumfield, Sgt.
Caldwell County 78644
Lockhart, TX

No to redistricting.

Drew Daniller-Varghese
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the Texas House Republicans' attempt to redistrict our state mid-decade at the behest of national Republican operatives. This move is wrong, anti-democratic, unconstitutional, and an outright betrayal of the people of Texas.

Redistricting is intended to follow the decennial census — not to be manipulated whenever one party fears losing its grip on power. The current maps were drawn and approved just a few years ago. There has been no legal or demographic justification offered to warrant this extraordinary and unprecedented redrawing. This is not redistricting — it is rigging.

It is no secret that this plan was initiated at the urging of Washington, D.C. political strategists who see Texas not as a home for 30 million Americans, but as a pawn in their effort to secure national power. That's not representation. That's exploitation.

This blatant power grab undermines the very foundation of our democracy: that voters choose their leaders, not the other way around. It shows contempt for the will of Texans, especially communities of color and young voters whose voices are growing and deserve to be heard — not diluted by partisan lines drawn in back rooms.

Let's be clear: the U.S. Constitution, as well as the Voting Rights Act, exist to protect free and fair elections. Gerrymandering to pre-empt political shifts, silence opposition, and lock in minority rule is not only morally wrong — it's legally suspect. Courts across the country have ruled that extreme partisan redistricting violates voters' constitutional rights. Texas risks once again being on the wrong side of the law and the wrong side of history.

This isn't about Republican or Democrat. It's about whether we still believe in representative democracy. It's about whether power lies with the people — or with politicians who change the rules to keep themselves in charge.

Texans deserve fair maps, not partisan schemes. We deserve transparency, not political theater. And we deserve a legislature that answers to its citizens — not to national party bosses.

Kill this bill. Stand up for democracy. Stand up for Texas.

Dianne Lott
Self, retired
Broaddus, TX

The districts have already been redrawn per the census. What is proposed now is gerrymandering. All Texans deserve to be represented fairly. We deserve to have elected government officials protect our interests not theirs.

Darenda Klentzman
Self, CPA
San Antonio, TX

As my representative, I expect you to OPPOSE redistricting! Gerrymandering is illegal and I do not support suppression of the Black and Latino vote. SAY NO TO REDISTRICTING!

Stacy Roberts
Self
Cedar Park, TX

This is a travesty of a political party. To do the bidding of the federal government, because it suits your desire to stay in power. You have forgotten yourselves and your actual job. You are here to represent the people - all the people - not just the ones you want to represent. This needs to be done by an independent commission, as TX is already gerrymandered to hell. Shame on you. Vote against this dismantling of our representative democracy.

Jessie Williams
Self
CEDAR PARK, TX

I am AGAINST this proposed redistricting. It is taking away the voices and rights of millions of Texans.

Jesus Barrera
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Jesus Barrera, and I am a lifelong Democrat.

34 years ago, I met my better half, Tim Devick, and that still is the best thing that ever happened to me. 32 years ago, we bought a house in Austin, Texas. 17 years ago, we got married in California, because we could not get married in Texas. For as long as I can remember, we have had Democrat, Lloyd Doggett represent us in the US House and I'd like to thank him for all of his hard work.

Typically redistricting only happens after a census. I do not recall there being a census in 2025. So, the redistricting being imposed by the Texas GOP in this special session is wholly politically motivated. With the new GOP 2025 re-districting plan, my home is being yanked out of U.S. Congressional District 37 and lumped in U.S. Congressional District 10. For the first time, we will be represented by Republican Michael McCaul, a man who has voted consistently against same-sex marriage. His voting record is antithetical to Tim and me. The redistricting of our voting precinct by the Texas GOP and Greg Abbott at the behest of Donald Trump is not just an inconvenient truth to us, it is an existential threat to our marriage and our way of life.

As Texas legislators, it is your job to represent Texans. It is not your job to repress Texans at a dictator's behest in Washington DC, who I quote as saying: "I don't care about you, i just want your vote. All this dictator wants is to aggrandize himself and accrue power. So do your damned jobs and represent the interests of the people of Texas.
Let's stand together now to protect our democracy. Let's demand maps that reflect our state's diversity, not ones that divide us for political gain. My message to the Legislature is that Texas belongs to all of us, and we will not let our voices be erased.

Thank you, and let's keep fighting for a fairer, stronger Texas.

Sarah Taylor
Self
Austin, TX

I adamantly oppose the redistricting map and its blatant attempt to make Texas as less prosperous and weaker state. It goes against democratic principles and qualifies as disenfranchisement. Elected officials that support it will be responsible for the degradation of our state from an economical, political, and wellbeing standpoint. Not to mention you will loose the Christian vote who see this is immoral, unfair, and inconsistent with the teachings of Christ. I oppose.

sara smolens, Ms
self
Austin, TX

I do not want forced redistricting of the State of Texas. I think it is unconstitutional. Just because Trump wants more Republicans is not reason for me not to have a representative. No No No to this bill!!!

Colin Frey
Self, educator and music director
Beeville, TX

I wholeheartedly oppose this partisan and racist redistricting effort. This is a blatant attempt by President Trump and by Republicans in the Texas Legislature to further gerrymander our already gerrymandered districts. It continues Texas's shameful history of racial discrimination against the voting rights of people of color. Furthermore, redistricting mid-decade is not normal, and is not democratic. We do not need or want representatives choosing voters, we need voters choosing representatives. This is not proper governance, this is malpractice on a huge scale.

District lines drawn to favor a political minority violate the Voting Rights Act and weaken the voices of communities of color, which is textbook racism. They also diminish rural and working-class representation. In regions like Southeast Texas, where people are facing hurricane season, this could sever community representation at a time when residents need it most.

I am very disappointed in this ill-directed effort, and I firmly oppose it. Please read, acknowledge, and consider how us Texans feel about these blatantly awful efforts to further ruin our state. Thank you for your time and understanding.

Donna Head
Self
Plano, TX

Redistributing should remain on its 10 year census schedule.

Frederico Geib
Self
Austin, TX

Thank you for your time today. I urge you to NOT go ahead with this bill as it is an affront to all Texan patriots and freedom loving folk. We have put you into office to drain the swamp in Washington but instead, you are bringing the swamp business to Texas. This bill will not lower the cost of my groceries, nor improve our kids instruction and our health care. This bill simply adds distraction and political volatility. It breeds division and hatred while standing in diametrically opposition to American values.

Please, keep Texas, Texas. Don’t bring Washington swamp to our beautiful state. Not to mention, this will have the exact opposite political impact that you hope.

Keep Texas Free from Washington Swamp! Vote No!

Respectfully,

Michael Silva, Dr.
Michael Silva DDS PLLC
El Paso, TX

This is a travesty. That you are proposing to change the representation in the city of El Paso is both unethical and underhanded. These changes will significantly impact the funding and services the city receives. As the only major city in West Texas this will negatively impact the economy and the people. I move myself in my business to the great state of Texas due to the policies and practices of the state legislature, and I can assure you that this does not bode well with me or my business.

William Towry, Mr.
Self
El Paso, TX

The proposed redistricting proposal would further divide the interests of the city of El Paso and a very large portion the residents of our county.. This would devide the support of items of mutual concern and greatly move the center of influence to large disinterest areas many miles away!

Laurie Higginbotham
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose attempts to gerrymander Texas. This bill is denying 5 million Democratic voters of their voice and their choice. This is WRONG - it is at the behest of an authoritarian felon and you shouldn't be redrawing Texas voting maps to appease Trump. DO NOT VOTE FOR THIS.

Kenneth Berumen, Dr.
Self, Emergency Room Physician
El Paso, TX

Please do not move forward on changing the districts in West Texas. The rest of the state is unware of the unique problems in this region. Also leave the Airport and Fort Bliss in our district since they both sit right in the middle of our city and region. We do NOT want to have a change that would negatively affect our area. This is a unique part of the state.

Patricia Rivera, RN
self-Nurse
El P aso, TX

I am opposed to the new redistricting plan that will affect our area of El Paso County, Fort Bliss and the El Paso International Airport. We are in a part of Texas that Austin always forgets about or is not willing to accept us as part of Texas. We are proud Texans and El Pasoans that have a right to oppose plans that would make us even more forgotten. We need our OWN representation in Austin. We need people that are familiar with our unique border culture and that can convey this to Austin. Having this redistricting will affect not only our citizens, but our future generations. We have to be the voice for those that cannot, or will not, speak up. We have a right to be heard. I may be one voice, but please know that I am one of many from El Paso. Please reconsider the plans and leave us alone!

Mark Pae
Self-Retired
El Paso, TX

Redistricting is totally unacceptable. It’s bad enough that El Paso has always been considered a stepchild of Texas, but now wanting someone to represents us that lives hundreds of miles away is unconscionable. Wake up people and govern for the people and not the person.

Andrea Keener
Self retired RN
El Paso, TX

El Paso Airpot IS in El Paso district. Ft Bliss Tx IS IN El Paso and has been for generations the two couldn’t have been created without the other. Republicans cannot change their location by gerrymandering them to San Antonio or any other district! San Antonio is hundreds of miles away. Our city is not up for grabs not so that a corrupt state and administration in DC can garner votes to continue destroying democracy for their own seditious reasons. Neither Abbot nor Trump have any other plans to make the country better. Only their self serving money pocketing and agendas.
No to redistricting. No to stealing our voting rights and equality. No to the theft of our rights. No to our freedoms. No to destroying of out constitution. No.

Robert Williams
Self
Denton, TX

I am Adamantly against the texas redistricting. This is an obvious power grab. Unethical. Immoral. Just plain wrong. If you can't win, then cheat.

Aletha Huston, Dr.
self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to this bill. It is an unfair effort to disenfranchise Democrats and to give even more power to Republicans. A one-party state does not serve the interests of most of the people in the state.

Anne Messbarger-Eguia
Self, Non-Profit Executive
San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting of the state outside of the Census calendar. The proposed new districts would virtually eliminate any opportunity for a competitive race - or need for voting - and the resulting elections, which would overwhelmingly favor one party, would not reflect the nearly evenly split distribution of Republicans and Democrats in this state. Texans deserve to choose their leadership based on a free and fair election. This move would silence the voices of half of the state and result in disenfranchisement and worse, a complete breakdown of civic engagement in Texas.

Texans are fiercely independent, proud and intelligent people who love their state. Why would the governor advocate for a bill that does not trust the people of Texas to choose their own leaders? Again, I STRONGLY oppose this bill and urge all members of the legislature to resist the pressure from the governor and large donors and vote against this bill!

Petrus Yeung
self
Sugar Land, TX

Chair and Members of the Committee,

My name is Petrus Yeung, and I stand in strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan.

Redistricting should be about fair representation, not about consolidating power or silencing communities. Unfortunately, this map does the latter. By splitting neighborhoods, diluting the voting strength of marginalized communities, and drawing lines that prioritize incumbency over the people, this proposal undermines the core principle of a representative democracy: that every vote should count equally.

Communities that share schools, roads, and local economies should have unified voices in choosing who speaks for them. Instead, this plan divides them, making it harder for them to advocate for their needs and hold elected officials accountable.

This map does not reflect the real growth and diversity of our state. It does not honor the voices of everyday people who deserve to be heard. Gerrymandering is not a partisan issue; it is an attack on the foundation of our democracy.

I urge you to reject this map and instead draw districts that keep communities whole, protect minority representation, and ensure that every voter has an equal say in our future. Do the right thing: put people over politics.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Valerie Houdek
Self, insurance
Saginaw, TX

I vehemently oppose this blatant attempt for Republicans to try to choose their voters and insulate themselves from the consequences of supporting Trump over the opinions of their voters.

Patricia Hall
Self
The Colony, TX

While the Texas Legislature has broad authority to act on many issues, you were elected by the people of Texas to serve us—not a political party, not the Governor, and certainly not any outside agenda. Your duty is to your constituents and to the integrity of our democratic process.
Mid-decade redistricting isn't just a bureaucratic exercise. It reshapes communities, reassigns representatives, moves congressional offices and staff—sometimes from nearby neighborhoods to hundreds of miles away. These changes affect more than just votes; they disrupt people's lives.

I strongly urge you to reject any mid-decade redistricting efforts. Stand up for Texas. Represent your constituents, not those seeking to centralize power and impose authoritarian control. Do not act out of personal political ambition. Instead, lead with integrity—for the good of the people, the future of the nation, and above all, for your fellow Texans.

Gillian Parker
Self
Austin, TX

I do not believe that HB 4 is a sincere attempt at upholding the fairness of the VRA. Proposed redistricting will dilute the voting power of minority groups, sow partisan division in texas, and trigger Democratic states to redistrict in retaliation.

ANA LUISA Salas-Porras
SELF
Austin, TX

Dear Committee Members, My name is Ana Luisa Salas-Porras. I am a third generation Texan. My great-grandparents came to El Paso, Texas as refugees escaping the Mexican Revolution. I am writing to voice my opposition to the Trump Re-Districting map the Republicans are putting forward. There is no basis for Re-districting. No new census information. Nothing, but a command from Trump. You Republicans have made voter fraud a cornerstone of every campaign. Yet, here you are putting forth fraudulent maps that destroy the voting rights of thousands of Latinos, Blacks and Asians. How will you explain this to your own children and grandchildren? Government and the people WE elect are supposed to represent the people of Texas, not a failing president in Washington DC. This Re-districting map has taken precedence over any attention to the damage and loss of Texan lives, homes and businesses during the floods. I wish there were words to influence Republican behavior, but I don't believe there are. For some unfathomable reason, Republicans have become part of a cult. Shame on you. I look forward to the 2026 statewide races.

Allison Estes-Smargiassi
Self, Software Engineer
Austin, TX

Hi, my name is Allison and I’m a constituent from Rosedale.

I'm writing to ask that the Texas House of Representatives vote against the radical redistricting process happening in Texas. All state leaders must speak out against the dangerous precedent established by this blatantly partisan gerrymandering. All Texans deserve government representation that actually reflects their lived experiences, but I have yet to see any legitimate justification for this redistricting except to suppress minority voices and solidify partisan power at the federal level, both of which are a gross overreach of power. I urge you to vote against HB4.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Katherine Henderson
Self
West lake hills, TX

I am strongly opposed to moving forward with this bill. It is clearly a ploy to suppress the votes of Texans to manipulate the balance of power in the US House of Representatives. It is a main foundation of a democracy to allow the people, if they are dissatisfied with their elected officials, the right to vote in the alternative candidate. It is not the right of this legislature to negate their votes by manipulating the outcome of the elections in Texas. This action suppresses my vote. We have the technology so the party in power can ensure the continuation of their power by manipulating the congressional maps to ensure the balance of votes are in their favor. This is not a democracy, this is not the will of the people. Politicians should maintain power by delivering for their constituents not by playing games with how the votes are allocate.
I want to make my voice heard and record my strong opposition to HB4's proposed redistricting.

Yvonne Chapman
Self
Bulverde, TX

We look forward to successful completion of this important work.

Andrew Flowers
Self
Adkins, TX

Dear Members of the Texas Legislature,

Let me begin by stating clearly: HB4 is an absolute disgrace to democracy and a slap in the face to every Texan who values fairness, transparency, and the rule of law.

All statements herein are my personal opinion.

You provided no map during public commentary. You've made every effort to bypass public scrutiny and push through a bill that blatantly serves the GOP's political interests. This is gerrymandering — plain and simple — and it is a shameful attempt to unlawfully steal seats in the Texas Legislature.

As an elected official, you are entrusted by the people to act lawfully and morally. You are supposed to serve your communities — not manipulate the system to cling to power. Democracy is not built on thievery. It is built on accountability, honesty, and representation. This rushed and suspicious redistricting process — held at an unusual time — reeks of outside pressure and immoral influence.

This bill not only attempts to redraw lines in the dark, it strips communities of their representation. It removes sitting representatives from their own districts and severs the connection between voters and their voices. That is unacceptable.

I urge you to vote NO on HB4. I will personally track and record every legislator who votes in favor of this bill, and I will ensure that my fellow Texans are reminded of these votes when your seats are up for re-election.

It is my opinion that HB4 is being pushed as a means to steal power behind closed doors. Our founding fathers would be appalled at this cowardly, un-American behavior. But no matter the outcome, Texans are watching — and we will vote accordingly.

Do better.

Sincerely,
Andrew Flowers
Texas Voter

Daniel Harrison
Self
Hutto, TX

I am vehemently opposed to the proposed congressional re-districting map in HB 4. This mid decade re-districting would take away several minority (non-white) representatives making the effect a racist gerrymandering. African American and Latino Texans would lose representation in a step backwards for their voting rights. Considering that the current Texas congressional map drawn in 2021 are under judicial review for whether it is an unconstitutional racial gerrgerrymandering, the proposed map would be even more racially unfair and inequitable. This re-districting is a blatant power grab by a political party trying to run from the electoral reckoning of voter rejection of their radical policies and corrupt leadership. This power grab shows how scared Texas Republicans are about losing the mid term elections. The legislature needs to reject this map.

Diana Bridges, Ms
Self
San Antonio, TX

There is no reason to have redistricting in Texas five years before the next census. This is very clearly an attempt to disenfranchise Texas voters by robbing them of their chosen representation. This effort is shameful and completely unethical. You work for the people of Texas--not Donald Trump.

Paul Spring
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting is a tool used by all parties in power. And the Texas legislature has done this not long ago to their advantage. Now it is being done again at the urging of the White House. Let’s ignore that Texans have never responded well to being dictated to by Washington D.C. and go right to the heart of the matter Whether Republican, Democrats or Independent, we live in a representative democracy. Our representives reflect our various points of view and work to pass legislation that will serve as many Texans as possible. The kind of extreme gerrymandering represented by the new map represents only one voice and is drawn to deny the other viewpoints and opinions in Texas. So a large number of Texans will have no voice . . . no representation. That’s not what the Framers had in mind. It’s not Winner Take All in a representative democracy. Outvoting minority opinions is fine; eliminating those opinions by denying them representation is both wrong and undemocratic. Please consider the effect of shutting off millions of Texans from being heard. Does that bode well for the future of our 250-year-old form of government? No matter how fervently you believe in your own vision of the future, maintain the dialogue of all voices by defeating this attempt to give voice to only one viewpoint.

Nikki Browning
Self
Houston, TX

Do not redistrict the lines like this. It is completely unrepresentative of the state and its constituents.

Jane Hawthorne
Self
Austin, TX

This bill is blatant gerrymandering aimed at silencing Texans who do not vote for Republicans. In a state which does not allow referendums, we are already voiceless as it is. I implore you not to further disenfranchise voters across the state, and think critically about who this bill serves.

Eddie Reyes
Self
San Antonio, TX

This is a shameful overuse of power by our elected officials. There is no good reason for this other than a request from our president. This directly targets congressional representatives of color. You assume we not a paying attention but you vote and betrayal of democracy has inspired me and many others to donate to causes and campaigns that will use your vote against you in the midterms.

LINDA Breining
self
Austin, TX

I have lived, worked and raised a family in Texas for over 35 years. What I love most about being a Texan is all the varieties of people who may disagree about different things but can still find kinship as Texans. Re-districting all our districts so you only have Republicans representing all Texans will only weaken us as a state. We are not a state of only Republicans. We have many Democrats and many more Independents. This is a very dirty trick you are playing on Texans and you should be ashamed of yourselves.

Lynda Young
Self , Transportation Coordinator
Jarrell, TX

I am totally against redistricting. The message is clear on the purpose of this bill to create unfair elections. You are elected to listen to the people and the people say no to this gerrymandering.

Susan Raybuck, Mrs.
Self, retired teacher
Wimberley, TX

I am Susan McAfee Raybuck, a Christian, fifth generation Texan, retired teacher, and community volunteer. My husband and I are homeowners in Wimberley in CD-21 where we raised two sons.
With proposed map in HB 4, the number of districts that elect a candidate of choice will decrease from 13 to 8. Communities of color would be left with only 21% of the seats in the TX congressional delegation despite making up over 60% of the state's population. It's a nakedly partisan power grab to insulate the president from voter accountability.
This extreme gerrymander deprives communities of having all the representatives in Congress they are entitled to – already a serious problem given 2021 maps. Without advocates on committees to tell the stories and speak for the rights, interests, resources, and needs of their community, it becomes an existential threat for Black, Brown, Indigenous, immigrant, and working-class communities. Manipulated maps distort the very foundation of democracy by silencing the voices of those already struggling to be heard, just to cling to power at any cost.

The State of Texas has a very long history of discriminating against voters of color in their district maps. Texas has violated the Voting Rights Act or intentionally discriminated against voters of color in every decade for the past 50 years. The proposed map continues that terrible legacy and is a brazen display of intentional racial discrimination, whitewashed in a false representation of constitutional law – inspired by political greed.

As historian Carol Anderson noted, "The racial gerrymandering in Texas is so institutionalized that, frankly, it has the aura of the apartheid era's 'white minority rule."
It is unfair to all Texans – just wrong – for the Legislature to take up mid-decade redistricting to further disenfranchise communities of color, especially when the court has not even weighed in on the last round of discriminatory redistricting.

With Texas reeling from the tragic loss of so many lives from recent floods, Texans should be seeing caring consideration from their government, not an unjustifiable congressional redistricting intentionally directed at communities of color.

There is no justification for this extra congressional redistricting when the census does not require it. Besides being unnecessary, it will be confusing to voters and will cause the state to waste time and money on a special session – only to later waste more time and money in litigation over whatever maps are proposed. It should be voted down.

Cynthia Williams
Self/Box Office Manager
Austin, TX

It is pretty obvious that the only way for Republicans to continue to win elections is through cheating. Creating districts that do not reflect the will of the people in that district is cheating. It is disenfranchising people. I urge you to oppose these redistricting maps. Let's see if Republicans can win without cheating and subverting the will of the people.

Austin Jimenez
self
Austin, TX

To Whom It May Concern,

I strongly disagree with the actions taken by our state government in regards to redistricting. This effort is an afront to our democracy and strips citizens of their right to be represented properly in congress. The districts proposed in the latest redistricting map are not representative of a community. It's the same song and dance from before. Small little slivers stretch into metro areas to divide the residents within them and pair them with rural communities hundreds of miles away. As a native Texan, I am hopeful that those in our government, have the integrity to stand for what it is right and not bend to the pressure of the executive. With all respect, the executive of the federal government does not have a mandate, he is but a part of the government. I ask that you do your part in defending the rights of your citizens to be represented properly and to not fold to the whims of party and party leader. Roughly 43% of Texans voted for Harris in 2024 and under this new redistricting, only 21% of congressional seats would be held by a Democrat. That is not fair representation. It would be a regression of the beliefs Americans fought for during the revolution and have strived to improve upon.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Wendy Hobbs, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

Subject: Oppose Unfair Redistricting in Texas

Dear Honorable Members of the Texas House of Representatives,

I write to express my strong opposition to the redistricting plans currently being considered in Texas. This process, which should be a fair and transparent effort to represent the people of our state, has instead become a tool for political manipulation and disenfranchisement of marginalized communities.

Redistricting is meant to ensure that every voter’s voice is heard and fairly represented, but we are witnessing a clear pattern of district lines being drawn to favor one party over another. This gerrymandering undermines the very foundation of our democracy. It ensures that the voices of thousands of Texans—especially communities of color—are diluted and ignored in the halls of power.

By manipulating district lines, the legislature is not only depriving voters of fair representation, but it is also weakening the ability of minority groups to elect candidates of their choice. This is a direct attack on the progress we’ve made toward a more just and equitable society. We should be striving for maps that reflect the diversity and needs of our communities, not maps that serve the narrow interests of a few.

We demand transparency, accountability, and fairness. Every Texas voter, regardless of party, race, or background, deserves to have their voice heard in the democratic process. It is time to end this practice of partisan redistricting and adopt a process that puts the interests of the people first.

I urge you to reject any maps that undermine fair representation and to support reforms that guarantee every Texan's vote counts equally.

Thank you for your attention to this critical matter. I implore you to stand up for the people of Texas, not the politicians who seek to manipulate our future.

Sincerely,
Wendy Gordon Hobbs
11604 Sherwood Forest
Austin, TX 78759

Elizabeth Oberg
The people of Travis County
Austin, TX

The fact that gerrymandering is just openly accepted now is disgusting. State reps who support this should be ashamed of their greed and cowardice of allowing the dissolution of democracy. This is not representative of the people you claim to serve. It is self-serving and unconstitutional to its true meaning. It is unheard of to redistrict when it hasn't even been 5 years since the last one. This is further proof that the GOP is joining or succumbing to a dictatorship because once Trump can guarantee another win he will not leave office. He will have the votes to change America and it will tear the country apart.

Jamie Shepard
Self, Interior Design Project Manager
Cedar Park, TX

I strongly urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal.

As a resident of Williamson County and Travis County for nearly 10 years, I greatly oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence.

All votes are important and all voices deserve representation. Texans deserve better than manipulation by their civil servants to silence the voices of those that don't fit their agenda.

Evan Borden self, business leader
Austin, TX

This party politics over the will of the people. Representation is about being representative of the populace, not carving up a map to advantage one party over another. Make Texas representative again!

James Forgey
PCRP Precinct 140 Chair
Springtown, TX

I and my constituents support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.
Parker County Republican Party Chair
Precinct 140

Rita Berry
Self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to HB 4 . We should not be redistricting when there is still litigation on-going on the 2021 maps.

Victoria Villa
Self, engineer
Desoto, TX

To the committee and House at large,
My name is Victoria and I am a lifelong Texan living in 75115. The proposed maps (that were underhandedly withheld from the public before the last hearing) attempt to further pack my home district of District 30 while also raising the prospect of an unnecessary primary between Rep. Jasmine Crockett, Veasey, and Johnson. The GOP has made their disdain for Rep. Crockett clear - she has consistently exposed the dirty politics and hypocrisy blatantly paraded by the Republicans, so now they're trying to further gerrymander the region's Hispanic and Black voters to put her seat at risk. Never mind that this is the second redistricting effort outside of a census year, or that the State Legislature should be focusing on the flood relief/response/rebuilding, or keeping our kids safe (and fed!) as they return to school in a few weeks, instead of acquiescing to the POTUS. It's shameful and not in the best interest of Texans. The GOP has led the State of Texas for over two decades - nearly 25 years of GOP Governors, House & Senate - and they have the audacity to continue to power-grab and disenfranchise Black and Hispanic communities. I oppose the proposed maps in the strongest possible terms and urge my Rep. Jasmine Crockett, along with the rest of the TX State Democrats, to do everything possible to prevent the new districts from moving forward to a vote. Thank you.

Rachael Morales
Self
Abilene, TX

This bill is gerrymandering and not what the people of Texas want. I do not want this bill. Say no to billionaires and represent the people who elected you that you have sworn to represent.

Jessica Jones, Ms.
Self, Bus Operator
Fort Worth, TX

I am a born and raised Texan and I am disgusted that I and people like me are being deliberately disenfranchised by unpopular politicians who care more about clawing every bit of power they can from the system than serving ALL of their constituents. Furthermore, this map, like the last one, is legally dubious and Greg Abbott has admitted as much. This is clearly not a map made to ensure equal representation but to get Republicans a leg up in the next election before being tied up in legal disputes for the next five years.

Melinda Marino, Ms
Self. Retired Texas public school teacher.
San Marcos, TX

Enough is enough. One person, one vote. Period. No more Gerrymandering designed to favor either political party. We the people want our voices heard. Trump is neither God nor King. You should not be Trump's servants. And you should not be serving yourselves. Representatives are elected to serve and represent the people and follow the laws as written in the Constitution of the UNITED States of America.
United we stand. Divided we fall like Ancient Rome. And the walls come tumbling down around us all.

Brandon Bibb
Self / Tech support
Fort Worth, TX

I oppose the currently drawn re-district maps as they are clearly done in such a manner to ensure the Republican Party's current power structure stays entrenched. This is not the purpose of such maps, which should be more representative of the populace than they are.

We have districts where residents of Denton, TX are in the same district as the northwestern most point in the state, clearly drawn to negate the pockets of more Democractic Party voters with more rural, conservative voters.

The citizens of Texas cannot allow this to stand.

Shelby Hicks
Self, Registered Nurse
Austin, TX

I'm writing here today as a nurse and lifelong Texan. I was born and raised in El Paso and have been living in San Marcos and then Austin the last 12 years. I work in the ER and I see first hand the effects that policy, especially when it comes to healthcare, has on this state and your constituents.

Earlier this summer, congress passed the horrific budget bill which will affect millions of the most vulnerable Texans. Rural Texas in particular will be affected, not only because of the lack of healthcare, hospitals closing, infrastructure that will be affected by lack of federal funding with programs like snap and agricultural subsidies, but also because of the ripple effect from the loss of properly resourced schools and education due to the voucher program you all fought so hard to get through.

This redistricting is wrong and you ALL know it –but yet you clamor for whatever your fearless captain and his Mr. Smee–the governor– ask of you. We can SEE that this redistricting plan is your way of trying to skirt the consequences and shield yourself of the detrimental and harmful policy that the current administration has forced through. This map dilutes the voices of the most vulnerable. How can you possibly represent the voices and concerns of your constituents when you're hundreds of miles away? You all may not hear those voices but I will. The ER has become and will continue to be a place that people come to not because they have an emergency but because it is often the only place they can go to seek HELP. I SEE , hear and care for the EXACT people that you all are trying to silence and the same people you all, including Trump, are SCARED of.

The spirit of the lone star state is that we take pride in our independence and uniqueness, but our state motto is also friendship, which should mean that we care about each other and want the best for our state. And you all have wholly misrepresented this– because when Trump says jump, you all clamor and say, "how high!". You don't care about the consequences because you don't care about your constituents. You might have lost your conscience and be able to live with yourselves if you go forward with this, but be sure that we will not let a day go by to let you EVER forget what you all have done to this state.

Hal Schiffman
Self
Harker Heights, TX

I support HB4 for the following reasons:
I support HB4. It is warranted by electoral mandate realized in the 2024 November election. It makes constituent acces to their representatives more efficient by creating representatives districts that are more compact and transactional. Detractors to this bill, while hurling vile pejoratives neglect to acknowledge they would do similarly given the opportunity, so their inventive are merely performative.

McKenna Tanner
Self, editorial assistant
Houston, TX

I am disgusted that the Texas legislature would so willingly roll over to federal leadership and prioritize political gamesmanship over the Texans lost in the recent Hill Country floods. When some 150 Texans lose their lives, the legislature's only focus should be on making sure this never happens again. We need real actions to save lives like improved alert systems and bolstered infrastructure. Instead, you are neglecting Texans to create these convoluted districts just because the president told you to. We elected our lawmakers to stand for Texans first; by forcing through this redistricting, you are abandoning us.

The proposed map will disenfranchise Texans across the state, especially in Houston. These new districts lump together areas with very different experiences and concerns, like downtown Houston and its southern suburbs. Representatives must actually represent their constituents, but how can anyone accurately represent a district with such varied concerns? This redistricting will also disrupt efforts underway for the 2026 election, even for Republican lawmakers. Incumbent representatives have been hard at work showing their constituents they deserve another term, while challengers have already begun their campaigns. To reset this work with little more than a year's notice puts incumbent Republicans at risk, as they now must create a new campaign for their new district. For example, I am currently represented by Wesley Hunt, but this map will put me in another representative's district. That means that efforts Wesley Hunt has made at connecting with my area have functionally been erased and—even worse—he will no longer have an obligation to represent me and my family, as he now courts new voters. He'll have to start from scratch, and we will have to take a chance on new to us candidates, rather than the incumbent that we know.

Worst of all, the state's surrender to the Department of Justice letter regarding districts that have been found to be race-based calls into question our integrity and our officials' honesty. Since 2021, Texas has made clear in court and under oath that race was not a factor in the creation of the 2021 map. Now, suddenly, the state has admitted to making race-based districts: meaning that either advocates for the state perjured themselves with false claims of race blindness, or we are admitting to a crime we did not commit: either way, you've branded Texas a liar, and as a proud Texan, that disgusts me. Of course, President Trump has made clear he isn't actually concerned about race, just the extra Republican seats he thinks we'll give him. But since when did Texas give in to the feds? Governor Abbott and AG Paxton have made a career of fighting against federal overreach, and overreach doesn't get more obvious than the president demanding you give him more seats. We elected you to fight for Texas, above all else: stand for Texas, reject this redistricting and focus on flooding. Save lives, don't roll over.

William Dower, Dr
self, retired chemist and professor
Austin, TX

It is a shameful twisting of the nature of the US government ("Of the People, By the People, For the People") to draw lines on districts that intentionally disenfranchise so many people, and deprive them of representation. Those who are pushing this agenda do so for short term gain, but fail to realize the long term cost.
All one-party systems end up in the same place, regardless of their initial intent. A small cadre at the top harvest what they want, and the circle around them grab what they can from what is left over. The rest of the people get scraps. Government workers are chosen only for loyalty, not ability, so governance is inept, except for serving those in that inner circle.

Perhaps the saddest part of this is the simple fact that those who push the 'unitary executive' theory are making their own jobs irrelevant. Once we have a single decision maker, we won't need legislators or judges, only police. And nobody will be safe from them, because as the government loses the ability to provide for the general population, there will be resistance, and the only way to quell that will be with force. Eventually, the population will overthrow the unitary executive, and another will take their place on the top of the structure, unless there is a chance to install democracy again.

Each step taken down the road to one party rule takes us further into that dystopian future. The Republican members of the Texas House and Senate, and the US house of representatives should realize this, and reject the hyperpartisan maps. Instead we need a map that allows the people to select their own representatives. In the long term, the fair map is in everyone's best interests.

Nobody knows the names of the members of the Russian Duma, or the Chinese National People's Congress, because they are irrelevant. Our US legislative bodies will become similarly irrelevant if we continue Gerrymandering ourselves into one party rule, whichever party would be that one party.

Kelley Leintz
Self/SAHM
Austin, TX

I oppose redistricting Texas. This is wrong, and you know it in your core.

Kirk Collier
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB 4. This redistricting proposal appears to undermine fair representation by prioritizing partisan interests. Please vote no on this bill.

Cindy Burkhalter
Self/retired
Lubbock, TX

I oppose the Texas legislature's bill to redistrict. It is cheating by the Republicans to try and draw a new map mid-Census. This is a blatant attempt to gerrymander, even further, an already gerrymandered map. NO REDISTRICTING!!!!

Amanda Vogt
Self pdm
Liberty hill, TX

This is a heinous bill that is illegal and goes against what Texans want. This gerrymandering is despicable and does nothing but harm our state and our people. Our representatives should stop this from proceeding at all costs. Do not let this bill go forward. Stand up for what's right and stand up for your fellow Texans!

Shelly Gupta
Self
Austin, TX

"Absolute power corrupts absolutely."

Instead of focusing their energy and time on improving emergency alert systems, fixing the grid; investing in children's health and education; lowering the rate at which mothers are dying - Texas lawmakers dove head first into the pursuit of more power.

This map is insulting.

People of all colors, shapes and sizes are suffering right now, hoping that someone in a position of power will help. But lawmakers can't see that suffering because they are too busy looking out for themselves.

They are focused on their fear of losing an election, enough so that they feel the need to rig it. They can't risk the people uniting and being heard, so they seek to divide and silence us.

How did we get here, to where the those elected to represent the will of the people are not just ignorant or even willfully ignorant, but flat out immoral and so entitled? Why help others when you can just help yourself?

Texas is nobody's kingdom. The USA is nobody's kingdom.

Lesha Roberts, Dr
Self
Hockley, TX

Texans deserve to be represented!!! Fairly!!!!! 2020 census is not representative

Angelica Rodriguez
Self
Manor, TX

It’s wrong for trump to do this. We need our freedom, our peace, and more!

Kaylab Garcia
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Kaylab Garcia and I reside in Austin, Tx in the 37 congressional district. I live in a district that will directly affected by this redistricting since the proposed map will cut directly into my district. This redistricting is not to better represent Texas, but to ensure that Texas only behaves the way the DOJ wants. This is not an accurate representation of the people and it is not an accurate representation of me. As someone who served in the US military I signed my life to the idea that I was defending freedom so that we could all be fairly treated and represented. Do not allow my district and my beloved state to be gutted.

Joel Corte
Self
Mcallen, TX

To the Texas House Redistricting Committee:

I’m writing from McAllen to urge you not to move forward with another round of congressional redistricting.

We just went through this process after the 2020 Census. Nothing has changed in the population that justifies redrawing maps now—unless the goal is to gain political advantage. That’s not what redistricting is supposed to be for.

Mid-decade redistricting feels like a power grab. It divides communities, weakens trust, and sends the message that politicians are choosing their voters, not the other way around. In places like the Rio Grande Valley, where people already feel overlooked, this only deepens frustration and disengagement.

As someone who cares about civic participation and the future of our region, I want to see fair representation—districts that reflect real communities, not partisan strategies. People deserve to know that their voices matter, that their neighborhoods won’t be split apart, and that the rules aren’t being changed just to benefit those in power.

Please respect the process. Redistricting should happen once per decade, with transparency and public input—not whenever it’s politically convenient.

Thank you,

robert thomas
Self
Georgetown, TX

When political figures distort election boundaries to artificially constrain the voices of their constituents by diluting their representation, those politicians lose legitimacy. I suggest to you that strong-arm tactics like Gerrymandering, and schemes to restrict the vote may produce short term political wins, but in the long run, they weaken American’s respect for our system because people can tell when “the fix is in”--when the process is rigged in favor of one side. When this is cravenly undertaken at the direction of a President who, in a previous election personally threatened state officials if they didn’t “find” 11,780 votes, one begins to smell a very bad smell.
Some of you may think that a willingness to engage in cutthroat political tactics, though distasteful, is what it takes to win, and being a winner may be the most important thing to you. Those who engage in these tactics are not winners—they are cheaters who have deprived themselves of the power of real leadership because real leadership requires trust and truth. Leaders must be guided by visions of something greater than the acquisition of power for its own sake.
The stakes are high. The bible tells us that “Where there is no vision, the people perish.” FAIR REPRESENTATION. END GERRYMANDERING NOW!!

Carol Peeples, Mrs
self
Round Rock, TX

This redistricting map is highly unethical and is a blatant attempt to silence the voices of our fellow Texans. It will further the distrust in our government as a whole. Please vote no on redistricting.
Thank you,
Carol Peeples

Audie Bradshaw, `
Self - Electrical Contractor
Royse City, TX

This change aligns with the voting in these areas without homoginizing the districts to prevent those of us living and working here to have a voice!

Dennis Morgan
Self
Anarillo, TX

I am advocating FOR redistricting to assure fair and accurate representation in Congress.

Jennifer Murphy
Self
Austin, TX

I am deeply concerned about the continued gerrymandering in Texas, which undermines fair representation and dilutes rhetoric voices of communities of color and democrats at Trumps behest. Electoral districts should be drawn based on community needs, not partisan advantage. I urge lawmakers to prioritize transparency and equity in the redistricting process.

Margie Arens, Ms
Denton County Conservative Coalition
Bartonville, TX

This bill is important to reflect the growth and representation of all citizens We need these extra five seats

Cynthia Walton, Ms.
self
Austin, TX

I am writing at this time to comment upon the recently released redistricting plan. I am vehemently opposed to this plan. It violates common decency and the autonomy of the great state of Texas. Why on Earth is the legislature of Texas cowing to an administration in Washington that is hell bent on ruining our agricultural and tourism industries? In addition to disenfranchising our fellow citizens by further gerrymandering our districts, why are we spending our tax-payer dollars on this? This is not a cost-neutral activity.
Act like you represent the Texans who built their capitol building to be larger than the building in Washington to make a point. Stand up for the independence of our state and do the right thing: direct your energies and our funding to help the communities and families impacted by the disastrous flooding that occurred here in July.
Thank you.

Philip Bailey
Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Incorporated
Mansfield, TX

My name is Dr. Philip Bailey. I am a constituent of Texas Senate District 22, Texas House District 96, and U.S. Congressional District 24. Just a few months ago, several minority voters in Tarrant County were impacted in what could be perceived as an blatant, racially motivated political action.
Through its redistricting plan, Black, Hispanic and Asian voters were cracked from Tarrant County Commissioners Precinct 2 and packed into Precinct 1. As a result, their political power, acquired over time through population growth and coalition building in the Southern sector, was diminished by elected officials that chose to silence them instead of engaging them politically. That was a textbook example of racial gerrymandering which is illegal. Now at the request of President Trump, Governor Abbott and the Texas State Legislature are seeking to employ the same racially motivated redistricting plan in a attemp to silence minority voters at the federal level to maintain power of the U. S. House of Representatives.

First, I call on members of the Texas House and Texas Senate to vote NO regarding this mid-decade redistricting plan that is nothing more than a racist power grab intended to dilute the political power of Black, Hispanic and Asian voters in large urban centers throughout the state of Texas.

After hearing about the public hearing held in Tarrant County, performing research on the matter and spearheading numerous debates on the matter, it is abundantly clear that I am not alone, and the majority of North Texans have no interest in seeing new maps being drawn. As a fellow Texan, I encourage you to tap into your independent, lone star spirit in this moment. All agendas, whether from Washington D.C or here in this beautiful state of Texas, the main goal of ANY political individual is to hold the voice of the people high. Hold that responsible with honor, dignity and courage. To muffle the voice of the hopeless through political actions is a move no citizen of this great state should allow. I encourage you to reconsider this action and believe in the great people of Texas.

Benjamin Grimes
self
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting is unacceptable and overall not representative of the desires of Texas or its citizens. It is clearly designed to undermine democracy and must be rejected.

Karen Cummings
Self
Rio Vista, TX

This is a BLATENT ATTEMPT to keep Republicans in office, and their "very ugly acting" leader. I am finding it harder and harder to sleep at night! How can THEY sleep knowing they ARE the problem?

Elka Murphy
Self
Amarillo, TX

Advocating FOR redistricting. Texas citizens deserve fair representation!!

Steven Wright
Congressional Candidate TX CD 35
Spring Branch, TX

I, as a Congressional candidate for #tx35 in 2924 and currently I've heard nearly 740 complaints about the current gerrymandered district 35 that was created with a Democrat voting base of 70% . I have as well been to that the current congressional representative does not and will not engage with constituents that do not have his political policy views. I have been given specific examples of complaints that Casar will not allow opposing views or comments on his Tele Townhall video conferences. I've been shown specific questions that were submitted for these events and were rejected by Casars office.
I have had at least 600 in person complaints and over 300 emails and social media messages that explain how their voices are not being heard and the district does not represent their interests currently.
I am receiving a large amount of positive messages and contact for the newly released district map and potentially getting representation in the district from.

Amy Steinberg, Mrs.
Self
Round Rock, TX

This map is absolutely ridiculous. Why would San Antonio's district include parts of El Paso including a military base? I can answer- it's to dilute their votes since many vote Democrat. This is UNdemorcratic and corrupt. Politicians shouldn't be able to pick and choose their voters in order to fix their own elections. It's currently gerrymandered enough. Of the Democrats we're doing this, y'all would be infuriated and call them out for cheating. Please do better.

Kristi SoRelle
Self
Waco, TX

I'm totally confused that the Republicans feel they have to do things like gerrymander in the middle of this decade - so they can try to assure they can win. Each representative should respect and value the will of the people and each person's vote. To attempt to assure their win by twisting the law speaks to their recognition that they are not determining laws and statutes according to what is good for the people of the state of Texas. I am totally against this bill and any good, righteous representative should be to.

Tammy Wolfe
Self
Lubbock, TX

Vote Yes

Kari Grant
self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose Texas' proposed congressional redistricting map, which undermines fair representation and disproportionately harms communities of color. This plan is a transparent partisan power grab, designed to silence voters by dismantling competitive districts and diluting minority voting strength—especially in Austin

The map intentionally fractures communities of color, packing Black and Latino voters into fewer districts while spreading Republican voters into Democratic-held areas. These changes violate the Voting Rights Act, prioritizing political gain over equitable representation. The fact that 30 of 38 districts would now favor Trump by double-digit margins—despite Texas' rapidly diversifying population—exposes this as an undemocratic scheme to rig future elections.

I ask that you reject this discriminatory map and commit to a transparent, nonpartisan redistricting process that respects all Texans—not just one party's agenda. Our democracy deserves better.

Norma Reveles
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am against redistricting as it will make it even more difficult for us to have an equal and fair election of representatives that truly look after our interests.

Karen Wagoner
Self, housewife
Emory, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Victor Castillo, Constituent
Self
Canutillo, TX

I do not want my city of El Paso to be redistricted.

Jessica Nunley
Self
Highland Village, TX

I would say it's shocking, but in the year of 2025, it's actually not, but it is DEEPLY disappointing you are doing everything you can to suppress the voters and voices of Texas. As a life long Texan I don't know a single person who wants to see the state totally controlled by Billionaires like Tim Dunn. We are tired, and expect our representatives to do what you were voted to do - represent the people, not just a Billionaire funding your campaign and lifestyle.

Elise Gentry
Self
Austin, TX

Good afternoon,

I respectfully submit this comment to propose a rejection of HB 4. I strongly oppose Texas House Bill 4 and urge state lawmakers to reject this deeply unjust redistricting proposal. This bill represents a blatant attempt to manipulate congressional district boundaries for partisan gain at the expense of fair representation — especially for Texas' Black, Latino, and other communities of color.

Texas is a richly diverse state, and its legislative maps should reflect that reality, not erase it. The proposed map under HB 4 intentionally weakens the voting power of minority-majority districts, including long-standing districts in Houston and South Texas that have been critical to ensuring that people of color have a meaningful voice in our democracy. This redistricting effort dilutes that voice by packing and cracking communities of color to serve partisan goals, rather than honoring the principles of equal representation.

Redistricting in this way undermines the Voting Rights Act and disrespects the racial and cultural makeup of Texas. It sets a dangerous precedent and moves us further away from fair elections, accountable leadership, and racial justice. I call on our elected officials to uphold the integrity of our democracy by rejecting HB 4 and committing to maps that protect — not suppress — the representation of all Texans.

Thank you.

Donya Movahed
Self
Austin, TX

This proposed redistricting of the Austin area and Texas as a whole is nothing short of an assault on the very foundation of our democracy. The Constitution guarantees representation by the people and for the people - not engineered districts designed to silence voices and rig outcomes. Carving up communities to dilute their political power is a blatant violation of the principle of “one person, one vote”. It's undemocratic, unethical, and unconstitutional.
Gerrymandering doesn’t just redraw lines on a map—it redraws the future of our cities. It strips citizens of meaningful representation and turns elections into foregone conclusions. When political power is hoarded through manipulation instead of earned through accountability, democracy dies. The people of Texas deserve to choose their leaders, not have their voices drowned out by partisan schemes. This redistricting proposal is a betrayal of democratic values, and it must be challenged.

Philip Crabtree Self / HR
Dallas, TX

I am strongly against this attempt to redraw the Texas electoral map.

Tanya Gauthreaux
Self
Georgetown, TX

This republican plan is just an effort to cheat. You can’t win; change the rules. Focus on protecting people from flooding, electric grid outages, and ensuring children don’t get shot in schools. Stop wasting the public’s money on this nonsense.

Elizabeth Rogstad
Self - retired
Dickinson, TX

Opposed to this mid-decade extreme gerrymandering leaving Texans unrepresented.

Ashley Turner, Mrs.
Self
Houston, TX

Chair King, Vice Chair Creighton and the Senate Special Committee on Congressional Redistricting:

My father is the late Congressman Sylvester Turner. During his career he served as a Texas State Representative, Mayor of the City of Houston, and Congressman for the Historic 18th Congressional District. Throughout his time as a public servant his mission was to be a voice for the voiceless and to speak truth to power. Due to his untimely death, the constituents of the 18th congressional district are not only mourning his loss, but also the loss of the honorable Sheila Jackson Lee. It is unconscionable that they have been forced to wait 10 months before having federal representation due to a prolonged election. But to add insult to injury, now the district is at risk of being dismantled all for the sake of appeasing Donald Trump.

As a child, I walked the halls of the Texas State Capital with my dad, sat in committee hearings, and listened to debates from the gallery. There were times when elected officials voted across party lines to accomplish their own agendas, but what I appreciated most were the times when representatives would work across the aisle to negotiate a solution that worked for Texans and that is what I am asking for today. Dismantling districts, weakening the voices of people of color and manipulating political outcomes should not be our focus.

Regardless of the position that my father held, he was steadfast in being the conscious voice, steady hand, and the people's champion. If he was alive today, he would not only be in Austin voicing his concerns but he would be organizing, rallying and empowering his constituents.

I am asking that you put Texas first and stand up for Texans.

Sincerely,

Ashley Turner

Duncan Brown
Self
Canyon, TX

Reject this bill. It is a blatant attempt at gerrymandering for a power grab. There is no other explanation.

Lauren Hannan
Self
Cypress, TX

Sending this to oppose the new map

Nick Hance
Self
Dallas, TX

Absolutely no to mid-decade redistricting. This is a power grab plain and simple. This is what dictatorship looks like. How are Texans going to listen to a morbidly obese orange idiot out of New York of all places tell us what to do. Texas know best, right Greg? Stop with the kowtowing to these MAGA nazis. What are they so worried about that they need to gerrymander for if their platform is so good and they're the "big tent" part. Pure hypocrisy.

Jesse Klatt
Self, Mother
Austin, TX

I am a mother of four living in East Austin in a thriving and close knit community. Our US House Representative is well known and well regarded in our community. It is important to me and to my family to have an honest, accountable and transparent government, and one way to make that happen is to allow Texas voters to work together geographically. My neighborhood is strong because we share common goals and struggles. We feel enfranchised, like democracy is working as it should, when we are represented in government by people who work for the best interests of our community and who respond to our needs. Redrawing the maps for Texas' districts so that some districts stretch across the state means that many of the people in that district will lose touch with the people who represent them. Our state is vast geographically, and no representative will be able to cover bizarrely large areas with efficacy. As someone who grew up in rural west Texas, I know what it feels like to be far from the action. I am opposed to the new gerrymandered maps that will disenfranchise me and my neighbors and which will likely leave my friends and family in rural west Texas in an even worse position of being ignored and undervalued. I hope that Republicans in Texas will show that they have the gumption and fighting spirit to win fairly by governing well and working for Texans so that they can earn votes. This rushed move to dismantle districts that are not currently under Republican control looks cowardly to me. And I wonder how long Texans will stand for and with any party that bows to outside power at the expense of our own friends and neighbors. Any redistricting should be done on the traditional 10 year timeline with plenty of time for a fair, honest and open plan to benefit Texans.

Wendy Harvel
Self
Austin, TX

Against this bill. Do not draw new maps

Bobby Shi
Self, graduate student
Austin, TX

This method of redistricting is an affront to democracy and the will of the people. Grow a spine.

Rhonda Anderson
Myself
Longview, TX

I'm testifying in favor of this bill .

Bobby Gallana
Self
Rockwall, TX

I am writing in support of HB4. Redistricting as proposed would closer align Texans in these areas with actual historical voting records creating more representative districts.

John Mata
Self Bandera, TX

Much needed!

Leanna Cavazos
Self, Civil Engineer
Austin, TX

Unfair to the people of Texas.

Timothy Davis
Republican precinct 307 (Chairman)
NEW BRAUNFELS, TX

Please support this bill and help keep Texas run by conservative leaders that better represent the constituents here. Thank you and may God bless Texas!

Catherine Wagner Calderaro
Self (attorney)
Buda, TX

I oppose this gerrymandering!

Cristina Ramirez
self, lawyer
Austin, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose Texas House Bill 4.

This bill is a transparent power grab designed to undermine our democracy by diluting the voting power of communities of color. Instead of ensuring fair representation for all Texans, HB 4 manipulates the system to serve political interests—particularly those aligned with Donald Trump, who does not represent the values or will of the people of Texas.

The Texas House is supposed to represent Texans, not carry out the agenda of any one politician, especially not someone who has repeatedly sought to erode trust in our elections. HB 4 fails to uphold the principles of fairness, equity, and democratic integrity that our state and country are supposed to stand for.

We demand fair representation. That means protecting the voices of all communities—not suppressing them. HB 4 is about consolidating power at the expense of the people, and it must be rejected.

Jill Mccord
Self professor
Allen, TX

There is no reason to redraw maps that were approved 5 years ago because DC needs more votes for midterm elections. It should seem quite obvious that this is an attempted power grab. If Texas does this now, other states will follow. We do not need midterm maps. Focus on the important issues about Texas during this special session.

Jason Story, Mr.
Self Captain
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. I will vote against any elected official who votes for this corrupt redistricting.

Kendra Cook
Self
Austin, TX

I fully oppose redistricting. This is an effort to diminish the voting power of non-conservatives, or anyone opposed to the current administration

Debra Schulze

Texas citizens

Live Oak, TX

This is unconstitutional, immoral and discriminatory bill!! THIS IS BLATANT POWER GRAB!, All communities deserve a say in this bill. And You work for US! Texans do not want this! The state should be voting on the tragedy of the flooding in Texas. This is egregious! Governor Abbot is now is not fulfilling his oath to support the constitution! He needs to step down! You are allowing the destruction of Texas! You will be on the wrong side of history! And eventually will have to pay for allowing this suffering to continue. Lives are at stake!! This facism will not last!! The people will survive and your coo will not be victorious! You will End up in a court of laws! The people will fight back!

Derek Ensign

self, software engineer

Austin, TX

I think everyone knows that this bill is anti-democratic and illegal. The president ordered you to do something illegal and it is up to you, to stand up for the people of texas that you represent, even if they are of a different political party. This crosses further and further into territory none of us want this country to go into and I hope some of y'all will have the courage to defend our democracy. You know too that even if you pass this, it will cause a cascade of gerrymandering across the country, and will only cause harm for more and more people. Do not steal away my representation by removing TX 35. If this bill passes, it will truly be the first time this life long Texan will consider leaving the state, and it will be soley because my rights are being taken away from me.

Steve Richardson

Fort Worth Residents

Keller, TX

The great state of Texas has always been about unity amongst its neighbors, not division. Let all voices be heard from both parties and cancel the redistricting.

gregory gilson

SELF

austin, TX

END THE LAWLESSNESS

Robyn Honig
Self/Aide
Austin, TX

Thank you for the opportunity to share my opinions on the mid-decade redistricting attempt in this online forum.

It's hard to tell which is worse:
- The capitulation of the state government to the federal
- The unwillingness of the proposed map's beneficiaries to perform their duty as a "check" on the other branches of the federal government
- The reason for the redistricting push being legally tenuous at best
- The proposed boundaries exceeding the scope of the nominal reason for the redistricting
- The audacity of the map, which would split my neighborhood into four congressional districts, including a few little isthmuses between more rural areas
- The massive amount of government assistance that some of these politicians need in order to win their elections
- The boundaries bisecting multiple streets in my neighborhood, all to help said politicians win
- The cost to the state and municipalities, in both time and money, to make all the changes that a mid-decade redistrict would entail
- The cost of this special session, which was called not to improve emergency preparedness but to disenfranchise Texas voters, even after a horrific disaster in central Texas
- The callousness required to do the above
- The fact that the incumbent politicians who are the intended beneficiaries of the proposed maps (all Republicans, of course) did not vote to release the Epstein files to the public (https://newrepublic.com/post/197987/house-republicans-vote-block-epstein-files)

Judy Roberts
Self/family therapist
Round Rock, TX

Deeply oppose redistricting and limiting my choice of freely choosing my representatives. Mat Texas rally against this unfair process!!!

Becky Ralston
Self, Retired Public School Teacher
Rogers, TX

I urge you to reject the demand from the current administration to redistrict. Redistricting should only be done in a thoughtful, appropriate manner. Texas should maintain its constitutional powers. This redistricting plan is designed to manipulate our elections. It will strip some Texans of their voice and representation.

Kaitlin Colegate
National federation of republican women
New braunfels, TX

Please consider passing this.

The people of Texas want this and we are urging you to pass this.

Dawn Hampton
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Is there nothing the Republicans won’t stoop to? Maybe if you chose better candidates you wouldn’t have to resort to this. You lost me as a voter. This type of thing continues to show me I made the right decision.

Carol Moya
self
Austin, TX

I am vehemently opposed to this effort to FURTHER gerrymander these districts. We already have Austin lumped in with the Texas coast from the previous redistricting, and this is a blatant effort to further dilute the votes of cities and minorities.

Melanie Mendez-Gonzales
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose this bill.

Kayla Lucas
Zeta Phi Beta
Forney, TX

Please do the right things and follow justice and don’t diminish the voice of the people

Sondra Primeaux
Self
Austin, TX

As a citizen and voter in the state of Texas, I am against this unfair redistricting proposition. We did not agree to this, we do not want it.

Cynthia Levinson
self
Austin, TX

Do NOT--I repeat: DO NOT--gerrymander Texas any more than it already is! Do NOT--I repeat: DO NOT--engage in mid-cycle redistricting!

Jennifer Parker self, interior designer
Grapevine, TX

Election outcomes should be determined by the intentions of the voters, not predetermined by creative districting of citizens by politicians. Act with courage and integrity to win fairly and not stack the cards in your favor.

Stephen Greever, Mr.
Self
Round Rock, TX

Greetings
There is currently no need to re-district Texas. This is a grab for power to the exclusion of what our state actually needs. In no way will this help return the money removed from out state treasury to pay for the border wall. Nor will it install sirens or enhance early warning systems on the Guadalupe river. The current districts already isolate several ethnic groups from political power. That should be enough.

Madisen Riley
Self, Tech Worker
Georgetown, TX

This bill is a farce. It is entirely about limiting my democratic power as a voter, and not at all about helping Texans receive true representation in any meaningful way.

This bill will further discourage Texans from going to the polls and continue to support the reign of ignorance powered by the minority who have stolen power.

Curtis Cameron
Self - retired
Garland, TX

You have a responsibility to the citizens of Texas to make sure that everyone has a voice in our government. Gerrymandering districts that are advantageous for one party isn't the spoils of winning the latest election, it's an abdication of your responsibility to your constituents.

What kind of legacy do you want to leave after this term? One that you can rationalize by explaining that politics is cut-throat and whatever you can temporarily get away with is A-OK, or one that you can tell everyone that you did the right thing?

HB 4 may throw obstacles in the way for those on the other side of the aisle, but be assured that it will energize the voters to do everything they can to right this wrong and throw you out. This is not just a typical political question of who has the votes, it goes to the heart of whether we have a government where all citizens are represented.

RONALD COCCARO
Self
Katy, TX

There is no need to redraw the district lines in Texas. Especially because it is only being done because Gov. Abbott is caving in to pressure from Donald Trump to gerrymander more districts to the Republican Party than is rational. The district lines that have been drawn are complete nonsense. It only proves that the GOP has morals in their willingness to kowtow to an immoral president.

Susannah Winslow, Mrs.
self, marketing services
Austin, TX

To the Honorable Members of the Committee:
My name is Susannah Winslow, and I am a resident of Austin, Texas. I submit this testimony in strong opposition to the proposed redistricting maps currently under consideration.
Redistricting is meant to follow the U.S. Census to reflect population changes fairly—doing it now, mid-decade and without new census data, is not only unjustified but undermines the principles of fair representation. The maps presented fail to reflect the diversity and demographic growth of our state—particularly among Black, Latino, and Asian communities. Instead, they diminish the political voice of the very populations that have fueled Texas's growth.
In Austin, the proposed changes would strip Austin of one of its two congressional districts by merging Representatives Lloyd Doggett and Greg Casar into the same district. This change would silence the voices of a growing and diverse population, reduce access to vital constituent services, and diminish our city's influence in Washington. Austin deserves fair representation that reflects our size and values—not a political power grab that weakens our vote and fragments our community.
We deserve maps that keep communities together, reflect the changing population of our state, and ensure that every vote counts equally—regardless of race, income, or zip code. I urge you to reject the current maps and commit to a transparent, inclusive redistricting process that prioritizes the voices of the people, not the interests of the powerful.
Thank you for the opportunity to submit my testimony.
Sincerely,
Susannah Winslow
Austin, TX

Nancy Porter
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. It is a blatant attempt to redistrict along partisan lines, not to fairly represent the citizens of Texas.

Kathy Hughes
self
Houston, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 4 and this redistricting process. Redistricting should occur when there is new census data, not mid-decade. It is not following democratic process to do it just because the President wants it done. When it is time for new maps, these should be drawn by an independent body, not the legislators, to ensure fair representation for all. Stand up for all Texans and stop this unjust process.

COURTENAY VERRET
Self/Content Marketing
Austin, TX

I am discouraged and angered by the blatant and illegal attempt to silence Texas voices and cheat in elections because the president's policies are so unpopular. Furthermore, it is a scourge on the independence and spirit of this state that our legislators are simply bending over to do the president's bidding, regardless of the ethical or moral implications. This redistricting is a blatant violation of the Voting Rights Act and will silence Texas voices, particularly those in cities and people of color. You should be ashamed of yourselves.

Debra Felder
NONE
San Antonio, TX

TEXAS Voting Districts must represent the PEOPLE of Texas not only WHITE Men, WHITE Women who PRETEND to be christians BUT hate Diversity to such an extent they are willing to engage in RACISM, BIGOTRY, AND Pure HATE of those not like them no matter what.

Jenny Nicola
Self
North Richland Hills, TX

I stand and support of the HB4 redistricting map.

Rodrigo Gozalo
self
Temple, TX

Last week I went to Leander to help with the flood recovery efforts and it took two hours for a group of thirty people to clean the debris of one house. We wore gloves, masks, and layers to protect us from whatever the flood waters may have brought to the area. This cleanup started on July 5th and it's almost two thirds complete... In one neighborhood.

This week there was an article posted about recovery efforts in Kerrville, two senior citizens are among the last of the volunteers left consistently providing aid. Where is the state? Where is the recovery effort? It got old? Wasn't playing favorably in the media? No one bought you actually "cared" when you called them losers?

The only losers I and the rest of the people writing a public comment and making a testimony see are the representatives aiding those that need no aid. We see you for what you are: losers trying to cheat the people of Texas while its people suffer from a preventable tragedy done on YOUR watch.

You want to keep your majority so badly that you don't care about the cost. The real human cost. Hell, the MONETARY cost. You know people being, I don't know, ALIVE is good for the economy right? People doing well is good for business and incentivizing travel to the state; give people at least one reason to stay here instead of adding to the list of reasons to flee.

And representative Hickland. Miss "Freshman", if your children that you care so deeply about are ever in a camp during a preventable disaster, I expect you to ignore your feelings about that and stare at a map instead so that you can give them the same grace you, your top donor, and colleagues have given to the children lost in this preventable disaster.

Kisla Jimenez
Self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to congressional redistricting in Texas at this time. It is not the will of the people. Thank you.

Joshua Bostick
Self
Cypress, TX

Why are you so scared of your own voters? I’m a 5th generation Texan and Texas is supposed to be about looking out for your neighbor not isolating them because they are different from you. If Texas is supposed to be Red than you shouldn’t have to steal seats.

David Grant, Dr.
Self
Texarkana, TX

I am for redistricting. Get it done!

Vivian Lee
self, consultant
Austin, TX

My name is Vivian Lee, and I live in Travis County, with strong ties to neighboring Williamson County. I'm writing to express my deep opposition to the current redistricting plan because I believe it violates the spirit of our democratic process.

As a Texan, I believe in representative democracy. That means our elected officials should reflect the people—not protect partisan power. But this proposed map tells a different story. It merges districts like TX-35 and TX-37—two distinct, diverse communities with their own needs—into one, essentially forcing two Democratic incumbents into a single seat. It doesn't expand representation. It erases it.

Texas has a long, documented history of racial and partisan gerrymandering. In 2011, a federal court concluded that Texas lawmakers drew maps with intentional discrimination against Latino and Black voters. At the federal level, the Supreme Court made clear in Shaw v. Reno (1993) that racial gerrymandering—even when disguised as political strategy—is unconstitutional when race is the predominant factor. This redistricting plan not only ignores these precedents—it intentionally splits and dilutes communities of interest, and continues the legacy of silencing rapidly growing and diversifying communities like those in Central Texas.

This should not be a partisan issue. Whether Republican or Democrat, we should all agree: elected officials should NOT get to choose their voters. It must be the other way around.

I urge you to reject this map. Central Texans deserve representation that reflects our growth, our diversity, and our needs—not a map designed behind closed doors to preserve power. We need a fair and equitable process—one that reflects the real Texas, respects communities of interest, and ensures that every voter has a voice.

We are paying attention. And we will hold our elected officials accountable.

Sincerely,
Vivian Lee

Daja Gegen
Self
Austin, TX

Demanding the cease of restricting activities intended to eliminate progressive voices for Texas in Congress.

Sandra Ozigbo, Ms.
Health IT / Self
Houston, TX

I am strong against this bill to further redistrict the state of Texas and disenfranchise thousands of voters. This is an attack on democracy and open and fair elections. Please vote against this bill and let every politician regardless of party run a fair election and campaign to people base off policy. Again I strongly oppose the new map and want it on the record this is being proposed against the will of millions of Texans who want our voices heard and a fair and transparent election process.

Anne Jackson, Mrs.
Citizen
Tyler, TX

Correct the census errors that caused Texas to be under represented. Approve HB4.

Molly Hodges
Self - Travis County Employee
Austin, TX

I oppose the new redistricting map.

Andrew Gephart
Self
Cedar Park, TX

AGAINST

Max Christiansen
self
Austin, TX

I unequivocally oppose this map. This is a state where republicans control the state house, senate, and governorship. As a registered democrat residing in this state, I feel disenfranchised enough without this plan for republicans to grab five more seats in DC. We need a redistricting by an unbiased third party to properly reflect the purple hue our great state has taken on in the last 15 years. I've been a voter since 2012 and I still have hope for this state, despite republicans best efforts to make voters like me feel hopeless. We need a map that will make Texas a more competitive state, because that's good for everybody. More competition can mean more choice available to the people, more bipartisanship, more consideration for everyday Texans. I urge you in the strongest terms to utilize an independent committee to redistrict in a manner that represents the diversity of thought in this large and beautiful state.

Parul Desai, Dr
Self
Austin, TX

Please, please do not initiate this process. Texas has always been independent. This session was called after recent catastrophic floods to help Texans. Please focus on Texans and do not have your agenda sidelined by Washington DC. This is an historic moment and if you initiate this midterm redistricting, you will set off a cascade nationally which in the long run will harm our democracy. Today it is the Republicans and another day it will be another party forcing their will. Is this what we want?

Please stand up for what is right and veto this extremist bill and focus on the needs of all the suffering Texans. Thank you.

Ami Lynn Kane
Self
Austin, TX

The Republican's new proposed map merely creates districts even more gerrymandered, and voter suppressed than we currently have. And the ones we currently have already in a state of great shame and inequity. Anyone who cares about the power and truth behind the Texas voting block will allow us to FREELY VOTE and have districts which do not Specifically suppress our true views. Please do not support this disgusting, unconstitutional act that will only hurt the Texas population.

Reagan Herr Self; Program Manager-Meta
Austin, TX

I’m reaching out to strongly oppose the current redistricting process in Texas. The use of gerrymandering to draw district lines for partisan gain undermines the core values of representative democracy. It weakens voter influence, reinforces political power structures, and compromises the fairness of our elections. Every Texan, regardless of political affiliation, deserves a redistricting process that is transparent, equitable, and free from manipulation.

It’s also troubling to see any federal executive branch, including the White House, attempting to direct how states manage their redistricting. This kind of intervention steps beyond constitutional limits and risks damaging public trust in what should be an independent process.

At the same time, it's disappointing to see some state leaders, who often advocate for states' rights, supporting measures that sideline local control. Redistricting should reflect the interests of the people, not the priorities of political power. I urge this body to oppose any approach that sacrifices fairness, transparency, or local autonomy.

Jane Chamberlain, Ms
Self, retired publisher
Austin, TX

It is heartbreaking to see my country undergoing an unprecedented and unbelievable assault on our rule of law, our citizens and immigrants, and the very structure of our government that has kept us from killing each other for almost a quarter century. The increasingly unpopular leader responsible for this travesty has ordered his minions in Texas to fix it so that people here can’t fight back at the ballot box. And the governor who joked about waking up and suing the federal government is eagerly kowtowing to this one.

And y’all are the grunts charged with doing the dirty work. We’ve watched some of you who represent small town or rural areas fighting to keep control of your public school, the principal community center for a scattered or small population. Some of you resisted heroically the push to exchange that autonomy for a profit-based education system, until this governor showed you what happens if you persist.

So they’ve put you in a sticky spot with this order to once again, mid-decade, after the 2021 effort got an “AOK” from the powers that be, to disfranchise some of the folks who have had the hardest journey in this country. I think what you need here is a moral principle. If we’re going to place Texas under Christianity, let’s augment your Old Testament version of the “Ten Commandments” with Christ's’ actual update from Matthew 22: “Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.” And y’all know from Sunday School that your neighbor’s not so much the guy who wears your same hat as those others over there, the ones most in need of help.

We’ve tried to build a consensus of decency and respect for others that with the rule of law helped protect our pursuit of happiness. In this special session I ask you to think deeply about what lasting benefit you could possibly gain from participating in the loss of this precious legacy. And please . . . don’t ever forget to love your neighbor.

Brittany McWhorter
Turtle Island Restoration Network
Texas City, TX

HB 4 is a harmful proposal that would allow the state government to redraw congressional districts in a way that benefits one political party, specifically, the Republican Party, at the expense of fair representation. This redistricting effort unfairly targets areas like South Texas, Austin, Dallas, and Houston, with the clear intent of undermining Democratic members of Congress and influencing next year's midterm elections.

This is not a new tactic, similar efforts have repeatedly aimed to suppress the voices of voters in diverse, heavily Democratic communities and tilt the political landscape. These actions not only erode trust in our democracy, but also violate the principles of the Voting Rights Act by discriminating against Black and Latino voters.

We need a redistricting process that puts Texans, not political power, first. Maps should reflect the diversity of our state and ensure that every voice is heard, not manipulated to benefit a single party. HB 4 moves us in the wrong direction, and we should oppose it to protect fair representation for all.

Lorna Randle, Dr.
Self
Houston, TX

I do not understand why anyone would blatantly disregard the law. The law is that the districts are developed because of the census, not because the president of the United States says he needs seats in the House. Texas Governor discusses that the Ten Commandments should be placed in the classrooms for guidance. Yet, Jesus summarized the Ten Commandments by giving all of them in two commandments. One is to love God with all of your mind, soul, heart, and strength. Then he said, "Love your neighbor as you love yourself." Do not discuss God anymore because you are not following his commandments. Loving God and your neighbor means to do the right thing and follow the law. Jesus says that you don't have to worry about the law as long as you follow him. He means that if you do the right thing for everyone, you will be following anyway. Doing right means to respect what is in the law right now! Do not follow anyone but the law. The right thing is to leave the district boundaries alone. I believe what you sow, you will reap. God is in control, and he will have the last word.

Tracy Cordova
self
Austin, TX

This proposed map would fragment Austin, placing many residents into districts represented by Congressmembers based in distant cities like San Angelo, Victoria, and Waco. This is not about fair representation; it is about severing the vital connection between constituents and their elected officials. By diluting our local communities into vast, geographically disparate districts, this plan will severely diminish our ability to access our representatives and hold them accountable.It will make it incredibly difficult for our shared values and local concerns to be effectively heard and addressed in Washington. Voters should select their leaders, not the other way around. I urge this committee and the Texas Legislature to reject this plan. Instead, I ask you to support maps that reflect the true will of the voters and ensure fair, accessible, and accountable representation for all Texans.

Cheryl Bakhtiari
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am 100% NOT for redistricting, unless of course the great State of Texas wants to change the district currently represented, or should I say, dys represented by Chip Roy. The design of this district has ensured the Chip Roy could care less about my vote. We DO NOT NEED any more districts like this. I have no voice. I have no representative, at least not one that cares, 'cause his district is drawn so that he doesn't have to.

Kristin Rojas
Self
Pearland, TX

I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal.
This proposal aims to limit voices like mine who want to not only be heard but have representation that reflects my values as well. Every community in this state deserves fair voting maps, not political manipulation.

Helen Lueders
Self, Librarian
Houston, TX

The idea that you should be able to redistrict/gerrymander with the clear intent of trying to shape elections is disgusting and goes against the very basis of "the will of the people." We know you are running scared, given the closer elections in recent years. I'm not surprised Texas Republican politicians are acting like this, but I am surprised that my fellow Texans are willing to put up with fascist tactics to "win" at any cost. This kind of maneuvering is pathetic and does absolutely nothing for every day Texans of any party. I look forward to seeing how history treats the representatives pushing this bill for the benefit of the few.

Steffani Frideres
Self
Spring, TX

Please stop the redistricting of Texas. This is a unnecessary and waste of taxpayers money. Democracy is at stake in our country and this should be what is being looked at, not methods to destroy it.

Alexis Gross
Self, teacher
Fort Worth, TX

My name is Alexis Gross and I am a resident of Fort Worth Texas. I oppose this bill to redistrict us mid decade. I have taught middle school history and government in this community for over 20 years. Every year, I explain the basics of how our government works to the future voters of our country and help them to realize the rights and responsibilities they have as citizens. It is increasingly difficult to instruct young people about how our government works when our representatives continue to violate the rules established by our national and state constitutions. How can I answer their questions with a straight face when they ask why our representatives are allowed to violate their sacred trust and refuse to follow the same rules all of us are required to follow? Be true to your oath. Uphold the constitution. If you represent us well, you should have no need to redraw boundaries in order to keep your seats. Thank you.

Rodney Brown
Myself and thousands of people I know! Former Teacher
Austin, TX

This bill which shows our legislature caving in to a criminal president, is so wrong. You are now complicit. Shame on you! Don’t do it ! Stand up to the criminal. Or resign and go home. SHAME! if you do not!!!

Sabrina Ball
self
Fort Worth, TX

As a native Texas mom, I have watched Republicans slowly erode and destroy our public school system, deny the civil rights and autonomy of people, and make life hard for working families. MORE of that is not the answer. While partisan gerrymandering may be legal it doesn't make it right. In fact, I find it immoral. Free and fair elections should be the right of every citizen. This is not playing fair. If you were so sure of your "amazing" policies, you wouldn't need to do this. This is UNTexan and UNAmerican. Drop this crap and get to work for Texas families.

Rosa Aguilar
Self
El Paso, TX

I don’t understand why the change. I need to be seen and heard. As a community we need to be represented by someone that understands our needs. Someone that will fight to make our community better and stronger. Our service men and women in Fort Bliss deserve all the help and opportunities to better serve them and their needs. We have so many Veterans not receiving the medical help the they earned while keeping our country safe. What will happen to all of them if no funding is secured to keep Beaumont hospital open accessible to them. Will they have travel to other cities in order to receive the medical care they need? Please don’t make changes that will affect our community. We someone that grew up in our city and understands our needs. For so long we have been in need of someone to represent us and now that we have Ms. Escobar representing us we finally feel seen, heard and represented.

Michael Cockrell, Captain
Self
Hockley, TX

We need Fair representation in Texas that was misrepresented by the 2020 census

Jeremy Sheffield
Self (ASL Interpreter)
Austin, TX

I oppose the current plan for redistricting in the state of Texas. This is an obvious power grab to disenfranchise the people of Texas for political gain. The proposed redistricting groups people with nothing in common politically, socially, or geographically. Not only are these new lines illogical, they are a waste of time. There are other matters at hand far more important than the game our representatives are attempting to play. One party has been in power in Texas for the last 30 years; the wrongs they are trying to right are the ones they made by sacrificing their duty to their constituents in exchange for personal gain. Stop wasting the people of Texas’ time, money, and resources and focus on matters that actually benefit us: access to healthcare, disaster relief, public education. For once, put the people of Texas first.

Lisa Smith
Self
Plano, TX

I am FOR the redistricting of the US House of Representatives of Texas. And I would like to ask that my state reps vote in favor of this bill.

Jacqueline Baynard
Self
Austin, TX

I am AGAINST gerrymandering. I believe that the maps are only being redrawn to alienate certain groups and this is illegal. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

David Woodward
Self
Three Rivers, TX

Texas has needed to have redistricting done for a long time, the present districts are set up to favor democrats. Long overdue.

Carol Williams
Self/retired
Dallas, TX

We should not be focused on redistricting years ahead of the once a decade time frame. The obvious political games being played at the request of Trump is embarrassing. You're supposed to be representing the best interests of the people of Texas. Shame on you if you move forward with this sham.

Jules Morris
Self
Cypress, TX

I strongly support HB 4.

Krista Herrmann
Self
Rockwall, TX

I am in support of the map as presented. PlanC2308 is the map #

Marissa Gonzalez
self
Houston, TX

This is not democracy. You are cutting out black and latino communities. Y'all have already shut down a good amount of voting polls in those same communities. Trump is not king and should not be bowed down to. You are in the position you are in because the people of Texas voted you in. Listen to your constituents. WE DO NOT WANT THIS ILLEGAL GERRYMANDERING!

Zack Whitley
Self, nurse practitioner
Austin, TX

It is a shame that political strategy is the main focus of our state level government. Long gone are the days of advocation from government (both state and federal) for the needs of its people. Now government is a sword to be grabbed against its will, and wielded by a thoughtless criminal in office. Often at the people's expense. Truly, shame on this bill and shame on the so-called conservatives who are allowing this. If continuing to align with this immoral demagogue is in line with your moral compass, your constituents are watching and taking note. And if that mattered at all to you, I would not need to write this.
Be better. Be American. Fight this obvious political pageantry. Conservative ideals are needed, as are liberal ideals. Stop playing games and govern.

Sherry Graham, Human Being
Self
Crandall, TX

We are supposed to be a democracy and stealing votes is not democratic. It is so apparent that Republicans don't think you can win otherwise WHY DO IT? And I thought Texas was about states rights but it's also apparent that you are just toting the line for trump.

Ashley Reed
self
Austin, TX

These maps were voted in by a Republican majority, why is there suddenly a problem? We are Texans, members of a vast state with varying political views. We should not take direction from DC. There is no reason major cities should be primarily represented by rural areas. Our issues and needs as urban and rural constituents differ, I beg you to respect that and fight to fight for democracy.

Matthew Brown
self
Sugar Land, TX

I support this bill. We need common sense district boundaries on every level. Please vote to support HB 4.

Rita Robles
Self
Houston, TX

Texas residents deserve better. There is no reason to redraw redistricting maps. It is not time and just bc the current administration wants to do illegal things gs doesn't mean Texas has to be a part of it. Republicans are committing illegal activity. This needs to stop. Special sessions are for serious items. Go after Kerrville law enforcement and higher ups who did nothing to warn Tx residents to of the coming floods. Fox our electricity grid by connecting to the rest of USA grid. Stop taking AIPAC money. Stop corrupted corps from polluting our air ground and water. Give belfry fines not slaps on the wrist to habitual offenders and shut them down if they don't comply. Better yet do not renew their permits. Reinstate Medicare and Medicaid to underserved and marginalized people who need free lunches in schools. Who need transitional housing to get off streets and so much more. DO BETTER TEXAS

Brandy Bumpus
Self, Texas public school educator
Spring, TX

I am not in support of the redirecting of the state of Texas. It will do damage to representation to our black and brown communities. Vote no to redistricring!

Tara Bowman, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

Do not do this. Do not redraw district lines. This is wrong and you know it.

Katherine Denison
Self
Houston, TX

I am firmly opposed to this redistricting effort. The Texas Legislature should focus on establishing the necessary regulations and support to prevent the horrific flooding and deaths which just occurred in Central Texas. You should not be making a mockery of democracy with these shameful, gerrymandered voting maps. They are a disgrace to the notion of democracy. Stop these maps now.

Lauren Correll
Self
Austin, TX

As an Austin resident, I strongly oppose HB 4 and PLANC2308. The proposed congressional map undermines fair representation by gerrymandering districts to favor one party, particularly targeting Austin, Houston, DFW, and South Texas.

This map merges Representatives Lloyd Doggett and Greg Casar into one district, silencing voters who elected them independently. It also creates districts that favor partisan outcomes over community representation.

HB 4 lacks transparency, repeals prior redistricting laws, and introduces vague legal language that invites manipulation. Texans deserve fair, inclusive maps—not power grabs.

I urge lawmakers to reject HB 4 and prioritize a redistricting process rooted in equity and democracy.

Jordynn Vaughn
Self
Mansfield, TX

I am writing as a concerned constituent—and one of 3 registered voters in my household—to express our strong opposition to the current efforts to redraw district maps in Texas. Redistricting should serve the public interest by ensuring fair and equal representation—not by manipulating boundaries for political gain.

Gabriel Camacho, Mr.
A citizen of El Paso
El Paso, TX

I am against this gerrymandering nonsense. You know it is wrong. In your heart, you know it is wrong. Leave the boundaries of District 16 as they are!

Eloisa Rodriguez, Mrs
Self
El Paso, TX

Please do not change this in the middle of the decade. Changing the process at this time of political divide only hurts our state. El Paso is always treated like a stepchild. I am very happy with the representation we receive from our current rep. I ask that you vote against this change that has no rhyme or reason other than political gains from those who do not represent me. Fort Bluss , the airport and VA should remain in our district, why the change and competition for funding. Our Veterans deserve better , they must stay with district 16. Thank you.

Dorothy Shelley
Self,Retired School Teacher
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my feelings on the redistricting that Governor Abbott is trying to foist on the people of Texas. Redistricting should be done only after a state census where the data shows accurately where,if any,changes in the district maps need to be made. Greg Abbott is trying to fast track these district maps at the direction of the president in a blatant attempt to create 5 new representative seats in Congress in next year's November elections.These 5 districts he wants maps redrawn for target communities of color and are a way to silence the Black and Hispanic voters in these areas, and therefore not allow the people to elect who they want to vote for in a fair election.This is not how a fair and just system should work.And I don't want Governor Abbott to be allowed to do redraw these districts. Shouldn't he be spending this precious time on making our state ready for the next catastrophic flood and not by trying to steal votes?

Alene Sartwell-McDaniel
Self
White Settlement, TX

A blatant attempt to silence minorities, people of color, and any independent political mind, i firmly opposed the redistricting proposed and see it for what it is: gerrymandering. Stop this ridiculous bill!

Dorothy Scraggs, Mrs
Retired teacher
Abilene, TX

As a Texas retired teacher and public school educator in Taylor County,I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation."

Mark Johnson, Major US Army Retired
Self US Army Retired
El Paso, TX

I'm a disabled veteran who has lived in El Paso over forty years. I graduated from UTEP in 1977 with a Bachelor of Science degree and an ROTC commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the US Army. My father was a Korean War veteran and Chief Warrant Officer 3 stationed at the US Army Air Defense Artillery School at Ft Bliss. My stepfather was an NCO and WWII, Korea and Vietnam veteran. He and my mother were homeowners in El Paso for over forty years. They are both now buried at Ft Bliss National Cemetery.

The proposed redistricting bill is a slap in the face to myself and family. It would unequivocally have devastating impacts on the economic well-being of the El Paso/Ft Bliss communities. It would force El Paso to compete for federal funding with larger cities like San Antonio resulting in reduced funding for vital infrastructure and quality of life programs. It would surely slow or even stop the construction of the sorely needed new El Paso VA center. This is grossly unfair for the large retired veteran community in El Paso. Being a border city with a large military base, El Paso has unique issues, concerns and needs that other Texas cities just don't have. For example, low wages and rising costs of living have made it much harder to make ends meet for many El Paso residents, young and old. Federal and State programs like Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, Food Stamps, Meals on Wheels, etc are absolutely vital for people. To reduce or cut funding for these humanitarian programs is immoral and un-American. But this is exactly what this re-districting bill would do: more homelessness, more hunger, more unhappiness. Is this the American Dream?

Please have a conscience and don't pass this terrible, politically biased re-districting bill

Anne Mashek
Self
BELTON, TX

I oppose this new map of congressional redistricting. It's not time to do this, and since when does our great state of Texas fall to the whims of the president?

Kristin Warthen, Reverend
St. Andrew's United Methodist Church
Arlington, TX

I am a constituent and pastor from Arlington, Texas, and I write today to urge you to refuse to accept the redrawing of districts for the election of members to the U.S. House of Representatives from the State of Texas. Please vote "no" on any redistricting plans before you. The plans before you unfairly silence black and brown communities in Texas. These communities are already underrepresented in our state, and to silence them further is to give Jim Crow his power back by robbing them of their voice in who represents them by drowning it out. If our Republican representatives—at both state and federal levels—truly believe they have a winning platform and policy, then please let them both stand on their own merits without the aid of redistricting the state. The redistricting plans before us undermines the core tenets of democracy by essentially allowing Republican leadership today to choose their constituents rather than allowing the people to choose their representatives. It will lead to an "elected" leadership that does not truly represent the diversity of the great state of Texas, and this lack of representation will end up deepening the seeds of distrust amongst the people for their government. Instead of affirming redistricting , please take the time to listen to your constituents, to all Texans. There is great wisdom here: if only you'll listen to it instead of bypassing it.

Thank you,

Rev. Kristin Warthen

Kimberli Martinez, DR
Self -Registered Nurse
Rowlett, TX

I am opposed to the efforts to redistricting the way they're redistricting. I find it to be immoral I find it to be gerrymandering to minimize votes of its constituents for political gain

Lara DeGhelder, Mrs.
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to redistricting the state of Texas outside of a census cycle. This is pure politics to try to rob Texans of their voices.

The proposed map places my home in Pflugerville, Texas in its THIRD Congressional district in the last 18 years, and each district has been vastly different.
? In 2008, I was in CD 10, which covered in the northeastern portion of Travis County and went all the way down to outside of Houston.
? In 2011, I was moved to CD 17, which covers a tiny sliver of north Travis County goes up through Waco and then over to Lufkin and Nacogdoches.
? The proposed 2025 map moves me back to CD 10. But this is not the same CD 10 - this one takes a tiny, fingerling sliver of Travis County and attaches it to a huge rural district that spans all the way past Midland/Odessa.

With this new map, you are intentionally trying to silence my voice as a Texas citizen. My growing urban community's concerns could not be more different than the ones of the oil, gas, and cattle ranchers of the new CD 10, and there is no doubt that this is a gerrymandered district for the benefit of one political party. In turn, the district will be effectively won in the primary election, ensuring that my community's voices will never be heard or considered by our elected representative. Instead, we will be represented by the most extreme candidate, and Texas will continue to plunge itself into the depths of conspiracy theories and falsified moral panics instead of focusing on issues that actually help its citizens.

But outside of my own sphere, the maps of Harris, Tarrant, and Dallas counties are very likely illegally drawn according to Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. Drawing lines that discriminate are illegal. Period. And this standard has been tested and reaffirmed by this US Supreme Court in 2023 in Allen v. Milligan. Allowing these districts to move forward is in violation of the law.

The Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment is in place for a reason, and you simply cannot draw electoral districts in a way that discriminates against racial or political groups.

I urge you to stop this redistricting farce and focus on the issues that are actually of utmost importance to Texans instead of wasting our tax dollars on these politically motivated stunts.

Paul Alvarado
self
Austin, TX

This is an obscenity. Voters are supposed to choose their representatives, not the other way around. But this bill would hand Republicans control of nearly 80% of Texas Congressional districts even though only about 52% of Texans vote Republican. This is anti-democratic, un-American, fascistic evil. How dare you even think of doing this. Carving up majority Democratic cities so we don't have any Democratic representatives is indefensible madness — as is carving convoluted districts like the one that would put the Capitol in the same district as Texas A&M, over 100 miles away. (And I say this as a proud Aggie.) Shame on any and all of you who crafted this, and I implore you all not to vote for it, if only to avoid triggering an arms race of radical gerrymandering nationwide. Think through the consequences, and be careful what you wish for. History is watching you.

Vonciel Hill, Dr.
Self
Dallas, TX

This process is unfair, undemocratic, and unnecessary. I strongly oppose.

Edwardo Gomez, Mr.
Self. Lawyer.
Houston, TX

I write in opposition to the proposed redistricting bill that would allow the current Republican majority to redraw district lines mid-decade for apparent partisan advantage. I believe this move is not only unnecessary but also undermines democratic norms, violates basic fairness, and risks disenfranchising voters.

Redistricting has long followed a once-per-decade tradition based on the U.S. Census. This system ensures consistency and is rooted in constitutional and federal law. Mid-cycle redistricting—especially without any court order or major demographic change—departs from these norms and appears to serve only political interests. Courts have sometimes struck down redistricting efforts that prioritize partisan gain over legal and constitutional principles, including those that dilute minority voting strength or disregard communities of interest.

The proposed bill does not reflect any genuine need. The current maps already disproportionately favor Republicans. There has been no legal mandate, no dramatic population shift, and no public demand justifying a new redistricting effort. Instead, it looks like a strategic attempt to secure more power ahead of upcoming elections.

Redrawing districts now would disrupt representation. Constituents would be reassigned to new districts and lawmakers mid-term, damaging continuity in constituent services and local advocacy. It would also increase voter confusion and further erode public trust in the fairness of elections.

This kind of maneuver sets a dangerous precedent. If the majority party redraws maps whenever it sees political opportunity, it invites a cycle of retaliatory gerrymandering. That kind of instability corrodes faith in democratic institutions and reduces electoral competitiveness.

Many states have moved toward independent redistricting commissions or stronger safeguards to avoid exactly this kind of abuse. Rather than manipulating the system for temporary gain, lawmakers should work to strengthen impartial redistricting practices and preserve democratic legitimacy.

For these reasons, I urge you to reject this bill and commit to transparent, legally sound redistricting aligned with census data and long-standing democratic norms.

Faryce Macon, Mrs
Self Retired City Planner Manager and current Realtor
Corpus Christi, TX

Hello Congress
It is with great disappointment that this Bill has been brought forward to consider. Our nation is already under attack in so many areas that this proposed redistricting just piles on the insanity more. Why would you destroy years of trying to make the voices all heard and return to the years of selfishness and being wrong. No matter if you agree with a group of people or not they have the right to be heard and to select someone that speaks for them. These are sad times that we could be entering. An era that cautious is being thrown to the wind. I ask that you stand on the principle of doing what’s right for those who have a small voice and vote against this bill. We all have to atone for so much we have done in life already. Let’s not add to the list that will be set before us one day.

Jaiden Tucker

Myself , Precinct Chair #4203, Teacher

Argyle, TX

BLUE STATES NEED TO FOLLOW SUIT TO OFFSET THIS BLATANTLY RACIST AND ILLEGAL GERRYMANDERING SCAM!! THE NEW MAPS ARE RACIST! PLAIN AND SIMPLE! THEY Disenfranchise HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF VOTERS ALL ACROSS THE STATE. THIS WAS AN OPEN DECLARATION OF WAR ON OUR CURRENT DEMOCRATIC SYSTEM AND I WILL NOT BE SILENT AND COMPLICIT IN THIS SCAM BEING FORCED THROUGH AGAINST THE WILLS OF TEXANS! FOR TOO LONG OUR WILL HAS BEEN IGNORED AND THE INFLUENCE OF OUTSIDE BILLIONAIRES AND LOBBYISTS HAVE DICTATED THE COURSE OF TEXAS POLITICS. I SAY THAT THIS IS A TIPPING POINT. WE THE PEOPLE ARE TIRED OF ABBOTTS BULLSHI* and WILL FIGHT BACK WITH EVERY RESOURCE AND TOOL AT OUR DISPOSAL. IF THIS MEANS CALLING OUR REPRESENTATIVES AND DEMANDING THEY BREAK QUORUM, WE WILL DO WHATEVER IT TAKES, WE WILL THREATEN THEM WITH OUR VOICE AND OUR VOTE. ANY DEM THAT REFUSES TO BREAK QUORUM WILL FACE THE POSSIBLY OF BEING Primary'd in THEIR NEXT ELECTION CYCLE. DONT DO THIS FOR TRUMP. HAVE SOME INTEGRITY FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND FIGHT BACK AGAINST THIS FASCIST POWER GRAB. I am a simple constituent, however we the people give you power! WITHOUT OUR VOICE AND OUR VOTE, YOU ARE NOTHING OTHER THAN A NAME ON A DESK, a simple lame duck stepping stone in the Passage of time, I IMPLORE YOU, BE REMEMBERED FOR DOING THE RIGHT THING, NOT FOR BOWING DOWN TO YOUR ORANGE OVERLORD TACO MAN.
Sincerely, your Honorable Constituent Jaiden T.

Annette Johnson

Self/retired Socual Worker

Tomball, TX

The proposed redistricting map for Texas is blatantly partisan and if enacted, will deny millions of people of color a voice in their own representation. Current maps were drawn after the last census and there is no reason to create new maps with no new population data. Texas population is minority majority and our current districts already are drawn to deprive non-white voters of a voice in elections. Leave the maps alone! Stand up to Donal Trump's demands and do what is right for Texas. Spend this special session on working on emergency preparedness.

Daniel Martinez

Self

Dallas, TX

Do not change the districts! Gerrymandering should be illegal. Using it to consolidate political power from the citizens goes against the constitution and the ideals America was founded on. The Republican party changing the districts to remove democratic leaders is a form of tyranny and goes against the will of the people!

Ashley Danley, Mrs.
Self/speech language pathologist
Austin, TX

Dear Members of the Committee,

My name is Ashley Danley, and I am a resident of Williamson County. Though I cannot be present in person today, I feel strongly compelled to submit this statement in firm opposition to HB 4.

I am a mother, a speech-language pathologist, and a lifelong Texan. I spend my professional life helping others find their voices—children and adults who cannot speak for themselves. As such, I cannot remain silent when I see yet another attempt to silence the voices of everyday Texans through strategic gerrymandering and partisan redistricting.

HB 4 is not a neutral proposal—it is a deliberate effort to entrench political power by diluting the voting strength of communities who already face systemic barriers to being heard. As a citizen, I've watched my voice—and the voices of my neighbors—become increasingly disregarded with each successive map that prioritizes party loyalty over fair representation.

This is not about ensuring fair elections. This is about choosing your voters instead of letting voters choose their representatives. That is not democracy. It's manipulation. And it undermines everything public service is supposed to stand for.

We all know this push is happening not because it is right, but because it is politically expedient. But the job of a public servant is not to follow orders from party leadership—it is to represent your constituents, all of them, regardless of party, race, or zip code.

As a mother, I worry about the future my child will inherit if we continue down this path—one where elections are decided before a single vote is cast, and communities are carved up to benefit a few at the expense of the many.

Texans deserve better. We deserve fair maps. We deserve leaders who are brave enough to reject corruption and choose democracy.

I respectfully urge you to oppose HB 4.

Sincerely,
Ashley Danley
Mother, Speech-Language Pathologist, and Voter

Jackie Strong
Self
Austin, TX

Here's an idea: Instead of embracing your lying, cheating and unethical redistricting plan to win elections pivot to doing your jobs effectively (ie actually help Texans have better lives) and then you would get reelected in an honest democratic manner. If you would do ANY work that helped people, they would support you. Instead you're obsessed with 10 commandments in classrooms, striping healthcare rights from all women and destroying the state for a buck in your pocket. This bill shows the world that all Texas republicans are weak, whinny, crooked little babies. You are a cult of losers. You and this bill need to go away. We are disgusted.

Elizabeth Piner, Ms
self, retired
Austin, TX

I object to this unnecessary, rushed and clearly partisan redistricting with little time for the public to even see the maps in a timely fashion. This redistricting will further disenfranchise non-white citizens even though the incoming Texas population has been increasingly less white. The gerrymandered districts will make it more difficult for constituents to reach their representatives in person because of the odd shapes and increased distances. The Voting Rights Act needs to be respected.

David Faidley
Self
Plano, TX

Redistricting was a responsibility that legislators took seriously and our Supreme Court ruled was critical to ensuring that minority voters were represented.

This bill is a perverse power grab by the President which you are enabling. Stand up for Texans who simply want the same right to choose their representatives that their forefathers had.

If you cave to the big money Republicans this set off a nationwide redistricting battle in every state. The choice to break precedent and Texans trust is yours.

Sophia Robbins
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. This is nothing but blatant gerrymandering and you all should be ashamed for even having to vote on it.

Wendy Salome
Self
Austin, TX

I am a concerned citizen in Congressional District 37, Texas House District 49. Redrawing our congressional maps for the explicit purpose of "picking up 5 Republican seats", which Donald Trump demanded - is the antithesis of the democratic process. Texas lawmakers should represent TEXANS and NOT bend the knee for the President. These proposed maps disenfranchise large swaths of my neighbors in Districts 35 and 37, and rob all of us of true representation in Congress. As an Austinite, my needs in Congress are very different from my rural neighbors. Diluting my voice and my vote goes against everything our country was founded on. More than that, disenfranchising Texans at the whim of a power-hungry president who does not care at all about our issues is the antithesis of being a Texan. This state prides itself on our independence. We should put Texans first and draw maps that allow all Texans to have a fair and powerful voice in Congress.

James Ferguson-Mahan
Self
Austin, TX

Instead of focusing on helping the flood victims, or rebuilding the infrastructure the Texas GOP decides to steal 5 seats from the democrats because your dictator told you so. This isn't democracy, this is autocracy. I moved to Texas because of its small government and standing up to Washington attitude. You should be ashamed of yourselves if you pass this bill.

Skyler Howell, Mr.
Self
Austin, TX

It's a shameful day when Public Servants misuse their power to be the voice of many for their own selfish political gain and interests. Instead of being the voice of reason they have become the voice of political terror. The gerrymandering being displayed by this Texas senate is the exact reason why this old guard of senators should be voted out and replaced. You sit there looking down on your constituents not wanted to know what they truly feel or what's best for Texas but what's best for you to line your pockets and laugh at the masses. This is the equivalent of telling Texans "Let them eat cake". You sit on your high horse and Thump your Bible at others but done even consider the repercussions that your choices have. Not only for your own party or generation but those that will come behind you and oppose you later on in your career. This form of thinking in Texas must be challenged. I'm not sure when most of these Texas Republican senators and house members got into there seats but I can guarantee that they will not say in them long. The new era of Texans will not stand to be marginalized by their power hungry overlords and will vote you out. In the years to come you will have to sit and realize how wrong you were about this. The true test of strength isn't using your power for your own agenda, but by going to your districts and truly listening to them and making sure the people's voices are heard and represented. Which would not happen for a large number of Black and Brown voters. I truly am disgusted with this Remapping and I only hope and pray that in the future we vote all of you sorry and pathetic excuses for politicians out that supported this abysmal decision.

Micah Davis
Self
Elgin, TX

I think it's pretty knavish and cruel to try and strip even more representation from our already underrepresented democratic voters. Just leave the maps as is, there's no emergency or mass migration to justify this.

Emily Martin
Self, Chief Marketing Officer
Houston, TX

I am very much against this. This is definitely gerrymandering which is illegal. Vote NO on this bill.

Meredith Grover
Self
Houston, TX

This bill is gerrymandering and illegal. It is disenfranchises all voters of Texas and is a clear power grab. Do not pass this illegal map of confessional districts. The law is that we run a census every decade - the people voted for this. This proposal of redistricting breaks the law and goes against the voice of Texans and the US.

Janet Jones
SELF Flight Simulation Engineer
Fort Worth, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Brian Garber, mr
Self
Webster, TX

Is America now a Third World Country? My Family and most families have given their lives to protect America and keep her people free. Yet a Draft dodger controls Texas Republicans that have no spine , while Americans risked their lives to defend her. You have given control to Billionaires, Millionaires and corporations, you have elected Supreme court Justices that were chosen, bought and paid for by "Christian" Nationalists extremists aka white supremacists masking themselves with Christianity to wield it as a sword and shield. You have mathematically eliminated your opposition by gerrymandering, limiting voting locations, days, times. We are being run by project 2025, We will soon be the American Taliban. You have bowed down to you wealthy donors to allow poisoning and polluting our water, air, land and food. Indirectly causing the death of Americans. Moderation and balance is the only path for america to remain free.Men and women gave their lives for us, the least you can do is grow a spine and stop the insanity. You can fool others, you can fool yourself, but you can't fool God

Jim Cash
self
The Woodlands, TX

Bad:
1) Represents politics at its worst 2) possibly illegal 3) basically a white supremacist move that will be identified as such Good:
As a middle of the roader myself, it makes it easier for me to convince others like myself to vote against the party that employs such unethical and possbly illegal methods 2) makes it easier to show other middle of the roaders that TX Republicans are racist 3) makes campaigning against Republicans in the upcoming elections easier 4) weakens a number of Republican districts that can ow be overturned. 5) very good chance to cost TX Republicans more than the 5 eats they think they will gain

Lauren Sewell, Dr.
Self. Pediatric Audiologist
Austin, TX

I am writing as a concerned constituent to express my deep opposition to the proposed redistricting maps in Texas. The way the district lines have been drawn is neither fair nor lawful, and they undermine the fundamental principles of representative democracy.

The current maps dilute the political power of communities of color — particularly Black, Latino, and Asian American voters — despite these groups accounting for nearly all of the state’s population growth. This is a clear violation of the Voting Rights Act and the U.S. Constitution’s guarantee of equal protection under the law.

Fair representation means that all communities should have an equal opportunity to elect candidates of their choice. Instead, the current redistricting process has prioritized partisan advantage and incumbent protection over the voices of everyday Texans.

I urge you to support and advocate for: Transparent, nonpartisan redistricting processes, Maps that reflect the true diversity and growth of Texas, and Protections for voting rights and enforcement of federal standards.
Our democracy only works when every vote counts equally. Please take action to reject redistricting, or at the very least ensure that redistricting in Texas reflects fairness, legality, and the will of the people. Thank you for your time.

Kathryn Smith
Self
Houston, TX

Please DO NOT gerrymander Texas!!! Do not bow down to Trump.

Ansley Partosa
Greater Gaming Society
San Antonio, TX

Nobody wants a new map! Nobody is asking for this! It's unfair, unjust, and yall didn't ask us before doing this! Stop it!

Michal Brody
self, teacher
Austin, TX

This special session of the Lege for mid-decade redistricting is disgusting and disgraceful. You leave it very clear that democracy and fair play are not your goals, not your values. This endeavor is craven hypocrisy made all the worse because there are indeed important matters in our state that need to be addressed, but you'd rather waste time and budget being schoolyard bullies. Shame on you.

Ashley Steck
Self, Sr. HR professional at Amazon
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. The fact that this is even being discussed is absolutely appalling and a clear violation of the will of the Texas people. This needs to end immediately, and focus should be shifted to real issues facing Texans. Our state is falling into ruin and becoming a worldwide laughingstock by following the unconstitutional leadership of Abbott, whose only allegiance is to Trump and his own wallet.

Ceila Cravey
SELF. Occupation: VP Administration
Baytown, TX

Thank you, Rep. Cody Vasut, for leading the Congressional Redistricting Committee. Now it is time for members of the Texas House to do the work necessary and redistrict the remaining coalition districts out of Texas. We must protect Texas and Vote for HB 4. Vote for the One Big Beautiful Map.

fay shook concerned voter
flower mound, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I oppose any mid-decade redistricting, especially while the current maps are still being challenged in court. Furthermore, I oppose any redistricting that does not result in fair representation for all Texans. Texas has a long history of racial gerrymandering and discriminatory voting practices, so I urge you to prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided, thereby weakening their political voice.

Texans have the right to fair and equal representation that's achieved through a thoughtful, transparent process that allows meaningful public input. Lawmakers should have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps, protect minority voting rights, and respect county lines, city boundaries, and communities of interest. A rushed 30-day special session packed with unrelated agenda items is not the way to achieve this.

Texans deserve to have a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and results in equal representation for all, not this rushed and deeply flawed process. Flood recovery efforts and the safety of Texans should be the top priority, not redrawing political maps. Your self interest is appalling, I'm a voter, you should remember that your actions in this regard will be politically toxic.

Cheyenne Galitski
Self
North Richland Hills, TX

I oppose the proposed redistricting.

All Texans should have a voice and the ability to elect representatives who reflect their needs locally. Texas is not a monolith and our representation, and districts, should reflect the wide diversity of views, backgrounds, and beliefs in our state.

The proposed districts are quite frankly absurd. To group such wildly different parts of the state is a disservice to its citizens, both in rural and urban areas.

Martha Carrell
self/ retired
Temple, TX

For the good of the state of Texas, redistricting should be left in the hands of Texans, not politicians. It is obvious that this bill is meant to cut off any dissenting voices to the current administration in power & that power is all they want. Please vote for the Talerico bill that puts this power back into the hands of the people. Please respect the US Constitution & alloe it to be your guiding light. Thank you.

Danielle Berg, Prof.
Self/professor
Austin, TX

As a concerned resident of Texas, I urge lawmakers to reject House Bill 4 unless substantial changes are made to ensure fair and equitable congressional redistricting.

Redistricting should protect the fundamental principle of representative democracy: that voters choose their leaders, not the other way around. HB 4, as currently written, appears to undermine this principle by manipulating district boundaries in a way that dilutes the voting power of communities of color, particularly Latino, Black, and Asian American Texans. These communities are the backbone of our state's growth, and yet HB 4 fails to give them fair representation.

This bill also lacks transparency and public accountability. Redistricting should be an open, data-driven process that reflects public input, not a closed-door political maneuver. I call on the legislature to release the data and criteria used in drafting these maps and to allow for meaningful public engagement before any decisions are finalized.

I respectfully request that you revise HB 4 to comply with the Voting Rights Act, uphold the integrity of our elections, and reflect the true diversity of Texas.

Texans deserve a map that is fair, representative, and free from partisan gerrymandering.

Kathleen Kerr
Self retired
Austin, TX

The more I think about HB4, the angrier I get. I feel like my rights are being assaulted. I would like an explanation of why this redistricting is necessary other than to attempt to fix an election? Also this disgusting move by TX republicans will likely backfire since California and New York States are already threatening to do the same but in favor of the Democratic Party.
Why aren't you discussing flooding on Texas rivers and protecting people from this kind of natural disaster which seems to happen at least every 10 years? Didn't 100+ people just die, including children? Hello.

Catherine Gentry
Self
Houston, TX

Good morning,
I’m writing to oppose the redistricting of Texas' congressional maps under SB 4. If passed, this bill will contribute to confusion in upcoming elections, as candidates are shifted across districts without enough time to raise awareness in the general public.

Additionally, the public involvement of the President in this sudden push for redistricting has demonstrated the clear partisan animus behind this bill. When one of the leading voices behind this move has clearly stated that this redistricting would allow the Republican Party to pick up five seats, It's difficult to believe that the primary motivation is a desire for equal representation or reducing racial discrimination.

If this issue was truly needed to ensure proportional representation in Texas, it should have been raised during the regularly scheduled session.

Thank you for your consideration.

Lori Ibarra
Self - Registered Nurse
San Antonio, TX

Rigging the next election to maintain power is not what America stands for. The state and the country are watching you. Bending your knee to Trump will put you in vulnerable position to have them cut off during the next election. Trump will be gone in three years, and you may very well be voted out in the next election if you proceed with this illegitimate power grab. Texans demand you will do what is right and honorable. You were elected to represent TEXANS, not bend your knee to Trump. Better to die standing upright, then to grovel on bended knee.

Sara Wingfield
Self
Pflugervillle, TX

Dear Members of the Redistricting Committee,

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting plans in Texas due to serious concerns about fairness, representation, and democratic integrity.

The maps appear to be drawn to manipulate election outcomes rather than reflect voter intent. This undermines democracy by allowing politicians to choose their voters, and it dilutes the voting power of communities of color through tactics like “packing” and “cracking.”

The redistricting also fragments communities of interest, weakening their ability to elect representatives who understand their needs. Splitting neighborhoods across districts reduces accountability and can limit access to essential services and resources.

Additionally, the process has lacked transparency and meaningful public input. I urge the adoption of an independent redistricting commission and nonpartisan criteria to ensure fairness. There are also concerns that the maps may violate the Voting Rights Act and Equal Protection Clause.

I respectfully urge you to reconsider these maps and prioritize a fair, transparent, and representative process.

Sincerely,
Sara Wingfield

Ann St.Clair
self
Austin, TX

The proposed map is blatantly unfair and is designed specifically to suppress the votes of minority voters who tend to vote Democratic. In no way does it fairly represent the will of the people of Texas and it will not provide representation of Texas voters in the U.S. House of Representatives. No!

Eve Margolis
self
Austin, TX

This bill is an obvious power grab by an increasingly unpopular administration. The blatant disregard for the voices of thousands of Texans who rely on you in unconscionable. It is unconstitutional to push this agenda. The kowtowing to Trump and Abbott is cowardly. The attempt to rip away representation for so many is cowardly. The only job of this body is to serve the entire population of Texans, not just those who elect you. Emergency redistricting? In an off year? This shouldn't even be a discussion.

Kelly Wood
Self
Bastrop, TX

I am writing to express my deep disappointment regarding the recent redistricting efforts in Texas. The changes made to our voting districts appear to be a clear case of gerrymandering, undermining the democratic process and disenfranchising voters.

The elimination of many Democratic districts is not just a political maneuver; it represents a significant threat to fair representation. Every voter deserves a voice in our government, and these actions contradict the principles of democracy that we hold dear.

Deborah Kiester
self
FLOWER MOUND, TX

Stop the racist gerrymandering of the voting districts in Texas! Stop pandering to Trump & do what is right for the voters of Texas!

Peter Irvin
Self construction analyst
Fort Worth, TX

I am opposed to the "proposed" redistricting plan. Vote mo on HB 4 bu Hunter. I speak with the perspective of a younger generation. Republicans have run Texas for as long as I can remember. Month after month, tragedy after tragedy befalls my fellow Texans. Whether by swift deaths caused by flooding in Kerr County, or slow deaths by liquefying under the roar of Bitcoin Mining in Granbury, Republican majorities cause avoidable chaos through intentional incompetence.

The nature of Republican rule, from my experience, is selfish action at the expense of us, the People. Passing this redistricting plan will be yet another in a long line of abuses from a gang of petty tyrants. I implore you Republican representatives, prove me wrong. Choose the path less taken by your colleagues, the one paved with compassion, justice, fairness. Show us all that Republicans stand for more than the naked, craven pursuit of ill-gotten power. Vote against the redistricting maps. Vote no on HB 4 by Hunter.

Rob Szucs self chemical plant technician
lake jackson, TX

The idea of having redistricting in 2025 and not following the traditional practice of having the maps altered after the census in 2030 show the bad faith of the republican party. The great people of Texas have the right to be represented by peers that will listen to the concerns they have this bill is ramming down the throats a authoritarian republican party that cares more about appeasing Washington billionaires than listening to the people. This special session's main purpose is to find solutions to the flooding after the terrible event that killed hundreds of people that should be the primary focus of this 30 day special session it is disgraceful that instead of focusing on way to prevent future high water/rising sea level events that we know will happen and that I and every home owner are paying for with a 10% increase in home flood insurance cost every year! Instead of discussing this we are talking about a issue that only benefits one party and disrespects those whose life was lost in the flood.

Mallory White
Self community member
Denison, TX

Please listen to the voters, we don't need more segregation via made up lines on a map. My neighbors, my community aren't some demographic to utilize for your benefit. We are real people with all different points of view and it's becoming obvious no one is listening. You can't change our reality by choosing where our votes count. We want to feel heard for who we are, not be drowned out by effort to make some voices louder than others. We are all the humans regardless of what political beliefs, why do our leaders increasingly take away our humanity by shrinking our size, silencing our voice, manipulating our trust, just to further their careers? Let us speak let us have a say. Stop this desperate attempt to make the world think this is the majority opinion when it isn't. Just listen to your voters.

Lana Dieterich
Self
Austin, TX

Please stop cheating, and try winning the vote legitimately.

Bettina Zvanut, Mrs.
Self, Genealogist/Historian
Commrece, TX

Dear Legislators,
The only reason to change district lines in the middle of the decade is because you are scared. Your President is really scared and wants to help his party because he knows how much we despise him and all of his lackeys. He knows he spent $45 million on a parade and cut milk to poor babies. He knows he cut health care to poor children. He knows he cut food stamps and Meals on Wheels to working families and seniors and the handicapped. He is a greedy, old man. You are his lackeys. This redistricting may help you, but does not change the fact that you are hated across Texas. Thank you for taking away our food inspectors and our weather personnel so that we die of e coli and floods.Thanks for trying to destroy our public schools. All of you Republicans are guilty.

Cindy Whitesides
self, homemaker
Austin, TX

I am opposed to this illegal mid-decade power grab to redistrict Texas. This effort would dilute minority and working-class votes in key Texas communities and reduce the number of competitive districts significantly.

Mindy Hirschi
Self Whitesboro, TX

I support

Benjamin Horsey
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting our state for the pure sake of maintaining or gaining a majority number of seats in Congress is nothing short of criminal. This is a blatant power grab by the GOP, and we are watching. Your kids are watching, grandkids are watching. You can do better than this, must do better than this.

Elizabeth Morgan
self, paralegal
Austin, TX

Hi, I oppose HB 4 on mid-decade Congressional Redistricting. Mid-decade redistricting is unusual. This bill is being introduced and pushed through in direct response to President Trump's call for Texas to redistrict in order to gain additional Republican members of Congress. This is a blatant attempt to gerrymander the congressional maps.

The map recently released by the House was drafted in secret, is obviously gerrymandered and discriminatory to communities of color.

Reject this map. Texans deserve a fair, transparent redistricting process that serves all communities, not just political insiders.

Thank you for your time.

Kind Regards,
Elizabeth Morgan

Jessica Torres
Self
Austin, TX

I am vehemently opposed to this redistricting bill. It is a concerted effort to dilute the true voice of Texans across the state and threatens the principles of fair representation and equal voting rights. These concepts have meaning and weight, even in these current state and federal administrations. Do not allow our great state to fall victim to this craven attempt to gerrymander dissent from the political stage. I urge you to reject HB 4 and commit to a redistricting process that is transparent, community-led, and compliant with the Voting Rights Act. Our democracy depends on maps that reflect the will of the people—not political gamesmanship.

Renee Myrick, Mrs
Self
Austin, TX

Let’s play fair and see how the chips fall where the lines already are.

Kathleen Young
Self
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose the redistricting plan. Members of Texas government are supposed to govern based on the best interest of its constituents. This is not in the best interest of the voters and is also illegal. Let the record show this constituent is against this proposal.

Christine Ropp
Self
Flower Mound, TX

Please start doing the job you were elected to do, representing the people of your districts and state. Listen to them. Do not go along with the redistricting plan. The people you represent do not want this. Listen to them.

Valerie Bauhofer
Self
Austin, TX

There is absolutely no need for redistricting in the midst of a census period and taxpayers' money should NOT be used to finance this project.
This is a blatantly political plot by the president to distort congressional representation in a state that already does not properly reflect its diverse population in Congress.
Thank you.

Andrea Cornelison
Self, Information Technology Manager
Dripping Springs, TX

The proposed redistricting maps are grossly unfair against black and latino populations and deeply undemocratic in attempting to sway districts to republican majorities. Congressional districts should be fairly and blindly distributed!

William McWhorter, Chairman, Republican Party of Gregg County
Self/Republican Party of Gregg County
Longview, TX

I strongly support HB 4. Over the last several years more people have voted Republican, it is only right to make sure they have the appropriate conservative representation. Not too mention the explosive growth our state has seen, it is timely and necessary to have redistricting to reflect the strong Republican results our elections have seen over the last several election cycles. There is a mandate, not only from Republican voters, but also having seen other states do this over the last few decades. Thank you for your work, and consideration to this critical subject. I strongly support HB 4.

brooks kasson, `
self
austin, TX

i heartily reject this mid-census redistricting effort.

Leslie Hall
Self
Austin, TX

The proposed maps for redistricting are ludicrous. They are clearly drawn for political reasons and not to represent Texans by region who have specific needs based on where they live. Please reconsider this bill and wait for the normal timing to look at redistricting, after the next census.

Erin Ball
Self, Freelance
San Angelo, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed restricting map. As a resident of current (and proposed) District 11, I find the geographical and economic differences between the Midland and San Angelo regions to be so different from the those in North Austin that a representative could not possible represent the interests of both areas fairly or equitably. If representatives can't win in a district that exists as is, then their policies should change, and not the map. Our system of government granted in the constitution is a democratic republic. The representatives are beholden to the voters, and this ploy to make voters beholden to politicians is extremely UnAmerican and against our founding ideals.

Nichole House, Mrs.
Self, Homemaker
Eustace, TX

I strongly oppose House Bill 4 as currently proposed. This bill represents a blatant attempt at partisan gerrymandering designed to manipulate the electoral process for political gain, not to ensure fair representation for the people of Texas.
Texas is one of the most diverse states in the country, with rapidly growing Black, Latino, and Asian populations. However, HB 4 fails to reflect this demographic reality. Instead, it redraws congressional maps in a way that weakens the voting power of communities of color, particularly in South Texas, Austin, Houston, and the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. By targeting minority-heavy districts currently held by Democrats, the bill dilutes the influence of voters who deserve full and fair representation in Congress.
Moreover, the process behind HB 4 has lacked transparency and accountability. The maps were released suddenly, with minimal public notice and no opportunity for robust community input or meaningful debate. This approach undermines trust in our democratic institutions and disrespects the right of Texans to participate in decisions that directly impact their representation.
HB 4 also runs afoul of the principles set forth in the Voting Rights Act, which prohibits redistricting efforts that result in the disenfranchisement of minority voters. The proposed maps appear to prioritize partisan outcomes over compliance with federal law, and they invite costly legal challenges that Texas taxpayers should not have to fund.
Redistricting should be about fair representation not partisan advantage. Lawmakers should be drawing maps that reflect the actual population and its interests, not using the redistricting process as a political weapon. I urge members of the House Select Committee to reject HB 4 in its current form and instead develop a map that respects the will of the people, protects communities of interest, and upholds the integrity of our elections.
Texans deserve a democracy that works for everyone not just for those in power.

Anne Brown, Ms.
Self, Educator
Houston, TX

I oppose congressional redistricting in 2025.

Javone Lee
self
Fort Worth, TX

I strongly oppose House Bill 4 as currently proposed. This bill represents a blatant attempt at partisan gerrymandering designed to manipulate the electoral process for political gain, not to ensure fair representation for the people of Texas.
Texas is one of the most diverse states in the country, with rapidly growing Black, Latino, and Asian populations. However, HB 4 fails to reflect this demographic reality. Instead, it redraws congressional maps in a way that weakens the voting power of communities of color, particularly in South Texas, Austin, Houston, and the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. By targeting minority-heavy districts currently held by Democrats, the bill dilutes the influence of voters who deserve full and fair representation in Congress.
Moreover, the process behind HB 4 has lacked transparency and accountability. The maps were released suddenly, with minimal public notice and no opportunity for robust community input or meaningful debate. This approach undermines trust in our democratic institutions and disrespects the right of Texans to participate in decisions that directly impact their representation.
HB 4 also runs afoul of the principles set forth in the Voting Rights Act, which prohibits redistricting efforts that result in the disenfranchisement of minority voters. The proposed maps appear to prioritize partisan outcomes over compliance with federal law, and they invite costly legal challenges that Texas taxpayers should not have to fund.
Redistricting should be about fair representation not partisan advantage. Lawmakers should be drawing maps that reflect the actual population and its interests, not using the redistricting process as a political weapon. I urge members of the House Select Committee to reject HB 4 in its current form and instead develop a map that respects the will of the people, protects communities of interest, and upholds the integrity of our elections.
Texans deserve a democracy that works for everyone not just for those in power.

Zenobia C. Joseph, Educational Consultant/Policy Analyst
Self/A+ WRITERS Consulting (Educational Consultant/Policy Analyst)
Austin, TX

1. Disenfranchisement: Chair Cody Vasut's HB 4 Congressional Redistricting Notice failed to include portal closure an hour after hearing convened. In bold font, "ten hours" appeared twice—unlike three 5-hour field hearings—which, logically, suggested extended registration. Though denied, I thank Rep. Scott Turner for requesting an extra hour. Northeast Austin buses run 60-minute headway—forcing Blacks to wait 10 times longer than South/West/Central whites. It takes about two hours to get Downtown with 30-minute transfers—longer than driving to San Antonio. I arrived too late to register against HB 4. Registration trickery prevailed during 89th Legislature Education Hearings, too. Be transparent: Post cutoff time on all Notices.

2. Statutory Authority: Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 "is a Federal statute and provides that no person shall, on the grounds of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance" (FTA C 4702.1B, 2012). Thus, Texas must comply. "Recipients are responsible for ensuring that all of their activities are in compliance with Title VI" (Ch. II-1). April 5, 2023 U.S. Department of Justice noted, "Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 prohibits voting practices or procedures that discriminate on the basis of race, color, or membership in one of the language minority groups identified in Section 4 (f)(2)."

3. Trump's Redistricting Dictate: USDOJ's July 7, 2025 letter to Gov. Greg Abbott and Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton specified, "Re: Unconstitutional Race-Based Districts TX-09, TX-18, TX-29 and TX-33," impacting us all. July 9, 2025 Abbott's "proclamation calling an extraordinary session of the 89th Legislature" included, in part, "a revised congressional redistricting plan in light of constitutional concerns raised by the U.S. Department of Justice." The alleged "Race-Based" subject line directly contravened Title VI, VRA Sec. 2, and Sen. Joan Huffman's SB 6 testimony on congressional redistricting maps that used 2020 census data. September 30, 2021 Huffman replied to Sen. John Whitmire and Sen. "Chuy" Hinojosa repeating, maps were "drawn blind to race." She stated "race-neutral ... compliant with the Voting Rights Act" adding, "We drew them race-blind. ... My map was drawn blind to race."

4. Opposition: April 17, 2025 Austin Chronicle noted, "According to the Quorum Report, the [school choice] plan had the support of all 62 Democrats and as many as 23 Republicans, enough for it to easily pass," but Trump called on speaker phone. Now, Huffman's race-blind statements under oath justify current maps rather than mid-decade redistricting to craft five GOP seats. I encourage Democrats to break quorum to kill HB 4. The basis of Trump's 5-seat GOP redistricting request erodes LBJ and MLK's civil rights progress—diluting the Black vote. ~Focus on Kerrville instead. zcj

Amber Mills
MOVE Texas Civic Fund
Austin, TX

I’m a proud born-and-raised Texan who grew up in the piney woods of East Texas, went to college in DFW, and now live just minutes from the Capitol. So I know firsthand that each of these regions has distinct needs, cultures, and values, and believe that every corner of our state deserves leadership that reflects and represents them.
While we’re not surprised, we are deeply disappointed to see this proposed map continue the same old pattern: cracking apart the communities where young, Black, and brown Texans live, study, and work—and folding them into largely rural districts with little to nothing in common. Under this proposal, UT Arlington—one of the most diverse universities in the entire country, and one I’m proud to have graduated from—is being redrawn into a district with Irving, a community where over 70% of residents are people of color, many of whom are immigrants, students, or in the early stages of their careers. While combining these communities in many ways makes sense, the issue lies in the fact that they are being intentionally drawn into a district that stretches hours east into counties with vastly different demographics, priorities, and lived experiences.
The same pattern continues in Austin, where the new map packs the University of Texas and East Austin—both historically diverse and progressive—into a single district, while surgically removing downtown Austin, including the Capitol and the neighborhood I live in. That area is instead twisted into a district that stretches all the way up North and across to Houston County, ironically neighboring my hometown. There are not community of interest here, just a deliberate effort to weaken the power of young, engaged voters.
Texas is as big as it is diverse, but our representation doesn’t reflect that. These maps don’t serve us. They serve politicians desperately clinging to power.
Just because the law or the legislative process can be bent to allow this redraw our map, just because the President called for it, or because Governor Abbott supports this, doesn’t make it right or moral. The fact of the matter is that extremist policies are not popular policies. And Texans—across regions, races, and religions—deserve fair maps, not partisan manipulation.
On behalf of young people across our state, we urge you to reject this proposal, to put an end to gerrymandering, and to do what’s right for the people of Texas

Kendra Kinsey
Self
Liberty Hill, TX

I absolutely oppose this bill. There is no reason to even look at a map drawn by the president to skew our representation in Texas. People who live in these high pop areas know that they skew blue as most cities do. It’s crazy to erase our ability to vote. The house is supposed to work as a representation of smaller communities and interests - not carbon copy diluted average puppets of the president. Don’t cheat this next election. Let the government have the checks and balances they were meant to have. Wait until 2031 to look at these maps again, and ensure that communities have proper representation. The president should have zero say in this process.

Heather Sowder
Self, stay at home mom
Killeen, TX

Don't gerrymander the map and steal seats. We all deserve a voice in OUR government.

Malissa “Mal” Torres, Live Oak Democratic Chairwoman
Common Defense member
Three Rivers, TX

This Map Is a Threat to Veterans and Our Communities”

Subject: I Fought for Democracy — This Map Undermines It

My name is Mal Torres, and I am a proud retired U.S. Air Force veteran, a resident of Three Rivers, Live Oak countyTexas, and a member of Common Defense, the nation’s largest grassroots organization of progressive veterans.
I’m submitting this testimony to strongly oppose the proposed redistricting map. The way this map is drawn is not just a political tactic — it’s a direct assault on democracy, on communities of color, and on the veterans who return home to live in them.
This map targets Black and Brown neighborhoods, strips representation from active, community-rooted congressional leaders, and slices up communities where veterans rely on accessible services and trusted representation.
As a veteran, I am deeply concerned that this map makes it harder for us to defend and expand services through the VA. It’s no coincidence that these lines gut areas where our VA Not for Sale campaign has traction — because silencing our voices silences our fight to protect the benefits we earned.
This redistricting proposal is not neutral. It is strategic, harmful, and unjust. I urge the committee to reject this map, hold public hearings in the affected communities, and draw lines that respect real people — not partisan power.

Signed,

Malissa G Torres
Live Oak Democratic Chair
USAF Veteran
Member, Common Defense
Three Rivers, Live Oak saenznzephyr@yahoo.com
210-902-9846

Joseph Gruberman
self/retired director of IT
Austin, TX

I stand against the proposed redistricting plan for the following reason. It will result in a reduction of the total count of represented Travis County districts through consolidation. Consolidating representation within the House reduces diversity of opinion within the affected populations. In the same vein, political leanings are likely to be shifted toward the opposing party. I understand that both major parties jerrymander districts, but my specific concern is that a diversity of party/political representation will encourage people of all political persuasions to move here. This is particularly important to attract those developing improvements in science, technology, and education. I moved to Austin from rural Arizona for this very reason. Thank you for considering my comments.

Judy Malandruccolo
Self
Plano, TX

The current map presented is a classic case of racial gerrymandering. Looking at my own area in Plano, Texas, instead of my current district CD 03, I would be moved to CD 04. CD 04 has a large arm reaching down to pull my area - an area with many Asians and Democrats - into a large swath of area along the Oklahoma border, nearly reaching to Texarkana! The folks along the Oklahoma border have NOTHING in common with our needs in Plano, Texas, a busy suburban community. Looking at CD 03 covers area of Collin County and 6 more counties going Eastward, only one county away from the Texas state border. How is a representative supposed to properly represent all the needs of his/her constituents? How far will I have to drive for a town hall meeting?
And this is only MY area. I have seen the purposeful gerrymandering to reduce African American and Latino communities, not only in the Dallas area, but also in Houston and in Austin - again, with small swaths of communities of color being stretches out into rural areas that we know will inevitably vote for Republicans.
This move is obvious. It is race-based. We already told you in the three public hearings NOT to do this - 99% said we did not want Redistricting mid-decade. Be forewarned. The state will be sued. Personally, I am considering a suit against the Republican party for your continued attempts to disenfranchise Texas voters. We elect you, you don't get to choose your voters. And anyone who is encouraging you to do this, are WRONG! And if you do their bidding, you too will be WRONG!
Judy Malandruccolo

Daniel Harris
Self
Houston, TX

This is wrong and I refuse to vote for any member of Congress that approves this bill. Gerrymandering should not be legal and we need an external group to handle it, not biased lawmakers listening to national party interests.

Timothy Rubel, Prof
Self/professor and choreographer
Laredo, TX

I am writing to express my firm opposition to this bill. Texas already carries a GOP majority in both Congress and the state legislature. Therefore, Democratic voters and the lawmakers we elect have to work harder to make sure we are adequately represented at the decision making table. This redistricting plan will give even more political power to the GOP, thereby making the power structure in Texas even more imbalanced. Furthermore, this bill is (most likely) nakedly unconstitutional. It would create two majority black districts, one of which would be almost entirely black, which would effectively disenfranchise black voters, given that they make up only 12% of voters. This kind of gerrymandering is not only systemically racist, but it has also been deemed unconstitutional in court case after court case. If any redistricting should occur, it should be done so to even the playing field from where it is currently, so that Democratic districts have the same chance at winning congressional seats as Republicans do. I urge you to abandon HB 4. Thank you.

Martha Barker
Self Social Worker
Kyle, TX

This is a cowardly move by the Texas Republican Party. You are not thinking about what is best for Texas--you are acting out of fear of Donald Trump. You are afraid of a fair fight in the next elections. The Republicans will continue to be the majority in Texas, but increasingly Texas is being manipulated into this anti-democratic gerrymandering The redistricting is designed to dilute the votes of people of color and the residents of the largest cities in Texas. Where is your respect for the opinions and values of those who have other ideas? Democracy is strongest when we respect the whole electorate--not just those who agree with us. I ask you to move to a non-partisan method for redistricting that will allow all voices to be heard.

Vicki Byrd
Self - Retired
Houston, TX

This Bill is a desperate attempt for one Political Party to take away the Rights of the American People. One attempt to silence even one American Citizen with the Rights to Choose, is an attempt to silence all Americans. Redistricting to gain Party Advantage is manipulative, unprofessional, sneaky and disgraceful. Where is the integrity?

Wendy Bell
Self
Denton, TX

I'm for this bill! Undo the previous gerrymandering.

Brad Nelson
Self
Bastrop, TX

I get that y'all are trying to keep control of Texas as Republicans and that Trump has asked if not begged you to take more seats. But I implore you to be decent human beings that respect the Constitution and how it was intended to be. Gerrymandering is an evil thing that has plagued our country on both sides. It strips away the rights of the voters to truly choose their representatives and it is abhorrent. If you have any decency in you at all, please don't gerrymander this state anymore. Do your job and trust the voters to make the right choice. By choosing for us you are destroying what makes this a democracy.

Ann Coplen-Harold
Self
Austin, TX

Gerrymandering in Texas undermines democracy and fair representation, creating significant harm for both voters and the political system. First and foremost, it allows politicians to choose their voters, rather than letting voters choose their representatives. This manipulation of district lines distorts the electoral process, creating "safe" districts that limit political competition and reduce voter influence. By favoring one party over another, gerrymandering prevents genuine democratic outcomes and makes elections less reflective of the true will of the people.

Additionally, gerrymandering disproportionately harms minority communities, particularly Texas' large Latino and Black populations. Manipulating district lines often dilutes their voting power by "packing" or "cracking" districts, making it harder for these communities to elect candidates who represent their interests. This violates the Voting Rights Act and exacerbates racial inequality in the political process.

Moreover, gerrymandering increases political polarization by ensuring that elections are often decided in the party primaries, where candidates cater to extreme positions to appeal to their base. This leaves voters with fewer moderate options and exacerbates gridlock and division in government.

Lastly, gerrymandering erodes public trust in democracy. When voters feel that their voices are being ignored or manipulated, they become disillusioned with the system, leading to lower voter turnout and engagement. Instead of fair elections, gerrymandering creates a political environment that benefits incumbents at the expense of the people.

To counter these issues, Texas could adopt an independent redistricting commission, which would ensure a more transparent, impartial process that fairly represents the diverse population of the state, restoring trust in the democratic system.

Stacy Smith
Self
La Marque, TX

I don't support this redistricting because it weakens the political voice of the Black community. Fair representation matters, and when lines are drawn to dilute our voting power, it's not just unfair — it's undemocratic.

Justin Swink
Self
Watauga, TX

I am writing to urge you to vote NO on HB 4, which calls for unnecessary redistricting. I am ashamed that as a proudly independent state with strongly independent people, the Texas Congress has decided to cower to the president and do his bidding. This is a cowardly power grab and will severely limit the voices of people who are already disenfranchised and a minority in Texas. As representatives, you are charged with representing the people, not the interests of the president or your party. You have a duty to represent the People, and a vote in favor of this bill is a vote that does nothing but benefit you and your party, not the People. I urge you to stand strong, independent, and as Texans and do the right thing. Take care of the issues that matter to people and to keep us safe: gun control, natural disaster prevention , school safety. These are things I worry about. These are things you could do something about . But instead you are choosing to debate a measure that proves how tenuous the Republican grasp on power truly is. This bill is a cowardly bill. Put it to bed, vote no and get on with helping your fellow citizens, not disenfranchising them. Vote no.

Delcia López
N/A
EDINBURG, TX

Republicans already hold 25 of Texas's 38 congressional seats, but under the new redistricting law, that number would rise to 30. Instead of making their own districts more competitive, they're redrawing the boundaries to weaken Democratic districts—especially in South Texas, where Latino voters are being targeted to make seats more favorable to Trump. This is how they rig the map without winning more votes. I'm strongly against this, and I want my voice to be heard by my state representative.

Helena Taylor, Dr
Self
Tomball, TX

No redistricting

David Gorham
Self
Arlington, TX

Don't do it. It is illegal and will be overturned when you lose the majority.

Louise Smith
self / Retired
Georgetown, TX

This is REALLY not the right time for redistricting. The PEOPLE of Texas have the right to vote for the people they want to represent them, NOT the people the party in power has chosen!!!!!!!!!!

Melanie Wells, Dr.
Self and other Texans
Dallas, TX

How insulting that MY state is being ruled by Washington. My people have been in Texas for generations and have always stood for the right and responsibility of the state to take care of its own, not be led by the nose by Washington .

Grace Bradshaw, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to redistricting and this time. When you deprive minorities oof fair representation, you leave them without a voice. You ruin your chance to win people over fair and square. Your policies have already alienated people who believe in fairness and justice. If you continue to kowtow to a President who believed in bullying and denigrating people, who disdains due process, who only wants to enrich himself, it will become clear that you do not care about your constituents. You do not care about honor, respect and decency. You want to rig the system in favor of the rich.

Amelia Belizaire
Self
Houston, TX

This is an attempt to suppress the will of the people. This insane plot to increase Republicans representation is an attempt to hijack the will of the people and eliminate true district representation. Please summon up your courage and vote this bill down. You are not fooling anyone with this attempt to diminish the power of the people.

Tiffany Forristal
self/designer
Houston, TX

Redistricting at this juncture is not an appropriate use of government time, effort, and funds. The citizens do not want this. The next census will be an appropriate point to consider adjusting the district maps, not before. Certainly not for the benefit of any political party, most especially if it will silence the voices of the people.

Lisa Ybarra
Self / Project Manager
Austin, TX

I am writing to express concerns over HB4 and the redrawing of electoral maps. Fair, accurate representation is the foundation of democracy and benefits for ALL Texans, regardless of their party affiliation. Redistricting should reflect our diverse communities and ensure that all voices have equitable influence in government.

When you redesign maps to that clearly favor a specific political party, it undermines public confidence in our electoral system and weakens democratic institutions. This creates districts that do not accurately represent community interests or concerns. This leads to an even further disconnect between elected officials and the constituents they are supposed to serve.

I urge you to look at this from a different perspective. If the Democratic party did this, you would be equally upset and shouting that it's unfair and unjust. Why does it make it ok for the Republican party to do it? This continued need to appease the current administration is exhausting for us Texans.

I urge a reconsideration of HB4 to reflect bipartisan fairness, transparency, and equal representation for all Texans. Just vote no. Thank you

Marisol Trevino SELF - TECH INDUSTRY
Austin, TX

Texas Republicans' attempts to pay fealty to Trump, a Yankee from NYC, is hilarious, shameful and downright disingenous. Do you have so little confidence in garnering Texas votes legitimately and actually representing the people of Texas that you have to resort to this type of swindling of the populace of Texas to cheat your way to getting what you want Where are your ethics? You talk about putting the Ten Commandments in public schools and then cheat your fellow Texans out of their lunch money by dismissing democracy and the rules of engagement when it comes to voting.

I used to be proud of being a Texan back when races could go either way. Sometimes Mark White and Ann Richards would win, sometimes Bill Clements and Rick Perry would win. People went out and voted, canvassed and sought legitimate votes, not this namby-pamby redistricting to break up the larger cities in Texas that vote blue.

There is always a reckoning for thieves. I hope Democratic congressmen flee the state to prevent this if you don't come to your senses.

Michael Vargha
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Katharine Cartwright
self
San Antonio, TX

We want you to prioritize issues of concern to regular Texans over political power plays. We want flood relief, not corrupt new maps..

Forreste Markowitz
Self/Office Admin
League City, TX

I strongly oppose the current redistricting maps. They are clearly drawn to protect incumbents and silence communities of color, especially Black and Latino voters. Fair maps should reflect the people of Texas—not manipulate boundaries for political gain. I urge lawmakers to ensure transparency, protect voting rights, and draw maps that truly represent our diverse population.

Lisa Kurtz, Mrs
Self
Houston, TX

I wholeheartedly support HB4 and the re-districting plan.

Marissa Devery Garza
Self
Katy, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Adrian Maisonet
self
El Paso, TX

Good evening, ladies and Gentlemen of the texas congressional house and senate; My name is Adrian Luis Maisonet, a lifelong resdient of the state of texas by way of el paso, and I am writing this to display my overall disgust and opposition to the congressional redistricting of the lone star state, soley for the interest of the republican party under both govenor greg abbot and president donald trump who we all agree has betrayed the united states of america and the state of Texas.

As many are aware, the president as well as the texas govenor are commmencing this redistricitng plan that was usually supposed to take place once every ten years since both know full well that republican party members do not at all play fairly political wise, intentionally wanting nothing more than to conslidate more and more power for themselves to the point that they would be dictatorous at the expense of the american people who not a single one actually cares about. Even as this is typed, many member for the republican party also mock the citizens who have voted them into office mostly by the backing of MANY billionaire groups as well as families of billionaires who are with the hertiage foundation(the same one that have chosen to fund the election of said president) which is inded disgusting and putrid. On top of this, the redistricting in an of itself has by far the most racist of undertones, noting in part to what trump said about attorney general steven miller's sadistic desire for a homogenous nation and I quote "if it were up to miller, the us population would be reduced to 100 million people, and they would all look like him". Especially since both of them and pete hegseth know yet ignore the fact that this nation as well as this state was in fact once founded by migrants(for those republican represenatives who are on their phones and tablets watching porn and whatnot while ignoring the people who they swore to serve under both the texan and U.S. constiutions collectively which i think shows that the entirety of the republican party has collectively sold all of their souls as well as ours to the devil for them to even do this.

simply put, I stand with all of the texans who oppose the redistricting of the state of texas and I hereby oppose all of the republican party altogether now as we choose to vote blue and become full democratic. That is all. Thank you all and have a good day.

Daisy Marquez
Proud El Pasoan, Born and Raised
El Paso, TX

The current proposed map removes significant portions of El Paso County, including all of Fort Bliss, El Paso International Airport, and the new Veterans Affairs Health Care Center, for which Representative Veronica Escobar secured $700 million in funding. This change would leave these areas without local representation, silencing their voices and making it easier to ignore their concerns. Instead, these important locations would be placed in a district that stretches from San Antonio to the El Paso Borderland, which includes two other military installations. This situation forces Fort Bliss, our small airport, and the Veterans Affairs Center to compete for limited and diminishing resources, conflicting with the interests of 27 other counties across Texas. How is this sustainable? How can this be the right move for representing the people of Texas? Do we truly mean so little to you?

I am here to express my concerns about a government that seems intent on suppressing our voices and freedoms rather than genuinely serving the community and doing good for the majority. This bill does not benefit my community. How many families have recently been affected by the extreme rainfall resulting from the actions of greedy climate destroyers like drilling and oil companies? How many have died? How many will be affected by the severe dust storms we’ve been experiencing? Hospitalizations increase by 400% after a dust storm. I have raised several issues that COULD be our main focus, rather than this redistricting. Which feels inherently racist!!!

How does limiting our access to our constitutional right to vote on local issues help us? This congressional redistricting is a direct attack on a community that has worked tirelessly to thrive and create something beautiful. Shame on any government official who votes for this bill, as it goes directly against your commitment to the people you serve. Shame!

Dave Kozusko, MR
self
Dallas, TX

Redistricting is a blatant racist power grab it undermines fair representation and rigs the rules to erase the voices of black and brown communities in order to keep politicians who support white Christian nationalism in power. Stop this rhetoric power grab mid-decade redistricting and focus on TX children that are hungry right now because the only meal they get is when they are in school.Be the Christian that you say you are and stop being hypocrite cowards, as you are an embarrassment to TX. And stop diverting attention by talking about Trans, they are not the problem, you all are making them the problem. Stop it. Just stop talking about them. Focus on making Texas better. Focus on redistricting in 2030 after the census is completed. Put your energy right now to make Kerr County flood victims better. Focus on our Texas roads and infrastructure. Focus on getting the Epstein files released. Focus or get ADHD medication for yourselves and learn to represent your constituents better because you are not doing your job. Your job review is that you did not perform your job responsibilities and you are fired.

Rosy Villalobos
Self
El Paso, TX

Please stop this bill, it will not benefit our community, representation for our community is going to be lost. We cannot allow this scam to take place, it's really sad to see how ambition of power leads this unfair initiative, it does not consider the community needs at all. Challenging times, and unfortunately Texas is lead by ambition of power, completely disconnected form "We the People".

Allan Scardina, Mr.
self
Houston, TX

This is a blatant political move to under-represent Democrats, minorities and anyone who expects to have a voice in government that disagrees with the existing regime. Stop this nonsense NOW.

Lynda Harryman, Ms.
Self
Centerville, TX

I support HB4, and the redistricting plan.

Mehgan Kidd
Self/ physician
Austin, TX

I am against this bill. It makes no sense for people in Austin to be represented by a rural district. I am against this.

David Hallam
Myself
Amarillo, TX

Stop trying to gerrymander. You voted to align with donald, deal with the consequences.

Andy Andrade Jr
self-bookkeeper
El Paso, TX

How in the world can we be represented by someone who doesn't know much about El Paso and much less about our citizens. I hope this does not happen.
This guy Gonzalez is a brown-noser catering to Trump. Shameful.

Terry Lynch
Self
Parker, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Gary Simons, Me.
Self, Truck Driver
Dallas, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the current redistricting proposals under consideration. As a concerned Texas resident and voter, I believe that the proposed maps do not reflect fair representation and instead appear to prioritize political gain over the rights and voices of everyday Texans.

Redistricting should be a transparent, inclusive process that ensures every community has equitable representation. Unfortunately, the current maps dilute the voting power of communities of color, divide cohesive neighborhoods, and undermine public trust in our democratic system. These outcomes are unacceptable and contrary to the principles of fair representation guaranteed under the Voting Rights Act.

Texas is a diverse and rapidly growing state, and our electoral maps must reflect that reality—not manipulate it for partisan advantage. I urge the committee to reject any plan that perpetuates gerrymandering.

LARRY COOK
Self
Dodd City, TX

I am in favor of this bill as it stands.

Diane Kester
Self - Retired
Austin, TX

Please do not be puppets of this authoritarian dictatorship. Do not obey Trump's order to hand him more undeserved power. Represent your constituents as you've sworn to do, and draw districts fairly.

Dwala Kuhn
Self
Richardson, TX

I support H4B and the redistricting map.

Leeann Flora
Self
Keller, TX

Good afternoon,
My name is Leeann Flora. I live in Keller in Tarrant County in the 24th congressional district. I am former Republican and a Caucasian. I submit this comment on behalf of myself.

I attended the hearings this week in Arlington. The opposition to this bill was overwhelming! Listen to your constituents! I ask that you stand as independent thinking Texans to say NO to Trump and Abbott's blatant attempt at racial gerrymandering. Say NO to redistricting before lawsuits have even been settled from the last redistricting that occurred in 2021. This is racial gerrymandering because the voices of brown and black people are being targeted, attempting to silence their right to be represented by a legislator they want and voted for. Additionally, this rushed process lacks transparency, lacks time for public review, testimony, and comments. We want to see the maps and an analysis of how the maps were drawn and how they impact people of color. We want public input to be taken seriously and to be reflected in the maps! All comments and testimony from the entire state should be available for public review to ensure they are not destroyed and that anyone can see the true sentiments of the people of this state. While this off cycle redistricting attempt may be legal, that does not make it right or moral. Stand up, be independent, be a Christian who loves their neighbor as Christians are commanded to do in the biblical text.

Thank you for your time.

Donna Galati
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my belief that the gerrymandering you are wanting to pass is a disgrace to Texas and Texans. I believe you all have a duty to rise above this embarrassing abuse of power requested of your role.

Sharon Calvert
True Texas Project
Burnet, TX

No revision

Bruce Munro
self / retired
Flower Mound, TX

This congressional redistricting action is politics at its worst. It is contradictory to our most fundamental principles of a representative government. Districts should be drawn to represent the people and not to rig the game. Gerrymandering should be outlawed. The president continues to disrespect these principles and our governor has become his hypocritical willing accomplice. We must return to faith in our democracy and its institutions if we want to restore hope to our citizens that their government serves them and that they are not just pawns in the political games of the rich and powerful.

Jesse Butler, Ed.D.
self/retired
West Lake Hills, TX

With all respect, I am writing to request both Republican and Democratic representatives to oppose redrawing congressional maps with no new Census and no public demand. These proposed maps silence many voters. Please follow the process currently in place and not make changes in the middle of the established schedule.
It is completely wrong to change congressional maps in the middle of the current schedule.
We do not have a current census and input from both parties is essential to our democratic system of government.
Please vote NO to HB 4 to changing congressional districts. Thank you for your consideration.
Regards,
Jess Butler

Kay Kloecker
Self
Hempstead, TX

I strongly urge you to not pass HB 4. Gerrymandering is not what you were sent to Austin to accomplish. You do not have to bend a knee to Governor Abbott or the orange faced pedophile, convicted criminal, rapist, wannabe king Trump. Stand up and have a spine.

Mika Ryan
Self
Southlake, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map!

John Porter
Texan
San Antonio, TX

This will be defeated in the courts and waste more taxpayer money. Instead of gaming the system - work on legislation that actually helps Texans?

Kenneth Shaw
self - Business Owner
Lantana, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Bonnie Downing
Self, social worker
Dallas, TX

I'm writing to vehemently oppose the redistricting efforts being discussed today. This maneuver is patently corrupt, and as a seventh-generation Texan it appalls and disappoints me to know that my fellow Texans would behave in a way that so callously removes the voice and autonomy of more of your fellow statesmen than have already been suppressed. If your policies and stances are good, people will vote for them. Only those who know they're on the wrong side of history need to manipulate votes at this level to grasp at power.

MARCUS Johnson
Sigma Gamma Lambda of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity
Katy, TX

I am writing to express my concern regarding any proposals to redraw Texas congressional district lines before the 2026 midterm elections. While I recognize the authority of the legislature to oversee redistricting, I believe that undertaking such a significant change outside the traditional post-census cycle risks undermining public trust in the electoral process.

Frequent or mid-cycle redistricting—especially without clear justification tied to updated population data—can give the appearance of partisan manipulation and reduce voter confidence in our democratic institutions. To protect the integrity of our elections and uphold the principle of fair representation, I respectfully urge you and your colleagues to consider the following:

Maintain the standard redistricting schedule aligned with the decennial U.S. Census.

Ensure any redistricting process is conducted with full transparency, including public hearings, timely publication of proposed maps, and ample opportunity for public input.

Prioritize community representation by respecting natural geographic boundaries and existing municipal or regional affiliations.

Avoid any changes that would create disproportionately uncompetitive or imbalanced districts that weaken accountability to voters.

Should any redistricting efforts move forward before the 2026 elections, I strongly encourage the implementation of a non-partisan, independent commission to guide the process. This would help ensure that all Texans—regardless of political affiliation—can have confidence in the fairness and objectivity of our electoral maps. Thank you for your attention to this important issue. I trust that you will consider the long-term health of our democracy and the expectations of your constituents as you weigh any redistricting decisions.

Michelle Spalding
Self
Houston, TX

I oppose this bill, as a blatant power grab. Trump asked and Texas is trying to answer! Stop!

Merolyn Sanders
Self
Corsicana, TX

Copy and paste this
"I oppose the proposed redistricting maps. They do not represent the diversity or needs of my community. Stop the gerrymandering!"

Copy and paste this
"I oppose the proposed redistricting maps. They do not represent the diversity or needs of my community. Stop the gerrymandering!"

libby morris
self
san antonio, TX

Opposed

James Lee
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

I am firmly against any redistricting in the state of Texas. I believe in a strong state government that represents the state of Texas. I argue that redistricting is selling the voice of Texans off to a national political organization, robbing the power of the state. By "finding 5 seats" for Trump, the state government is essentially forfeiting one of the greatest powers the state has in choosing its own representatives. In a republic, the people choose their elected officials. If the Republican Party wants 5 seats, they should do it through their platform and campaigning, not cutting the corners of our democracy.

Jennifer Ayers
Self, business owner
Austin, TX

Stop gerrymandering our voting districts, that do nothing but disenfranchise voters. I'm so fucking tired of Republicans stacking the decks in their favor, and scrambling to appease a child diddling felon and rapist at our expense. If you force our reps Cruz, and Cornryn, who have done nothing but ignore their constituents, to have a town hall, and actually face the people they claim to represent, they would know beyond the shadow of a doubt that the voters do NOT want this. They keep forgetting they serve at our mercy, and despite all the cheating, and sleight of hand bullshit, they will have their come to jesus moment one way or another.

Andy Escobar
Self - Campaigns Manager
Houston, TX

I am writing in opposition to the redistricting. There is no need to upend our already gerrymandered maps into more chaos. Let us retain the little representation we currently hold. It is imperative that districts reflect communities and not identities.

Robin Arnold
self/educator
Austin, TX

There is NO NEED FOR REDISTRICTING AND REPUBLICANS KNOW IT! It's just another attempt at gerrymandering Texans out of their democracy. This sham is all because Trump wants it to further Republican control--not what's actually good for Texans. And it's despicable that the GOP is beholden to Trump instead of Texans. Shame. Shame. I can only imagine the upheaval if Democrats attempted this cowardly move.
The needs of the people in my district do not share the same needs as those in Corpus Christi or Victoria.

Forgo the redistricting sham and concentrate on what's really important. Like implementing an early warning system in flood prone areas so we don't have a repeat of the July 4th flood tragedy.
Texans deserve better!

Marc Arguijo
Self
Houston, TX

HB4 Is a Betrayal That Must Not Stand

Texas House Bill 4 is not just a redistricting bill. It is an act of electoral sabotage, a betrayal of representative government, and a brazen attempt to turn a diverse, growing, and vibrant state into a partisan stronghold through cheating. Its passage would mark not only a legal travesty but a moral failure—a state choosing oligarchy over democracy.

We must reject it with every ounce of political, legal, and civic power we possess. Because if HB4 stands, the principle that every Texan deserves a voice in their government will fall.

This is not a partisan issue. This is not left vs. right. This is right vs. wrong. And history will remember which side you stood on.

Guillerma Contreras, Ms.
Self
San Antonio, TX

Please do not gerrymander our district and water down my vote. Texans deserve better and transparency in our government.

Dubravka Romano, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

I am vehemently opposed to this bill. I vote in every Republican primary and will vote against any R who supports this naked power grab and effort to dilute the voices of people in our community. Please vote no! .

Linda Barnes
Self
Crowley, TX

I am FOR the redistricting of the US House of Representatives of Texas. And I would like for my state reps vote in favor of this bill.

Kate Damme, Dr
Self
Rowlett, TX

This redistributing is an insult to all Texans, it makes us look weak on a national stage. It’s undemocratic. It’s disgusting and pathetic. I’m ashamed and you should be too! I and other Texans will remember and vote out representatives who support this.

Shelia MAYBERRY
Congressman Crockett
Killeen, TX

This bill is a disservice to those people in the area and to the congressman tjat you are avidly trying to remove. A voice needs to be heard for those people who are unable to speak for themselves. Redistricting is wrong especially to the people of color and the less fortunate just to appease ONE per who does not care about this country!!!!!

Greg Field
self - Data Engineer
Georgetown, TX

There are issues with the current Texas Congressional map. We need to change it, and I am supportive of the new proposed maps. Please make sure the new map does not change existing election precinct boundaries. Changing election precinct boundaries will cause a lot of work for County Commissioners and County Election Departments which must be done before the March Primary.

Elizabeth Carlson
Self; retired.
Irving, TX

I agree with Sen. Miles when he called out the Redistricting Committee Chair for his opening remarks, noting that the witnesses who have testified have every right to be upset and call the process racist because four majority minority districts were targeted to be redistricted. Their communities are being divided and taken away. If you do racist things, people will call you racist. Majority minority communities are being targeted and that's a racist act. Point blank period.

The proposed redistricting is offensive and unfair and Texas should be better than this.

James Downing
self
AUSTIN, TX

Hello: I'm Jim Downing, 50 year resident of Shady Hollow south of Austin. l'm writing because I want my great grandkids to enjoy the freedoms that enabled me to grow up on a small cotton farm outside Lyford in the RGV to enjoy the best our country has to offer.
I have been a Republican from the day I went with my dad to vote for Ike. I have served as a Republican precinct chairman. I'm the founder of Zycor, an O&G technology company whose technology has been written into almost every major field unitization agreement. The technology are now part of Halliburton's E&P package. I've held a special Top Secret clearance and more recently was an expert witness in a major oil field dispute between Shell, Exxon and other smaller operators.
Because of Trump's lack of class, his pathologic lying – by some count over 30,000 times since he was inaugurated, his lack of humility, and his expectations of hero worship by his acolytes I have changed my stripes – not that I wanted to but that I was driven away by this autocratic idiot who has degraded our society to the extent that the big lie is socially and politically acceptable. He has gaudied up the Oval Office with so much gold he looks like a fat potentate holding court. He has willingly degraded the unwritten regard Americans have for government and authorities. I assume that each of you are honorable, well educated people and as such I have one simple question for each of you – in the recesses of your heart and mind do you truly believe that enabling this simpleton is in the best interest of our state and precious country. Get some backbone and do what is fair and right, not expedient.

Yolanda Cruz
Education Union
Houston, TX

As a public school educator and union member, I urge you to consider fairness, equity, and representation. Reject the redistricting proposal.

Edlyn Kimak
Self
Harlingen, TX

This is preposterous! The Governor is trying to take away the voice of its constituents and we will not stand for this.

Anna Whitney
Self - technical writer
Austin, TX

Please do not do this. There are so many issues we need the legislature to deal with, and this is not one of them. There is too high a risk for gerrymandering with these maps. Please please focus on other issues instead.

Reynaldo Fernandez, Mr
Self, Retired
El Paso, TX

Why in the world would you want to redistribute conhressional districts in the middle of the 10 year cycle is beyond rational explanation. Moreover, to place part of the 16th congressional district to a seat almost 600 miles away makes no sense whatsoever. The 16th congressional district has been functioning perfectly fine with all the areas within the district represented by someone who lives within the district, knows the district and knows what the district needs and wants. Don't waste your time with this asinine plan. I will remember this in 2026.

Mimi Lawrence self, retired physicist
Austin, TX

As an Austin resident and Texas voter for the past 35 years I urge the committee to reject HR4, this uncalled-for mid-decade redistricting project. Under HB4, I will be represented by a Congressman based nearly 200 miles away in San Angelo! Others of my Austin neighbors will suddenly have representatives from Victoria or Waco. This is NOT representative democracy! We deserve fair maps, not political manipulation at Donald Trump's demand that the Texas legislature enhance his stranglehold on the U.S. House of Representatives. Please stand up for Texas democracy and reject this corrupt perversion of your responsibility as our elected representatives. Thank you.

Alison Rico
self, physician
El Paso, TX

I vehemently oppose the proposed Texas redistricting map that strips major parts of El Paso County, all of Fort Bliss, the El Paso International Airport, and the new Veterans Affairs Health Care Center from having local representation, moving them to a district that spans from San Antonio to the Borderland, includes two other military installations (forcing Fort Bliss, our airport, and the VA Center to compete for limited and shrinking resources). Please continue to give El Paso County its own representative!

Thomas Mason
Self -- retired river authority executive
Austin, TX

Please do not wast time on creating new, gerrymandered districts this legislative session. This has nothing to do with improving the health, welfare, or economy of Texas -- it is pure politics, and matters such as flood preventions and emergency preparedness are far more important topics for legislators' time and energy this summer.

Damon Bell
Self
San Angelo, TX

No gerrymandering!
Leave our districts alone! Don't you think Republicans already win enough in Texas?? Seriously, stop it.

Theresa Hall
Self
Austin, TX

Testimony to the Texas House of Representatives – Redistricting Proposal
Submitted by: Theresa Hall – Austin, Texas

July 30, 2025

Chairperson and members of the committee,

My name is Theresa Hall, representing myself, and I'm a proud resident of Austin, Texas. I spent decades working in healthcare, serving my community and advocating for the well-being of others. That work was deeply personal and meaningful to me — until life took an unexpected turn.
After contracting COVID-19, I developed Long COVID and Dysautonomia, chronic conditions that completely changed my daily reality. I went from being a full-time healthcare worker to navigating an exhausting maze of medical appointments, treatments, and limitations. My health challenges have reshaped my life, but they've also made me even more passionate about speaking up — especially when our democracy is under threat.
Today, I'm here because I am deeply concerned about the push for mid-decade redistricting in our state — a move that is clearly designed to serve a national political agenda, specifically that of Donald Trump, not the people of Texas.

Redistricting is supposed to happen once every ten years, after the census — that's the standard, and for good reason. It's a process rooted in fairness and population data, not political maneuvering. To redraw the lines mid-decade because the political winds have shifted is not only unethical — it's a direct attack on democratic representation.

As someone who has had to fight just to be seen and heard in the healthcare system, I know what it's like to be ignored by those in power. I also know how critical it is for all of us — especially people from marginalized communities — to have our voices count at the ballot box. Mid-decade redistricting threatens that. It silences Black and brown voters, working-class families, people with disabilities, and anyone who doesn't fit neatly into a partisan power map.
Texans deserve leaders who focus on what truly matters: public health, education, affordability, and equity — not backroom redistricting games to serve a political figure. We deserve transparency, consistency, and fairness — not moving the goalposts every time the scoreboard changes.

I urge you to reject this blatant power grab. Stand with the people, not party politics. Say no to mid-decade redistricting. Texas deserves better.

Thank you for your time.

Jazmine Salazar
Self
Houston, TX

America was built off of the PEOPLES voice. Abbot redrawing the district proves that he know what they are doing is NOT what the people want so he's redrawing everything to keep power and keep himself and his friends in power, regardless of what the PEOPLE want. Don't forget, at the end of the day we're Texans and Texans always fight for what's right. This isn't right. Just because one person believes in X, Y, Z doesn't mean that, that's how things should be. Let the people choose. Let the people be heard. Let us make up our own mind. We are not pawns in your chess games. We, just like you work hard every single day to make something out of this beautiful life we have. We don't need someone idiot in a wheelchair dictating our lives. Jeez, the man is in a wheelchair and he still holds this much power of you?!?? LET US CHOOSE LET OUR VOICES BE HEARD. Don't cheat us off of our proper representation.

Tristan Tipton
self
Houston, TX

I’m a resident of Congressional District 18. This legislature and governor have refused to provide me with a representative since the death of Sylvester, and now you intend on further diluting my vote by gerrymandering even further when I haven’t even received representation despite being taxed?! I have nothing in common with people in Tomball. I have driven to Tomball exactly once in my entire residency in Houston and even then I spent less than 3 hours there. The issues of people in Tomball, while I’m sure are important to them, DO NOT CONCERN ME IN THE LEAST. I am concerned about issues that affect Spring Branch and Memorial City; these are the stomping grounds that I directly tread day in and day out. Your desire to placate a federally convicted rapist who somehow made it to the presidency is so shameful and disgusting that I cannot stand to look any of you in the face save for the fact that I must because democracy demands it. Do your jobs and defeat this blatant attempt at gerrymandering.

Ashley Bennett
Self /Teacher
Santa Fe, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Galveston County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Stephone Coward, Mr
Self
Arlington, TX

Hello, my name is Stephone Coward II, and I am a constituent living in Arlington.
I’m writing to urge Representative Veasey to strongly oppose Governor Abbott’s plan to redraw Texas’ congressional districts mid-decade to create five new Republican districts.
This redistricting proposal is unnecessary, unfair, and clearly targeted. It silences the voices of Black, Latino, and other diverse communities by manipulating district lines that were already approved following the last census. Redrawing districts like TX-09, TX-18, TX-29, and TX-33 mid-cycle is not about fairness—it’s about control.
I’m also concerned about how this process is being rushed without transparency or meaningful public input. When communities are cracked or packed into manipulated districts, they lose representation, resources, and power. This move will have long-term consequences on education, healthcare, and economic opportunity for working families across Texas.
I urge you to stand up for a fair, legal, and inclusive redistricting process—and speak out against this harmful proposal.
Thank you,

Bobby Slovak, Mr.
Self/retired public school teacher
Willis, TX

I urge you to vote against any attempts to redraw Texas congressional district maps. As a retired high school civics teacher, I am well aware that redrawing of district lines has already been done. Texas is not under any court order to reapportion its districts, and attempting to do so violates the federal Voting Rights Act. Please reject attempts to redraw these congressional districts.

Rebecca Davenport self, clinical social worker
Austin, TX

It is unconscionable that a state would bow to a tyrannical call from POTUS to disenfranchise citizen voters. It's particularly irksome that Republicans are gutting the National infrastructure in the name of empowering states. That Texas elected officials disempower citizens of Texas for their own personal power grab is appalling. Texas is a bellwether state. That our politicians are kowtowing rather than resisting fascism is an insult to the better nature of our great and privileged state.

Jasmin Palomo
El Paso
El Paso, TX

Good afternoon, my name is Jasmin Palomo. I am a parent and lifelong resident of El Paso, Texas. I'm proud to call this diverse, resilient border community my home and I'm here today to speak out against the revised congressional redistricting plan.

This redistricting effort is not about fair representation or responding to the needs of Texans. It's a political maneuver driven by outside pressure—namely, President Trump's influence over state leaders. That's not how democracy is supposed to work in Texas.

What's happening behind closed doors—calls from Washington, private delegation meetings, and last-minute agenda changes—undermines public trust. These maps weren't born from our communities. They're being drawn in backrooms to shift power, not to serve the people of this state.

If approved, this redistricting plan threatens to silence the voices of communities like mine by diluting our representation and rigging the maps for short-term political gain. It goes against the very spirit of Texas—a state rooted in independence, pride, and self-determination.

I urge the committee to oppose this bill. Texans deserve fair maps that reflect our needs, not the ambitions of Washington insiders. Stay true to the people, not the politics. Presidents come and go—but we, the people of Texas, are here to stay.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

EDGAR VALLARTA
Self - Texas CPA
HOUSTON, TX

In all fairness, this bill is a blatant attack on our democracy and does not represent the people of Texas in an equitable proportion to the voting results at the last election. Please have the decency to stop the race to the bottom and vote down this bill. We should model the behavior we expect from each others. Thank you!

Yolanda Folsom
Self
Houston, TX

NO I AM NOT IN FAVOR of redistricting!!! Why is this even being considered?
I URGE lawmakers and the courts to reject discriminatory redistricting and demand maps that protect voting rights and uphold the integrity of our democracy.

Mark Hofmann
myself
KYLE, TX

Take the fight to the anti-American democrats! Let's get more aggressive!! Redistrict for more Republican seats!!!

Jennifer Seppi, Mrs.
self
Tyler, TX

I would ask that my Representive vote YES

Anja Mims
Self Educator
Spring, TX

I am opposed to Republican officials redrawing voting districts to increase their voting base. State Sen. Joan Huffman (R), who chaired the 2021 Senate Redistricting Committee, repeatedly testified that race wasn't a factor in determining the maps. Texas Republicans are pushing for an unprecedented mid-decade redistricting simply to solidify GOP power and further dilute minority votes. Stop this politically motivated bill.

Celina Estrada
Self
Laredo, TX

I am vehemently opposed to the gerrymandering that is being proposed by not only our state government but also our president. The audacity with which you are willing to attempt to force Texans to vote in a way which you deem appropriate is horrifying. We all deserve equal representation and this hearing is unnecessary as is redistricting to better suit the Republican Party is absolutely shameful. Elected officials represent the people, the people have spoken out and told you that we do not want this. LISTEN.

Lori Rowe
self
The Colony, TX

I urge you to abandon this very biased and potentially divisive strategy. It will belie the democratic process. Thank you.

Mary Schmidt
Texas Freedom Network
McKinney, TX

To Whom It May Concern,

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on HB 4. My name is Mary Schmidt and I live in San Marcos, Texas.

I am writing to convey my concerns about House Bill 4. The purpose of redistricting is to secure the appropriate representation of voters across our extremely diverse state. As stated on the "Legal Requirements for Redistricting" webpage on the official capitol website, redistricting is to be completed following the publication of each United States decennial census in order to "equalize population" among electoral districts. It is extremely unusual for redistricting to be pursued mid-decade. More concerning is that this redistricting would effectively dilute the voting power of people of color in contravention of the Voting Rights Act.

I believe House Bill 4 is not only untimely and unnecessary, but if enacted would directly harm your constituents. Texas is an extremely diverse state across every dimension– topographically, racially, linguistically, economically, etc. It is essential that the full spectrum of voters' voices are represented in lawmaking, and you have been elected, in part, to protect the interests of the people and the democratic principles of this country.

I urge you to reflect upon Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The map under House Bill 4 "packs" certain voters of color into a handful of districts, and "cracks" the remaining voters of color between other districts, effectively diluting their collective voting power. It is unconstitutional for a vote in one district to have less of an impact on the outcome of an election than a vote in another district because of the way districts have been strategically drawn.

Please vote NO on House Bill 4, and protect the interests of your constituents as well as your constitutional and legal obligations.

Sincerely,

Mary Schmidt

Lorraine DeHaas
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest.

Janis Morgan
Self
Austin, TX

This is the most shameful and duplicitous trick tge Texas GOP has tried yet, and thats saying something. NO. NO NO NO NO NO.

Michelle Barrera-Chavez
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting is not only a slap in the face of all Texans, it is a deliberate unashamed abuse of our American right to participate in a representative democracy. This is an attack on ALL constituents, and an absolute disregard of our freedoms. For a party that claims to care about American values, this attempt is deeply shameful. Redistricting is simply straight up highway robbery in bright daylight. It will strip us of a voice, of our rights, and everything that makes proud to call ourselves Americans and Texans. The republican representatives are spitting and stepping all over on our rights and our fragile democracy. I sincerely hope this haunts them every day and night of their lives. As they lay in bed at night, I hope this attempt to redistrict robs them of their sleep and peace, just as they rob the electorate of a voice. I hope any semblance and moment of tranquility is spoiled terribly as it is the least they deserve. May whatever god they pray to be just and fair as the punishment for their actions get cast down upon them. I hope they are all well aware they will be remembered as a terrible stain in their families lineage and in this country's history, one that no matter how hard they try, it will never wash off. As they pass down their names to future generations, I hope they know this names will only bring shame, as they represent the abuse of a once great state and the disregard of its hard working people.

Nina Cardenas
Self - park Ranger
Stonewall, TX

This mid-decade redistricting is purely an attempt by Republicans to cheat the system and maintain control when their policies and positions are becoming more and more unpopular with each passing day. Quit bending over for Donald Trump. Do not pass this bill. Prioritize the voices of the citizens that you're supposed to represent over the voice of a president that has proven to be unethical and grossly incompetent. DO THE RIGHT THING FOR ONCE.

Manthan Upadhyaya
Self
Austin, TX

I urge the committee to reject this redistricting proposal. This is a blatant political grab that undermines the voices of minorities in Texas.

Susan Malcik Malcik
Myself
Austin, TX

Do not take away our democratic rights by changing voting areas. This is immoral.

Virginia Griffith
Self. Retired
Austin, TX

How dare you bend to the knee of president trump instead of representing your fellow Texans! As a 5th generation Texan, I'm appalled at your lack of integrity. ALL TEXANS DESERVE TO BE ABLE TO CHOOSE THEIR REPRESENTATIVES, NOT THE REPRESENTATIVES CHOOSE THEIR CONSTITUENTS. History will not be kind to you and neither will Texas. Your draconian actions are embarrassing and totally unacceptable. My family has always voted a straight republican ticket. But your lack of ethics and integrity has changed that. And it takes a LOT to change my family's political views. Congratulations!

Sara Hayes
Texas Freedom Network
Plano, TX

To Whom It May Concern,
Thank you for the opportunity to comment on HB 4. My name is Sara Hayes and I live in Plano, Texas. I am a volunteer with the Texas Freedom Network, in their collegiate program at the University of Texas at Dallas.
I am writing to convey my concerns about House Bill 4. The purpose of redistricting is to secure the appropriate representation of voters across our extremely diverse state. As stated on the “Legal Requirements for Redistricting" webpage on the official capitol website, redistricting is to be completed following the publication of each United States decennial census in order to “equalize population” among electoral districts. It is extremely unusual for redistricting to be pursued mid-decade. More concerning is that this redistricting would effectively dilute the voting power of people of color in contravention of the Voting Rights Act.
I believe House Bill 4 is not only untimely and unnecessary, but if enacted would directly harm your constituents. Texas is an extremely diverse state across every dimension– topographically, racially, linguistically, economically, etc. It is essential that the full spectrum of voters’ voices are represented in lawmaking, and you have been elected, in part, to protect the interests of the people and the democratic principles of this country.
I urge you to reflect upon Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The map under House Bill 4 “packs” certain voters of color into a handful of districts, and “cracks” the remaining voters of color between other districts, effectively diluting their collective voting power. It is unconstitutional for a vote in one district to have less of an impact on the outcome of an election than a vote in another district because of the way districts have been strategically drawn.
Please vote NO on House Bill 4, and protect the interests of your constituents as well as your constitutional and legal obligations.
Sincerely,
Sara Hayes

Kristopher Weiss
Self
Houston, TX

Extremely against redistricting and partisan gerrymandering. Especially when it is solely directed by President Trump. You have a greater fear of trump than you do of your constituents, and you favor your own political future over your duty and your honor. How dare you

Helen Wright
Self
Austin, TX

This redistricting is gross gerrymandering that strips fair representation of every citizen, and i urge you to oppose it.

Maries Laurel, Ms
Self
Richardson, TX

I strongly oppose congressional redistricting. Leave our districts and seats alone

Jill vanVoorhis
self - Consultant
Austin, TX

I am writing in my testimony AGAINST HB 4. I must first insert that it is IMMORAL that focus is on maps and not prevention and aid for the July 4 flood victims first.
While I am representing myself, I also serve as Precinct 291 Travis County Democratic Chair and Co-Chair of the Westlake/Eanes Democrats. We are a majority-Democrat super-precinct whose values are NOT represented by my neighbor, Rep. McCaul. Nor can he possibly represent our needs as well as the red rural counties stretching from Lee to Polk across east Texas. These new maps requested by our Felon/president Donald Trump will result in an overall Seat Shift from 25 Republicans, 13 Democrats (38 total) to 30 Republicans, 8 Democrats and a gain of five seats for Republicans. What a way to suppress the votes! As I'm sure you know, these proposed maps will cause Democratic-held seats to drop to 8 (~21%) despite minority population being close to or above 45% of the state population. This is unconstitutional. Here is why: 1) Voting Rights Act – Section 2 (Vote Dilution) - DOJ letters assert that districts TX 09, TX 18, TX 29, TX 33 violate Sect.?2 by diluting Black and Hispanic voting power. This is clearly "cracking and packing" these districts. 2) 14th Amendment – Racial Gerrymandering - If race predominates over traditional districting criteria, such as compactness and communities of interest, courts should apply strict scrutiny. Supreme Court precedent (e.g., Bush v. Vera, Shaw v. Reno) has invalidated districts that subordinated race-neutral principles to race. These insane district shapes and manipulative boundaries clearly reflect racial intent, not neutral criteria. YOU do not choose your voters. WE, the people, choose our representatives. Please remember this and vote NO on SB 4.

Claire Mclain
Self
Georgetown, TX

This is a power grab made by desperate Republicans because they know they will lose seats next election if they don't cheat.

Carmen Tinajero
Self
El Paso, TX

I am a resident of El Paso. I do NOT approve of the redistricting. Veronica Escobar has done an excellent job in supporting us. Tony Gonzalez does not live or know what we need. He lives 500 miles away. PLEASE do NOT redistrict. Thank you.

Paige Wilhite
Self
Decatur, TX

Redistricting Texas will silende a large portion of the people here. We the people are supposed to choose for ourselves. This slides us further into an authoritarian government and the people will not have that.

Francesca Garrett
Self
San Antonio, TX

You should be ashamed

SUSAN LAMB RESULTS
AUSTIN, TX

Sir, this proposed redistricting will harm Texans by undermining their ability to choose their representatives freely. The fact that the president is demanding it only highlights the true intent behind HB 4. Four years ago, when Trump pressured Georgia Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger to "find 11,780 votes," Raffensperger dared to stand up against this challenge. Now, as Trump calls on Texas GOP leaders to secure him "five seats," I expect Texans to demonstrate the same resolve as the Georgians did. We are stronger than that, aren't we?
Thank you,
Susan Lamb

Julia Hoke, Dr.
Self - psychologist
Austin, TX

This is a naked power grab by the Republican Party. Already, Republicans hold disproportionately more congressional seats (12/38; 69% R/31% D) than indicated by other electoral data (i.e., 2024 presidential election; 56% R/42% D). Our lawmakers should be spending time solving the real problems in Texas, not trying to hopelessly gerrymander our state!

James Peterson, Mr
Self
Denison, TX

The redistricing maps as shown do a much much better job of reflecting the values.and policy wishes of Texas citizens.

Sarah Stevens
Self
Austin, TX

I’m strongly against this redistricting plan. It’s in democratic gerrymandering, not to mention pandering to Donald Trump. If you can’t win fairly, then get out of the way. I remember when Texas was a Democratic state, as well as a democratic one. This is a shameful tactic and it’s time to say no

Paty E
Texas voters
Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose the blatant racial and racist redistricting and urge all elected representatives to listen to the people you were voted into office by! You are grown men and women who know what is right and what is wrong. This is WRONG! Silencing Latino and Black voters is WRONG! We pay taxes just like our Anglo neighbors! And we want REPRESENTATION along with that taxation. NO TO CAPITULATING TO THE GOP REGIME. NO TO SILENCING TEXANS. NO TO GERRYMANDERING.

Molly Pratt
Self
Austin, TX

Texas could benefit from redistricting, but not with this map and not at this time. I support our state bringing in an independent, nonpartisan redistricting commission to redraw our maps. Texas is home to many treasured communities each with its own flavor, complex needs, and collective aims & dreams. We all share the same desire to have our voices heard and to feel like our needs matter to those in power. This map and the processes and circumstances that led to its creation are disheartening and disappointing. I heard the people speak today, and we are overwhelmingly against this. I respectfully ask the committee to oppose redistricting at this time.

Whitney Naquin
Self, homemaker
Driftwood, TX

I can see no justifiable reason for this push for redistricting, except to silence political opposition for Republicans.

The brilliance of our founding fathers' design for our nation rested in the forced and intentional ways we must address those who disagree with our policies as we govern, ultimately allowing lawmakers a broader perspective that better serves the people in the end. This redistricting push stands in direct opposition to that founding principle of our country, and it is wrong.

Keyanna Newman
Democrats
Katy, TX

I strongly oppose House Bill 4 as currently proposed. This bill represents a blatant attempt at partisan gerrymandering designed to manipulate the electoral process for political gain, not to ensure fair representation for the people of Texas.
Texas is one of the most diverse states in the country, with rapidly growing Black, Latino, and Asian populations. However, HB 4 fails to reflect this demographic reality. Instead, it redraws congressional maps in a way that weakens the voting power of communities of color, particularly in South Texas, Austin, Houston, and the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. By targeting minority-heavy districts currently held by Democrats, the bill dilutes the influence of voters who deserve full and fair representation in Congress.
Moreover, the process behind HB 4 has lacked transparency and accountability. The maps were released suddenly, with minimal public notice and no opportunity for robust community input or meaningful debate. This approach undermines trust in our democratic institutions and disrespects the right of Texans to participate in decisions that directly impact their representation.
HB 4 also runs afoul of the principles set forth in the Voting Rights Act, which prohibits redistricting efforts that result in the disenfranchisement of minority voters. The proposed maps appear to prioritize partisan outcomes over compliance with federal law, and they invite costly legal challenges that Texas taxpayers should not have to fund.
Redistricting should be about fair representation not partisan advantage. Lawmakers should be drawing maps that reflect the actual population and its interests, not using the redistricting process as a political weapon. I urge members of the House Select Committee to reject HB 4 in its current form and instead develop a map that respects the will of the people, protects communities of interest, and upholds the integrity of our elections.
Texans deserve a democracy that works for everyone not just for those in power.

LeeAnn Rinderknecht
Myself
Katy, TX

I am against the Congressional Redistricting in HB4. My voting rights are being compromised as representatives will now select their voters instead of voters selecting who will represent them. Also, there is absolute no reason to redraw the lines mid cycle especially when the previous map is still being litigated for being drawn unfairly.

Johnny Nguyen
Self
Spring, TX

I support these efforts to update district maps

Marsha Labodda
=self--retired librarian
El Paso, TX

Keep the district lines in El Paso the same--do not give Ft. Bliss or the airport to a rep who lives 800 miles away!

Gayle Kanies
Self
Austin, TX

I would like to thank the Chairman and the Committee Members for providing an opportunity for voters to provide input to the newly released maps drawn by the House Redistricting Committee. I am representing myself and my name is Gayle Kanies. I have lived in Texas for 20 years and am retired. In the 2021 redistricting I was moved from District 10 to District 37. I was thrilled, as this put me in a District comprised of individuals in Austin who share my community of interest.

Unfortunately, it is deeply troubling that that I have been moved back to District 10 in the 2025 maps. This district includes many rural communities that extend 211 miles to the east of my home. In Travis County the population is 1.3M and the average population in the other counties in my district is 49K and the median size is 29K. Consequently, the issues I experience are very different from the other counties in my District and my interests are ignored. Just to attend a town hall hosted by my representative on average I would need to drive over 100 miles where today I can drive 15 miles.
Texans usually look out for one another—except, it seems, when politicians draw district lines. It's disheartening to see maps designed to silence voters instead of empowering them. Freedom means ensuring every Texan has a voice, regardless of political affiliation.
My key concerns include:
1. My North Austin neighborhood is again grouped with rural counties that do not share my community interests. When I was previously in District 10, my representative did not respond to my concerns. I felt unrepresented.
2. The purpose of HB 4 redistricting is solely political to get more Republicans elected to Congress. This has been reiterated by the Governor and the President. Priority is given to what Washington wants over Texas citizens.
3. At the same time this proposal is trying to disguise illegal racial gerrymandering as political gerrymandering since the proposal would increase Republican representation by 5 seats by taking away representation from communities of color.
4. Extreme packing and cracking further dilute fair representation and ignore the reality of where and how Texans live today.
5. Despite 95% of Texas's recent population growth being in communities of color, the map increases majority-white districts.

Texas must still abide by Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act and the Fourteenth Amendment. This proposed map ignores public input and takes away representation from Texans of color and urban and suburban communities. Freedom should mean the freedom for every Texan to be heard not just those of a certain political leaning.

I urge you to redraw the maps and provide for adequate time for citizens to provide feedback.

Thank-you!

Marguerite Mancini
Self
San Antonio, TX

I adamantly oppose redistricting at this time. We are not due for this for several more years and it is obvious that you are redrawing the lines to benefit Trump and the Republican party. What you are proposing is reprehensible, and we will not sit idly by while you cowtow to a wannabe dictator!

Cory Parish
Self
Wylie, TX

This sort of unfair gerrymandering is a crime even if it is not illegal, yet. Districts should be divided without regard for political party considerations.

John Courage
Self
San Antonio, TX

I and my wife, Zada True-Courage, and many of our San Antonio neighbors are outraged by your and your co-conspirators' efforts to steal more Democratic Congressional seats to support the Texas and national Republican Parties' hold on power in Washington.
The 2024 Texas Presidential election showed 42.5% of the voters supported the Democratic candidate; therefore, a rational person would believe that 42% of Texas Representation in Congress should be Democratic. But because of the Texas Republican-dominated legislature gerrymandered redistricting in 2021, they have limited Democratic representation to 12 seats out of Texas's 38 seats or roughly 30% of the delegation.
Now, however you want to gerrymander the districts again in the mid-term to reduce the Democratic representation by 5 more seats to satisfy President Trump's demand to have even greater control of Congress, providing the Texas voters with only 18% Democratic representation, and you are complicit in this.
This is not governance; it is blatant partisan politics and a power grab. This is unconscionable.
Unless you and your fellow co-conspirators come to your senses, there will eventually be hell to pay politically for all of you.
John Courage

Virginia Whited
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am submitting my comment in regards to the proposed Congressional redistricting. This is an extreme overreach in power, led by President Trump, explicitly to swing additional Congressional seat to Republican candidates. This will prevent thousands of Texans from having any voice or power, without appropriate representation in our government. We should not be allowing outside forces to dictate our districting. There is no clear reasoning behind the proposed changes except to appease Trump. All Texans deserve to have their voices heard, in the communities they live in, and I staunchly oppose this redistricting as it will further fracture our state.

Tim Winkler
Self
San Marcos, TX

Choosing to redistrict the house map outside of the typical census results is an obvious and disgusting power grab. Reconsider your actions now.

Tara Johnson
Self
League City, TX

Just say no to GERRYMANDERING in Texas in order to help MAGAs !! I will continue to spread the word to other Texans to what is happening.

Mitchell Griffith
Self, Lawyer
Dallas, TX

Thank you so much for finally trying to make districts that represent our state. There should not be 13 insane Dems in the House from our great state.

Julie Morgan, Mrs
Self retired
Bertram, TX

I fully support the passage of HB 4. Our state has grown and shifts are apparent, this move would more adequately represent the voices of Texans. Let's make it happen.

Emery Schwartz
Self
Austin, TX

This is gerrymandering and is an abuse of power

Paul Beutel
self
Austin, TX

This bill appears to be nothing more than an outrageous, brazen maneuver to deny proper representation to potentially millions of Texans. I would ask each and every Republican supporting this bill: Where is your sense of duty to ALL the people you purportedly represent??

Michael Hill, Mr.
Self
Sherman, TX

I support redistricting

Jennifer Kranzman, Mrs
Republican Women of Gregg County - President
Longview, TX

I believe the representation of we the people should be reflective in the voters within each district. Voting districts do not stay stagnet, with fluid changes from year to year. We know there has been massive voter migration within states and out migration voters to other states. Why not be transparent in this shift. To ensure each district has roughly the same population, compliance with the Voting Rights Act and fixing outdated or inequitable maps we the Republican Women of Gregg County do here by highly recommend the passage of HB 4 with out delay.

Terri Purdy
Self
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting map silences the voices of thousands of Texans, in order to appease our “Dear Leader” dictator. If Republicans are so right about everything, then they should not have to cheat in order to win. Win in your merits. Being a part of this scheme means being on the wrong side of history, and your constituents will always remember this, as well as their children and their grandchildren. Please leave our congressional districts alone, or align them to better reflect communities of common concern. I am in Hays County, and I do not understand how my elected representative can accurately or fairly represent my concerns in a rural/exurban Hill Country area near a growing city, along with the concerns of a coastal bend town 200 miles away.

Stop messing around, and focus on doing your jobs. Address the failure of our state’s emergency response that cost the lives of dozens of innocent children. Put up some guardrails against unfettered development that is destroying the natural beauty and resources of our great state; priorities affordable healthcare for millions of Texans that cannot get care due to cost or lack of services in their area; promote humane treatment of actual refugees, asylum seekers, green card holders and even US citizens being profiled and detained based on their race and/or appearance. Do better.

Michael Carter
self
Austin, TX

Using this special session meant to address and assess the tragedy that beheld our Texas communities with the July 4th flood to redraw Texas’ already gerrymandered districts is a disgrace. This off-cycle remapping is a blatant power grab, and it effectively would silence the voices of US/Texas citizens. I am strongly opposed. There are plenty of real issues that the Texas government should be focused on to take care of Texans and our great state.

Amanda Zurawski
Self
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB4. This bill rooted in racism and aims to strip away democratic voting powers from Texans, and in particular those who are already marginalized and hurt by the system designed to protect them. This bill is unnecessary, as is the effort to further gerrymander an already gerrymandered state. There is no new census data or other evidence that shows a need for new maps.

What is most disturbing about this effort is that it is even a topic of discussion at all, when thousands of Texans are still suffering and grieving from due to the catastrophic loss in Kerr County as a result of the recent flooding. This special session should exist ONLY to aid those Texans affected by the flooding and protect other Texans from similar, future fates. While our lawmakers have an opportunity to actually save lives and assist our neighbors, you are instead spending all of your time and energy in stealing the power of Texans across the state and, once again, silencing their voices. You are elected to represent us, and we do not want this redistricting.

These maps disproportionately harm communities of color, stripping away their chance at fair representation. To pass this bill would be to outright admit to your racism and to the fact that you created this bill solely for political power and to curry favor within the current administration. You have an opportunity to help Texans, but this bill is not that opportunity. I implore you to focus your energy on flood assistance and relief, rather than your campaign to silence the communities you were elected to serve.

Laura Marshall
Self - Owner/Designer of 42 Disenos
Austin, TX

Why are you redistricting the state, based on the person in the Oval Office? How does this benefit Texans? How does this represent Texans? You are in fact attempting to make it harder for minorities overall.

Shawn Simmons
Self
Houston, TX

Please vote no. The 18th congressional is effectively eliminated in the new maps. It’s not fair that we were only given 2 days to analyze and protest this. Why are we even entertaining this? I essentially have no voice speaking on my behalf. This new districting discriminates against black and brown communities… the very thing the president put in his executive order … to eliminate discriminatory practices. Please vote no and leave us alone.

Poppy Moore
Self
Arlington, TX

This bill is a classic example of racial gerrymandering and partisan gerrymandering all for the sake of not making waves against a leader of the republican party. The dread I have in the pit of my stomach that is going to go the same way that school voucher a went. That regardless of what was shared at the couple of hearings, the Republican representatives are not wanting to represent Texans. They are representing Trump and the DOJ. It is not too late. Show some Texan pride and represent Texans and not Trump. We are the 28th state in the United States not the 1st state under Trump.

Gwen Johnson
Self
Leander, TX

I am strongly in favor of the redistricting plan that has been proposed. Texas districts should reflect the voters in that district.

Meghan Vecchio
Self
Murphy, TX

I am FOR the redistricting of the US House of Representatives of Texas. And I would like for my state reps vote in favor of this bill.

(Also, our primaries need to be closed.)

Nancy Dennis
Self
Dallas, TX

I oppose the current redistricting for congressional districts. My name is Nancy Dennis and I am 20 year resident of Texas. I live at 6169 Marquita Ave, Dallas, 75214 where I've owned my home since 2016 and am actively involved in my community. I am currently represented in the US Congress by Julie Johnson, District 32. I oppose the new map and the entire redistricting process for the following reasons: 1) It is mid-decade and not the time to be doing this, 2) there is still a court case against the last redistricting that was done and it should be completed before any new re-districting is done, 3) this process has COMPLETELY LACKED TRANSPARENCY despite our State GOP leaders advocating for full transparency on everything, 4) with these new changes residents of Dallas including myself are subject to "pinwheel" districts that completely dilute the collective voice of our neighborhoods and communities, and 5) the proposed District 32 yesterday combines populations who have VERY DIFFERENT INTERESTS BASED ON WHERE WE LIVE thereby making it impossible for an elected representative to actually represent us - and as such, no one wins! I demand transparency and the legal notices for public comment both of which were ignored during this process. I'm ashamed of the way this has gone down. It's not too late to press pause. Thank you. Nancy Dennis

Arthur Hays
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support this redistricting power grab by the Texas GOP as ordered by Trump. This is already one of the most gerrymandered states to begin with. I find it offensive. No on the new maps. Thank you.

Diego Quintana
Self
Benbrook, TX

I fully oppose the redistricting plan. As a Latino male, this further suppresses the voice of my community and leaves us with less representation despite making up 40% of the population in Texas. This map is drawn to intentionally disenfranchise minority voters and is a clear violation of the Voting Rights Act. Constituents should get to choose their representatives, representatives should not get to choose their constituents. My home county is close to a 50/50 voting county and is a minority majority county but this likely leaves my county without any Democrat representatives despite the makeup of the county showing otherwise. My city voted for a Democrat president the last several elections but will not likely have a Democrat representative with this map. This is a racial gerrymander plain and simple and I do not support it.

Patience Williams
Self
Garland, TX

DO NOT REDRAW THE DISTRICTS IN TEXAS.

Philip McNabb, Dr
Self
Lubbock, TX

I am for redistricting

Richard Layne
Self
Azle, TX

This is a waist of Tax payer funds. Should be done with normal standards with changes with US Census. This is a sad attempt to unbalance the voters to benefit one party.

Sonia Hunt
self - CEO
Austin, TX

This mid-decade redistricting is ILLEGAL and constitutes a brazen assault on Texas democracy. Reject this unconstitutional power grab immediately.
This Redistricting Violates Federal Law: Congressional districts can only be redrawn following the decennial Census. This mid-decade gerrymandering violates established constitutional requirements and federal precedent. You are being asked to break the law.

This redistricting is a shameful capitulation to autocracy. Texas Republicans have historically prided themselves on independence from Washington bureaucrats. Yet here you sit, prepared to prostrate yourselves before Donald Trump's demand for "5 more Republican seats." You are abandoning Texas sovereignty to serve an autocrat's election manipulation scheme.

This map eviscerates Austin's representation through surgical gerrymandering that would make Soviet cartographers blush. Carving up Travis County into multiple rural districts is not redistricting—it is vote theft through geographic manipulation.

You face a simple choice: uphold your oath to the Texas Constitution and federal law, or become complicit in Trump's systematic dismantling of American democracy.
Texas Republicans once stood for principles over party politics. This illegal redistricting proves you now serve as Trump's lackeys, willing to violate your own state's democratic institutions at his command.

Remember that you represent Texans—not Donald Trump's electoral ambitions. Your constituents are watching. History will remember whether you chose law and democracy or blind obedience to autocracy.

Energy toohey
SELF
Austin, TX

This bill is horrible, and the map is an insult to Texas and its taxpayers. My district is stretched across half the state for the sole purpose of a scared party trying to maintain an inflated level of power, which is in opposition to the will of the people. I am against gerrymandering by any party; this is not what America is supposed to be about, and this is not what Texas should be. If you are a party that is proud of your work, you should not have to change the starting line to win the race.

Meredith Lancaster
Self
Coupland, TX

Redistricting is Racism in Texas now.

Chase Norris, Mr.
self
San Marcos, TX

My name is Chase Norris, and I am a resident of San Marcos, Texas. I am writing to strongly oppose the proposed congressional redistricting plan. The maps as drawn are an affront to democratic representation and violate the constitutional principle of “one person, one vote.”

Texas is not a one-party state. In nearly every statewide election over the past decade, the vote has split closely—roughly 53 percent Republican to 47 percent Democrat. Yet the proposed congressional map allocates 30 out of 38 seats to Republican candidates. That is 79 percent of congressional representation awarded to a party that receives just over half the vote.

This is not reflective of the will of the people. It is a distortion. Under this plan, 47 percent of Texas voters, millions of us, are relegated to just 8 congressional seats, or 21 percent of representation. This 26-point gap between voter preference and seat allocation is not only undemocratic, it is morally wrong.

The map achieves this disparity through two classic gerrymandering tactics:

Cracking urban, diverse, and Democratic-leaning communities ,splitting them across multiple districts to dilute their vote.

Packing Democratic voters into a few overwhelmingly blue districts, surrendering the rest to partisan control.

This proposal does not reflect natural geography, communities of interest, or the racial and ethnic diversity of our state. It reflects a political calculation meant to entrench power at the expense of fairness.

Even conservative voters should be concerned. Gerrymandering disrespects the freedom to choose our representatives and makes elections less competitive. That weakens accountability for all of us, Republicans and Democrats alike.

The courts have repeatedly ruled against racial and extreme partisan gerrymandering. I urge the committee to remember that these maps will face legal challenge, and that Texans deserve better than a court-mandated correction.

We also deserve better now. If this plan is adopted, I promise you it will not silence us. It will mobilize us.

In places like Fort Bend, Collin, Denton, Hays, Williamson, Bexar, Hidalgo, and Cameron Counties, voters are watching. These communities are changing, diversifying, and organizing. They will not accept being cracked, packed, or ignored. If the goal of this redistricting is to secure power, it may backfire, because we will show up, vote, and turn out our neighbors.

I urge the committee to reject this map. Start again, with fairness and constitutional integrity as your guide. Draw maps that reflect who we are—not who one party wants us to be.

Respectfully,
Chase Norris

Hannah Walls
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting bill.

Tenia Nelson-Cobb
Self
Arlington, TX

I am so disappointed and disgusted with the way people who are supposed to represent the people of this state are contorting themselves to bow down to the deceitful man who now occupies the office of the president of the united states. Isn't enough that you have betrayed the children of this state by siphoning dollars away from public education, criminalized physicians who are providing appropriate treatment to women who are enduring non-viable pregnancies while claiming to be pro-life. Now you are trying to roll back even more hard earned civil rights. This state ranks in the bottom half for accessible Healthcare. I am strongly against this redistricting power grab. Do the right thing and drop this plan.

Denise Maxwell
Self/retired
Carrollton, TX

I am against the redistricting because it's a blatant attempt at gerrymandering

Drew Watson
Self
Dallas, TX

This is cheating and everyone knows it. If Trump and the Republicans weren't worried about losing the midterms, why gerrymander, especially mid-decade?

Jennifer Regueiro
self
Houston, TX

I attended the Houston in person meeting on July 26 and am writing in opposition of the proposed redistricting map and in opposition to redistricting in general this year. The timing of the proposed redistricting is highly unusual and stems solely from political pressure. What happened to Texas being independent and to the argument for state's rights? Why is the Texas State Legislature taking up redistricting just because the President wants 5 more seats in the House of Representatives? As a native Texan and Houstonian, I am disappointed in Texas' elected officials who support this redistricting effort. This is an attempt to disenfranchise the good, hard working people of Texas. Texas is a majority-minority state and this proposed action seeks to dilute my voice, along with millions of others, through racist gerrymandering. It is clearly a power grab and the naked ambition of those who know their policies are unpopular and therefore are unlikely to win on the merits. In a state where one party has received 51-53% of the votes in state wide elections, this redistricting map seeks to have that same party control 79% of the congressional districts. This is not the voters choosing their representative. This is the representative choosing their voters and it flies in the face of our representative democracy. I sincerely hope the committee and legislature at large refuses to engage in this political act of disenfranchisement.

Sandy Masters
Self
Austin, TX

I am a native born Texan and registered to vote in Texas. I am very surprised and disappointed the voting maps of Texas are being manipulated at this time. The legislature drew our maps in 2021. They are current as far as I am concerned. I am disappointed we seem to have allowed outside influence, a non Texan , Donald Trump , step into our state process. That is so wrong to us Texans. I do not support this interference in our state affairs. It is unwanted and disrespectful to our autonomy and state pride. I urge any redrawn maps be rejected ! No to outside interference! This is not right.
Texas first!
Ms. Sandy Masters
Texas born
Thank you

Sonja Howard-Smith
self
Oak Leaf, TX

I believe this matter of redistricting is being done to diminish the ability of these communities (Black and Hispanic) to elect their preferred candidates and advocate for their interests; which is designed to dilute the voting power of minority groups. As well as, colluding with the White House to continue holding on to a majority vote in the Senate and/or House, which is denigrating the overwhelming voice of the people.
By doing so, it will disrupt established political structures and relationships within communities, making it harder for voters to connect with and hold their representatives accountable. Thereby, forcing incumbents into difficult primary battles or even eliminating their districts, leading to political instability. As we can see happening in either Senator Al Greens district.
Any new map drawn could face immediate legal challenges based on racial discrimination or partisan gerrymandering, as we already know. Because, there is a legal battle going on presently from 2021 yet to be determined by the courts. Voters should not have to wait 5(five) more years for proper representation. Especially when there are widely held norms for when redistricting should take place. This is nothing but a thinly veiled attempt by the present party in the majority- Republicans to hold on to power and protect the White House present resident. The Constitution is a living breathing document in this country, the first three words are "We the People...".

Karen Whitson
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting would be advantageous and beneficial to ensure the election of more conservative Republicans Who will exemplify the core values of the majority of Texans

Maria Brunko
Self
Richardson, TX

I oppose mid decade redistricting in Texas. There’s no reason that this was even necessary. I would like to vote and choose my elected officials and not have them chosen for me. This measure is harmful to Texans and anti-democratic. Texas is also playing with fire, and if this blatant power grab continues other states will just gerrymander their districts to compensate and it will literally never end. Focus on measures that benefit Texans instead of measures that disenfranchise them and steal their freedoms.

Sharon Lundgren, Dr.
Self
Wimberley, TX

We should not be redistricting in 2025 - after already having done so with the 2020 census. This is unfair to voters and your constituents to have their representatives chosen by the state for them, rather than letting voters chose in an election. You keep moving the goalposts and it’s fundamentally anti-constitutional. You should be focused on the Kerrville flood mitigation and not efforts by a potential child sec trafficker to stay in office and avoid justice.

Molly Cox
Self-Employed
San Antonio, TX

Dear Representatives,

The disappointment I feel in this rushed and gerrymandered map is real. As a lifelong Texan and as a voter, I am so incredibly disheartened by the Republican desire to appease the President rather than represent Texans. We have real needs in our state—healthcare access, affordable housing, and infrastructure to name a few. Redistricting will not make Texas better for Texans.

Sam Chatterton
Self
Dallas, TX

Are you kidding me with this anti-democratic joke of a remapping. You are making Trump a king by doing this. This makes me embarrassed to be a Texan. Grow a sack and preserve democracy.

Natasha Mcree, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

Voicing my concern for the redistricting! Please stop trying to manipulate our votes

Christian Lopez
self
Pflugerville, TX

The republican majority issued a map of Texas with a new, corrupt, gerrymandered map. And technically, It's unconstitutional and destroying democracy in Texas, redrawing districts with ethnic, race, and removing democrat control in office.

Douglas Estremadoyro
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. It is a blatant, politically motivated attempt to manipulate district lines for partisan gain and disenfranchise voters like me. The proposed map is not about fair representation—it is about preserving power for a select few while undermining the democratic rights of millions of Texans.

As a longtime resident of Austin, I believe in a representative government that reflects the will of the people—not one engineered to suppress it. This redistricting plan is a calculated effort to dilute the voices of diverse, engaged communities and silence political opposition. It’s an abuse of the legislative process and a direct threat to the integrity of our elections.

Let’s be clear: this is not just a political disagreement. It’s a structural attack on democracy. Gerrymandering on this scale erodes trust, reduces accountability, and creates a government that no longer serves its constituents. We need fair maps that empower all Texans—not a rigged system designed to favor one party at the expense of everyone else.

I urge every lawmaker with a conscience to reject this bill. Texas voters deserve transparency, equity, and fair representation—not manipulation and power grabs.

Shonda Cady
Self/Inside Sales
Dallas, TX

What you're doing for the president is exactly what the secretary of state for Georgia had the spine not to do. Instead of finding him 11,780 votes, your handing over 5 seats in the US House of Representatives. The voters in this state have had 30 years of a Republican super majority, yet you still scapegoat everyone but yourselves for the failed policies you've voted for. Now that people are fed up and not buying the finger pointing and endless excuses for why most people are worse off, and their eyes have been opened to your cruelty, taking care of the well connected at the detriment of the other 99%, lies are no longer enough. Now you want to tilt the playing field even further, removing our right to elect our representatives and making maps that allow elected officials to choose their voters. May you reap what you sow, sooner rather than later.

Jeanette Gregory, Miss Self, retire RN
Weir, TX

This voter is saying a strong NO to these bills to change congressional maps. This is pure corruption! Why is our congress not focusing on flood relief or working to improve early warning systems. The federal government wants to give each state less money and say you are your own. It was proven by a late response from FEMA for the flooding on the 4th of July so why is Texas politicians so eager to bend over for trump. Again I say NO to any changed to congressional maps.

Christopher Hill
Self. Business
San Antonio, TX

Congressional districting should not be determined for political gain. Should resdistricting occur, a guideline for districting now and in the future should be determined that insists on fair representation reflecting the economic and racial makeup of the populous of the State.

Dara Gray
self
Austin, TX

I am against this redistricting plan and strongly urge members not to pass this bill. This is a blatant manipulation by the Trump administration to redistrict the Democrats out of Austin! This goes against what true democracy is all about. Leaders should be ashamed of taking the power of the individual voter away in a supposedly democratic system. Vote against this plan!!

Suzanne Eberhardt
Self, self-employed
Arlington, TX

I am recovering from breast cancer surgery and cannot attend the meeting in Austin. However, I want to remind the TX GOP that when you enact bad policies that hurts your constituents and are now afraid of losing power, democracy demands that you live with those consequences. Being voted out of office is how We, the People maintain representation that reflects our values. Just because you have received orders from DC to make this happen, does not mean that it is legal, ethical or moral. Your responsibility is to those in your district, not the President. Long after this administration is over, your name will be tied to the rising of fascism and the fall of democracy, if you support this new map. Just because you are afraid of the outcome, does not mean you get to change the rules. Either start governing in an away that helps Texans, or accept that you might lose your next election. But stop taking orders from a bully, acting as if you are above the democratic process and changing the rules. I am fiercely opposed to the passing of this new map and strongly desire all that TX politicians govern for the people of Texas and not for the power and approval of this administration.

Virginia Kay Blancett, Mrs
RETIRED
Burkburnett, TX

Stop the redistricting plan. Wait for the census as we always have. Avoid gerrymandering!

Carl Bennett
Self / Linux Infrastructure Architect
Farmers Branch, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose Texas House Bill 4 concerning congressional redistricting. This bill represents a clear example of political gerrymandering designed to manipulate district boundaries for partisan advantage rather than ensure fair and equal representation for all Texans.

HB 4 appears to intentionally dilute the voting power of communities of color, particularly Latino, Black, and Asian-American populations, which have driven much of Texas's population growth over the past decade. Despite this demographic shift, the proposed maps fail to proportionately reflect this diversity. Instead of increasing representation for these communities, HB 4 locks them into heavily fragmented or packed districts that diminish their influence—clear signs of racial and partisan gerrymandering.

This redistricting plan undermines the principle of "one person, one vote" by drawing maps that prioritize incumbent protection and partisan gain over the voting rights and representation of Texas residents. Gerrymandering in any form, but especially when it weakens the voice of historically marginalized groups, erodes trust in the electoral process and undermines the legitimacy of our democratic institutions.

Federal courts have repeatedly warned Texas about discriminatory redistricting practices. Adopting HB 4 in its current form risks renewed legal challenges and a loss of public confidence in the fairness of our elections. Rather than embracing inclusive democracy, HB 4 reflects a cynical effort to cling to power through map manipulation.

I urge the Committee on Community Safety to reject HB 4 and demand a transparent, community-driven redistricting process that:

- Uses accurate demographic data to ensure representation aligns with population changes.
- Preserves communities of interest rather than fracturing them.
- Complies with the Voting Rights Act and prioritizes minority representation.
- Involves meaningful public input at every stage.

The people of Texas deserve congressional districts drawn with integrity—not to serve politicians, but to serve the public. Reject HB 4 and commit to fair maps that reflect the true voice of Texas.

Sincerely,
Carl

Ivory Hall, EN1 Retired Navy
Self
Dallas, TX

Don't do it redistrict

Lise Doss
self-retired
Austin, TX

One city should not be divided into five congressional districts! This is obvious gerrymandering. Texas should be ashamed to allow this. It is unethical and unjust. I expect better from my elected representatives.

Melanie Jackson
Self
Richardson, TX

This redistricing plan is entirely unneeded. Texas is being used as a pawn by thr Trump administration. This wouldn't be happening if he thought Americans wanted his policies, but he knows the GOP won't defy him, so he has to add seats. This isn't government needed to make our lives better- it's just going to continue to corrupt what we have left of our country. I am strongly opposed!

Megan R
Self, freelancer
Georgetown, TX

Please do NOT do this. Please don't forfeit your integrity by folding to Trump's wild demands. You're cutting important democratic representation — and I mean that in the sense of actual Democrats, and literal democracy by minorities in this state. This is gerrymandering. If the districts need to be redrawn — in accordance with NORMAL timelines, not mid-decade redistricting — can we not get an independent commission to review? This should not be part of a political agenda by our dictator president who hates people who don't agreed with him on everything.

Gregory Elman
Self
Austin, TX

Vote NO to redistrict Texas Congressional districts from their current form. Voting YES is a vote that means you:
1. Take your orders from a felon, a sex-offender, and a Russian stooge.
2. Are willing to jeopardize your integrity for naught; there is no return on investment, I promise you, unless infamy is your end game.
3. Are voting yourself OUT OF OFFICE, because it will result in Texas becoming a BLUE STATE.

Patti Dickinson, Mrs Teachers
Kingwood, TX

As a woman, mother, and retired public school teacher in Harris County, I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal. This new map is an attempt to silence voters, particularly people of color and low income families. Texas voters deserve to be heard and our elected officials have a duty to listen.

Beverly Gatlin
Self
Italy, TX

I support this map as drawn. Thank you!

Patricia Boyle
Self / Retired
Plano, TX

I support HB 4 and the proposed re-districting map

Steven Eckert
Self
Onalaska, TX

I have reviewed the proposed redistricting map. Although I am not thrilled with the new district I will now be in, I understand the districts must be redrawn to comply with DOJ charges and I feel the new districts will better represent Texas voters.

John Jensen
Self
Dallas, TX

Stop this abuse.

Lillian Balderrama
Self; Deputy Clerk
San Marcos, TX

Members of the Texas Congressional House, I would like to voice my deep concern and opposition to the absurd redistricting of congressional representative maps. The various maps that have been presented and considered are frankly absurd. These attempts to undermine, suppress, and restrain the votes and desires of Texans is a waste of constituent funds and a waste of your time as well. Texans refuse to bend the knee to any authoritarian leader that makes demands to flip seats in this way. It is the voters and the voters alone who should have the power to flip seats, regardless of which way. This redistricting effort is unconstitutional and is a spit in the face of every voter in Texas. I urge you to vote against this haphazard redistricting. Should redistricting be deemed necessary, please create maps that make sense to the voters, and accurately represent its constituents. Thank you for your time and for your service to Texans every day.

Emily Hermans, Mrs.
self, educator
Austin, TX

I would like to express my strong opposition to the congressional redistricting proposal. This redistricting proposal, off schedule for when this process is supposed to be occurring, and held during a special session of the legislature, is a blatant attempt to redraw the maps to favor President Trump, Governor Abbott, and the Republican Party ahead of the 2026 midterm elections. I implore this committee and our legislature to see this for what it is, a power grab, and to reject these plans to try to further divide the people of Texas. The architects behind these maps see that Texans are unhappy with our leadership, and they are scrambling to do whatever they can to retain and increase their power. We can't let them.

Brenda Olmos, Dr.
Self
Austin, TX

I am AGAINST redistricting Texas 1) without new census data to justify new maps 3) in the wake of a disaster when families are still burying their loved ones and HOCTX is still paying for hotel rooms for folks who lost everything. Read the room, TX GOP.

Sharon Fouglas, Mrs
Self
Salado, TX

I support the Republican Party and the redistricting. Smaller district encourages more involvement in the government procedures, and veteran involvement from local voters.

Julie Dokell Cogan, Mrs
myself
Houston, TX

Trump is not a Texan—nor does he have any interest in our well being. Stop this gerrymandering mess being done on no basis other than bowing down to Trump.

Evelin Rodriguez
Self
New Braunfels, TX

I strongly oppose HB 4 because it undermines fair representation for Texans. Redistricting should be transparent, nonpartisan, and based on input from the communities affected. This bill appears to concentrate power in the hands of a few and could result in gerrymandered districts that dilute the voting strength of certain populations, particularly communities of color and urban voters. Voters should choose their representatives, not the other way around. I urge the committee to reject HB 4 and support a redistricting process that protects democracy, respects communities of interest, and ensures every Texan has an equal voice in government.
This will go down in the history books as an embarrassing moment for the people and families who supported this bill. Future generations will look back and question how anyone could have stood behind such a blatant attack on democracy.

Debra Carrion Fraire
Self Chaplain
Haltom City, TX

We need a district that shows true facts of what Texas Voters and therefore lines up with actual count of legal citizens in the State, not fraudulent representation of bodies that are not actually supposed to even be here in Texas, let alone representing a value that never existed. We need representation that is factual and honest. And if that leads to more Members in the House the the Voice be Heard.
Thank you for your time and consideration. Will be praying for our Leadership to do what is right. In Mighty Name of Jesus

Connie Voss
Self
Houston, TX

Redistricting in Texas is always controversial but I do not think having people who have been elected to serve Texas residents should run off to places like California and meet with the governors and officials of other states to whine about how redistricting is robbing "people of color" of their rights. I am also a person "of color"—my color is white. Redistricting is a political game that has long used "race" as its ping pong. Like most political games it is used to separate, control, and dominate. Is there any Texas State Representative who is really looking out for the good of ALL THE PEOPLE in our state and our country? I have not seen one. Texas voters have spoken and the clear majority of voters are liking many of the Trump policies thus far and think we should allow redistricting to take place so that the Trump agenda can continue for the next three years. Then, the opposition can, once again, have a chance to gerrymander to their favor—purposely overlooking what's best for Texas and our country.

Shaun Dougherty
Self an all HUMANS
Austin, TX

This should be illegal as it is UNFAIR!!! Everyone gets an equal vote. Period.....

Crystal Mueller, Texas public school educator Educators
Pinehurst, TX

As a Texas public public school educator in Montgomery County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation. ~Regardless of political affiliation,

Shane Jennings
self, financial advisor
Hawley, TX

I urge the committee and the House to pass HB4 in order to more accurately reflect and represent Texas voters.

David Velez
self
San Antonio, TX

I’m David, a constituent of San Antonio, TX. I have been here for nearly the entirety of my life. I never fathomed that a day would come like this.

In my early years, I was a bag boy in a district, where there weren’t many Hispanics. I remember there were instances where white people would demand for another person to bag their groceries, someone who wasn’t dark like me. If you have never felt this, I can assure you, you haven’t the faintest idea what that feels like.
To feel unwanted, undesired. To feel excluded. This district was a Republican stronghold. Ironically, I was Republican too. In spite of what I experienced, I supported the Republican Party in the schools I attended. My language was conservatism.

This was back, when our differences did not divide us, when we could sit across a table, disagree, and remain friends. Then, one day, all of that vanished, like it never even existed. Gone.

Here, where there was once the the room for open discord, is now a line drawn in the sand, dividing us. You on one side, and us on the other.

What happened? What happened to us? Yes you, the person that I hope is reading this on the other side. What happened to our decency? Where we could look each other in the eye, with respect, with our differences known, but honoring each other's voices.

One person showed up and changed everything. He was loud, he was divisive, and he was a bully. I must confess that I’m a little disappointed at what came afterwards. I witnessed this person raise that would make fun of people with disabilities by mimicking them, call his opponents names, people's wives as ugly, that women that disagreed with him as "nasty", that says that he hates Democrats. Hates us. Then this person made a decree to carve out his dissenters from his sight, to empower himself further, in a mid-decade redistricting that is unprecedented, and our state kneeled to him, like he was some king.

In the years after my experiences working at that grocery store, and learning to find my voice, learning that white people did not in fact hate me, I find myself, transported back to the grocery store. I stand at the end of the lane, and I look up the way, and see someone trying to draw a line around me. To exclude me, again. My voice gerrymandered, because my beliefs happened to have changed. How, pray tell, is this not tyranny? We are a Democracy, we are to be neighbors, co-existing in peace!

Aren’t you supposed to be representative of us? Of Texas? When did fear of our differences divide us? Why are you fighting so hard to suppress the voices of your own people?

When did we become oppressors of diversity? Is that the legacy of Texas, that you want to leave behind, all to please the whims of a wannabe king? History teaches us that oppressors were never on the right side.

You represent TEXAS! And who is Texas? I am Texas. You are Texas. We… the people… are Texas! Fight for us!

Elaine Starr
Self
Dallas, TX

I have submitted a comment for the 7/28/25 hearing and since it was deemed "neutral" I hereby submit another comment. This is a blatantly a reach for more power. There is no benefit for the majority of the citizens of Texas, it is only an attempt to keep "you" safe. It is bending "the knee" to Donald Trump but it will not pacify him, it will not keep you safe. You know it is wrong and I think somewhere inside of yourself you know this also. Texas used to be a state that brought forth, Sam Rayburn, Lyndon Johnson, Barbara Jordan, these people cared about the well fare of the people of Texas and the good for the whole country. I used to be proud to say I was from Texas, now I need to explaing myself. I don't stand with people who would sellout there constituents for their own benefit, I want my representatives to do what is right and best for the people of Texas and the country as a whole. Not sure how you sleep at night, but I do and I standup for the good of all people. Search your conscience.

Bindu Fitzpatrick
Self
Dallas, TX

This is one of the most blatant attempts at voter suppression and racism I have seen. I’m ashamed of our state for capitulating to a wannabe dictator - especially under the guise of gathering in a special session to prevent further tragedies like what happened with the flooding and the camps. Shame on everyone that votes to silence the voting power of people of color. If you can’t earn our vote, you don’t deserve to represent us.

Sandra Todd
Rusk County GOP
Henderson, TX

Texas can secure this nations future by redistricting our great state. The nefarious plan of enemies of our country, in high government positions, using illegal immigrants to not only pad voting districts for the number of seats, but also to vote for socialist and communist representatives and policies. We lawful citizens must take back our state and county before its too late. Why would illegal aliens have any say in the number of representatives or our laws? This is suicidal for western culture not to mention liberty and freedom! The plan has been on display over the last 5 years - we are being replaced by a migrant population that want to rely on government handouts not grow this state or country's economy. They are destroying the USA as we know it. I have been VERY disappointed and even angry at what I have witnessed happening in our state legislature. It seems the Trump agenda, which was ushered in by overwhelming numbers in Nov 2024, being not only ignored but actively thwarted by elected officials who are sworn to uphold the will of the people and our constitution. I pray GOD's blessing on all who try and right this ship and bring common sense governance which is being spearheaded by Trumps policies. Please get this redistricting completed - without it we will mirror the nightmares experienced in Europe as we speak. Thank you so much for your attention to this matter!

Carolyn Dower
SELF, retired nurse
Austin, TX

This redistricting plan is biased and does NOT represent the communities well. ALL of us deserve to have our votes count for our communities best interest. Please REJECT this rushed and unfair redistricting process. It does NOT serve the people of Texas.

Ashley Rodriguez
self, student
Arlington, TX

BREAK QUORUM

Tammy Baker
Self/EDI Consultant
Corsicana, TX

I am writing as a resident of Navarro County and as the Republican Party Precinct Chair for Precinct 205. While I am fully in support of HB 4, I respectfully request an amendment to the bill to ensure that Navarro County remains whole and is not divided between Districts 6 and 17.
Navarro County has a strong, united Republican presence, and maintaining our county as a single, undivided district is vital to preserving that unity and strength. Splitting the county would dilute our collective voice and disrupt the cohesion we have built over time.
Please consider adding an amendment to HB 4 that keeps Navarro County intact within a single legislative district.

Jacqueline Doe
self - csm
Houston, TX

I’m writing to express deep frustration with the blatant manipulation of voting districts in our state. Redistricting in Texas has become a tool of control rather than a reflection of community needs. It’s bullsh*t—and Texans see through it.

I live in 77082. My sister lives in 77007. These are completely different parts of Houston—geographically, economically, and demographically. Yet we are represented by the same person. Why? Not because it reflects the needs of our neighborhoods, but because the lines were drawn to benefit politicians, not constituents.

Our issues aren’t the same. My neighborhood has different priorities: infrastructure, public transportation, affordable housing, and equitable education funding. Hers faces very different challenges. Lumping us together under the same representation is not only absurd—it dilutes our voices and weakens democracy.

This isn’t about partisanship. It’s about accountability. Texans deserve representation that actually represents them—not a map carved up in a backroom deal. Redistricting shouldn’t be a power grab. It should be a democratic process rooted in fairness, transparency, and the actual makeup of our communities.

If your goal is to manipulate the voter base to cling to power, I have news for you: it won’t work forever. Voters are paying attention. We are angry. And we are organizing. Because this isn’t just about maps—it’s about the integrity of our entire system.

Draw fair maps. Reflect real communities. Stop insulting Texans by pretending we don’t notice.

Susan Simmer
self, retired RN
Austin, TX

I've lived in Austinfor more than 50 years, the last 25 years in the same Hyde Park house. We are so weary of being treated poorly by the Texas Legislature; we do matter, whether you like it or not. I love my neighbors, not all of whom vote the same way that I do. But you must stop changing our district every time you want MORE power and want all votes to be the same. Let us have a say in who represents us. Redistrict in a fair and unbiased manner.

Thomas Nobis
self - retired
Houston, TX

I am Tom Nobis from Harris County representing myself a homeowner.
I support HB4 Congressional Redistricting plan C2308. The plan maintains Congressional Relationships that many plans presented do not. While everyone may not be in their current district, their previous district is near by and usually in the same county. This is the case for myself who was in CD8 and with this map am in CD38.
While some say that the plans change the racial demographic, this one does not for Harris County. The current demographic has 1 Hispanic district, 1 slightly Hispanic over Black, 1 slightly Anglo over Hispanic, and 1 slightly Black over Hispanic. The new proposal provides 2 Hispanic districts, 1 Black district and 1 slightly Hispanic over Anglo District which actually increases the majority districts.
The current Congressional map has primarily 8 districts in Harris County with a little bit of CD22. The proposed Congressional map has the same 8 districts with a little bit of CD22.
The Department of Justice raised some issues with the current Congressional map which this proposal resolves. CD35 has been said to be 1 of the 5 worst Gerrymandered districts in the United States which this proposal remedies.
For these reasons, I hope that you will vote in favor of HB4 and proposed Congressional Map C2308.

Whitney Masterson-Moyes
Self
Kingsbury, TX

Nearly 45% of Texas on average vote for Democrats candidates each election. These voters come from urban, suburban, and rural communities across the state. Disenfranchising these Texans is immoral and opposed to the spirit of our Republic. Denying them representation in Congress is also unconstitutional. If you don't want to lose seats in the House, I recommend passing legislation that the majority of Texans support verse rigging and corrupting the system to ensure you win. This unlimited fealty to one man threatens to turn the USA into Venezuela. A corrupt political system that allowed one man to consolidate too much power is what took Venezuela from one of the wealthiest nations in the world to a country where 60% of the population struggles to afford enough food. Don't make this the future of the USA.

Kim Hoang
self
Grand Prairie, TX

As a long time resident in Dallas County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation. If you believe in the constitution and what this country represents, then you will show respect for its citizens to have equal and fair representation and not allow this distortion for power exploitation.

Amanda Martin
Self, teacher
Austin, TX

This bill and the intended gerrymandering outside of the traditional redistricting at the 10-year census is undemocratic and blatant disenfranchisement.

Sameena Karmally

Self

ALLEN, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don't just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don't matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan's right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Sameena Karmally
Allen TX

Sterling Meyers

Self

McKinney, TX

My comment is that even as a registered Republican this change looks and feels like gerrymandering to me. When you have to redraw a map in such a convoluted way to eliminate democratic seats and the opinions expressed by people of differing political opinions then you are failing the people of our state. All citizens should have a voice representing them, not just republicans.

Barbara Mason

Self—retired

Austin, TX

The proposed maps are a blatant attempt to "pack" voters to sway election results. They break up communities of interest in urban areas. I'm strongly opposed to this bill.

Michael McLain
Self
Dallas, TX

I'm writing about the proposed redistricting of an already heavily gerrymandered state. The timing of this proposal and the proposed redistricting is textbook gerrymandering and against the democratic ideals of our nation. The lack of any attempt at subterfuge is particularly insulting as a Texas voter. If any redistricting is going to be considered, at least let it utilize the most recent Census data.

This is yet another example on the ever-growing list of government overreach from a state that purports to pride itself on freedoms and liberties, yet here we are with another un-American proposal to stifle voters. Put this measure aside and focus on improving the lives of Texans.

Stefan Terry
self
Del Valle, TX

Partisan redistricting outside of the census schedule is a bald-faced act of voter disenfranchisement and political malpractice. On top of being likely to get tied up in yet more expensive court cases at Texans' expense, it does nothing to empower Texans or even the TX Republican party, as this comes down from the federal government as an attempt to put people who will cede state power into office.

It's disgusting, and should be opposed at all costs.

Stacy H
Self
Euless, TX

I’m a republican and am so disappointed by this. As a Texan, our priority and pride is in Texas. Why would you redistrict mid census terms because the president asked you to? That’s not putting Texas and Texans first. We would be up in arms over the democrats doing the same thing, so why is it ok for us to do it? It feels shady and lacking of the character I know that Texas Congress upholds. Very disappointed.

Susan Gezana
self
Austin, TX

I disagree with the review of the congressional districts in Texas. The federal law calls for redistricting after the new census. Texas completed the redistricting in 2021 after the 2020 census. The 2021 new districts were reviewed and approved. There is no need to redistrict our congressional districts at this time.

Sandra Minatra
Self
Waxahachie, TX

Redistricting should be done once a decade, after the Census, not anytime one political party wants flagrantly partisan selection of a favorable voting base. This practice is unacceptably greedy, biased, and lets officeholders choose their constituents, rather than constituents electing their free choice of representatives. This is bending the system to the will of those in power at the moment. Stop it.

Stephen Pogue
Self - retired
Mesquite, TX

I am opposed to the proposed redistricting. There is no need to do this now. Redistricting is being imposed on Texas by weak Republican leadership which has surrendered to President Trump. Abbott is doing Trumps dirty work in Texas. Republicans intend to further undermine the voting strength of minority Texans. There need to be more districts for communities of color not less. You need to wait for the current litigation on the previous gerrymandered districts to conclude. If you proceed with this redistricting now you will show yourself as cowards bowing down to President Trump. President Trump is likely to lose his Congressional majority in 2026 anyway so this will all be for nothing.

Joann Casasanta
Self/ Director- Project Delivery
Hutto, TX

Hello, I am completely opposed to the redistricting by anyone in TX other than by us, the voters or an independent organization. This power grab is illegal and cannot continue! It makes no sense and is unfair to all minorities. Please shut it down. Sincerely, Joann Casasanta

Maria Medina
Self
El Paso, TX

I am protesting the actions that Governor Abbott and the Republican representatives are taking to redistrict the City of El Paso. We El Pasoans want a representative that lives in the City of El Paso because they can correctly represent our city as they know what the needs of El Pasoans are and can prioritize Those needs. Redistricting El Paso to be represented by someone that lives 500 miles away just to appeace Donald Trump is wrong. Someone 500 miles away does not understand El Paso's needs. They will prioritize San Antonio's needs over El Paso. We may look the same but we are NOT the same. It's time that Governor Abbott and Texas Republican representatives represent all Texans and El Pasoans and take the appropriate actions for us the residents of Texas and El Paso. Do what you were elected to do for us the people not what Donald Trump wants you to do. Stop being Donald Trump's puppets and standup for us the people. With the Republican attemps to suddenly GERRYMANDER the congessional maps they are puppets. If Republicans think this is so right, why don't they let the people of Texas decide. Let the people VOTE.

Richard Weber, Mr
Self/retired
San Antonio, TX

As a citizen of Texas, I am enraged that the Texas legislature is having a special session to change voter maps.

This shenanigan is no less than a naked Republican power grab at the expense of minority city voters. You want to dilute their voting power so that, at the direction of Donald Trump, you can steal 5 congressional votes.

Redistricting happens every ten years as a result of the ten year census. Nothing allows this to be done at the five year mark, at the direction of a deranged, congenitally lying President.

The Texas Republicans know better. This action is not working for the people of Texas. It's giving in to the whims of a two year old who is scared of facing real scrutiny for his myriad lawbreaking.

Shame on everyone of you. Texas deserves better, and will have better.

Sincerely,

Richard Weber

Marsha Weston, Dr
Self
San antonio, TX

I do NOT support re-doing the congressional districts in this bill. It makes no sense to divide the state in this manner.

Bhavna Vashisht
SAAVETX
Farmers Branch, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
[Bhavna Vashisht/SAAVETX]
[Farmers Branch, Texas]

Mae Whaley
self / retired
San Angelo, TX

I feel strongly against passing HB 4 and very much hope you feel the same. Let me explain, please. As you know, this is mid-decade, non-standard. As such, I have learned a new phrase, "pack and crack", origins unknown, but it seems to describe this unnecessary, rushed situation, initiated at the behest of President Trump explicitly to retake Congress. Now, just because an action can be done, doesn't mean it should. I believe congressional leaders should ask themselves if an action is right, and I think you know this is not. I have read of a lady in far NW Austin whose new gerrymandered district will now be included in with mine in San Angelo. Please honor the will of the people in your state before voting, because we are paying attention.

Margie Cleere
Self
Whitehouse, TX

Please support the new map of districts to accurately represent our voters. We have worked hard to get people out to vote. We need to be accurately represented.

William Hebert
Self
Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose any measure to conduct congressional redistricting in the middle of the decade and for purely partisan purposes. There are at least 4 states (Arizona, California, Colorado, and Michigan) that have independent commissions that perform redistricting. Texas should do the same. The concept of taking the vote away from citizens just to satisfy one party or the other is anathema to our democracy. Please, please defeat this most recent attempt to gerrymander our districts in favor of one party.

Elaine Mouton
self
Houston, TX

There is no justification for this congressional redistricting. Electoral districts are revised every 10 years after a comprehensive and accurate census. This is a waste of money and it is pointless and unjust. It is clear that this has been done for purely political reasons. Instead our legislators should be focusing on regulations that will help to prevent another community from experiencing the horrific flooding and deaths that occurred on July 4. As elected officials, you should be making decisions based on what is right and fair for everyone and not based on what will benefit you personally.

Sarmita Misra
SAAVETX
Dallas, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans
Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,
As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.
South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.
But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.
In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.
This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.
What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?
Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.
When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don't just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don't matter.
We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.
We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan's right to representation.
Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.
Sincerely,
Sarmita Misra/SAAVETX
Dallas, TX

Diana Martinez
Self
El Paso, TX

Do not redistrict Texas. This will shut so many voices out of the democratic process. If you believe in democracy, you would not redistrict. This is gerrymandering.

Derek Epp
Self
Austin, TX

The proposed maps spit in the face of the world's oldest democracy. History will remember them for the blatant and undemocratic power grab that they are.

Kamala Platt, Dr.
myself
San Antonio, TX

Please do not subvert democracy by redistricting to make Republican votes count for more than Democratic votes. Each voter's vote should count equally. To skew the maps hoping to make Republicans gain seats as the President has suggested you do, and you have done, is politically and morally, patently wrong.

Marion Starbuck
Self
Houston, TX

I strongly oppose HB 4 because it undermines fair representation for Texans. Redistricting should be transparent, nonpartisan and based on input from the communities affected. This bill appears to concentrate power in the hands of a few and could result in gerrymandered districts that dilute the voting strength of certain populations, particularly communities of color and urban voters. Voters should choose their representatives not the other way around. I urge the committee to reject HB 4 and support a redistricting process that protects democracy, respects communities of interest and ensures every Texan has an equal voice in government. This will go down in the history books as an embarrassing moment for the people and families who supported the bill. Future generations will look back and question how anyone could have stood behind such a blatant attack on democracy. Born and raised in Texas. This is now how Texans do things! We don't lie steal or cheat or do the bidding of one insignificant man.

Anna Borden
Self, college student
San Antonio, TX

This is gerrymandering, don't support this bill.

JOAL MCDONALD
Self
HUMBLE, TX

Texas prides itself on being independent. Yet, our legislative leaders seem willing to bend to the will of a president whose sole agenda is gaining more personal power.

As you know, representation for people of color in Texas' congressional delegation is wildly out of line with the racial make-up of the Texas population. Please help stop this power grab.

I'm writing to urge you to REJECT this corrupt redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps.

Thank you.

Brady Coleman self - film actor
AUSTIN, TX

Redistricting should happen after a census, not now. Following trump is cowardly.

Spring Karlo
Self
Buda, TX

Please do not pass this redistricting effort- it is politically motivated to cut democracy and democrats out of the process.

Ana Lawrence
Self
Dallas, TX

I am against changing the districts for the election that will affect my representatives and lower the number of representatives that I support.

Allison Biehl Garson, Mrs.
Self/ teacher
Houston, TX

I am strongly opposed to any redistricting plan that takes away representation from underserved and vulnerable communities. People in the panhandle do not have the same concerns as those along the gulf coast. Districts should stay as they are until the next census.

Linda Lavelle, Mrs.
Self
Keller, TX

I support HB4 and the redistricting map that is proposed. Democrats are complaining that the proposed map is racist. That is an old talking point that is no longer true (if it ever was.) So many people of color voted Republican in the last election that their vote determined the election outcome in many places in this country. The same was true for Hispanic voters also. If the Democrats had a pro-American values' platform there would likely be a flush of new ex-Republican voters in many districts. The bottom line: party-line voting can be tenuous and accusations of racism no longer hold any validity.

Kathy Kidd
self, retired
Austin, TX

Republican 'leadership' in Texas have chosen their voters 3 times with gerrymanders, now trying for a 4th. I am opposed to this type of cheating, and it is cheating. We Texans deserve actual representation, not just your idea of who we should be paired with to dilute our votes. This is an abomination, and if you cheaters go through with this, it is my sincere hope that you have just gerrymandered one time too many, and that you end up losing several seats to Democrats. Nothing any Republican has done in the past 30 years has helped Texans, only the 70+ billionaires that reside here. Stop doing their bidding, stop cheating and leave our communities of interest alone. I will do my utmost to defeat Republicans who mess with Texas with my time, energy and money. Instead of bowing to the unhinged felon in the White House, work on flood safety issues, water issues, clean energy issues, gun control and housing. Do something for Texans, not just your billionaire overlords. Stop CHEATING! Stop LYING! Stop DESTROYING this once great state, which was much better when Democrats had the majority before the cheating began. Thank you.

Melanie Medina
Self
Flower Mound, TX

I’m writing today to strongly oppose Texas House Bill 4.

This bill (proposed in the middle of a decade, outside the normal redistricting cycle) is a blatant, unconscionable power grab, not a good-faith effort to serve Texans. Instead of focusing on pressing needs like flood recovery or education, lawmakers are prioritizing a bill that redraws congressional maps in a way that blatantly favors one political party.

HB 4 is not about fair representation. It’s about political control. The proposed maps would increase the number of Republican-held congressional seats while silencing communities of color who have fueled Texas’ growth over the last decade. It’s undemocratic and unconscionable.

What’s worse, the public was asked to weigh in before any maps were even shared. That’s not transparency. That’s an empty performance. Texans deserve better than that.

Redistricting should be about representation, not manipulation. It should be about protecting the voice of every voter, not diluting it. But HB 4 does the opposite. It puts politics over people, and power over principle.

I urge you to reject this bill. Our democracy depends on it. Brandon Gill, PLEASE reject this bill.

Margaret Nason
Na
Spring, TX

Support

Helena Marriott
Self, industrial flooring
Austin, TX

The only tiny bit of power regular Americans hold is our sacred right to vote and to hold our leaders accountable. Please be American and preserve our voices. Vote no.

Ana B Lopez, Ms.
Self
El Paso, TX

This proposal is unjust and unfair to El Pasoans by not having equal representation. As it is, we are so far west in Texas, some maps have been printed excluding us! Now suddenly east Texan Republicans care about who represents us?? To willfully break the law to favor Trump's request to retain power to protect himself is wrong. Republicans have controlled Texas for 30 years and have yourselves to blame for what is wrong in this state. Texans do not support this, Texans do not want this... for once listen to Texans. This map will not allow Texans to prosper as we should being the biggest state in the union. Do not vote for this, it is unfair and unjust for the citizens of El Paso.

Renee Sima
self/Bookseller
Austin, TX

This redistricting bill is an utter disgrace to the idea of fair representation. In what universe are people from Downtown Austin and Crockett going to have the same concerns and priorities? This is a blatant attempt to gerrymander in order to seize further political power. It undermines the meaning of democracy in America. I am 100% AGAINST this bill. Shame on the legislators for even proposing such a map in the first place.

Carlene Johnson
Self
San Antonio, TX

Yall should be ashamed of yourself for what you're trying to do just to help DJT the biggest crook in Washington DC! Yall need to stand up to this idiot!! You work for US the PEOPLE of Texas not a wannabe dictator authoritarian!! Do whatever it takes to resist and hopefully not do this just to please him. And, if you do vote for this, I hope it backfires and YOU get defeated because people are sick and tired of DJT!! HE SHOULD BE IMPEACHED!!

Joanna Spangler
Self/ Instructor
Cisco, TX

I am steadfastly opposed to the proposed redistricting map. There have not been substantial demographic changes since districts were drawn in 2021 to warrant a redesign of the map, and it is clear the proposed map is gerrymandered to advantage conservative or Republican representation and severely disadvantage people of color, economically disadvantaged, and libreral or independent citizens. It is unconscionable that Gov. Abbott added redistricting to the special session at the request of President Trump and his admonition to “find” 5 more seats when time and attention should have been given to flood relief and helping to keep Texans safe during future weather events. This proposed map and the actions of Republican legislators in Texas underscores a willingness to sell out regular citizens in the interest of maintaining political power. Our districts in Texas should represent Texans, not the whims of a convicted felon and his lackeys. If Republicans are so worried about losing elections, then maybe they should realize that their actions are responsible for changes in voting trends in Texas. Conservatives have been in power a long time in Texas, yet Texans are not happy with the current administration’s actions concerning immigration, tariffs and trade, dismantling the federal government, freezing legally apportioned funds for vital programs, and removing safety nets for our most vulnerable citizens so 47 can give his friends more tax cuts. Those who came up with this absurd map should be ashamed.

Miriam Turner
Self / retired
Colleyville, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Kerri Larkin
Self - RN
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting bill. It is a blatant attempt to steal people’s votes.

Edward Herrera
self
Houston, TX

As a CD-18 resident, it is clear as day that the proposed map is just an attempt to gerrymander the state even more so that less people are represented. This is not right. As a resident of Harris County, the proposed map is unfair and many people would be left without representation. I am opposed to HR 4. We need fair elections where everyone's vote counts!

Matthew Roberts
self
Bertram, TX

I oppose this ridiculous power grab, especially in a special session where the Legislature should be figuring out how to help flood victims!

Rhonda Smith
Self
Austin, TX

With all due respect to the members of the committee I strongly protest the request by the Republican Party, under the forced influence of President Donald Trump, and Governor Abbott to redraw, the map of voting districts in the STATE OF TEXAS once again. They have admitted they plan to add districts and draw the boundaries (gerrymandering), so they favor candidates of the Republicans party. This is blatant gerrymandering,, which is illegal and will unfairly favor the election of Republicans to Congress so they will have the majority vote. This is unethical and unfair and Texas citizens demand to have honest and fair elections. Our elected officials are elected to represent all TEXAS citizens not just the Republicans, who primarily want to favor the most wealthy citizens, leaving the middle and lower economic class ro pay an unfair portion of taxes.and stand with President Trump while he closes vital departments and hires the most unqualified individuals to lead government departments. I strongly protest the passage of HB 4.

Wendy McCurley, Mrs
Self
Austin, TX

The redistricting process in Texas has lacked meaningful public input and transparency. Instead of listening to constituents, it's obvious that maps have been drawn to protect incumbents and party interests. This damages public trust in our democracy. Texans deserve fair maps drawn through a transparent, nonpartisan process. Gerrymandering for political gain damages our democracy and silences voters. I call on the Texas House to reject this redistricting plan and demand a process that puts the interests of all Texans first.

Mary Boren
self, retired
Spring Branch, TX

No, just NO. I grew up proud of my home state, whose tarnished name is now synonymous with "crazy" in Scandinavian slang. ("That's Texas.") Where are the heroes of democracy in all this gerrymandering and vote-stealing?

Marci Marie Simmons, Director
Self
Weatherford, TX

I’m submitting this comment in strong opposition to HB?4 because I’ve seen firsthand what happens when people in power redraw lines to silence the rest of us.

This isn’t about fair representation — it’s about control. Texas just redistricted in 2021. So why now? Because you didn’t like the way people voted. Because when Black and Brown communities organize, y’all panic.

This mid-decade redraw is a blatant gerrymander meant to strip power from the same communities who are already underrepresented, overpoliced, and overincarcerated. And we’re not falling for it.

You don’t get to keep moving the goalposts every time we start winning. Texas deserves maps that reflect people, not politicians’ fear of losing power.

Stop HB?4. We see exactly what this is.

Christi Hay
Self
Austin, TX

This is ludicrous that you want to redistrict this state MORE! Leave it alone, even better yet go back to the original maps.

John Hasert
Self/advertising
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 4. This mid decade redistricting effort is unnecessary, disruptive, and undermines public trust in the Democratic process. Redrawing congressional lines just a few years after the last redistricting cycle appears to be driven more by partisan interest than by genuine population shifts or fairness. The proposed map would break up established communities, dilute the voting strength of minority populations, and give one political party a clear advantage, potentially flipping several seats through manipulation rather than voter will. Our communities deserve stable, representative districts drawn with transparency, public input, and fairness, not rushed proposals during a special session. I urge lawmakers to reject HB4 and to protect the integrity of our elections by maintaining fair and representative congressional maps. Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Vicky Spradling, Dr.
Self, Retired Clinical Neuropsychologist
Austin, TX

I am opposed to the current GOP effort to redraw the districting maps. I see it as a gross abuse of power, a corruption of the democratic process at the core of our nation, and as an attempt to cheat citizens of the right to be represented by those they choose by rigging the process. I was an Independent and have voted for candidates of both parties. If this and further abuse of power by the GOP does not stop, I will formally join the Democratic Party and never again vote for a GOP candidate. Please stop corrupting the American system and abusing the Constitution and the soul of our country. It will be hard enough to come back from the moral depravity of the current administration; do not make it impossible by continuing to degrade and debase our decency. Please Restore Our American Republic before we lose it, as Franklin warned. What you are attempting to do-- to redraw the Congressional Districts in order to cheat millions of voters out of their rights to choose their representatives, is Un-American and immoral. Please stop. Cheaters never prosper in the long term. And this is cheating and you know it. Stop cheating Texans and start acting with morality and decency. If anything in my lifetime will Turn Texas Blue, it is exactly this gross assault you are attempting to essentially disenfranchise your fellow Texans. And it will cost Cornyn his seat and change the balance in the Senate for decades to come. Think before you act of the consequences. A short-term political payoff from cheating can and will be undone, but the long-term cost to the GOP in Texas will be permanent. Please do not advance this indecent, immoral attempt to cheat your fellow Texans. It will back-fire politically and destroy the GOP in Texas. It will Turn Texas Blue, and this will be on you.

Veronica Mckay
Myself
Wylie, TX

Oppose

Emma Sutton
Self / Technical writer
Marble Falls, TX

I am very much in opposition to redistricting, and you should be, too. Your goal as our representatives should be to represent us, the people of your state. To act in OUR best interest. Not Donald Trump’s. You know it is wrong to cheat. You know it is wrong to take away people’s voices. You know what democracy is… AND you know what fascism is. This gerrymandering has got to end. It’s not only illegal, but it’s evil. Be better than this, I beg of you.

Meaghan Patterson
Self, pediatric occupational therapist
DALLAS, TX

Texas residents live here with enormous pride and love for this state. This bill takes away the voices of Texans who have dedicated their families and careers to our communities. You are robbing us of just representation and crippling democracy.

Gina Daly
Self/Retired
Lantana, TX

This redistricting at Trump’s request will disenfranchise voters, but yet that is the purpose. Texas is purplish blue and you have decided you must cheat to make it purplish pink. It seems you have seen that your policies are not winning over the voters so lets just swap the voters around to silence those that don't agree with you. America had aspired to be the shining star of the world. That is no longer true. This move brings us away from true democracy and towards authoritarian rule. Don't be on the wrong side of history.

Rachel Spaulding
Self
China Grove, TX

STOP CHEATING! WE NEED INDEPENDENT FAIRLY DRAWN MAPS. REPUBLICANS YOU WANT TO KEEP YOUR JOB THEN DO YOUR JOB

Michelle Carlson
self
Austin, TX

I do not support the congressional redistricting. Vote against this.
For those who are in favor of this, think about how you will be seen by your family for generations - you will be seen as a politician who supported oppression and wanted to unravel the checks and balances in our democracy. Do NOT vote to allow this to move forward! You'll go down in history as a modern-day Nazi supporter, for this presidential administration is every bit as Fascist as was Hitler's. This legislation will back more than half of our state into a corner, and the only way out will be to go down a road that is destructive and preventable. Do NOT VOTE for this!

Gretchen Spieler
Self
Leander, TX

Using this time to do anything other than for flood relief and funding for further flood support is disappointing at the least. I’ve lived in Texas for 45+ years. That’s almost how long Texas has been diluting the votes by redistricting. You are all public servants and this unfair attempt to alter (an already horrible gerrymandered map) and further dismantle the voices of communities you are suppose to serve is showing a complete lack of competence on your part. Support the PEOPLE OF YOUR STATE and do not change the maps. If anything you should be returning them to support a fair election where all Texan’s voices are heard and supported. . Texas is better than this. And you are failing us by not stepping up and being better too.

Carrie Lou Bloom
Self, researcher
Austin, TX

I oppose this redistricting. Texas is already one of the most gerrymandered states in the United States. This is not a proposal that is designed to benefit the citizens of our state.

Kimberly Amicon
Self/Library Assistant at Elementary School
Austin, TX

I oppose redistricting to gain 5 more republican seats, as Trump put it. This is literally cheating and Texas has become the worst. Politicians must be FAIRLY elected as they represent THE PEOPLE. Somewhere along the way that’s gotten lost. If you don’t want to compromise, listen to the people you represent, and do what you know is right; get out of politics. Do not redistrict.

Hunter Harvey
Self - Engagement Manager
Seguin, TX

The proposed map is a god damn disgrace. Gerrymandering should be a prosecutable crime you cowards martha Lee

self, retired
Irving, TX

All beliefs agree that a healthy system of check and balances is needed to govern all peoples and visions. Texas is already out of balance, please don't make our beautiful state even more out of balance.

Frank Netscher
Self web developer
Austin, TX

I am against mid decade redistricting and these maps are full of racial gerrymandering. Attempting to silence voices of Texans is wrong.

Bethany Gabbard
Self
Austin, TX

Our Texas legislators are tasked with representing ALL Texans. This undemocratic power grab is a disgusting abuse of power. Texas is already gerrymandered to a ridiculous degree. All Texans - Democrats, Independents and Republicans are ultimately hurt by this gamifying of our democracy.

Lindsay Buxton
Self
Kyle, TX

Elected officials are supposed to represent the best interest of their constituents. This redistricting plan does not serve the people of Texas. Instead, it is a blatant power grab that was instigated by the President of the United States. A man who has essentially called all Republican elected officials asking you to find him more votes. That is a clear violation of the premise of states rights, independent legislatures, and the self-determination central to the concept of what it means to be Texas and a Texan. I am 44 years old, born in 1981 - I grew up with cable news, conservative radio hosts, and divisive social issues. All these influences - whether of the left or the right - have (for my entire life) pushed people farther away from each other. They have only grown larger and more influential with the internet, social media, and podcasters. We - citizens with so much in common - have been weaponized against each other for the benefit of institutions and people with money and influence who seek to dominate us so they can have more and we can have less. Those forces have everything to do with your redistricting plan and the actions you are willing to take. You are either knowingly complicit in the disenfranchisement of millions of your Texan neighbors, too scared to not vote the party line for fear of retribution, loss of “friends”, loss of your seat, or you are so bought in to the party line that you psychologically can’t acknowledge what is staring you in the face - that your party leader is asking you to fix the vote for him so he maintains control of Congress because his policies are so unpopular with the public that he knows he will lose the house in 2026 and he needs more of a buffer. This is not the actions of a man who loves democracy, the constitution of the United States, or the rights of the citizens to self-determine their future. These are the actions of a cowardly, craven, power-hungry crook who defames everything that American is supposed to represent. Any person who seeks to encourage to to follow this scheme is similarly compromised - they should not be trusted and you should no longer follow. They do not have your or our best interests in mind. Have no doubt - if you vote for this redistricting scheme you are on the wrong side of history. A yes vote to redistrict is a vote that lessons the ability of fellow Texans to live in cohesive communities that have representatives that share common interests in values. A yes vote is a shameful act that will tarnish your eternal soul, compromise your character, and will prove you to be a mindless follower that has no good sense and cannot see moral arc of history and where you stand. A yes vote makes us less independent, less Texan, and more beholden to a man who covets gold, money, power, and needs to feed his un-ending ego. A vote yes is you worshiping the idol of your making - Trump, Abbot, and Patrick. Vote against this anti-democratic and anti-Texan bill. Be better.

Constance Caldwell
Self, retired and disgusted
Austin, TX

This so called "map" is nothing but discrimination in plain sight. It is an abomination. It is immoral. And it is probably illegal. The Republicans in the Texas House are a joke. One way or another you will pay for this; either in your collective conscience or at the ballot box. Karma is a bh.

Brian Thomas self/archivist
Austin, TX

I am highly concerned about the redistricting plan and may as laid out. The prior redistricting was in fact contested as racially gerrymandered and intentionally drawn to disenfranchise certain voters. Yet the state and legislature defended it as beautiful and denied that intent. So what change? Donald Trump called Gregg Abbott and asked for 5 more Republicans in Congress out of Texas. Simple as that, and the proposed map shows exactly that intent. Taking this Bill up now is totally disingenuous. If the legislature and Abbott had good intentions and really thought the map had a problem this would have been taken up during the regular session, not slapped onto a special session last second.

I am going to say here what “decorum” and this middle of the night style hearing doesn't allow me to say I'm person. This legislature can and, my guess given its long history of choosing the Republican party over the interest of its people, most likely will adopt this map. Because you are stooges of Donald Trump. You are Trumplicans. You are showing by even giving this bill a thought that you don't give a sh*t about Texans, and are simply weak sycophants jockeying for who can get in line to kiss his ass the best. Our country is falling apart through Trump's very illegal but uncontested actions. Rather than standing up and saying that you want the will of the people decide whether this should have a chance to continue, you've decided to take the voice of the people out of the equation. Because you know what is happening today is wrong and not what people want. Shame on you. Assuming the United States comes out of this period successfully, you will be remembered as the people who chose a fascist over your people because you were too scared to maybe lose your job than to actually do your job and represent the interests of Texans. I hope you all go to the hell you claim to but very obviously don't believe in. Because god knows you aren't going to be allowed into the other place after this.

Kathryn Kizer
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose these new maps. These take away representation. Texas is already gerrymandered enough the way it is.

Suzannah Muller
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I am a Central Texas resident, extremely opposed to continued redistricting. This state is already gerrymandered enough, unless a redistricting bill is introduced that more closely aligns voters with the areas they live and work in, I will continue to remain opposed and my vote will reflect that.

Danielle Duarte, Dr.
Self - educator
Austin, TX

I am writing to as a concerned resident of Austin to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan for Texas. Redistricting is a critical process that should be about ensuring fair and equal representation for all Texans. The current proposal appears to be a blatant attempt to manipulate district lines for political gain, rather than to serve the best interests of our communities. This process, happening outside the usual decennial census cycle, seems designed to silence the voices of voters and create districts that are not reflective of our state's diverse and growing population.
I urge you to stop this plan and to instead support a transparent and community-driven redistricting process. We need maps that ensure every person's vote counts equally and that our elected officials are accountable to the people they serve.

Ashleigh Lawrence
Self/Non-profit employee
Lake Jackson, TX

Texans across the board have spoken out against the idea of mid-decade redistricting. Valuable time and resources have been spent on this effort rather than trying to meet the needs of Texans. I do not support redistricting at this point in time, nor do I support the proposed map. The redrawn maps in Brazoria County, for example, have created a massive shift downward for CD-22. CD-22 is currently an urban/suburban district. Looping in lower Brazoria County doesn't make sense. Beyond all of the map shifts that don't make much sense, the Texas House is capitulating to Donald Trump just because he asked. If we had a Democratic President in the White House make this same request, the Texas Legislature would never have taken up this issue. In fact, Governor Abbott and other Texas Republicans would be speaking to every media outlet available about how bad of an idea this is and how lawless it is that the request had even been made. It's a blatant power grab by the current executive branch, and sadly, Texas republicans are playing along. The eyes of Texas - and the nation - are upon the Texas House. I do NOT support HB 4. I ask the members of the House Select Committee to vote NO on this bill. Do the right thing.

Cindy Miller
Self
Lubbock, TX

As a lifelong Texan, I believe our communities deserve fair representation—not maps manipulated to serve political power grabs. This redistricting scheme isn't just political maneuvering; it's an attack on the voices of everyday Texans like me, my family, and my neighbors.

When districts are drawn to silence voters rather than serve them, the issues that matter most to us—like access to affordable healthcare, strong public schools, and jobs that support our families—get ignored. Instead of working to fix real problems, this plan is designed to protect politicians and lock in extreme MAGA control, no matter what Texans actually want.

I’m speaking out because I want a future where our children grow up in a state where their voices count, where leaders are accountable to the people, not party loyalty. This fight is personal. It’s about defending democracy, protecting our communities, and ensuring that every Texan—no matter where they live—has an equal say in the direction of our state.

We deserve maps that reflect our values, our diversity, and our shared hopes—not ones rigged for partisan gain.

Jaime Thompson
Self
Austin, TX

We want a state that truly represents the interests of its constituents. This proposed gerrymandered will give more weight to a minority vision of what we all want for our future.

Jesuorobo Enobakhare
Self | Sr Analyst
Grand Prairie, TX

My name is Jesuorobo Enobakhare Jr. I am a constituent of Texas Senate District 23, Texas House District 101, and U.S. Congressional District 30. Just a few months ago, several minority voters in Tarrant County were targeted by a blatant, racially motivated redistricting plan. Black, Hispanic and Asian voters were cracked from Tarrant County Commissioners Precinct 2 and packed into Precinct 1. As a result, their political power, acquired over time through population growth and coalition building in the Southern sector, was diminished by elected officials that chose to silence them instead of engaging them politically. That was a textbook example of racial gerrymandering which is illegal. Now at the request of President Trump, Governor Abbott and the Texas State Legislature are seeking to employ the same racially motivated redistricting plan to silence minority voters at the federal level to maintain power of the U. S. House of Representatives.

First, I call on members of the Texas House and Texas Senate to vote NO regarding this mid-decade redistricting plan that is nothing more than a racist power grab intended to dilute the political power of Black, Hispanic and Asian voters in large urban centers throughout the state of Texas.

After (attending/watching/hearing about) the public hearing held in Tarrant County, it is abundantly clear that I am not alone, and the majority of North Texans have no interest in seeing new maps being drawn. As a fellow Texan, I encourage you to tap into your independent, lone star spirit in this moment. This is not the time for our elected officials to abdicate our state's priorities to carry out the desires of those in Washington, D.C.

Belinda Weber
Self
San Marcos, TX

I am strongly opposed to the district realignment for election of US House of Representatives from the state of Texas. This is not the role you have as representatives of your constituents that you serve. You represent all people in your district ,and the proposed realignment would serve as a dangerous precedent. The democracy we should protect is at stake and does not serve Texas citizenry.

Ruchi Kumar
Self
Taylor, TX

This redistricting is a clear power grab for more seats and is not being done in good faith. Stop this!

David Elie
Self
Round Rock, TX

As an active voter in the State of Texas. I am wholly and adamantly opposed to this redistricting effort. I have watched as the state legislature has nullified the voting voices of scores of the state's population and am troubled by what efforts like this mean for us. I demand that this gerrymandering measure receive a full throated NO vote, to ensure that we work towards all Texan voices being heard.

Jessica Odom
Self Comfort, TX

I am publicly condemning the radical redistricting process happening in our great state of Texas. If our leaders at the state and federal levels of government were acting in the best interest of the people they represent, they would not need to cheat to remain in power nor would they feel the need to capitulate to the current White House Administration. Shame on all you who are willing to support this and not represent the people you are elected to act in the best interest of. All state leaders must speak out against the dangerous precedent established by this blatantly partisan gerrymandering. Sadly, as someone who has been a supporter of the GOP in the past, I can say it will be a long time before I vote for a republican candidate again, if ever.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Terri Hill
Self Hallsville, TX

I support this bill as written and believe it more accurately represents proper district boundaries. Excellent work!

Charlie Reed
Self, Management
Austin, TX

History is filled with examples of Machiavellian excess, of political overreach. These occurrences, orchestrated by people filled with myopic hubris, are short-lived. Always. As those actors go about their schemes, they do it with the conviction that they are the first to try it and that what they are doing will endure. That is laughable and trite. The blowback is inevitable and it is ugly. It would be nice to avoid that. The United States has skirted it, for the most part, through checks and balances. Those are gone. The nation has avoided it through, at the least, a concept of equal representation. That too is battered, further exacerbated by this motion. Redistricting is a desperate move to avoid blowback, which is, again, given the corrupted nature that requires such Machiavellian excess, inevitable.

Disenfranchising your constituents may benefit a shadowy agenda today, but it inspires corrupt lawlessness down the ranks, and no society endures that tomorrow. That is the inevitability of this scheme.

Jordan French
Self
Austin, TX

I understand that sometimes politics are complicated, and you may wish to support your party's representation. But this is so blatantly wrong and anti-democratic, and clearly motivated by our President's explicit request that Texas get more Republican seats. How is it right that a state in which less than 60% of voters vote Republican will have over 80% Republican representation. Shouldn't all Texans' voices be heard?

J Rice
Myself and my family
Dayton, TX

Redistricting to gain partisan power is a game that will eventually blow back on those who perpetrate such shenanigans. Republicans should know that power is derived from the people and when the people get tired of you not doing your job, they will turn on you. It may not happen now but it will happen. Be fair or stop the redistricting.

Ann Margaret Gallardo
Self
EL PASO, TX

Please do not pass this bill. It is an inequitable attempt to gerrymander the politics boundaries. This will have a negative affect on thousands of Texans, who are already under represented. Attempting to increase the GOP footprint in the state is not only alarming, but quite unethical in my opinion. PLEASE vote no.

Jo Lines
Self: 8th Grade Science Teacher
Garland, TX

I do not support redistricting. Kissing up to a moron is not power. I implore you to act ethically in the interest of your constituents. Gerrymandering should be illegal for all parties.

Karen Pittman
self / software developer
Austin, TX

The Texas congressional map is already drawn to benefit the party in power. The explicit reason for the proposed redistricting is to try to increase the number of seats that party holds, by drawing districts along racial lines. Isn't that illegal? Can't the Republicans accept a win or loss on their merit, rather than stacking the deck? Guess not.
I am strongly opposed to this move and believe it robs a huge number Texans of their voice in the US House of Representatives.

Adine Rotman
self, Artist
Houston, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Erika Humke
Self / municipal government
Austin, TX

AGAINST. This is a craven power grab. We deserve fair maps that represent all Texans.

Barbara Mohs
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am opposed to this bill. It is gerrymandering. I do not believe in disenfranchising Texas voters.

Adele Nelson, Dr.
Self
Austin, TX

To committee members, I strongly oppose the partisan, Trump-order redistricting proposed in HB4. Please focus all your attention this session of putting in place safe guards against future natural disasters in Texas & finding out what mistakes were made that led to the July 4th tragedy. Sincerely, Adele Nelson

Francis Tyminski, CWO
self
Rockwall, TX

Time to stop playing footsie on redistricting according to race. Allow the conservative Texas citizens' votes from being diluted. Heck, the border districts are filled with conservative folks of Latin heritage.

Jordan Remar, Ms.
Self - performance artist
Austin, TX

The redrawing of the congressional districts in this state is not fair . I feel that my state has never represented my interests as a democratic person and this feels like one step farther away from actual representation of the diversity of the people of Texas . This is a clear attempt at gerrymandering the state electoral system in favor of the current administration .

Augie Cahee
A US CITIZEN
Houston, TX

This is truly a sad day, where we again are forced to watch people who take an oath with their hand on a Bible work to silence, oppress, and misrepresent the people they are elected to serve. No matter what lies you peddle and talking points you spin, if this happens from the other side you'd scream to the highest hills about it. History should teach you, we will fight back we always do and you're never up for long. History will always repeat itself because you've yet to learn from it. You'll ignore our voices, just like you ignore the truth about your sitting President, but this won't be the end of it, far from it.

Susan Staker Citizen
Austin, TX

This is not decent or fair. Please do not subvert our Democracy. Laws to deny voting, laws to control who is in power are wrong. You know this, and that is this bills entire purpose. It has nothing to do with the People are entitled to protect them. It's about putting your weight on the process. Again, you know this. History will not be kind to your actions. The cost is pathetically dear.

Elizabeth Beach
Self
San Antonio, TX

There is no reason to redistrict outside of a normal session. If redistricting should be done, gerrymandering should not be used.

Katy Jackson
Self and Aransas County Republican Party
Rockport, TX

The Republicans of Aransas County support HB4 as it provides for a true representation of Texas in the US House of Representatives.

We do not, though, agree with the way the District lines are drawn. It is understood that counties may be split for equal distriubtion of the population for each US House Representative. The issue we have is that a sliver of the County will stay TX27 but the large majority will move to TX15. It is noted we are not the only county which has a small part in one district with the majority in another.

We implore the members of the committee to look into moving the Congressional District lines to match county lines wherever possible, especially for counties with small populations.

Katy Jackson
Aransas County Republican Party Chair

Renee Bigham, Citizen
My family and myself.
Temple, TX

Support!

Joshus Cohn
Self / Program Manager
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to this measure. This is an unconstitutional attempt to dilute votes - demanded by the president and after session has ended. A blatant disregard for the voters of the state and the will of the people.

Jerry Franklin, Mr.
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I support HB4.

Devin Findlay
Self
Leander, TX

AGAINST this bill as it’s unfairly districting and representing Texans. Focus on the real issues that matter to Texans.

Michael Neeley
self Registered Nurse
Austin, TX

To the Members of the Texas Legislature and Redistricting Committee:

My name is Michael Neeley, and I reside in Austin, ZIP code 78723, within Congressional District 37 and Texas House District 48. I appreciate the opportunity to provide input on a process that directly affects the quality and fairness of our representation.

Gerrymandering is not a partisan concern—it is a threat to democratic accountability. While debates over district lines often break down along political lines, I want to emphasize that many respected Texas conservative leaders have acknowledged the dangers of excessive redistricting manipulation.

Former Texas House Speaker Joe Straus, a Republican, has publicly stated:

“Voters deserve competitive elections and fair districts. Drawing maps in back rooms to protect incumbents or one party over another weakens our democracy.”
Additionally, former Republican state Senator Jeff Wentworth spent much of his career advocating for an independent redistricting commission in Texas, arguing that the current system “protects politicians, not constituents,” and fails to provide voters with real choices. He consistently filed bills aimed at removing partisanship from the process.

Their voices reflect a deeply conservative principle: government should serve the people, not itself. When maps are manipulated to entrench power, citizens lose faith in the system, competition is stifled, and representatives become less responsive to the needs of their constituents.

Districts 37 and 48 include vibrant, diverse, and civically engaged communities with common interests in infrastructure, education, public safety, and economic development. Any redistricting plan that splits these communities, dilutes their influence, or prioritizes political advantage over fair representation would do a disservice to all Texans.

I urge this committee to:

Maintain district boundaries that reflect genuine community identity;
Avoid tactics like “packing” and “cracking” that manipulate voter strength;
And commit to a redistricting process that promotes transparency, public trust, and competitive elections.
As leaders, you have an opportunity to reject short-term partisan gain in favor of long-term democratic integrity. As Texans—regardless of party—we should all want fair maps that put the people first.

Thank you for your time and your service to our state.

Sincerely,
Michael Neeley
Austin, TX 78723

Alex Abbott, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

School kids learn about gerrymandering in social studies class as WHAT A DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT SHOULD NOT DO. Redrawing district lines to deliberately disenfranchise democrat/urban/liberal voters is unfair, racist, unAmerican, and completely out of line with Texan values. No person elected under a rigged system deserves the respect of constituents. My tax dollars spend just like those of republican voters. EVERY Texan voter deserves to have their vote count. This is bullshit and you all know it. GROW A SPINE - America is a democracy. ACT LIKE IT. Just pathetic to even have to discuss something so ludicrous- what an embarrassing place to be.

Kristi Powell
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I am for this grouping of representatives as the areas represent the communities that we tend to patronize and support financially

Lisa Miranda
Self
San Antonio, TX

I stand firmly against the current process of congressional redistricting being conducted under the Select Committee on Congressional Redistricting [E1.030], scheduled for August 1, 2025. While redistricting is a necessary function of representative government, the process in its current form is deeply flawed and vulnerable to partisan abuse.

Historically, redistricting has too often been used not to enhance representation, but to entrench power—diluting the voting strength of communities of color, splitting cohesive neighborhoods, and protecting incumbents at the expense of democracy. The use of backdoor deals, rushed public hearings, and data manipulation has led to maps that do not reflect the will of the people, but the interests of the few.

The current committee structure raises concerns about transparency, accountability, and fairness. Meetings like the one on August 1 are often framed as procedural, but they lay the groundwork for major changes to the electoral landscape. Without robust public input and independent oversight, this process risks repeating the mistakes of the past—especially in a state with a long history of gerrymandering and voter suppression.

Texas in particular has seen numerous legal challenges to its maps, with federal courts repeatedly finding that districts were drawn with discriminatory intent. Until we implement a truly independent redistricting commission, divorced from partisan control, we cannot expect different outcomes. This isn’t just a political issue—it’s a moral one.

If we care about representative democracy, we must demand more than performative hearings and manipulated maps. We need fair districts that reflect the population, not partisan agendas. I urge lawmakers and the public to oppose any redistricting effort that lacks transparency, equity, and genuine accountability.

Victoria Weller
self
Round Rock, TX

Last presidential election, 42.46% voted Democratic. However, I understand that the proposed map in this bill would likely result in just 5 of the state's 38 reps being democrats - a mere 13%! This is a clear betrayal of public trust.
This redistricting will break up communities of color, an obvious violation of federal law. You were voted in to represent the people, but instead, if you vote for this map, you are representing national Republican expectations at the expense of the people of Texas, particularly people of color. This racial discrimination is shameful. Truly. The current map is already tipped in Republican favor - to use this new map would further erode the representation of people of color in the US House Representatives. Please uphold democracy over political maneuvering and earn your votes rather than further gerrymandering.
Get to work solving the actual, serious problems of Texans! The Texas Legislature needs to focus on flood recovery prevention and relief, not off-cycle redistricting. People are suffering, many without homes, and those with homes may not have power and supplies. The sooner we can get new flood prevention measures in place, the more likely we are to save lives. Choose Life, real Texans' lives!

Steven Grantham
self/voter
Austin, TX

Like many Americans and Texans I am dismayed to find that the Governor and the republican representatives in our state are attempting to rewrite the district voting maps to disenfranchise any and all voices that might have any other perspective than what appears to be the limited focus of keeping a power hungry pedophile and a bunch of fascists in power. This has nothing to do with fairness and only keeping a convicted felon and wannabe king in power. Attempting this will only trigger other states to attempt the same. California, for instance, will retaliate with redistricting (7 additional seats). The only thing that this apparently does is change the subject that we pay our representatives to do, make our lives better. I would suggest that working on what people want, like flood warning for children at summer camps that this state basically killed through it's negligence, would be a better use of our time. There are a lot of things wrong with our country. Trying to make it so that a Pedophile/Rapist/Felon can continue to not be held accountable for his actions will be written in the history books with anyone who allows this to continue as a footnote.
If President Pedo can rape children, abuse women, and destroy our economy the only reason that anyone would vote for this redistricting is because they too agree that as a country we should normalize child rape. Good luck with that.

Bobbie Barker
Retired Executive VP
Austin, TX

I have concerns about HB 4. About 40% of Texans voted Democratic in the last election. This proposed map could result in only 5 of the state's reps being democrats. Texans have done just fine representing the will of Texas voters with the current districts. By creating a district that stretches parts of North Austin into Midland and Odessa is just not logical! Texans don't bow to a President who is struggling to maintain support. Our Texas leadership will be tainted as "patsy's" if these changes are made. Stand up as Texans - independent and strong. Please vote no on HB4. Respectfully, Bobbie J Barker

John Westbrook self, retired High School Principal, self-employed Educational Consultant
Gatesville, TX

I am in favor of redistricting. Regards

Janice Lindstrom, Dr.
Self
Dallas, TX

I do not support redistricting. Please vote NO to all redistricting bills.

Sally Gavin
self, retired
Austin, TX

Redistricting Congressional District maps was completed in 2021 based on the US Census. Redistricting should be repeated every 10 years. It is a waste of time and money to redistrict the maps at this time. Obviously this is an effort to gerrymander the map and control minority voices. It is time to focus on the real issues in Texas like flood recovery and warning systems that work. Vote NO on the bill to redistrict.

Erica Hester
Self, teacher
Bryan, TX

My name is Erica Hester. I am writing to express my opposition to a mid decade redistricting plan.
As a proud Texas teacher, I would like to share with you one of the first grade state standards that teachers in Texas are required to teach.

Social Studies 1.12.a Citizenship.
The student understands characteristics of good citizenship as exemplified by historical figures and other individuals. The student is expected to:
(A) identify characteristics of good citizenship, including truthfulness, justice, equality, respect for oneself and others, responsibility in daily life, and participation in government by educating oneself about the issues, respectfully holding public officials to their word, and voting

I am here to model good citizenship by respectfully holding my public officials to their word. Before the recent hearings you told the people of Texas that you would be using public testimony to determine next steps. Texans showed up to testify in person and online. They made it very clear that they oppose redistricting. Many stayed after public testimony to was cut off to make their voices heard to representatives that stayed to listen.

As our Texas leaders, are you choosing to model good citizenship? Are you pursuing truthfulness? Does this decision pursue justice and equality for all Texans? Are you showing respect for yourself and for the people of Texas? How am I supposed to teach my students that their vote matters when our Texas leaders are redistricting against the will of the people in order to control who is elected?

My final question is this: If a first grader was asked to identify examples of good citizenship in their Texas representatives, would they be able to find any? The people of Texas are counting on you to do the right thing by stopping the mid decade redistricting plan.

Rod Zeman
Family
Amarillo, TX

I'm writing today to express my opinion about the craven plan to disenfranchise democratic voters put forward by republicans in the Texas legislature. Texas is already severely gerrymandered. In the 2024 presidential election (a good year for republicans) 42% of voters voted for the democratic candidate. Meanwhile, only 31% of the Texas congressional delegation are democrats. With the plan to redistrict, 5 democratic seats stand to be lost, putting representation by democrats in the delegation at 18%. That's a 24% mismatch between how voters voted statewide and those representing them in the house. This is plainly unfair and a way for Republicans to mitigate their losses in the midterms at the expense of fair representation for Texas democrats. Politics should be competition for who has the best ideas not who can draw lines cleverly enough to edge out their competitors and choose their voters. If you think your ideas are better, prove it. Fairly.

Kate Hearne
Self/ teacher
Austin, TX

Republicans, do the right thing and oppose this new map. Have some courage and integrity. You know this is improper. It is not the custom to change maps outside of a census year. It is not fair for you to take away representation from millions of Texans who don't happen to agree with you. Instead of excluding a large chunk of the population, why not try to reach more citizens and see what you can do to improve peoples lives? This is a pathetic power grab dictated by the president (and no doubt Dunn and Wilkes) and it's wrong. Why not spend time writing policies that could help prevent future floods? That would actually help citizens, which is your job.

Keri Keck
self, Masters Level Licensed Social Worker
Frisco, TX

Please do NOT try to create new districts within the Great State of Texas this is an unfair and unnecessary practice. This does NOT show faith in the persons who live here to represented by someone that they trust to speak for them. This is wrong! Thank you for doing and showing the nation that Texas will not be bought.

Linda Ann Rodriguez
Self/Retired judge subject to assignment
KYLE, TX

My congressional district, previously CD 21, would change to put my Central Texas home under this proposal in CD 27 which stretches all the way to Port Aransas on the Coast. I have been involved in elections in Hays County for the last 40 years and am well aware of the ramifications of what is proposed. Not only would this enact a dilution of minority voters along the IH35 Corridor in Kyle and Buda in Hays County, it puts us on the far reaches of a district with which we have little in common. At least the presently drawn CD 21 encompassses areas all within the Hill Country. I'm asking that Hays County be left as it is with CDs 21 and 35 and that 35 remain as is. The other side of this coin is the morality of the Legislature's motives and actions, taken at the behest of a POTUS who will not be regarded kindly in our history. I do still believe that the State of Texas stands independent of such racist and politically motivated action. Although I'm a Democrat and not aligned with the current Texas majority, I also still believe in the power of voting. Manipulation of our CDs is reprehensible and only reflects the fear that the views of the current Republican Party are not as popular as some may think. Please do the right thing.

Barbara Story
Self. Retired.
Austin, TX

I am writing as a resident of both the state of Texas and Hays County. It deeply concerns me that our governor and state representatives think it a good idea to answer the call from the White House to redistrict Texas congressional districts.

It is clear to me that the goal of the proposed redistricting maps is to disenfranchise the electorate in certain geographic communities and in communities of color. The Voting Rights Act of 1965 prohibits racial discrimination in voting. House Bill 4 appears to be designed to carry out racial discrimination of minorities in the state of Texas.

Hays County should not be chopped up with some parts of the county, Buda and Kyle, being included with the Gulf Coast. This does not make sense geographically nor with regard to community interests.

I believe redistricting will further polarize the electorate in this country. For example, it is widely known that some blue states are considering redistricting to counter what is being done in Texas. Further polarization is not a path we should be taking at this time. I would ask that the members of the Texas legislature have enough gumption to serve what is in the best interest of all voters in Texas rather than just pay blind allegiance to the person in the White House.

Eric Holt
Self
LAGO VISTA, TX

I consider myself a Republican- small government makes individuals stronger, but I am continually disappointed in actions made by our government. As leaders of Texas, your job is to represent every single Texan, not just the ones who voted for you. This is nothing but a power grab to ensure that Republicans stay in power - serving the people is secondary. 4.8 million Texans voted for Harris/Walz in 2024 - those people are not your enemy. Those people are Texans that you have been elected to represent. If Republicans play this game, Democrats will do the same. I urge you to lead and don't play games. The only point this is a discussion is because the President wants to gain 5 seats - not serve the people of Texas better.

It's embarrassig and it's not leadership - please someone step up for the good of all Texans today and in the future.

Ashley Bluhm
Myself
Richardson, TX

My name is Ashley Bluhm and I am against the redistricting proposal. This is a blatant attempt at a power grab and a waste of time when there are far larger issues at hand that our elected officials should be addressing.

I grow tired watching as officials continue to bow to the will of this power hungry president. I have seen Texas Republicans clap back the moment the federal government dare put a finger over the line and attempt to interfere with the state and yet here we are. Funny how they cave when an undemocratic move stands to benefit them.

Their goal is obvious and I am disgusted. I am tired watching as the selfish actions of those in office impact my friends, family, neighbors, and my community. I am tired of listening to these selfish individuals attempt to excuse and validate this move as normal. This is NOT normal.

Allison Fitzgerald, Ms
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am
Opposed to redistricting.

David Gordon
Self
Austin, TX

The proposed map deprives voters of a meaningful opportunity to have their interests represented in Congress. The only purpose of the map is to dilute democratic representatives from Texas. Chairman Hunter often emphasizes the importance of representing the Public for government employees. This bill does the opposite of that. It only represents one party’s political interest.

Alicia Bonte
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the map!

Francis Bross
Self, A/V Archivist
AUSTIN, TX

Thank you for your time. Unfortunately, I could not make it today as I am working happily at my job, but I felt very strongly the need to express my displeasure with this current redistricting.

I moved to Texas hoping to find a place that truly felt like I could thrive and belong, a place where individual freedom and liberty isn't beholden to a group of fringe activists. I felt under-represented in my past life but here I thought things could feel different. Blue City, Red State, it felt like I could have my needs. However, these maps are an extremely troubling step in turning Texas into one of the least fairly representative states in the union. How is it that cities like Denton, a Dallas Suburb will be sharing a representative with Amarillo, a northern city in the pan-handle. What do they have in common? It's completely absurd to think these locations have anything in common that a single representative can handle.

I left my previous state because I felt like I had no voice in my government. This gerrymandering will rob so many folks of their own voices. If people do not feel represented, they will find a place that fits their values more and leave. And while some in the committee may relish at the thought of these Texans leaving, it will soon turn. Those 40 seats you are promised may never come. I'm sure you've already seen the slow down in some major cities and growth in other states. If you do not listen to the voices of the people, they will find those who do listen.

But most of all, I am worried about the jar of worms this redistricting will open. Blue States will respond in time, which will lead more Red States to follow, and then more Blue and so on and so forth. Soon the largest states in the union will have straggled the voice of 50% of its population. If your idea of governing is silencing the voices of those you disagree with, then you should not be a public servant. You are here for all Texans, left, right, red and blue. Stop trying to treat us like we are just numbers in your ledger.

The Eyes of Texas are upon you now. We are watching closely. But not just the Eyes of Texas.. The eyes of the Union. Let Texas stand up for States Rights, reject the Federal Governments Pressure and stop this ridiculous power grab by a man who does not represent the values Americans should be unifying around. Togetherness, love and mutual respect for everyone opinions. Not silencing those you disagree with. Don't let this be the first step in a long line of regretful mistakes that echo through out the country. Make Texas a Leader of this new century... not a subservient observer.

Thank you for your time.

Michelle Palacios
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. This dilutes the voting power of minority communities. Redistricting should not suppress the voices of minority people all around the state. This is not free of partisan influence when you have the president on TV asking for 5 more seats and this clearly undermines the integrity of the democratic process. Listen to the people for once, please.

Maria Acevedo, Mrs.
Self
San Antonio, TX

It is illegal to be redistricting at this time, and to have a President deliberately asking the governor to do so is a low and disturbing act. He wants to silent the people. He is afraid of a flip. It would be a disgrace and dishonor for Texas to do so. This is discrimination, racism and a stain on Texas. For a state that claims to be pro life and family morals, it sure isn’t doing so by trying to control and take away. Don’t be hypocrites.

Andrew Gaudet
self, educator
AUSTIN, TX

As a resident of Texas, and a constituent in District 49, I am writing to strongly oppose the proposed unscheduled redistricting of House seats, particularly HB 4 by Hunter.
This mid-decade redistricting, occurring outside of the established decennial census cycle, appears to be a politically motivated attempt to secure partisan advantage in the upcoming elections. Such actions undermine the foundational principle of a healthy democracy, where citizens' votes freely shape government decisions and power is balanced between parties.
The redrawing of district lines in a splintered manner often leads to gerrymandering, where elected representatives serve disparate households with distinct needs. As a neuroscientist, I appreciate the need for clear and functional systems; similarly, a truly representative democracy requires districts that enable elected officials to genuinely understand and represent their constituents. This proposed redistricting risks further eroding effective representation for Texans and exacerbating political polarization across the state and nation.
Texas has a crucial opportunity to uphold democratic integrity and reinforce our fragile political system. I urge you to vote against this unscheduled redistricting and to champion a transparent, non-partisan approach to drawing electoral maps that truly serves the people of Texas for generations to come.
Thank you for your time and consideration of this critical issue.
Sincerely,
Andrew Gaudet

Ryan Rayle
Self / Technician
Leander, TX

It’s really sad to see this states representatives bowing to someone like Trump. And for what? The only rationale answer is power. These maps are a sign. I do not support the redrawing of the maps mid decade at the request of a president that legitimately asked you to rig the system so that he doesn’t lose control in the midterms because he knows that he’s going to lose if something doesn’t change.

It’s really shameful and you’re gonna read and hear a lot of of the same viewpoints. Please do not put your political career over the representation of hundreds of thousands of people

Please do the right thing. I really hate that the Republican Party has become such cowards to just one man that everyone knows is a complete fake. You guys are better than this and if one of you turn on him at the same time, it will be the best reality TV show we have ever seen. Please fire Donald Trump by not Redistricting. Thank you .

Dana Myers, MD
self, business consultant
Houston, TX

As Conservative Texans, we live in Harris County. Our homestead is in Congressional District 7, Senate District 15, & House District 134, each held by a member of the Democratic Party.
The 2022 United States Census Bureau Post Enumeration Summary indicated a significant undercount of the Texas population. However, Texas can consider this data when determining the boundaries for its congressional districts.
The 2024 election showed a dramatic change in Texans' voting tendencies. The nearly 14% margin supporting President Trump & the conservative agenda is dramatic and well-documented. Many of these conservative voters were minorities who previously had supported Democratic candidates. Democrats seek to silence these voters.
Not all minorities have changed their voting patterns, but a voter's race is not at issue in this redistricting process — the partisan voting pattern is the sole consideration.
Because of this important partisan voting shift, Texas is justified in redrawing its congressional districts to ensure these voters are not disenfranchised.
Attempts to hinder redistricting are merely an attempt to diminish and even silence the voices of Texas' conservative groups that Democrats have previously considered "their" voters. The Democrats' fight to silence these voters is unacceptable & discriminatory.
In the 2019 case Rucho v. Common Cause, No. 18-422, 588 U.S. 684 (2019), the United States Supreme Court held that" partisan gerrymandering claims present political questions beyond the reach of the federal courts," deferring to the state's constitutional power to draw districts.
Beyond this black letter legal ruling, the Texas Legislature's plan to redraw congressional districts satisfies established principles.

- Compactness: The districts proposed by the Texas Legislature are more compact than before.
- Contiguity: All parts of the proposed new district structures are connected.
- Preservation of counties and other political subdivisions: The proposed districts are purposely drawn to minimize crossing political subdivisions, even though some smaller political subdivisions violate this principle.
- Preservation of communities of interest: The new congressional districts seek to preserve the connections of the communities served by the proposed districts. Arguments against this are race-based arguments that undermine the rights of the majority conservative voters to choose the candidates they prefer and to have their voices heard.
- Core preservation: The proposed districts will preserve the core of their predecessor districts.
- Avoiding incumbent pairing: The proposed districts do not place incumbent representatives in conflict.

Texas voters should not be silenced to preserve the status quo & protect the ineffective Democratic Party that does not represent the values of Texans.
Please ratify the new districts as proposed.
Dana Myers, MD
Jon Spiers, MD, JD

Kimberly Sheppard
self
Fort Worth, TX

Redistricting so that representatives choose their voters, rather than voters choosing their representatives, is anathema to a truly democratic, just, and fair society. Redistricting mid-decade for the express purpose of giving more seats to a party deeply in thrall to fascism is particularly egregious. This is a blatantly unethical power grab. Texas' representatives should reflect the values of ALL Texans.

Christopher Currie, Mr.
Texas State Employees Union
Grand Prairie, TX

To Whom It May Concern:
I am writing to express my opinion on the current plan to facilitate a complete redistricting of congressional House voting districts in Texas. I do not support this endeavor. I only support doing redistricting after a 10 year census count. I do not feel the current redistricting map is fairly drawn. It is very biased and will have long term problematic outcomes with respect to voter participation. Public officials in Texas should endeavor to make sure that all citizens who are 18 and older should feel empowered and encouraged to vote in all elections and feel that their votes are equally weighed against their neighbor's.
Instead of the current redistricting plan which is enacted by members of the state legislature with a dominance of numbers, I have an alternative proposition: A fully independent citizen-led redistricting commission.
This will require a creation of a commission, and I support a constitutional amendment to that effect. Here's how the commission should look:

The Texas Independent Citizens Redistricting Commission can be established and it can also be supported by a state constitutional amendment aimed at curbing partisan gerrymandering. The commission should consist of 13 members: four Republicans, four Democrats and five independents. The Texas Secretary of State oversees the application and selection process, involving a random draw from a vetted pool of applicants to ensure balanced political representation. Ideally there would be representation from most areas of the state.

The commission members must meet specific eligibility criteria, such as being registered voters in Texas and not having held or sought partisan office in Texas for the past six years. This provision minimizes conflicts of interest and maintains independence. The commission operates under transparency guidelines, with all meetings fully open to the public and all documents subject to the Freedom of Information Act.

The commission follows criteria outlined in the Texas Constitution to ensure fairness and representativeness. Compliance with the U.S. Constitution and the Voting Rights Act is the top priority, ensuring equal population distribution and protecting minority voting power.

The voting districts must be geographically contiguous and respect existing municipal and county boundaries to maintain community integrity. The commission also evaluates partisan fairness and competitiveness, but these considerations are secondary to respecting Constitutional soundness. Partisan fairness prevents undue advantages for any political party, while competitiveness encourages voter engagement by enabling substantive and meaningful electoral choices.
The map approval process includes public hearings across the state to gather feedback and suggestions. Proposed maps are released at least 40 days before final approval, providing time for public review. Thank you for your time.

Sharon Baron
self
Colleyville, TX

I believe that honest numbers for redistricting are important. The flood of people into Texas makes it necessary to redraw the lines. Please do!!

Barbara McArthur
self
Austin, TX

I have lived in Texas for many years. I cannot tell you how disappointed I am in the gerrymandered redistricting map that has been proposed. The Republican President won 56.2% of the statewide votes in Texas. He asked Texas legislators to deliver 5 more house seats, and you are trying to oblige him with your map. You are redistricting so that 79% of Texas House seats could be held by Republican House Representative. That is not democracy, it is not fair and it is not moral.
Gerrymandering is destructive socially and politically. The dilution of Black and Brown political representation through racial gerrymandering is a tool of domination and has no place in 2025. Gerrymandering is destructive socially and politically. it demoralizes and disenfranchises voters, fragments communities, increases polarization and ideological segregation, and undermines trust in government.
I ask you to stop this process.
Barbara McArthur
Austin, Texas

Eli Williams, Mr.
Self/Manager
Dallas, TX

Run through the tape! Liberate Dallas from needless Democratic representation, thank you!

Bailey Woodhams
Self
Denison, TX

I am against redistricting

Brent Edminster
Self / Business Owner
Maypearl, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map

Cynthia Gustafson
Self / Attorney
Fort Worth, TX

I do not support this redistricting plan. It is nothing more than a pathetic attempt to curry favor from man who is a rapist and a pedophile. Accepting this map is in direct opposition to everything Texas is supposed to stand for.

Christopher Crow
i, me, mine
Cedar Park, TX

you fucking people are so goddamn pathetic. you want what you want SO FUCKING BAD that you have to cheat to get it. all to protect a fucking pedophile. fuck you all to hell and back, you scumfuck pieces of shit. fuck you.

El Horsfall
self, nonprofit
Austin, TX

This bill is unnecessary and outrageous. Texas has bigger problems to worry about, and redistricting does nothing to solve any of them. This is a blatant power grab and effort to disenfranchise more vulnerable people. Focus on helping Texans recover after horrific flooding and work to prevent future disasters from occurring. Show your constituents you can prioritize their actual needs.

Geoffrey Wool
Self
Austin, TX

This redistricting effort is a naked power grab, pure and simple. You have the votes to change the rules, so you do it. This is not about public service, it's about consolidating power, perverting democracy, and muting dissenting voices. Shame on you for claiming patriotism while you undermine our democratic traditions and institutions.

Lara Davis
Swlf
Tomball, TX

Texas' Redistricting should be done by the states representatives and without bias toward one party over the other. The fact that this administration is cowering to the Trump regime is shameful and corrupt. Your constituents are watching whether you lead us with honor or contempt.

Jeannie Ryan
Self
Lorena, TX

Trump's Texas gerrymander would give Republicans nearly 80% of seats in state where he got 56% of vote. The new redistricting also seems very racist, cutting out districts held by people of color. It appears to be down right cheating. I am very against it.

Regina Remo
Aldine
Spring, TX

I am a proud member of the Aldine AFT and I am a support personnel. I find it very unfair to conduct a mid year redistricting vote. It will try and stop the minority population from being intertwined between other races.,

Ella Kugler, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

I am in opposition of the actions of Republicans in regard to the composition of the districts for the election of members of the United States House of Representatives from the State of Texas. I am concerned that the voting power of minorities will be reduced and the state of our democracy in Texas and the United States. Regarding the potential redistricting of the city of Austin, it is clear that Austin is a diverse fast growing city with a strong Democratic stronghold, and that redistricting this area would eliminate the will of its people. The Republican representatives of Texas express cowardice in that they would shirk the will of their constituents and role as public servants in favor of bending their knee to the will of Trump.

Chris DeBremaecker
Self, nurse
Johnson City, TX

I resent the use of my tax dollars paying for your salaries while you Republicans seek to further disenfranchise citizens of Texans by even more convoluted gerrymandering.
Just because you can, doesn't make it right. If you don't know that this is wrong, either you weren't raised right or you've sold your souls to the highest bidder. In this case - Trump.
The last gerrymander threw me into a distorted district stretching from Williamson County to Kerr County..We are pretty rural in Blanco County and have not so much in common with fairly urbanized Williamson County.
Districts need to be represented by people who are familiar with the issues of their district. They need to be advocating for issues affecting most of the people living in geographical proximity. Issues in Kerrville are far different than those in Round Rock.
Y'all have forgotten you are there to represent your voters, not to rubber stamp your party's edicts.
Shame on you!

Mackenzie Geiger
Self
Austin, TX

I vehemently oppose redirecting the districts for members do the House of Representatives. This is clearly an illegal and unconstitutional attempt by the governor, directed by the tyrannical president, to steal power from what they know to be the majority of American people who do not agree nor stand for the tyranny with which the current executive branch is attempting to control the American people. Please follow your oath to lead the American people and stand up against those trying to abuse the people of Texas by stealing their voting power. This restricting is done in incredibly poor conscious. You all should be doing everything in your power to support the victims of the horrific Hill country flood, and prevent that from happening again, instead of working to destroy America's democracy.

Lulu Robles, Ms
Self
El Paso, TX

Please do not go through on redistricting Texas, this is unlawful and the people will not stand for this.

Ann Brown
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose this blatant partisan redistricting of Texas. This is wrong, wrong, wrong.

Sara Davis
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting plans in this bill. Realignment should be done following the decennial census, if warranted, not at the whims of an egomaniacal president in a mad grab to maintain power. The Republicans have run this state for more than 30 years and should take responsibility for their so-called accomplishments, rather than further disenfranchising the citizens of this state. I remember the proposed maps from 2000 - those were found to be unconstitutional and I have no doubt the proposed maps will be too. Shame on you.

Alicia Kuehn
Self
Houston, TX

I oppose the proposed redistributing map. The gerrymandering in Texas is already horrendous and this makes it worse. Changing the maps to try to ensure you retain seats when you've lost the faith of your constituents is despicable.

Kendall Toarmina
Self
HOUSTON, TX

This entire redistricting event is a racist attack on the millions of citizens of Texas. This is anti-democracy and anti-American.

The Legislature's round of proposed maps carves up neighborhoods, silences our voices and tramples on our civil rights. In Harris County alone, my historically Black district is proposed to be erased entirely, another is proposed to be packed to dilute its power, and a historically Latino district is proposed to be cracked—all to erase our voices.

This is immoral and unconstitutional. It's just plain wrong. We have laws in this country. They apply to everyone, and they apply all the time. This clearly breaks the law of the Voting Rights Act. Do your jobs, and do the right thing. Leave our districts alone.

Yvette Cantu, Dr.
Self
La Feria, TX

It is so absurd and a total disregard of the people you serve to redraw maps. Doing this to the people of the Rio Grande Valley is an abusive if power to an already extremely marginalized group of people. Honestly it feels like racism in this state is the underlining thread. Wouldn't tackling policies that actually help the people of Texas be more important? People are struggling to survive in this economy, pass bills for expanded healthcare, control the electric grid, anything that remotely helps working class families!

Kelly Ohair, Ms.
Self
Allen, TX

Native Texan here. This is cheating. This is n representing the people of Texas. This is "rigging" elections to quote your authoritarian leader who said there will be no more elections if he is elected and we won't have to vote again. This is horrific and goes against the constitution. This is also discrimination against people of color. It's too bad Republicans have to cheat to win. That says a lot. I don't think either party should use gerrymandering to win. I consider myself and independent and vote for the best candidate. Right now I am terrified of the state of our country and the our elected leaders bow down to a want to be dictator and narcissist. It's sad to watch.

Fannie Akingbala
self
Austin, TX

I am baffled by the efforts of the Republican Party to dilute the power and silence the voice of the people of Texas in the name of the president and partisan politics. As a child I watched in anguish as my parents tried to figure out how to vote once they had the right to do so. That was over 60 years ago; and here we are in 2025, facing an unprecedented power grab while trampling on the rights of people to vote for their representation in their own communities.

Why must you continue to ignore the will of the people to please a powerful few? Why do you pretend to listen to and care about our desires, when in reality, you do not. Your actions prove this every day.

I oppose any plan for redrawing the congressional district maps in Travis County and in the State of Texas. I vote no to further gerrymandering and splitting our communities apart. We deserve and should have the right to choose public officials who live in our vicinity and know the people, problems, and issues in that vicinity.

We talk about putting the Ten Commandments in our public schools to teach values and respect for each other and human life. It appears to me that our Republican friends and our president need to go back and read and follow the Ten Commandments.

The new proposal for redistricting Texas is pure gerrymandering, cheating, and a blatant attempt to disenfranchise/squash voters who do not think, act, believe, or look like you. Stop the suppression of the people, stop the rigging, cheating, and stealing. Our State of Texas and our nation deserves better.

Ami Gandhi, Ms.
Self, Educator
Cedar Park, TX

I am writing to express my extreme disapproval of and disgust at Governor Abbott calling and using a Special Session to conduct a rare mid-decade act of redistricting in order to SILENCE the voices of MANY of HIS constituents. I find it truly disgusting and truly corrupt that he has redrawn the map in such a way to eliminate Democrat House seats from areas where the majority may vote Democrat; that he is slicing up the majority in parts of Texas so he can ensure more Republican seats in the house, a FALSE representation of the people who live in those parts of Texas. I also find it abhorrent that Governor Abbott has sold Texans, the people who have put and kept him in his office, in order to shamelessly do the bidding of President Trump. These actions are shameful, corrupt, and illegal, and I am very much opposed to any kind of resdistricting occurring during this Special Session. I sincerely hope and pray that Governor Abbott and his administration are called to task for their failure to govern by any kind of honorable moral or ethical code and that they are held accountable for their corrupt actions. Thank you for your time.

Shaler Keenum
Self
Waco, TX

Further gerrymandering of the state of Texas inaccurately represents the population of our state. For a state that claims to support freedom and individual liberty, gerrymandering directly opposes these proclaimed values and disenfranchises voters. The districts in Texas should be drawn to accurately represent the people within our state.

Ginnifer Joe
Self, mental health graduate student
Austin, TX

I oppose redistricting as I see this effort as gerrymandering and an attempt to further suppress voters in Texas.

Charles Ellis Self - AI Trainer
Arlington, TX

I appose HB4 - The redistricting bill.

Dee Miller, Ma
Self
San Antonio, TX

NO CONGRESSIONAL RESISTRICTING!! NO KINGS IN THE USA!!

Maxwell Pederson
self
Austin, TX

I oppose unnecessary mid-census redistricting. I do support compact districts reflecting communities of interest.

Ann De Rouffignac
self
Austin, TX

I thought the elected representatives to the US House were supposed to represent their constituents. I moved to Austin in 1968; then left in 1977 for work; then returned to live permanently in 2009. I'm an Austinite. I do not live in rural Texas or small town Texas. The latter have their representatives in Congress. Now the Republican Party wants all Austin US house representatives to be elected from a group of people who have little if anything in common. Big city issues are different from rural ones. Both important; Both require fair and undiluted representation. Austin needs representatives who can focus on Austin's needs period. This bill is truely unfair to me and to my city.

Marie Mina
self, student
Houston, TX

Texas's redistricting plan faces strong calls for change due to significant data-driven and legal concerns.

The current maps, drawn in 2021, have faced multiple lawsuits and legal challenges, with federal courts having found at least one of Texas's maps to be in violation of the Voting Rights Act every decade since its inception. We argue the new proposal to create five new GOP-leaning districts further dilutes the voting power of minority groups, particularly in urban areas of Dallas and Houston. While Texas's population growth since 2020 has been driven by communities of color, the proposed maps would create more white-majority districts and reduce the number of competitive districts. The recent redistricting efforts are a political maneuver to solidify power rather than to fairly represent the state's changing demographics. While partisan gerrymandering is permissible, any plan that intentionally dilutes minority voting strength is unconstitutional and must be changed.

Could you all please explain to me directly how this redistricting effort is necessary, with specific facts and data?

Michelle Tull Individual
Austin, TX

Your redistricting plan appears designed to further disenfranchise minority voters and democrats. Our state has a long and terrible history of gerrymandering and voter suppression. As Republicans seem to believe that they can't win without cheating.
You have sworn an oath. Your job is to represent, not rule over, the citizens of Texas. Do your job. Do not continue to betray Texans by drawing new districts that are even worse than what we have already.

Rosemary Miranda, Ms
Self retired librarian and attorney
Edinburg, TX

This redistricting proposal leaves south Texas residents de facto without representation in the congress
While aimed at Mexican Americans and blacks it is anti democratic
And is only done to appease Trump and the far right
We are hopefully not yet an autocracy although I have strong doubts
Please reject this

Martha Sanchez
Self- semi retired teacher
San Antonio, TX

I want my vote to count because it is my right to fair representation. Don't deny democrats equal representation!

Ronda Meldrum
SELF
Katy, TX

Please have the courage to stand up and represent the people of your state. This is gerrymandering, trying to overturn the local people's voting voices to satisfy the desires of a national party. You were elected by the people to represent the people. Please be fair to all.

Sarah Alverson
self, engineer
Austin, TX

Do not pass this redistricting bill. The map is still being questioned legally and we should not be allowed to implement this without being able to prove that it does not disenfranchise Texans such as myself. Texas will always be a red state but allow the democratic minded people to be represented. You do not need to crush out all representation for democrats just to have your way. I wholly oppose this and see this as a flagrant act of oppression against Texans such as myself.

Lauren Benson
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

I oppose this obvious abuse of power/attempt to silence constituents by arbitrarily redistricting. Our elected representatives should spend more time working to make bipartisan changes for the benefit of their constituents instead of wasting time in special sessions for this.

Susan Pickens
Self
Austin, TX

Please do not redistrict at this time. Let the people fairly decide who they want to represent them.

Reagan Brendle
Self
New Braunfels, TX

Texas should be focusing on flood relief and prevention and not on mid decade blatant gerrymandering. All Texans deserve to be represented, and this attempt to silence the voices of constituents is strongly opposed by the people.

Karen Steinberg
Self, retired
El Paso, TX

I am expressing my opposition to Congressional redistricting outside of the normal procedure and under the usual commission. This appears to be a blatant attempt to gerrymander the voting boundaries for the next election, hoping for a larger number of republican representatives in Texas. It is ridiculous to draw a representation boundary moving more parts of the El Paso district to a representative in San Antonio who never visits the area!!!

Cyd Goldfarb
self
El Paso, TX

I am against redistricting of the El Paso area. As part of our democracy, representation by someone who lives in our city is written into the constitution. Any attempt at redistricting outside of census years is unconstitutional, illegal, and criminal.

Charmian Wells, Dr.
Self, Professor
Denton, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public educator in Denton County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Bettina Patterson
Self
Houston, TX

I am against the map that was redrawn and submitted in late July 2025 to limit fair representation of people who reside in the current Congressional Districts 18, 9, 29. Moreover, the maps were not submitted to citizens for review in time before the current hearing held today. Governor Abbott and the redistricting chairperson placated the citizens of Texas by holding 3 previous public hearings without sharing the map, which they both were privy to. Governor Abbot and the chairperson of the redistricting committee blatantly lied to all citizens of Texas and have denied fair and due process. These maps also impact other Congressional Districts, which did not host hearings when the map was not available for public comments. I live in CD 18 and it has been vacant since March 5, 2025 when Sylvester Turner passed. This seat was previously held by Sheila Jackson Lee, who not only fought to ensure that federal dollars were allocated for her constituents, but all Houstonians benefitted from the legislation she supported. I want to be able to vote for someone who has my best interests at heart and the interests of my city. Someone who listens to my concerns and represents me on the local, state, and national levels. My Senators, Cornyn and Cruz have done nothing to improve the welfare of Houstonians nor the city's failing infrastructure. They, along with Governor Abbott, continue to support Trump, who has dismantled services in which my federal tax dollars are allocated. I work in healthcare and have seen the immediate impacts on care provided - decreased staffing, research studies halted, cancer patients not able to afford care because slashes in Medicaid, insurance companies limiting coverage, and increasing fees. Again I say not to this bill and I hope that the committee stands up for what is rgiht and does not succumb to the evil that is pervasively rampant and deeply embedded in Republican representatives and legislation. To love God is to love humanity. This bill and many bills that have passed before it do not reflect the love of God towards all people.

Scott Woolley yourself
JUSTIN, TX

I support this bill to Keep Texas, Texas!!

Warren Horgan
self
Fort Worth, TX

I strongly oppose this redistricting proposal.

Texas has a long history of passing discriminatory election laws, voter suppression, and racially gerrymandered maps. This continues that pattern.

Inequality - the idea that the rich make the decisions while the poor have no say in the matter and yet they bear the consequences, describes the racial discrimination we see today in these gerrymandered maps. These maps give the privileged few control over the working class and people of color whose votes are diluted and suppressed.

We need fairly chosen representatives who will be responsive to the needs of all the people, not just controlled by billionaires and special interests. This is why we need districts that reflect the diversity of our state.

District lines should preserve and protect the needs of the communities within them, especially the needs of historically disenfranchised communities.
Districts should be able to elect candidates that reflect the diversity of that district to ensure the needs of the district are well represented, not diminished.

The State is using racial discrimination in the redistricting process to prevent people of color from asserting their full voice and power. This racial redistricting will dilute and suppress the votes of people of color.
You will be disenfranchising minorities already badly harmed by racially discriminating district lines.

There is no justification for this congressional redistricting. It is unnecessary
This is nothing more than an attempt to silence many of the voices from communities of color in the state of Texas and it is racist.

Diana South
Self
Jasper, TX

Don't let Washington run our elections

Bethel Mejia
self
Irving, TX

Strongly oppose. This bill is taxation without representation, a founding principle of this country. Passing this bill is anti American and anti democratic. I am currently and independent voter. If this passes I will register as a Democrat and help each campaign that touches Dallas.

Adriana Palmeros
Self
Helotes, TX

Gerrymandering in Texas is a direct attack on our democracy.

When politicians manipulate district lines to entrench their power, they're not serving the people — they're silencing them. In Texas, we've seen blatant efforts to draw maps that dilute the voices of communities of color, split up neighborhoods, and rig the outcome of elections before a single vote is cast. This isn't fair representation. It's political theft.

The foundation of our democracy is the idea that voters choose their leaders — not the other way around. But when districts are carved up in secret, behind closed doors, with no transparency or accountability, that foundation crumbles. Gerrymandering distorts the political landscape, creating safe seats that protect incumbents, fuel extremism, and leave entire communities without meaningful representation.

Texans deserve better. We deserve competitive districts that reflect real communities, not bizarrely shaped maps designed for partisan gain. We deserve a system where every vote carries equal weight, where voters feel empowered, and where leaders are held accountable. We deserve a democracy that works for everyone — not just the powerful few.

The fight against gerrymandering is not about party. It's about fairness, integrity, and the future of our state. It's about ensuring that every Texan — regardless of race, zip code, or political affiliation — has an equal voice in shaping our laws and our lives.

This is not just a political issue. It's a moral one. And we cannot afford to stay silent.

Democracy is not a game. It's a promise. And in Texas, we must defend it with everything we've got.

Sharon Crickmer
myself
Austin, TX

I am a 6th generation Texan. I have lived here all of my life and would hate to think that my voice may not be heard in the Texas House or Senate. HB 4 is a sign that Democracy is aggressively being corrupted by the Governor and Republican Legislators of Texas. HB-4's only purpose is to steal my right as a United States Citizen to vote and be represented by the Legislator of my choice. If passed it will also set a dangerous precedent of cancelling out the opinions of millions of voters in the state of Texas. When will our STATE legislature stand up for the rights and choices of its very citizens and not be bullied around by whomever is serving in the White House? I know that you are facing a difficult situation. I only ask that you consider the rights of ALL Texas citizens to choose our own state representatives without interference from Washington, DC. HB-4 is bad for Texas and awful for the United States. Please as a Legislator sworn to support Democracy, to support our state and to support our country, do not vote for this bill. Thank You

Gail Grace
Self; Healthcare Consultant
Dallas, TX

If you are winning you don't need to gameplay and cheat. Legislators and lawmakers must stop monkeying around with voter rights and voter access. Voter rights and free and fair elections are not yours to constantly assault, they are yours to protect. You are elected by the people for the people, all the people. The redistricting and gerrymandering that has become a hallmark of the Republican party is unlawful, unconstitutional, and unconscionable. Marginalizing the communities you are elected to represent is just plain un-American. Your personal gain isn't a part of the calculation and your political party's agenda is not fair representation of the people who elected you to protect their voices and their freedoms. Personally, I cannot understand how so many have lost their way, your hate and desire for power is doing untold damage to our democracy. Bowing to a tyrant's quota, shame on you, you've sold your soul to the devil and you do not represent the ideals set forth by the founding fathers. You have heard the people of Texas - stop this now. Winners don't have to cheat, shame on you.

Laurie Pomerantz
Personal
San Antonio, TX

I am opposed to this bill and disgusted by the tactic entirely. There should be no redistricting this year. There has been no new census data and this is a senseless diversion from other real legislation that helps all Texans. Please stop the process.

Erin Inks
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am vehemently against this special session and this bill to redistrict Texas congressional districts, with the intent to pack the US House of Representatives with more Republicans who do not represent their constituents. This constitutes illegal gerrymandering and should not be entertained under pressure from the federal government. Reject this bill!

Linda Maldonado
Self/Retired
San Antonio, TX

I commented earlier about CD 21 and changing Bexar residents to CD 21. Note that Comal County has had a population increase of 40,000 since the 2020 census.

Bexar County also had a population increase of 100,000 but the determining the number involved in the specific area would be complicated.

I am against this bill.

Paul Jarmon
Self, retired
Austin, TX

An unnecessary attempt at appeasing a convicted felon, President Trump, so as to keep a Republican majority in the U.S. House thereby reducing his risk of embarrassment come 2026 midterm elections.

Anne Reynolds
Self, retired
Austin, TX

Lloyd Doggett has been a faithful and wise Congressman for many years. I do not approve of the changes which have been proposed. HB-4 is bad for Austin and bad for Texas. Please do not vote for this bill.
Thank you,
Anne Reynolds

Kathryn Hudson, Ms.
Self, Sales Executive
Austin, TX

"As my representative, I expect you to OPPOSE redistricting! Gerrymandering is illegal, and I do not support suppression of any vote. SAY NO TO REDISTRICTING! The world and God are watching you."

Ashley Brightly
Self
Austin, TX

ABSOLUTELY UNACCEPTABLE BEHAVIOR from elected officials. Elections should be free and fair and gerrymandering should be illegal. The way districts have been drawn up is ALREADY unfair in favor of republicans. Further gerrymandering is tyrannical. Stealing elections is wrong and Texas is better than that. Stop bending to trumps every whim and shut this down IMMEDIATELY.

Robert (Rob) Drury self, insurance agent
San Antonio, TX

The redistricting plan is necessary to ensure a more accurate demographic representation in elections. I am solidly in favor.

Linda Sigmund, Ms
Self
El Paso, TX

This proposed redistricting directly conflicts with the needs of the El Paso community. I strongly object to this illegitimate move to disenfranchise the citizens you have vowed to faithfully serve is unconscionable. Do not do this!!

William Byus
Self
Austin, TX

In the middle of the decade, state leaders are redrawing congressional maps with no new Census and no public demand. These proposed maps silence the voices of millions of voters, solely at the request of the federal government. The great State of Texas should not, without warrant or the will of the citizens of the Texas, simply redraw our own state district lines at the adhoc request of the executive branch.

Sally Madrid
Self
El Paso, TX

I have lived and worked here all my life. I am currently retired and hoping for the best in the future for myself, my children and my grandchildren but I don't see that happening if our State funding is sent somewhere else. I worked as a public servant for the State of Texas and always believed that our elected officials were doing everything possible in our best interest and that's what we tell our children but now I doubt we will ever see any support from our representatives if they go forward with this redistricting. Living on a fixed income is already hard enough but once our medical benefits are cut it will be even harder.

Fred Villa
Self
El Paso, TX

Do not redistrict El Paso County in favor of a representative who lives near or in San Antonio. Representation by someone 565 miles away in south central Texas is not fair representation. It would be un-American.

Laurie Hardwick
self
Houston, TX

The current redistricting effort is not necessary and intended to dilute minority representation (and Democrat seats) in the State of Texas. This has been clearly stated by Republican leadership at both federal and state levels. Redistricting should be driven by demographic facts, based on census data, and not on the desire to have political control.

I am a resident in District 18, one of the targeted areas, and we have been left without representation for the past 6 months because Gov. Abbott chose not to call for a special election. We are already unrepresented and now this effort threatens to change the boundaries of the district to gain more Republican seats. I am not in a minority category, but believe strongly that all citizens deserve to be heard and counted fairly.

You were elected to serve the constituents in the state of Texas, not the current president or governor. It is imperative that you vote against this unnecessary and unethical redistricting effort.

All Texans deserve to be heard, not just those who support the party in power.

Cyral Miller, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

In a democracy, voters should have reasonable opportunity to elect representatives who truly reflect their values. We know that Texas has already worked hard to dilute and dismiss the votes of minority groups. This mid-cycle effort at Trump's request is a grotesque political overreach. Safeguard democracy and vote NO on these ravially gerrymandered maps!

Carlos Gutierrez, Mr.
Constituents
El Paso, TX

Please do NOT implement this unfair, unjust and borderline criminal bill. The revolutionary war was fought over taxation without representation. This bill ferments this antagonistic control by the ruling party and if passed will result in angry action by those being misrepresented! Think with your conscience and not your fear of a wannabe dictator!

Linda Zoblotsky, Ms.
"Self"
Plano, TX

Please ban partisan gerrymandering and strengthen protections for communities of color.

Ethan Elkins
Self
Houston, TX

This Redistricting is dangerous to all Texans. The mid decade redistricting will not be in the best interest of any minorities and in fact is moving towards allowing for a single political party to control an entire state. As a native Texan I do not believe any one political party should ever have full control of anything and we would be idiots to allow this to happen.

emily guerrero
Self
Austin, TX

This mid-decade redistricting is not normal. It’s a calculated, anti-democratic power grab.

We deserve to elect our own leaders in the government. There is simply so logical reason for this outside of political gain/control.

This move is disgusting and immoral. It makes me ashamed of our so called great state of Texas.

Susan Butkiewicz
self and family
EL PASO, TX

So, are the republicans going to prove to everyone that they no longer run their own party let alone make up their own minds?? Trump wants what is good for Trump with no thought to anyone else. Haven't they learned that yet? There is no way the people of America will let him go for another term and that leaves YOU to be the targets for regret/get back by the people regarding all that Trump has done to demolish our country and democracy. WAKE UP!!!! Or are you all a bunch of stiffs waiting for burial. Abbott is merely following Trump like the second dog in a line. He won't have a prayer either. Ask your children what type of world and democracy they want you to leave for them. Time to think of them and not your own political future. Think of THEIR FUTURE. we just did redistricting a few years ago. Abbot was not even thinking about it until Trump TOLD HIM TO DO IT! Be a man Abbott and do your own thinking and listen to your grandchildren. GOD HELP US ALL!!

Richard Clark, Mr
Retired
Pasadena, TX

Gerrymandering was allowed only to make a pathway for all Texans to have equal representation in the state congress.

Joe Bruegger, Mr
Self
Dallas, TX

At least Republicans are being honest about their call for new maps - power. They’re interested in choosing their voters, not vice versa. For some reason they follow King Donald’s demands to the letter - at the expense of our democracy. Here’s a chance for Republicans to do what’s best for the country and not just best for Trump. I doubt they have the moral fiber.

Sara Schulz
Self, Project Manager
Austin TX, TX

Hello! The redistricting map would split my small, municipal urban district neighborhood into 3 different districts. One of those districts touches the state of Louisiana. All three of the districts extend hours outside of my area. It is my deepest with that my elected officials are out there in the world representing me -- taking the wants and needs of myself and my neighbors to our government and representing us there. Districts like these mean that all of my representatives are hours away which makes it challenging to meet with them and prevents those representatives from spending any real time with their far flung constituents. It also means that rarely am I truly represented in government. Please, please, don't do this.

Elena Aguayo-Aguirre
self
El Paso, TX

Not in favor!!! What happened to equality and fairness? Are elected officials representing Trump or us? I vote against this redistricting!!!

Karen Conyngham, Mrs.
Self Employed
Austin, TX

I have lived in Austin, TX since March 1989. I don't remember EVER having a democrat represent me in the US Congress until Lloyd Doggett was redistricted to TX 37, where I live. I've never seen any town halls being held by the previous congressional reps for my district (Lamar Smith, Michael McCaul and worst of all, Chip Roy). I was very happy to FINALLY have someone to truly represent me. I have had the honor of working with Rep. Doggett; he has brought much-needed attention to conditions at the Austin airport (and passed helpful legislation to aid AUS); he is a defender of Ukraine and a woman's right to choose. TX 37 holds regular town halls with high turnout; we want to KEEP Lloyd as our representative.

While I don't live in Rep. Casar's district, I am also a strong support of him and know that his constituents want to keep him!

This redistricting is totally unnecessary and a bold, unconstitutional attempt by Trump to keep the House and Senate in Republican hands. Do NOT fall prey to this cheating scheme. DO NOT REDISTRICT TX 37 or TX 35.

Hilarie Benedetto
Self
Grapevine, TX

This mid-decade Redistricting is unconstitutional. Stop violating Texans' voting rights! Start representing all of your constituents not a power grabbing autocrat!!!

Sylvia Coulson
self
Waxahachie, TX

I support the redistricting map which I have seen. It better represents the voters in the areas. Thank you for your attention to this.

Jennifer Wollock, Dr. and Mrs.
Self Professor of English
College Station, TX

This is a pernicious bill. It is being forced on Texas by out of state interests, and it will backfire. Let cooler heads prevail. Stand up for Texas and the rule of law. Thank you for listening to the people who vote and who work here. Our boots are on the ground and we know what we are talking about,

Angela Coker Americans
Fort Worth, TX

Redistricting is a Republican power grap. You know you have no way of keeping your seat otherwise after all the lawlessness that has been allowed to happen all over the country. You work for the people, not your stock portfolios.

Martha John
self/ university professor
Fort Worth, TX

As a Texas AFT member educator in Tarrant County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Kellye Justice
Self Real Estate
Waxahachie, TX

I support this map as drawn.

Ruby Faye Woolridge
Democracy Rising
Arlington, TX

I have been a Texas voter for 41years, and I cannot recall a president of the United States telling the governor and State Legislature to take away my opportunity to have a choice in selecting my congressperson. Redistricting is doing that and it is wrong. This gerrymandering request in mid-decade is illegal and is a blatant tyrannical move by Donald Trump and his minions. I am sick and tired of being sick and tired of the racial political games being played by the Republican Party. This is a version of the Dixiecrats part 2. It was wrong the first time and it is wrong now. I resent spending taxpayer money to do the bidding of greedy power hungry grifters in the Republican Party. Micah 6:8 says,
"What does God require of us?, to do justice, love mercy and walk humbly with him. This Redistricting sham by Republicans who call themselves Christians is unjust, without mercy and lacks humility for the needs of humanity. Do not Redistrict my Congressional district until after the 2030 census has been taken as required by law.

Jose Luna, MD
self
EL PASO, TX

I am writing to express my strongest opposition to the proposed redistricting plan currently under consideration. As a concerned citizen, the proposed plan, if enacted would be slap in the face to our community and an insult to our democratic principles. The purpose of redistricting is to ensure equal and equitable representation for all citizens reflecting the principle of "one person one vote." The proposed lines are a blatant and underhanded intent to dilute the voting power our community for other's political gain. This plan threatens to fragment our community and disenfranchise us from a truly democratic process. By creating irregularly shaped and non-contiguous districts the plan will disenfranchise voters. If appears that the proposed changes are driven by purely political aspirations than by a genuine commitment to a fair and representative governance for all El Pasoans. I urge you to reconsider the proposed plan for one that is more transparent and inclusive. More focused on preserving our community's interest, and committing to fair and competitive elections.

Sally Schuhmacher
Self
Austin, TX

I'm very opposed to redistricting right now. It should only be done after a new census is done. Otherwise, it's extremely unfair!

Alma Kanorr
Self retired public school teacher
El Paso, TX

I am writing as a native El Pasoan for 63 years. I am also a retired public schoolteacher. I am asking that you stop the redistricting. Any changes will effect our city in negative ways. We need representation from someone local, not someone that lives 500 miles away and isn't in touch with our citizens. We are a part of Texas as much as Austin, Dallas, San Antonio and Houston. We are often forgotten and not counted. Do not allow our voices to go unheard. Thank you.

L. Miner, Dr.
Self, retired
Grapevine, TX

The curious fact is, redistricting, was already done, and the time for reassessing this matter has not come up again. Concensus: too soon and rushed.
The other curious fact is that Pres. Trump demanded that Texas redraw the maps and deliver 5 more districts for Republicans. Concensus: D.Trump asked you to redistricting so as to get 5 more Republican districts. Illegal ask.
The othe point is, Texas Republicans have sought to accomplish Trump's demand for 5 more Republican seats/ districts.
This illegal and immoral action has been done out in the open, brazenly, as if the bully show of bravado will make it seem normal.
We see you. We see your simpering, cowering, pathetic bootlicking. Shame on you! May your soul feel the weight of your immorality. May your grow old knowing that your actions have caused immense suffering. I ask God to give you the same mercy you have shown others.

Very truly yours, &etc.

Jean Norris, MS
self, self employed
El Paso, TX

To the Honorable Members of the Texas Legislature,

I am writing as a resident of El Paso, with deep personal ties to Brewster and Presidio counties, where I grew up and where my family continues to ranch and live. This redistricting proposal threatens both my home and heritage — dividing regions that share real economic, cultural, and historical bonds.

El Paso is not just a border city. It’s a hub of military, trade, and health care — home to Fort Bliss, the VA Health Care Center, and our international airport. Stripping these institutions from our district and tying them to distant parts of the state would be a blow to meaningful representation and local decision-making.

Out in Brewster and Presidio counties, the land is wide and rugged, and the communities are resilient — but also vulnerable. Rural life comes with challenges: limited access to healthcare, poor infrastructure, and fragile economies. As someone with active ranching and family interests there, I know how critical it is to have leaders who understand the unique demands of West Texas life. This plan would lump those counties into districts that have little in common with their needs, silencing voices that already struggle to be heard.

There’s no new census, no court order, no emergency — only politics driving this redistricting attempt. It’s unjust, it’s unnecessary, and it’s harmful.

Keep El Paso whole. Honor the legacy and future of West Texas. Reject this proposal and draw maps that reflect real communities and real people.

Sincerely, Jean Donnell Norris

Martin Silva
self/retired
El Paso, TX

I support the redistricting in Texas.

Selene Torres
Self
Pharr, TX

I am in opposition and do not support redistricting. Stop trying to gerrymander, and start working for the people instead of trying to gerrymander 5 more republican seats. The people see what you're doing, and we're not in support of this.

Monti Woodley
Self
Austin, TX

I am against this bill! Stop messing with our right to fair elections. This is a part of history and we do not want to continue a legacy of voter suppression against marginalized communities.

Olivia Cline
Myself
Frisco, TX

I'm FOR Redistricting in Texas and want my State Representative, JARED PATTERSON to YES!!

Thomas Mikelson
self, network engineer
El Paso, TX

Mid-decade redistricting is unnecessary. No evidence presented for large population redistribution since 2020 census.

Erin Green
Self, mom and educator
Pflugerville, TX

I DO NOT support this attempt at gerrymandering.

kathryn del calvo
Personal
Southlake, TX

Will you fill out this public comment form in support of HB4? Takes seconds. The hearing is 10am. In the comment, you can simply say "I stand and support of the HB4 redistricting map."

Emily Anders
self
Austin, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Michael Deffendall
Self
Schertz, TX

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the committee, thank you for your time. As one of the many Texans that will be impacted be the proposed maps, I stand in favor of them. First, and most importantly, they make geographical sense. At least in my district. My current CD is CD 28,running from my Guadalupe county to the Mexico border. Now,there are lots of differences between the NE San Antonio suburbs and life at the border. The new map has a sizable chuck of Bexar and the whole of Guadalupe, Wilson and Karnes. This is a geographically consistent map, even if life and needs of Eastern Bexar aren't quite the same as rural areas of Guadalupe, Wilson and Karnes. But Guadalupe too has good sized cities to deal with. And I believe it makes sense to have a district slumped in 3 and partial counties. Instead of the current mess which is our Congressional map. I strongly urge passage of HB 4.

Thank you members for your consideration.

Amy Gallo
Self, Nonprofit Director
Austin, TX

I oppose the redistricting proposed in this bill. I know this is an explicit grab of power by the Texas GOP and will not reflect the will of the people in Texas that make this state great. I urge you to have the humanity to toss this aside and to democratic leaders in the house and Senate to have the courage to use any means necessary to stop the passage of this illegal and immoral mid decade redistricting effort.

Joy Busch
self/Development Professional
Grand Prairie, TX

I've reviewed the proposed redistricting maps and do not support this effort. These districts were previously described as race-neutral, yet the changes now being proposed seem aimed at weakening minority representation. Voters have already made their choices based on the current maps.

I respectfully urge you to oppose these redistricting efforts and instead focus on the real challenges facing Texans today. Redrawing maps now not only disrupts the democratic process, it diverts attention from the issues that truly matter to our communities.

Please vote no on these proposals and prioritize the work Texans need from their leaders.

Kelsey Harrison
Self
Round Rock, TX

The gerrymandering of Texas districts that are known to lean more democratic to pander to President Trump is absolutely unacceptable. This move is so clearly not in an effort to serve the people of Texas better but for republican lawmakers to stay in power. To move forward with this redistricting plan is self righteous, short sighted, and divisive. The same politicians currently supporting this plan would be enraged if democratic lawmakers were attempting this outrageous plan.

Ashley Tanner
Self, manager
Plano, TX

Texas House Committee,

I’m writing to oppose this mid cycle Redistricting push that will disenfranchise millions of Texas voters.

You should be spending this time helping Central Texas and passing bills to alleviate the damage caused by the devastating floods and passing legislation to mitigate future disasters. Instead you’re spending your time appeasing a president who doesn’t have the best interests of our state in mind.

Please do the right thing for ALL Texans and oppose redistricting.

Thank you

Marcia Daughtrey, Ms
Self
Tyler, TX

Fair representation is happening in Texas at this time. Texas is welcoming 1,000 new residents everyday. Current precincts, and congressional districts are lopsided. Representation needs to be rearranged asap. Let’s get this done. Vote yes

Shani Durland
Self
Austin, TX

Opposed

Ale DeAngulo
Self
Austin, TX

I appose this bill.
I’m against the proposed redistricting plan. These maps are clearly designed to silence voters and weaken fair representation. How could we call this country a representative democracy when my representative could leave 4 hours away from me. I need a representative that truly represents my interests. Someone that stands for what I believe in and that can empathize with me as a constituent. You know this is wrong, please do the right thing.

Glenn Story
Self SOUTHLAKE, TX

I support HB 4 written by Hunter for Texas redistricting.

KarenSue Zoeller, Ms
Self
Boerne, TX

Nothing but a Trump/Abbott/GOP plan to disenfranchise voters to keep control of the US House. Please stop the effort and respect the voters of the districts who may not agree with you. Everyone has the right to vote and be represented.

Bernadine Nowell
Self
Austin, TX

I live in House District 48, I am a retired teacher and live on a pension. My neighborhood is a diverse mix of individuals and families. I do not believe the redistribution of districts proposed will represent the needs of an aging, or economically deprived population.

We deserve fair maps that reflect our communities and values. The new congressional map that has been proposed at the insistence of national republicans represents one of the most extreme partisan gerrymanders in the nation. Texans deserve a fair map that represents the diversity of our state, not one that silences our voices.

This map does not represent the Texas I'm from.

Do your job in advocating for your constituents rather than bending a knee to DonaldTrump and national GOP

Nicholas Daley
Friend of True TEXAS Project
Arlington, TX

We have an opportunity to enable TEXANS to Save our REPUBLIC. This redistricting plan is how we Fight to keep our Republic. Redrawing these districts now will best reflect our TEXAN Values! Fight, Fight, Fight!!

Tom Currie
Self - Electricity Broker
Crane, TX

According to a report I saw on NewsMax, Trump carried 30 of Texas' 38 US House Districts by 10% or more. However, only 25 of those Districts have a Republican representative. With the proposed redistricting, there will likely be 5 more Republican representatives. This would more accurately reflect the will of the voters of Texas in the US House.

Allison Drake, Rev.
Self - clergy
Garland, TX

Please do not do this. It is not fair or representative of our great state. Allow all voices to have a say in our government. If you have to redistrict to "keep control," maybe you should listen and realize the people may not want you in control anymore. A true public servant would want everyone's voice to be heard and represented.

Josef Genet
Self, software engineer
Austin, TX

I am firmly opposed to this redistricting effort. The Texas Legislature should focus on establishing the necessary regulations and support to prevent the horrific flooding and deaths which just occurred in Central Texas. The legislature should be doing all it can to strengthen disaster preparedness and relief in general--this redistricting is totally irrelevant to the issues actually facing Texans. You should not be making a mockery of democracy with these shameful, gerrymandered voting maps. They are a disgrace to the notion of democracy. Stop these maps now.

Andrea Warlick
Self
Houston, TX

I do not support this bill.

Shirley Anderson
Self/Chaplain
Lindale, TX

As an active citizen, I urge the Texas Legislature to approve HB4. The current districts drawn in 2021 followed the flawed 2020 Census which officials have acknowledged significantly undercounted several states, including Texas, while overcounting others. Further, recent court decisions including the U.S. Fifth Circuit's 2024 ruling in the Petteway v. Galveston County established that districts based on "coalitions" of minority groups are not protected by the Voting Rights Act. It is time to correct the error of 2021, pass HB4, and restore fair Congressional seat representation in Texas. Thank you.

Joan Kincaid
Self
Austin, TX

I am against this further gerrymandering by Republicans in a blatant attempt to rig elections in their favor

LEE SCHUCH
Self, Day Trader
GEORGETOWN, TX

This new plan is a lot better plan than the current plan which gives too much emphasis to the five large metropolitan areas. In my view and estimation, the current plan vastly under represents smaller communities (say under 900,000) and give way too much influence to the these areas at the expense of the rural and mid-size cities. Keep the current plan as proposed!!!!!! I grow tired of being sending "representatives" to Austin that refuse to represent our district and constantly show only interest in representing themselves. My view is that this new plan will more accurately represent the true nature of the beliefs of Texans.

Hedrich Michaelsen
Self/retired
Austin, TX

I am opposed to this mid-decade redistricting plan. It further dilutes the voting power of minority communities in Texas and its sole purpose is to deliver more House seats for Donald Trump at the expense of voters' power. Texans want fair representation. We are already badly gerrymandered in this state. The proposed map just makes the situation worse. Passing this map may come back to bite Republicans hard, as voters turn on the current administration and anyone, including Texas Republican electeds, enabling this monstrosity.

Cecilia Ryan
self
Austin, TX

When is our Governor going to stop focusing on what Trump wants which has proven to be illegal and focus on Texans ! ! ! Here we are post flood with multiple deaths and Abbott is spending money and political efforts to build border walls, hiring masked ??? not sure who they are to terrorize citizens, letting felons out of jail, allowing bitcoin mining corporations to move in and take our water and electricity, allowing drug addicted Elon Musk to take over our state and prize beach towns...when is this going to end ? Abbott needs to be removed from office- he does not care at all about Texans he's just so afraid to say NO to TRUMP. STOP STEALING OUR RIGHTS.

Alfredo Serrato Sosa
Self, engineer
Austin, TX

This redistricting is unfair and not what the people of Texas want.

Jamie Haynes
Texans Wake Up
Canyon, TX

Advocating FOR redistricting so that we have fair and accurate representation in Congress.

Anne McKinnerney
Self - volunteer
Austin, TX

Dear Committee,
I am adamantly opposed to this attempt to redistrict! If this goes through, I will lose representation. We need districts that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state. This mid-decade redistricting is an undemocratic attempt to cling to power and take away representation for me, my family, and my fellow Texans. Focus on the actual needs of people in our state - and stop this!
Sincerely,
Anne McKinnerney

Tim Gibbs
Myself
Terlingua, TX

Gerrymandering represents the highest form of fraud against the people of the state of Texas. Our ability to elect representatives who support our interests as citizens is severely undermined through the development of gerrymandered districts for the sake of nothing but political power. That this is happening during a rushed special legislative session is an even greater betrayal. Texas districts must not be redrawn! Our state leadership is focusing on shrinking our rights while our state faces real crises like flood damage, rising costs, and broken infrastructure. Enough!

Heather Nelson
Self
Austin, TX

AGAINST - I oppose

Micah San Juan
self
Lewisville, TX

This a blatant power grab, absolutely no effort to hide the corruption. If you want a real vote in your favor at midterms, and not just a vote for the party by people who don't know better, your best bet is to have a free and fair election that actually represents the people of Texas, and not just a chance to extend your career. Redistricting is not the will of the people. It will not benefit the majority of Texans. Start focusing on things the matter, and maybe you'll get real votes. President Thump will not be president forever, but we will remember how you bowed to a dictator.

Shakira Summers
self
Lancaster, TX

RE: Opposition to Illegal Redistricting and Gerrymandering

Dear Harrison,
As a concerned constituent and proud resident of [City or District], I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan being advanced by Governor Abbott in coordination with national leadership — a plan that seeks to create five additional Republican districts through unconstitutional gerrymandering.
This power grab undermines the integrity of our electoral process and threatens the very foundation of our democracy: fair representation.
Redistricting should be based on population data and conducted with transparency, public input, and in compliance with the Voting Rights Act — not manipulated behind closed doors to entrench political power and silence the voices of communities like mine.
If this plan moves forward, it will:
Dilute the voting strength of communities of color,
Undermine urban and diverse constituencies,
Erode public trust in the democratic process, and Open the door to costly legal challenges and federal oversight.
I urge you, as my elected representative, to oppose this effort and stand firmly in favor of fair maps, voter equity, and transparent governance. Texas belongs to all of us — not just those in power.
Please make it known where you stand on this issue. I, along with many others in your district, am watching and will be voting accordingly in the next election.
Thank you for your time and attention to this matter of urgent importance.
Sincerely,
Shakira Summers

Julia Macdonald-Ward
Self
Dallas, TX

This is blatant corruption! Stop this madness

Elizabeth Seade
self
Austin, TX

I am adamantly opposed to this attempt to redistrict! We need districts that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state. This mid-decade redistricting is an undemocratic attempt to cling to power and take away representation for too many Texans. Focus on the actual needs of people in our state - and stop this!

Laura Kay
Self
Blanco, TX

Please keep the districts the way they are in Texas. If you feel you must make changes, please create districts that will accurately represent the people in each area. To make changes simply to add more Republican representatives in Washington DC, is racist, unfair, and not what you were elected to do. You were elected to represent ALL of the citizens of Texas, and not be a slave to the President. Please help to make Texas a state all Texans can be proud of again.

Elizabeth Spalding
Self - retired
Granbury, TX

It’s disturbing to see you considering redistributing at this time. Democracy stays strong because public policy swings right and then swings left overtime. Texas is already a strongly conservative state. Additional gerrymandering will simply fuel distrust and agitate those who feel the conservative approach is oppressive to them - and for what? Actions that oppress citizens’ voices will deceases any sense of community that exists in our cities and towns at a time when the feelings of community already seem to be at a very low point. Do the right thing vote AGAINST HB4.

Callie Butcher
self
Dallas, TX

I stronly oppose the proposed redistricting. The maps that are intended to be passed are designed to dilute votes of people like myself that live in larger metropolitan areas to remove our fair representation because the current President and the GOP does not like the party that we have elected to represent us at the federal level. The effect will be to eliminate minority representation. It is both unconstitutional and immoral.

Carol Haywood
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting to get more districts for a particular party is immoral. Those voting for this should have ethics charges against them. I learned through my work at the City of Austin that most people who testify on any topic are against it. But our representatives should know in their soul that this is wrong. It is not right for you to choose your voters. That is not democracy. Please to the moral, ethical, correct thing and vote against this very gerrymandered redistricting. I live in one of these districts and am totally against it.

Jeni German, Mrs.
self / retired
Pearland, TX

This redistricting represents corruption at the highest levels of public office. I cannot say the holders of public office are leaders, there are no leaders in Austin. They hold, and abuse holding, public office.
The Governor, on behalf of the state, kowtows to a criminal holding the highest office in our country. His minions work to inflict their own beliefs on all citizens. The ‘leaders’ no longer ask the citizens their view, or what they want…because what we want has ceased to matter.
What we think, what we want, the direction we want to move, does not matter to Greg Abbott.
Redistricting is clearly a political tool, a power grab; it serves no useful or moving-forward paradigm. And because so many Maga fear the Felon…for reasons I fail to understand…they are all complicit.
Anyone and everyone promoting this horror show does not believe in the ‘service’ part of holding office. This is not about the government serving the people.
This is about the people serving the government. This is about creating a population of (uneducated) servants.

jeanette scott, ms
none
west lake hills, TX

HB-4's only purpose is to steal my right as a United States Citizen to vote and be represented by the Legislator of my choice. This may not be illegal, but it is absolutely unethical, unfair and cowardly. Please have some backbone. Don't pass this horrid bill.

Nicole Ramirez
Self / Oil and Gas Engineer
Midland, TX

This is a blatant power grab by the increasingly unpopular Trump administration and the disgraceful, spineless Texas GOP. For weeks now, they have pretended to hold fair hearings, feigning interest in public input, all while already having a map designed behind closed doors, a map crafted not to represent Texans, but to secure political power. This was never an honest process.
I call on Texas Democrats, especially those in the Senate, to break quorum. Texans will stand with you. We will donate, we will fundraise, and we will fight alongside you. And I call on the Texas GOP to stop capitulating.
Texas is not solid red. At the very least, we are purple, and that truth terrifies the GOP. That's why they gerrymander. That's why they refuse to allow an independent redistricting commission. If they truly believed their policies reflected the will of the people, they wouldn't be afraid of fair maps or fair elections.
When did the Texas Legislature stop working for its constituents and start working for its donors and political ambitions? This is not representative government. This is the behavior of those who fear accountability, and it is a threat to democracy. Since 1994, Texas has been under near-total Republican leadership. Do you really think it's a coincidence that Texas continues to rank at bottom of lists like quality of life, education, and healthcare access, just to name a few?
I write from Congressional District 11, a safely red district, but I will not stay silent while fellow Texans across the state are targeted for disenfranchisement. I will stand for what is right. By speaking out, I am already doing more to defend democracy than the Texas GOP, and they should be ashamed of themselves.
Do better. We are watching. And we will hold accountable those who stood by while authoritarian tactics took root in our state.
Again, I urge Democrats to break quorum, Texans will stand with you!
Texas House Representatives Vasut and Hunter are disgraceful capitulators and should be primaried and held accountable for their disturbing lack of transparency and consideration of constituents.

Crystal Zamarron
Deeds Not Words
San Antonio, TX

I am against HB 4. I am part of CD 20 - Joaquin Castro, and the proposed redistricting map would shrink the district down. This is an obvious power grab and it only leads to racial discrimination and silencing our voter strength. Listen to the people. We do not want this. Our community needs help in important ways like the grid infrastructure, flooding and any other weather hazard prevention and communication, healthcare for Texans, and more! You, our elected officials, are putting a priority somewhere wrong for someone that only wants to do harm on people. I'm writing this for you to protect Texans. I'm watching my hometown in the Rio Grande Valley be torn apart for fascist values. Now my current location of beautiful San Antonio is meeting the same fate. This is corruption. This is control. Greg Abbott, Rep. Hunter, the authors of the bill, and the allies that align with this behavior— you all are dangerously ignorant and harming Texans. This is unacceptable. Let HB 4 die. Better yet, redraw the lines where it's fair. This is a blue state and you know it. Which is why you're going so far to oppress our vote and voice. You're scared that we'll vote you out and you should be. We will. We vote for the people of Texas and not for any dictator. You should to! At this point, Texas democracy is broken and it's because of you. Democracy is broken and it's because of you! Vote against HB 4 and any proposed amendments and legislation that continues to oppress the people.

Naomi Narvaiz
Comal County Republican Party Precinct 306
New Braunfels, TX

Chairman and members, I urge you to pass the map adding 5 republican congressional districts to our State. My family and I have lived under democrat elected for over 50 years and we never been represented or given opportunity to be heard. This is the first time that we would be under republican representation and I believe we would finally be able to communicate with our representative and be heard. I support HB4 and urge every State House Legislator to do vote for this bill.

Sabelyn Arden
self
Austin, TX

Dear Representatives,
I write as a concerned constituent to oppose House Bill 4, which would allow off-cycle redistricting in Texas.
Proponents argue that Texas's rapid urban and suburban growth requires more frequent boundary adjustments than the usual decennial cycle. They claim mid-decade redistricting would keep districts aligned with shifting populations. However, this approach undermines voter trust and invites opportunistic map-making. It relies on interim population estimates that can be inaccurate and unevenly distributed.
Allowing legislators to redraw lines mid-cycle ostensibly increases accountability—voters could punish gerrymanders at the ballot box. In reality, it creates a conflict of interest: map-makers protect their own seats, turnout in off-cycle elections is low, and partisan battles only intensify. Independent or judicial oversight, though imperfect, helps ensure impartiality.
Advocates also suggest off-cycle maps can produce stable majorities, reducing razor-thin margins that stall policy. Yet engineered landslides often marginalize minority or dissenting voices, foster complacent incumbents, and drive extreme mid-decade policy swings.
They further contend that mid-cycle revisions could preserve majority-minority districts under the Voting Rights Act. But packing minority voters tokenizes communities, and courts frequently strike maps that use race as a partisan proxy—precisely the litigation HB 4 claims to prevent.
Finally, supporters say off-cycle redistricting avoids protracted lawsuits and clarifies rules early in the election season. Instead, mid-decade changes often spark new legal challenges, confuse voters and election officials, and require judicial intervention—prolonging uncertainty rather than resolving it.
Every redistricting model has drawbacks. Yet frequent legislative control lacks the stability and fairness that Texans deserve. I urge you to oppose HB 4 in favor of impartial reforms: independent commissions, algorithm-based map-drawing, or multi-member districts. These alternatives better balance fairness, stability, and accountability, safeguarding the principle that every Texan's vote carries equal weight.
Let's put partisanship aside and get back to engaging constructively in solutions that uphold the principles of equality and mutual respect.
We the people appreciate your thoughtful consideration.

Paula Phy
Self
Jefferson, TX

HB 4 does not provide for a true representation of the citizens of the affected regions included in the bill or the state of Texas. However, this bill is representative of one of many attempts to disregard the true wants and needs of the citizens of Texas. Just another attempt by Republicans at cheating their way into power.

Sarah Fox, Ms.
Self
San Antonio, TX

This bill is a clear effort to follow the will of Donald Trump, rather than follow the will of the people you were elected to represent. It is a clear effort to cheat even more, in an already gerrymandered state. Texans will not forget those of you who vote for this disgraceful bill. Do what is right for the people who put you there.

Sondra Halweg
Self
Austin, TX

Thank you for allowing me to speak about my concerns for a fair & open redistricting process against HR 4. I live in State District 47 and US District 37 which are both served extreme well by Rep. Vikki Goodwin and the Honorable Lloyd Doggett. Throughout my life, I have been an advocate for children, students, and equal rights for all. You, as legislators were elected to serve ALL the people, just as I was expected to work with ALL children in my classroom and ALL students who came into my counseling office. BUT, that is not what you are doing! You are drawing districts for LESS representation for communities of color. You are putting your hand on the scale of justice for your desired outcome, not what serves ALL OF YOUR CONSTITUENTS EQUALLY. THIS IS A DEEPLY FLAWED PROCESS!
The Texas population over the last decade has been fueled by communities of color, but the map the state created does NOT reflect that growth! SHAMEFUL!
We are told in the Old Testament in Micah 6: 8 to act justly, to love mercy, and walk humbly with our God. There is NO justice, love, or mercy in what you are doing! EXACTLY, WHERE IS YOUR HUMANITY?
The current congressional maps that were adopted in 2021 are still being reviewed by courts. There should be NO more changes until the 2021 Congressional Maps are approved by the courts.
DO NOT VOTE HB4 FORWARD!!!
Thank you for your consideration.

Wallace Golding
Self
San Marcos, TX

This bill and the entire mid-decade redistricting process is a plainly anti-democratic power grab. This bill undermines key democratic principles of fair and equal representation for all. This plan is clearly illegal as it redistricts Texans along racial lines, violating federal law and Supreme Court precedent. Supporting this piece of legislation is tantamount to a betrayal of democratic principles in Texas, and any and all representatives who vote in favor of this plan are complicit in undermining those principles.

Victoria Valadez
self, designer
Austin, TX

This round of Texas Congressional Redistricting is unlawful and harmful to your constituents. People who voted for you will vote you out. Please reconsider your conscience and don't bow to Trump.

Britni Cuington
Self/ Organizer
Dallas, TX

To the membership of the House Redistricting Committee:

My name is Britni Cuington. I'm a veteran, union member, and the Texas Lead Organizer for Common Defense—the largest grassroots veterans organization in the country. However, today I'm here representing myself as a lifelong constituent of Texas Congressional District 30. I didn't just land here—I was born here I was raised here. I serve from here. I organize from here. And I'm not about to be redistricted into silence. This map isn't just unfair—it's flat out voter suppression. This map is not redistricting. It's racial gerrymandering with a fresh coat of paint.

TX-30 is a historically Black district that's been a beacon of political power, service, and community—and this is a blatant attempt to carve it up like it's surplus land. Want to talk about protecting democracy? Well, democracy doesn't happen when politicians pick their voters—we're supposed to pick to you. I organize veterans and union members every day who are tired of being used as props while the services we rely on are defunded, privatized, or snatched away behind closed doors. You can't say you support the 1.5 million veterans in this state while gutting our communities and handing our healthcare to private contractors. The VA is Not for Sale campaign, is defending every inch of our hard-earned access to care.
But this map makes that harder. This isn't representation. This is elimination.

As a union member, I know what solidarity looks like—and this ain't it. As a veteran, I know what justice for all looks like—and this ain't it.

I come from TX-30, and we don't back down. We build power. Have you met our Congrresswoman? Veterans, Black voters, Latino voters, working-class Texans—we are the heart of this district. And you will not rewrite us out of history.

Eddie Bernice Johnson—our forever congresswoman—warned us:

"Power concedes nothing without a demand."

So here's mine: Stop drawing the map like you're afraid of a fair fight.

Jane Fuchs self along with many others
Austin, TX

Do not redraw the lines.....again! Just let us VOTE!

Lauren Kern
Self
Irving, TX

I am against the redistricting effort. There is no valid reason to redistrict prior to the results of the next census. This will create uncertainty, which will not only disenfranchise millions of voters but also make Texas an unstable and unattractive place for business.

The only reason our state leaders are even considering redrawing maps is at the behest of the president asking for 5 more seats in the house. That seems like textbook gerrymandering to me, which is not only illegal but also short sighted. Some excuse has been given which was only manufactured after the fact. Studies show that gerrymandered areas have a worse economic outlook: people have worse credit in part due to apathetic representation which will mean less spending, small businesses are discouraged from operating where their concerns won't be heard, and it will cost the state many dollars in legal fees.

Redistricting will also erode voter trust, which may backfire on our current leadership. If they are no longer trusted, then with slimmer margined districts, they may loose their seats and open the door for retaliation when a new party is in power.

It is in Texas' best interest to play by the rules, to keep things fair and trustworthy by not redistricting ahead of schedule. Don't tread on us.

Stetson Akers, Dr.
Self
Clyde, TX

I want to state that I am in no way in favor of congressional gerrymandering for the sake of any party. Districts should be representative of the people who live in them and boundaries should be drawn based on logical definitions of populations and areas. By no means should districts be drawn with consideration for which party is at an advantage if boundaries include or exclude particular voter affiliations.

Lisa Whaley
Self
Austin, TX

This is voter suppression. Texans value our independence and representation. You are stripping that from the people and the people will remember.

Susana Carranza, Dr.
self - retired engineer
Austin, TX

I oppose HB4 and this entire rushed mid-decade redistricting process. I have lived in the same downtown Austin address for 20 years, but if this map passes, I could see 3 different districts within 6 years due to gerrymandering techniques such as cracking and packing.

Do you know what downtown Austin, where I live, has in common with Trinity County, 200 miles away?
They each are home to about 15,000 people
They are both in Texas! (duh!)
And they would both be moved to heavily gerrymandered CD 10 if HB4 passes

And this is far from the worst district in the proposed map.

I am sick and tired of some of you claiming ignorance about who drew the map, that the map intentionally drew Crockett and others out of their current districts, of the past court cases, and of the issues the community raises. To quote the matrix: Ignorance is Bliss!

You keep adding more white majority districts, despite the Texas population growing more diverse. You turn yourself into pretzels to claim these maps increase minority representation when every org representing you minorities is telling you otherwise.

You are cracking and packing all major metro areas, disenfranchising the largest economic centers in Texas. You are biting the hands that feed you!

You are breaking down historic districts and splitting up communities of color, ignoring the VRA. And most importantly, you are ignoring the overwhelming majority of people who spoke, registered, or sent comments.

But it is not too late to do the right thing. I urge you to withdraw HB4 now and dedicate all the Lege focus to disaster relief and prevention.

Ian Moreau
Self, RN
Austin, TX

My name is Ian Moreau. I am a life-long resident of Texas and was once a Republican. I am no longer due to the dishonest, un-caring, un-American actions of both the Texas GOP and the national GOP. This bill is an attempt misrepresent our state at the national level, consolidate the power of the ever expanding Executive branch of the Federal government, and a cowardly deference to a demagogue that does not represent GOP or American values. If any Republican Texas House member considers themselves a representative of the people, not the party, not the businesses, not the lobbyists; they should reject this bill.

Gerrymandering damages the credibility of our state government and our national government. Taking this action at a time where our national divide grows deeper, any diminishment of our government credibility pushes us deeper into instability and potential conflict, weakening our nation overall. As a resident wishing to be represented, I am ashamed of our state acting as a lapdog to an increasingly authoritarian Executive branch. If you truly want to represent liberty and justice for ALL, you will reject this bill.

Hillary Janes, Dr.
Self
Houston, TX

Dear Representative,

As one of your constituents, I’m writing to urge you to REJECT this corrupt redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps.

Gov. Abbott is letting Trump control him while ignoring the real problems in our lives. Please do everything in your power to fight back and put Texans first!

I strongly urge you: REJECT this process!

Rhonda Denman
Self
Kemp, TX

I support Texas redistricting for fair representation in Washington across the State.

Nathan Burge
Self
Austin, TX

Here’s your script:

I strongly urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal.

As a lifelong Texan and resident of Travis County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence.

Texans deserve better than blatant manipulation by one party to silence their fair and equal representation in our government. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation

Michael Lambert
Self retired
Lantana, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I oppose any mid-decade redistricting, especially while the current maps are still being challenged in court. Furthermore, I oppose any redistricting that does not result in fair representation for all Texans. Texas has a long history of racial gerrymandering and discriminatory voting practices, so I urge you to prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided, thereby weakening their political voice.

Texans have the right to fair and equal representation that's achieved through a thoughtful, transparent process that allows meaningful public input. Lawmakers should have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps, protect minority voting rights, and respect county lines, city boundaries, and communities of interest. A rushed 30-day special session packed with unrelated agenda items is not the way to achieve this.

Texans deserve to have a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and results in equal representation for all, not this rushed and deeply flawed process. Flood recovery efforts and the safety of Texans should be the top priority, not redrawing political maps.

Thanks for responding to this urgent need.
Michael Lambert

Rachel Sergeant
Self - Healthcare
Lewisville, TX

Redistricting in the middle of the typical decade redistricting process sets a dangerous precedent. There is no need to continue with this redistricting, it is blatant gerrymandering and an awful show of partisanship. As a constituent, I am urging the Texas government to not follow through with this heinous act.

Bree Monson
Self
Pflugerville, TX

Hello, my name is Bree Monson. I am a native Texan, and live in Pflugerville, which is located in Congressional District 17. I am testifying on the Legislature's attempt to redistrict our congressional districts mid-census. I am strongly opposed to these efforts. This brazen move by the Governor and the DOJ to increase Republican representation in the U.S. House by taking it away from communities of color is shameful. It is blatant racial discrimination.

How districts are drawn affects every political issue, from the economy to healthcare to public education. If politicians are elected from districts that don't reflect the population, you end up with situations where politicians support policies that the vast majority of people oppose, or they won't support policies that the vast majority of people support. When politicians manipulate maps for personal or political gain, it prevents residents like me from having our voices heard on all of these policies that affect us.

I urge you to reject HB 4 and allow a fair redistricting process, with input from the constituents being affected. Don't take our representation away.

Sarah Little Myself
Benbrook, TX

I oppose the Redistricting that is currently proposed.

Stephanie Morris self - RN, Beekeeper
Leander, TX

Against redistricting. Flood relief for Tex
Good morning, Chair and Members,
I'm Stephanie Morris: fourth-generation Texan, nurse, and beekeeper.
I live in Leander, where the South San Gabriel flows across our land.
On July 5th, our home and beeyard flooded as the river rose 35 feet with filthy water and debris.
We've lost so much — but we are lucky.
Texans are suffering — from floods and the policy failures that made them worse.
We need your help — not partisan map games.
Short-sighted development changed our lives and land long before this flood.
We live downstream from the "best, most beautiful" pollutant discharge in the state. Millions of gallons per day of poorly treated wastewater turn a pristine stream into year-round stinky, rotting, algae-covered quick-sand.
It pollutes our land and degrades the river.
They take our water and replace it with wastewater, flash floods and fire.
Those who profit rape and pillage, then move on to the next paradise to destroy.
At our expense.
Unscrupulous individuals are exploiting freedoms meant for Texans who know freedom comes with responsibility.
They profit off of reshaping the land — raising grade, filling creek beds, and paving native ground.
Water does what water does when people get up in her business.
Now even small rains flood faster and angrier.
Between storms, our wells, springs, and creeks dry up.
It's not developers or cities with deep new wells going dry.
It's ours.
And it's not those sending their waste downstream who live with the consequences.
We do.
Our rivers. Our land. Our health.
Land use isn't just about property.
and
Lives are lost after floods — not just during them.
The stress is crushing. People get sick. People die.

Our lives, livestock, livelihoods, and Texan way of life are in your hands.
You may think redistricting isn't about floods, land use, or water — but it is.
Drawing lines decides who has a voice — and who gets left behind.

Please — do better for Texans.
Not for the Developer-in-Chief.
Thank you. God bless you — and God bless Texas.
(Two example Photos are attached to my written testimony)

IMG_5615.HEIC – 7/5/2025 @ 06:57 View from our raised second floor of the swollen South San Gabriel River.
A 10-foot rise is considered a flood—this was about 30 of the 35+ feet it would rise that morning. Photo taken just after calling 911 to request evacuation of San Gabriel Ranches, as CR270—our only egress—was about to flood where the creek that's "not-a-creek" (per the Bryson developer) was breaching the road. The flood temporarily scoured our limestone riverbed clean.

IMG_9954.JPG 8/16/2020 @ 1534 - View of the polluted South San Gabriel River of wastewater from the riverbank cliff behind our home.

Respectfully,

Stephanie Ryder Morris
Birds N Bees Farm
512-563-2488

1409 Orchard Drive
Leander, Texas 78641

"God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference...
- Reinhold Niebuhr

Nathaniel Pyle
Self
Austin, TX

Thank you for taking the time to read my input. This redistricting is anti-American. We should win elections by using the time in power to show we deserve to be there. Make peoples lives better and they will vote for you. This redistricting only works to further divide the citizens of Texas by allowing only those in power now to determine who they get to vote for. Governor Abbott claimed this process was to allow for everyone to vote for who they wanted. That is not for him to decide or arrange. Each citizen can choose to vote for whoever they'd like, whether they move districts or not. Again, this action is cowardly and un-American. Be better.

Kim McMenamin
Self - retired
Austin, TX

I am a registered Republican voter residing in House District 35. I fully support this bill that would redraw the district as Republican. I urge passage of this bill.

Angie Bado
Self
McKinney, TX

I adamantly oppose the unfair redistricting of US House districts, with the sole purpose of silencing voters voices. This is unconstitutional and unconscionable, and unjust.

Keith Dagen
Self
Richardson, TX

The 32nd district currently includes portions of the Dallas metro area including Richardson. As drawn, the new map will keep Richardson in the 32nd district but will strip it out of the Dallas metro area and push the boundaries of the district far to the east, picking up large swaths of primarily rural areas. I do not believe that this will result in quality representation for both the urban and rural portions of the district. I am against the proposed map.

Richard Howe, Mr.
self
Plano, TX

Chair and committee members,

Thank you for the opportunity to provide these comments regarding HB4.

I begin with this question. Is the Republican Party of Texas becoming the West's version of the CCP?

As a lifelong conservative Texan, I am alarmed! Texas has long been a laboratory for one-party rule, with Republican lawmakers wielding gerrymandering like a scalpel to carve away competitive democracy. But the latest redistricting efforts go even further. Accountability is no longer an inconvenience. Elected Republicans have declared it an obstacle. So, when is enough, enough?

By shielding themselves from electoral consequences, elected Republicans aren't just redrawing maps; they're redrawing the very rules of democratic engagement. The result? A political landscape where dissent is punished, opposition is sidelined, and party loyalty is paramount. If that sounds familiar, it's because it echoes the centralized control strategies of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP).

Texas Republicans probably aren't adopting the CCP's ideology, but they seem to admire its efficiency in consolidating power and silencing critics. This isn't traditional conservatism. It's an authoritarian impulse to dominate indefinitely.

Texans deserve better than leaders who govern for themselves. This isn't just about redistricting, it's about resisting the slow transformation of Texas into a place where democracy becomes a lip service instead of a practiced principle.

I oppose this out of cycle redistricting and the resulting HB4, which is being dictated from outside of Texas and blindly implemented by elected Republicans here. Instead, I urge this redistricting committee to take this opportunity to implement a more fair and rational redistricting policy, by putting forward a joint resolution for a ballot referendum, to establish an independent, non-partisan commission to be responsible for future redistricting.

We need more competitive districts, NOT more NON-competitive districts. This out of cycle redistricting push will take us further in the WRONG direction.

District boundaries should be drawn compact and contiguous. Many of our districts are not. The configuration of those that are not, undermine the principles of fair representation. They defy logical and geographic coherence. And they compromise the integrity of democratic processes.

Frankly, this entire out-of-cycle redistricting effort is embarrassing.

Steve Liter
Self
Lago Vista, TX

STOP the redistricting. This is a power grab. Cease redistrcting!

Ronald Applewhite, LTC, Retired
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am strongly opposed to the re-districting bill.

Mary Esther Escobedo
Self
San Antonio, TX

Texas and Texans are currently suffering from lack of health care and stable energy sources as well as lack of safety from natural disasters. Instead of addressing these and other pressing issues, this Legislature has taken on redistricting a mere four years after the last maps were drawn and presented. There as been no new population census taken that might trigger such an action. We, the public, are informed that this Legislature was "asked" by the current US President to find five new districts in Texas to give him five more Republican seats and votes in Congress. He seems to fear that his actions, decisions and policies these past seven months have caused his approval ratings to slip.
It is the function of the Texas Legislature to address and provide redress for the concerns, problems and issues faced by the populace of Texas and not to prop up the political standing of one man. The representatives of the people of Texas are public servants whose duty is to serve the public. Our electric grid is holding for now but Texas had to rely on solar, wind and battery power these past two years to shore up energy provided by fossil fuels. Is the Legislature supporting these alternative energy sources? People are having trouble securing health insurance. Is the Legislature finding ways to help them? So far the answer to both questions is no.
Texas' population has grown since the last census. Experts tell us this is primarily due to the increase in Latino and Black population. The last maps drawn have been litigated due to denying this increased population the correct number of districts in which said population can truly make a choice when voting. The current proposed maps appear to reduce the number of these districts from 13 to 8. These proposed maps would have population that is over 60% "minority" that population withof control 21% of the Congressional districts of Texas. The proposed plan for new maps discriminates against minority voters.
The rush to produce new maps does not give voters time to fully review them and to comment on them.
I urge the Legislature to reject the newly proposed maps, to serve the voters and people of Texas, and to refuse to bend to the whims of the US President.

Susan Korbel, Dr.
Bexar County Precinct 3067
San Antonio, TX

Is it too much to ask for our representatives to be able to represent a community with common physical area and culture? Why are there so many different districts in this plan in adjacent neighborhoods, and then stretching out into farmland. How should representatives become familiar with our unique issues and events? By further carving up metro areas and stretching them out into farmland, this bill cynically abandons the idea that representatives speak for unique communities, and instead become just generic urban/suburban/rural politicians who need massive amounts of money to bridge the media markets and highways they purportedly serve. I recommend instead choosing a plan with more contiguous areas, such as George Korbel's PlanC2224, displayed at: https://dvr.capitol.texas.gov/Congress/72/PLANC2224

The map under consideration in HB4 is ludicrous, but also legally impossible to defend in court. Please add to my comment Ellen Katz's "Redistricting Texas Now is Illegal and the U.S. Department of Justice is the Reason Why" which can be accessed at this link: https://papers.ssrn.com/sol3/papers.cfm?abstract_id=5371287

Linda Hedges
Self
Fort Davis, TX

No to redistricting. It does not represent Texans fairly.

Elizabeth Evans, Ms
Self
Katy, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation. We deserve better.

Madison Cornwell
self
College Station, TX

Entire household is in disagreement with this bill. This bill does not accurately represent the constituents of Texas. I strongly oppose this bill

Ayanna Monderoy
Self
Houston, TX

Good day,
Texas democracy and voices of Texans are at risk of being SILENCED if congressional districts are redistricted to unjustly give 5 seats to Texan Republican representatives.
Texans have a RIGHT to have their voices and concerns addressed by the representative they ELECT by vote, not by gerrymandering Texans into a district with a representative they DID NOT elect.
The Texan state government claims to follow the values of democracy which has given many state officials positions by Texans VOTING for them.
I urge the Texas House to not redistrict to unfairly give Republican representatives seats in Congress.
Please do one of these:
1. Follow in the footsteps of other states who hire independent redistricting committees to handle redistricting, which benefits Texans of all political affiliations and representatives of Democrats, Republicans, and Third parties by eliminating political party bias.
Or
2. Let residents living in the district VOTE on whether to change the district boundaries or keep the boundaries as it is.
This gives Texans the opportunity to choose what they want to do in a fair, democratic process.

Ryan Dilbert
Self
Houston, TX

This is wrong and you know it. Make common sense districts not gerrymandered nonsense. History is watching you.

Angelica Hernandez
Self
Austin, TX

I am strongly against the proposed redistricting of Texas as presented by this bill. It will limit, if not virtually get rid of, the voices of so many Texans and is just a power ploy. I want my vote to mean something, and this redistricting limits that. Any lines drawn should not be by a partisan group.

Bobbie Martinez
CWA 6215
Josephine, TX

This is a clear power grab that is only going to hurt the districts your re-drawing. Please remember you represent everyone and silencing voices is not democratic.

Nancy Dillard, Precinct Chair 2086
My precinct
The Colony, TX

This redistricting Bill is critical to correcting setting districts for the people of Texas

Philip Eash-Gates
Self; engineer
San Antonio, TX

Chairman and Members of the Committee,
My name is Philip Eash-Gates, and I am a longtime resident of San Antonio. I appreciate the opportunity to submit written testimony in strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan currently under consideration.
Redistricting is a serious responsibility meant to reflect population shifts and ensure fair representation for all Texans. Traditionally tied to the decennial census, it should not be used as a tool to serve political ends mid-decade. This current proposal—absent a constitutional mandate or population-based necessity—risks undermining faith in the electoral process and sets a dangerous precedent for future partisan overreach.
Texans—regardless of political affiliation—value fairness, transparency, and strong local representation. Sadly, this proposal falls short on all three. In cities like San Antonio, where communities are diverse, hard-working, and civically engaged, this plan slices through cohesive neighborhoods in ways that dilute their voices and weaken representation. Our ability to advocate effectively for public safety, infrastructure, small business support, and education depends on being respectfully and accurately represented—not fragmented across political boundaries.
When district lines are drawn not to reflect communities, but to tip the electoral scale, it shifts power away from voters and toward political operatives. That reduces incentives for elected officials to listen to their constituents and increases the risk of unaccountable governance. Competitive districts—where both parties must engage with voters and earn support—produce better policy outcomes for all Texans.
Further, this mid-decade redrawing is troubling because of how it's being conducted: rapidly, with limited public input, and in the face of significant public opposition. Many residents, including myself, are deeply concerned that the voices of everyday Texans are being sidelined in favor of short-term political goals.
Finally, I urge the Committee to consider the broader consequences. If Texas uses redistricting as a political weapon, it invites retaliation in other states. Such a trend could degrade public confidence in our democratic institutions nationwide—and that is a risk we simply cannot afford.
In closing, I urge you to reject this redistricting proposal. It weakens representation, reduces accountability, and erodes trust in the foundational principles of our democracy. We need maps that reflect the people of Texas—not political priorities.
Thank you for your time and your service to our state.
Respectfully,
Philip Eash-Gates
San Antonio, Texas

Katie Fike
Self
Austin, TX

This redistricting does NOT represent Texas and its citizens. It is an unfair power grab and as a Texan I am asking you to say no to Trump and this administration and do what's fair and right by Texans.

Carolyn Alexander
Burnet County Republican Women
Meadowlakes, TX

I support HB 4 by Hunter

Tomoko Shannon
Self
San Marcos, TX

I am an educator from San Marcos in Hays County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Adrienne Flannery
self - self-employed
Austin, TX

This redistricting initiative is politically motivated and shows our inability as a state to stand up for what is right. It is being used to water down the power of our votes and I am appalled that this is even being considered. This practice of gerrymandering undermines democracy by allowing the current dominant political party to select their voters instead of the voters selecting their representatives. This may placate powers in Washington, but will most certainly cement our fast slide into fascism. This further erodes public trust in the political system and those who represent us. We have elected officials to represent ALL constituents, not only those cherry picked through redrawing district lines. This is not in the best interest of the citizens of this state and will most certainly hurt everyone. Do not succumb to political pressure. This is not right. The future of our country hangs in the balance. Do not be on the wrong side of history. Vote no so we actually have a future here in this country for our children.

Meaghan Murphy, Ms.
Self
Pflugerville, TX

This proposed redistricting is not just wrong—it undemocratic. It you can’t win your argument through debate, maybe rethink your position. Manipulating a voting map to achieve political goals is not just wrong, it’s immoral. It’s cheating, plain and simple. Listen to your constituents and have the map accurately represent the will of the people who live within its borders.

leroy haverlah, mr
self
austin, TX

I respectfully support leaving Congressional Districts as they are. Our representatives need to live where their people live, to keep democracy working.
I have viewed the proposed redistricting maps. They are perfect gerrymandering and should be considered an affront to any thinking person.
I am a lifelong Texan, 86 years, a retired social service administrator, a resident of Steiner Ranch in Austin, an honorably discharged Navy veteran, a respected family man, and a thoughtful, active Voter in every local and national election. Graduate of Tulane University, Master's degree, 1967.

Ellen Kranz
Self
Austin, TX

As a Texan, I loudly reject these gerrymandered redistricting efforts. These redrawn districts are unfair to the population of Texas and democracy as a whole.

Ryan Buck
self
Houston, TX

This is disgraceful. People are still trying to recover from the floods and the state's response is to redraw congressional districts? Absolutely disgusting. All this does is further drown out the voices of the people, so a few impotent, feckless individuals can stay in power. And to what end? To appease the whims of a fascist pedophile? Someone who has time and again shown that he values no one but himself? I guess I shouldn't be surprised. That's exactly the type of people running the show in Texas too. This once great state has been nothing short of a laughing stock for the past few decades. I know none of the Republicans in office care about the citizens of Texas, regardless of their political affiliation. They will refuse to listen to the people, just as they always have. But if any of you want to prove me wrong, vote against this bill.

Lucy Glover
Self, retired attorney
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting map is a despicable, blatant attempt to deprive me of my voice locally, statewide, and nationally. Needless to say, I strongly oppose HB 4 on moral, ethical, and common sense grounds. I can't imagine how anyone with a conscience could propose it, back it, or vote for it.

Jessica Sanchez
Self
Laredo, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. The impact of this bill will be felt for generations. Redistricting in small towns for the benefit of "Friday night lights" is something pretty much every Texan has heard of and lived through. Now, the scope is wider and the consequences are far greater. Representation for many of us will be pretty much irrelevant and none existent. Why is this not up for vote on the ballot for all Texans? This gerrymandering needs to be stopped and our voices should matter.

Lyle Hufstetler
Self - project manager
San Antonio, TX

I do not support the proposed redistricting map in its current form. It runs afoul of our constitutional republic by bending to the will of the federal executive. In approving this map, the Texas Legislature is forfeiting its right to self governance. The fact that President Trump has admitted to netting an additional 5 Republican seats proves this is a political power grab.

JODY JOHNSON, JD
SELF/ATTORNEY
DALLAS, TX

I object to the illegal mid-decade redistricting plan. It is outrageous that the last set of maps in 2021 are still in litigation because they were impermissibly drawn in a racist manner. Something the Republicans have forcibly argued against, and yet, now they decide there was a problem so they need to redraw them. People of color make up 60.2% of Texans, and yet they currently only hold 43.2% of the congressional seats. The proposed maps will take away even more seats from people of color. CD33 was drawn in response to findings that Texas violated the Voting Rights Act, and now that district is being redrawn in a manner that will take away the Congressman those voters elected (Marc Veasey). The map also redraws Jasmine Crockett's district such that she no longer lives in the district AND the maps packs that district with people of color which dilutes their voting power because they are crammed into this area. An overriding principle of drawing districts is that we should keep communities of interest together. That can be racially or in other ways such as urban/rural. I live in CD32. Besides the fact that the maps effectively suppress the votes of everyone who voted for the Congresspersons that are being stolen from us, I am now placed in a district with people I have very little in common with, and the drawing of CD32 does the same for the people within Dallas.
This is such a disgusting overreach, made even more sickening by the number of Republicans who constantly quote the Bible to justify their reprehensible actions. I don't know how those members sleep at night. For the Democrats - break quorum and do whatever you have to do.

Mary Lowry, Ms. self/author
Austin, TX

I am writing to oppose HB 4 which creates new redistricting maps designed to dilute the voting power of people of color. This response to Trump's demand that Texas give him five more house seats is flagrantly partisan and unethical. This new map has not been drawn to represent the voice of Texans. It's been drawn to cater to the whims of Donald Trump. It's been drawn illegally to silence the voices of communities of color. Merging the 35th and 37th districts is illegal voter suppression of Black and Latino central Texans. As a voting resident of Travis County, I urge you to oppose this bill!

Catherine Sims
self
Austin, TX

I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts that reflect communities of interest.

Michelle Shackelford
Self, Florist
Waco, TX

I strongly oppose the new districts map for the Texas House of Representatives. It clearly does not represent the people of Texas, and it unnecessarily gives more power to one party over another. Let us be clear about what is being attempted - it is called gerrymandering. Not only is it unconstitutional; it is immoral and purely evil. It seeks to silence the voices of those who work the hardest to make our state what it is. It excludes and marginalizes, it does not empower or assist. The government does not rule the people. The government is here to SERVE the people. Government officials are elected by the PEOPLE. Therefore, they work for the PEOPLE. Not above them, but representing them in what must be a fair way for all. The proposed map clearly defines who is in and who is out. This is unlawful, and it is evil. I, a resident of the state of Texas, strongly oppose this new map. The representatives who serve in MY state, to represent ME and MY best interests, will vote no on this new map. May the record state what the people want, not what the political parties in the White House want. Those who have ears to hear, let them hear.

Brandon Watson
Self
Plano, TX

I strongly oppose the redrawing of congressional districts at this time. If you want to win play the damn game how it goes.

Breanna Rollings
Self
Austin, TX

As a native Texan and one of your constituents in Travis County, I am deeply concerned about the current attempts at redistricting in Texas. This is clearly a partisan power grab that doesn't serve citizens but rather a craven party with policies so unpopular they can only win by cheating. It's appalling, anti-American, and anti-democratic. Your job is to serve the American people, not one man hell-bent on consolidating power. I urge you to strongly oppose these redistricting efforts.

Jacob Ibarra
Self
Channelview, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting of congressional districts in Texas. These maps dilute the political power of diverse communities, especially communities of color, by manipulating boundaries in a way that undermines fair and equal representation. Redistricting should reflect the population growth and demographic shifts seen in the state, not serve as a tool to protect incumbents or favor one political party. The current proposal appears to ignore the voices of voters and instead prioritizes partisan gain over democracy. I urge lawmakers to reject these maps and adopt a redistricting process that is transparent, fair, and representative of all Texans. Our districts should be drawn to empower communities, not divide or silence them. Texans deserve better.

Carolyn C. Wylie self (retired copyeditor)
Austin, TX

As a long-time Austin resident and voter (every election since July 14, 1971) I have already endured several rounds of redistricting. I understand that it's a necessary process once a decade. I know it is not necessary this year and it has been made very clear that the only reason it is being done is to produce a few extra Republican districts for the benefit of the worst President in my lifetime. I don't this is a valid purpose. PLEASE DON'T DO THIS. ========

Emily Kelley
Self
Amarillo, TX

My name is Emily, and I am a concerned resident writing to express my deep opposition to the proposed state district changes currently under consideration.

As you are no doubt aware, these redistricting proposals appear to undermine the principles of fair representation by diluting the voting power of communities—particularly communities of color and historically underrepresented groups. The maps seem engineered more to protect political power than to reflect the demographic and geographic realities of our state.

Gerrymandering erodes public trust in our democratic process, and it threatens the legitimacy of elections and legislative accountability. I urge you, as a policymaker with the ability to influence this process, to oppose these proposals and advocate for transparent, nonpartisan redistricting that prioritizes the rights of all Texans—not just the interests of those in power.

I would appreciate any opportunity to stay informed on your stance or initiatives you may be part of to combat gerrymandering. Texas deserves fair maps.

Sincerely,

Emily Kelley

Catherine Hammond
Self - retired
McKinney, TX

There is no reason for another redistricting only around 3 years after the last one and without a new census. It smells of manipulation and interference in the current voting process. This bill should not be supported.

Hunter Holm
Self Photographer
AUSTIN, TX

Do you feel good about this? What if the other side was doing this? You'd all be screaming your heads off. Let things be and let our voices be heard through our votes - the right way. You will all have to reckon with the decisions you've made one day. I hope you lose sleep over it. Your family will erase you from their history. All for a small weak egotistical orange man-child, and you know it. How embarrassing.

Collin Stubblefield
Self
Buda,, TX

Hello, I have been a tax payer in Texas my whole life. I do not support redistricting in Texas. Please do not pass this bill.

Acacia Cognata
Myself-physician
Lufkin, TX

I think that gerrymandering has too long been the norm in Texas, and I would like it to stop. If you are going to redistribute the state then the map should be drawn up by a non-political entity, not by politicians trying to save themselves in the next election, not by the sitting president regardless of affiliation.

Dan Manco
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill because it’s unconstitutional, unAmerican and nothing more than cowtowing to a criminal wannabe dictator. SHAME on you.

Neeraja Penumetcha
Self
Austin, TX

This proposed redistricting is a clearly partisan attempt at taking an already lopsided map and further entrenching an unequal and undemocratic map. It is anathema to fundamental democratic principles. That is comes mid-decade and immediately before a primary, that it comes during a special session when there are far more pressing needs at hand (Kerr Country flooding), that it is being sped through a process with limited consideration -- it all makes the partisan intent not only clear but inarguable. If passed, this map would further marginalize and dilute the voices of many Texans in the national conversation. It would stretch already limited constituent services. It will particularly harm brown and black communities. It is a naked power grab and it is shameful. It puts national political aspirations and loyalty to political party over the needs of Texans and basic principles of fairness. If the Texas Legislature ever again wants to be understood as anything but a sock puppet of the national GOP, it must reject this effort decisively.

Robert Copus
Self / geologist
Houston, TX

Please do not do this. Candidates are choosing their voters. Voters should be choosing the candidate

Laura Horansky
Self
San Antonio, TX

The redistricting maps proposed in House Bill 4 (HB 4) are designed to dilute the voting power of communities of color. Period. This malicious attack belies the constitutional rights of these specific populations in Texas. It’s unAmerican and unTexan. I demand fair representation before these maps become law.

Every Texas representative should be fighting for maps that truly reflect all Texans!

Michelle Thomas
Self - SAHM
Katy, TX

The proposed redistricting - after only 4 years since the previously being done - shows the TX GOP has zero interest in actually representing the people of TX. In my TX Civics class back in 1993 we learned that gerrymandering is wrong. Yet today the GOP is back for another round of packing and cracking districts. Where your policies are so entirely unpopular you have to resort to voter suppression and cheating you're on the wrong side of history.

Sam Douglass
Self - genetic counselor
Round Rock, TX

Redistricting should be done every 10 years with the census. This is a power grab

Margo Green

self - retired

LUBBOCK, TX

It's appalling that you would even consider doing this. We are gerrymandered to the hilt already. It's very sad that you know you can't win unless you cheat. How about just once let's have a free and FAIR election in Texas and see what happens. Maybe you won't have to stoop to gerrymandering and voter suppression after all. You won't know until you try. At any rate, I used to be a proud Texas. I was born and raised here. However, now I am ashamed to tell people where I'm from. I'm ashamed of what our state has become. I'm ashamed that you refuse to listen to the constituents you are supposed to represent. I am adamantly against this power grab and I will fight for the rest of my life to make sure another member of the GOP never gets elected to office in TX again.

Kalinda Westbrook

self, Retired ISD business manager, now self-employed accountant, Gatesville City Council Member

Gatesville, TX

I am FOR redistricting.

Roland Wake

Self, Corporate machine battery

Waco, TX

This is a further attempt to deny the people the power they have versus the growing attempt to deny the fact that texas is no longer simply "red"

Jasmine Busch

Self

Austin, TX

Dear representatives-
Please do what’s right and stop the silencing of the citizens of Texas. We all deserve representation even if it means some folks will lose power. Blatant cheating and discrimination is un-American and wrong. Let the people speak and have their votes count. Don’t let this out of cycle redistricting happen. The stakes are very high and our democracy and the people you’ve promised to and are paid to represent do not want this. Do the right thing.

Skylar Rolf, Dr.
Self, Assistant Professor
Missouri City, TX

Thank you to the committee members for the opportunity to share my concerns with you. I vehemently oppose the redistricting efforts that are going on in this special session. As a Texan and an American citizen, I believe in free and fair elections; what I see happening is a non-democratic process occurring to try to ensure partisan power. This current process is rushed, lacks transparency, and offers limited opportunity for citizens such as myself to make our voices heard in a normal process as 3 of the public hearings were before the new maps were made public. The current process does not ensure a fair, transparent, and equal opportunity for representation, and this is most harmful for the marginalized residents of our state. Further, the current maps were certified by Texas officials and there is no reasonable argument that they need redrawn outside of normal due course, which is after each census.

My requests are that this committee allow time for the court case to conclude regarding the most recent district maps in Texas. Further, I request a process that adheres to the normal standards of public input and transparency that does not require a rushed process such as this special session and allows citizens throughout the state to attend public hearings, especially those who are in marginalized communities and may not have access to transportation beyond their local communities. Finally, if district maps are redrawn, I ask the committee members to utilize an independent redistricting commission that ensures maps are drawn that are inclusive and reflects the diversity and needs of our communities. Our state must not be dictated by the Trump Administration's wishes; we need to adhere to the norms and standards of having fair representation, and I believe that the current efforts by the Trump Administration do not do that.

Thank you very much for reading this message.

Jill Bedgood, Ms.
Self / Texas citizen / artist & educator at university level
San Antonio, TX

Dear Texas, I am opposed to the current Special Session: "Kissing Trump's Ring" of redistricting the Texas electoral map. Quoting the Republican Party of Texas: ".... an essential step to preserving GOP control of Congress...." proves this is a political move, which is illegal, without consideration to Texas Constituents, plus a waste of money and time. This special session benefits you, only, thinking you will stay in power. However, Trump is a lame duck president, and if he goes down due to his relationship with Epstein and affiliation with children, you will follow like dominoes. If you are running for office in the future, you may pay the price for this, and other poor decisions, during election season. Trump doesn't care about you. If you don't know that, I have some land in Florida to sell you. Stop this charade, please, and do one small act for the citizens of Texas that would actually benefit your constituents.
Sincerely, Jill Bedgood, voter

Paula Doxey
Constituent
Coppell, TX

I want to let you know that we don't want redistricting. No to redrawing the maps!

Shannon Mulligan
Self, genetic counselor
Pearland, TX

I strongly oppose redistricting. There is no basis for redrawing the maps and doing so will cause citizens of Texas to lose representation. The maps are already heavily biased and suppress non-white voices and this bill will do further damage to the representation of people in our state.

Sara Loperena
Self, Non profit owner
Houston, TX

This is a complete miscarriage of justice. I can't imagine how the governor, the lieutenant governor, the attorney general, or any Texan Republican would respond if a Democratic state senator proposed such a plan. There isn't a single justifiable reason for this plan that the state is even trying to hide behind. Because they know that none in any way exists. It is disgusting that the moment a corrupt president says, "rig the election," the governor says "got it," and then pretends that this is in any way ok. Republicans have been screaming about rigged elections for so many years, when the only real evidence any departments or investigations have ever uncovered were actually committed by Republicans, often specifically for Trump. This shameful "redistricting" steals the voices from hundreds of thousands of Texans. We deserve for our votes to matter, even if the Texas Republican government doesn't think they should. No government gets to decide whose voice counts and whose doesn't, unless you admit that this is fascism. Do not do this. Do not approve this map. Listen to what Texans want, and for once do what is right for the people in this state.

Barbara Loven
Self
Katy, TX

This is unethical and a cheap shot to try to appease Trump; if you are Republican, you will be voted out in 2026; if Democrat, you need to stand up and walk out!!!!

Matthew Tieman
self
Friendswood, TX

I am deeply opposed to this bill. You should be funding for the recent flooding and taking care of constituents and not trying to further gerrymander an already dubious map. Politicians should not be choosing their constituents and this is a very egregious power play. Many communities in Texas were already underrepresented by the old map and this is just disenfranchising more people. Shame on anyone who votes for this bill.

AARON VELASCO, Dr.
self
EL PASO, TX

Texas's recent attempt to redistrict undermines fair voter representation and weakens the democratic process. The proposed maps have been drawn in ways that intentionally dilute the political power of communities of color, despite their population growth, effectively minimizing their influence in elections. This kind of manipulation—otherwise as gerrymandering—distorts electoral outcomes and denies many Texans a real voice in government. In the US House of Representatives, Texas currently has 38 seats in the US House of Representatives, help by 25 Republicans and 13 Democrats; yet the amount of registered Democratic voters hovers around 46% in Texas, illustrating the unfairness of this redristrcting. The fact that the federal government has had to intervene or investigate signals a serious failure to uphold the protections guaranteed under the Voting Rights Act. Redistricting should reflect the people, not protect power.

Holly Williams
self, retired
Austin, TX

NO TO REDISTRICTING. Texas Republicans redrawing voting district maps mid-decade allows "politicians to pick their voters rather than voters picking their politicians." This is an ACTUAL -- not hypothetical -- rigging of future elections and can NOT be tolerated by a true Democracy as well as the people of the State of Texas. Shame on those pushing for this atrocity. NO TO REDISTRICTING in TX.

Mark Jespersen
Self Pilot
Fort Worth, TX

Redistricting is great, GOP need as many seats as possible to pass Trump’s agenda

Jesse Johnson
self
Austin, TX

Vote NO to redistricting the US House of Representatives in Texas. This gerrymandering is horrendous.

Marion K Harman
Self, Retired
Arlington, TX

I support HB4 and the proposed redistribution map. Please take care with the wildlife. Relocate turtles ?? to a wet area. Relocate any other animals to a new home.

Rob Craven
Self
Austin, TX

Against

Mike Sivertsen
Self, retired
Keller, TX

I fully support the redistricting effort contained in HB4. This must be done to correct the population inbalance caused by Biden administration open borders and to correctly represent legal citizens. Please vote in favor.

Cathy Griggs
Myself
Georgetown, TX

Do not redistrict in favor of Republicans. Not right

Darlene Howell, Ms
Precinct Chair 2098 Denton County
Carrollton, TX

I am in favor of HB4 please vote yes for HB4

Sandy Lam
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support the Texas congressional redistricting that will target Black, Latino, and AAPI communities in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, and Austin. These districts already do not offer fair representation of communities in Texas and the redistricting will only further more inequity.

Brittany Trinite self - Board Certified Music Therapist
Round Rock, TX

Efforts to gather and communicate regarding local disasters should be the priorities of this session. There is not currently a strong need for redistricting outside the president's need to organize parties in his favor. Please drop this bill and instead focus on recovery efforts for flood survivors, infrastructure improvements, and actual needs that will directly benefit Texans. Furthermore, redrawing the maps is a disservice to marginalized people who are being ignored and pushed aside in these decisions. It is inappropriate to redraw lines to push a sitting Congresswoman out of her own district.

Stephanie Marzuola
Self
Houston, TX

These maps are not representative of Texas as it is today. They are egregiously gerrymandered. The president should not influence the states right to represent itself. This is a disgrace.

Anna Winter, MRS
self, graphic designer
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the recent redistricting of Austin, Texas, which fragments the city’s communities and dilutes the political power of its residents. This redistricting plan is a clear example of partisan gerrymandering designed to undermine fair representation and silence the voices of a diverse, progressive urban population.

Austin has long been known for its unique identity, civic engagement, and cultural vibrancy. Yet under the new map, the city is split across multiple congressional districts that sprawl into distant, politically distinct rural areas. This approach intentionally severs communities of interest, making it nearly impossible for Austin voters to elect representatives who truly reflect their values and priorities. It weakens local advocacy on critical issues such as public education, transportation, healthcare, and environmental protection.

Redistricting should be a democratic process that ensures fair and equal representation—not a tool for entrenching political power. The dissection of Austin sets a dangerous precedent and undermines the principles of representative government. I urge lawmakers, courts, and citizens to reject this redistricting scheme and demand a map that respects the integrity of Austin’s communities and the fundamental right to fair representation.

Sally Amendola
Self/Retired educator
Sanger, TX

I believe in equal representation under the law, as I believe this should be universally shared by our representatives. However, it does not seem to be the case. The new redistricting lines seem to be grossly unfair and take away this equal representation. It seems that those of us in rural areas are losing our voices. These lines that are being drawn or lines are grossly unfair. I cannot say this enough. As a representative of Texas, I beg you to reconsider these lines and give us back our voices. Sincerely, Sally Amendola.

Nicholas Flott
Self - Teacher
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the gerrymandering happening in this bill. Seems like there are no politicians with a spine willing to stand up to Trump, republicans and democrats alike.

Elizabeth Hardage
Self - IT Consultant
Richardson, TX

This bill is unnecessary and will take time and money from much-needed flood relief and disaster planning. In addition, the proposed districts have been set up to favor certain representatives rather than reflecting the demographics, concerns, and geography of the people they are supposed to represent. There is no need to redraw the congressional district map prior to the next national census. Please drop this bill and stop wasting our time and tax dollars. Thank you.

Susan Hanson
Texas State University-San Marcos-retired
San Marcos, TX

I am beyond angry about what I see going on in the Texas capitol right now--legislators kowtowing to a president who is afraid of losing power in 2026. You should all be ashamed.

I supposed I should speak more calmly, more rationally, but what I'm seeing is truly unconscionable. Instead of working to protect Texans from natural disasters, such as the one that occurred in Kerrville, you're spending time scheming to disenfranchise as many Texas voters as you can.

As a Democrat, I'm accustomed to losing in many venues--accustomed, though not happy about it. That said, we do have a wonderful representative in Erin Zweiner, who truly works for all the people in her district, but our congressperson is Chip Roy, who is another story. Now you want to gerrymander the districts so that even fewer Democrats will have representation in Congress. Gerrymandering by either party should be outlawed, but you are doing it so brazenly that it astounds me. You know, gerrymandering works both ways, and I suspect that if you go through with this plan, Democrats will turn the tables and do so as well. We may still have the RIGHT to vote at this point (of course, that hangs in the balance as well), but if the system is so rigged that only one party's vote counts, that's no right to vote at all; that's autocracy, and it's flatly un-American.

I urge you to stop this charade at once, and to be about the business you were elected to do--to serve the people of Texas, not the would-be king in the White House.

Tissie Elliott, Ms.
Health and Justice Advocacy Network
Austin, TX

I am a life long Texan and I VOTE! Redistricting in Texas occurs every ten years and is based on the most recent census. Redistricting before the 10 year period has passed is unprecedented. Where is our backbone? I thought Texans were supposed to be INDEPENDENT and make our own decisions. Under the present state government we are not living up to our long history of taking care of ourselves. TEXAS should NOT draw new lines at this time. Donald Trump cannot win honestly so he has to do it illegally. Vote NO on redistricting>

JOHNNY SANDOVAL
self
San Antonio, TX

I do not approve of this Bill, it is a direct violation of our Democratic process and should not be allowed . I demand this bill be struck down and discarded as the trash that it is.

DAVE CHOQUETTE, Mr
CCRW, self retired
Copperas Cove, TX

I am in favor of redistricting Texas to optimize for the Republican Party. I am not in favor of having a Democrat as a chair for this committee. This is a Republican state. The majority of the citizens in this state are Republican. We sent a majority Republican representation into the legislature this Term, even if the election of the speaker was corrupted by treasonous actions I am in favor of redistricting in the favor of the Republican Party and we will fix the treason problem at the next election.

Kristen Wallman
Self, School Psychologist
Pearland, TX

I would like to request that the House reject the proposed redistricting maps. For me, it would result in a change of districts to one where my voice is not heard and no representative exists. Also this move appears corrupt and out of line with traditional methods of redistricting.

Palmer McLean
self - bookkeeper
Austin, TX

Please do NOT let the redistricting bill move forward. This is a blatant effort to rig the system. If we want a fair and honest country, then we need fair and honest voting. Redistricting like this is an unfair and dishonest way to stack the vote in one side's favor. Vote NO on redistricting. NO NEW MAPS. Thank you.

Essence Provost, n/a self
dallas, TX

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to formally dispute the recent redistricting plan enacted in Texas. As a concerned resident and voter, I believe the newly drawn maps undermine the principles of fair representation and violate both the spirit and the letter of the Voting Rights Act.

The redistricting process should ensure that all Texans—regardless of race, political affiliation, or geographic location—have equal access to representation. Unfortunately, the current maps appear to have been drawn with partisan and racial intent, diluting the voting strength of communities of color and minimizing the influence of growing urban populations. According to recent census data, over 95% of Texas's population growth over the past decade came from Black, Latino, and Asian communities. Yet, the new maps fail to reflect this demographic reality with proportional representation.

By fragmenting minority communities and packing or cracking districts to favor one political party, this plan undermines democracy. It disrespects the voting power of citizens in places like Dallas, Houston, Austin, and the Rio Grande Valley, where diverse communities deserve strong, unified voices in government—not gerrymandered districts that dilute their influence.

Additionally, the rushed and opaque nature of the redistricting process limited meaningful public input. Maps were introduced and approved with minimal opportunity for community engagement or response. This process fails the basic test of transparency and accountability in a democratic society.

I urge the relevant authorities to reject this redistricting plan and implement maps that reflect the actual population changes in Texas, uphold the Voting Rights Act, and provide all communities with fair and equitable representation. Our democracy depends on it.

Sincerely,
Essence Provost
Dallas, TX 75225

Anthony Mirabelli
Self
Grand Prairie, TX

This is CHEATING!

My district, District 30, which is currently represented by Jasmine Crockett, has a long history of voting for democratic candidates by a very large margin. And this proposed redistricting effort mandated from Trump is a textbook definition of gerrymandering that seeks to weaken the power of the voters in this area. Another knife in the back after more than 50 years of racially motivated disenfranchisement in this state, once coined the “Tenacious Defender” of voter discrimination. We are tired of our representatives going unaccountable for voting in favor of deeply unpopular legislation. The so-called Big Beautiful Bill is a great example of this disconnect. The policies contained within it will disproportionately affect communities of color, like in Tarrant County, and make affording basic human necessities more difficult. Cuts to SNAP and Free and Reduced school lunches will leave my students hungry and make learning harder. Medicaid cuts will burden their hard working families with unnecessary expenses and medical uncertainties. Restricted loan payment plans for higher education will make it financially untenable for many of my students to earn a college degree. And those are just a few of the many unpopular, inhumane pieces of legislation that House Republican Representatives from Texas have voted for and would continue to vote for if they were given more power by these racial gerrymandering efforts. We want fair, non-partisan maps that create competitive districts, that respect vulnerable and historically underrepresented communities, and legislators that establish transparency and collaboration with voters. We want ICE to stop terrorizing our communities, especially in Dallas where innocent people are being abducted by thugs for simply following the rules and showing up for their court hearings. And we want legislators focused on flood readiness in this upcoming special session instead of trying to steal our voices with this surprise gerrymandering scheme. Texas will not continue to be a testing ground for Trump and his fascist policies. Thank you.

Joseph Bigley
Self
Katy, TX

I am disappointed in this bills considering given the antithetical nature it represents to equality for citizens of our state. Usage of these tactics by a group that has sought to pay more attention to self-interest and businesses than to the peoples whom they are the representatives of is abhorrent, and represents nothing of the American and Texan values of which I as a veteran thought we were meant to uphold as public servants. Vote against this bill, and show that you stand with the people who you have sworn to represent.

Alicia Colina-Ashby
self
Dallas, TX

I am a Texas voter, and I oppose any mid-decade redistricting, especially while the current maps are still being challenged in court. Furthermore, I oppose any redistricting that does not result in fair representation for all Texans. Texas has a long history of racial gerrymandering and discriminatory voting practices, so I urge you to prevent communities of color from being deliberately divided, thereby weakening their political voice.

Texans have the right to fair and equal representation that's achieved through a thoughtful, transparent process that allows meaningful public input. Lawmakers should have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps, protect minority voting rights, and respect county lines, city boundaries, and communities of interest. A rushed 30-day special session packed with unrelated agenda items is not the way to achieve this.

Texans deserve to have a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and results in equal representation for all, not this rushed and deeply flawed process. Flood recovery efforts and the safety of Texans should be the top priority, not redrawing political maps.

Thanks for responding to this urgent need.

Lloyd Amundson
Self
Lewisville, TX

Please don’t restructure Texas congressional districts. Blue states are threatening to redistrict their states California has 9 republican districts. They are threatening to get rid of all 9 so all congressmen from California will be democratic. Also new York and Illinois want to redistrict Texas. You are wasting your time. Please make this clear to president trump

Alexandra Brouse
Self
N Richlnd Hls, TX

Please do not redistrict our state. If you do, other states will follow and it cause redistricting around the US to account for the unfairness.

Jill Boullion
self
HOUSTON, TX

I am opposed to the drawing of new congressional maps that will do nothing to reduce the already significant gerrymandering of districts in Texas and will only serve the interests of a minority of people-- elected Republicans. Who can respect the laws of a State when the lawmakers take it upon themselves to diminish the value of votes by people they don’t like or whom they fear won’t vote for them or their party? It is the right of all registered Texans to vote and be counted equally. Gerrymandering by either party is an outright attack on our democracy. Those who promote gerrymandering show that they are unfit to serve in any public office in our great State! After the last census I was moved from CD2 to CD18. Because of Governor Abbott's poor decisions I have been without representation in DC since last spring. Now you propose to move me back to CD2. Please direct your valuable time and energy to issues that make a difference in the every day of life of Texans, not to the master you serve in DC.

Emily Allison
self; Sr. Marketing Manager
Austin, TX

I am an Austin resident an extremely concerned Texan. My understanding of State vs Federal Government is that the State serves its people first and foremost. This bill is using Texas as a tool for the Federal government, for the national Republican party, and for President Trump, who has proven to only look out for himself. You are in office to serve the people of Texas. Listen to the people. Do better!

Joan Barasch
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I live outside of Pflugerville in Travis County in HD17. Pete Sessions is based in Waco which is pretty different than my community. However it is still closer to my area than this new boundaries for HD11 that includes many many rural empty counties and Midland which feels like a foreign country. Rep Sessions already doesn't respond if I reach out but there's a closer office if I really needed help. A rep in west Texas is really remote and I doubt can offer help. Of course all of this ignores the willful destruction of our democracy and my inability to weigh in on a candidate of my choice.

Sandra Pedrazasself
Self
WIMBERLEY, TX

Redistricting is supposed to make sure everyone’s vote counts equally, but when maps are drawn to protect politicians instead of voters, it undermines that principle. This politically motivated manipulation of voting districts comes at the expense of Democrats and marginalized communities. The current proposed redistricting map is an obvious attempt at Republican gerrymandering and will discount the will of many voters. I respectfully ask that this attempt be withdrawn.

Linda Parker
Self - retired
Palacios, TX

Totally against redistricting under this plan. Trying to take away our rights to fair elections. Everyone has a right to free and fair elections.

Karen Thurman, Mrs
Self/Retired
Valley View, TX

Gerrymandering Texas districts again so soon to make less of our Texas votes count will not be forgotten. You know it is unfair in a democracy to only allow the minority who agree with you to be allowed to vote for representation that reflects their opinions. If you vote "for" this bill you are complicit a pedifile using his office to enrich himself. A truly deplorable move.

Cecilia Riley, Ms
Self, conservation biologist
Fort Davis, TX

The proposed redistricting plan for the state of Texas is unfair and unwise. You cannot dilute or dismiss the voting public this. Why would you want to follow the demands of a weak and deranged President? Texans are independent thinkers, you should be protecting our voti g rights. We the public will not accept the plan, regardless of how you push it. I urge all of you republicans in Austin to back off of this proposed plan, be strong, be brave and stand up for all of your citizens, regardless of party affiliation. Let’s stand together as Texans and not be led astray by Washington politics of a failing administration.

Hannah Decker
n/a
Houston, TX

I am against redistricting. The State of Texas should represent all of its citizens in a fair and equitable manner in the House of Representatives. The president should not affect this representation. Redistricting should occur only every 10 years after the new Census.

Nancy Breitfeller
Self, retired
Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose the adoption of this voting map, or anything like it!

Mid-decade redistricting has no basis in our Constitution, US election law, nor any historical precedent. It is nothing short of throwing out the basis of our Democracy and creating a Russian-style world of mock elections where the results are pre-ordained. The level of autocratic complicity involved in even considering this process is staggering. I was present for the Arlington, TX House field hearing, and it is overwhelmingly clear how little support this has among the citizens of Texas. The question becomes, to whom do you owe your vote: those who elected you? or your cult leader?

Democrats and Republican voters alike see this for what it is, and all but the most craven of them will hold you to account in future elections. Those who vote in favor will be remembered in the appeasement hall of infamy.

Melanie Berry, Mrs.
Fort Trails Republican Women
Jacksboro, TX

The USA is a constitutional republic. The foundational principle of our governance rests upon the accurate and equitable representation of the people. The representation we have in Texas cannot be allowed to be skewed to serve a small minority. I support the passage of HB4 which proposes a new congressional redistricting map creating five additional districts. These new districts are needed to give a voice to the underrepresented residents in our growing metropolitan areas (like Austin, Houston, Dallas) and south Texas. Current boundaries fail to reflect the diverse political perspectives of these areas. By realigning representation to better align with population shifts and community interests, this redistricting ensures every citizen has accurate and true representation.

Sheila Jennings, Ms
Self - retired
Austin, TX

I am here to testify to my opposition to HB 4, and not just to HB 4 but to all discussion of redistricting by this body during this session. The very fact that we are here talking about redistricting in between the US Census years is appalling enough. But now this body is considering a map created in whole cloth by the White House, and for the only purpose of trying to maintain control of the US Congress for the Republican party. This very act is unconstitutional - it robs Texans of their right to fair representation in our nation. This past week, thousands of Texans showed up at hearings across the state to make their voices heard, and we are not in support of this action, this power grab. You cannot and should not rob us of our voices - your one duty is to represent us, to take care of Texans, and do right by our state - and redistricting instead of serving the people is a dereliction of your duty, your oath. The new congressional map, suddenly ready after days of taking testimony from us and denying any map had been made yet —is gerrymandered, racist, and deeply corrupt. You cannot take our voice from us - we will object. You cannot consider this bill while there are other needs for Texas. Do your job, and table HB 4.

Charles Roeckle
Self
Austin, TX

While redistricting is occasionally needed to maintain representational fairness when there are significant changes in population growth or decline, the goal of House Bill 4 is not representational fairness. The goal of this bill is to give political advantage to one political party over another. Such gerrymandering is unjust and immoral in any circumstances, whether practiced by Democrats or Republicans. Gerrymandering is a practice that should be abhorred by all Texans who believe in justice, integrity, and true democracy. I am adamantly opposed to House Bill 4 and to gerrymandering at any time by anyone.

Merrill Poepping
Self
Austin, TX

How are you working for those that you are representing when you are trying to change the entire landscape of the population you have agreed to protect. It seems as though leaders at the current state are working within self interest and not in the interest of those they represent. Please LISTEN to what is being said without judgement, so you are able to make a decision based on those you represent

Cynthia Wills
Self/Retired
Alvin, TX

I fully support HB 4 and the proposed redistricting map.

Jessica Sullivan, Ms.
Self
San Antonio, TX

The district maps for Texas should reflect the natural community boundaries regardless of political affiliation now or at any point in time in the future. Elected officials are voted into office to truly and faithfully represent the interests of all constituents in their districts not just those who elected them. Any attempt to gerrymander the maps is a gross and depraved subversion of democracy. Any elected official willingly participating in this unconstitutional effort should be held to account to the fullest extent of the law.

Grace Jones-Taylor
self
Austin, TX

This is Gerrymandering. It’s undemocratic and a dangerous precedent. I firmly oppose this power grab, and believe that the people of Texas deserve better.

Natalie Mannix
Self
Little Elm, TX

If you can only win elections by cheating, then maybe you should change your party platform and actually listen to your constituents. Republicans are not about people anymore, only about obeying their Trump master and winning at the cost of all of us. This bill is an awful step in democracy.

Karen Santhanam
Self
Cedar Park, TX

As a Texas voter, I think the off-cycle redistricting is a waste of money and a bad precedent. We have many pressing issues in Texas, like flooding, water and electricity issues. To do redistricting instead of taking care of issues that matter to Texans is a betrayal of the trust we have put in our public officials.

Additionally, diluting the voices of minority voters is immoral and illegal. We deserve representation and need to follow the Voting Rights Act.

Regardless of the party in power, we need to follow the law and support our democracy.

Jane Layton
Self
Plano, TX

I am voicing my dissent for even considering such a blatant attempt by Republicans to manipulate districts. District maps should be drawn in the best interest of the public, allowing the people of Texas to be fairly represented in Congress. However, because republicans know that due to the disastrous, chaotic Trump administration, they stand a good chance of losing the House, and so resort to unfair and unusual practices in order manipulate the outcome in their favor. This is abuse of power at its worst. When will Republicans quit doing everything Trump tells them to do and instead represent all Texans.

Heidi Langan, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

No redistricting! The maps that I have seen will mean that very large areas of central Texas will not be represented by people who live in the area. We will be represented by people who live in San Antonio, Waco or Kerrville. I want to be represented by someone who understands central Texas and lives there. The new maps are racists and partisan. No redistricting!!!

Lisa Polk
Self
Colleyville, TX

Texas population has exploded over the last 5 years so redistricting will reflect Texas in 2025. It's a must do now too

Kelli Chela
Self, SAHM
Commerce, TX

Please vote in favor of the redistricting bill!

Chuck Davidson
self
Chester, TX

Latest maps I have seen are a farce; why even pretend that this is a democratic process. 100 percent political and based upon race.

Erika Valderrama, Mrs.
Self
San Antonio, TX

.

Robert Stabe, N/A
self
Katy, TX

I am submitting this input in opposition to the Legislature voting to redistrict our Congressional districts in Texas. I am a retired prosecutor and have always believed in upholding the law and our Texas and U.S. Constitution. I am strongly opposed to the Trump backed Republican effort to redraw our Congressional districts.
How districts are drawn affects every political issue, from the economy to healthcare to public education. If politicians are elected from districts that don't reflect the population, you end up with situations where politicians support policies that the vast majority of people oppose, or they won't support policies that the vast majority of people support. When politicians manipulate maps for personal or political gain, it prevents residents like me from having our voices heard on all of these policies that affect us. If the people are not satisfied with the policies of the current Republican administration, the people should, at least, have the possibility of replacing their representatives with candidates more in line with the wishes of the people.
Our Founders required elections every two years for our representatives to the House. As I'm sure you know, the reason for this is so if the people did not believe that their Representative was representing them adequately, the people could replace their representative after only two years. Gerrymandering, in general, is contrary to this idea. Redistricting at this point in order to create up to 5 more Republican districts goes against everything our Constitution stands for.
Redistricting at Trump's direction is nothing more than a blatant power grab. It is unjust, unethical and contrary to the ideals of our Constitution. Our attorney General, Ken Paxton, along with Joan Huffman, have both stated that our current districts have not been drawn with race in mind. There is no legitimate justification for redistricting. The State of Texas has opposed redistricting litigation for over four years by claiming its maps were drawn entirely without consideration of race. The new Department of Justice letter contradicts the sworn testimony of Texas's lead map drawers and its elected officials, and is wrong. The Constitution and Voting Rights Act do not require destroying existing coalition districts. Claiming that districts are racial gerrymanders simply because they contain two or more distinct racial groups turns the Constitution and Voting Rights Act upside down and is not worthy of any response by the Texas Legislature.
Redistricting at this time is simply unfair, unjust, contrary to democratic principles and our democracy and contrary to the ideals of our Constitution.
If the Texas Legislature does indeed approve redistricting in our state, you will see in future history books that you were on the wrong side of history.

Brandon Schneider
self
Houston, TX

I don’t expect you to remember my earlier testimony given the volume and speed of this process, but to reintroduce myself: I’m Brandon Schneider. I am in CD 18, but maybe becoming 7 or 29? I genuinely don’t know. The published map is such low quality, with no basic tools like address search or clearly defined boundary lines, that many residents are left guessing.
I’m no politician, but I do know maps. I work with 9-1-1 call routing data that must be 100% accurate. Lives depend on clean, current data and proper boundaries. We go through multiple reviews. This “map” doesn’t come close to that standard.
In Northside Village (Houston), depending on where you stand, you might be in three different districts with no way of knowing which one you actually belong to. And Northside Village voters are predominately Hispanic.
These kinds of issues—gaps, overlaps, outdated data, poor resolution—are red flags in any GIS process. As a Senior GIS Analyst, I can’t even call this a map. It’s more like a political art project. A map informs. This misleads. That asterisk matters—this is not a spatial product, it’s a political tool for one man’s agenda. Not in the way we define "maps" in the GIS community—something reliable, reviewed, verified, and accurate.
If I’m remembering correctly, the last Senate hearing was on Tuesday July 28th. The chair was asked point blank—whether any maps had been worked on, created, or provided and by whom. Each time, they answered in the negative feigning ignorance on record. Then—less than 24 hours later—a map was published.
Even basic annexations take more time and care. This was rushed. Even small annexations require a process that takes much longer than 24 hours. Either the House and Senate chairs misled the public or someone quietly and independently finalized it behind the scenes.
And why would anyone knowingly create outdated maps with unclear boundaries? The only reason is to appease those higher up the political ladder.
You’ve heard from the people. Reject these maps and focus on urgent issues—like flood recovery. People are still hurting.
I’m not a native Texan, but I’ve heard this state proudly referred to as "The Great State of Texas." But can you still say that with a straight face?
Texas suffered catastrophic flooding and is wasting time focusing on redistricting and arresting people volunteering to help flood victims. That’s embarrassing.
If you support this map*, I urge you to reconsider. Represent people, not politics. If you truly want to make Texas great—not the red hat kind—stop this and help those in need.
In my line of work, an annexation process would require a substantial reason for emergency responders to even begin discussion on making a change, and that’s before we even begin working on a first draft of a map—this however, would immediately get rejected.
I’ll end on this: I can’t wait for the South Park episode roasting all of this. And when it comes, it won’t be satire—it’ll be a documentary.

Suzy Woodford
Self retired citizen 4th gen Texan
Buda, TX

This action to redraw maps is unconstitutional and antidemocratic. It's ironic that a bunch of Texas white men who claim that Texas oughta be a Republic so it can tell DC to pound sand are the group that kowtows to a twice convicted insurrectionist ex woman abuser we with a bad makeup job. Your desire to resurrect the ol' Confederate ways are clear to all in this nation. If you vote this agenda out of committee, you are stripping Central Texas of more representatives. You've been rigging since 2003. This is shameful and undemocratic. Instead of dealing with closing hospitals, hunger and the effects of climate change, you're busy stripping Texans of their rights. It's immoral and disgusting. Do not cater to Trump. You do not represent that bigot -- you represent us.

Nancy Reim
self
Garland, TX

I am totally against the proposed redistricting. Cheating to win is NEVER the right choice.

Karen Gross
Citizen Discourse
Austin, TX

The republican leadership pushing for redistricting is circumventing the democratic process and is trying to win by fixing the maps and cheating. To carve Travis county into 4 districts is an illustration of this. Win fairly. Vote against this map.

Celia Berry
Self
Austin, TX

Do not move forward with this illegal gerrymandering that will directly affect me as a citizen. Meeks me sick

D.S. Zamora
Self
Houston, TX

Stop working on this BS immediately and work only on the flood recovery and improved response to disasters until that's done, because the Senate will attempt to jack up whatever the House passes and force a conference committee. You folks are just begging for another event that results in a high death toll.

Or is the death toll a goal with the people that control this edition of the Legislature?

mario sanchez
Escualo energy
Houston, TX

Do it

Heather Fry
Self
Dallas, TX

The redistricting effort will divide towns and neighborhoods and dilute the voting power of communities of color. As drawn, the districts split many communities that already face systemic barriers to political participation. Every Texan deserves to have their voice heard at the ballot box and redistricting should be a tool for equal representation.

Grant Boone
Self
Abilene, TX

I am a lifelong Republican. Please don't do this. If for no other reason than it is simply unethical. That should be enough. Let ideas win without rigging the system.

Theresa Schwab
Self
Salado, TX

I am in full support of this bill. The new map better reflects my region specifically. Thank you for representing Texas well with this plan.

Clay Wisner
Self/consultant
Houston, TX

This Redistricting map is a blatant power grab by Republicans. This special session should be focused on efforts to create/improve/fund better systems to ensure that flash floods and other natural disasters don't kill innocent people. The number of "100-year" or "500-year" events are increasingly common.
This session should be about protecting Texans.
Caving to pressure from Donald Trump to "get five more seats" lays bare the craven, egotistical and racist motives behind this awful proposed map. This state should work towards modifying its rules for redistricting, changing to a nonpartisan method based on population, not wealth and race. Get some term limits in place as well, while you're at it. What a farce the Texas Government has become under Republican leadership. Wasting time on banning THC when we have missing bodies from floods, a power grid that doesn't connections national grid, property taxes that ruin families and produce some of the worst public education results in the country… this is an absurd excuse for a governing body.

Kimberly Bezner
Self-speech pathologist
Dallas, TX

I vehemently oppose the proposed rezoning of districts. I believe it is unfair to the millions of residents in Texas and serves to make Texas more opposed to democracy.

Jack Parker
Self
Houston, TX

Performing redistricting at this time will alter how Houston's representation is made up in the legislature and we don't even have a elected representative at the national level currently to fight this and bring added attention to it. There is no real reason to do this and it's a blatant violation of political standards. Our current redistricting from 2021 is still under federal investigation.

Minako Pressley
Self
Rosharon, TX

This bill is abhorrent and goes against the good of all Texans.

Adia Brown
self - marketing manager
Pflugerville, TX

I am against the redistricting of Texas.

Nancy Fisher, Precinct Chair
DCDP
Garland, TX

The unjust and blatantly political decisions by the hard right Republicans in power will catch up to them and these bills will be the breaking point. Texans deserve fairness and still want to live in a democracy. Do your job and not the bidding of Trump.

T. Lydia McKinney, Mx.
The Prodigy Production
Houston, TX

Attention. My friends, family, and peers do not support the mid-decade redistricting efforts by our officials. This blatant disregard for public opinion and the oppression of Texans must come to an end. I urge you to deeply observe and analyze your humanity to regain common ground with current social science and the opinions of the public. The oppression must stop. I urge you again to reconsider. The resulting impact will effect you negatively and the people will not forgive you.

Erica Faulkenberry
Self, solutions architect
Austin, TX

I deeply oppose this bill and the attempt to further disenfranchise Texans. Please, do the right thing and abandon this garbage.

Elizabeth Knoop
Self
Frisco, TX

This bill is a proposal at further manipulating the election districts to favor Republicans. It is a bill that stands against the democratic principles of our country's constitution which supports for fair representation. Getting elected by cheating is anti-democratic and poor professional behavior. It sets a bad example for our children and grandchildren by says that cheating is OK. It is not. So please be a Christain and respect your fellow citizen and constituent...whether they are Republican or Democrat.

Camille Owens
Self
Dallas, TX

I oppose the attempt to dilute and diminish the power of citizens votes by drawing ridiculous districts in order to give Trump and Abbott what they demand in order to cling to their offices. Clearly this is not the will of the people, but the will of those who are currently in power and who are desperate to continue to remain. Please represent the citizens of Texas and not the power hungry who want to screw Texans out of fair representation in Congress. It is shameful the way Republicans in our state, which prides itself on its independence and individuals making their own decisions, is now kowtowing to a President and Governor who are looking out for themselves and not for the Sate of Texas. I am ashamed of all of those who fall to their knees to please Trump and Abbott.and Republicans are certainly doing so. Do not sacrifice the vote of your constituents for your pathetic allegiance to those who will do nothing to better the lives of Texans.

Mark Smith
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing in strong opposition to HB4. Trump has demanded that the Texas Legislature bend to his will and redraw districts to yield five additional seats and you people are jumping. It is the most shameful thing I have seen yet out of the Legislature and I thought that was a bar that couldn't go lower. In 2021 you maintained that the gerrymandered districts you drew were race-blind. Now you are redrawing them because you agree with the bogus DOJ finding that they are NOT race-blind. Either you were lying then or your you're lying now. Or, more accurately, both are lies. They were drawn in 2021 to neutralize the vote of black and latino voters and now they are being redrawn again to further marginalize voters of color. If these districts become a reality, Democrats will be elected in 13 percent of the districts while they account for nearly 50 percent of voters in the state. These districts will weaken our democracy, fail to hold elected officials accountable, provide a template to other states to rig the next election, worsen our partisan divides, ensure even worse underrepresentation of people of color, and erode public confidence in the electoral process. Unless these are your actual goals, please reject these maps in favor of fairly drawn and representative district lines. Thank you.

Keith Brown, Mr.
Self
El Paso, TX

This bill is nothing more than an 'in my face' plan to completely drown out my vote as an African-American. The current gerrymandered map moved me from TX-16 into TX-23. The current map created an abnormally large district, one in which Rep. Tony Gonzalez has failed to properly represent all of his constituents. Enlarging Rep. Tony Gonzalez's district will lead to one swath of his western-most district literally being pushed into the 'political desert'.

Heather Summers
self
Austin, TX

Texas is facing real and urgent challenges—from the devastating impacts of recent flooding to the strain on essential services. Our legislators should be focused on solving these problems, not playing political games to appease Trump or protect party power.

Texas is already one of the most heavily gerrymandered states in the country. Redrawing districts now—years before the next census—only deepens the disconnect between voters and their representatives. Why would we double down on a broken system that silences the voices of so many Texans?

We need fair and independent redistricting that ensures every voter has a voice. Any attempt to redraw the maps now is nothing more than a power grab. Representation should reflect the will of the people—not political maneuvering.

Let’s wait for the 2030 census and do it right. I strongly oppose any efforts to further gerrymander Texas. Please stand up for democracy and for every Texan’s right to be fairly represented.

Craig Lumbatis
Self
Flower Mound, TX

I strongly oppose HB 4. This bill represents yet another attempt to manipulate district boundaries for partisan gain rather than ensuring fair and equal representation for all Texans. Gerrymandering undermines the foundational principles of our democracy, silencing communities and diminishing the voices of voters based on political expediency.

Texans deserve congressional maps that are drawn transparently, using nonpartisan data and public input—not to entrench power or diminish competition. HB 4 fails to reflect the growing diversity of our state and instead reinforces partisan divides at the expense of fair representation.

I urge lawmakers to reject this bill and commit to a redistricting process that prioritizes integrity, fairness, and the will of the people.

If you have to do this to win and/or maintain control, you’re just a bunch of cheating assholes! I guess if you’re Dallas Cowboy’s fans you will next be pushing for rules changes that would only benefit the Cowboys in order for them to win a Super Bowl. FYI, that won’t work either! Damn, now I gave you another idea!

Shalinda Kelley
Self
Cedar Park, TX

I oppose this bill.

Dulce Gonzalez, Ms.
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am completely against the proposed redistricting for the election of members for the House of Representatives. Please reconsider the proposed redistricting in favor of a more fair system.

Kent Livingston
Self Chief Technology Officer
Austin, TX

Stop representing the GOP redistricting and support free and fair elections by districts which represent all voters

Christin Bentley, Mrs.
Self, State Republican Executive Committeewoman
Winona, TX

I am in strong support of the proposed redistricting map and urge you to pass HB 4. This map is critical to strengthening Republican representation in Congress and ensuring that Texas continues to lead the way in advancing the Trump America First Agenda.

We need to increase Republican-leaning districts to provide a larger buffer for GOP seats in the U.S. House, particularly as we head into a midterm cycle. Preserving GOP control of Congress is essential to defending our conservative values, securing the border, and standing up to the radical left.

This map wisely targets opportunities in South Texas, Dallas, and Houston where Democrat-held districts can be flipped to Republican control. At the same time, rural Texas gains stronger representation under this proposal, ensuring that the voices of our small towns and agricultural communities are not drowned out by urban liberal agendas.

I strongly urge you to vote in favor of HB 4 and solidify a Republican majority for the future of Texas and our nation.

Christin Bentley

Maren Curtis
Self
Austin, TX

It’s not time for redistricting. You just defended your current maps in court, so are you saying that they were wrong? We do not want this. If you break the city of Austin up into that many groups and still keep the governors mansion in your “desired” area that makes us look so fucking stupid as Texans. Not to mention how weak and powerless you look just taking this directive from daddy Trump. Do not do this. And if you’re a Democrat, then get out of town, we will support you!

Taylor Holstrom
Self, Accountant
Dallas, TX

I am a lifelong Texan and strongly oppose HB4. The redistricting is outside of normal redistricting years and is a thinly veiled grab for power and is unconstitutional. I grew up Republican and no longer recognize how this Texas GOP party is the same as George Bush’s.

Candace Story, Ms Home
Athens, TX

I do not approve of this plan to redistricting to attempt to swing seats to the GOP. We deserve real representation and Texas is already been gerrymandered to help GOP. This also comes in the middle of a decade not after census, which is usual cause. This attempt to keep GOP will disappoint as you all are not focusing on issues to help people. Your only focus appears to be power and money and control. It is unfair and unprincipled. Voters deserve to have their voices represented in a democratic society. Or have you all forgotten we are supposed to be a democracy?? Sometimes I wonder. Please vote this down. Candace Story

Michael Kelly
Self/Family
Austin, TX

I do not support this Bill, which appears to be an extreme form of gerrymandering, designed to disenfranchise voters in Texas' urban areas. The map as currently drawn appears to have the intent of diluting votes in urban areas by shrinking, splitting, or attaching large rural areas to the anchor points in urban areas. The timing and urgency of this bill suggest this is not in the best interests of a representative democracy, instead serving the current Republican majority in an attempt to maintain power by diluting the interests of the major population centers. This is an example of Republicans putting party over country to impose their will in an authoritarian manner.

Melissa Seal
Self
Austin, TX

I am against redistricting. I am against this bill. I think it is an attempt to end democracy

Jim Anderson
Citizens of Texas
Garland, TX

Republican credo: If you can't win with actual positive ideas and real accomplishments, then simply sabotage the election system. If you have any sense of responsibility to the citizens of Texas, vote NO on the gerrymandering ("redistricting") bill.

MLiss Moore
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I DO NOT want lines redrawn to split up Pflugerville, Austin, or Houston!

LaKenya Bills
Self
Midlothian, TX

All we can ask for is for elected officials to represent the constituents. At this point it is clear that elected officials are no longer working for the people. Gerrymandering is a blatant attempt to incentivize one party over the other. Stand for something and oppose this blatant attempt

James Robles
Self, Training and Enablement Manager
Austin, TX

My name is James Robles, and I'm submitting this comment as a concerned Texan and voter.

We've been told that the country is doing well. That under the leadership of President Trump, America is thriving, prosperous, and on the path to greatness. That there's a clear mandate from the people, and that we are "doing God's work."

So if that's the case—if everything is going so tremendously—why do Republicans feel the need to carve out five additional seats through redistricting?

To me, that doesn't reflect confidence. It reflects fear.

If the party truly believed in the strength of its leadership and the satisfaction of the American people, why wouldn't you trust the voters to speak for themselves? Why wouldn't you rely on the current districts that have already given you power?

This power grab tells me two things:

1. You don't trust the voters.
2. You don't have faith in your own message.

You can't have it both ways. Either the country is content and on the right track, or you're scrambling to rig the map because you're afraid of losing.

I'm against this redistricting effort. Not just because it's unnecessary, but because it undermines the very confidence you claim to have in the direction of this country. If you're proud of your platform, then stand on it—don't redraw the lines out of fear.

Thank you

LaCyndra Lee
Self
Mesquite, TX

Redistricting Texas would grossly misrepresent our minorities. This misrepresentation would be used against our minorities in the community and voices unheard. I am against redistricting as it will hurt our families who are already underserved.

Marsha Arvedson, Dr
self
Houston, TX

Redrawing Texas districts now is WRONG for a number of reasons:
Republican gerrymandering is being used to silence not only communities of color, but any community that dares to have goals and values that differ from the power mad Republican party.
As is typical of Republicans who do not want the public to know what they are doing, hearings on this issue and the maps themselves are drawn with no input from non-Republicans and announced with minimal notice.
Private D.C. lawyers are advising Texas lawmakers behind closed doors not for the benefit of our state but to satisfy the demands of Trump and his billionaire lackeys like Wilks and Dunn.
Already Texas citizens who are represented by Republicans have, in essence, NO REPRESENTATION since Republican representatives are owned by big money donors and are not responsible to the voters. This redistricting effort ensures that big money owns Texas.
This is just wrong.

Lindsey Autry
Self
Austin, TX

I object the gerrymandering

William Flores
Self/Security Analyst
Austin, TX

If you're going to redraw them make it fair and sensible. No district should have what looks like rivers or a bunch of edges. Make it fair and represent the people. You do want to make sure people are represented properly and fully.

Be kind to one another.

Seth Freedman
Self
Dallas, TX

This bill is a cowardly and flagrant attempt to cheat in order to steal representation from Texas residents. I am fully opposed to this bill and demand it is rejected. If you cannot win elections based on your positions, you should not be cheating to illegitimately re oke peoples' rights to representation. That is what the revolution was fought for.

Helen Bryan, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

Gerrymandering in any form is anti democratic. HB4 is clearly a desperate power move by extreme right wing individuals who are fearful that they cannot win sn election fair and square with their negative messages and attacks. Texas is becoming a scary and awful place to live for most of its population. Please reject this bill.

Jacqueline Hardage
Self-SAHM
Angleton, TX

Strongly oppose!

Jolyn Potenza
n/a
Southlake, TX

I am a native Texan and taxpayer who stands in support of the HB4 redistricting map.

LaQresha Durst
Self
Baytown, TX

I oppose to the gerrymandering of districts. This is out right cheating and should not be allowed.

Rachael McClung
Self
Amarillo, TX

I urge our representatives to reject any effort at redistricting during a non-census year. This “demand” from Trump’s DOJ is a blatant effort to disenfranchise minority voters and those that do not align with the “ruling party”. It is undemocratic at its core, unconstitutional, and seeks to weaken the voices of YOUR constituents. This is nothing more than an abhorrent attempt to entrench control over our state and national politics by one party over another. Stand up for the people who voted for you and vote NO on any redistricting measures!

Patricia Cummings
Self
Lorena, TX

I support this bill, Pass the map out of committee as soon as the testimony ends. Do not adjourn until the map is passed. Thank you.

Carol Spencer
self
Cedar Creek, TX

Is it illegal to redistrict now? No. Is Texas growing significantly? Yes. Do the districts as drawn by Plan C2308 comply with applicable law and court decisions? Yes. Other than politics which enters into everything the legislature does no matter the bill number or issue, is there any reason this should not be done? No.

The diatribe coming from those in the opposing political party is no different than the diatribe that comes from any opposition party, unhappy with the fact that they don't have the majority and can't stop adoption should the proposing party stick together in their votes. Wipe away the political posturing and there is no reason this bill and map should not be adopted.

Voters ultimately get to choose by casting votes. Adopting this Big Beautiful Map and HB4 does not guarantee any outcome at the polls. That's clear from the outcome at the polls in many elections. They're called upsets. They happen in every election.

So, take a vote and pass the map immediately upon the end of public testimony. There will be a quorum and no reason to delay that vote. I doubt any member of the committee is going to change his/her vote, so get the job done. Do not adjourn until the vote is taken and the map is adopted!

Krystal Baxter
self; librarian
Austin, TX

The proposed redistricting map carves up the urban areas of the state in ways that decrease representation of Texas citizens. It is clear that these changes are not intended to give the average person more political representation, but to try and lock in the governing power of the Republican party. Texans deserve better than this power grab. We deserve a transparent process that includes public input and that serves the public good. These maps do not reflect the diversity of our state and do a disservice to the Texans you claim to represent. Please keep us, not partisan politics, at the heart of your work.

David Kilmetz
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my deep concern and strong opposition to the proposed redistricting bill currently under consideration, which appears to gerrymander our state for blatant partisan gain. This kind of manipulation undermines the integrity of our democratic process, silences the voices of minority communities, and violates the foundational principles of equal representation. Redistricting should be about fair and equitable representation, not about entrenching political power at the expense of Texans' civil rights.

I urge you to reject this bill and instead advocate for a transparent, nonpartisan redistricting process that reflects the true diversity and will of the people. Your constituents are watching closely, and we will remember who stood up for fair democracy, and who did not.

William Carter
Self
Corsicana, TX

Greetings, as an active member of the the Navarro County Republicans, I request that you keep Navarro County in just one district. thank you

Kristina Voutas
Self
Elgin, TX

I am against the gerrymandering of Texas districts to rig the upcoming midterm or any elections. The people of Texas deserve to be represented fairly and equitably so that each one of their votes counts towards the type of Texas, we the people want to see, not what a few in power want to see. This redistricting attempt is widening the chasm of mistrust that people in Texas have for the alleged elected leadership. Let the districts stand as they are. Let the people's voices be heard. Step up and be the public servants your were elected to be. The nation is watching.

Pamela Martin
self
Austin, TX

I am opposed to the redistricting of the state of Texas in order to support Trump and this authoritarian fascist government.

Heather Abbott
Self
Austin, TX

testify

My name is Heather Abbott. I was born in Ft. Worth, raised in Allen, went to school in Denton, and have worked in Dallas and Austin ever since.

I'm writing against HB 4.

I've seen corruption in Texas politics, but never like today. Today, the Texas Republican party I have learned to navigate are unrecognizable. They are holding hands with an abusive father figure who's dictating their actions and words.

That figure has demanded my state politicians redraw the voting lines and they're abiding with HB 4. They're fast & willing to illegally suppress the votes of Black and Latino communities -- and let there be no question, white people also live in those communities.

This proposed redistricting map serves not the people of Texas. It serves not the constituents knocking at your door. It serves one man only, despite the winning feeling many Republicans may feel. It serves only Donald Trump.

Trump will be the new face of Texas -- not Greg Abbott or anyone else. But there's a chance to stop that. There's a chance to stand up to that abusive father figure. Because the abuse won't stop there.

I implore Texas Republicans to recognize this. Redrawn lines give a false sense of control of their seats, but they're not even the ones really drawing the lines.

Thank you for this opportunity for public comment. I remain hopeful.

Allyn Lowell
Self/Attorney
Dallas, TX

This bill allows Texas Republican leaders to kowtow to the unconstitutional demands of a president who flouts rule of law, for the express purpose of disenfranchising those of us who vote Democratic or other than Republican. There are a significant number of blue voters in this state, and this bill makes clear that Republican leadership never had any intent to represent them or their values, as true leaders would. Many Texas Democrat voters are in the upper middle class, have the ability to move elsewhere, and will do so—with our tax dollars—if this state legislature continues its egregious attempt to erase our voices and push the wholly false narrative that all Texans share the radical (and economically ruinous) MAGA platform.

This “redistricting” is pure gerrymandering—the president admitted that by ordering Texas Republicans to redraw lines so that “he” could pick up seats in the House. If passed, this law will immediately be litigated, meaning the state will then use tax dollars—including the tax dollars of the voters the bill disenfranchises— to defend it and legislators’ revolting but clear purpose of thwarting the Constitution.

Stuart Slaughter
Self. Financial Advisor.
DALLAS, TX

This blatantly devious action is a complete contradiction to what our country used to stand for - and what the founding fathers envisioned. For God's sake have some decency and courage to do the right thing.

Audrey Jisha
Self
Seguin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill

Daniel Hunt, SREC Committeeman SD3
Self
Athens, TX

This Congressional District map is extremely good for all the People of Texas. It accurately reflects the commonalities within areas. It is geographically sound. It is not gerrymandered in the slightest. It simply makes sense. Please pass HB4 favorably from Committee.

Laura Lemons
Self / Accountant
Missouri City, TX

This redistricting is illegal and only being done to placate an authoritarian dictator. Representatives should vote NO on this bill.

Kathryn Wallace
Self - dietitian
Houston, TX

It’s deeply troubling to see yet another attempt to manipulate Texas’s districts for political gain rather than for the fair representation of its people. Redistricting should be about ensuring that every Texan’s vote carries equal weight — not about carving out safe seats to entrench one party’s power. As Texans, we deserve a process rooted in transparency, accountability, and fairness. Anything less undermines the very principles of our democracy and silences the voices of countless communities across our state. I oppose this bill!

Sarah Hudgens
Self
Georgetown, TX

I do not support the redistricting measure, which is not fair or representative of your constituent makeup. Please show strength in the face of pressure from the Trump administration, which you know is corrupt. Kowtowing to this president at the expense of Texans is wrong.

Madeline Smith
Self
Richardson, TX

I am a soon-to-be teacher who lives in House District 32. My town, Richardson, has a population of 120,000. My neighborhood has a diverse mixture of people from different cultures and backgrounds, including Asian, Muslim, and Hispanic residents.

The redistricting proposed at the insistence of Republicans places us in the same district as Quitman, TX in Wood County, with a majority white population of 2,370 people with the foreign born residents numbering a total of 6.

Greg Abbot and the Republicans should know that these redistricting maps are unfair and reflect neither communities values. This partisan hacking is one of the most extreme examples of gerrymandering in the nation used to silence voices of the residents of Dallas County. Texans deserve a fair map that represents our communities, not one that silences our voices.

Do your job in advocating for your constituents rather than licking the boots of Donald Trump.

Amy Bridges
Self
Longview, TX

Redistricting in Texas is crucially important to continue to accurately reflect the voters of Texas. With thousands of new voters daily coming to Texas, fleeing liberal states seeking a conservative, businesses friendly, family friendly environment, new congressional districts to reflect that will benefit all Texans

Shondreika Isom
self
Plano, TX

Strongly oppose the redrawing of district lines.

Andrea Leinberger
Self, Multiproperty owner
Burke, TX

As a Texas property and business owner, I support this bill.

Bob Twomey
SELF
Austin, TX

This matter is the LEAST IMPORTANT of all of the matters our representatives should be looking at. Quit serving as the lapdog of the federal Executive Branch and start working on things which matter to the citizens of Texas. This bill should be tabled.

Elizabeth Cooke
Self
PFLUGERVILLE, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed redistricting of Texas congressional districts because it undermines fair representation and fractures established communities of interest. Every citizen deserves an equal voice in our democracy, and redistricting should never be used as a tool to dilute that voice for political gain.

Texas is one of the most diverse states in the country, and its congressional maps should reflect that diversity, not distort it. By manipulating district boundaries, these proposals risk splitting neighborhoods, school districts, and local economies, ultimately silencing the needs and priorities of the people who live there.

The Voting Rights Act and the principle of “one person, one vote” exist to ensure fairness and prevent disenfranchisement. Any redistricting effort that prioritizes partisan advantage over community representation fails to meet those standards. I urge decision-makers to reject this redistricting plan and commit to a process that respects demographic realities and keeps communities intact.

Isabel Anguera
Self
Austin, TX

Oppose redistricting. Need fair elections, not manipulated ones.

Bart Ewald
self/retired
Hilltop Lakes, TX

I oppose any further redistricting of Texas House, Senate, or Congressional maps outside of the regular census cycle. Texas has already redrawn its maps following the 2020 census, and attempting to revise them now—mid-decade—raises serious questions about political manipulation and the erosion of fair representation.

Texans deserve stability in their districts, not maps that are redrawn to protect incumbents or punish political opponents. Constant redistricting disrupts communities, confuses voters, and weakens the foundational trust required for a functioning democracy.

Moreover, if new maps are being drawn in response to court rulings about discriminatory districts, the priority should be restoring fair representation to voters—especially voters of color—not gerrymandering new maps to maintain partisan advantage.

Redistricting should never be used as a weapon against democracy. I urge the committee to reject any redistricting proposals that are not court-ordered remedies to past discrimination, or that do not genuinely improve fair representation for all Texans. Your time would be far better served working towards adding a constitutional amendment to insure fair and balanced districting.

Sincerely,

Bart Ewald

George Doyle
Self
Dayton, TX

I know there’s nothing I could say to sway you to do the right thing so I’ll just leave this comment. You’re a loser if you have to cheat to win.

SHEILA POUSSON
self retired
San antonio, TX

Let the people vote on this. This is a bad idea.

Huizhen Zhou
self
Sugar Land, TX

Chair and Members of the Committee,

My name is Huizhen Zhou, and I'm here today to express my strong opposition to the proposed redistricting plan.

Redistricting should be about ensuring every community has a fair chance to be heard—not about drawing lines that divide, weaken, or silence. But this map does just that. It breaks apart neighborhoods, dilutes the voices of historically marginalized communities, and puts political preservation above the needs of the people.

We're talking about communities that share schools, parks, roads, and grocery stores—families who live side by side and rely on the same resources. They deserve to have a unified voice when it comes to choosing who represents them. But this plan makes that harder.

This isn't just about maps and numbers. It's about real people who deserve fair representation. The proposed map doesn't reflect the growth, the diversity, or the lived realities of our state. Gerrymandering—no matter which side it benefits—is harmful to all of us. It erodes trust and weakens our democracy.

I urge you to do the right thing. Protect our communities. Keep them whole. Uphold the principle that every voter deserves an equal voice.

Thank you for your time and your service.

Jose Calderon, Mr
Self
Helotes, TX

No

Whitney Ajie
Self / Employed
Austin, TX

End Partisan Gerrymandering to Restore Fair Representation in Texas. Fair representation is the bedrock of our democracy. Yet, for decades, Texans have seen this principle systematically undermined by partisan gerrymandering, a practice used to manipulate electoral maps for unfair political advantage, regardless of which party is in power. The current proposed map, Plan 2308, is a prime example of this democratic decay, and they must be rejected. The facts speak for themselves. In the last decade, 95% of Texas's population growth was driven by people of color. However, the 2021 redistricting maps, drawn by the state legislature, did not reflect this reality. Instead, they actively decreased the number of districts where Black and Hispanic voters form a majority. This isn't just an oversight; it's a calculated effort to dilute the voices of growing communities to protect political incumbency. As has been the case for nearly every decade since the Voting Rights Act, which has historically triggered costly and unnecessary lawsuits and wasted taxpayer money to defend maps that are fundamentally unfair. A representative's district should unite communities with shared local interests—the places where people live, work, eat, play, worship, and build their lives. Instead, gerrymandering creates nonsensical districts that defy geographic and community logic. It forces voters into districts with communities hundreds of miles away, making it impossible for a single representative to address their vastly different needs effectively. This is not representation; it is a deliberate disenfranchisement designed to ensure that politicians choose their voters, not the other way around. When one party manipulates maps to entrench its own power, it suppresses competition, deepens political polarization, and shatters public trust in our government. This is not a partisan issue; it is a democratic crisis. It is time to end this cycle. I urge you to stop the current Republican-led gerrymandering efforts and end the redistricting Plan 2308 now. I also urge you to make partisan gerrymandering illegal in Texas and encourage support for the establishment of an independent, non-partisan redistricting commission in Texas that would use data science, ethics, equity, and peer-review practices to continuously maintain voting district maps that serve communities, not politicians, and restore the principle of fair representation for every Texan.

Joaquin Nunez
Self
Austin, TX

Redistricting the state of Texas is a shameless attempt to gerrymander and silence the voices of a growing liberal population. The people of Texas all deserve to have their voices heard and by going through with these ridiculous districts, you will be complicit in the destruction of the democracy in our state. Democracy can only survive where people's voices are heard, so do not go through with this and silence millions.

Gail Apple
Self
Longview, TX

Here is my testimony to help you understand why HB 4, on redistricting, is so very important.

"I believe the representation of we the people, should be reflective of the voters within each district. Voting districts do not stay stagnate. with fluid changes from year to year. (Our every10 year Census may need to be every 5 years). We know there has been massive voter migration within states and voter out migration to other states. Why not be transparent of this shift. To ensure each district has roughly the same population, compliance with the Voting Rights Act and fixing outdated or inequitable maps I highly recommend the passage of HB 4 without delay."

Melissa Hallworth
Myself
SAN ANTONIO, TX

You are literally taking orders from president who by all accounts is destroying our country. To take away democratic seats is messing with democracy. This will take away voices that represent people who need those voices the most.

Rebecca Morales
Self - Teacher
Houston, TX

I am a fifth generation Texan. I was a high school valedictorian. I have a master's degree, a husband, and two kids. I attended my colleges in Houston, I have a home in Houston city limits, and I am raising my kids in Houston. I'm Texan through and through because I fight for what I believe in and stand strong in my integrity. Each and every one of you congresspeople voting for this redistricting map are NOT TEXANS. You are NOT AMERICANS. Your smug ugly smiles that help you hide your corruption and hypocrisy make me absolutely sick. You should be ashamed of yourselves. The children you were would lose hope in their lives if they saw who you became. If you sleep easy at night with your disgusting choices, there is truly no hope for your lives.

You are waking up something in Texas you won't like. The real Texans who care about their civil rights aren't going to take this laying down. I plan on rising up and symbolically beating you down. I will join every single democratic party activity I can, I will fight to get every single person to every single poll I can to vote against you every chance I can. You have never held me, an actually aware person, in your Republican cloud of putrid smoke, but I didn't find my stomach turning and a gag rising when I saw your ugly faces. One day you will pay for your hypocrisy and cowardice. You really want to kowtow to the most pathetic leader we've ever had? I know what you're like behind closed doors. You know what you're doing is wrong, that you're supporting a pedophile who is systematically breaking down our government and nation for the benefit of his billionaire friends. But you're going to continue licking his boots because of the fleeting feeling of power you get and your fear of an old man in a spray tan. Seriously, you really feel proud supporting a president who gets spray tans, hair plugs, the worst face fillers ever, and somehow still looks decrepit and slimy? Are you still on his side as he protects himself and his friends who trafficked young girls? I thought you were the party who saved children's lives? (You're not, but you like to say you are.) One day, you're going to wake up and realize this path is the road to hell. I hope some of you can wake up before you die. If not, for your corrupt sakes, I'll pray that hell is actually a purgatory where you get a chance to redeem yourself.

Be careful what you sow. You're not going to like what you reap. (Getting voted out of office.)

Ashlie Mildfelt
self
Austin, TX

I strongly condemn this power grab by the GOP that will knowingly disenfranchise minority voters in the state of Texas.

Sheila Bean
Texas First Conservative Alliance of Lampasas
Lampasas, TX

I support HB4 and the redistricting of certain Congressional Districts as indicated by the map. IT is time to get this done.

Rebekkah Blashka, Mrs.
Self education
Richardson, TX

Please do not gerrymander the districts

Taylor Myers, Dr.
Self, Doctor of Audiology
Georgetown, TX

I oppose the suggested redistricting

Lindsey Reed
Self
Mt Pleasant, TX

I strongly oppose the proposed Texas redistricting plan. This map is not about fairness, representation, or the will of the people—it's about maintaining power at all costs.

This isn't leadership—it's submission to political pressure. It's not about serving Texans—it's about serving one man's agenda. Gerrymandering districts to gain partisan advantage is an attack on free and fair elections, and every lawmaker who supports this knows exactly what they're doing.

Let me be absolutely clear: anyone who votes for this plan will not get my vote. If you choose to go along with this blatant power grab, you are choosing to lose the trust and support of Texans who care about honest representation.

I urge you to reject this map and stand up for the voters, not for Trump, not for party control, and not for fear of backlash. Texas belongs to its people—not to one politician and not to one party.

Nicole Myers
self
Pflugerville, TX

The proposed Congressional Redistricting is not what is right for Texas.

1. This Redistricting Push Is a Political Power Grab
Texas doesn't need to redraw its districts mid-decade. This effort isn't about fair representation—it's a calculated move to entrench Republican power and suppress Democratic and minority voices.

Governor Abbott and former President Trump are exploiting a session originally intended for flood relief to force through gerrymandered maps. Texans deserve real solutions to urgent problems—not political theater.

2. No Transparency, No Accountability
Lawmakers are being asked to weigh in on redistricting plans that haven't even been made public. How can communities engage in the process when the maps are hidden from view?

This lack of transparency signals they know the public would oppose the maps if the process were truly open.

3. Racial Gerrymandering Targets Communities of Color
The proposed redistricting plans aim to "pack and crack" Black, Latino, and Asian voters—dividing communities to weaken their electoral power.

In one of the most diverse states in the nation, this kind of racial gerrymandering is not only unjust—it's a violation of the Voting Rights Act.

4. Texans Deserve Leaders Who Prioritize Real Needs
While Texans are still recovering from catastrophic floods, the Governor is prioritizing political map-drawing over urgent disaster relief.

Every moment spent manipulating district lines is a moment taken from the real work of rebuilding and protecting our communities.

5. Democrats Must Stand Firm
Democratic lawmakers must use every tool at their disposal—whether it's leaving the floor, mounting legal challenges, or using procedural tactics—to defend the principle of fair representation.

Just as they did in 2003 and 2021, Texas Democrats must rise to the moment and push back against voter suppression and partisan gerrymandering.

6. Gerrymandering Undermines Our Democracy
Elected officials shouldn't be allowed to choose their voters. But that's exactly what this redistricting plan is designed to do.

Texans deserve district maps that reflect the will of the people—not ones manipulated to guarantee political outcomes.

Willa Ott
self, retired
Fort Worth, TX

I am against the redistricting the Republican party is trying to put in effect. I think your time in this special session would be better spent planning on how to help the flood victims as well as trying to prevent another disaster by installing some sort of alarm system for specific areas of Texas.
I would like to know that my representative is listening to constituents and vote against redistricting and the diluting or eliminating certain areas of voters.

steve grove
Self
Houston, TX

This is blatant dismissal of any sort of democratic system of governance by a fucking spineless governor in an attempt to appease an illiterate child rapist. This is an appalling injustice to all things that should be held sacred.

Michelle Young, Mrs.
Self- mother
WYLIE, TX

I oppose the redistricting.

Deanna Theriot
Self
Houston, TX

Strongly against. This bill is yet another unlawful, underhanded attack on the voting rights of communities of color and the working class.

Megan Culpepper
Myself
Houston, TX

This is wrong. Voters should choose their representatives, not the other way around. If you break the system now it will come back to bite you eventually. Please stop doing this, it’s unethical and immoral. Be better.

Aaron Parks
Self, engineer
Austin, TX

Dear Congress,

Please don't ruin our democracy. I already feel like my voice doesn't matter at all and this will make it even worse. Trump is a criminal pedophile that has no business running our country. Grow a backbone and stand up to him. Districts should represent the people accurately, not cheat people out of their voice. Everything that the republican party is doing right now is destroying our lives and y'all should have checks. You now have all of this power to screw over your constituents just so some corporate lobbiests can avoid another regulation. You're already rich, you're already set, why do you feel like you need even more? Please quit taking away the tiny amount of rights we have left.

Elaine Burgess
Self
Bastrop, TX

No new maps until next census! Respect Texas voters and stop unfairly changing the rules. Land can't vote! Represent the people.

Matthew Ludlum
Self
Austin, TX

The recent redistricting will split my community into 3 different congressional districts spanning from Odessa to Livingston - Rattan Creek will go from one Congressional district to 2 different ones.

My son's friends who go to the school 3 doors down from me will have a congressional district that stretches all the way east of I-45, more than 3.5 hours away.

When I go pick up my son in the afternoon, I'll travel through 3 congressional districts that, in addition to the previous maps, includes congressional representation all the way to Waco.

When I volunteer to mow a senior citizen's lawn in the Austin area, I may be going to one of 6 different congressional districts!

I can only imagine the confusion for someone living on Links Lane in Round Rock - in a mere 1000ft, you can traverse 3 different congressional districts. Does the person living on the corner have more in common with someone in Lampasas or a friend down the street with someone in San Saba and they themselves with someone in College Station?

I ask you - when another 2023 Ice Storm happens, will Rep. Austin Pfluger drive the 3.5 hours from San Angelo to Austin to help emergency efforts? He'll have to drive through at least 2 other congressional districts as well - maybe he can carpool.

The reasoning behind this sudden need to move our congressional districts to a be a mere mile wide at the end of my road - yes - Tamayo to McNeil On Parmer Lane, does not seem like prudent re-balancing of districts to better represent the great citizens of Texas but rather ensure that the very spirit of dividing us further is achieved.

If these maps are adopted, I would expect every member who approves the maps to explain to me this: How can you justify the shape of maps in a way that unites us under common and fair representation? How are you going to justify that a congressional rep should have district so lopsided in it's population and so wide that it measures 340 miles?

Or perhaps you might say what is driving you to craft such partisan maps - you are doing this because someone told you to draw this way and that "No." isn't an acceptable answer.

Elizabeth Luna, Ms
Self, Baker
Leander, TX

Texans need flood relief not redistricting!

Hannah Spellman
Self, CPA
Plano, TX

This bill is making an already biased distracting map even worse. It should not pass.

Marilyn Jennings, Mrs.
Self - retired
Austin, TX

This proposed legislation is an outrageous violation of the fair representation of the citizens of Texas. Redistricting takes place following a census, not at the direction of the POTUS to enable additional seats in the House of Representatives to be won by any one party. If you plan to vote for this bill in order to protect yourself from President Trump's wrath, you should be ashamed of yourself. You represent the citizens of Texas and have an obligation to ensure fair and open elections in the State of Texas. If President Trump wants to find five additional votes for his policies by gerrymandering voting districts in Texas, let him bully some other state into complying with his blackmail. You have a duty to all of the voters in Texas to stand up, be counted, do the right thing, and to vote against redistricting in Texas. Don't prostitute the State of Texas by supporting this bill. You have a choice. We're watching how you choose.

Tom Fitzpatrick, Mr.
self, retired
Austin, TX

I am a resident of Austin; retired; have lived in the same house since 1983, and lost track of the number of times I have been redistricted. I am opposed to partisan gerrymandering. I am opposed to mid-decade redistricting that is not court-ordered. I am opposed to the current corruption in the U.S. Department of Justice which fabricated the head-scratchingly flimsy opening for the Texas Legislature to debase themselves for the current president — in the mode of our cowardly U.S. Senators and Republican congress members. They have disgraced themselves. You don’t have to — and you shouldn’t.

In the early 2000’s, part of my central city neighborhood was included for a time into a district with six rural counties across the hill country, represented by a person who chaired an important science subcommittee, but denied not just consensus climate science, but who also attacked scientific procedures generally. Almost any elementary school child in Austin had a better understanding of the current state of science than our then-representative in Congress. Austin was extremely poorly represented. Whenever I corresponded with his office I was left feeling completely UN-represented. In more recent redistricting games, Austin neighborhoods were occasionally joined with areas stretching to Houston or San Antonio or the border, trying to put a popular Austin Democrat at risk with unfamiliar voters. The most recently adopted congressional districting consolidated us back in Austin. With all respect, I would like to stay here. This is my community. There is no need to redraw districts at this time.

After the next decennial census, I hope the Legislature will use available technology to draw the most compact possible districts to reflect the population distribution required, keeping intact as fully as possible existing political subdivisions and existing communities. I definitely think there needs to be human oversight of whatever Artificial Intelligence might render, but I think it should be non-partisan oversight, aimed at giving all individuals a fair chance at meaningful representation. Until then, I hope you will stop the partisan redistricting gaming and focus on other subjects where there are real problems to solve other than creating potential backstops against future oversight and impeachment of a lawless president. I would ask you now to decline to adopt any new maps until after the next census — and go back to work during your time here on issues that might help our state.

Michelle Manning-Scott
Self
Austin, TX

I am AGAINST redistricting Texas without new census data to justify new maps. This is racial gerrymandering for the political gain of the Republican party and a cowardly capitulation move to the current Trump administration to gain favoritism at the expense of all Texans.

Tierra Durrett
SAAVETX
Allen, TX

RE: Opposition to Mid-Decade Congressional Redistricting – A Statement from South Asian Texans

Dear Governor Abbott, Lt. Governor Patrick, and Speaker Burrows,

As members of the South Asian American community across Texas, we write to express our unequivocal opposition to the mid-decade congressional redistricting plan currently before the Legislature.

South Asian Texans are one of the fastest-growing populations in this state. We run businesses, drive innovation, advance medicine, and enrich the cultural and civic life of Texas. We also vote, organize, and contribute to the democratic process.

But this redistricting proposal is not about improving representation — it is about manipulating it. These maps are being redrawn to break up strong, diverse voting blocs and weaken the collective voice of communities of color, including South Asians, who are becoming an undeniable force in Texas politics.

In major metropolitan counties where South Asians live and work — Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, Collin, Tarrant, Travis, and Bexar — cohesive neighborhoods are being fractured and stitched together with distant rural counties. These artificial districts have nothing to do with shared interests and everything to do with diluting the political power of growing populations.

This is not representation. This is an intentional strategy to silence voters and undermine democracy.

What does a tech executive in Plano have in common with a farmer hundreds of miles away? What shared vision for Texas can come from districts designed to split communities apart rather than bring them together?

Texas should stand as a model of democratic integrity, where representation reflects the people who call this state home. Instead, this process dismantles the very pillars of democracy — fairness, accountability, and trust.

When maps are drawn for partisan gain, they don’t just distort election outcomes — they tell entire communities their voices don’t matter.

We stand with Texans in Fort Bend, Collin, Dallas, Harris, Travis, Williamson, Bexar, El Paso, Denton, and Tarrant Counties who are seeing their voting power diluted and their representation sacrificed for political advantage.

We urge you to withdraw this plan and commit instead to drawing fair maps that keep communities whole, reflect where people actually live and work, and protect every Texan’s right to representation.

Democracy only works when every vote counts and every voice is heard. These maps break that promise. Texans — all Texans — deserve better.

Sincerely,

Tierra Durrett/SAAVETX

Allen, Texas

David Lotspeich
Self
Austin, TX

This Bill disrupts established election cycles: Redistricting typically occurs every 10 years following new census data collection. Redrawing lines mid-decade, just five years after the last redistricting effort in 2021, is unusual and disrupts the normal election cycles.
This nothing more than a Partisan power grab : The current redistricting effort is primarily driven by partisan motives, aiming to solidify the Republican party's control in Texas by creating more Republican-leaning districts and weakening Democratic representation.
This Bill is all about weakening minority voter influence: Opponents argue the proposed map dilutes the voting power of minority and working-class communities in major Texas cities, including Austin, Houston, and Dallas.

This bill will lead to legal challenges and protracted battles: Any new map will likely face legal challenges, arguing it violates the Voting Rights Act and the U.S. Constitution's prohibitions against racial discrimination. These legal battles can take years to resolve and could leave the state with unclear district boundaries for multiple election cycles.
Why do the current Republican leaders in Texas want Increased political polarization? Gerrymandering, or the practice of drawing district boundaries to favor one party over another, can create less competitive districts and exacerbate political polarization by encouraging candidates to appeal to their base rather than seek common ground. This is unconstituional.
Additionally this Bill is just a costly and time-consuming process: Redrawing district lines requires significant time and resources from the state legislature and election officials, which could be better spent on other pressing issues facing the state.
This redistricting disaster will undermine faith in the democratic process: Frequent and politically motivated redistricting can erode public trust in the fairness of elections and the democratic process itself.
The effect of going through this dastardly plan will trigger retaliatory redistricting in other states: Texas' redistricting efforts could prompt other states to follow suit, leading to a nationwide "redistricting arms race" and further intensifying political polarization.

Susan CHOQUETTE, Mrs
CCRW , self retired
Copperas Cove, TX

Our household supports the redistricting for the Texas legislature with strong consideration to the Republican Party. We do not condone putting a Democrat at the head of the committee appointing a Democrat in that position is 10 amount to treason just like siding with the Democrats to elect a treasonous speaker of the house Pass the redistricting bill sent it to the governor and we will handle the rhino problem on the next election. Thank you.

Mary Katherine Marston
Self
Rowlett, TX

I do not understand why we are even having a debate about drawing new maps as we are not set to have new maps until 2031. Not only are these maps illegal and racist, it’s a complete waste of time because we already have a system that outlines when new maps should be done. This is a huge waste of time and taxpayer money. As a Texan, this is especially disheartening after the devastating floods of July 4th. These personally impacted my family, we almost died, and parts of me will never be the same. We have families and communities hurting and wondering if they will ever feel safe again. The Texas and Texans that I know, love, and respect show up for one another and take care of each other. This redistricting stunt at such a painful time is lacking clarity, judgement, and honor. Our focus should be on rebuilding and safety not further dividing Texans to appease the President.

Maria Curelli
self
Buda, TX

Hello. I am VEHEMENTLY OPPOSED to TX redistricting now. This is a PURE POWER GRAB. If these proposed redistrict maps become law, you will be disenfranchising THOUSANDS of Texans. You will be giving Mr. tRump the green light continue to act UNLAWFULLY with CRUELTY for the next several years. You will usher in a National Ugly Unprecedented Race in every state to rig their own district maps before mid terms. At your core, YOU KNOW THIS IS WRONG! Mr. tRump won't be the President forever. Mr. Abbott won't be the governor forever; probably not passed his current term. But YOUR VOTE and WHAT YOU DO relating to this BLATANT RIGGING OF OUR RIGHT TO HAVE OUR VOTE COUNT & HAVE REPRESENTATION IN DC, will go down in history. I IMPLORE you to do the right thing and vote NO to redistricting TX now. People are watching. Do the right thing.

Ruth Stiles
Self-probate attorney
Houston, TX

It is ridiculous to redistrict more often than at the census unless ordered to fix a district by the courts. Are we going to redistrict now every time the pendulum swings? And have other states do the same to offset the gains?
This is the problem with breaking norms that both parties used to abide by. It is a race to the bottom and reduces the people's faith in our government because the rules can just be discarded. And the fact that the sole purpose of this is purely and obviously political does not help.
I was born and raised in Texas. The joke of a state used to be Mississippi. Now Texas ranks close to the bottom in properly caring for the vulnerable. Children, the elderly, people with mental illness, veterans are all abandoned. And we can't even protect summer camps because Republican leadership prioritizes shiny new firetrucks over practical safety warnings on rivers that have flooded before and will flood again. Way to own the libs guys. There are serious legislatures that try to do good work. But the grand standing politicians trying to forward their own careers instead of being true public servants are eroding my pride in this great state.
Please focus on serving all of the people of this great state and not some ridiculous violation of standard practices for a measly 5 extra Republican congressmen, at most. Go home and enjoy your summers after you do something about the flooding issue.
Thank you to the people who work hard for all of the people in our state and God bless Texas.

Gwyn Varozza
Self
Leander, TX

Texas does NOT need to be gerrymandered more than it already has. Quit following every stupid move trump wants and DO THE RIGHT THING!!!

Be a real republican and let your actions earn votes…not by redistricting

Suzanne Adams-Lindergren
Self
New Braunfels, TX

I support this Bill. I feel that it will more accurately reflect and support the will of the People (voters of Texas).

Cathy Herzog
Self
Driftwood, TX

I'm sad for our state that leadership has folded to the whims of a president that cares not a whit about our state.
It is disturbing that he is so sure he will lose the midterms that he must manipulate our state to try to gain the seats he thinks he needs. Much like the phone call to get more votes.
I live in Hayes County I understand the most recent map breaks our county in multiple districts. Please note that we residents prefer to be a contiguous homogeneous community

Layna Phillips
Self
Spring, TX

I oppose House Bill 4 the redistricting bill. It is racist and illegal. It does not represent minorities fairly

Hannah McVicker
Self, Freelancer
Austin, TX

This cannot be passed. It is an egregious, transparent attempt to further gerrymander this state. This re-districting is an act of extreme cowardice meant to erode the rights and voting power of the most vulnerable among us.

David Harrison
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support redistricting. It is out of band, unnecessary, and is not in the best interests of the voters of this great state. We have bigger priorities and more important issues than this nakedly partisan redistricting effort. Texas is a state and not just an arm of the federal government; we believe in our independence, and the intrusion of the federal government in influencing the lege to try to pass this redistricting says to me that no Republican cares about the citizens of this state, only their own political ambitions.

Deborah Kelt
Self/teacher
Austi, TX

Dear Committee members,
My name is Deb Kelt, and I live in Austin, Texas. I am a proud Texas educator, about to start my 32nd year as a literacy instructor. I am writing to protest the egregious and illegal redistricting maps that have just been released. With this rushed redistricting plot (and by the way, wasn't this session about helping flood victims?) you are undermining the right and responsibility of citizens to choose the best representatives for their families and communities. As a teacher, I prioritize working in schools that have been underserved, and I am certain this redistricting scheme will further disenfranchise the most vulnerable children and parents in our state. That's not only unfair -- it's inhumane, unjust, and flat out cruel. Further, why are we pandering to what our unbelievably lame and corrupt president wants? Why are redistricting for a known rapist? Is this what we've come to, Texas? I don't always agree with a lot of what Texas does in terms of government, but I never thought I'd see the day where proud Texas lawmakers would lick the boots of a tubby, bratty, orange baby-prez. Stop this madness, please. These maps are criminal -- which I guess makes sense, as a criminal is demanding them. Just say no, Texas!!

Amanda Braziel, Rev
Self
Austin, TX

Texans do NOT want you to mess with our reps! Stop the federal power grab and let Texans’ voices be heard!!!!

Rebecca Rainwater
Self
Austin, TX

As a 15-year resident of Austin and lifelong resident of Texas, I strongly oppose the redistricting of the area, not limited to but especially due to the clear lack of attention to demographic arrangement. This redistricting measure has been pushed through at incredible, negligent, and worrying speeds. This is a clear attempt to remove democratically elected officials from their seats and give greater influence to Governor Abbott and federal powers who first planted the idea. This flies in the very face of states rights, something Greg Abbott has consistently voiced his support for. Governor Abbott should be ashamed and embarrassed that when the federal government said "jump," he responded "how high."

Linda Bennett
Self
Houston, TX

I am a concerned Congressional District 18 constituent who votes in EVERY election. I strongly oppose any attempt to redraw Texas congressional maps in a way that consolidates political power at the expense of fair representation—especially for communities of color.
Redistricting should be a tool for democracy, not a partisan power grab. Unfortunately, what is being proposed by Republican leadership, including Donald Trump, appears to do just that: undermine the voting strength of Latino, Black, and other minority communities in Texas. These communities have fueled the state's population growth and deserve equitable representation—not to be diluted or divided for political gain.
This is not just bad policy—it's an affront to our democratic values. Voting maps should reflect the people, not entrench those already in power. Fair maps mean fair elections. Efforts to silence voters, especially those from historically marginalized communities, are unjust and will be challenged.
I urge you to reject any redistricting plan that undermines the Voting Rights Act, weakens minority representation, or prioritizes partisanship over people. Texans deserve better. Moreover, this is being done because of pressure from the White House- is that ethical? TELL GREG ABBOTT AND DONALD TRUMP NO!!

Vanessa Coronado
Self
Brownsville, TX

Hello, my name is Vanessa Coronado. I proudly reside in Brownsville, Texas and Congressional District 34. I am testifying on the Legislature's attempt to redistrict our congressional districts mid-census. I am strongly opposed to these efforts. This brazen move by Governor Abbott and the DOJ to increase Republican representation in the U.S. House by taking it away all because a felon, twice impeached, wannabe dictator called and requested he be given ultimate power. My city is vibrant, historically important, and beautiful. Communities, like mine, have time and time again been intentionally split up. It has weakened our voting power and representation. I have FIRST HAND seen attempts to silence and suppress our voices and votes. How these districts are drawn AFFECTS EVERY political issue coming from the economy, education, climate crisis management and healthcare. If we have politicians who are elected from districts that don't reflect communities like mine in Brownsville, we most definitely will end up in situations where politicians will not support policies that help us OR they can support policies that directly harm us. We must not have politicians manipulate maps for political or personal gains.
We have all heard and seen the current felon in office (aka Donald Trump) make racial comments against my community of multi-generational Mexican American families. We have seen how families are targeted for simply our skin color or bilingualism. Such language has been used to incite his base of cult members who have become fans and appreciative of the racial appeals. There are currently 16 sitting Texas MEMBERS of the House of Representatives who have promoted and CONTINUE to promote election conspiracy theories and denialism. How can we trust those who are seeking to change the maps? We surely can't trust that there will be transparency. Every legislator who has a hand in such maps MUST not hide communications they've had that concerns this. We need and demand a detailed explanation of why the maps are being proposed and drawn the way they are. It is NOT normal to redraw the maps when we ALREADY had them redrawn in 2021. I am afraid of the consequences we may very well face. I hope you will take my testimony to heart and that you do the right thing. History has its eyes on you. Thank you to the committee for taking time to listen to my testimony.

Rosanna Taylor
Self
San Antonio, TX

This Bill is a blasphemy to the trust we have in Representatives upholding our rights under the Voting Rights Act. The preposed plan and the results that will follow prove that the current Presidential Administration are unethical cheats.

Jeanne Good
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the redistricting of Texas. It is nothing but a power grab by Republicans and Greg Abbott because they know their policies are unpopular with the people of Texas. Do not attempt to silence the votes of Texans by going forward with this redistricting.

Sophia Zaia
self, consultant
Austin, TX

The redistricting fight is not where the people want our representatives to be spending their time. If Republicans play dirty, Democrats will have no choice to fight back, distracting time and effort that should be spent on the problems actually facing constituents, like flood relief, AI regulation, climate change, jobs, healthcare, etc. Please think about current and future generations and the rapid action that needs to be taken right now to prevent catastrophic climate change among other things, action that can create green jobs, cleaner air and water and cheaper energy for everyone. I am against the republican redistricting proposal. Republicans are completely delegitimizing themselves right now in the eyes of the public if you continue to take only self serving actions to consolidate your own power, and are willing to throw our lives on the line by taking away our healthcare, SNAP benefits, climate protections, FEMA, education systems, rights, the list goes on. Does it not weigh on your conscience?

Brandie Louck
Self
Austin, TX

I vehemently oppose the redistricting plan being done by Republicans. It is purely to cheat to win elections and in no way supports actually working for the people of their specific districts. It hurts Texans by spreading their districts too far apart and making it hard for their representatives to advocate for all of their needs. It's all happening purely for political gain and in no ways helps the people of Texas. It's rigging and already rigged system. It makes me sick to see Republicans doing this to Texas. Trump has publicly stated that the only reason this is happening is to steal congressional seats. It doesn't help Texas. If the only way Republicans can win is to cheat, then they really don't support the will of the people and they should step down. Do NOT pass this bill.

Alyssa Layer
Self
Lubbock, TX

I oppose this redistricting. I believe there are more important priorities. We should prioritize policies that'll help Texas thrive, such as strengthening the power grid, helping people impacted by natural disasters including the recent floods, and making sure people have access to decent quality food, shelter, and healthcare. Thank you.

John Norman, Mr.
Self- retired USPS
Florence, TX

This is a blatant attempt by the Federal Administration to manipulate our state midway through the decade to secure more votes for their party. Districts should be redone after a census is completed to fairly represent the population.

Jennifer Mcnichols
Self/ artist
Austin, TX

This redistricting is absurd. We see you and we will vote each and every one of you out.

Kenneth Rippetoe
Self
Dallas, TX

As one of your constituents in Dallas, I’m writing to urge you to REJECT this corrupt, mid-decade, redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps. Please do everything in your power to fight back and put Texans first!

Elizabeth San Marco
self (retired teacher)
San Antonio, TX

This redistricting does not seem to be in the best interest of Texans! My expectations are that my representatives represent me and my neighbors and should not be a commandeering of power from a president and a governor who wants to please him. I do not feel represented in my own state!

Charlotte Freeborn, Mrs.
Gillespie County Democratic Association
Fredericksburg, TX

This bill is simply a violation of the voting rights of all Texans. Please do what you can to defeat it soundly. Stand up and speak out against this bill. Show the political and moral dedication to human rights in this state and the United States of America. Vote against HB4!

Cierra Scott
Self
DeSoto, TX

I am against the redrawing of districts

Sylvia Showacre
Self
Buda, TX

I wholeheartedly disagree with Republicans attempting to redistrict the state of Texas in order to “find” 5 more seats at the behest of this president. In doing so Republicans would be interfering with democracy in an extreme way, and denying that this even is a democracy. I demand that this attempt at gerrymandering be stopped!!! We the people will be heard!!

Kelly Marts
Me
Spring, TX

HB 4 is wrong and Unamerica! I oppose it.

Marion Alsup
self, retired RN
Austin, TX

Attention Republicans:
Why do you want to disenfranchise Democratic voters across the state of Texas? So you can more efficiently continue to ensure that poor people don't have access to health care? So you can close more rural hospitals faster? So you can ensure that Trump gets his tariffs and gets to raise prices on almost everything, including medicine? So you can continue to torture younger generations who are burdened with unmanageable college debt while you probably benefitted from taxpayer supported public college? You just don't want these words spoken in your presence at all. It appears that you want to send those Dem reps back home so that you can cheerfully break the country without hearing of the consequences. You could prove me wrong and leave the already gerrymandered map as is.

Maria Gramatges
Self - physician
Houston, TX

Strongly oppose redistricting to artificially amplify the voice of specific populations.

Stephanie Baker
Self
Bulverde, TX

I am NOT in favor of the current restricting attempt that is going on in this state. Gerrymandering should be illegal! The state House should not be in charge of districting the voting districts themselves because it is self-serving and can be used in favor of the current majority party. This IS election cheating! This IS stealing voices from all voters in the state of Texas.

Katy Lopez
Self
Houston, TX

This is wrong and a shameless power grab by Abbott and his fellow criminals. This redistricing intentionally misconstrues, and in some cases completely silences the voices of the people of Texas.

Katherine Gipson
Self
Austin, TX

Texans deserve to be represented by members who live near them and represent their communities. We should not have districts that stretch for 100s of miles just for the sake of pure partisan gain. Please stop the nonsense and wait until 2030.

Sarah Rooney
Self
Bastrop, TX

I am OPPOSED to this redistricting!

Kimberly Doerle, Mrs
Family
Austin, TX

These map changes are deplorable. Grouping people in urban areas with people from rural areas is ridiculous and utterly stupid. We have different needs and different perspectives, and silencing people in urban areas will hurt this state and will hurt the Republican Party. Stop this craziness and no changes until the census. This makes you all look REALLY bad.

Gavin Johnson
Self
Fort Worth, TX

As an active voter, I absolutely disagree and disapprove the current redistricting plans. The proposed maps are not representative of Texas communities and are obviously partisan. I encourage my elected officials to reject these maps and, instead, push for non-partisan redistricting policies. Voters need to choose their reps...not the other way around!

Protect democracy and the will of the people! Reject these maps!

Ashley Holmes Mullenix
Self
Bonham, TX

What is the point of this redistricting effort?! It’s unnecessary and a blatant attempt to rig the next elections in favor of one party. This is not what democracy looks like. VOTE NO ON THIS MEASURE!

Jamie Price
Self
Austin, TX

Tomas Jefferson stated that a government is republican "in proportion as every member composing it has his equal voice in the direction of its concerns...by representatives chosen by himself".
Redistricting intentionally undermines the rights of citizens to choose representatives rhat reflect their values. This is anti-democratic and anti-American. Also, I don’t believe true Texans need to cheat to win.

Katalina Salas, Dr.
self
El Paso, TX

I strongly believe that our districts should remain as they are because El Paso serves a unique population with needs and priorities that differ greatly from the areas proposed under the new rezoning plan. Anyone who has visited El Paso knows we are a very unique and vibrant city that relies on community. As it stands now, our voices are being heard, our current district boundaries ensure that our concerns, interests, and values are represented by people who truly understand our community. If we are rezoned, we risk being grouped with communities whose challenges, demographics, and priorities are vastly different from our own, which would undermine the progress we've made in advocating for the issues that matter most to us.
As Rep. Veronica Escobar often emphasizes, representation is about more than geographic borders, it’s about making sure communities like El Paso can shape their own future and are empowered to speak for themselves. Changing these lines disregards the distinct needs of El Paso and threatens to dilute our voice. For the sake of preserving the integrity and identity of our community, I urge decision-makers to keep our districts as they are and to continue honoring the voices of El Pasoans.

Jonathan Lucas Citizen
El Paso, TX

The State of Texas should not be changing rules such as redistricting after 5 years simply for political reasons. The State of Texas should have a regular redistricting rule which it follows which is currently once every 10 years. True conservatism does not continually change rules and invent emergencies. True conservatism establishes a rule and then follows that rule. The current redistricting rule is once every 10 years. Additionally, gerrymandering should serve a true democratic purpose: the constituents should live relatively close to the congressional representative. But El Paso has a crazy redistricting map which looks like it is drawn simply for political reasons. In short, conservatism really means having a set of established rules which are followed over time.

Seth Mills
Self
El Paso, TX

Anything that moves the current district of El Paso and forces the population of El Paso to be represented by persons that do not live in the area is a disservice to the people of El Paso and the border communities of the area. The population of El Paso should be a separate district and represent the people iving here.

Richard Helmling
Self, Teacher
El Paso, TX

This redistricting plan is a terrible plan. El Paso is a distinctive community, including Fort Bliss which has been a vital part of our city for generations. Dividing our community's representation is illogical and immoral. This gerrymandering is shameless and will not stand up in court!

mary Olmstead, Rev
Self
Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to redrawing the current voter map for Texas. Let Texas Vote, let Texas Vote fairly and have all voices count. If more elected Republicans listened to the people of Texas, you would be actually focusing on the everyday concerns that affect so many Texans instead of grabbing more power to do the bidding of Abbot and Trump. Our country is undergoing an attempted coup. It’s not too late to do the right thing. It might mean losing reelection, but it could mean saving our democracy.

Kristin Shelton, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

As a registered Independent, I chose leaders based on how they represent my needs, not based on party. Texas House members, please hold fast against our president's influence that tries to override your knowledge of what it right. I will support any leader who stands firm against this recent redistricting step. Please know that I will campaign harder and donate more money to candidates that have the general interests of their constituents foremost in their minds. Recently retired, I have more time to go door to door taking to people about their vote.
It is time for Texan leaders to represent their people rather than concede to the president's wishes.

Michelle Helmers
Self, retired
Leander, TX

Texas politicians have long prided themselves on their independence. Apparently that is a thing of the past. This craven effort to rig the system at the behest of a president who fears he cannot legitimately persuade Congress to carry out his agenda is pathetic and disgraceful. Texas’ congressional (and state) maps already dilute “minority” voting strength in a state whose growth is attributable to minority population growth and which is, in fact, a “majority minority” state. No one asked for this mid-term redistricting—except for President Trump and the bootlickers in his administration. The pretense that you seek to correct a potentially racially gerrymandered map (which Texas leaders have denied in past challenges) by crafting another racially gerrymandered map is ludicrous. That this new map, if adopted, will be challenged in court is inevitable, adding yet more unnecessary expenditures of taxpayer money. I urge the committee to assert its independence and reject this blatant attempt to rig future elections in Texas.

Susan Pascoe
Self / Nursing Administrator
Austin, TX

This is an undemocratic attempt to cling to power. Show some spine and represent your constituents. I demand the legislature draw maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state.

Timothy Mann, Dr.
self
Buda, TX

I oppose HB4 and any attempt at mid-cycle redistricting. This is an attempt to undermine democracy.

Laura Carter, Ms
Self - Retired
El Paso, TX

I am one of millions of Democrats living in Texas. My governor has failed miserably in representing me, my values, my culture, most especially during both Trump administrations, and now Texas is okay with allowing Trump to use the state to unethically benefit himself and the Republican party. Redistricting would severely impact El Paso in that we would lose local representation. El Paso is a very vibrant, diverse city full of hard-working exceptional people, and a Republican representative in another city could not understand our needs the way Veronica Escobar does, nor would they probably care like she does. Texas is not your personal property. Texas is for the people of Texas and you are elected officials sworn to uphold the laws and interests of Texas and its people - not Trump - no matter the outcome. We pay taxes, we have homes and families, we have jobs in El Paso, and we have a mutually beneficial relationship with Mexico (also very important to our economy and Texas' economy). Just because our president has questionable morals and values, doesn't value diversity, is scared to death of Mexican immigrants, and he regularly uses people to his benefit, it does not mean that the elected Republican officials of Texas have to follow suite. Do the right thing and take care of all people of Texas! Tell Trump NO. What you think you have to gain by supporting Trump's plan to lie and cheat his way through the midterms, says a lot about your morals and values and people will remember. Please, you must do much better for all of us in Texas.

Ann Bailey, Mrs.
self; tech consultant
Fort Worth, TX

Texas already redrew its congressional maps in 2021, but now Donald Trump and national Republicans are demanding a second redraw--not because of new Census data, but to protect their grip on power as MAGA extremism loses ground. In response, Governor Abbott called a rushed special legislative session just one week after devastating floods hit communities across the state, choosing political manipulation over disaster relief!
This mid-decade redistricting is not normal. It’s a calculated, anti-democratic power grab!
Do not redraw the maps without transparency, public input, or fair representation! We deserve a process that is transparent and accessible!
I demand the Texas legislature transparently draw maps that are truly reflective of the diversity of our state!
Thank you for sincerely representing all Texans!

Colin Ingarfield
self, software developer
Austin, TX

This map is an obvious gerrymander. Even if it is legal, it's an insult to the idea of democratic representation. Voters should choose their representatives. With this ridiculous map, the representatives are choosing their voters.

I'm 100% opposed to this undemocratic power grab.

Thank you.

Anna Hey
Self, attorney
El Paso, TX

Vote against partisan mid-census-period redistricting is counter to the right to vote and select our representatives. With the current iteration of the bill, some representatives will be 500 or more miles away from constituents in El Paso and on Ft. Bliss. You work for the people of Texas, not the current occupant of the White House. Do the right thing and vote no.

Elizabeth Walters
Self(student)
Fort Worth, TX

As a concerned Texan in Tarrant County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Emily Delgado
Self
San Antonio, TX

This redistricting proposal is a clear indicator to Texans and the rest of the country that Texas' Republican Lawmakers have lost all independence and will do whatever Daddy Trump tells them to do. Texas' gerrymandering has been out of control for decades, but this is truly a blatant display of fear and power grabbing. Instead of trying to steal the voice of Texas voters, Texas Republicans should focus on making better policies for Texans. Y'all have been in control of this state for over 30 years, and if you fear your policies are so unpopular that the party is going to lose the midterm elections, maybe it's time to take a look in the mirror instead of locking Trump's boots. This attempt at redistricting shows everyone that if you can't win on your own that Republicans are willing to lie, cheat, and steal. Maybe y'all should take another look at those Ten Commandements you so desperately want in schools.

Rob Smith
Self
Houston, TX

I am against this bill, as it will disenfranchise numerous voters across the state of Texas. I urge the congress to limit themselves to the standard of redrawing maps every 10 years.

Shannon Beeler
self - Teacher
Magnolia, TX

I DO NOT approve of these manipulated maps and this attempt to get more GOP seats! What happened to democracy and fairness? It is disappointing to see the state of politics right now. We must resist the urge to create loopholes in democracy and remember what our country stood for. Everything was about checks and balances, we currently seem to have thrown those out a window and replaced it with autocracy. This is NOT ok.

brandi moore
self
McKinney, TX

As a Texas AFT member and public school educator in Collin County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation

Leesa Levesque
self
Austin, TX

Texas is not due for new congressional maps for another 6 years, and it's unacceptable to be redrawing our maps mid-decade purely because the party in power is afraid of losing in the upcoming mid-term election. I would have to drive five hours to get to the other end of the district I'd be in under the proposed maps, and my needs are very different from those of the people who live there. We each are entitled to representatives who will listen to us and can meet with us without embarking on a day's journey. The proposed map would remove my ability to participate in government at all. Texans deserve better, and we can do a lot better than using maps to cheat to win. All Texans would be better served by representatives who work together to face the challenges at hand instead of trying to shut out voters with a different point of view.

Jerry Johnson
Self
Austin, TX

The attempt of Republicans redistricting at this very time is unethical and waste our hard-earned tax dollars.

Abbott put redistricting on a special session agenda is clearly an attempt to STEAL the midterms.

Voted Republican for 40 years, but could never again in good faith when you pull things like this!

How about working on good policies, so you can win, because of that; instead of, wrangling your numbers dishonestly.

Berthine Mason
Self
Spring, TX

Stop trying to STEAL ELECTIONS! Let people vote as they wish without you manipulating the outcome through gerrymandering. Are you afraid that you cannot win without cheating? Voters are not stupid. WE SEE YOU!

Andrew Chastain
Self
Austin, TX

To all representatives considering supporting this gerrymandering effort: you should be ashamed of yourselves. To eliminate the seat of justly elected representatives goes against everything that representative democracy is supposed to be about.

As a Texan, I am extremely disappointed this is even being considered. I oppose this bill's redistricting plan and you should too.

STEPHEN KING
SELF/RETIRED
HOUSTON, TX

This comment is in regard to the bill covering redistricting in Texas. I write it in recognition that it is futile, that it will not prove persuasive, because it is in an appeal to conscience to those who have none; an appeal to fairness to those who believe fairness is a weakness; an appeal to democratic values to those who despise democracy and favor one-party rule through the legal though immoral and unethical manipulation of electoral rules and procedures. That is, Republicans. This new redistricting is a betrayal of the core American value of government by, of, and for the people; note that Lincoln didn't mention party. For that core value, you have substituted raw personal ambition wrapped ih obeisance to your wannabe Dictator (felon and friend of pedophiles) Donald Trump. Still, as a Christian, I was taught that miracles happen, and no one is beyond redemption; and so in that spirit, I'll make the request: Don't pass this bill. Don't redistrict. Thank you.

MARGO MCKINNEY
Self
Odessa, TX

It has become increasingly clear that very few of you actually care what your constituents want as far as redistricting is concerned. I am ashamed to live in a state that when asked by Trump to jump, they put Superman to shame. To those of you with daughters, shame on you for worshipping at the altar of what we used to refer to as a "dirty old man". Please pay attention to what your constituents want. When Trump is gone, we'll still be here. Can you afford to lose a good portion of your voting constituency?

Danny Garcia, Mr
Self/retired
El Paso, TX

El Paso Texas is such a unique place because we encompass not only El Paso but also Las Cruces NM and Cuidad Juarez Mexico. Another area that is and will always be a part of us is Ft. Bliss and all the veterans that have ever served. Our beautiful International airport gets all of us in and out from anywhere in the world. Our local, state and county representatives like Veronica Escobar work endlessly to keep our city safe, beautiful but most of all approachable. El Pasoans love and help each other and we have such a great connection with our surroundings that it would really be a shame and a crime if parts of El Paso we love were being run by other people that don't know what being an El Pasoan is all about. Although there are other great cities in the great state of Texas, El Paso is the Star of them all. We are a welcoming, united, spirited community that will stop at nothing to let others feel welcome and at home. Do what's right by all of us and allow Veronica Escobar, Cesar Blanco and others to do and decide what's best for El Paso. Although all help is always welcome, people that truly get El Paso are best when it comes to deciding what's best for our Trip State Area.

Casey Cunningham
Self
Austin, TX

I am against this unnecessary redistricting. It's an obvious power grab by Republicans. It silences the voices of thousands of BIPOC in Texas and effectively rolls back the civil rights act. Please listen to your constituents.

Melinda Chow
self
Austin, TX

Topic: Redrawing the voting maps and redistricting.

I am against the mid-decade redrawing of Texas voting maps and redistricting.

It is clear that the current mid-decade effort to redraw the Texas voting map is a surrendering of the rights of Texans to the federal government, simply because of the Trump administration. This is blatantly wrong and it must be stopped. Isn't Texas supposed to be independent? Why should we let the federal government tell us what to do in this case, especially since it will be our loss?

If this passes, history will show it as a cowardly step we chose to take to dismantle democracy and move towards fascism. I doubt this is what Texas wants to be remembered for.

Keep Texas independent and resist this capitulation to the federal government.
Thank you.

Stephanie Piland
self
Lago Vista, TX

I have concerns about the priorities of this government. It has the appearance that the focus is on retaining and consolidating power, and not on addressing the urgent needs of we everyday Texans. The proposed plan also looks like an open and obvious attempt to unfairly dilute voting power for minority Texans. I am AGAINST this bill.

Debe Glaze Debe Glaze
Self/Retired
Wylie, TX

We the people demand to be heard and it is beyond my understanding of what is happening to my rights! How can you live with yourselves making this State of Texas what President Trump wants so that We the People aren't represented equally and justifiably?? I never would have thought the elected officials that represent us would cave into a dictators demands. It is scary as hell and my children and grandchildren should not have to go through not having their votes count!! This would completely take their rights away and silence their voices! You must stand for all of us and do the right thing... so not redistricting the State of Texas! You know it's wrong.... stand up for what is right! Take a stand for We The People.

Dutch Hulen
Me
Dallas, TX

This bill is absolutely NOT going to be representative of the Texas residents. This is a blatant grab for power since the GOP refuses to listen to Texans, and doesn't give a care about what we need and want. You guys work for US! We vote you guys in. You want to keep your jobs? Actually listen to the needs of Texans and get out and make connections, so we will vote. This country was built to be a democracy, not a dictatorship. I ADAMANTLY OPPOSE THIS BILL!

Belinda Williams
n/a
Pflugerville, TX

As a Retired IT Professional living in Austin Texas Travis County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.
I urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal as it directly impacts those districts where Blacks and Other people of color reside. This is an unfair tool to continue with the systematic silencing of the voices and needs of this community.

Sincerely, Belinda Williams

Thomas Mikelson
self, network engineer
El Paso, TX

No clear evidence of need for redistricting mid-decade. Nothing presented that shows large redistribution of population since 2020 census.

Samuel Trevino
Self, library staff
Austin, TX

This is a disgraceful bill that will only further disenfranchise Texas voters. A blatant and unconstitutional power grab at the urging of president Trump to box out the voices of Texans.

Alex Beasley
self
Austin, TX

This proposed redistricting is absolutely disgusting, and I don't know how the bill's authors and supporters even justify it to themselves. I don't think I've ever seen such a naked, anti-democratic power grab in my life.

Close to half of Texas voters routinely vote for Democrats, and this redistricting plan would leave those voters with only 20% of the state's representatives in the House. Moreover, the plan is blatantly, shamelessly racially discriminatory. In a state that is only 39% white, 63% of the state's districts would be majority white, with the number of districts without a clear racial majority reduced from 9 to just 4. Latinos - the majority of Texans, by a tiny margin - would be a majority in only 20% of the state's districts.

I realize that power and control matter to the GOP more than any other criteria, but you should at least try to be more subtle than this. Shame on all of you.

Caleb Paschall
self / Sr. Solutions Analyst
Fort Worth, TX

I am against this as I oppose redistricting. This is an incredibly out-of-cycle redistricting plan and is wrong & an obvious power grab. I believe Americans and Texans deserve fair representation and this redistricting plan does not provide that.

Pamela Young
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Stop this racist mid-decade gerrymander power grab that you all are calling “redistricting”. It is anything but. It is a disgrace. And it is blatantly discriminatory to my Black community. It is 2025. Come out of your racist stupor. God is not pleased with any of you who stand by and support this or let it happen without a fight. God hates unjust scales and this is the definition of unjust.

Laura Boland
Self, cake decorator HEB
Austin, TX

My name is Laura Boland. I am a 5th generation Texan. I was born in Houston in 1969 and have been a resident in Austin since 1987. The proposed redisticting maps in no way reflect true representation for ALL Texans. Our representatives, whether State or Federal level, whether House representatives or Senators, are supposed to represent ALL TEXANS, not just a select demographic. This naked power grab, at the behest of a narcissistic and self centered President who cares nothing for the vast majority of the American people, is a truly shameful action. I am ashamed of all of you who support this bill.

Leslie Ann Allen
Self/retired environmental profession;
El Paso, TX

There are 550 miles between El Paso and San Antonio. An elected representative residing in San Antonio cannot possibly represent the El Paso community as well as an El Pasoan. Just count the number of times the current US House of Representative who represents the far east El Paso County comes and you will confirm this point. As a El Paso resident and voter since 1969, I oppose this bill to send dissect our community's representation and send it 550 miles away.

Karen Horgan
self
Fort Worth, TX

This is an addendum to my previous remarks, but I just read that if this redistricting goes through, Tarrant County would go from having seven representatives to five. That is ridiculous! I am strongly opposed to this!
Tarrant County is the 3rd largest county in Texas. Dropping our representation from 7-5 is unacceptable. We should not be losing representation!
This whole racial gerrymandering power grab is illegal, it violates the Voting Rights Act, and it is unfair to Texans.
I DO NOT want to see Tarrant lose representation and I do not want our maps changed mid-decade without any new census data! Stop cheating.

Collette Hill
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Collette hill and I live in Austin in the 35th Congressional district.

As the saying goes, while I was not born in Texas, I got here as soon as I could. The lore and lure of Texas loomed large in my childhood as my grandmother was born and raised in Nocona, and was proud to be a native Texan.

For her, being a Texan meant being welcoming and hospitable, always willing to set a plate for whomever showed up.

A Texan was always friendly and polite, and would lend a helping hand to any neighbor in need.

A Texan showed grit and gumption, willing to courageously rise to a challenge, especially when those challenges were about doing what was right, fair and just.

A Texan was someone you could count on because they were true to their word, trustworthy, honest and would never cheat.

She was proud to be born and raised a Texan, but if she were alive today, I think this proposal to redistrict Texas would give her pause.

These new maps do not aim to amplify the voices of all, but in fact will silence and repress those in communities of color and those of us in urban areas like mine. In order for a democracy to function, we all need to have a voice in the process. We need accurate, accountable political representation in the House and elsewhere, otherwise we are quite literally inviting taxation without representation.

I’m here to ask you Texan to Texan to reject these unfair, unjust, rigged maps and if they are to be redrawn, to include more communities of color.

If you approve these maps as they are, you do so willfully knowing that you are being dishonest about what Texans really want and you do so willfully knowing that you are cheating. And that, in the words or your colleague Govenor Abbott, is “loser behavior.” Don’t be a loser, be a Texan.

Sherry Marchand
A proud Texas Citizen
New Braunfels, TX

I firmly support Congressional Redistricting efforts to change Five Congressional seats from Blue to RED to reflect the strong Republican citizenry of the area.

Chuck Tanner
Homeowner
Denton, TX

I support the proposed redistricting efforts to improve the business outlook in Texas, and prepare a better life for my 9 grandkids (all Texans)!

Christina Liserio
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose this bill!

Heather Buffo
self Austn, TX

I am against this bill. This redistricting is a politically motivated order handed down from the President through the Governor. It will erode checks and balances nationally, not just here in Texas. It will decrease voter participation and representation. A functioning democracy needs more voices, not fewer. These maps are a betrayal to the people of Texas. We need flood disaster relief and hemp and THC regulation. Not this political circus.

Mario Medrano, U.S Navy Veteran, Firefighter
Self
El Paso, TX

As a Veteran and current first responder I appose the redistricting. Even people who voted republican this year are now figuring out that this administration is not for the people it's for the only minority groups that ate ruining this democracy which is the one percent billionaires. Alot of people are being effected. Who is not being effected? The billionaires, Texans are not Dumb and we know why republicans want this to happen. But rest assure that we will not be quite. Veterans are a minority group, first Responders are a minority group. Minority groups like Latinos and African Americans. None of these groups pose a threat to democracy greater than the Minority Group of Billionaires. So ask the you do the right thing.

Thank You
Navy Veteran
Mario Medrano

Danielle Gilman
Self
Dallas, TX

This is completely unnecessary. My family opposes this bill and redistricting measure. Stop trying to cheat and win the right way. If you believe in what you’re doing and that you are doing right by Texans, we will vote to keep you. Perhaps align yourself with the needs of Texans and we won’t have to vote for an opposing candidate.

Charles Johnson
Self
Dallas, TX

Redistricting should only occur every 10 years which it just did. Our representatives from Texas should not be circumventing our norms just to keep power! Trying to rid our elections for personal gain is not what us Texans put you in office for regardless of party alliances. You represent all of Texans and should be doing so ethically and honorably! I object to you all using our laws for personal gain!

Patricia Smothers
Self
San Antonio, TX

This midterm “redistricting” better known as an illegal power move is against the rule of law and against the promise of free and fair elections. It makes the Republican leadership appear to be just bowing down to outsiders not representing honorable Texans.

Caitlin Bohner
Self - claims adjuster
Austin, TX

I would love if my government represented me. This redistricting does not align with how the majority of Texans feel, please listen to us.

Melinda Bass
self, educator
Austin, TX

How do you call this a fair map? If the situation were reversed and the republicans were in the minority, would you think this map was ok to use? As an educator, I have spent the last 29 years not just educating children, but also teaching kids to do what is right, to be fair, to think of others (not just themselves), and to be honest/not cheat. This map is the opposite of all of those things. We live in a democracy, and that means we listen to other viewpoints, we consider what's best for all Texans, not just ones who vote like us. By rigging the system so you can silence thoughts you don't like, you are disrespecting the Constitution. By letting an outsider dictate how things are done in Texas, you are giving away your/our power and chipping away at the rights we have as citizens. You may not see it this way, but perhaps you can understand if this bill was about something you cared about and knew the odds were stacked against you because the rules benefited the other side. By making these districts that encompass urban, suburban, and rural districts, you are setting our elected officials up to fail. There is NO WAY that someone can represent the best interests of all of those different areas, different people. If you want to redistrict Texas, do so based on fair representation, such as population and locale (no boundary should stretch 350 miles when it is part of an urban area). This is cheating, plain and simple, and I ask you one last question: How do you sleep at night knowing you have to cheat to win/to stay in power?

Sarah Humphrey
Self, teacher
Houston, TX

This is blatant cheating. Districts should not be redistricted outside of census results.

Nancy Gonzalez
self, retired
Shavano Park, TX

Stop this unconstitutional power grab now!! We just had this redistricted and to do so again is an enormous waste of taxpayer money. Put this in the wasteful, useless category with the big beautiful wall.

Elizabeth Gjini
Self
El Paso, TX

Hello, I am writing because I am concerned about the proposed redrawing of the 16th district of El Paso. The new lines cut Fort Bliss out of the rest of El Paso. Fort Bliss generates 20 percent of jobs and 25 percent income and GDP in El Paso County. Moving this to another district may significantly hurt the public who lives in EP. Our city revolves around the military. And this separates them from us.

Joseph Styczynski
Self
Kyle, TX

This is what third-world corruption looks like. The Republicans in congress are a bunch of spineless cowards that need to use underhanded tactics to win elections rather than have a favorable message. Stop the gerrymandering.

Clarice Taylor
Self
Eagle Pass, TX

Redistricting should only be done in a non-partisan manner to ensure that every individual and group is fairly represented in the legislature. Redistricting to empower any particular political party disenfranchises voters and undermines their trust in government. Non-partisan redistricting is supported by a supermajority of voters. Create an independent redistricting committee and make the districts represent the people who live in them.

Michael Apodaca
Chair, El Paso County Democratic Party
El Paso, TX

Members of the Texas House Select Committee on Redistricting -

Last week, I voiced my concerns to this committee about the potential threat to our democratic values and constitution. The plan to redraw the congressional lines without any court order is, in my view, a power grab that serves the interests of a single individual: Donald Trump. This maneuver, devoid of any legal or moral justification, will inflict severe harm on the most vulnerable members of our society, particularly those in Congressional District 16.

This map will not only hurt El Paso County Veterans, but also our entire community. Since 1903, our congressional district has contained most of El Paso County, especially Fort Bliss, Biggs Airfield, and Beamont Hospital. The proposed redistricting plan could disrupt the support and services these veterans rely on, potentially leading to a decline in their well-being. While I am not a veteran myself, our community is considered the veteran capital of the United States. The negative impact of this map on our community cannot be overstated.

Recently, my counterpart, the Chair of the El Paso Republican Party, and I appeared on our local news on a special segment called ABC 7 Extra. While we disagreed on several items, one thing I will agree with him on: we need to get the politicians out of redistricting. He also mentioned that it was unfair that Tony Gonzalez had a district over 500 miles long and would struggle to represent it effectively. And I agree! There is no reason that important facilities like our airport, Fort Bliss, and Beaumont Hospital should be represented by someone so far away who has little connection to this community.

Our veterans deserve the promises our nation guaranteed after their service, and removing Congressional District 16 outside of the Fort Bliss and Beaumont Hospital footprint will be a great disservice to them and El Paso. El Paso veterans deserve a member of Congress in their backyard to assist with constituency services and issues, not one who lives 500 miles away. They also deserve a member of Congress who will vote and support their issues, not one who tends to cut services.

To the members of this committee, I ask for two things:

1) Stand up to this dictator's power grab. You know it's wrong, you quietly said it was wrong behind closed doors, and you know this is not how our nation works.

2) Keep Congressional District 16 with the current map, which includes our community airport, Fort Bliss, and Beaumont, the way it is. The current map allows for a close-knit representation of our community, with a member of Congress who is familiar with our unique needs and challenges. There is no reason someone from 500 miles away should be representing this area when El Paso has always represented it. Maintaining the current map is crucial for ensuring continuity and stability in our representation.

Brittany Yelverton
self - nonprofit
Austin, TX

The League of Women Voters said it beautifully: "Texans have the right to fair and equal representation that's achieved through a thoughtful, transparent redistricting process that allows meaningful public input. Lawmakers should have the necessary information to create legally compliant district maps, protect minority voting rights, and respect county lines, city boundaries, and communities of interest. A rushed 30-day special session packed with unrelated agenda items is not the way to achieve this."

I do not support this redistricting effort, and there is no moral, legal, or legislative legitimacy to pushing through legislation designed to silence the voices and votes of Texans.

Artemio “Art” Hernandez
Self
Brookshire, TX

I support this bill.

Jordan Goolsbee
Self, Software Engineer
Round Rock, TX

As a proud constituent of Texas’ 31st Congressional District, I am writing to express my strong opposition to the current redistricting efforts in our state. The blatant gerrymandering taking place is an affront to the democratic principles that should guide our electoral process. Every Texan deserves a representative who reflects their community's values and needs. I urge the legislature to put people over politics and commit to a redistricting process that is fair, transparent, and rooted in respect for communities, not partisan gain.

ERICA A REDDING
self
Austin, TX

My name is Erica Redding, and I was born in and live in Austin, Texas. I oppose HB 4 because Texans deserve fair maps that reflect our real communities, not mid-decade changes meant to entrench power. Leaders like Jasmine Crockett represent honesty and integrity, and weakening her district silences voters who depend on her voice. As a Texan, I expect our maps to be drawn to serve the people who live here, not to manipulate outcomes or punish strong, honest representatives.

Brett Bushnell
Self
Fate, TX

Please pass this. This was one of the main items for the special session. The majority of Texans want this. Many of the districts represents parts of the state better. This is excellent.

Kerri Brady
Self
Cypress, TX

The State of Texas stood firmly behind its maps in 2021. If the Department of Justice believes the Texas maps are unconstitutional, they must participate in our transparent legislative process for the Committee members and taxpayers to fully understand the issue(s) before adopting revised maps. If they do not, I urge the legislative leaders in Texas to reject their letter and continue to stand by the existing maps until the next round of census data is available or there is a directive stemming from the current lawsuits. Thank you.

Debra Haas
Self
Austin, TX

I have lived in central Austin for 40 years - 32 of them in the same house - and during that time my home has been in three different Congressional districts. From 1987-2003, I was in the 10th district. From 2003-2021, I was in the 25th district - represented not by someone from Central Texas, but from the Metroplex - and the City of Austin was broken into four parts. Neighbors only a few miles away were in a different district, but folks south of Dallas were in the same district we were in. Since 2022, I have been in the 37th District (different, but still not compact), all while living in the same place. The current redistricting proposal is partisan gerrymandering at its absolute worst, and evidence that Republicans are more concerned with representing their own interests (or those of the administration) than they are the people of Texas. I object to these maps and would request that the legislature focus on more pressing issues, like flood relief and prevention, rather than doing the bidding of the RNC.

Wendy kalthoff
Self
Austin, TX

Please do not cut up our districts. It goes by census and everyone deserves a vote.

Jane Yorke
Na
Austin, TX

Against

Kim Desjardins
Self
Austin, TX

I strongly urge the committee to reject this mid-decade redistricting proposal.

As a lifelong Texan and resident of Travis County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence.

Texans deserve better than blatant manipulation by one party to silence their fair and equal representation in our government. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation maureen zachas

self
Austin, TX

I’m reaching out today, to express my disapproval of Greg Abbott bending backwards for Trump by pushing this redrawing of congressional districts. This is a huge threat to democracy and our right to have our voices heard and represented. If you redraw the already heavily gerrymandered district lines, you will be helping pave the way for Trump to be a full dictator and having complete control over everything and anything that happens. Please stand up for Texans and our democracy and fight back against the redrawing of districts.

Diane Stafford
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Gerrymandering in Texas is wrong and undermines democracy and fair representation, creating significant harm for both voters and democracy. It allows politicians to choose their voters, rather than letting voters choose their representatives. This is wrong and is manipulation of voting results. By favoring one party over another, gerrymandering prevents genuine democratic outcomes and makes elections less reflective of the true will of the people.

Also, gerrymandering harms minority communities, particularly Texas' large Latino and Black populations. Manipulating district lines often dilutes their voting power by "packing" districts, making it harder for these communities to elect candidates who represent their interests. This violates the Voting Rights Act and exacerbates racial inequality in the political process.

Also, gerrymandering increases political polarization by ensuring that elections are decided in the party primaries, where candidates cater to extreme positions to appeal to their base. This leaves voters with fewer moderate options and exacerbates gridlock and division in government.

Lastly, gerrymandering erodes public trust in democracy. When voters feel that their voices are being ignored or manipulated, they become disillusioned with the system, leading to lower voter turnout and engagement. Instead of fair elections, gerrymandering creates a political environment that benefits incumbents at the expense of the people.

To counter these issues, Texas could adopt an independent redistricting commission, which would ensure a more transparent, impartial process that fairly represents the diverse population of the state, restoring trust in the democratic system

Jacqueline Fletcher
self, engineer
Houston, TX

This redistricting is a blatant attempt to devalue the votes of minority Texans. The governor and Texas legislature should pay attention to the people who elected them instead of the wishes of one man in Washington. Time is running out for this level of corruption, and the voters will find a way to make their voices heard. What ever happened to the party of small government?

shannon evans
self
Austin, TX

As one of your constituent members, I am writing to urge you to reject the corrupt redistricting process and all gerrymandered maps.

Governor Abbott is absolutely letting Trump control him while ignoring the real problems in our lives. Please do everything in your power to fight back into put Texans first!

I strongly urge you: reject this process!

Thank you.

Brian Reed
Self
Pearland, TX

I dissent to this redistricting effort. I have no ability to hold elected officials accountable with this constant redrawing of Congressional maps.

Michael Hoff, Retired Superior Court Judge
Self Athens, TX

Pass the bill

Lauren Hargraves Seld
Austin, TX

Continuous redistricting has provided an unfair and unjust moving target of representation for Texans that does not reflect the wishes or values of contemporary Texans. It is such a disservice to disenfranchise meaningful representation of all Texans to instead for representatives of the people and politicians to continue in office and hold power over policies that, again, do not represent the wishes of everyday Texans.

Rafael Alicea
Self
El Paso, TX

I need representation from lawmakers in my region, not over 400 miles away. Stop the gerrymandering.

Rhonda McGaughey
Self
Austin, TX

As a life long Texan, first I could not care less about Football, Abbott! What I do care about is people having a voice and your maps take that away! I can not for the life of me figure out what Trump is holding over all of you, or how he berainwashed you or what he bribed you with to bow down to him. Doesn’t that make you feel small? You are cowards! We don’t like cowards in Texas. So stop being sheep, grow a pair and tell Trump to mosey on. He is not Texan and has no business in our state government. Have you all never heard of states rights?

Susan Lippman
Self, retired
Austin, TX

The just-released proposed maps for U.S. House Congressional Districts show that they are designed to eliminate accountability and a fair distribution of representation that should reflect proportionately the values and ideals of the people of Texas. The maps are already skewed dishonestly to disenfranchise the interests of Texans who would reform and recalibrate the current power structure in Washington. The new maps would only exacerbate the naked objectives to concentrate power in an extremist group of representatives whose policy objectives are clearly shown in recent polling to be rejected by more and more voters every day as the true results of the current administration"s policies are revealed. This special session should be prioritizing the needs of everyday Texans, such as flood relief and the ability to receive sufficient emergency warning of weather disasters like the Central Texas Flooding. The push to make our already unfair, unrepresentative, gerrymandered Congressional district maps even more unrepresentative and unfair, should have no place in this special session. I respectfully ask you to vote against HB 4.

Anyra Cano, Rev.
Fellowship Southwest
Fort Worth, TX

Good afternoon, Chair Vasut and members of the committee,

My name is Anyra Cano, and I'm from Fort Worth, Texas. I serve as the Director of Programs and Outreach for Fellowship Southwest. Fellowship Southwest is a non-denominational Christian network that mobilizes churches and Christians to practice compassion and pursue justice.

Thank you for the opportunity to speak today. I'm here because I care deeply about the people and communities that Fellowship Southwest serves, and because we are troubled by the redistricting maps before this committee.

These changes are not about justice or fair representation. They are about imposing power and control, at the cost of silencing the voices of people who have already been pushed to the margins for far too long. The voices of Texans who work tirelessly every day, pay taxes, contribute to their communities, and trust YOU to represent them in decisions that affect their lives.

As one of the pastors of Iglesia Bautista Victoria en Cristo in Fort Worth, I can tell you that our community has built trust in and consistently voted for Representative Marc Veasey, in Texas' 33rd congressional district to represent them. These changes would disenfranchise our community by replacing their chosen representative with one they did not elect.

Texas recently voted to post the Ten Commandments in every classroom. If we are going to display that message, we should take note that those very same commandments tell not to make or worship idols, this includes the idols of politics and power.

Another commandment says, "You shall not steal." Redistricting lines that silence communities would steal their voice, their vote, and their dignity.

God calls us to love our neighbors, to speak for those who cannot speak for themselves, and to care for the marginalized, not to silence those with whom we disagree.

As a Christian organization that walks alongside communities already facing systemic barriers, we urge you to reject this plan. We need maps that reflect the people of Texas, not just those in power, but every family, every voice, and every vote.

Thank you for your time. I am happy to answer any questions.

Sidney Hollingsworth
Self
Austin, TX

I'm horrified that Republicans continue to neglect flood victims and critical disaster legislation in order to push through the election fraud they've been calling wolf about.
The proposed map is racist and unconstitutional. Redistricting should not happen until 2031.

Jenny King
Self; Consultant and Community Volunteer
Dallas, TX

I oppose this gerrymandering action to rewrite certain Texas congressional districts. It is wrong, illegal, and over the top partisan. This action would put my elected US Representative in East Texas despite me living in Dallas. This is not conducive to me engaging with my representative with ease since he or she will reside more than an hour from my home. Resist all of the extreme partisan politics of Washington DC and protect every Texan with a the map Texas's Republicans rewrote five years ago. How has it become so bad if the party wanted this in our recent past? Again, I oppose this blatantly partisan effort to redraw congressional maps in Texas to benefit one party over the other and to further reduce diversity of voices in congress. Thank you. Jenny King, Lake Highlands in Dallas, Texas.

Lauren Thapa
Self-teacher
Buda, TX

I am against the congressional redistricting. It is an obvious attempt to silence the voices of thousands of voters across the state. This is a shameless attempt to support an administration that has abandoned democracy in favor of unchecked power. By redistricting now you are admitting that you are weak, mindless, and unashamed of abandoning thousands of Texans that you are supposed to represent.

Starla Pugh
Self
Austin, TX

Against redistricting

Jessica Black self - caretaker
Dallas, TX

I am a resident of US House District 32 who is feeling more like a political pawn than a person who deserves to feel safe and secure in their home. I am disgusted by the legislators that began this special session under the guise that they were going to do right by the Texans that recently died in the floods - and are using this time to begin their midterm election cheating process. Do you work for Texans, all of us? Or for a man who is killing America's democracy for his own gain?

Danielle Roselli
Self-teacher
Sanger, TX

I do not support this rezoning of districts. The gerrymandering is out of control.

Eduardo Medina
Self
Converse, TX

Save democracy!

Frances Soto
Democrats
Houston, TX

No redistricting

Leslie Hash, Chairman
Archer County Republican Party
Archer City, TX

Archer County is in FAVOR of HB 4. Please keep Texas RED!

Jeff Webster
Self-retired
Austin, TX

I urge this legislative body to reject mid-decade redistricting as it sets a dangerous precedent which further polarizes our state and country. This body should protect the common good of its citizens and this proposal would calcify our politics into increasingly incompatible factions, making compromise and consensus building even more difficult than it is today. By disempowering my community, you make us less safe and alienated. By resorting to mid-decade district changes at the behest of an authoritarian president and billionaire donors to our governor, you are abdicating your constitutional responsibilities; your loyalties to anti-constitutional forces appear stronger than those to your constituents. Please stand up for decency and fair play. Stand up and do what is right.

Linda Lockhart
Self
Cisco, TX

Please pass map as is!

Elaine Schreiber, Ms.
Self
Georgetown, TX

As a concerned constituent, I urge you to oppose HB4, the current congressional redistricting plan. While I value strong conservative leadership, HB4 undermines the constitutional principle of fair representation and opens our state to unnecessary legal and financial risks.

HB4 disregards significant demographic shifts by diluting the voting power of growing minority populations, particularly Hispanic and Black Texans, who now make up the majority of our population growth. As Republicans, we should be leading on fairness and the Constitution—not drawing maps that could be ruled discriminatory and invite costly federal litigation.

Moreover, HB4 risks alienating the very voters we need to expand our base. Conservative values can win across all communities when presented fairly. Gerrymandering contradicts the principle of local control and makes our party look afraid of competition.

Stand for integrity, constitutional accountability, and the long-term health of the Republican Party. Reject HB4 and demand a redistricting process that reflects the true population of Texas.

Brittany Randolph
Self
Austin, TX

The plans for redistricting the maps in Texas will not be representative of the communities in Texas and should be barred from going beyond the planning stage as it is right now.

Beth Burns
Texas Artists For Democracy
Austin, TX

I remind you that y’all are called Representatives for a reason. And I know you represent your constituents, but you swear an oath to uphold the constitution and the laws of Texas. You represent TEXANS.
As I understand, just weeks ago in the trial over our current map, we swore in court that we employed a race-blind process to draw districts. Now the Governor, per the President, wants yall to say, "Whoopsie, we lied. Time for a mid-decade do-over." But as a rule, Texans aren’t cowards or lapdogs. We don’t just jump because somebody says so. And we certainly don’t debase ourselves and call ourselves liars just because somebody might write a mean tweet. Nor should scrap our hard work because somebody snaps their fingers and tells us to protect their political career at the cost of our own dignity.
I urge you act with the strength of a Representative of the great state of Texas, and leave the map that you swore by alone. For the good of Texans, not Trump. Thank you.

Marilee Hayden
Self
Frisco, TX

Just because you “can” do something doesn’t mean you “should.” The Texas Legislature may technically have the authority to redraw maps mid-decade—but that doesn’t make it right, just, or fair.
When lawmakers push bills that defy common sense and democratic values, it feels heavy-handed. You lose the moral authority to lead. For a party that puts so much emphasis on Christian values and moral character, this move doesn’t feel very Christian—or very moral.
I watched almost all of the redistricting hearings. Over and over again, Democratic legislators asked if maps had already been drawn. And over and over again, Republican leaders—including the Senate and House Chairs—denied knowing about any maps. Now, with the maps released, Rep. Todd Hunter is openly saying they were drawn to achieve political goals. So which is it? Were the Chairs misleading the public then—or just withholding the truth on purpose?
Why didn’t they just admit that maps had already been developed? Was this some kind of strategy—to let the public fume over the secrecy, only to smugly confirm what we all suspected? If so, that’s not just dishonest. It’s manipulative. And it’s exactly the kind of behavior that causes Texans to lose trust in their government.
Rep. Hunter’s words during today’s hearing made one thing clear: this process was never about fairness or transparency. His condescending tone and repeated declarations about the legislature’s “right” to pursue partisan goals show exactly how little regard he has for the people footing his salary. He’s not even pretending this is about representation anymore. It’s about power.
Most Texans didn’t support the extreme legislation passed this year. The only reason those bills became law is because the state was already significantly gerrymandered. Gerrymandering, no matter who does it, is cheating. If you have to cheat to win, you may have secured a technical victory—but not a moral one.
If the public is expressing anger and frustration, maybe take that as a sign. Respect isn’t automatic. It’s earned through actions that reflect the will and well-being of the people. If lawmakers want to be treated with respect, they need to behave in ways that the public sees as “respectable.” Redistricting for political gain isn’t respectable—it’s a betrayal of trust. And so is misleading the public, whether through denial, omission, or carefully worded half-truths.

Juanita Boyd
True texas project
Fairview, TX

Please vote in favor and help pass this bill, thank you

Michelle Gonzalez, Mrs.
Self
McAllen, TX

We are know for democracy and gerrymandering is the opposite of democracy. Please let all our voices be heard.

Jenni Haverda
self - retired
San Antonio, TX

Gerrymandering is illegal, stop trying to dictate the will of the people.

Herbert Turner
Myself
Galveston, TX

I am opposed to the current redistricting efforts.
The proposed redistricting map amounts to a power grab by President Trump and the Republican Party. The proposed redistricting map will dilute minority and low income representation. Furthermore, the plan will be implemented before the 2030 Census and will not represent population distribution,
The proposed redistricting map for example dilutes the 18th Congressional District. The need that are unique to this population may not be adequately represented.
I also think the timing of this proposal. There are other, more critical matters to address. Central Texas just experienced a devastating flooding event with a catastrophic loss of life. I feel that the emphasis should be placed on determining what failed in the response to this disaster and what can be done to prevent another such event. The emphasis should also be placed on recovery. The emphasis on redistricting seems to place the Central Texas flood and its victims on the back burner.
Thank you for allowing me to submit my input.

Fabienne Rambaud
Self
Austin, TX

Extreme gerrymandering is not representative of the population in Texas. I am against it.

Cynthia Fulton
Self
Irving, TX

This desperate gerrymandering is wrong. Leave me & my neighbors alone.

Anita Semien
Self
Spring, TX

You all should be ashamed. You are trying to make our vote not count.

David Nguyen
Self, Student
Pearland, TX

I am a lifelong resident and constituent of Texas' 22nd Congressional District. I write today in opposition to these mid-census political tactics designed to curry favor with those in DC. As a proud Texan, it is a sad day to see our state bending the knee to outsiders. Whatever happened to Texas pride, dignity, and independence?

I strongly oppose the proposed maps. It's baffling that my suburb, Pearland, would be lumped into a district alongside Beaumont, Galveston, and Port Arthur. How does that make any logical or geographical sense? The only explanation is fear and political fragility.

These maps do not serve the people or their communities. They serve the incumbents and the ruling party. I am not writing as a Republican or Democrat, but as a Texan and an American. Once again, my community is sliced and diced in silence for political gain.

If your priority was truly representing the people, we would have fairer maps that encourage competition. If you're worried about losing elections or public opinion, let the voters decide at the ballot box. Don't resort to these cynical political maneuvers to protect your seats.

I promise you, if this bill passes, Texans and Americans will hold you accountable at the polls.

Gerrymandering should be illegal in all its forms. If we truly respect the Voting Rights Act, which protects vulnerable and marginalized communities like mine, we would empower an independent, bipartisan commission to draw fair maps that reflect our communities.

No single congressperson should represent millions of constituents. That is ineffective representation. I've had multiple congresspeople in my lifetime, but have only spoken to one once, and rarely seen them in our community.

If you care about doing what's right, listen to voices like mine who demand fair maps. Maps that represent the real communities that make Texas strong. Don't listen to the swamp puppeteers in DC or the White House dictating what we can do here in Texas.

Let's do this the Texas way—not the Trump way.

Patrick Lopez
self/retired
Austin, TX

I oppose mid-census redistricting. I support compact districts reflecting communities of interest.

Caitlin Gabor
self
Austin, TX

As a resident of Texas I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence as it is not fair for our communities. This is political manipulation and should be stoped dead in its tracks.

Janiece Upshaw
Self - university Associate Professor Dalllas, TX

Redistribution for any other reason than giving equal voice to the voters of Texas is self-serving to the few who hold the power. As public servants, please carry out your constitutional duties to ensure all constituents are properly represented. Hold yourselves accountable to the people not the party.

Cindy Lopez
Self-HR Director
Austin, TX

The attempt at redistricting is a blatant and shameful attempt to dilute the voices of democracy. Stop the redistricting efforts unless you truly plan to draw them fairly. There's no way I have enough life commonality with a stretch of rural Texas between Austin and Houston to warrant being grouped together. Let's not be ridiculous.

Tanya Priddy
Self / Secretary
Alvin, TX

Republicans should have more faith in themselves. This just shows how you know the democrats have a chance at winning the seats you want to keep. Problem is you are NOT representing the people of this state, you are doing Trumps dirty work and everyone sees it.
Cowards all of you!!! This will be remembered, everything this state is doing will be remembered and will be in the history books, if there are any left after you burn them all.
The world is watching our great country being taken over by a maniac in the white house and you know it. You can't be blind. Stand up for us!!!!! or we will not stand for you. I am against this bill. Texas has always looked bad and now the gerrymandering and stealing and the bending of the knee is really a disgusting look for you but I guess that's what you all want to be. Your families must be so proud.

Daniela Knight
Self. Retired
Austin, TX

Redistricting in our state absolutely needs to happen! The way some districts are drawn are clearly outdated.

Kimberly Orosco
Self, teacher
Colleyville, TX

To uphold the integrity of our democracy, election results must accurately reflect the preferences of the voters, free from any pre-election rigging or undue influence by politicians. True courage lies in competing honestly and allowing the voters' voices to prevail.

Jesse White, Retires
Self
Austin, TX

If my state representatives go along faith power grab, they may win the battle, but they will lose the war! As a moderate Independent voter, they will FOREVER lise the possibility that I will ever vote for a Republican again.

S. Dwyer, Mx.
self, professor
San Antonio, TX

I am horrified by this re-districting plan. As a Texas AFT member and educator in Bexar County, I oppose any mid-decade redistricting that reduces minority voting influence. Our communities deserve fair maps, not political manipulation.

Pauline Bryson
N/A
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill.

MaShonda Birdwell
Self
League City, TX

I do not agree with this!

Cassady Spruiell
Self
Austin, TX

The redistricting you are attempting to pass is based on the idea of creating a republican majority for midterms. Creating districts based on this goal is inherently anti American and takes away the true power of each individuals vote.

Anum Hassan
Self
Mckinney, TX

Strongly OPPOSE redistricting!

Charlotte Miller
Self
Cedar Hill, TX

Stop screwing up people of color lives. Stop trying to take control of how people can vote.

Shante Leonard
Self
Mansfield, TX

I do not agree with the redistricting maps

Chloe Latham Sikes
Self
Austin, TX

Chair Vasut and Committee Members-

I want to register my comments against HB 4 and any of the mid-term redistricting maps put forward this special session. While the proposed maps move my representation to be someone from Austin (proposed US D-37), they move the district of my neighbors to the west of me into District 10, which reaches from West Austin to east of Houston. This is not representation for the people in my community and our needs for our schools, our water supply, our energy sources, our roads, our hospitals or anything else. Moreover, these maps are being hastily handed down and considered outside of the normal process reflective of population changes. In any district representing Central Texas, where I reside, major population changes must be accounted for in the normal process of redistricting following the 10 year Census. No, our current district lines are not perfect. They are reflective of a contested process that remains disputed in courts, but that is where changes should be made as it follows a democratic process. This mid-stream adjustment with new maps handed down from on-high is offensive and affront to our Texas communities who will be stripped of representation - especially communities of color.
Please oppose HB 4.

Thank you,
Chloe Latham Sikes

Kristen Harris, Rev
Self
Abilene, TX

I am against the redistricting. Please, don't do this! I'm a lifelong Texan. I remember when I was in high school watching my dad cry when you all did this back in the early 2000s. My dad was an incredibly conservative man and influential member in the agricultural community as an ag lender, but he was a huge advocate for Charlie Stenholm. Because you people cared more about Rs and Ds beside names, you pushed a dedicated civil servant that cared about Texans out of office. Charlie was so beloved by the people he served you had to CHEAT to get him out of office. Texans are all about individual freedoms and by redistricting to quiet voices you don't want to listen to, you are going against Texas values.

Alicia Overy
Self
Austin, TX

Oppose to the map!

Steve Robinson
Self
Dripping Springs, TX

I support and encourage redistricting to capture demographic shift … alos please purge non citizens from voter rolls.

Jesus Miranda
Self Banker
El Paso, TX

I am writing as a concerned resident of Texas to express my strong dissatisfaction with the recent redistricting process and its outcomes. The redrawn districts do not reflect fair representation for all Texans, and they appear to dilute the voices of many communities—especially those of color and traditionally underrepresented populations.

Redistricting should be a transparent, equitable process that ensures all citizens have an equal opportunity to participate in the democratic process. However, the current maps seem to prioritize political advantage over fair representation, which undermines public trust in our government.

I urge you and the Texas Legislature to revisit these redistricting decisions and to prioritize a more inclusive and nonpartisan approach. Texans deserve a system where elected officials are accountable to the people, not where voters are carved into districts for political gain.

I respectfully ask that you consider the impact of these changes and support efforts to make future redistricting processes independent, transparent, and fair.

Kay Stephens, Dr
Myself
Normangee, TX

Please do not move forward with the gerrymandering of our state. It’s not right.

Kelly Alba
Self - retired
San Antonio, TX

This redistricting mid-decade is not only wrong, it is a blatant misuse of power and sounds a lot like how Texas ignored the law when slavery was abolished in the US. Dems - don’t vote on this - walk - because you know the GOP has turned their backs on doing what is right. Pharisees and hypocrites. A brood of vipers. Where have you heard that before? Oh yeah, Jesus said it. (Matt. 3:7) You can bet he’s saying it now. Shame on you all.

Patricia Cummings
Self
Lorena, TX

I support this bill and the redistricting map.

Kathleen Ramirez
self teacher
Fort Worth, TX

It is important that ALL citizens feel that their vote counts. The last redistricting put my vote in another redistricting that waters down my vote.Now my vote goes way out West. Those people and I have different needs. Rural areas have certain needs that urban areas do not, and vice versa. That Big, Beautiful Bill will not continue to support such things as hospitals. It is already hard to find doctors even in Urban areas that fit our needs. It is important not to dilute votes. There should be consistent representation. We know that the population has exploded, and areas around Dallas and Houston should be represented by people who populate the area, not out in the boondocks. You know as well as I that once you get out of the DFW area it's pretty vacant. Even where I live, there are parts that are incorporated, and people are not living in there.

Aoife Ulker
Self
Austin, TX

Elected officials serve as the pleasure of the voters. Political leaders do not get to pick their voters. This redistricting effort goes against the Voting Rights Act. Vote No.

Arlene Rodriguez
Self
Dallas, TX

