AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Texas is now the nation's leader in solar power generation, but this success has been undermined by a surge in fraudulent and predatory residential solar panel sales practices. These scams are largely driven by door-to-door sales companies, which disproportionately target elderly and non-English-speaking Texans. Common deceptive tactics include false promises that federal tax credits will cover the full cost of solar panel installations, misleading claims that solar panels will entirely eliminate electric bills, and high-pressure sales tactics that involve presenting an iPad for electronic initials under the pretense of starting a quote process. In reality, consumers are signing binding 20+-year contracts involving tens of thousands of dollars in financing. In the worst cases, some unscrupulous sales companies secure financing, collect their commissions upfront, and disappear, leaving homeowners burdened with debt for non-functional solar panels.

While the Office of the Attorney General (OAG) currently allows consumers to file complaints under deceptive trade practices law, the existing system is purely reactive, requiring victims to identify and report the fraud themselves. Given that many victims are from vulnerable populations, this framework fails to provide adequate consumer protection.

To proactively prevent fraud, S.B. 1036 would require solar panel sales companies and individual salespersons to register with the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation (TDLR). This bill would grant TDLR regulatory authority to establish standardized contract language to ensure clarity for consumers, mandate key disclosures at the time of solicitation—including accurate cost and financing details—identify and prohibit deceptive sales practices, administer civil penalties for violations, with enhanced penalties when victims are 65 or older, and guarantee a consumer's right to cancel a solar panel sales contract within five business days of signing.

This bill would protect Texans—particularly elderly and vulnerable residents—from fraudulent solar panel sales, ensure regulatory oversight by providing clear guidelines for legitimate solar companies while holding bad actors accountable, support reputable solar panel businesses by ensuring that responsible companies operate in a transparent and ethical market, and strengthen consumer confidence in the solar industry by preventing fraudulent companies from tarnishing the industry's reputation.

As proposed, S.B. 1036 amends current law relating to the regulation of residential solar retail transactions; requires an occupational registration; authorizes fees; and provides civil and administrative penalties.
